National Association of Scholars, campaign against political correctness; 93Z6397
official language, political issues, South Africa; book review essay; 93Z5398 pedagogy/sociology of education, Emile Durkheim's work, performative/constative aspects; 93Z4161
personal racial consciousness, black/white language/world view difference, key events' impact; 93Z4356
sexual abuse aftermath, body symptoms as expressive language; case study; 93Z6369
symbolic interactions, diverged statement systems; 93Z4328
visual terminology, Arabic language; 93Z5369

Language Varieties
Amerindian languages, Spanish colonization; 93Z5389 talk/language as cultural artifacts, Ilokano (Philippines); verbal interaction data; 93Z5395

Latent Structure Analysis
latent budget analysis, two-way contingency tables; 93Z4000

Latin America
agriculture modernization, Latin America, international finance's role; illustrative examples; Brazil/Chile/Mexico; 93Z5262
armed conflicts, development/progress, justifications, Latin America; 93Z4768
Baptist movement, Latin America; historical literature, interviews; national leaders; 93Z5533

Catholic church evangelism/economic exploitation, 16th-/17th-century colonial Latin America, doctrina as organizational unit; secular/ecclesiastical record; 93Z5579
colonial discourse, weapon of white domination/native resistance; illustrative example, Latin American Nahuas; 93Z4528
democracy transition vs authoritarianism, Singapore; 93Z5119
democratization process, Latin American vs Eastern European experience; literature review; 93Z4825
demographic changes, Meso-America, 1950-1985, education/economy/migration impacts; 93Z5765
development processes-natural environment development, Africa/Latin America; 93Z4793 economic crisis, privatization solutions, Latin America; 93Z4803
feminist movement, Latin American countries; personal experience/research; 93Z6595
informal sector, urban areas, Latin America, 1970s-present; 93Z4798
judicial independence/selection, Latin America, political influences; case examples; 93Z5618
Latin America, Spanish colonialism/evangelism; special issue introduction; 93Z5555
Latin American cities, crisis/problems/challenges; book review essay; 93Z5339
liberation philosophy, Latin America, Enrique Dussel's work; 93Z6664
local planning process, Latin America, evaluation method; illustrative examples; 93Z6449 market transitions, Eastern Europe/Latin America, causal/explanatory models; 93Z5095
neoliberal policies, regional/urban territory, Latin America; 93Z5090
Protestantism, Latin America, sociohistorical approach; literature review, statistics; 93Z5524
regional commerce, Latin America, Uruguayan participation; 1983-1988 statistics; 93Z4964
rental housing-owner occupation transition, Latin America; surveys; Mexican cities; 93Z5331
social studies of technology, Latin American contributions; 93Z5751
urban research, Latin America; 93Z5324
workers' health, Latin America, action-oriented participatory research methodology; steel factory, Mexico; 93Z4588

Latin American Cultural Groups
African-American men, West Indian men's distancing/identification responses; 93Z4432
alcohol use/misuse perceptions, Chinese/Indo-Pakistani/Latin American communities, British Columbia, prevention program implications; literature review/interview data; 93Z6271
alienation, Asian/Latino immigrants, garment industry, Los Angeles, California; interview/statistical/other data; 93Z5141
Colombian vs Dominican immigrant household structure, New York; 1981 survey data; 93Z5780
fertility, Mexican-origin women, US; adaptation/assimilation/disruption; 1970/1980 census data; 93Z6085
Mexican immigration, US; norteña music lyrics; article/critique; 93Z5409
Mexican migration/border region dynamics, San Diego County (California) residents' perceptions; 1980-1990 census/other data; 93Z6438 migration experiences, Central Americans, Washington, DC; gender, immigration reform; survey/interview data; migrants/employers; 93Z5807

Law
alcohol consumption patterns, college/university students, Louisiana/Iowa; cultural/religious/other factors; survey data; 93Z6462
child welfare/law discourses, constructivist legal theory's treatment, UK; 93Z5636
community treatment order debate, England/Wales, historical development; 93Z6217
gay rights issues, legal discourse, personal storytelling technique; 93Z6617
labor law reforms, political discourse, social science research's role, West Germany; 93Z3959
law's place, modernity, Michel Foucault's work critiqued; article/comments/rejoinder; 93Z5635 law, communication medium interpretation; 93Z5642
law, Niklas Luhmann's autopoietic model critiqued; 93Z4186
law/humanities schools, postmodernism applications; special journal issue introduction; 93Z6429
legal property rights, de facto cohabiting couples, Australia; 93Z5974
legalism concepts, Japan vs US; 93Z6485
MacCormick, Neil, institutional theory of law critiqued; 93Z5644
modern law, mythological elements; 6-chapter reappraisal; 93c01670
nurse-midwifery, antitrust law control, US; historical case study; 93Z5221
outing movement, US homosexuals, legal/ethical issues; 93Z5925
parent-/fatherhood, gendered juridification, family law transformation, Netherlands; 93Z5650
postmodern ethics; British legal judgments; 93Z5625
postmodernism's subjectivity/cultural logic, implication for law practice; case study; John Hinkley's 1981 assassination attempt trial; 93Z4480 social injustice reproduction, law's role, late-capitalist societies, Robe Hale's/Michel Foucault's work; 93Z5637
social/legal institutions, linguistic/social bonds, contract law; 93Z56
sociolegal theory, "black letterist" (liberal/feminist) perspective; illustrative examples; 93Z5652
solicitor practices, divorce cases, Scotland, "simulated client" model; 93Z6342
UN, Decade of International Law, goals/effectiveness; 93Z4962
understanding legal behavior, modern ethology/Darwinian jurisprudence; literature review; 93Z5630
welfare state development, judicial welfare's role, UK; 93Z5621

Law Enforcement
child support enforcement duties, New Jersey probation officers, role stress; questionnaire; 93Z5688
corporate crime recidivism; sanctions; event-history analysis; 1928-1981; 93Z4668
growing prostitution/sexual exploitation, women/girls, India, government act enforcement failure; official/media statistics; 93Z5924
US drug policy, punitiveness critiqued/alternative approaches; 93Z5647
US drug problem, militaristic/punitive vs etiological approaches; 93Z5651 war on drugs policy, US, peace movement's potential impact; 93Z625

Lawyers
aged, guardianship hearings, sociolegal encounter perspective; participant observation; interviews; attorneys/administrative assistant, city probate court, Kansas; 93Z6316
legal profession privatization, Italy; 93Z5209
market change, Middle Ages, lawyers'/merchants' role; 93Z4799
plea bargaining, rational choice theory; interview data; judges/lawyers/other legal professionals, Germany; 93Z5639

Lead Poisoning
poverty-child development relationship; lead poisoning/stress/maternal depression/drug use; 93Z6541

Leadership
attitudes toward women leaders; number of women leaders; empirical data; 93Z6645
Buddhism, historical processes, India, Jawaharlal Nehru's vs B R Ambedkar's interpretations; 93Z5561
communal group members' self-esteem; leader's charisma, ritual, collective effervescence; scale/other data; US cities; 93Z4254
Dutch corporate/political elite, university fraternity's recruitment, questionnaire; former fraternity leaders; 93Z5463
early Christian leadership; 4th-century texts; 93Z5528
ex-President Dwight Eisenhower, US, leadership style; 93Z4312
hegemony-insularity relationship, global technological age; 93Z5042
leadership model, 21st-century US; illustrative examples; 93Z4310 leadership modes/authority structures, New Testament era, synoptic/Johannine/Pauline traditions; 93Z5572 leadership styles, gender role-integrative model; 93Z6629 problem-solving competence/decision-making mechanisms, municipal political-administrative systems; illustrative example; suburban community; 93Z6447

Learning
organizational learning, failure/success rate; asset depletion; hypothetical examination; 93Z3997
teaching/learning, native Hawaiian families; children's preschool experience; narratives; 93Z5474

Learning Disabilities learning disability-juvenile delinquency relationship; literature review, 93Z6345 learning disabled children's social status; sociometric data; 4th-6th graders, Dade County, Florida; 93Z5506

Lebanon
"cease-fire" concept, mass media uses; case study; network news coverage, 1982 Lebanon war; 93Z4893
Christian Lebanese nationalist discourse, Lebanese civil war; 93Z5564

Lebenswelt
lifeworld, 20th-century conceptualizations; literature review; 93Z5727

Lee, Alfred McClung
clinical sociologists, family traditions' impact, personal experiences; article/bibliography; 93Z4071

Lefebvre, Henri
social behaviors/movements; urban spatial relations; theoretical discussion; 93Z6535
Left Wing Politics
political Left, future prospects; 93Z5044
qualitative economic growth, leftist theory; book review; 93Z4822
radicalism/modernity; 2-book review symposium; 93Z5121
Schmitt, Carl, antiliberal leftist theory, Frankfurt school's analysis; 93Z4067
US legal system interpretation, rhetorical deconstruction project, Stanley Fish's work; 93Z4168
Legal Cases
American Indian religiosity/free religious practice, US Supreme Court decisions' impact; 93Z5543
business liability, tort cases, jurors' judgments; interview/questionnaire data; 93Z5633
family, legal definition, US; legal case review; 93Z6035
human tissue, property rights, Moore v. Regents of the University of California; case study; 93Z5700
legal dispute processing, racial attitudes'/beliefs' role, alternative dispute resolution controversy; 93Z6471
medical decision making, incompetent patients, legal standards needed; illustrative examples; New York; 93Z5655
patent protection, judicial argumentation, Austria/West Germany/Switzerland; content analysis; 93Z5623
plea bargaining practices; court caseloads; 1968-1983 time-series data; El Paso, Texas; 93Z5634 sexual harassment revelation, Anita Hill/US Supreme Court nominee Clarence Thomas case, sociological explanation; 93Z5632 Legal Procedure
accidental death classification, medico-legal process, English coroner's court; statistical/observational data; 93Z6219 African courts, British officers' influence, late-colonial period; archival/fieldwork data; 93Z5641
aged, guardianship hearings, sociolegal encounter perspective; participant observation; interviews; attorneys/administrative assistant, city probate court, Kansas; 93Z6316
civil/"private" courts, public function, policy/research issues; 93Z6477
drunk-driving automobile accidents, traffic safety interventions/other prevention approaches; 4-book review essay; 93Z5648
family, legal definition, US; legal case review; 93Z6035
mentally incompetent prisoners sentenced to death, mental health treatment, ethical dilemma; 93Z6222
ritual's role, legal systems/practice, anthropological theory; illustrative example; Miranda criminal procedure role; 93Z5658
Legal Profession
legal profession, sociological approaches; 4-book review essay; 93Z5617
Legal Services
spousal/child abuse, US military families stationed abroad, legal/institutional issues; 93Z6362
Legal System
animal rights, sociolegal perspective; 93Z5645
child welfare/law discourses, constructivist legal theory's treatment, UK; 93Z5636
evolution of constitutionalism, Poland, WWII-1989; 93Z5640
Italian notary public, professional model, institutional/cultural changes; 93Z5235
juridical systems, peripheral urban communities, Latin America; 93Z5312
law, Niklas Luhmann's autopoietic model critiqued; 93Z4186
legalism concepts, Japan vs US; 93Z6485
MacCormick, Neil, institutional theory of law critiqued; 93Z5644
punishment, public preferences, Japan/US/Russia; legal culture; survey data; 93Z5649
racial discrimination, US military personnel, redress issues, civilian vs military justice systems; court cases; 93Z4642
ritual's role, legal systems/practice, anthropological theory; illustrative example; Miranda criminal procedure role; 93Z5658
simplified/accelerated court proceedings, 1977 law's impact, West Germany; survival analysis; 1975-1981 civil court cases; 93Z5619
social/legal institutions, linguistic/social bonds, contract law; 93Z5624
US legal system interpretation, rhetorical deconstruction project, Stanley Fish's work; 93Z4168
wrongful discharge, employers' legal understanding, personnel/legal professions' impact; literature review, published data; wrongful discharge cases; 93Z5626
Legislation
Canadian drug policy, prohibition decline/resurgence, 1969-present; 93Z6261
computer crime laws, US states, property rights bases; 93Z6330 criminal justice system, racial/ethnic bias; Washington Sentencing Reform Act; Yakima County; illustrative example; 93Z4376
drug abuse, minority communities, US, legislation/policy issues; 93Z6256
drug control policy, prohibition/legalization problems, US; 93Z5638
equal employment opportunity/affirmative action mandates, compliance efforts; case studies; 93Z6459
firm organization transformations, 1982 French law's effects; observation data; 93Z4650 government social policy, male vs female treatment; illustrative example, West German social pension legislation; 93Z5935
handicapped employment, 1981 Austrian law, use of tax penalty funds; 93Z6469
local labor market growth, 1950-1980, US; right-to-work legislation; published data; 93Z4576 unionized industries, collective bargaining practices, post-Stroessner-era Paraguay; 1989/90 documentary/legislative/statistical data; 93Z5020
Legislative Bodies
congressional representation stagnation, southern US Republicans, incumbency/coattail/primary competition explanations; 1956-1986 election data; 93Z5107 environmentally sustainable foreign assistance, US Congressional actions; 93Z4785 military women, US policy debates; 1941-1985 Congressional testimony; 93Z4641 network television coverage, US political affairs, objectivity paradox; content analyses; US Senatorial coverage, 1972-1984; 93Z4898
public opinion, congressional responsiveness; 1986 National Election Study/1987 survey data; US House of Representatives members; 93Z5056
Legislators
attitudes toward war, diplomats/journalists/Catholic clergy/military officers/congresspersons; 1986-1988 questionnaire data; 93Z4640
class bias, state electorates, policy consequences, US; 1984/1986 Census data; 93Z5057 clothing behavior, image-making functions, Korean female legislators; 1985/86 field research; 93Z4295
public opinion, congressional responsiveness; 1986 National Election Study/1987 survey data; US House of Representatives members; 93Z5056
Legitimacy
human rights, modern discourse; 93Z5628
state legitimacy crisis, Ecuador; 93Z4988
Legitimation
"green"/environmental marketing, corporate protection/consumption legitimation roles; 93Z4801
independent sector organizations, status legitimation activities, US; 93Z4681 political party system, West Germany; 93Z5073
Leisure adolescent aggression/academic performance; horror films; 1988 questionnaire data; Austrian students; 93Z4883 barbershop singing costs/benefits; interviews; Calgary, Alberta; 93Z4929
baseball card collectors, investment vs leisure activity, personality differences; Myers-Briggs Personality Inventory; Houston, Texas; 93Z4921
gender/leisure policy analysis, theoretical approaches critiqued; 93Z4934
leisure patterns, Yugoslav immigrant vs German women, Germany; 1980-1985 questionnaire data; 93Z4926 leisure studies, hermeneutic/interpretive approaches; illustrative application; 1930s essays, US South; 93Z4925 leisure, escape/separation motivations, US families; questionnaire; Iowa recreation center visitors; 93Z4933 leisure/media studies, links/common interests, GB; research review; 93Z4920 spare-time use/well-being perceptions, black youth, South Africa; 93Z6457 task orientation notion, preindustrial societies' adoption, historians' misinterpretation; 93Z4597
Leninism
historical development, cyclical processes, USSR; 93Z4762
"On the Significance of Militant Materialism" by V. I. Lenin, dialectical materialism as critical thinking method; 93Z6660
Lesbianism

health care experiences, lesbians, institutional violence/abuse; 1985/86 interviews; 93Z6382 homophobia/heterosexism issues, US, mediation programs' potential role; conflict resolution literature; 93Z4429 identity salience/community participation/community norm conformity, lesbians, symbolic interactionist perspective; interview/survey data; New York; 93Z5907
lesbian/feminist movement, 1970s; 93Z6594
lesbianism, China, historical overview/present account; observational/interview/other data; 93Z6647
relationship stability/satisfaction, cohabiting gay/lesbian couples, contextual/interpersonal models; survey data; 93Z5988

Letters (Correspondence)
US airmail pickup system, commercial failure/military success, 1939-1949; 93Z5746

Liability
business liability, tort cases, jurors' judgments; interview/questionnaire data; 93Z5633
sociology internships, liability issues; personal supervision experience; 93Z4021

Liberal Democratic Societies
local government system trends, liberal democracies, Europe; 93Z5051

Liberalism
affirmative action's future, possible alternatives, US; comments; 93Z4435
classical liberalism incorporation, undergraduate social theory courses; 93Z4023
conservative-liberal attitude shift, post-WWII US; 1972-1989 General Social Survey data; article/comments; 93Z4871
fraudulent activity-government's economic liberalism relationship, London (England) financial markets, 1984-1989; 93Z4318
medical ethics, liberal model; book review essay; 93Z6159
neoliberal policies, regional/urban territory, Latin America; 93Z5090
political correctness, changing social interpretation; 93Z6577
sociolegal theory, "black letterist" (liberal/feminist) perspective; illustrative examples; 93Z5652

Libertarians
libertarian press theory, ethical assessment; 93Z4912
postmodernism vs postlibertarianism, minimal statism issues; 93Z4148

Libraries
library-bibliographic classification systems, former USSR; 93Z6413 sociological research, undergraduate library use instruction; 93Z4024

Licenses
modernization program, Chinese electronics industry, joint venture technology transfer vs license transfer approaches; 93Z6671
psychologist licensure, stringency determination factors, public/provider interest theories; 1977/78 American Association of State Psychology Board exam data; 93Z5224

Life Cycle
cohort/life course analysis, graphic computerized approach; 93Z4020

Life Events
aging experiences/meanings, life-history perspective; autobiographical/interview data; GB; 93Z6314
early life changes, family structure measure's development; national survey data; 93Z5998
family/childbearing, Quebec; demographic changes; life story/other data; 93Z5833 life stories as discursive formations, codependency emergence, Michel Foucault's thinking; 93Z4288 physician outpatient services use-desirable life events relationship; 1986 longitudinal interview data; older men/women, Chicago, Illinois; 93Z6133

Life History
aging experiences/meanings, life-history perspective; autobiographical/interview data; GB; 93Z6314
biographical histories' use, sociology/social sciences; 93Z4351
life course theory/research, US/former West Germany; book review essay; 93Z5911
substance abuse treatment programs, women clients' treatment needs; life histories; Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York; 93Z6287
women's work, life event history analysis; existing Canadian studies; 93Z4350

Life Plans life course planning, gender differences, young adults, Netherlands; questionnaire; 93Z5862

Life Satisfaction
aging success/life satisfaction meanings; interviews; senior activity center; 93Z6297
life satisfaction determinants, black/white differential; 1971/1978 survey data; 93Z4300
religiosity-adaptation relationship, oldest old; scale data; Georgia; 93Z5538
Reserve Officer Training Corp participation, socioeconomic status/life satisfaction impacts; 93Z4635
singleness meanings, never-married women ages 32-54; interview data; southern metropolitan area; 93Z6608

Life Stage Transitions
adolescents, post-secondary-school education/work transition, parents' role; longitudinal interview data; Dutch youth; 93Z5864
adulthood transition beliefs, high school/college students; group session data; 93Z5871 childhood-young adulthood transition, political socialization, France; 1986 questionnaire survey data; high school students; 93Z5080
crime-age relationship, life-course perspective; 93Z6335
male-female inequality, home/work; marriage, parenthood; 1981 survey; British young adults; 93Z4756
old age/life course perceptions, cross-cultural variations; interview data; Hong Kong/US/Ireland/Botswana; 93Z4271
self-concept, social-psychological/sociological/developmental research, 93Z4260

Lifestyle
coronary heart disease incidence, municipal workers; work characteristics, stress symptoms, lifestyle; 1981-1985 longitudinal questionnaire data; 93Z6188
lifestyle, conceptual difficulties, sociological discourse; 93Z4279
living arrangements, elderly black vs white men, influencing factors; 1971-1981 national longitudinal survey data; 93Z6291
male street prostitutes, male customers' sexual behavior patterns; interviews; New Orleans, Louisiana; 93Z5920
personal mental illness explanations, impact on life; interview data, 93Z6215
second industrial revolution, anthroponomic production concept; 93Z4761
"starving artist" lifestyle, midlife consequences; longitudinal questionnaire/other data; male fine artists; 93Z5244

Linear Analysis
hierarchical linear model, multilevel statistical analysis; illustrative example; labor market status attainment, Norway; 93Z3983
linear variable interrelationships, social sciences, estimation approaches; Monte Carlo simulations; 93Z3985

Linguistic Minorities
sociology of language definition/methodology, J. A. Fishman minority language maintenance, political issues; interview; 93Z5373

Linguistics
gender-linguistic variants, 1970s' research, quantitative paradigm's biased limitations; feminist perspective; 93Z5377
Indian philosophy-Indian icons-Sanskrit philology-National Socialist (Nazi) ideology relationship; 93Z4466
linguistic categorization, cognitive/discursive approaches; 93Z5372
mentalities study, linguistic research, methodological proposals; 93Z5368
social science/language research productivity, Spanish universities; 1986-1988 publication data; 93Z5719
social/legal institutions, linguistic/social bonds, contract law; 93Z5624
temporality-linguistics relationship, poststructuralist/-modern thought, 93Z5381

Literacy
illiteracy/deskilling, 19th-century GB; industrialization; historical data; Australian penal colony transportees; 93Z4234
literacy education, Iran, social change/stability role; 93Z5481
literacy impacts, autonomous/ideological models; survey; Nigerian men; 93Z5365
literacy, India; 1961-1981 statistics; 93Z5470

Literacy Programs
literacy education, Iran, social change/stability role; 93Z5481

Literary Criticism
African literary critique, trends/themes; 93Z5420

Literature
children's literature, innocence themes, Taisho-era Japan; 93Z5834
clocks' domination, industrial society, mid-20th-century literary challenge; 93Z4489
literature-theory relationship, global change context; 93Z5419
Native Americans, literary production/new movement; 93Z4427 postmodernist "framing" notion critiqued; illustrative examples; contemporary artist Robert Mapplethorpe/writer Franz Kafka; 93Z5414

Litigation
civil/"private" courts, public function, policy/research issues; 93Z6477

past political injustices, legal sanctioning strategies, postcommunist societies; 93Z4827
patent protection, judicial argumentation, Austria/West Germany/Switzerland; content analysis; 93Z5623
paternity determinations, child's relitigation rights; 93Z6064
prison life, litigated reform's impact; 4-book review essay; 93Z5689
simplified/accelerated court proceedings, 1977 law's impact, West Germany; survival analysis; 1975-1981 civil court cases; 93Z5619

Livestock
household wealth differences, 1984 drought's effects, Ariaal pastoralists, Kenya; 1976-1985 livestock counts/informant statements; 93Z5261
residential/economic units, Herero ranchers, Botswana; 93Z4525

Living Conditions
living arrangements, elderly black vs white men, influencing factors; 1971-1981 national longitudinal survey data; 93Z6291
migrant labor hostels, everyday life conditions, Cape Town, South Africa; survey/interview data; 93Z4418 refugee camp conditions, Bethlehem, Israel; 1990 questionnaire data; residents; 93Z4445

Local Government affirmative action effectiveness, organizational regulatory compliance; case study; city government, California; 93Z6616
local government system trends, liberal democracies, Europe; 93Z5051
local self-government, citizen's role, Eastern Europe; 93Z5104 local self-government, Slovak municipalities, 1940-1990; 93Z5346

Local Planning
local development, cultural/entrepreneurial strategies; empirical data; Risor/Notodden, Norway; 93Z4789
local planning process, Latin America, evaluation method; illustrative examples; 93Z6449

Local Politics
Asian vs black/Hispanic electoral success, US city councils; 1986 government survey; 93Z5008
local development, cultural/entrepreneurial strategies; empirical data; Risor/Notodden, Norway; 93Z4789
local state reform, labor-capitalist struggles, Toledo, Ohio, 1927-1949; pluralist/class analysis; 93Z5188
Los Angeles, California, postmodern city interpretation; 93Z5325
sociology of local government/politics, subdisciplinary development, postcommunist Czechoslovakia; 93Z5061 township politics, 1980s South Africa; documentary/interview data; Kagiso; 93Z4863

Localism
economic crisis, new localism response, Slovakia border cities; 93Z6437
European nation-states, cosmopolitism/localism forces; 93Z5136
structure/locality; 93Z6434

Locus of Control
disabled college students, perceived family of origin/locus of control/self-concept, family systems theory; 1988 questionnaire; 93Z5847
self-directed personality, Japan; work/social stratification variables; empirical data; males; 93Z5163

Logic
Habermas, Jürgen, developmental logical theory of evolution critiqued; 93Z4195
media logic/culture, communication; comment/reply; 93Z4902

London, England
dual-role stress/coping, working mothers; interview/questionnaire data; London, England; 93Z6024
fraudulent activity-government's economic liberalism relationship, London (England) financial markets, 1984-1989; 93Z4318
household/workplace gender inequality, immigrant Portuguese working women, London, England; interview data; 93Z6620 minority neighborhood regeneration policies, London vs Liverpool, England; 93Z5341

Loneliness
loneliness as modern disease, three-dimensional perspective; 93Z4294
lonely persons, self-/others' perceptions, social stigma view; scale data; undergraduates, Lakehead University, Ontario; 93Z4289
parental divorce/family conflict/friendship network relationships, divorced/intact families; questionnaire; undergraduates, state university; 93Z5983

Longitudinal Studies
local labor markets, longitudinal/cross-sectional research strategies; illustrative example; Georgia; 93Z4721
marital well-being; longitudinal study participation; 1986-1989 longitudinal interview data; newlywed couples, Wayne County, Michigan; 93Z6040
youth un-/underemployment, psychological impacts, longitudinal research attrition rate; questionnaire data; Adelaide, Australian school leavers; 93Z4613

Longshoremen
organized vs unorganized conflict, dock workers, GB; secondary statistics; 93Z4610

Los Angeles, California
alienation, Asian/Latino immigrants, garment industry, Los Angeles, California; interview/statistical/other data; 93Z5141
computer anxiety, cross-cultural differences; scale data; undergraduates, Los Angeles (California)/Hunan (People's Republic of China); 93Z4004
first premarital intercourse, Mexican- vs Anglo-American females, Los Angeles, California; socioeconomic/subcultural factors; 1984/85 interview data; 93Z5929
Los Angeles, California, postmodern city interpretation; 93Z5325
mental health service use, homeless vs nonhomeless mentally ill, Orange County, California; county records; 93Z6549 mentally ill homeless, anthropological perspective; ethnographic data; Los Angeles, California; 93Z6226
peace activists' backgrounds/attitudes, US; 1986 interview data; Beyond War members, Los Angeles, California; 93Z4281
prenatal care timing, low-income racial-ethnic primiparous women, Los Angeles County, California; sociodemographic/health behaviors/medical risk/psychosocial risk factors; 1988 interview data; 93Z6361
repeated sexual victimization, personal characteristics; literature review, 1983/84 interview data; Los Angeles, California; 93Z6380 self-esteem, young adults; agentic vs communal traits; questionnaire data; Los Angeles County, California; 93Z6653

Louisiana
alcohol consumption patterns, college/university students, Louisiana/Iowa; cultural/religious/other factors; survey data; 93Z6462
off-farm commuting patterns, Louisiana; 1982 survey; 93Z5257 social/political attitudes-creativity link; questionnaires; college students, David Duke senatorial campaign, Louisiana; 93Z4262

Love
parental discipline/affection, step- vs biological fathers, white middle-class college students' perceptions; experimental data; 93Z5952
romantic love rationalization, middle-class women's magazines; content analysis; 93Z4892
self-/other evaluation complementarity, romantic relationships; questionnaire data; undergraduates; 93Z4284

Low Income Groups
community activism, low-income urban mothers; 93Z4857
low-income housing, industrialized building innovation, 1955-1977; 93Z5747

Lower Class
oppression, Jewish women, Canada; observations; lower-class Jewish woman; 93Z5144 power relations, women's role, Cairo, Egypt; case example; lower-middle-class women, popular women's movement; 93Z4485

Luhmann, Niklas
law, Niklas Luhmann's autopoietic model critiqued; 93Z4186
Luhmann, Niklas, modern society theory, critical analysis; 93Z4488
Luhmann, Niklas, power/system theory; critical analysis; 93Z4181
systems theory, Niklas Luhmann's autopoiesis concept; 93Z4123
theoretical sociology, Niklas Luhmann; 93Z4142

Macrosociology
development/modernization, global system context, sociological interpretation; 93Z4792
micro-macro link, integrative approach; 93Z3924
race relations, micro-/macroperspectives, Shelby Steele's works; 93Z4421
social problems, macrolevel perspective; 93Z4212

Madagascar
economic/political instability, post-1975 Madagascar; 93Z4217

Madrid, Spain
social science/language research productivity, Spanish universities; 1986-1988 publication data; 93Z5719

Magazines
animal-human relations, archetypal historical categories; content analysis; tabloid press articles; 93Z4471
gender distinctions, magazine advertisements, Finland; 1955-1985 advertisements; 93Z6623
romantic love rationalization, middle-class women's magazines; content analysis; 93Z4892

Maghreb
Maghreb societies, Western anthropological approach critiqued; illustrative example; matrimonial behaviors; 93Z4522
North African Maghrebin immigrants, French attitudes; 93Z4383
Mail Surveys mail survey response rate, health professionals, strategy review; 93Z3960
Maine
teacher satisfaction; community support/empowerment/work conditions/student attitudes; survey; Maine; 93Z5240 Majority Groups work group sex composition, majority/minority members' experiences; questionnaire; southern California; 93Z4587
Malaysia
constitutional religious freedom vs state Islamization policies, Malaysia; article/response; 93Z5593 marriage/household formation patterns, ethnic differences, 1940s-1980s; peninsular Malaysia; survey/census data; 93Z5948
Males
African-American men, West Indian men's distancing/identification responses; 93Z4432
alcoholism/social adjustment, Chinese male immigrants, New York City; case studies; 93Z6254
Arab occupational attainment/employment/job satisfaction, Israel; Arab enclave economy; 1988 interview data; 93Z4419
baseball card collectors, investment vs leisure activity, personality differences; Myers-Briggs Personality Inventory; Houston, Texas; 93Z4921
cultural resistance theory, GB; illustrative example; male working-class youth; 93Z4482
homosexuality disclosure decisions, gay men; interviews; Montreal, Quebec; 93Z4252
income attainment differentials, Asian vs native white males, US; 1960-1980 Census data; 93Z5156
male batterers, personality variables; Taylor-Johnson Temperament Analysis; convicted offenders; 93Z6557
male cross-gender behavior, acaults, Myanmar (Burma), Buddhist spirit god beliefs; observational/interview data; 93Z6607
male prostitution-by-choice, demographic/clinical/behavioral correlates; interview/questionnaire data; midwestern US; 93Z4314
male street prostitutes, male customers' sexual behavior patterns; interviews; New Orleans, Louisiana; 93Z5920
male transsexualism, psychoanalytic theory challenge; vignettes; 93Z5922
male underrepresentation, female-dominated professions; interviews; urban US; 93Z5246
male violence against women, Canada; literature review; 93Z6319
marital adjustment-boys' behavior problem relationship, childrearing disagreements indicator; index data; mothers, Suffolk County, New York; 93Z6050
middle-class males' intergenerational mobility, Norwich, England, 1548-1689; occupational register data; 93Z5140 political participation/racial orientations, black males; military background; 1979/80 national survey data; 93Z4624
post-high-school choices, men, US; 93Z6640
postenlistment outcomes, US Navy recruits; background characteristics; administrative data; male enlistees, 1978-1982; 93Z4620
racist attitudes, male youth of German/Turkish parentage, Berlin, Federal Republic of Germany; interviews; 93Z4422
rape/sexual coercion, male evolutionary psychology perspective; article/comments/reply; 93Z5932
sexual knowledge/attitudes, adolescent male sex offenders; group treatment/education program; 93Z5915
social group dominance, social seniority vs chronological age as determinants; experimental data; macaques, Japanese students; 93Z4236
social skills, maritally violent vs nonviolent men; questionnaire/measurement data; Indianapolis, Indiana; 93Z6561
socioeconomic status, young male veterans; 1964-1984 Mar Current Population Surveys; 93Z5194
US males, 1990s, gender/workplace/other issues; 93Z6625
women's fetility-related behavior, China; son preference, population policy, government control; 1988 survey data; 93Z6073
women's/minorities' union participation, white males' attitudes, regional differences; questionnaire data; midwestern/southeastern union members; 93Z4580
Malnutrition
pellagra death rate changes, turn-of-the-century Italy; demographic/economic/political factors; 93Z6195
Malta educational social movement, Malta, 1990; case study; 93Z5507 Management
crisis management, communication resources, planning/propaganda/societal morale; 93Z4972
education management, UK; literature review; 93Z5486
ethnic conflicts, conflict management, theoretical/policy goals; 93Z6483 farm management decision making, Q-test modeling; interviews; farmers, wives; 93Z5299 internal mangagement crisis, technocratic/bureaucratic elites, US; 93Z5182
management buyouts, ownership/control status, Scotland; 1982-1989 interview data; 93Z6670
management participation, workers, India; 93Z4696
management's recruitment of temporary labor, contradictions/tensions; observational/interview data; US electronics firms operating in Ireland; 93Z4715
managing nuclear terror, public's response/civil defense strategies, US, 1945-1954; 93Z4637
modern corporations, control sources; 93Z4657
organizational demography, inertial pressures, management implications; 93Z4655
organizational information systems development/implementation, power relations, management consultants vs users; 93Z4651 policy/management decisions, research use, Maryland criminal justice agencies; case study; 93Z5673 urban self-management, goals/impacts; illustrative examples; Chile/Peru/Mexico; 93Z5349 Management Styles
leadership model, 21st-century US; illustrative examples; 93Z4310
Managers
corporate career patterns; organizational/social change; interviews; British managers; 93Z5214
females, managerial jobs, decision-making authority; 1982 survey; managers, Illinois; 93Z4742
managerial positions, women's attainment/functioning; organizational mechanisms, family life; empirical data; 93Z4701
managerial selection, procedural fairness-later work satisfaction relationship; questionnaire data; professional managers, New Zealand, 93Z4747
organizational research, establishment-/individual-level data utility, Norway; interviews/questionnaires; 93Z4662
senior managerial access/participation, gender influences, US public sector goverment bureaucracies; interview data; New York; 93Z6635 unemployment, manager vs blue-collar worker experiences/views, interviews; unemployed clients, self-help agency, US; 93Z4752
Manitoba
national identity, public schooling's impact, 19th-century Canada; 93Z5466 Mannheim, Karl sociology of knowledge, post-WWI Germany, Karl Mannheim's/Max Scheler's works; literature review; 93Z6408
Manual Workers
illiteracy/deskilling, 19th-century GB; industrialization; historical data; Australian penal colony transportees; 93Z4234
Manufacturing Industries crisis/membership decline, manufacturing unions' responses, resource dependence model; survey/other data; 93Z4596
customized labor training, workplaces; interviews; personnel directors, worker-students, trainers; 93Z4577
manufacturing decline, GB vs other industrialized countries; excessive wage claims; 1979-1989 unit labor cost statistics; 93Z4595
Marcuse, Herbert critical theory/pragmatism, US vs Frankfurt school perspectives; 93Z4330 Marginality
girls' marginalization/classroom status, elementary schools, Germany, comment/response; 93Z6582 marginality, Robert Park's concept reconstructed; illustrative example; German Jewry, Wilhelmine era; 93Z4303
religion's marginalization, Switzerland; article/comments; 93Z5604 social prestige, boys vs girls, primary school classes, West Berlin, Federal Republic of Germany; 1983-1989 interview data; 93Z6586 Marijuana
drug use prevention, US youth, marijuana legalization's negative implications; 93Z6255
war on drugs policy, US, peace movement's potential impact; 93Z6250
Marital Adjustment
adjustment strategies, separated couples, husband's urban migration, Bangladesh; interview data, personal letters; 93Z6012

attachment styles/marital adjustment, newlywed couples; interview data; 93Z4292
marital adjustment-boys' behavior problem relationship, childrearing disagreements indicator; index data; mothers, Suffolk County, New York; 93Z6050
postdivorce adjustment, black vs white parents; 1987/88 national survey data; 93Z5964
well-being/marital adjustment, Korean wives; mother-in-law conflict; questionnaire data; Seoul; 93Z5951

Marital Disruption
adjustment strategies, separated couples, husband's urban migration, Bangladesh; interview data, personal letters; 93Z6012
delinquency/alcohol use/depression, adolescent males vs females; marital discord/marital stability/harsh discipline/maternal deviance; national longitudinal survey data; 93Z6610
divorce reasons, partner differences; interview data; Oregon/Pennsylvania; 93Z6010
late-life divorce incidence/impacts; national survey/census data, 1974-1988; 93Z5973
marital separation/divorce, psychosocial impacts, individual coping responses; literature review; 93Z6009 women who leave abusive spouses, reasons/needs, support program goals; interviews; midwestern state; 93Z6037

Marital Relations
attachment styles/marital adjustment, newlywed couples; interview data; 93Z4292
cross-generational marital styles; questionnaires; couples; 93Z6039
delinquency/alcohol use/depression, adolescent males vs females; marital discord/marital stability/harsh discipline/maternal deviance; national longitudinal survey data; 93Z6610
disruption risks, marriages with vs without premarital cohabitation, Netherlands vs Sweden; event-history data; 93Z5986
domestic division of labor; marital power/sex-role attitudes/time constraints; 1986 Australian survey data; 93Z5941 economic exchange patterns, battered wives/husbands, Israel; interview data; shelter residents; 93Z6364 household tasks, husband's share, US; occupational sex segregation, individual-/couple-level resources; 1977-1988 national survey data; 93Z4697
male-female inequality, home/work; marriage, parenthood; 1981 survey; British young adults; 93Z4756
marital well-being; longitudinal study participation; 1986-1989 longitudinal interview data; newlywed couples, Wayne County, Michigan; 93Z6040
marriage, changing attitudes, Italy; 93Z6002
married couples, feminist perspective's impact; interviews; 93Z6574
remarriage instability/quality decline; partner attributes; interview data; 93Z5944
social skills, maritally violent vs nonviolent men; questionnaire/measurement data; Indianapolis, Indiana; 93Z6561

Marital Satisfaction
marital satisfaction-stability relationship, theoretical explanations; empirical data; women, midwestern city; 93Z5981
remarriage instability/quality decline; partner attributes; interview data; 93Z5944

Marital Status
female job performance evaluations; marital/parental status; scale data; undergraduates, midwestern US; 93Z4713
health behavior, social control/gender/marital status factors; 93Z6189
high school graduation, adolescents; parental marital status; 1979-1985 national survey data; 93Z6020
marital status-well being relationship, age differences, Canada; 1985 General Social Survey; 93Z6043 political partisanship individual's/wife's characteristics; 1984/85 Australian National Social Science Survey; 93Z5052

Market Economy
democracy-market economy relationship, individual citizen's role, US; 93Z5114
patriarchal relations, West Bank/Gaza Strip, Israel, Western feminist theory's interpretation; 93Z6579 social relations-economic market performance relationship; 93Z4781

Marketing
"green"/environmental marketing, corporate protection/consumption legitimation roles; 93Z4801
home marketing parties, persuasion/influence process; interviews; organizers, guests; 93Z4337

Markets
computer industry restructuring, market segmentation/open systems influence; 93Z5737
fraudulent activity-government's economic liberalism relationship, London (England) financial markets, 1984-1989; 93Z4318
groomprice, marriage market changes, Kerala, India; demographic/sociocultural developments; 93Z5943
market change, Middle Ages, lawyers'/merchants' role; 93Z4799
market transitions, Eastern Europe/Latin America, causal/explanatory models; 93Z5095
new technology/market pressures, firms' technical/organizational responses, economic performance outcomes; empirical data; 93Z4572 religious competitiveness-vitality relationship, economics perspective; secondary data; Western democracies; 93Z5536
social relations-economic market performance relationship; 93Z4781
worker participation, productivity impacts, US; 93Z4728

Markov Process
interactive Markov chains, stability/monotomicity issues; 93Z3989

Marriage
attachment styles/marital adjustment, newlywed couples; interview data; 93Z4292
cross-generational marital styles; questionnaires; couples; 93Z6039
family/marriage/sexuality, Roman Catholic Church teachings, Flanders, church members' criticisms; survey; 93Z5590
groomprice, marriage market changes, Kerala, India; demographic/sociocultural developments; 93Z5943
legal property rights, de facto cohabiting couples, Australia; 93Z5974
Maghreb societies, Western anthropological approach critiqued; illustrative example; matrimonial behaviors; 93Z4522
marital adjustment-boys' behavior problem relationship, childrearing disagreements indicator; index data; mothers, Suffolk County, New York; 93Z6050
marriage age trends, Indian females, 1921-1987; census/interview data; Rajasthan state; 93Z6004
marriage postponement/decline, GB, 1873-1896; depression processes; statistical data; 93Z5778
marriage, changing attitudes, Italy; 93Z6002
marriage/divorce, mental illness's impact, G. Becker's model; 1986 survey data; Baltimore, Maryland; 93Z5967
married couples, feminist perspective's impact; interviews; 93Z6574
nonmarital cohabitation increase, Denmark; 1974-1989 official statistics/other data; 93Z5919
political partisanship individual's/wife's characteristics; 1984/85 Australian National Social Science Survey; 93Z5052
remarriage instability/quality decline; partner attributes; interview data; 93Z5944
remarriage patterns, demographic characteristics/gender differences; statistical data; 93Z6046
traditional vs postmodern marriage/family spheres; 93Z5949

Marriage Patterns
cohabitation relationships, partners' characteristics, Australia; 1981/1991 interview data; 93Z5971
endogamy/exogamy, ethnic immigrant groups, Guatraché, La Pampa, Argentina; 1910-1939 census data; 93Z5995
marriage age trends, Indian females, 1921-1987; census/interview data; Rajasthan state; 93Z6004
marriage/economic patterns Saint Barthélemy French West Indies; 1878-1976 parochial/civil records; 93Z4786
marriage/household formation patterns, ethnic differences, 1940s-1980s; peninsular Malaysia; survey/census data; 93Z5948
marriage/migratory patterns, Italian emigrants, Rosario, Argentina; 1870-1914 census data; 93Z6025
remarriage patterns, demographic characteristics/gender differences; statistical data; 93Z6046

Marriage Timing
marriage postponement/decline, GB, 1873-1896; depression processes; statistical data; 93Z5778
remarriage patterns, demographic characteristics/gender differences; statistical data; 93Z6046

Marx, Karl
Capital by Karl Marx, Henry K. Grossman's theories critically assessed; personal correspondence; 93Z6661
Irish nationalism, Karl Marx's/Friedrich Engels's views; 93Z6662
self-alienation, G. W. F. Hegel's/Karl Marx's/Friedrich Nietzsche's work; 93Z4498

Marxism
class struggle, Marxist theories' war metaphors; 93Z5170
Marxist humanist/state capitalism movements, central/Eastern Europe; 93Z4806
Soviet political pathology's origin, fundamental premise of Marxism; 93Z5035
Telos journal development, 1960s-present; 93Z6486
Telos journal, 20-year retrospective; editorial; 93Z6488

Marxist Analysis

alienation-everyday life, shopping mall; 93Z4481
alienation/reification, Marxist theories; 93Z4501 capitalist economic/social formation, underdeveloped nations, Marxist analysis; case study; African countries; 93Z4173
historical science, 20th-century crisis; 93Z6405
Marxian critiques of advanced industrial society, sex/gender distinction; 93Z6657
Marxian paradigm of production, Jürgen Habermas vs György Márkus; 93Z4152
Marxism, historical crises, alternative ecology theory proposed; 93Z6663
nation-state models; 93Z4987
nature of state, alternative Marxist explanations; comment; 93Z5074
post-Marxism critiqued; 93Z6659
rural policy, industrialization's role, US; Marxist perspective; 93Z5308

Marxist Sociology
class struggle, Marxist theories' war metaphors; 93Z5170

Maryland
policy/management decisions, research use, Maryland criminal justice agencies; case study; 93Z5673

Masculinity
female aggression; gender-role masculinity; experimental/questionnaire data; undergraduates; 93Z6626
hegemonic masculinity reproductions, US sports culture; content analysis; media representations, baseball player Nolan Ryan; 93Z4956
manhood conceptualizations, African-American men; empirical data; New York; 93Z6624
masculine gender transformation, Quebec; discourse analysis; 93Z6612
masculinity, critical appraisal, feminism's influence; 93Z6587 masculinity-feminity link, Carl Jung's sexuality theory; literature review; 93Z6597

Mass Media
cross-cultural adaptation, communication's role, Asian Indians, US; secondary survey data; 93Z4907
cultural identity, relevancy issues; empirical data; homo-/heterosexual men; 93Z4882
false rumor transmission; comment; 93Z4895
feminism commodification, mass media; 1987 Mademoiselle magazine advertisements; 93Z6578
libertarian press theory, ethical assessment; 93Z4912
mass media credibility determination; viewer's group identification; interview data; 93Z4887
mass media use, Pentecostalist churches, Brazil; 93Z5589 mass media, Italian cinema, Cesare Zavattini's work; 93Z4884
media logic/culture, communication; comment/reply; 93Z4902
state-media interaction, pre-1980 Chile; 93Z4908
television/video viewing habits, adolescents, Barbados; survey; 93Z5884
US mass media, elite power group model shift, 93Z4878
US media coverage of Cuba; content analysis; New York Times stories, 1982-1990; 93Z4982
US news media, conservative nature; content analysis; network news programs; 93Z5123

Mass Media Effects
anti-Semitism, publishing industry; 23-chapter analysis; 93c01662
athlete portrayals, gender differences, 1984/1988 summer Olympics, Canadian/US newspapers; content analysis; 93Z4953
"cease-fire" concept, mass media uses; case study; network news coverage, 1982 Lebanon war; 93Z4893
1989 demonstrations, East Germany, mass media's role; 93Z4914
enterprising/consumer self-representation, thirtysomething television show, US; content analysis; UK broadcasts, 1989/90; 93Z4936
fear of victimization, mass media's impact, older West German women; 1985/86 questionnaire data; 93Z4911
feminism commodification, mass media; 1987 Mademoiselle magazine advertisements; 93Z6578
graffiti, Bergen, Norway; media-based US/UK cultural impact; survey data; 93Z4470
hard-line vs dovish views, children's socialization, Jewish families, Israel; television news viewing; observations; 93Z4899
homosexual "outing," media role, US; 93Z5909
immigration adaptation, attributional confidence, media use's role; survey; Chinese immigrants, Texas; 93Z4891
leisure/media studies, links/common interests, GB; research review; 93Z4920
media profile enhancement, sociology/anthropology, American Sociological Association initiatives; 93Z4030
newspapers, young adults' attitudes; autobiographical data; undergraduates, midwestern US university; 93Z5850
public opinion-media coverage relationship, 1988 federal elections, Mexico; newspaper editorials, other data; 93Z5038
public perception, media effects, differential attentiveness theory; literature review; 93Z4881
racial inequality/bias perpetuation, mainstream films, US; illustrative examples; 93Z4412
self-help books, female readership; questionnaire; Lexington, Kentucky; 93Z5417
social reality construction, media discourse/imagery influences; 93Z4885 suicide, media influences, Depression-era US; content analysis; New York Times stories; 93Z6106
suicide; country music; 1984/85 statistical data; urban whites; 93Z6239
symbolic racism, Italian popular culture; 93Z4367
violence against women, pornography's influence, 1985 Meese Commission's report; comment/reply/rejoinder; 93Z6641

Mass Media Images
cultural anthropologists' representations, US tabloid press; content analysis; 93Z4493
ideologies, social psychology; 3-book review essay; 93Z4273
postmodernism's subjectivity/cultural logic, implication for law practice; case study; John Hinkley's 1981 assassination attempt trial; 93Z4480
racial inequality/bias perpetuation, mainstream films, US; illustrative examples; 93Z4412
sexual division of labor, home/workplace, middle-class ideologies; content analysis; women's magazine articles, 1950-1989; 93Z4894
visual communication, Brazil; fieldwork data; 93Z6676
women's representation, mass media/popular culture, feminist cultural theory; 93Z4941

Massachusetts
risk taking/perception/management, intravenous drug users; street-based ethnographic research, survey data; Massachusetts drug treatment facilities; 93Z6122

Mate Selection
marriage/household formation patterns, ethnic differences, 1940s-1980s; peninsular Malaysia; survey/census data; 93Z5948
marriage/migratory patterns, Italian emigrants, Rosario, Argentina; 1870-1914 census data; 93Z6025
mate seeking, mediated channels, involuntarily single persons, US; secondary data; 93Z5903
mate selection preferences, single men/women, values perspective; scale/inventory data; 93Z5976

Material Culture
gentrification, accompanying material culture changes, Lincoln Park, Illinois; 1985/86 fieldwork; 93Z5351

Mathematical Models
cultural/genetic relatedness parallels, mathematical model; 93Z5820
emergency vehicle base location evaluation, simulation model; case study; Tucson, Arizona; 93Z6524
progressive diseases, screening test scheduling, mathematical model, illustrative cases; 93Z3991
urban network structure analysis, graph theoretic models' applicability; 93Z5335

Mathematics mathematical achievements, boys vs girls; individual-psychological/familial characteristics; self-report data; 5th/6th graders, US/Yugoslavia; 93Z5467

Mayans
evangelical Protestantism conversions, Mayan village, Guatemalan highlands; field observations; 93Z5548

Mead, George Herbert
organizational health promotion field, sociological practitioners' potential role; 93Z6393
self/identity transformation, colectomy/ileostomy patients; interview data; 93Z6144
sociology of schizophrenia, afflicted person's perspective, George Herbert Mead's concepts applied; 93Z6214 symbolic interaction, modernity/postmodernity, Jürgen Habermas's/George Herbert Mead's work; 93Z4327
temporalized sociology, theoretical underpinnings; 93Z4125
theoretical parallels, George H. Mead/Thorstein Veblen; 93Z4144
US political culture/pragmatism, Federal Republic of Germany, postwar decades; 93Z5010

Means-Ends Rationality
foreign policymakers' international conflict misperception, rational deterrence theory's validity, game-theoretic technique application; 93Z5697 strategic communication theory, R. E. Sanders's Cognitive Founda- tions of Calculated Speech: Controlling Understandings in Conversation and Persuasion; critique/reply; 93Z5397 work teams, reward scheme construction difficulties alternative/non-market-based solutions; 93Z4600

Measurement
agricultural labor market, conceptual/measurement issues; research review; 93Z5307
analytic hierarchy process, qualitative/quantitative data; 93Z3976
"Canadian," evolving indigenous category; 1988/89 National Census Tests; 93Z5805 childhood mortality, indirect measurements, reliability compared; 1989 survey data; Indonesia; 93Z5811
class consciousness, GB, measurement problems; secondary survey data; 93Z5151 doctoral thesis quality, information-based evaluation; test; chemistry theses, USSR; 93Z4012
equal employment opportunity policies, success measurement, UK; 93Z5772
human immunodeficiency virus disease, quality of life evaluation; research review; 93Z6209
information transmission, survey interviews; 93Z3944
job performance research, unmeasured variables' importance, model development; 93Z5707
prestige, theories/measurement; 93Z5192
quality of life perceptions; health behaviors/status; questionnaire/test data; US Navy personnel; 93Z6199
racial/sexual occupational inequality, conceptual/measurement issues; 93Z4703
rating scales, extreme response style measurement; 1975-1987 survey data; US adults; 93Z3952
snowball sampling possibilities, estimation issues; 93Z3972
subjective (psychological)/objective (economic) well-being relationship; interview/diary data; US families; 93Z4261
sustainable agriculture, economic/social/ecological measurement issues; 93Z5297
tobit analysis coefficients decomposition, political protests in debtor nations; 93Z3984
work meanings, comparative analytical approaches; cross-cultural data; 93Z4563

Measures (Instruments)
children's play attitudes, assessment measures evaluated; scale data; midwestern metropolitan area; 93Z3958
children, qualitative interview instrument; 93Z5827

Mediation
conflict mediation, community-based US system vs Korean-Americans' informal process; interviews; Washington, DC; 93Z6387
cultural diversity-based conflicts, college campuses, mediation's role; personal experience; 93Z6392
divorce mediation process, cultural/religious issues; 93Z6389
homophobia/heterosexism issues, US, mediation programs' potential role; conflict resolution literature; 93Z4429
industrial relations, conciliation/arbitration, Australia; 1990 survey; 93Z4589
legal mediation styles, gender differences; 1987 case data; Ohio mediation program; 93Z6388
mate seeking, mediated channels, involuntarily single persons, US; secondary data; 93Z5903
public-sector mediation, research agenda; 93Z6476

Medicaid
Oregon Medicaid program, restructuring impacts, 1989-1991; 93Z6177

Medical Decision Making acquired immune deficiency syndrome, virus screening regulation decision making, hospitals, France; documentation, interviews; medical/administrative personnel; 93Z6180 end-of-life medical treatment decisions, advance directions; literature review, interviews; Ohio; 93Z6098
ethical medical practice, US Supreme Court (Nancy) Cruzan decision's impact; 93Z5239
"limited code" resuscitation, medical residents, teaching hospitals; observation, interviews; 93Z6165
medical decision-making/right-to-die issues, post-Cruzan decision; 93Z4253
medical decisions, incompetent patients, families authoritative role; 93Z5985
poorly defined health disorders, medicalization, self-medication/fringe remedy promotion; 93Z6164
termination of medical treatment, decision-making standards, state courts' role; 93Z5646

Medical Model
medicalization/social control, conceptual issues; research review; 93Z6123
obesity, stigma/social reactions, sociological model; 93Z6182

Medical Research
human tissue, property rights, Moore v. Regents of the University of California; case study; 93Z5700
molecular-quantitative genetic research; 93Z4274 nostalgia, medical/psychiatric perspectives, 19th-century France; 93Z4497

Medical Sociology
accidental death classification, medico-legal process, English coroner's court; statistical/observational data; 93Z6219 malaria control program, sociomedical aspects, Colombia; questionnaires, interviews, participant observation, serological survey; 93Z6154 repetition strain injury, sociology of medical knowledge/social problem perspective, Australia; 93Z6112 sociology of medicine; 5-book review essay; 93Z6111

Medical Students
educational persistence, premed students, gender differences; interviews; State University of New York Stony Brook; 93Z5210
"limited code" resuscitation, medical residents, teaching hospitals; observation, interviews; 93Z6165
patient-physician communication; clinical interviews; 93Z6121

Medical Technology breast cancer/mamography screening, increased incidence; survey data; Wisconsin; 93Z6150

Medicare
switching physicians, Medicare patients; economic competition; article/comment/reply; 93Z6173

Medications
gender targeting advertising, prescription/over-the-counter drugs/tobacco/alcohol products; literature review; 93Z4896
pain/other symptom management, terminally ill cancer patients; personal experience; Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center, New York City; 93Z6093
pharmaceutical drugs, advertisement/promotion history, US; 93Z4910
poorly defined health disorders, medicalization, self-medication/fringe remedy promotion; 93Z6164
self-care/-medication, increased awareness/information sources; 93Z6185

Medicine
acquired immune deficiency syndrome discourses, biological/cultural/political dimensions; 93Z6125
Alzheimer's disease medicalization; secondary empirical data; physicians/family caregivers; 93Z6161
medical advertising, doctors'/consumers' attitudes, California; questionnaire data; 93Z5201
medical ethics, liberal model; book review essay; 93Z6159
medical profession, E. Freidson's work critiqued; 93Z5205 medical profession, structural transformation/political role, Spain; 1983 survey data; physicians; 93Z6175
prescription drug misuse/abuse, Germany; international comparison; 93Z6270 veneral disease-prostitution link, prerevolutionary China, Western medical community's impact; 93Z5912

Melanesia
tourism's economic impact, South Pacific island microstates; 93Z4927

Membership
crisis/membership decline, manufacturing unions' responses, resource dependence model; survey/other data; 93Z4596
group membership/social identity, minimal group paradigm; secondary data; 93Z4290
nation-state models; 93Z4987
postadolescent street gangs membership, deteriorating inner-city economic conditions' role; field interviews; active gang members, southern California; 93Z6351
status protection, high-status minority groups; experiment; high school students; 93Z4362

Memory
collective memory; 8-chapter English translation; 93c01673
nostalgia, medical/psychiatric perspectives, 19th-century France; 93Z4497
retrospective memory errors, migration history; 1988 interview/population register data; married couples, Wallonie, Belgium; 93Z3946
self-images, memories' role, single Italians; interview data; 93Z4251
temporality, Sigmund Freud's dream interpretations; 93Z4145
time, modern memory theories, phenomenological perspective; 93Z4124

Mennonites
gender equality, Shakers religious sect, 18th century; 93Z6604
retirement/inheritance negotiation, elderly Alexanderwohl Mennonites, US capitalist vs Russian feudal systems; census/interview/other data; 93Z6305
Mental Health child/family mental heath services, new approaches; 93Z5992 competency to stand trial decisions, criminal court-mental health practitioner interactions, district courts; interview/other data; 93Z5662
mental/physical health, Australian prison officers; negative affectivity, perceptions of demands/discretion/support; questionnaire data; 93Z5232
substance abuse patterns/mental health, homeless postadolescents; interview data; Florida; 93Z6285
Mental Health Services
health services utilization, ethnic subpopulation variations; literature review, 1979-1981 empirical data; Federal Employee Health Benefit Plan contracts; 93Z6237
human immunodeficiency virus disease, psychiatric care, ethical issues; literature review, other data; 93Z6206
mental health service use, homeless vs nonhomeless mentally ill, Orange County, California; county records; 93Z6549 spiritual/mental health resource use, psychiatrically disordered Dominican migrant women, Manhattan, New York; interview/participant observation data; 93Z6242
Mental Hospitals
psychiatric diagnosis/length of hospitalization; gender/ethnicity; discharge data; midwestern city; 93Z6221
psychiatric facilities, organizational analysis, task analysis model; observations; 93Z4333 racial bias, child/adolescent public mental health system admissions, NY; 1988 admissions data; 93Z6225
Mental Illness
attitudes toward mentally ill persons, label/belief effects; 1988 mail survey; Delaware County, Indiana; 93Z6238
Hispanic family caregiving, seriously mentally ill members; research review; 93Z6220 homeless shelter residents, drug abuse/mental illness history; interviews; New York City; 93Z6553
homelessness-mental illness relationship, alternative approach; 93Z6212
marriage/divorce, mental illness's impact, G. Becker's model; 1986 survey data; Baltimore, Maryland; 93Z5967
mental health service use, homeless vs nonhomeless mentally ill, Orange County, California; county records; 93Z6549
mentally ill homeless, anthropological perspective; ethnographic data; Los Angeles, California; 93Z6226
mentally ill, deviance severity/treatment compliance; childhood/adult social bonds; survey; outpatients, community mental health center; 93Z6228
mentally incompetent prisoners sentenced to death, mental health treatment, ethical dilemma; 93Z6222
personal mental illness explanations, impact on life; interview data; 93Z6215
personality disorder definitions, Diagnostic & Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders III, underrating social/relationship nature; 93Z6665
posttraumatic stress disorder occurrence/aetiology/treatment; literature review; 93Z6232 psychiatric disorder-alcohol/tobacco/marijuana/hard drug use relationship, adolescents; questionnaire; Ontario; 93Z6247
psychiatric-mental health nurses' career/activity/client characteristics, US; mail questionnaire survey; 93Z5199
socioeconomic status-psychiatric disorder relationship, black/white differences; 93Z6243
sociology of schizophrenia, afflicted person's perspective, George Herbert Mead's concepts applied; 93Z6214 substance abuse, late adolescence, predictive factors; Ontario; 93Z6248
Mental Patients
acquired immune deficiency syndrome risk behavior/knowledge, chronic psychiatric outpatients; questionnaire data; Wisconsin; 93Z6143
chronic solvent abuse, psychiatric/neurological impacts; interview/case record data; Alberta; 93Z6252 community living adaptation, long-term Puerto Rican psychiatric patients, New York City; participant observation; 93Z6240
community treatment order debate, England/Wales, historical development; 93Z6217
Hispanic family caregiving, seriously mentally ill members; research review; 93Z6220 homeless mentally ill, residential preferences; interview/self-report data; transitional shelters, Boston, Massachusetts; 93Z6550
medical decisions, incompetent patients, families authoritative role; 93Z5985
mentally ill homeless, anthropological perspective; ethnographic data; Los Angeles, California; 93Z6226
mentally ill suspects, police decision making; 1980/81 observational data; large US midwestern city; 93Z6241
mentally ill's deinstitutionalization, family caregivers' adaptation; interview data; Ontario/midwestern US; 93Z6223
psychiatric diagnosis/length of hospitalization; gender/ethnicity; discharge data; midwestern city; 93Z6221
psychiatric patients, human immunodeficiency virus detection; serological testing, medical records; Manhattan acute care facility, New York City; 93Z6178 psychiatric problems, Iranian immigrants, Canada; chart data; 93Z6205 sexual behavior, group residences for mentally retarded/mentally ill disabled, Jewish agency's ethical dilemmas; 93Z5913
Mentally Retarded
academic achievement/social-emotional development, students with learning difficulties, integrated vs other classrooms; longitudinal questionnaires/tests; Switzerland; 93Z5426 acquired immune deficiency syndrome education, mentally handicapped adults; 93Z6174 consanguinity-mental retardation relationship; medical record data; India; 93Z5824 disability, integration issues, labeling theory; rejoinder; 93Z4336
sexual behavior, group residences for mentally retarded/mentally ill disabled, Jewish agency's ethical dilemmas; 93Z5913
special needs education, social/curricular integration; response/rejoinder; 93Z5435
Merchants
market change, Middle Ages, lawyers'/merchants' role; 93Z4799
Meritocracy
US educational crisis, misleading assumptions; 93Z5445
Merleau-Ponty, Maurice
sexual abuse aftermath, body symptoms as expressive language; case study; 93Z6369
Messianic Movements
Lubavitch, ultrareligious Hasidic Jewish movement, Messianic prophecy; 93Z5595
messianic angel paradigm, philosophy of history, Walter Benjamin's work; 93Z5552 Metal Industry
workers' health, Latin America, action-oriented participatory research methodology; steel factory, Mexico; 93Z4588
Metaphors
class struggle, Marxist theories' war metaphors; 93Z5170 feminine poetic language, metaphor use, French poststructural theory application; T. Saastamoinen's Finnish prose poem analysis; 93Z6598
Metaphysics
Heidegger, Martin, metaphysical views, Nazism affiliation challenged; book review essay; 93Z6422
Methodists evangelical propaganda, turn-of-the-century Methodist missionaries, Solomon Islands; photographs/documentation; 93Z5600
Methodological Individualism
race relations/conflict resolution, 1980s theories, methodological individualism's influence; case study; South Africa; 93Z6484
social norms, Jon Elster's methodologically individualistic assumptions; 93Z4306 Methodological Problems
drug use-ethnicity relationship, research, theoretical/methodological problems; 93Z6253
erroneous exit poll results; methodological problems; 1989 Virginia gubernatorial election; 93Z5110
ethnomethodology theory/practice; 93Z3949
family adaptive strategies, conceptual/methodological/theoretical issues; 93Z6001
female poverty identification, contemporary Europe, analytical/methodological shortcomings; research review; 93Z6539
feminist methodology debate; article/comments; 93Z6580
feminist psychological research methodology, cultural diversity-related problems/solutions; experimental data; undergraduate women; 93Z6583
homicide, cross-national research, methodological issues; 93Z6307
human immunodeficiency virus disease, quality of life evaluation; research review; 93Z6209

human population surveys, incomplete data, sources/solutions; literature review, secondary data; 93Z3957
interviewing performance-question/interviewer attributes relationship; telephone survey; 93Z3967 judgment/decision-making theory/research methodology; 93Z4272
labor markets, stratification research, theoretical/methodological issues; illustrative example; shellfishing industry, northern Florida; 93Z5189
local crime surveys, leftist realist discourse/practice; 93Z6327
office work as women's work research, problematic conceptualizations, methodological approach proposed; 93Z4741
official census problems, voluntary vs mandatory participation, Germany; 93Z5808
organizational demography research, methodological/theoretical issues; research review; 93Z4663
random sample size planning, anticipated uncertainty level control, methodological techniques; 93Z3974
rural labor markets, economic concepts; 93Z5270
schizophrenia prognosis, Third World vs Western countries, cross-cultural psychiatric theory/research; article/comments/response; 93Z6211
Social Science Research Council's 1940s restudy, Robert Angell's 1931 The Family Encounters the Depression; 93Z6008
social sciences, scientific method's application problems; 93Z4036
society groups, theoretical/methodological issues; 93Z4187 sociology of language definition/methodology, J. A. Fishman minority language maintenance, political issues; interview; 93Z5373
sociology, South Africa; response; 93Z4044
special education theory/research practice, Newtonian mechanistic vs holistic paradigms; article/comments; 93Z6137
suicidal behavior, human immunodeficiency syndrome disease; research review; 93Z6229
systems theory, methodological problems; 93Z3938
technology-structure research; literature review; 93Z5741
universal conversation features, Swedish eh acknowledgment token, ethnographic approach; 93Z5367
work meanings, theory/research issues; discussion group; 93Z4614

Methodology (Data Analysis)
analytic hierarchy process, qualitative/quantitative data; 93Z3976
"Canadian," evolving indigenous category; 1988/89 National Census Tests; 93Z5805
contingency tables, nonnested models; count data; 93Z4001
contradictory preferences, choice making, sociometric/-dynamic tests; empirical data; psychodrama students; 93Z3981
cross-validation's use, regression/covariance structure analysis; 93Z3980
event count data, sociological analysis, generalized quasi-likelihood estimation proposed; 93Z3979 hermeneutic text analysis problems, heuristic strategies application; 93Z5385 hierarchical linear model, multilevel statistical analysis; illustrative example; labor market status attainment, Norway; 93Z3983
latent budget analysis, two-way contingency tables; 93Z4000
mortality-unemployment relationship, aggregate time-series regression models critiqued; 93Z6183
political polling developments, US; 93Z4870
regression models, large-sample estimation, two-stage least squares approach; 93Z3993
small sample analyses, validity problems, post hoc power analysis application; 93Z3954
sociometric strategies, sociological/organizational/criminological research, 93Z3947
time-aggregation bias minimization, hazard-rate models with covariates, 93Z3995
women's work, life event history analysis; existing Canadian studies; 93Z4350

Methodology (Data Collection)
children, qualitative interview instrument; 93Z5827
class consciousness assessment, acquiescent response bias control method; attitude scale data; US/Canada/Norway/Sweden; 93Z3987
drug activity, street-level research team, New York City; ethnographic data, 93Z6266
drug use surveys, sealed booklet vs direct questioning approach; national survey data; 93Z6631 ethnography/conversation analysis research, contributions/recommendations; journal issue introduction; 93Z5382
fieldwork note-taking, research benefits; 93Z3969
homogeneous invisible population, sample representativeness; 93Z3986
household drug use reporting, surveys; telephone vs face-to-face interviewing; 1986/87 empirical data; 93Z3945
human population surveys, incomplete data, sources/solutions; literature review, secondary data; 93Z3957
information transmission, survey interviews; 93Z3944
interviewing, response rates, presurvey enhancement methods; case study; two-stage interviewing; 93Z3965
link-tracing methodologies' utility, special/hidden populations location; literature review; 93Z3973
local crime surveys, leftist realist discourse/practice; 93Z6327
mail survey response rate, health professionals, strategy review; 93Z3960
organizational research, establishment-/individual-level data utility, Norway; interviews/questionnaires; 93Z4662
political attitudes/behavior, Finnish university students, measurement issues; questionnaire/scale data; Helsinki; 93Z5071
political polling developments, US; 93Z4870
public opinion questionnaire, Netherlands; illustrative application; 93Z3963
quality of life perceptions; health behaviors/status; questionnaire/test data; US Navy personnel; 93Z6199
random sample size planning, anticipated uncertainty level control, methodological techniques; 93Z3974
respondent behavior, interviewer effects; social desirability; empirical data; German cities; 93Z3970
retrospective memory errors, migration history; 1988 interview/population register data; married couples, Wallonie, Belgium; 93Z3946 situation meaning/ethnography/conversation analysis; F. Wiseman's High School film transcripts; 93Z5392
snowball sampling possibilities, estimation issues; 93Z3972
southern vs eastern European emigrants, US; 1910 steamship passenger lists; 93Z5781
subjective (psychological)/objective (economic) well-being relationship; interview/diary data; US families; 93Z4261
survey nonresponse; questionnaire length; 1987 data; England, Wales; 93Z3948
voluntary organization population change analysis, aggregate/individual-level data roles, Norwegian research project; 93Z4667

Methodology (Philosophical)
alcohol use studies, ethnicity variable's misuse; 93Z6265
black studies paradigm/methodology; 93Z4016
class struggle, Marxist theories' war metaphors; 93Z5170
cohort/life course analysis, graphic computerized approach; 93Z4020
community, conceptual/definitional issues; 93Z6440
comparative historical sociology, alternative incorporated comparison method; 93Z4233
epistemological externalism, knowledge/society/power, theoretical discussion; 93Z3934
event-based concept of strategic time, new organizational strategy perspective; 93Z6465
evolutionary theory, explanatory practice; 93Z6416
feminist methodology debate; article/comments; 93Z6580
gender/leisure policy analysis, theoretical approaches critiqued; 93Z4934
general/abstract concepts, empirical educational vs scientific research; illustrative examples; 93Z5431
Habermas, Jürgen, developmental logical theory of evolution critiqued; 93Z4195
historical sociology vs philosophy of morals; 93Z4229
historical sociology, Morris Ginsberg's/J. A. Banks's views; comment; 93Z4064 historical sociology, structuralism/rational choice theories; 93Z4227
human relationships, psychological process vs population models; 93Z6417
ideologies, social psychology; 3-book review essay; 93Z4273
industrial sociology, theoretical/methodological development, paradigm shifts; 93Z4660 knowledge-universality-feminism relationship, alternative epistemologies; 93Z6588
leisure studies, hermeneutic/interpretive approaches; illustrative application; 1930s essays, US South; 93Z4925 linguistic structure/social meaning analysis, integrated conversational analysis/objective hermeneutics approach; 93Z4340
Luhmann, Niklas, modern society theory, critical analysis; 93Z4488
methodological indeterminacy, human sciences application; 93Z3933
modern science, theoretical inaccuracy-prediction accuracy paradox, holistic explanation; 93Z3927
new historicism, social sciences, implications for urban history; 93Z5355

penal reform, public attitudes, definitional problems, GB; 93Z4876
personal relationships research, physical environment's centrality, theory/method implications; 93Z4348
phenomena construction, abstract theory utilization; illustrative example; paleomagnetism; 93Z6406
position concept, social network analysis, theoretical issues; illustrative examples; 93Z4675
"practical sociological reasoning" concept, everyday sociological imagination, theoretical issues; 93Z4343
primitivism, Gilles Deleuze's/Félix Guattari's A Thousand Plateaus; 93Z4529
racial/sexual occupational inequality, conceptual/measurement issues; 93Z4703
scientific/common sense psychology, differences/goals/rationale; 93Z4203
social impact assessment, broadened conceptual framework; 93Z6456
social psychology, time-centered perspective; 93Z4171
social theory, social time concept applied; 93Z4177
social values research, methodological contexts/aspects; 93Z4476
sociology of language definition/methodology, J. A. Fishman minority language maintenance, political issues; interview; 93Z5373
student alienation, conceptual/empirical dimensions; questionnaire; secondary school students, Hawaii; 93Z5878
subject-object differentiation/cognitive development, children, Jean Piaget's theory vs interactionist constructivism; 93Z4196
Teilhard de Chardin, Pierre, scientific contributions; content analysis; 93Z4060
temporality, philosophical approaches; special issue introduction; 93Z4156
Toba Pentecostalism, Argentina, theoretical models; 93Z5612
underclass concept, questionable assumptions/symbolic power; 93Z5180
urban research, Latin America; 93Z5324
village studies tradition, Indian sociology; 93Z5286
visual sociology, underlying assumption; 93Z6685
Weber, Max, methodological approaches; 93Z4143
Weberian causality, social sciences, critical realist perspective; 93Z4141

Methods
Italian political scientist Paolo Ammassari, life/work; 93Z4058

Metropolitan Areas
corporal punishment, public support, US school system; religion/socioeconomic status; 1989 interview data; southern metropolitan area; 93Z5457
decentralized development, Rome, reform/social planning issues; Italian census data; 93Z5773
doctors/dentists/pharmacists, public perceptions; questionnaire; southern metropolitan area; 93Z5243
interracial homicide, macrostructural opportunity perspective; statistical data; US cities; 93Z6329
musical preference-reckless behavior relationship, adolescents, southern metropolitan area; 1990 survey data; 93Z5848
singleness meanings, never-married women ages 32-54; interview data; southern metropolitan area; 93Z6608
slum sector, Third World metropolitan areas, planning issues; empirical data; Bangkok, Thailand; 93Z5360
suicide; country music; 1984/85 statistical data; urban whites; 93Z6239
urban systems/changes, postcommunist Eastern Europe; 93Z5344

Mexican Americans
Chicano protest movement, Catholic church injustices, San Diego/Los Angeles, California; 93Z4405
fertility, Mexican migrants vs Mexican-Americans vs non-Hispanics, US; gender inequality; 1980 census data; 93Z6078
fertility, Mexican-origin women, US; adaptation/assimilation/disruption; 1970/1980 census data; 93Z6085
first premarital intercourse, Mexican- vs Anglo-American females, Los Angeles, California; socioeconomic/subcultural factors; 1984/85 interview data; 93Z5929
gender relations, Mexican-American men/women; patriarchal constraints; 93Z5787
gender/racial discrimination/harassment, Chicana white-collar workers; survey/interview data; public university, California; 93Z6648
health behaviors/status, Mexican-American women, southwestern US; social-contextual factors; survey data; 93Z6160
health/illness responses, Mexican-/African-American children; socialization; illustrative examples; 93Z4403
Los Angeles, California, postmodern city interpretation; 93Z5325
Mexican Americans, border region resident characteristics; interview data; 93Z6444
Mexican Americans, phenotypic labor market discrimination challenged; comment; 93Z4357 prenatal care timing, low-income racial-ethnic primiparous women, Los Angeles County, California; sociodemographic/health behaviors/medical risk/psychosocial risk factors; 1988 interview data; 93Z6361

Mexico
agricultural modernization, economic effects, Morelia-Querendaro, Mexico; 1946-1981 statistical data; 93Z5303
agriculture, Mexico, biotechnological innovations' implications; 93Z5748 agriculture, Mexico, biotechnology's practical potential; government policy; 1960s-1970s official statistics/other data; 93Z5281 alternative rural credit, Mexico; 1989 workshop meeting; 93Z5266
Catholic confession/penance, Spanish colonial Mexico, Nahua native autobiographical self-reconstruction; 93Z5574 class images, work/community variables; interview/questionnaire dat industrial workers, Santiago Tianquistenco, Mexico; 93Z5154
current political system crisis, modernity context, Mexico; 93Z5034
demographic changes, Meso-America, 1950-1985, education/economy/migration impacts; 93Z5765
drug abuse research, Mexico; literature review; 93Z6275
ejido displacement, agricultural production, Mexico; 1980s government statistics; Zacatecas; 93Z5260 ethnic tourism/division of labor; fieldwork data; tourists, San Cristóbal, Mexico; 93Z4931 European Catholic evangelism, colonial Mexico, cuadernillos (pictora Christian doctrines) usage; religious/cultural encounter; 93Z5554
faculty union elections, Universidad Nacional Autónoma de México; 1980-1987 case studies; 93Z5112
family business, 1971-1988 increases, Mexico; macroeconomic conditions; statistics; 93Z4767 family studies, different theoretical perspectives; illustrative example, Mexican farm families; 93Z6019
*farming communities, modernization's impact; historical-*anthropological analysis; 19th-century Ciénega de Chalapa, Jalisco, Mexico; 93Z5731
fertility, Mexican migrants vs Mexican-Americans vs non-Hispanics, US; gender inequality; 1980 census data; 93Z6078
forest resource use conflict, Ixtlán, Mexico; 93Z6436
human rights movement, indigenous peoples, Mexico; illustrative examples; Oaxaca/Guerrero; 93Z4413
indigenous groups, 16th-century Mexico, Friar Bernardino de Sahagú's research; 93Z5476
maquiladora plants, Mexico/US impacts; illustrative examples; El Paso, Texas/Ciudad Juarez, Mexico; 93Z4724
Mexican agriculture, Mexico-US Free Trade Agreement's possible effects; 93Z4558
Mexican agriculture, Mexico-US Free Trade Agreement's potential impact; 93Z4966
Mexican maquiladora industry, Mexico-US-Canada Free Trade Agreement's effects; statistical data; 93Z4974
Mexico-US Free Trade Agreement, Mexicans'/Eastern Europeans' views; interviews; 1990/91; 93Z5001
Mexico-US Free Trade Agreement, potential effects, Mexico; 93Z4994
Mexico-US Free Trade Agreement, potential negative impact, Mexico; 93Z5003
migrant Mexican farmworkers, Baja California, Mexico/California, literature review; 93Z5760
national industrialization, Mexico, export promotion policy; 1929-1990 statistics; 93Z4967
northern frontier region, Mexico, Mexico-US-Canada Free Trade Agreement's potential effects; 93Z5002
northern Mexico/US border region, research trends; bibliography; 93Z6445
nuclear threat perceptions/antinuclear activism, college students; 1984-1986 multinational scale data; 93Z4841
open market/privatization policies, Mexico, effects on workers; 1987-1990 legislation; 93Z4983
Partido Acción Nacional, history/political role, Mexico; 93Z5062
Partido Revolucionario Institucional sectoral quotas, federal deputy elections, Mexico; 1979-1988 published data; 93Z5083
Partido Revolucionario Institucional, power loss, Mexico; 93Z5084
political parties' electoral effectiveness, 1988 federal deputy elections, Mexico; 93Z5045
political party system, Mexico, theoretical typologies; 93Z5111
political system, 1988 disruption/state party's reaction, Mexico; 93Z5085
principal political system actors, university students' perceptions, Mexico; survey data; 93Z5024

privatization consequences, small coffee producers, Mexico; government statistics; 93Z5288
public opinion-media coverage relationship, 1988 federal elections, Mexico; newspaper editorials, other data; 93Z5038
public/private sector interaction, Mexico; 18th-/19th-century newspaper articles; 93Z5007
rental housing-owner occupation transition, Latin America; surveys; Mexican cities; 93Z5331
research projects, sociology professors, Azcapotzalco, Mexico; 93Z4120
Rockefeller Foundation's 1921-1923 yellow fever campaign, Mexico; secondary data; 93Z6184
social movement emergence from community organizations vs masses; illustrative example; Mexico; 93Z5345
socioeconomic change, adaptation strategies, Lacandona community, Mexico; 93Z4783
sociological research on Mexico; 93Z4054
transition to democracy, Mexico, political culture/party system roles; 93Z5048
transition to democracy, Mexico, principal political parties' potential effects; 93Z5099
urban planning, cultural differences, Tijuana, Mexico/San Diego, California; 93Z5333
urban problems, incomplete modernity's role, Mexican example; 93Z5326
urban self-management, goals/impacts; illustrative examples; Chile/Peru/Mexico; 93Z5349
US/Mexico border states, cultural/social/economic ties; 1900-1990 statistical data; 93Z6443
workers' health, Latin America, action-oriented participatory research methodology; steel factory, Mexico; 93Z4588
working conditions maquiladora plants, Tijuana/Ciudad Juarez, Mexico; Free Trade Agreement impact; 1991 government survey data; 93Z4704

Mexico City, Mexico
French Bourbon reforms, peasant physical resistance, late-18th-century Mexico City; 93Z5190
Mexico City, 1987-1989 academic publications; 93Z5323
Pentecostalism's spread, rural migrants, Mexico City vs Puebla village, Mexico; field observations; 93Z5557
transportation-air pollution links, Mexico City; book review essay; 93Z5342
urban land use, state/enterprises/society roles, Mexico City; book review essay; 93Z5353

Miami, Florida
health, Hispanics, US; farm work; 1982-1984 Hispanic Health & Nutrition Examination Survey; 93Z5268

Michigan
abortion discourse, middle- vs working-class women; television program; group interview data; Ann Arbor, Michigan; 93Z4906
chronic posttraumatic stress disorder, patient/disorder characteristics; scale/interview data; health maintenance organization, Michigan; 93Z6207
helplessness-explanatory style relationship; questionnaire/diary data; students/young adults, Ann Arbor, Michigan; 93Z4283
marital well-being; longitudinal study participation; 1986-1989 longitudinal interview data; newlywed couples, Wayne County, Michigan; 93Z6040
memorial tribute, sociologists Jay W. Artis/Marvin Olsen; 93Z4108
science/technology research, state governments' funding decisions; case study; Michigan; 93Z5722
Slovene ethnic identity, US, religious faith's role; illustrative example; rural Slovene settlement, Stearns County, Michigan; 93Z5575 suicidal adolescents, family environment perceptions; scale data; Michigan, 93Z6102

Micronesia
hierarchical vs democratic schooling/knowledge management, Pohnpei (Micronesia); US-influenced social change; 1980-1982 fieldwork; 93Z5443
local education, Pulapese, Chuuk State (Micronesia), Western/traditional model amalgamation; 1979/80 field data; 93Z5446

Microsociology
micro-macro link, integrative approach; 93Z3924
race relations, micro-/macroperspectives, Shelby Steele's works; 93Z4421

Middle Aged Adults
late-life divorce incidence/impacts; national survey/census data, 1974-1988; 93Z5973
"starving artist" lifestyle, midlife consequences; longitudinal questionnaire/other data; male fine artists; 93Z5244

Middle Ages
market change, Middle Ages, lawyers'/merchants' role; 93Z4799
public space, social construction, urban areas; medieval Europe-present; 93Z5317

Middle Class
middle class formation, GB; 10-chapter analysis; 93c01684
middle-class males' intergenerational mobility, Norwich, England, 1548-1689; occupational register data; 93Z5140
occupational preference patterns, middle-class high school students, Bangalore, India; scale data; 93Z5846
reproductive rights movement, Canada, white middle-class orientation critiqued; 93Z4839
sexual division of labor, home/workplace, middle-class ideologies; content analysis; women's magazine articles, 1950-1989; 93Z4894
solidarity, middle-/working-class women, 19th-century; 93Z5193

Middle East
collective grief/rage, gender/peace politics, Middle East conflict context, Israel; 1990 fieldwork data; 93Z6618
death, social construction, 1991 Gulf war; content analysis; New York Times stories; 93Z4644
Islamic fundamentalism discourse, Middle East/Southeast Asia, critical perspective; 93Z5518
Middle East, Islamic fundamentalism, image-centered forms of social regulation; 93Z4504
political geography, methodologies/education, US universities; 93Z6536
religious/political attitudes, Palestinian students, Najah University, West Bank; questionnaire data; 93Z5523
social symbolism, Western sociology's neglect; illustrative examples; 93Z4347

Middle Eastern Cultural Groups
alcohol use/misuse perceptions, Chinese/Indo-Pakistani/Latin American communities, British Columbia, prevention program implications; literature review/interview data; 93Z6271
Kurdish identity/persecution, Saddam Hussein's Baathist regime, Iraq; 93Z4543

Midwestern States
absenteeism correlates, 1st-year college students; questionnaire; midwestern US; 93Z5517
adolescent self-esteem/social class relationship; inventory/student record data; Catholic middle school, midwestern US; 93Z5876
campus racism, American Indian students' experiences/perceptions; questionnaire data; midwestern US; 93Z4378
children's play attitudes, assessment measures evaluated; scale data; midwestern metropolitan area; 93Z3958
congregational religious style-social world orientation relationship; 1987 survey; midwestern US church members; 93Z5583
employee commitment, conceptual/empirical distinctions; questionnaire; medical personnel, midwestern US; 93Z4736
female job performance evaluations; marital/parental status; scale data; undergraduates, midwestern US; 93Z4713
international teaching assistants' impact on student attitudes/recall/ethnocentrism/uncertainty reduction; personal cultural examples' use; experimental data; midwestern US; 93Z4395
marital satisfaction-stability relationship, theoretical explanations; empirical data; women, midwestern city; 93Z5981
mentally ill suspects, police decision making; 1980/81 observational data; large US midwestern city; 93Z6241
mentally ill's deinstitutionalization, family caregivers' adaptation; interview data; Ontario/midwestern US; 93Z6223
moral judgment development; education/occupation; 1972-1983 longitudinal questionnaire/interview data; midwestern US residents; 93Z4307
newspapers, young adults' attitudes; autobiographical data; undergraduates, midwestern US university; 93Z5850
person perception, narrative accounts; experiments; university students; 93Z4280
prison security officers' self/other/inmate perceptions; scale data; South Korea/midwestern US; 93Z5665
psychiatric diagnosis/length of hospitalization; gender/ethnicity; discharge data; midwestern city; 93Z6221
sexual attitudes, mothers/college-age daughters; time period/cohort/developmental stage; questionnaire; midwestern US; 93Z5904
undergraduate students' expectancies/persistence relationship; questionnaire/school record data; midwestern US; 93Z5424
unemployment, manager vs blue-collar worker experiences/views; interviews; unemployed clients, self-help agency, US; 93Z4752
women who leave abusive spouses, reasons/needs, support program goals; interviews; midwestern state; 93Z6037
women's/minorities' union participation, white males' attitudes, regional differences; questionnaire data; midwestern/southeastern

union members; 93Z4580
Midwifery
midwifery, European Community member countries, cross-national variations; 93Z5238 Migrant Workers
alienation, Asian/Latino immigrants, garment industry, Los Angeles, California; interview/statistical/other data; 93Z5141
health problems, Yugoslav/other immigrant workers; 93Z6186
health status, Yugoslav women laborers, West Berlin, Germany; interview data; 93Z6170 health, Hispanics, US; farm work; 1982-1984 Hispanic Health & Nutrition Examination Survey; 93Z5268
migrant labor hostels, everyday life conditions, Cape Town, South Africa; survey/interview data; 93Z4418 migrant Mexican farmworkers, Baja California, Mexico/California; literature review; 93Z5760 Migrants
assimilatory processes, Muslim population, Greater Cape Town, South Africa; interview survey; 93Z4360
Colombian vs Dominican immigrant household structure, New York; 1981 survey data; 93Z5780
endogamy/exogamy, ethnic immigrant groups, Guatraché, La Pampa, Argentina; 1910-1939 census data; 93Z5995
female immigrant labor force participation, Israel; interview data; 93Z5783
fertility, Mexican migrants vs Mexican-Americans vs non-Hispanics, US; gender inequality; 1980 census data; 93Z6078
household/workplace gender inequality, immigrant Portuguese working women, London, England; interview data; 93Z6620
marginality, Robert Park's concept reconstructed; illustrative example; German Jewry, Wilhelmine era; 93Z4303
migrant alienation, social systemic causes; research review; 93Z4477
Pentecostalism's spread, rural migrants, Mexico City vs Puebla village, Mexico; field observations; 93Z5557 rural-urban migration decisions, socioeconomic/occupational/other factors, Jordan; interviews; migrants, Irbid; 93Z6201
Migration
asylum crisis, European states' response; 93Z4443
attitudinal differences, Sunbelt migrants vs nonmigrant Northerners; 1977-1980 General Social Surveys; 93Z5777
Belgian immigration rates, pre-WWI US; historical survey; 93Z5788
Colombian vs Dominican immigrant household structure, New York; 1981 survey data; 93Z5780
cross-cultural adjustment, Tibetan refugees, India; 93Z4440
decentered family, overseas migration's effect, Tonga; interview/survey data; 93Z4524
demographic changes, Meso-America, 1950-1985, education/economy/migration impacts; 93Z5765
first Americans' origins, inconsistent evidence; 93Z4459
household famine resilience/migration, rural communities, Sudan; 1989 interviews; migrants; 93Z5294
international migration, demographic trends, immigration policies; article/comment; 93Z5782 labor market, migration's impact, Abidjan, Côte d'Ivoire; 1985/1986 survey data; 93Z5816
migration experiences, Central Americans, Washington, DC; gender, immigration reform; survey/interview data; migrants/employers; 93Z5807
migratory trends, southern Europe/Italy; article/comment; 93Z4612
Refugee Studies Programme, University of Oxford; 93Z4439
refugees/forced migration, geographical research; literature review; 93Z4437
retrospective memory errors, migration history; 1988 interview/population register data; married couples, Wallonie, Belgium; 93Z3946
social mobility, northeastern Italy; migration; survey data; 93Z5177
trade-foreign investment-migration relationship; 1991 seminar; 93Z5795
Migration Patterns
Croatian emigration, mid-19th century-1981; 93Z5800
Cuban vs Dominican immigration patterns, Puerto Rico; secondary data; 93Z5774
migratory trends, southern Europe/Italy; article/comment; 93Z4612 Ukrainian immigrants, Canada, social integration; 93Z5790
Militarism
ill health, underdeveloped nations, militarism's effects; 93Z6145
masculine gender transformation, Quebec; discourse analysis; 93Z6612
military vs peaceful world paradigm, nuclear weapons industry's conversion to civilian industries; 93Z4980
post-Cold-war-era US, strengths/challenges; 93Z4834
US drug problem, militaristic/punitive vs etiological approaches; 93Z5651
vampire capitalism, US; 93Z4832 Militarization
political exclusion-dependency relations correlation; path analysis; secondary cross-national data; 93Z4819
Strategic Defense Initiative, US deployment; 93Z4622
Military Civilian Relations
democracy transition problems, Raul Alfonsin's presidency, Argentina; 93Z5023
military vs peaceful world paradigm, nuclear weapons industry's conversion to civilian industries; 93Z4980
political/social/economic change, Argentina; 93Z5028
spousal/child abuse, US military families stationed abroad, legal/institutional issues; 93Z6362
Strategic Defense Initiative, US deployment; 93Z4622
Military Officers
army officers' wives, socialization; participant observation; 93Z4616
attitudes toward war, diplomats/journalists/Catholic clergy/military officers/congresspersons; 1986-1988 questionnaire data; 93Z4640
career patterns/life courses, Dutch Royal Navy officers; 1895-1991 cohort study; 93Z5237
Military Personnel
collective guilt, wartime actions, German soldier; autobiographical data; 93Z4639
equal opportunity climate, minorities/women, US Navy; 1970-1990 Navy Personnel Research & Development Center research; 93Z4638
equal opportunity, US military, evaluation instrument construction/testing; 93Z4621
military women, US policy debates; 1941-1985 Congressional testimony; 93Z4641
Naval submarine officers, career demands on wives; questionnaire; 93Z4634 personnel reduction, voluntary separation incentive, US military; 93Z4615
political participation/racial orientations, black males; military background; 1979/80 national survey data; 93Z4624
postenlistment outcomes, US Navy recruits; background characteristics; administrative data; male enlistees, 1978-1982; 93Z4620
quality of life perceptions; health behaviors/status; questionnaire/test data; US Navy personnel; 93Z6199
racial discrimination, US military personnel, redress issues, civilian vs military justice systems; court cases; 93Z4642
recruit quality-team performance relationship; experiment; soldiers, advanced training, Fort Gordon, Georgia; 93Z4626
Reserve Officer Training Corp participation, socioeconomic status/life satisfaction impacts; 93Z4635
sexual harassment, US military personnel; racial/ethnic power differential; 1988 Department of Defense survey; 93Z4636
social support, Hispanic military personnel, US; 1990 interviews; Defense Equal Opportunity Management Institute; 93Z4630
spousal/child abuse, US military families stationed abroad, legal/institutional issues; 93Z6362
US Air Force training problems/solution, analytic onion metaphor; hypothetical example; 93Z4632
US military, minorities'/women's access/retention; post-1970 Department of Defense data; 93Z4643
US military, racial/ethnic/gender issues; special journal issue introduction; 93Z4629
Military Regimes
Cambodia's Khmer Rouge dictator Pol Pot, US/world acceptance/support; 93Z4991
Kurdish identity/persecution, Saddam Hussein's Baathist regime, Iraq; 93Z4543
unionized industries, collective bargaining practices, post-Stroessner-era Paraguay; 1989/90 documentary/legislative/statistical data, 93Z5020
Military Service attitudes toward military issues, demographic variations, US; 1982-1984 survey data; 93Z4618
disaster relief, foreign military resources use, nongovernmental organizations; 93Z6532
homosexual exclusion policy, US military, political/legal development; 93Z5931
race-specific conscription, South African Defense Force, coercive methods; interviews; young men; 93Z4619
Mills, Charles Wright
white-collar crime, Millsian-based sociology of elite deviance perspective; 93Z6336

Mind
mentalities study, linguistic research, methodological proposals; 93Z5368
scientific realism, psychological applications; article/comments/response; 93Z4151
Minimum Wage guaranteed minumum income, social rationalization of the economy, constitutional entitlement, Germany; literature review; 93Z4711
Mining Industry
industrial relations, Havelock asbestos mine, Swaziland, 1939-1945; 93Z4561
Navajo sociocultural adaptation/work satisfaction; job/land attitudes conflict; interview data; mining/construction workers; 93Z4475 safety health issues/trends, mining industry, South Africa; 93Z6151
Minneapolis, Minnesota adolescent adaptation; elementary school peer reputation; descriptive matching instrument; urban Minneapolis, Minnesota; 93Z5880
Minnesota
anorexia nervosa; Western cultural values; case studies; Minnesota; 93Z6246
job evaluation, Hay system's gender bias; empirical data; public sector jobs, Minnesota; 93Z4751
Minnesota Heart Health Program, community health promotion delivery system; survey data; North Dakota/Minnesota/South Dakota/Wisconsin; 93Z6194
Minority Groups
Albanians/Gypsies, recognition as Egyptian minority, Kosovo/Macedonia, Yugoslavia, 1990; 93Z4361
attitudes toward military issues, demographic variations, US; 1982-1984 survey data; 93Z4618
drug abuse, minority youth, economically depressed community; 1988/89 interview/observation/discussion data; Columbus, Ohio; 93Z5886
equal opportunity programs, whites' attitudes, survey question methodology; 1986 questionnaire data; 93Z4365 ethnic relationships/associations, postcommunist Slovakia; 1990 questionnaire data; 93Z4399
minority neighborhood regeneration policies, London vs Liverpool, England; 93Z5341
minority/immigrant groups, Finnish attitudes/behaviors; case studies; 93Z4379
nationality/citizenship attainment, ethnic/foreign minorities, GB/Federal Republic of Germany/France; 93Z4420
New Zealand Maori, poverty/family/health issues; literature review, interviews; 93Z5945
status protection, high-status minority groups; experiment; high school students; 93Z4362
structural/curricular change, inner-city minority population school, Midlands, England; observations/interviews/discussions; teachers/students; 93Z5227
US military, minorities'/women's access/retention; post-1970 Department of Defense data; 93Z4643
women's/minorities' union participation, white males' attitudes, regional differences; questionnaire data; midwestern/southeastern union members; 93Z4580
work group sex composition, majority/minority members' experiences; questionnaire; southern California; 93Z4587 Missionaries
evangelical propaganda, turn-of-the-century Methodist missionaries, Solomon Islands; photographs/documentation; 93Z5600
indigenous groups, 16th-century Mexico, Friar Bernardino de Sahagú's research; 93Z5476
institutional emotional norms/role satisfaction, Assembly of God missionary wives; participant observation/interview/other data; 93Z6654
religious movement internationalization; case study; Muslim Jamiyah, Singapore; 93Z5607
Mississippi childhood play experience, white professional women, Mississippi; questionnaire data; 93Z5204 Mobility
crime-neighborhood characteristics link, offender mobility's role; police/municipal statistics; Utrecht, Netherlands; 93Z6324
occupational/spatial mobility, agricultural Hakka community, southeast Asia; genealogical data; 93Z5161 Mobilization
ethnic collective action, South Africa, resource mobilization theory; newspaper accounts; Pretoria-Witwatersrand-Vaal; 93Z4396
gender/race construction, organizations, social identity/group mobilization perspectives; 93Z4671 industrial mobilization-military autonomy relationship, WWII-era US; critique/reply/rejoinder; 93Z5030
Models
abused/neglected elders, service improvement models; 1985-1987 demonstration projects; Illinois; 93Z6312
agricultural modernization, soil conservation practices, Southern Brazil; 1984 census data; 93Z5259
alimony, human capital/needs models; archival data; Alabama; 93Z6029
bases of power model, 30-year evolution; 93Z4338
communication/creativity, intrapersonal communication dialogue model; 93Z4329
contingency tables, nonnested models; count data; 93Z4001
decentralized urban land development, sequential programming model; 93Z5340
democratization/decentralization, Eastern Europe, humanist model; 93Z4816 education's significance/dilemmas, Pacific islands, Western educational model's conflicting goals/characteristics; 93Z5427
emergency vehicle base location evaluation, simulation model; case study; Tucson, Arizona; 93Z6524
Fordist-type production model, associated economic problems, Hungary; 93Z4725 generic fascism model, "spectral-syncretic" conceptual approach; 93Z5032 human resource management, logical positivist model critiqued; 93Z5710
job performance research, unmeasured variables' importance, model development; 93Z5707
law, Niklas Luhmann's autopoietic model critiqued; 93Z4186
leadership styles, gender role-integrative model; 93Z6629
literacy impacts, autonomous/ideological models; survey; Nigerian men; 93Z5365
marriage/divorce, mental illness's impact, G. Becker's model; 1986 survey data; Baltimore, Maryland; 93Z5967
multilevel analysis/theory, model specification; illustrative application; 93Z3999
political parties, normative models; 93Z5089
rating scales, extreme response style measurement; 1975-1987 survey data; US adults; 93Z3952
regression models, large-sample estimation, two-stage least squares approach; 93Z3993
respondent behavior, interviewer effects; social desirability; empirical data; German cities; 93Z3970
sexual risk estimation; human immunodeficiency virus seropositivity disclosure; hypothetical cases; 93Z6181
single indicators, multiwave panel data, stability estimate models; 93Z3994
small informal group structure, transitivity models tested; secondary empirical data; 93Z4237
social choice, modeling approach; experimental data; university students, Israel; 93Z4241
social research, sample selection biases, modeling approaches; 93Z3977 socialism/historical events, interpretive models; 93Z5049
socialist social structure, 20th century, theoretical model; 93Z4820
socialization model/theory, Talcott Parsons's work; 93Z4062
solicitor practices, divorce cases, Scotland, "simulated client" model; 93Z6342
stratification/self-location image, successive social interactions' role, formal theory; 93Z5153
technological innovation, diffusion models; 93Z3992
US mass media, elite power group model shift; 93Z4878
Modern Society
alienation-everyday life, shopping mall; 93Z4481
economic performance, modern India, traditional views, human nature's impact; 93Z4535
Enlightenment interpretations, Michel Foucault vs Georges Sorel; 93Z4099
Giddens, Anthony, internationally renowned British social theorist; 3-book review essay; 93Z4135
loneliness as modern disease, three-dimensional perspective; 93Z4294
mass communication research, information society; 5-book review essay; 93Z4940 modern democracies, Christianity's role; 93Z4097
modern law, mythological elements; 6-chapter reappraisal; 93c01670
modern society, metastructural theory; 93Z4128
modern society, Parsonian treatment; 93Z4113
modern society/technology, evolution, time/space roles; 93Z4479

modern time experience, technology connection, social theory implications; 93Z4121
modern urban development, traditional cultural heritage/international cultural transfer influence, People's Republic of China; 93Z5347
modernity, risk society concept; 8-chapter analysis; 93c01657
police studies, recent trends, GB; 5-book review essay; 93Z5695
postmodernism, contemporary critical theory; 93Z6489
postmodernism, contemporary status; forum; 93Z4515
rationality/value freedom, modern science; 93Z4334
religion-culture relationship, traditional vs modern societies; 93Z5594
religious beliefs, semantic considerations, Switzerland; article/comments; 93Z5576
spheres of reality, sociological theory, Siegfried Kracauer's The Detective Novel; 93Z5416 welfare, moral foundation, modern industrial societies; case study; Hong Kong; 93Z5129

Modernity

aesthetic theories, Fredric Jameson vs Jurgen Habermas; 93Z6428
Baptist movement, Latin America; historical literature, interviews; national leaders; 93Z5533
biographical insecurity, modernization of modernity; 1982-1987 interview data, literature review; female temporary workers, German Democratic Republic; 93Z4352
current political system crisis, modernity context, Mexico; 93Z5034
defetishization of modernity, sociology's role; 93Z4228
early modern Arab sociologists, Durkheimian influences; 93Z4032 Giddens, Anthony, modernity theories; review symposium; 93Z6419
human rights, modern discourse; 93Z5628
industrial/scientific revolution, early modern Europe, Whiggish generalizations critiqued; 93Z6426
law's place, modernity, Michel Foucault's work critiqued; article/comments/rejoinder; 93Z5635
modern culture, historical/humanist elements; 93Z4938 modernist radicalism/foundationalism, social theory; 7-chapter examination; 93c01667
modernity, individual/cities clash, Georg Simmel's work; illustrative example; early 19th-century Berlin, Germany; 93Z4073
modernity, risk society concept; 8-chapter analysis; 93c01657
modernity, Vilfredo Pareto's thought; 93Z4169
modernity; 4-book review essay; 93Z4508
postmodernity, ideological analysis; 93Z6412
Protestantism, Latin America, sociohistorical approach; literature review, statistics; 93Z5524
radicalism/modernity; 2-book review symposium; 93Z5121
religion's revitalization, modern/postmodern ambivalence, postsocialist Eastern Europe; 93Z5573
strangers, modern society, social construction; 93Z4126 symbolic interaction, modernity/postmodernity, Jurgen Habermas's/George Herbert Mead's work; 93Z4327
urban problems, incomplete modernity's role, Mexican example; 93Z5326
US political culture/pragmatism, Federal Republic of Germany, postwar decades; 93Z5010

Modernization

agricultural modernization stages, 1940s-1980s Brazil; census data, statistics; 93Z4223
agricultural modernization, economic effects, Morelia-Querendaro, Mexico; 1946-1981 statistical data; 93Z5303
agriculture modernization, Latin America, international finance's role; illustrative examples; Brazil/Chile/Mexico; 93Z5262
biographical insecurity, modernization of modernity; 1982-1987 interview data, literature review; female temporary workers, German Democratic Republic; 93Z4352
constitutionalism, political reconstruction, non-Western world; 93Z5011
crime rate; economic development/modernization; 1969-1982 INTERPOL data; 93Z6331
crime research, Europe, sociohistorical interdisciplinary approaches; post-1500s historical overview; 93Z6339
cultural change model, critical theory; 93Z4513
cultural modernization, nationalism, stratified theory; 93Z5133
development/modernization, global system context, sociological interpretation; 93Z4792
Eastern European upheavals, sociology's misunderstanding, Talcott Parsons's modernization theory; 93Z4826
Elias, Norbert, civilizing process theory as ideographic modernization theory; 93Z4130 family farms, agricultural modernizations's impact, Croatia; historical sketch; 93Z5310 farming communities, modernization's impact; historical-anthropological analysis; 19th-century Ciénega de Chalapa, Jalisco, Mexico; 93Z5731
global ecological crisis, agroecology solution; 93Z5298
Islamic modernism/secularization; two-part review essay; 93Z5615
military coups/historical trajectory/developing nations, modernization/world-system theories; newspaper content analysis, 1821-1985, 93Z4981
modernity, Vilfredo Pareto's thought; 93Z4169
modernization process, Confucianism's role, East Asia; 93Z5580
modernization program, Chinese electronics industry, joint venture technology transfer vs license transfer approaches; 93Z6671
modernization theories, 1960s/1970s, West Germany/UK/US; literature review; 93Z4788
mountain communities, northern Italy, La Giovane Montagna weekly review, modernization/religious promotion goals; 93Z5558
organizational work practices; plant modernization; 1987 questionnaire data; Canadian refinery employees; 93Z4709
social transformations, People's Republic of China; 93Z4220
socialist system breakdown, capitalist development, modernization theory breakdown; Yugoslavian example; 93Z4804
systems theories/modernization, Ivan Mucha's work critiqued; 93Z4172
technological modernization, union movement impacts, Brazil; interview data; 93Z4545
women's rights, human rights principles' applications; 93Z6605
work/industry modernization, West Germany, 1988-1990, risk society concept; empirical data; 93Z4222

Modes of Production

world system, qualitative transformation on typology; 93Z4809

Money

money, philosophical/sociological/economic aspects, Georg Simmel's conception; 93Z4103
money/exchange/social differentiation, Georg Simmel's vs Max Weber's views; 93Z4199
school pedagogy, Georg Simmel's views; 1915/16 lectures; 93Z5434
Simmel, Georg, 1991 Budapest (Hungary) colloquium report, 93Z4041
Simmel, Georg, philosophy of money, sociology of knowledge perspective; 93Z6418 sociology of Georg Simmel, Max Weber's negative assessment; 93Z4110

Montana

academic performance, American Indian vs white college students; family background perceptions; questionnaire data; 93Z5991

Montreal, Quebec

adolescent friendship/personal adjustment; questionnaire data; French-speaking Montreal (Quebec) teenagers; 93Z5859
cultural rigidities, Canada, 1976 Montreal Olympic Games's impact, 93Z4951
homosexuality disclosure decisions, gay men; interviews; Montreal, Quebec; 93Z4252
human immunodeficiency virus transmission/prevention knowledge, social construction; interview data; heterosexual college students, Montreal, Quebec; 93Z6156
job insecurity, psychological effects; questionnaire/interview data, employees; firms, Montreal Quebec; 93Z4606 parallel ethnic institutions, completeness notion; illustrative examples, ethnic groups/state policy, Montreal, Quebec; 93Z4411

Moral Development

childhood conscience development, toddler antecedents; narrative data, 93Z6051
discourse ethics, Jürgen Habermas's work; 93Z6432
moral behavior development, Indian children; sociocultural factors, questionnaire/scale data; 93Z4277
moral judgment development; education/occupation; 1972-1983 longitudinal questionnaire/interview data; midwestern US residents, 93Z4307

Moral Judgment

moral judgment development; education/occupation; 1972-1983 longitudinal questionnaire/interview data; midwestern US residents. 93Z4307

Morale

teacher supply/retention/morale problems, state educational policy implications, England/Wales; 93Z5215

Morality

discourse ethics, Jürgen Habermas's work; 93Z6432
historical sociology vs philosophy of morals; 93Z4229
libertarian press theory, ethical assessment; 93Z4912

personal identity crisis, postmodernity; 93Z4282
prostitution/brothelkeeping, criminal prohibition, Netherlands, public debate; 93Z6318
religious beliefs/moral values, Mormon vs other Christian congregations, US; questionnaire survey; church members; 93Z5569
social conflict, segmentary tribal vs functionally differentiated societies, Emile Durkheim's sociology of morality; case studies; Papua New Guinea/West Germany; 93Z5171
social erosion, Norway; 93Z5127
social justice, Emile Durkheim's work; 93Z4174 welfare, moral foundation, modern industrial societies; case study; Hong Kong; 93Z5129

Morbidity mortality/morbidity rates, Guantanamo province, Cuba; 1988 census statistics; 93Z6135 mortality/morbidity, Ethiopian refugee camps, Sudan; 1986-1990 UN data; 93Z4442

Mormons
religious beliefs/moral values, Mormon vs other Christian congregations, US; questionnaire survey; church members; 93Z5569

Morocco
intercultural anxiety reduction, US college students, Morocco; intercultural contact; questionnaire data; 93Z4426
social science research problems, Morocco; 93Z6460

Mortality Rates
elderly suicide rates; 1988 mortality statistics; 93Z6306
maternal mortality, poor dependent vs core-hegemonic countries, world-system/dependency theories; World Heath Organization/UN data; 93Z4824
mortality, elderly Japanese women; intergenerational relations; 1670-1870 government population data; 93Z5956
mortality-unemployment relationship, aggregate time-series regression models critiqued; 93Z6183
mortality/morbidity rates, Guantanamo province, Cuba; 1988 census statistics; 93Z6135
mortality/morbidity, Ethiopian refugee camps, Sudan; 1986-1990 UN data; 93Z4442
violent death risk; gender/age; 1950-1986 mortality statistics; Canada; 93Z6563

Moscow, Russia waiting lines, behavioral norms/auto-organizational structure, Moscow, USSR; 1991 participant observation; 93Z4447

Mothers
adult daughters' grief reactions/resolution, mothers' death; former relationship type, questionnaire/interview data; 93Z6104
adult women-mother/mother-in-law relationship, influential factors; questionnaire data; professional/nonprofessional women, university campuses, 93Z6038
black inner-city mothers, perceived acceptance/rejection attitudes toward their sons, academic/other effects; questionnaire data; 93Z5942
breast vs bottle feeding, social support dimensions, new mothers; questionnaire; Pennsylvania; 93Z6076 child support-remarriage relationship, divorced mothers; 1979-1986 Current Population Survey data; 93Z5965
community activism, low-income urban mothers; 93Z4857
gestational substance abuse, court-ordered prenatal intervention, legal issues, 93Z6062 health team experiences, urban settlement area, Istanbul, Turkey; 93Z6358 infant-mother discourse, communicative action resistance/reciprocation, proto-conversational skills; videotaped interactions; 93Z5399 kindergarten children's autonomy/obedience, Japanese vs Israeli mothers' views; interviews; 93Z6053
married/single employed mothers, child care use patterns; 1987 national survey data; 93Z5982
maternal education-child health outcome relationship; prospective data; children, Pelotas, Brazil; 93Z6191
maternal mortality, poor dependent vs core-hegemonic countries, world-system/dependency theories; World Heath Organization/UN data; 93Z4824
motherhood, feminist thought typology; 93Z6060
motherhood, Quebec, historical images/realities; secondary data; 93Z6063
mothers' activist movement Madres de Plaza de Mayo, Argentina; observational/interview data; Buenos Aires; 93Z4844 mothers' pension laws, state-to-federal transformation, program, 1920-1940; Children's Bureau records/other data; 93Z5125
poverty-child development relationship; lead poisoning/stress/maternal depression/drug use; 93Z6541
prenatal care timing, low-income racial-ethnic primiparous women, Los Angeles County, California; sociodemographic/health behaviors/medical risk/psychosocial risk factors; 1988 interview data; 93Z6361
sexual attitudes, mothers/college-age daughters; time period/cohort/developmental stage; questionnaire; midwestern US; 93Z5904
surrogate motherhood, public attitudes; interview data; Roanoke Valley, Virginia; 93Z6088
symbolism/maternal primacy, Luisa Muraro's work; 93Z6609
women's fetility-related behavior, China; son preference, population policy, government control; 1988 survey data; 93Z6073

Motivation
divorce reasons, partner differences; interview data; Oregon/Pennsylvania; 93Z6010
educational persistence, premed students, gender differences; interviews; State University of New York Stony Brook; 93Z5210
higher education expansion, post-WWII Austria; interview data; 93Z6466 job quitting rationale, relative deprivation vs rational choice theory application; 1987 questionnaire data; bank/insurance employees, Zurich, Switzerland; 93Z4745
motivation differences, repeat/first-time/nonvisitors, Lower Rio Grande Valley, Texas; questionnaire data; 93Z4923
peace activists' backgrounds/attitudes, US; 1986 interview data; Beyond War members, Los Angeles, California; 93Z4281
survey response motivation, self-selected vs electronic mail survey samples; 93Z3975
women who leave abusive spouses, reasons/needs, support program goals; interviews; midwestern state; 93Z6037

Mountain Regions
mountain communities, northern Italy, La Giovane Montagna weekly review, modernization/religious promotion goals; 93Z5558 rural family forms/labor organization, ecotype approach; secondary data; Alpine Austria; 93Z4533

Mozambique
UN disaster relief system, inadequacies; illustrative examples; Ethiopia/Mozambique; 93Z6525

Multicultural Education
black studies paradigm/methodology; 93Z4016
race relations/multicultural education, UK; 93Z4428

Multivariate Analysis
multivariate discrete response data, structural relations estimation, grade-of-membership model; 1982/1984 national survey data; health services utilization/expenditures; 93Z3982

Museums
cultural values, museums' role; 4-book review essay; 93Z5412
museum restoration, professional occupation; visual sociological study; 93Z5405 museums, postmodernist elements; illustrative example; Australia; 93Z5410

Music
art works, identity/interpretation/author intentionality, aesthetic classification; illustrative example; musical work; 93Z5411
barbershop singing costs/benefits; interviews; Calgary, Alberta; 93Z4929 culture-ethnicity relationship, identity/power relations/politics; illustrative examples; black music/Greek dance research; 93Z4452
Mexican immigration, US; norteña music lyrics; article/critique; 93Z5409
music, cultural history; 3-book review essay; 93Z5404
musical preference-reckless behavior relationship, adolescents, southern metropolitan area; 1990 survey data; 93Z5848
popular music, 20th century; illustrative examples; critique/introduction; 93Z5400
suicide, country music; 1984/85 statistical data; urban whites; 93Z6239

Musicians
barbershop singing costs/benefits; interviews; Calgary, Alberta; 93Z4929
local reggae bands, Rhode Island; ethnographic study; 93Z5402 public text, power relations/everyday life, Michael Jackson; documentary data; 93Z4937

Muslims
assimilatory processes, Muslim population, Greater Cape Town, South Africa; interview survey; 93Z4360
gender relations/multiple selves construction, Sri Lankan Muslims; narrative/case study data; 93Z4519
India, 1947 Hindu/Muslim partition, Sikhs' exclusion; 93Z5187
Islam status, Central Asian republics, postcommunist USSR; 93Z5521

religious movement internationalization; case study; Muslim Jamiyah, Singapore; 93Z5607
Myrdal, Karl Gunnar
equal opportunity programs, whites' attitudes, survey question methodology; 1986 questionnaire data; 93Z4365
Myths
ancient Greek classical Olympic athlete ideal, contemporary critique; 93Z4952
modern law, mythological elements; 6-chapter reappraisal; 93c01670
Saami reindeer owners, northern Norway, stereotype creation/maintenance; 93Z4244
social science myths, political use; 93Z4046

Naming Practices
surnames, Swedish attitude trends; questionnaire; 93Z6036
Narcotic Drugs
war on drugs policy, US, peace movement's potential impact; 93Z6250 Narratives
biographical histories' use, sociology/social sciences; 93Z4351
childhood conscience development, toddler antecedents; narrative data; 93Z6051
narrative coherence problems; personal teaching experience; 93Z4890
photographs, iconicity/narration/discourse; 93Z4448
self-images, memories' role, single Italians; interview data; 93Z4251
standard time establishment, turn-of-the century US; 93Z4178
National Identity
Armenian church national autonomy/religious freedom pursuit, former USSR; 93Z5563
Dutch national character, anthropologist Ruth Benedict's unpublished ethnographic texts, WWII period; content analysis; 93Z5137
early American national character, Puritans' religious influence, Alexis de Tocqueville's views; 93Z4068
European nation-states, cosmopolitism/localism forces; 93Z5136
evolutionary selection, cultural model; illustrative example; German national identity, 19th century; 93Z4467 Finnish identity shifts; 1987 interview/observational data; 93Z4384
global vs local cultural identity; case study; Texel island, Netherlands; 93Z4542 individualism meanings/local stereotypes, Finnish-American "uniontown," Pacific Northwest; archival/fieldwork data; 93Z4386
Irish nationalism, Karl Marx's/Friedrich Engels's views; 93Z6662
national cultural identity, post-WWII Canada, Americanization impact; 1949 Massey Commission survey; 93Z4483
national iconic culture, Finland; 93Z4506
national identity changes, postcommunist Albania; census data, 1945-1989; 93Z4381
national identity perceptions, university students, US/Hungary/Bulgaria/Greece; survey data; 93Z5134
national identity transformation, postcommunist Germany; 93Z5139 national identity, mentality/personality aspects, international settings; 1987 fieldwork; European University Institute, Florence, Italy; 93Z5138
national identity, public schooling's impact, 19th-century Canada; 93Z5466 national identity, Slovene children, Trieste, Italy; questionnaire; 6th/8th graders; 93Z5885 national identity/democracy formation, Eastern Europe, institutional reconstitution needs; 93Z5103
nationalism's development, France vs Germany; 93Z5132
nationality, European racial purity, social construction, 18th-century colonial North America/20th-century GB; 93Z4502
occupational gender inequality, Yugoslavia; nationality, ethnicity; 1981 census data; 93Z5149
Palestinian social fragmentation, Arab identity impacts; 7-chapter analysis; 93c01656 political identity, West vs East Germans; 1990/91 survey data; 93Z5117 politics/economics/nationalism, postcommunist Eastern European nations; 93Z5047
Soviet empire dissolution, nationalism issues; 11-chapter analysis; 93c01664
Studien über die Deutschen (Studies on the Germans) by Norbert Elias; book review essay; 93Z4215 transnationalization-national autonomy conflict, Third World/Eastern Europe/Asia; 93Z4805 National Security
industrial mobilization-military autonomy relationship, WWII-era US; critique/reply/rejoinder; 93Z5030
Nationalism
Armenian church national autonomy/religious freedom pursuit, former USSR; 93Z5563
Buddhism, historical processes, India, Jawaharlal Nehru's vs B. R. Ambedkar's interpretations; 93Z5561
civil war, Yugoslavia; 93Z5043
cultural modernization, nationalism, stratified theory; 93Z5133
cultural rigidities, Canada, 1976 Montreal Olympic Games's impact; 93Z4951
economic/political/religious/nationalistic conflicts, German community, antebellum US; 93Z5794
feminist sociology, Third World nationalist/feminist politics' influence; 93Z6584
Garveyism, black nationalist movement, founder's wife Amy's role, US; biographical data; 93Z6571
Irish nationalism, Karl Marx's/Friedrich Engels's views; 93Z6662
nationalism's development, France vs Germany; 93Z5132
nationalism/ethnic rivalry, Armenian community, Ottoman Turkey, early-20th century; 93Z5131 nationalism/ethnicity, European populations; 93Z4976 nationalist/ethnic tensions, Europe, unification possibilities; 93Z4969
nationality/citizenship attainment, ethnic/foreign minorities, GB/Federal Republic of Germany/France; 93Z4420
nationalization/social democratization, Czechoslovakia; 93Z5135
Olympic ideology/nationalism, implications for international relations; illustrative example; 1992 Barcelona (Spain) Olympics; 93Z4950
sovereignty referendum/nationalism revival, Quebec, causes/consequences; 93Z4850
Soviet empire dissolution, nationalism issues; 11-chapter analysis; 93c01664
Soviet society, scholarly conceptions, civilizational factors of Russian history; 93Z4465
US Catholic church-capitalism relationship, nationalist ideology; 93Z5531 Nationalization
economic/political instability, post-1975 Madagascar; 93Z4217 nonprofit/voluntary sector's role, postcommunist denationalization process, Hungary; comment; 93Z4685 Nativism
nativism/political heresy, Protestantism's influence, US society/political organizations; 93Z5058 Natural Disasters
drought, public policy, India; 93Z6526
earthquake effect mitigation/prevention, health sector's role; case study; 1988 earthquake, Yunnan Province, People's Republic of China; 93Z6529
ecological security, industrial civilization's threat; 93Z6533
hurricane-related deaths, 1989 hurricane, Puerto Rico/South Carolina; medical examiner/coroner information; 93Z6528 natural/technologically induced disasters, international economic impact, US/USSR examples; 93Z6523
postdisaster stress amelioration, high school students, South Carolina; cognitive social support group; evaluation data; 1989 Hurricane Hugo; 93Z6530
production/consumption/income strategies, rural households, Kenya, drought; 1984-1987 survey data; 93Z5275
Natural Environment
development processes-natural environment development, Africa/Latin America; 93Z4793
human temporality, naturalistic/hierarchical theory; 93Z6400
landscape photography, bourgeois political features, 19th-century US; discourse analysis; Nathan Farb's work; 93Z6681
task orientation notion, preindustrial societies' adoption, historians' misinterpretation; 93Z4597
wilderness, culturally constructed definition, capitalist US society; case study; Adirondack Mountains, New York; 93Z5350 Natural Resources
global warming/population growth, environmental consequences, ameliorative agricultural strategies; 93Z5803
hydrocarbon exploration/discovery, new techniques' effects, modeling framework; illustrative example; exploration, Alberta; 93Z3996
soil structure, sustainability issues, qualitative evaluation framework; 93Z5277
world system, modified model; 93Z3988
Natural Sciences
general/abstract concepts, empirical educational vs scientific research, illustrative examples; 93Z5431
special education theory/research practice, Newtonian mechanistic vs holistic paradigms; article/comments; 93Z6137

Nazism
animal protection vs brutal treatment of human beings, Nazi Germany; published data; 93Z4450
antifascist protest, 1936 Popular Olympic Games, Barcelona, Spain; documentary/other data; 93Z4954
biological determinism; 7-chapter theoretical overview; 93c01677
collective guilt, wartime actions, German soldier; autobiographical data; 93Z4639
German Protestant church's Home Mission, interwar/Nazi eras; book review essay; 93Z5525
Heidegger, Martin, metaphysical views, Nazism affiliation challenged; book review essay; 93Z6422
historical development, Nazi Germany vs South Africa, explanatory problems; 93Z4214
Indian philosophy-Indian icons-Sanskrit philology-National Socialist (Nazi) ideology relationship; 93Z4466
Nazi party support, agrarian Catholic sector, Germany; historical records; Black Forest region; 93Z5053
Nazism/Italian fascism, Peace Pledge Union's support; 1936-1945; 93Z5040
Schweitzer, Hans, German National Socialist poster artist, life/work; archival data, content analysis; posters; 93Z4903
Speier, Hans, life/work; 93Z4017

Needs
alimony, human capital/needs models; archival data; Alabama; 93Z6029 elderly patients, sense of control needs, nursing skills training's effectiveness; observations, evaluation data; nurse-patient dyads, extended care facility; 93Z6313
special needs children, care/education, father's potential role, intervention suggestions; 93Z6028
values-needs link; 93Z4192

Negotiation
dispute resolution, gender's role; research review; 93Z6652
religion-ethnicity connections, collective identity as negotiation process, Canadian historiography; 93Z5799
social interactions, social role/consensus expectations negotiations; conversational analysis; student dyads; 93Z4296

Nehru, Jawaharlal
Buddhism, historical processes, India, Jawaharlal Nehru's vs B. R. Ambedkar's interpretations; 93Z5561

Neighborhood Change
gentrification patterns, Lincoln Park neighborhoods, Chicago, Illinois; census data; 93Z5329 gentrification-black residential dislocation, Washington, DC; census data; 93Z5361

Neighborhoods
neighborliness/socializing/residential satisfaction, German/Spanish immigrants, Toronto, Ontario; questionnaire data; 93Z4387 working class neighborhood, social/physical demise; photographs; Highland Park, Kentucky; 93Z6678

Neighbors
personal relationships research, physical environment's centrality, theory/method implications; 93Z4348

Netherlands
adolescent behavior, Dutch research/theory; 93Z5849
adolescents, post-secondary-school education/work transition, parents' role, longitudinal interview data; Dutch youth; 93Z5864
career patterns/life courses, Dutch Royal Navy officers; 1895-1991 cohort study; 93Z5237 child's educational attainment, Netherlands; father's occupational status; secondary questionnaire data; article/comment/reply; 93Z5961
children's reading behavior, parental/family/social class influence, the Netherlands; 93Z5843
crime-neighborhood characteristics link, offender mobility's role; police/municipal statistics; Utrecht, Netherlands; 93Z6324
criminality, indigenous vs migrant youth, Netherlands; interview data; 93Z6325
differential association theory expansion/test; scale data; adolescents, Netherlands; 93Z6344
disruption risks, marriages with vs without premarital cohabitation, Netherlands vs Sweden; event-history data; 93Z5986
Dutch corporate/political elite, university fraternity's recruitment; questionnaire; former fraternity leaders; 93Z5463
Dutch national character, anthropologist Ruth Benedict's unpublished ethnographic texts, WWII period; content analysis; 93Z5137
ethnic residential segregation, Dutch cities, 1970-1990; empirical data; 93Z4431
family/career combination, women's choice, Netherlands; 93Z5962
first-birth timing, women born 1940 vs 1960, Netherlands; statistical data; 93Z6080 forensic multidisciplinary assessment; case study; Pieter Baan Centre hospital, Utrecht, Netherlands; 93Z6359 global vs local cultural identity; case study; Texel island, Netherlands; 93Z4542 health care inequalities, underlying reasons, Netherlands; questionnaire; hospital directors; 93Z6118 human immunodeficiency virus/acquired immune deficiency syndrome, blinded/unlinked seroprevalence studies, ethical issues; 93Z6115
juvenile crime, alternative sanctions's effects, Netherlands; interviews; arrested vandals, Rotterdam; 93Z6323 juvenile delinquency, social control theory tested; interview data, police records; Venlo/The Hague, Netherlands; 93Z6350
life course planning, gender differences, young adults, Netherlands; questionnaire; 93Z5862
mass/high culture, 1955-1985 audience change, Netherlands; secondary data; 93Z5406
nobility policy, Netherlands; 93Z5142
parent-/fatherhood, gendered juridification, family law transformation, Netherlands; 93Z5650
petty crime rate, junior high school students, Dutch cities; school characteristics, peer networks; interview/survey/observational data; 93Z6343 power/authority legitimation, German military occupation, Netherlands; 93Z4633
prostitution/brothelkeeping, criminal prohibition, Netherlands, public debate; 93Z6318
public opinion questionnaire, Netherlands; illustrative application; 93Z3963
religious beliefs, semantic considerations, Switzerland; article/comments; 93Z5576
school attainment, immigrants' children, Netherlands; social class vs social status; school files; 93Z5436
social class-political party relationship, Netherlands; 1970-1986 survey data; 93Z5173
social resources-occupational attainment relationship, Spain/US/Netherlands; survey data; 93Z5181
social-psychological research, psychologists' contributions, Netherlands; 1989 questionnaire; members, Dutch Association of Social Psychological Research; 93Z4276
sociology of religion, Netherlands; literature review; 93Z5542
terrorism; case examples, Hiroshima, Japan, Rotterdam, Netherlands; 93Z6568
wage differential determination, efficiency wage theory; 1952-1988 data sets; Netherlands; 93Z4197

Network Analysis
position concept, social network analysis, theoretical issues; illustrative examples; 93Z4675
regression models, large-sample estimation, two-stage least squares approach; 93Z3993
social structure, exchange theory vs social network analysis; 93Z4676
urban network structure analysis, graph theoretic models' applicability; 93Z5335

Networks
cognitive processing theory, connectionist modeling's contributions; 93Z6411
computer bulletin board partners, mechanomorphism process; questionnaire data; Salt Lake City, Utah; 93Z4293 parental divorce/family conflict/friendship network relationships, divorced/intact families; questionnaire; undergraduates, state university; 93Z5983

Neurology
chronic solvent abuse, psychiatric/neurological impacts; interview/case record data; Alberta; 93Z6252

Neurosis
social phobia/avoidant personality disorder, diagnosis/treatment issues; literature review; 93Z6230

Nevada homelessness, Las Vegas, Nevada; interviews; homeless persons/community organization administrators; 93Z6546 interstate return migration patterns, regional differences, 1975-1980; 1983 US Census data; 93Z5817

New Deal
political power/parties, social class issues, US New Deal era, Theda Skocpol's state autonomy theory critiqued; article, comments; 93Z5031

New Jersey
child support enforcement duties, New Jersey probation officers, role stress; questionnaire; 93Z5688

crime rate increase, economic correlates, industrialized US cities; 1954-1986 statistical data; 93Z6333
food/eating ideas, cultural values' influence, US; personal journal data; college students, New Jersey/Pennsylvania; 93Z4457
global warming, public understanding; ethnographic interview data; New Jersey; 93Z6507
household drug use reporting, surveys; telephone vs face-to-face interviewing; 1986/87 empirical data; 93Z3945
labor process control, relational rationality theory explanation; empirical data; industrial firms, New Jersey; 93Z4602 substance abuse treatment programs, women clients' treatment needs; life histories; Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York; 93Z6287

New Mexico
battered Navajo women, Shiprock, New Mexico, reservation, public policy issues; case records/other data; 93Z6372

New Middle Class
postmodernism, new middle class cultural definitions; illustrative example; 1980s Federal Republic of Germany; 93Z4935

New Orleans, Louisiana
male street prostitutes, male customers' sexual behavior patterns; interviews; New Orleans, Louisiana; 93Z5920

New York
anti-Semitism/-perestroika/pro-*Pamyat*attitudes, Muscovites/New Yorkers; 1988 poll; 93Z4764
computerized job surveillance, workplaces; interview data; New York firms; 93Z4605 educational persistence, premed students, gender differences; interviews; State University of New York Stony Brook; 93Z5210
human-computer interaction, social nature, rhetorical contract; experiment; college students, New York; 93Z4008
identity salience/community participation/community norm conformity, lesbians, symbolic interactionist perspective; interview/survey data; New York; 93Z5907
manhood conceptualizations, African-American men; empirical data; New York; 93Z6624
medical decision making, incompetent patients, legal standards needed; illustrative examples; New York; 93Z5655
private wishes, gender similarities/differences; questionnaire; pedestrians/college students, New York; 93Z6613
racial bias, child/adolescent public mental health system admissions, NY; 1988 admissions data; 93Z6225
rural homelessness, New York; field research; 93Z6548
senior managerial access/participation, gender influences, US public sector goverment bureaucracies; interview data; New York; 93Z6635
social relationships-health association; questionnaire data; medical patients, New York; 93Z6129
substance abuse treatment programs, women clients' treatment needs; life histories; Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York; 93Z6287
suburban delinquency, class dynamics; self-report survey; youths, New York; 93Z6349
wilderness, culturally constructed definition, capitalist US society; case study; Adirondack Mountains, New York; 93Z5350

New York City, New York
alcoholism/social adjustment, Chinese male immigrants, New York City; case studies; 93Z6254 attitudes toward homeless persons, community board meeting attendees, New York City; questionnaire data; 93Z6545
bank bailouts, racial/class aspects; case study; Connecticut/New York; 93Z4369
Colombian vs Dominican immigrant household structure, New York; 1981 survey data; 93Z5780
community living adaptation, long-term Puerto Rican psychiatric patients, New York City; participant observation; 93Z6240
constant comparative method, field research, New York City subway system; 93Z3961
crime rate increase, economic correlates, industrialized US cities; 1954-1986 statistical data; 93Z6333
criminal victimization fear, subway patrons, New York City; 1988 survey data; 93Z6368
drug activity, street-level research team, New York City; ethnographic data; 93Z6266
elite donors, philanthropic attitudes/practices; interviews; New York City; 93Z4917 health problems/drug abuse, African-American adolescents, Harlem, New York City; longitudinal survey data, 1968-present; 93Z5853
health, Hispanics, US; farm work; 1982-1984 Hispanic Health & Nutrition Examination Survey; 93Z5268
homeless shelter residents, drug abuse/mental illness history; interviews; New York City; 93Z6553
pain/other symptom management, terminally ill cancer patients; personal experience; Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center, New York City; 93Z6093
pediatric acquired immune deficiency syndrome, treatment strategies; case study; New York City; 93Z6193
psychiatric patients, human immunodeficiency virus detection; serological testing, medical records; Manhattan acute care facility, New York City; 93Z6178
self-employment, foreign- vs native-born Greeks, New York City; 1980 US Census data; 93Z4726
social issue beliefs/opinions, reasoned argument process; education/other variables; interviews; residents, New York City; 93Z4332
spiritual/mental health resource use, psychiatrically disordered Dominican migrant women, Manhattan, New York; interview/participant observation data; 93Z6242
vigilantism, Canada vs US; illustrative examples; 93Z5631

New Zealand
academic ability/achievement-family ethnicity relationship, 1977 birth cohort, Christchurch, New Zealand; longitudinal data; 93Z5444
educational reform, social democracy's failure, New Zealand; 93Z5448 ethnic labor force segmentation, New Zealand; 1980s economic transformation; competing theoretical approaches; 93Z4749
health policy, New Zealand, public health concerns/fiscal crisis; 93Z6116
home ownership, financial gains; empirical data; urban New Zealand, 93Z5327
managerial selection, procedural fairness-later work satisfaction relationship; questionnaire data; professional managers, New Zealand; 93Z4747
New Zealand Maori, poverty/family/health issues; literature review, interviews; 93Z5945
parenthood education, teenagers, New Zealand; interview data; 93Z5429 student help-seeking preferences; achievement/ethnicity/gender/classroom organization; scale data; intermediate schools, Auckland, New Zealand; 93Z5509
teachers, educational reform's impact, New Zealand; 93Z5455
tertiary sector growth, human capital theory, New Zealand; 1982 empirical data; secondary school students; 93Z5464 unregulated private security, GB vs US/Belgium/France/New Zealand; 93Z5678
youth employment/education, state policy, New Zealand; 1981/1986 census data; 93Z4774

Newfoundland suicide, youth ages 10-19, Newfoundland/Labrador; 1977-1988 pathologist register data; 93Z6202

News Coverage
athlete portrayals, gender differences, 1984/1988 summer Olympics, Canadian/US newspapers; content analysis; 93Z4953
"cease-fire" concept, mass media uses; case study; network news coverage, 1982 Lebanon war; 93Z4893
crime prevention goods comsumption; crime trends; secondary data; 93Z6340 environmental news, mass media attitudes, People's Republic of China; content analysis; People's Daily coverage, 1987 Daxingan Ling forest fire; 93Z4942
ethnic collective action, South Africa, resource mobilization theory, newspaper accounts; Pretoria-Witwatersrand-Vaal; 93Z4396
hard-line vs dovish views, children's socialization, Jewish families, Israel; television news viewing; observations; 93Z4899
journalistic racism; book-review essay; 93Z4905
mass media credibility determination; viewer's group identification; interview data; 93Z4887
media profile enhancement, sociology/anthropology, American Sociological Association initiatives; 93Z4030
network television coverage, US political affairs, objectivity paradox; content analyses; US Senatorial coverage, 1972-1984; 93Z4898
public opinion-media coverage relationship, 1988 federal elections, Mexico; newspaper editorials, other data; 93Z5038
television coverage, US, presidential election years, 1968-1988; evening news broadcast samples; 93Z4889
US media coverage of Cuba; content analysis; New York Times stories, 1982-1990; 93Z4982
US news media, conservative nature; content analysis; network news programs; 93Z5123

News Media
homosexual "outing," media role, US; 93Z5909
mass media credibility determination; viewer's group identification; interview data; 93Z4887

television coverage, US, presidential election years, 1968-1988; evening news broadcast samples; 93Z4889
Newspapers
animal-human relations, archetypal historical categories; content analysis; tabloid press articles; 93Z4471
athlete portrayals, gender differences, 1984/1988 summer Olympics, Canadian/US newspapers; content analysis; 93Z4953
capitalist development resistance, 19th-century southern Illinois; election returns, newspapers, agricultural census data; 93Z4224
cultural anthropologists' representations, US tabloid press; content analysis; 93Z4493
death, social construction, 1991 Gulf war; content analysis; New York Times stories; 93Z4644
environmental news, mass media attitudes, People's Republic of China; content analysis; People's Daily coverage, 1987 Daxingan Ling forest fire; 93Z4942
newspapers, young adults' attitudes; autobiographical data; undergraduates, midwestern US university; 93Z5850
public opinion-media coverage relationship, 1988 federal elections, Mexico; newspaper editorials, other data; 93Z5038
quality of life, Zagreb, Croatia; 1990/91 questionnaire data, content analysis; 1990/91 letters to the editor, newspapers; 93Z6446
religious themes' humor/modern relevance, comic strips; content analysis; Los Angeles Times, 1979-1987; 93Z5581
Nicaragua
identity politics, community vs ethnic ties, pro-Sandinista Orinocans, Nicaragua; 93Z4400 Nietzsche, Friedrich Wilhelm
self-alienation, G. W. F. Hegel's/Karl Marx's/Friedrich Nietzsche's work; 93Z4498 Nigeria
literacy impacts, autonomous/ideological models; survey; Nigerian men; 93Z5365
nuclear threat perceptions/antinuclear activism, college students; 1984-1986 multinational scale data; 93Z4841
sub-Saharan African development, illustrative example; Nigeria; 93Z4780 Nineteenth Century
aboriginal experience, 19th-century Australia; 3-book review essay; 93Z4359
Asian immigrants, Australia, mid-19th century-present; 93Z5789
atmospheric propulsion railway innovation failure, 19th-century England; 93Z5734
Belgian immigration rates, pre-WWI US; historical survey; 93Z5788
capitalist development resistance, 19th-century southern Illinois; election returns, newspapers, agricultural census data; 93Z4224
cheese making, women's role/status, England vs US, 1800-1930; 93Z5283 childhood socialization experiences, 19th-century Hindu Brahmin women, Maharashtra, India; autobiographies/novel; 93Z6100
economic/political/religious/nationalistic conflicts, German community, antebellum US; 93Z5794
evolutionary selection, cultural model; illustrative example; German national identity, 19th century; 93Z4467
evolutionism, 19th-century social anthropology; literature review; 93Z4539
farming communities, modernization's impact; historical-anthropological analysis; 19th-century Ciénega de Chalapa, Jalisco, Mexico; 93Z5731
foreign workers, labor force participation, 18th-20th century US; article/comment; 93Z4590 household structure/family formation, late 19th-century France; economic changes, protindustrialization; secondary data; rural Loire Département; 93Z5793
illiteracy/deskilling, 19th-century GB; industrialization; historical data, Australian penal colony transportees; 93Z4234
Indian immigrant behavior/adaptation, Australia, 19th century-present; 93Z5219
infant mortality, 19th-century Sheffield, England; social/geographic inequalities; official records; 93Z5818
intraprofessional conflict, general practitioners vs medical elite, Victorian-era GB; 93Z6190
jurist Tobias Barreto, German influences, 19th-century Brazil; 93Z4984 landed wealth inequality, 19th-century Ontario; 1871 manuscript censuses; 93Z5148
landscape photography, bourgeois political features, 19th-century US; discourse analysis; Nathan Farb's work; 93Z6681
low-caste protest movement, 19th-/20th-century Maharashtra, India; 93Z4842
marriage postponement/decline, GB, 1873-1896; depression processes; statistical data; 93Z5778
marriage/economic patterns Saint Barthélemy French West Indies; 1878-1976 parochial/civil records; 93Z4786
migratory patterns, Portuguese, Argentina; 1855-1895 census data; 93Z5315
national identity, public schooling's impact, 19th-century Canada; 93Z5466
nostalgia, medical/psychiatric perspectives, 19th-century France; 93Z4497 peasant-to-class society transformation, Germany, 17th-19th centuries; agrarian system development, cottage linen industry; secondary data; Belm parish; 93Z5296
pellagra death rate changes, turn-of-the-century Italy; demographic/economic/political factors; 93Z6195
poverty, government relief/administration, early 19th century-present; 93Z6540
Protestant ethic, popular humor, capitalist society, late 19th-early 20th centuries; content analysis; 93Z5541
psychiatry development, Victorian era-present, US/GB; 3-book review essay; 93Z6231
public health, early 19th-century GB, competing etiological theories; 93Z6136
public/private sector interaction, Mexico; 18th-/19th-century newspaper articles; 93Z5007
Slovene sociologist Ferdo Kočevar, 19th-century political views; 93Z4049
solidarity, middle-/working-class women, 19th-century; 93Z5193
statistics production, historical evolution, 1840s-1960s, Egypt; 93Z4066
suicide incidence/discourse, 1800-1850, Paris, France; statistics, morgue register; 93Z6105
tobacco movement, Iran, 1890-1892, Shi'i religious discourse's role; 93Z4855
traditional beliefs/religious discrimination, Chinese immigrants, post-1850s US; case examples; 93Z5537
violence, US prisons, historical/structural/cultural contexts; 93Z5693
wheatlands, 1890-1914 mechanization/economic development, Argentina vs Canada; 93Z5728
Nomadic Societies
gender segregation/female inferiority, Bedouin groups, Ramia, Israel vs Negev Highlands; 93Z6627
Nonprofit Organizations
Nonprofit Enterprise in the Arts by Paul J. DiMaggio (Ed); review essay; 93Z5407 nonprofit organizations, US, national trends; published data; 93Z4688
nonprofit sector, government policies, Poland vs Hungary; interviews; 93Z4692
nonprofit-funding environment relations, theory/applications; 93Z4679
nonprofit/voluntary sector's role, postcommunist denationalization process, Hungary; comment; 93Z4685
Nontraditional Occupations
male underrepresentation, female-dominated professions; interviews; urban US; 93Z5246
women's career shifts, sex-typed vs sex-atypical occupations; longitudinal questionnaire/interview data; public high school students, Washington; 1965-1979; 93Z4743
Nonverbal Communication offer sequences, Down's syndrome children-parents; video recording data; 93Z5844 tattoos, communication content changes, 20th-century Hungary; 93Z4299 Norms
Chinese dinner table mien tze (politeness) interaction, "face" notion, rituals/norms; restaurant dinner observation; Taiwan; 93Z5371
institutional emotional norms/role satisfaction, Assembly of God missionary wives; participant observation/interview/other data; 93Z6654
narrative coherence problems; personal teaching experience; 93Z4890
political parties, normative models; 93Z5089
science, cultural norms/standards; 93Z5715
social norms, Jon Elster's methodologically individualistic assumptions; 93Z4306
social science disciplines, normative integration, shared questions; 93Z4183 telephone conversation openings, universals/particulars, North American English vs other cultural norms; 93Z5383 waiting lines, behavioral norms/auto-organizational structure, Moscow, USSR; 1991 participant observation; 93Z4447
North Africa

Maghreb societies, Western anthropological approach critiqued; illustrative example: matrimonial behaviors; 93Z4522
Sahrawi women, liberation struggle participation, western Sahara; 93Z4849

North African Cultural Groups
North African Maghrebin immigrants, French attitudes; 93Z4383

North America
Canadian philosopher George Parkin Grant, career/themes; 93Z4095
elderly suicide, gender differences; literature review; North America/GB; 93Z6292
nationality, European racial purity, social construction, 18th-century colonial North America/20th-century GB; 93Z4502

North American Cultural Groups adolescent coping strategies, family relocation abroad; scale/inventory data; US teenagers living in Belgium; 93Z5897 preschool children, behavior management, cross-cultural teaching model; personal experience; North American teacher of Haitian children; 93Z5423

North Carolina acquired immune deficiency syndrome sufferers caregivers' behavior/coping skills, symbolic-interactionist perspective; ethnographic data; North Carolina; 93Z6131 crime victimization fears, North Carolina; demographic/victimization/perceptual variables; empirical data; 93Z6378
farm production; social organization, occupational community; interview data; North Carolina; 93Z5300 health needs assessment/action, community participation; illustrative example; Community-Oriented Primary Care Project, Madison County, North Carolina; 93Z6390
kin ties/support, rural older adults; 1985/86 interviews; Piedmont region, North Carolina; 93Z5293 local human services provisions, religious congregations, Reagan budget-cut era; questionnaire survey; Greensboro, North Carolina; 93Z5610 prison populations; recidivism, prison capacity; male commitment data; North Carolina; 93Z5681
school prayer/creationism support; political/religious factors; interview data; North Carolina; 93Z5611

North Dakota
dating violence, high school students, abusive/nonabusive households; questionnaire data; North Dakota; 93Z6564
Minnesota Heart Health Program, community health promotion delivery system; survey data; North Dakota/Minnesota/South Dakota/Wisconsin; 93Z6194

Northern Ireland
police studies, ethnographic methodology assessed; 2-book review essay; 93Z5696
political institution establishment, Catholic/Protestant political identities' barrier, Northern Ireland; 93Z4853
racism/sectarianism, Northern Ireland; empirical data; Tottenham/West Belfast; 93Z4389 rural repopulation trends, Northern Ireland; secondary data; 93Z5812
urban containment policy, Belfast, Northern Ireland; empirical data; 93Z6464

Northern States
adolescent suicidal behavior; peer suicide cause perceptions, knowing suicide attempters; questionnaire data; 11th-/12th-grade students/their families, northeastern US; 93Z5860
attitudinal differences, Sunbelt migrants vs nonmigrant Northerners; 1977-1980 General Social Surveys; 93Z5777 general education curriculum study; case studies, survey data; New England universities; 93Z5469 public participation, working-class power, remedial action planning, Great Lakes; 93Z4847

Norway
assisted suicide/euthanasia attitudes, graduate students, Norway; questionnaire data; 93Z6192
casual sex, Norwegian adolescents; 1989 questionnaire data; 93Z5933
class consciousness assessment, acquiescent response bias control method; attitude scale data; US/Canada/Norway/Sweden; 93Z3987
ecophilosophy, individual vs community emphasis, US/Norway; 93Z6516
graffiti, Bergen, Norway; media-based US/UK cultural impact; survey data; 93Z4470
hierarchical linear model, multilevel statistical analysis; illustrative example; labor market status attainment, Norway; 93Z3983
immigrants, Norwegians' attitudes; 93Z4375 increasing social inequality, university education, Norway; 1977-1985 statistics; 93Z5459
local development, cultural/entrepreneurial strategies; empirical data; Risor/Notodden, Norway; 93Z4789
man-made vs natural hazards, risk perceptions; scale data; university students, Norway; 93Z6494
organizational research, establishment-/individual-level data utility, Norway; interviews/questionnaires; 93Z4662
personality/health/job stress, penitentiary/maximum security hospital employees; questionnaire data; Trondheim, Norway; 93Z5198
Saami reindeer owners, northern Norway, stereotype creation/maintenance; 93Z4244
social erosion, Norway; 93Z5127
voluntary organization population change analysis, aggregate/individual-level data roles, Norwegian research project; 93Z4667
welfare receipt, Norwegian single mothers' views, 1971 vs 1989; qualitative interviews; 93Z6360
work involvement, unemployed, Norway; 1983/84 interviews; 93Z4755

Novels
British university fiction, post-WWII; book review essay; 93Z5421
race/cultural novel's usefulness, education, sociology classrooms; empirical data; white college students; 93Z4010
symbolism/maternal primacy, Luisa Muraro's work; 93Z6609

Nuclear Energy
social movement organization members, demographic characteristics, Washington; interview data; 93Z4843

Nuclear Reactors
practicing sports, social risks, illustrative example; sports facility closures, post-Chernobyl USSR; 93Z4946

Nuclear War
nuclear threat perceptions/antinuclear activism, college students; 1984-1986 multinational scale data; 93Z4841

Nuclear Weapons
managing nuclear terror, public's response/civil defense strategies, US, 1945-1954; 93Z4637
nuclear policy, GB, US-UK relations impact; archival/other data; 93Z4985

Nudity stigma management, topless dancers, participant observation/interviews; dancers, waitresses, club managers, bartenders, topless bars; 93Z4319

Nuptiality
marriage postponement/decline, GB, 1873-1896; depression processes, statistical data; 93Z5778

Nurses
burnout, job stress, nurses; palliative/preventive/existential coping strategies; survey data; Canadian hospitals; 93Z5234
elderly patients, sense of control needs, nursing skills training's effectiveness; observations, evaluation data; nurse-patient dyads, extended care facility; 93Z6313
health/illness responses, Mexican-/African-American children; socialization, illustrative examples; 93Z4403
nurse-midwifery, antitrust law control, US; historical case study; 93Z5221 psychiatric-mental health nurses' career/activity/client characteristics, US; mail questionnaire survey; 93Z5199
task relationships, mixed-status partners; social support role perceptions; focus group interview, mail questionnaire; nurse-manager staff dyads; 93Z4321

Nursing Homes
elderly patients, sense of control needs, nursing skills training's effectiveness; observations, evaluation data; nurse-patient dyads, extended care facility; 93Z6313 psychological adjustment, elderly female community/nursing home residents; social support; questionnaire/observational data; 93Z6317 social relationships, nursing home residents; interviews; 93Z6296

Nurturance
parental discipline/affection, step- vs biological fathers, white middle-class college students' perceptions; experimental data; 93Z5952

Nutrition
rapid childhood nutrition surveys, optional cluster size; comparative survey data; Africa; 93Z6519

Obedience
kindergarten children's autonomy/obedience, Japanese vs Israeli mothers' views; interviews; 93Z6053 political obedience, Frankfurt school's social-psychological explanation; 93Z4313

Obesity
female body shape ideals, cross-cultural variations, socioecological perspective; Standard Cross-Cultural Sample data; 93Z6602

obesity, stigma/social reactions, sociological model; 93Z6182
bjectivity
criminal offenders, objective sentencing guidelines, decisionmakers' subjectivity; quasi-experiment, interviews, other data; presentence investigation unit, Nevada; 93Z5664
value, subject-object relationship; 93Z4193
bligation intergenerational justice/obligation; 93Z6505
bscenity
insulting/cursing, social interactions, theoretical explanations; 93Z4897 Soziale Welt, 1989 articles; review essay; 93Z4074
bservation
ethnic monitoring, social scientists' role; 93Z4388
bsolescence production paradigm obsolescence; 93Z6433
ccultism
modern witchcraft/occultism, English village; observational/interview data; Quest members; 93Z4538
postmodern anthropology, ethnographic aspects; 93Z5586
ccupational Achievement income attainment differentials, Asian vs native white males, US; 1960-1980 Census data; 93Z5156
ccupational Aspiration employment goals/opportunities, Federal Republic of Germany; social restructuring; 93Z5851
occupational preference patterns, middle-class high school students, Bangalore, India; scale data; 93Z5846 women's career/family roles, college-age daughters'/parents' expectations; questionnaire; Rhode Island university; 93Z6023
ccupational Choice
occupational preference patterns, middle-class high school students, Bangalore, India; scale data; 93Z5846
school-work transition, Indian secondary students, South Africa; observational/other data; 93Z5881 sociology internships, career choice impacts; scale data; Tennessee Technological University; 93Z4019
ccupational Mobility job mobility/outcomes; opportunity structure/resources/time; 93Z5183
male underrepresentation, female-dominated professions; interviews; urban US; 93Z5246
occupational mobility projections, US, present-2000; 93Z4631
occupational/spatial mobility, agricultural Hakka community, southeast Asia; genealogical data; 93Z5161
postenlistment outcomes, US Navy recruits; background characteristics, administrative data; male enlistees, 1978-1982; 93Z4620
racial/sexual occupational inequality, conceptual/measurement issues; 93Z4703
social mobility patterns, former Olympic athletes; survey data; southern California; 93Z4947 social networks/support; social mobility; 1986/87 survey data; women, Canberra, Australia; 93Z5174
Occupational Roles
intradepartmental tensions/role shifts, US police departments; computer-based information technologies introduction; ethnographic fieldwork/interviews/other data; 93Z5685
self-perceived occupational role, French pharmacists; interview data; 93Z5225
work-role traditionality, men/women, US; literature review; 93Z4753 Occupational Safety and Health food safety attitudes, Kobe, Japan vs Seattle, Washington; household characteristics; 1988 survey data; 93Z4872
human immunodeficiency virus infection impacts, health care staff/informal carers; secondary research data; 93Z6148 occupational health/safety regulation, GB vs Federal Republic of Germany, interview data; 93Z6461
professional societies' policy decisions; interorganizational linkages; interview/archival data; health/safety professionals; 93Z4672
safety health issues/trends, mining industry, South Africa; 93Z6151
workers' health, Latin America, action-oriented participatory research methodology; steel factory, Mexico; 93Z4588
working conditions maquiladora plants, Tijuana/Ciudad Juarez, Mexico; Free Trade Agreement impact; 1991 government survey data; 93Z4704
workplace health monitoring/promotion, alternative approach; 93Z4569 Occupational Segregation
gender integration, academic sociology; 1984 national survey data; 93Z5222
household tasks, husband's share, US; occupational sex segregation, individual-/couple-level resources; 1977-1988 national survey data; 93Z4697
job evaluation, Hay system's gender bias; empirical data; public sector jobs, Minnesota; 93Z4751
occupational gender desegregation, impacts on women, US, 1970s; case studies; 93Z6646
occupational gender segregation, GB; economic recession/work-force restructuring; 1979-1990 census/survey data; 93Z4719
occupational prestige/segregation/earnings; gender/race; 93Z4758
occupational sex segregation variations, industrial countries; 1985 labor statistics; 93Z4708
occupational/industrial sex segregation, developed/developing countries; international statistical data, 1960-1980; 93Z4723
organizational sex segregation/gender stratification; special journal issue; 93Z4722
women's career shifts, sex-typed vs sex-atypical occupations; longitudinal questionnaire/interview data; public high school students, Washington; 1965-1979; 93Z4743
work-related status/earnings, female-/male-dominated occupations; gender; 1986 survey; 1970-1984 midwestern university graduates; 93Z5202
workplace gender integration barriers; special journal issue introduction; 93Z6634
Occupational Status
academic psychologists' job attainment, job rank/institutional prestige; published data; US; 93Z5220
Arab occupational attainment/employment/job satisfaction, Israel; Arab enclave economy; 1988 interview data; 93Z4419
child's educational attainment, Netherlands; father's occupational status; secondary questionnaire data; article/comment/reply; 93Z5961
elite occupational pools/positions, women's representation, US; census/government data; 93Z6656
managerial positions, women's attainment/functioning; organizational mechanisms, family life; empirical data; 93Z4701
midwifery, European Community member countries, cross-national variations; 93Z5238
moral judgment development; education/occupation; 1972-1983 longitudinal questionnaire/interview data; midwestern US residents; 93Z4307
occupational attainment, Vietnam veterans; education; 93Z5145
occupational prestige/segregation/earnings; gender/race; 93Z4758
social resources-occupational attainment relationship, Spain/US/Netherlands; survey data; 93Z5181
stigma management, topless dancers, participant observation/interviews; dancers, waitresses, club managers, bartenders, topless bars; 93Z4319
work-related status/earnings, female-/male-dominated occupations; gender; 1986 survey; 1970-1984 midwestern university graduates; 93Z5202 Occupational Stress
burnout, job stress, nurses; palliative/preventive/existential coping strategies; survey data; Canadian hospitals; 93Z5234
coronary heart disease incidence, municipal workers; work characteristics, stress symptoms, lifestyle; 1981-1985 longitudinal questionnaire data; 93Z6188
dual-role stress/coping, working mothers; interview/questionnaire data; London, England; 93Z6024
externalized occupational stress-job satisfaction relationship, teachers; questionnaire data; New South Wales, Australia; 93Z5229
human immunodeficiency virus infection impacts, health care staff/informal carers; secondary research data; 93Z6148
job insecurity, psychological effects; questionnaire/interview data; employees; firms, Montreal Quebec; 93Z4606
mental/physical health, Australian prison officers; negative affectivity, perceptions of demands/discretion/support; questionnaire data; 93Z5232
occupational burnout, human immunodeficiency virus/acquired immune deficiency syndrome care workers; 93Z6162 occupational fears/stressors, police recruits, Brisbane, Australia; questionnaire data; 93Z5674
occupational stressors, Australian police; scale data; 93Z5667
personality/health/job stress, penitentiary/maximum security hospital employees; questionnaire data; Trondheim, Norway; 93Z5198
professional motivation, college professors, eastern US; interview data; 93Z5228 teacher burnout rate, school culture's influence; inventory/interview data; elementary school teachers/principals; 93Z5212
teacher job satisfaction/stress; age/experience/school size; scale data; physical education teachers, secondary schools, Florida/Georgia; 93Z5216

Occupational Structure
apprenticeship/vocational training, former East/West Germany, postunification changes; 93Z5855 career status attainment, social structural influences, Aage B. Sørensen's model evaluated; personnel data; West German mechanical engineering company; 93Z4702 caste/occupational structure changes, urban peripheral villages; city functional type; interviews; households, India; 93Z5155 labor force distribution, Israel, industrial/occupational structure changes; 1961/1972/1983 census data; 93Z4216 occupation-ritual practice relationships, occupational hierarchical ranking implications, Egypt; empirical data; 93Z5207
occupational change, 1950-1980, US; census data; 93Z5245

Occupations
museum restoration, professional occupation; visual sociological study; 93Z5405
occupation measurement errors, household surveys; company/union records, employee interviews; 93Z3962
occupation-ritual practice relationships, occupational hierarchical ranking implications, Egypt; empirical data; 93Z5207
racial/sexual occupational inequality, conceptual/measurement issues; 93Z4703
rural-urban migration decisions, socioeconomic/occupational/other factors, Jordan; interviews; migrants, Irbid; 93Z6201
"starving artist" lifestyle, midlife consequences; longitudinal questionnaire/other data; male fine artists; 93Z5244

Oceania
civics education-political socialization relationship, Oceania; UNESCO publications; 93Z5016

Offenders
common criminals, human rights, Brazil; newspaper articles, radio broadcasts, political speeches; 93Z5087
crime-neighborhood characteristics link, offender mobility's role; police/municipal statistics; Utrecht, Netherlands; 93Z6324
criminal defendants, public's moral evaluation; interview data; West Germany; 93Z4875
criminal offenders, objective sentencing guidelines, decisionmakers' subjectivity; quasi-experiment, interviews, other data; presentence investigation unit, Nevada; 93Z5664
male batterers, personality variables; Taylor-Johnson Temperament Analysis; convicted offenders; 93Z6557
offenders, community treatment; case study; GB; 93Z5679
pedophilia; homosexuals vs heterosexuals; phallometric test data; 93Z6218 rape case judgments; victim's/assailant's previous alcohol consumption; factorial experiment, vignettes/questionnaire; 93Z6379
sexual knowledge/attitudes, adolescent male sex offenders; group treatment/education program; 93Z5915 wife batterers, court-mandated counseling; interview survey; staff, batterer programs; 93Z6373

Ohio
case-managed community based long-term care, quality assurance model; 1984/1989 records/interview data; case management program, Ohio; 93Z6385
drug abuse, minority youth, economically depressed community; 1988/89 interview/observation/discussion data; Columbus, Ohio; 93Z5886
end-of-life medical treatment decisions, advance directions; literature review, interviews; Ohio; 93Z6098
legal mediation styles, gender differences; 1987 case data; Ohio mediation program; 93Z6388
local state reform, labor-capitalist struggles, Toledo, Ohio, 1927-1949; pluralist/class analysis; 93Z5188 self-destructive behavior, delinquent vs normative adolescents, Ohio; scale data; 93Z5863

Oklahoma
attitudes toward corporal punishment of children, Protestant fundamentalism's influence; 1991 interview data; Oklahoma; 93Z5562 cockfighting, subcultural variations; participant observation/interview/other data; Arkansas/Oklahoma; 93Z4320

Olympic Games
ancient Greek classical Olympic athlete ideal, contemporary critique; 93Z4952
antifascist protest, 1936 Popular Olympic Games, Barcelona, Spain; documentary/other data; 93Z4954
athlete portrayals, gender differences, 1984/1988 summer Olympics, Canadian/US newspapers; content analysis; 93Z4953
cultural rigidities, Canada, 1976 Montreal Olympic Games's impact; 93Z4951
ethos, modern Olympic games; 93Z4955
individual vs team sports, Olympic Games; illustrative examples; 1988/1992 summer games; 93Z4943
Olympic Games as social phenomenon; special journal issue introduction; 93Z4948
Olympic ideology/nationalism, implications for international relations; illustrative example; 1992 Barcelona (Spain) Olympics; 93Z4950
social mobility patterns, former Olympic athletes; survey data; southern California; 93Z4947

Oman labor immigration, Arab nations, post-1973 international oil embargo; 93Z5769

Ontario
alcohol consumption, Ontario; native Indian population; sales/1986 census data; 93Z6245 children's sex-typed play styles-peer group acceptance link, gender/age differences; scale/observational data; 2nd/4th graders, Ontario; 93Z5837
criminal court outcomes, male vs female offenders, Middlesex County, Ontario, 1871-1920; 93Z5663 cultural/linguistic distinctions, English immigrants vs other Canadians; generalization narratives; Ontario; 93Z5376 international environmental policy, US/Canada, Great Lakes ecosystem; 93Z6510
landed wealth inequality, 19th-century Ontario; 1871 manuscript censuses; 93Z5148
lonely persons, self-/others' perceptions, social stigma view; scale data, undergraduates, Lakehead University, Ontario; 93Z4289
mentally ill's deinstitutionalization, family caregivers' adaptation, interview data; Ontario/midwestern US; 93Z6223 psychiatric disorder-alcohol/tobacco/marijuana/hard drug use relationship, adolescents; questionnaire; Ontario; 93Z6247
substance abuse, late adolescence, predictive factors; Ontario; 93Z6248 tire fire, Hagersville, Ontario, community risk interpretation/coping, interviews; 93Z6518

Ontology
truth, postmodern social science, T. R. Young critiqued; 93Z6427

Opiates
substance abuse-posttraumatic stress disorder relationship; 1982/83 interviews; residents, Saint Louis, Missouri; 93Z6213

Opinion Polls
emigration desire, Russian/Lithuanian residents; 1991 poll data, 93Z5767
erroneous exit poll results; methodological problems; 1989 Virginia gubernatorial election; 93Z5110
political polling developments, US; 93Z4870

Opinions
social issue beliefs/opinions, reasoned argument process; education/other variables; interviews; residents, New York City; 93Z4332

Opportunities
women's electoral opportunities, public office, Florida; structural changes; 1972-1990 election data; 93Z5092

Opposite Sex Relations
female integration, Australian pool halls; observational/interview data, university union; 93Z4918
gender relations, Mexican-American men/women; patriarchal constraints; 93Z5787
gender relations/multiple selves construction, Sri Lankan Muslims, narrative/case study data; 93Z4519
gender segregation/female inferiority, Bedouin groups, Ramia, Israel vs Negev Highlands; 93Z6627
matrifocal families, gender/kinship relations, African-American/white working-class families; secondary research; 93Z6003
person perception, narrative accounts; experiments; university students, 93Z4280 physical intimacy/contact, acceptable levels, women's feelings; loss of control; interview data; physically abused German women; 93Z4250 relationship addiction, feminist/psychodynamic perspectives; case example; adult children of alcoholics; 93Z6262
US males, 1990s, gender/workplace/other issues; 93Z6625
work group sex composition, majority/minority members' experiences, questionnaire; southern California; 93Z4587

Oppression
colonial discourse, weapon of white domination/native resistance; illustrative example, Latin American Nahuas; 93Z4528
Islam status, Central Asian republics, postcommunist USSR; 93Z5521
Kurdish identity/persecution, Saddam Hussein's Baathist regime, Iraq; 93Z4543
oppression, Jewish women, Canada; observations; lower-class Jewish woman; 93Z5144

reproductive/genetic engineering/control, women's oppression issues; 93Z6069 women's studies role, women's oppression alleviation/change; critical examination; 93Z6636 Optimism optimism rationale, current US situations, relocated Hungarian sociologist's perspective; 93Z4478
Oral History
higher education expansion, post-WWII Austria; interview data; 93Z6466
oral tradition, written tradition's encroachment, Australian aborigines; article/critiques; 93Z4392 Oregon
adolescent drug use; social influence/cognitive factors; survey; eighth grade students, California/Oregon; 93Z6260
behavior toward strangers, religious affiliation constraints; prisoner's dilemma, Utah/Oregon; 93Z5588
divorce reasons, partner differences; interview data; Oregon/Pennsylvania; 93Z6010 intergroup conflict, Rajneeshee commune members/other adults, 1980s Oregon; interview/participant observation data; 93Z5578
Oregon Medicaid program, restructuring impacts, 1989-1991; 93Z6177
universal health care, rationing's role/justice, US; illustrative example; Oregon initiative; 93Z6120
wife beating, Lane County, Oregon, 1890s; divorce cases; 93Z6007 Organization Theory
organization studies; 4-book review essay; 93Z4656
organizational theory of society; 93Z4446
organizational theory, unproductive assumptions, sociologists; 1991 invited address; 93Z4665
psychiatric facilities, organizational analysis, task analysis model; observations; 93Z4333
Organizational Behavior
disputing, organizations, research/theory; 93Z6479
event-based concept of strategic time, new organizational strategy perspective; 93Z6465
international system, international nongovernmental organizations' impact; 93Z4973 organization dynamics-disputing process relationship; comment; 93Z6482
organizational demography, inertial pressures, management implications, 93Z4655
organizational demography, research/practice issues; 93Z4654
organizational learning, failure/success rate; asset depletion; hypothetical examination; 93Z3997
Organizational Change
corporate career patterns; organizational/social change; interviews; British managers; 93Z5214
firm organization transformations, 1982 French law's effects; observation data; 93Z4650
modern corporations, control sources; 93Z4657
organization dynamics-disputing process relationship; comment; 93Z6482
prison life, litigated reform's impact; 4-book review essay; 93Z5689
small town growth/economic reorganization, concomitant problems, US; case study; Carlisle, Pennsylvania; 93Z5358 Organizational Commitment
employee commitment, conceptual/empirical distinctions; questionnaire; medical personnel, midwestern US; 93Z4736
Organizational Culture
corporate culture concept, general semantic principles' implications; literature review; 93Z4659
enterprise culture; 4-book review essay; 93Z4658
high-technology innovation, perceived organizational support; demographic/other factors; questionnaire survey; electronics firm employees, 93Z5742
social problems, macrolevel perspective; 93Z4212
socialist bureaucracy, organizational/management conditions, Eastern Europe; 93Z4649
Organizational Development
day care centers' founding/failure rate, Toronto, Ontario; population/relational density; 1971-1989 statistical data; 93Z4648
sports club formation/organizational growth, Iceland; case study; 93Z4957
Organizational Dissolution
day care centers' founding/failure rate, Toronto, Ontario; population/relational density; 1971-1989 statistical data; 93Z4648
Organizational Effectiveness
Chilean rural sector, social science research's organizational utility; 93Z5265
international advocacy associations, organizing principles; case studies; 93Z4693
Organizational Power
gender-/racially-based wage inequality, minority power hypothesis; 1972/73 statistical data; work organizations, Detroit, Michigan; 93Z5186
organizational information systems development/implementation, power relations, management consultants vs users; 93Z4651
Organizational Research entrepreneurship, 1990s; 22-chapter conference proceedings; 93c01685
functionalist/critical perspectives, organizational studies; secondary data; 93Z4552
organizational demography, inertial pressures, management implications; 93Z4655
organizational demography, research/practice issues; 93Z4654
organizational research, establishment-/individual-level data utility, Norway; interviews/questionnaires; 93Z4662
sociometric strategies, sociological/organizational/criminological research; 93Z3947
Organizational Structure
African-American caucuses, predominately white organizations, organizational disputing implications; 93Z4358
farm production; social organization, occupational community; interview data; North Carolina; 93Z5300
firm organization transformations, 1982 French law's effects; observation data; 93Z4650
gender-/racially-based wage inequality, minority power hypothesis; 1972/73 statistical data; work organizations, Detroit, Michigan; 93Z5186
health maintenance organizations, performance/organizational structure; 1981/82 national-level data; 93Z6146
international advocacy associations, organizing principles; case studies 93Z4693
new social movement concept, environmental/peace movements' contradictions, GB; secondary/interview data; 93Z4862
organizational demography research, methodological/theoretical issues; research review; 93Z4663
organizational demography, alternative research approaches; empirical literature review; 93Z4647
organizational demography, inertial pressures, management implications; 93Z4655
organizational demography, research/practice issues; 93Z4654
racial/ethnic/gender integration, US federal agencies; demographic/organizational factors; 1982-1988 statistical data; 93Z4382
technology-structure research; literature review; 93Z5741 Organizations (Social)
burnout, social organizational roots, adolescent athletes, US; interview data; 93Z4945
creativity, style/climate assessment approaches; inventory/questionnaire data; US; 93Z4578
disaster relief, foreign military resources use, nongovernmental organizations; 93Z6532
independent sector organizations, status legitimation activities, US; 93Z4681
international technology transfer, sociological analysis; journal issue introduction; 93Z5736
managerial selection, procedural fairness-later work satisfaction relationship; questionnaire data; professional managers, New Zealand; 93Z4747
nativism/political heresy, Protestantism's influence, US society/political organizations; 93Z5058
nongovernmental organizations/voluntary sector, India; 93Z4686 nongovernmental sector, development/experience, People's Republic o China; case studies; 93Z4691
organizational health promotion field, sociological practitioners' potential role; 93Z6393
organizational theory, unproductive assumptions, sociologists; 1991 invited address; 93Z4665
social movement organization members, demographic characteristics, Washington; interview data; 93Z4843
Organized Crime
organized crime, competing paradigms, US research, 1920-present; empirical data; 93Z6337 organized crime, sociological study, US; 1918-1992 works; 93Z4082
Ottawa, Ontario
adolescent murderer characteristics; 1977-1978 chart data; Ottawa, Ontario; 93Z6326 Outpatients

mentally ill, deviance severity/treatment compliance; childhood/adult social bonds; survey; outpatients, community mental health center; 93Z6228
physician outpatient services use-desirable life events relationship; 1986 longitudinal interview data; older men/women, Chicago, Illinois; 93Z6133

Ownership
film colorization, "paper entrepreneurialism" trend, 1980s US; 93Z5408
management buyouts, ownership/control status, Scotland; 1982-1989 interview data; 93Z6670
residential development associations, private government interpretation; survey, case studies, interviews; board presidents/industry professionals/residents, California; 93Z5314

Pacific Ocean
education's significance/dilemmas, Pacific islands, Western educational model's conflicting goals/characteristics; 93Z5427 education, Pacific peoples, (post)colonial circumstances; special journal issue overview; 93Z5489

Pain
pain/other symptom management, terminally ill cancer patients; personal experience; Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center, New York City; 93Z6093

Pakistan
labor migration, Pakistan, 1977-present; article/comment; 93Z4548

Palestine
agricultural settlement types, Jewish immigrants, Palestine, 1882-1914; 93Z5273
Israeli-Palestinian conflict; 93Z4869
Palestinian social fragmentation, Arab identity impacts; 7-chapter analysis; 93c01656

Palestinians
patriarchal relations, West Bank/Gaza Strip, Israel, Western feminist theory's interpretation; 93Z6579 religious/political attitudes, Palestinian students, Najah University, West Bank; questionnaire data; 93Z5523

Panel Data
single indicators, multiwave panel data, stability estimate models; 93Z3994

Papua New Guinea
dispute resolution system, village courts, Papua New Guinea; 93Z5656
fertility change, Gainj population, Papua New Guinea; development; fieldwork; 93Z4527
social conflict, segmentary tribal vs functionally differentiated societies, Emile Durkheim's sociology of morality; case studies; Papua New Guinea/West Germany; 93Z5171

Paradigms
alienation theory, G. Burrell's/G. Morgan's classification paradigms critiqued; literature review; 93Z4153
Arab sociology, reforms & paradigm; case study; Egyptian social sciences; 93Z4086 creativity, ecosocial problem generation, figurative originality-heuristic competence relationship; inventory/other data; technical college students, Czechoslovakia; 93Z4547
environmental regulation, control, conflicts, "disputing" paradigm; 93Z6514
Frame Analysis by Erving Goffman, theoretical perspectives; 93Z4326
Marxian paradigm of production, Jürgen Habermas vs György Márkus; 93Z4152
military vs peaceful world paradigm, nuclear weapons industry's conversion to civilian industries; 93Z4980
paradigms of belief/theory/metatheory; reply; 93Z3941
production paradigm obsolescence; 93Z6433
scientific disciplines, paradigm uncertainty/earnings inequality/gender composition; 1972-1982 longitudinal data; 93Z5723
special education theory/research practice, Newtonian mechanistic vs holistic paradigms; article/comments; 93Z6137
urban sociology/ecology, new paradigms; 93Z5332

Paraguay
Roman Catholic church's role, Stroessner-era Paraguay; documentary/interview/other data; 93Z5535
unionized industries, collective bargaining practices, post-Stroessner-era Paraguay; 1989/90 documentary/legislative/statistical data; 93Z5020

Parameters (Statistics)
linear variable interrelationships, social sciences, estimation approaches; Monte Carlo simulations; 93Z3985

Paraprofessional Workers
plea bargaining, rational choice theory; interview data; judges/lawyers/other legal professionals, Germany; 93Z5639

Parent Child Relations
adolescent behavior, Dutch research/theory; 93Z5849
adolescent delinquency; parental discipline style/adolescent locus of control; questionnaire; Canberra, Australia; 93Z6355 adolescent development; parental alcohol use; questionnaire/interview data; 93Z5856 adolescent/parent emotional relationship; 1986 questionnaire data; West Berlin, Germany; 93Z5882 adolescents' feelings of being caught between divorced parents, interviews; northern California; 93Z5854 adolescents, parent/peer communication; 1989-1991 literature review; 93Z5893
adult daughters' grief reactions/resolution, mothers' death; former relationship type; questionnaire/interview data; 93Z6104
adult women-mother/mother-in-law relationship, influential factors; questionnaire data; professional/nonprofessional women, university campuses; 93Z6038
adult-toddler interactions, gender differences; observational data; families, recreation areas, Sacramento, California; 93Z6000
ambivalence, sociological significance, adoption information example; 93Z6042
attachment theory/research, historical overview; 93Z4267
chemical-dependent adolescents, parental acceptance/rejection/shame, self-report questionnaire; father-adolescent dyads; 93Z5883
child day care patterns, Linz, Austria; 1990/91 questionnaire data; 93Z6356 child-parental television viewing patterns; diary data; Topeka, Kansas, 93Z4909
childhood play experience, white professional women, Mississippi; questionnaire data; 93Z5204 children age 5, maternal control needs acceptance-social adaptation relationship; videotaped home interactions; 93Z4248
children's reading behavior, parental/family/social class influence, the Netherlands; 93Z5843 children-grandparent relations; ethnicity; questionnaire data; Oriental-Ashkenazi children, Israel; 93Z6030 conduct disorder; parent-child interaction; research review; 93Z5970
delinquency/alcohol use/depression, adolescent males vs females; marital discord/marital stability/harsh discipline/maternal deviance; national longitudinal survey data; 93Z6610
early life changes, family structure measure's development; national survey data; 93Z5998 family conflict, adolescents, intact vs mother-custody divorced families; questionnaire/scale/other data; 93Z5966 family system relations; infant locomotor experience; interviews; parents; 93Z5947 family type, behaviorally disordered vs adjusted children; card sort/teacher rating data; day care center, Tel Aviv, Israel; 93Z5841
high school graduation, adolescents; parental marital status; 1979-1985 national survey data; 93Z6020
household labor, husbands' contributions, first-/remarried families; 1987/88 national survey; 93Z5979
infant-mother discourse, communicative action resistance/reciprocation, proto-conversational skills; videotaped interactions; 93Z5399
intrafamilial support, parents-adult children, life course changes, 1987/88 national survey; 93Z5955
offer sequences, Down's syndrome children-parents; video recording data; 93Z5844
parent idealization, authoritarians/rightists; interview data, literature review; 93Z5873
parent-/fatherhood, gendered juridification, family law transformation, Netherlands; 93Z5650
parent-adolescent communication problems, adolescents' perceptions; questionnaire data; southwestern US undergraduates; 93Z5896
parental role perceptions, noncustodial single vs married fathers' perceptions; scale data; 93Z5957
parental role, preschool child's education; questionnaire/interview data; Adelaide, South Australia; 93Z5497
parental support of adult children; parental divorce/remarriage, 1987/88 national survey data; 93Z6044
parenting perceptions, stepfathers with coresident stepchildren; 1987/88 national survey data; 93Z5997
self-conception development, US vs People's Republic of China; cultural/social/political/psychological factors; 93Z4286
sibling/parent relationships, preadolescents' perceptions, rural areas/small towns; interviews, inventory data; parents/siblings; 93Z6032

social networks/attachments, adulthood; parental care in childhood; literature review; 93Z6054 socialization of emotions, parental influences; 93Z6049 special needs children, care/education, father's potential role, intervention suggestions; 93Z6028
Parental Attitudes
chemical-dependent adolescents, parental acceptance/rejection/shame; self-report questionnaire; father-adolescent dyads; 93Z5883
fathering style choices, college-age men's intentions; empirical data; 93Z6006
kindergarten children's autonomy/obedience, Japanese vs Israeli mothers' views; interviews; 93Z6053
marital adjustment-boys' behavior problem relationship, childrearing disagreements indicator; index data; mothers, Suffolk County, New York; 93Z6050
parental participation, schools, process/perspectives/strategies; ethnographic research; 93Z6041
parental role, preschool child's education; questionnaire/interview data; Adelaide, South Australia; 93Z5497
postdivorce adjustment, black vs white parents; 1987/88 national survey data; 93Z5964 school adjustment, Soviet immigrant vs US-born Jewish children; parental attitudes toward social change; questionnaire data; San Francisco, California; 93Z5828
social networks/attachments, adulthood; parental care in childhood; literature review; 93Z6054
Parenthood
adolescent female sexual activity, schooling consequences, ethnic differences; 1987/88 national survey data; 93Z5866
female job performance evaluations; marital/parental status; scale data; undergraduates, midwestern US; 93Z4713
male-female inequality, home/work; marriage, parenthood; 1981 survey; British young adults; 93Z4756
parent-/fatherhood, gendered juridification, family law transformation, Netherlands; 93Z5650
parental participation, schools, process/perspectives/strategies; ethnographic research; 93Z6041
parenthood adaptation, stress-reduction strategies; questionnaire data; prenatal parenting class participants, Canberra, Australia; 93Z6034 parenthood education, teenagers, New Zealand; interview data; 93Z5429 Parents
childrearing, biological parents' responsibility, theoretical issues; literature review; 93Z4201 Croatian children, grandparents as parent substitutes; interview data; Medimurje; 93Z5858 family type, behaviorally disordered vs adjusted children; card sort/teacher rating data; day care center, Tel Aviv, Israel; 93Z5841
job-family compatibility, parents; job characteristics; 1977 national survey data; 93Z4718
parental support of adult children; parental divorce/remarriage; 1987/88 national survey data; 93Z6044
preterm infants, parents'/grandparents' experiences; interview/questionnaire data; 93Z6011
women's career/family roles, college-age daughters'/parents' expectations; questionnaire; Rhode Island university; 93Z6023
Pareto, Vilfredo
modernity, Vilfredo Pareto's thought; 93Z4169
Paris, France
Simmel, Georg, 1991 Paris, France, colloquium report; 93Z4109
suicide incidence/discourse, 1800-1850, Paris, France; statistics, morgue register; 93Z6105
Park, Robert Ezra
marginality, Robert Park's concept reconstructed; illustrative example; German Jewry, Wilhelmine era; 93Z4303 race/ethnicity research, Robert E. Park's contributions; 93Z4105 Parks
cultural boundaries for US product, Disneyland/DisneyWorld/Tokyo Disneyland/EuroDisney compared; 93Z4511
Parsons, Talcott
Eastern European upheavals, sociology's misunderstanding, Talcott Parsons's modernization theory; 93Z4826
modern society, Parsonian treatment; 93Z4113
Parsons, Talcott, early influences, institutional economists; 93Z6398
Parsons, Talcott, Georg Simmel's influence; unpublished 1936 manuscript; 93Z5568
socialization model/theory, Talcott Parsons's work; 93Z4062
Part Time Employment
contingent (part-time/subcontracted) employment, US, policy issues; 93Z4564 job security, part-time/temporary workers, Nordic countries; empirical data; 93Z4737 Participant Observation
fieldwork note-taking, research benefits; 93Z3969 Participation
marital well-being; longitudinal study participation; 1986-1989 longitudinal interview data; newlywed couples, Wayne County, Michigan; 93Z6040
official census problems, voluntary vs mandatory participation, Germany; 93Z5808
parental role, preschool child's education; questionnaire/interview data; Adelaide, South Australia; 93Z5497
quality of life-activity/disengagement relationship, elderly; interview data; Arkansas; 93Z6302
Reserve Officer Training Corp participation, socioeconomic status/life satisfaction impacts; 93Z4635
student participation, Canadian Sociology & Anthropology Association; questionnaires; graduate students; 93Z4042
tenant participation, public housing, power/influence issues; 1981-1989 interviews; 93Z4915
women's participation/representation, Flemish universities, Belgium; questionnaire data; 93Z5512
Partisanship
political partisanship individual's/wife's characteristics; 1984/85 Australian National Social Science Survey; 93Z5052
Pastoral Societies
household wealth differences, 1984 drought's effects, Ariaal pastoralists, Kenya; 1976-1985 livestock counts/informant statements; 93Z5261
national/international development efforts, pastoralist sedentarization, postdrought Marsabit District, Kenya; 93Z6501 pastoralism benefits/drawbacks, development implications, Africa; 93Z6504 Patents
patent protection, judicial argumentation, Austria/West Germany/Switzerland; content analysis; 93Z5623
Paternalism
labor control/paternalism, unionized/nonunionized companies, rural South; interviews; workers; 93Z4599 paternalism-violence relationship, South American maize farms, early 20th century; historical analysis; 93Z5304
Patients
elderly patients, sense of control needs, nursing skills training's effectiveness; observations, evaluation data; nurse-patient dyads, extended care facility; 93Z6313
pain/other symptom management, terminally ill cancer patients; personal experience; Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center, New York City; 93Z6093
patients' behavior/progress; religious beliefs/values; case studies; 93Z5565
self/identity transformation, colectomy/ileostomy patients; interview data; 93Z6144
senile dementia, social construction; case studies; 93Z6299
social relationships-health association; questionnaire data; medical patients, New York; 93Z6129
Patriarchy
gender relations, Mexican-American men/women; patriarchal constraints; 93Z5787 Patients Rights
human tissue, property rights, Moore v. Regents of the University of California; case study; 93Z5700 medical decision-making/right-to-die issues, post-Cruzan decision; 93Z4253
Patriarchy
patriarchal relations, West Bank/Gaza Strip, Israel, Western feminist theory's interpretation; 93Z6579 Patronage
patronage, developed societies; response; 93Z4669 Payments paid health care, cultural acceptability, sub-Saharan Africa; 93Z4509 Peace
collective grief/rage, gender/peace politics, Middle East conflict context, Israel; 1990 fieldwork data; 93Z6618
peace activists' backgrounds/attitudes, US; 1986 interview data; Beyond War members, Los Angeles, California; 93Z4281
peace/justice relationship/definitions, interactionist-sociological perspective; 93Z4971
Peace Movements
new social movement concept, environmental/peace movements' contradictions, GB; secondary/interview data; 93Z4862

war attitudes, young Germans, Persian Gulf War context; 93Z5852

Peaceful Coexistence

military vs peaceful world paradigm, nuclear weapons industry's conversion to civilian industries; 93Z4980

Peasant Societies

agrarian reform, post-WWII Hungary; 93Z5269

Peasants

European peasant family/household structures; economic/institutional changes; literature review; 93Z6017

global ecological crisis, agroecology solution; 93Z5298

ironwork-peasant relationships, colonial Tanzania; eyewitness/other data; 93Z6442

lax treatment of time, Kelantanese peasants, heightened cultural awareness/identity; 93Z4495

peasantry, global capitalist economy; 93Z4968

peasants/civil servants/industrial workers, Java, roles/functions/growth; literature review; 93Z5164

rural family forms/labor organization, ecotype approach; secondary data; Alpine Austria; 93Z4533 underdevelopment/resistance politics, gender's role, Philippines; 1989 fieldwork; organized peasant women; 93Z6632

Pediatrics

pediatric acquired immune deficiency syndrome, treatment strategies; case study; New York City; 93Z6193

Peer Groups

adolescent adaptation; elementary school peer reputation; descriptive matching instrument; urban Minneapolis, Minnesota; 93Z5880

children's sex-typed play styles-peer group acceptance link, gender/age differences; scale/observational data; 2nd/4th graders, Ontario; 93Z5837

Peer Influence

adolescent adaptation; elementary school peer reputation; descriptive matching instrument; urban Minneapolis, Minnesota; 93Z5880

adolescent drug use; social influence/cognitive factors; survey; eighth grade students, California/Oregon; 93Z6260

adolescents, parent/peer communication; 1989-1991 literature review; 93Z5893

conformity, response alteration, perceived social disagreement; experiment data; undergraduate students; 93Z4235

industrial workplace, productivity, peer control; 1989-1991 fieldnotes; 93Z4677

Peer Relations

adolescent friendship/personal adjustment; questionnaire data; French-speaking Montreal (Quebec) teenagers; 93Z5859

adolescent suicidal behavior; peer suicide cause perceptions, knowing suicide attempters; questionnaire data; 11th-/12th-grade students/their families, northeastern US; 93Z5860

Peers

high achievers, other students' attitudes; questionnaire data; high school students, South Australia; 93Z4263

Penal Reform

common criminals, human rights, Brazil; newspaper articles, radio broadcasts, political speeches; 93Z5087

correctional systems, policy impact analysis/projection models; 93Z5660

penal law, Max Weber's rationalization theory critiqued; 93Z5654

penal reform, public attitudes, definitional problems, GB; 93Z4876

penal system, postrevolutionary China, Michel Foucault's disciplinary power definition; 93Z4461

prison life, litigated reform's impact; 4-book review essay; 93Z5689

prison populations, Washington, 1981 Sentencing Reform Act, forecasting challenges; 93Z5686

Pennsylvania

criminal justice sentencing outcomes, men vs women, Pennsylvania; 1977 court records; 93Z5666

divorce reasons, partner differences; interview data; Oregon/Pennsylvania; 93Z6010 family caregiving, elderly members, Swarthmore, Pennsylvania, vs rural Botswana, Africa; interview data; 93Z6295

food/eating ideas, cultural values' influence, US; personal journal data; college students, New Jersey/Pennsylvania; 93Z4457

small town growth/economic reorganization, concomitant problems, US; case study; Carlisle, Pennsylvania; 93Z5358

substance abuse treatment programs, women clients' treatment needs; life histories; Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York; 93Z6287

Penology

model prison, Jeremy Bentham's panopticon notion, electronic surveillance implications; 93Z5683

offenders, community treatment; case study; GB; 93Z5679

Pensions

government social policy, male vs female treatment; illustrative example, West German social pension legislation; 93Z5935

mothers' pension laws, state-to-federal transformation, program, 1920-1940; Children's Bureau records/other data; 93Z5125

Pentecostalists

mass media use, Pentecostalist churches, Brazil; 93Z5589

Pentecostalism's spread, rural migrants, Mexico City vs Puebla village, Mexico; field observations; 93Z5557

Pentecostalist churches' growth, Brazil, technoscientific/bourgeois ideology's role; 93Z5534

Toba Pentecostalism, Argentina, theoretical models; 93Z5612

Peoples Republic of China

Chinese fishing families, traditional behavior models, family therapy implications; fieldwork data; 93Z5937

computer anxiety, cross-cultural differences; scale data; undergraduates, Los Angeles (California)/Hunan (People's Republic of China); 93Z4004

demographic transition, China; socioeconomic factors, government policy; 1985 survey data; 93Z6084

earthquake effect mitigation/prevention, health sector's role; case study; 1988 earthquake, Yunnan Province, People's Republic of China; 93Z6529

environmental news, mass media attitudes, People's Republic of China; content analysis; People's Daily coverage, 1987 Daxingan Ling forest fire; 93Z4942

Korean minority's cultural autonomy/ethnic identity, People's Republic of China vs Japan; 93Z4391

labor allocation/regulation, 1950s-1970s; People's Republic of China, 93Z4720

lesbianism, China, historical overview/present account; observational/interview/other data; 93Z6647

modern urban development, traditional cultural heritage/international cultural transfer influence, People's Republic of China; 93Z5347

penal system, postrevolutionary China, Michel Foucault's disciplinary power definition; 93Z4461

property rights/stratification, socialist redistributive economies; 1986 survey data; Tianjin, Peoples Republic of China; 93Z4833

religion, People's Republic of China; 20-book review essay; 93Z5522

self-conception development, US vs People's Republic of China; cultural/social/political/psychological factors; 93Z4286

social transformations, People's Republic of China; 93Z4220

socialist state's development, world-systems perspective; illustrative example; China; 93Z4831

urban public housing reform, People's Republic of China; literature review, 1989 interview/other data; Tianjin; 93Z5321

Perceptions

acquired immune deficiency syndrome, knowledge/risk perception, US; 1988/89 survey data; 93Z6187

computer bulletin board partners, mechanomorphism process; questionnaire data; Salt Lake City, Utah; 93Z4293

crime victimization fears, North Carolina; demographic/victimization/perceptual variables; empirical data; 93Z6378

family type, behaviorally disordered vs adjusted children; card sort/teacher rating data; day care center, Tel Aviv, Israel; 93Z5841

injustice, situational variables, behavioral responses; scale data, undergraduates, US; 93Z4257

lonely persons, self-/others' perceptions, social stigma view; scale data, undergraduates, Lakehead University, Ontario; 93Z4289

nuclear threat perceptions/antinuclear activism, college students, 1984-1986 multinational scale data; 93Z4841

parent-adolescent communication problems, adolescents' perceptions; questionnaire data; southwestern US undergraduates; 93Z5896

parental role perceptions, noncustodial single vs married fathers' perceptions; scale data; 93Z5957

parenting perceptions, stepfathers with coresident stepchildren; 1987/88 national survey data; 93Z5997

physical activities, gender appropriateness, children's perceptions; index data; elementary school children, Utah; 93Z6643

principal political system actors, university students' perceptions, Mexico; survey data; 93Z5024

quality of life perceptions; health behaviors/status; questionnaire/test data; US Navy personnel; 93Z6199

reading/viewing, temporal dimension, texts/images/films; 93Z5378

Severity of Violence against Women Scale, 2 versions compared; empirical data; Dallas/Fort Worth, Texas; 93Z6562

sibling/parent relationships, preadolescents' perceptions, rural areas/small towns; interviews, inventory data; parents/siblings; 93Z6032

suicidal adolescents, family environment perceptions; scale data; Michigan; 93Z6102

task relationships, mixed-status partners; social support role perceptions; focus group interview, mail questionnaire; nurse-manager staff dyads; 93Z4321

Performance

health maintenance organizations, performance/organizational structure; 1981/82 national-level data; 93Z6146

social relations-economic market performance relationship; 93Z4781

Personality

personality research, global traits approved; 93Z4265

Personality Measures

personality research, global traits approved; 93Z4265

Personality Traits

baseball card collectors, investment vs leisure activity, personality differences; Myers-Briggs Personality Inventory; Houston, Texas; 93Z4921

career militancy, Irish Republic army; personal contact; 93Z6566

demographic/personality/job-related characteristics, female business owners, traditionally male-dominated industries; empirical data; 93Z6651

human-computer interaction; personality factors; literature review; 93Z4285

male batterers, personality variables; Taylor-Johnson Temperament Analysis; convicted offenders; 93Z6557

national identity, mentality/personality aspects, international settings; 1987 fieldwork; European University Institute, Florence, Italy; 93Z5138

personality disorder definitions, Diagnostic & Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders III, underrating social/relationship nature; 93Z6665

personality research, global traits approved; 93Z4265

personality/health/job stress, penitentiary/maximum security hospital employees; questionnaire data; Trondheim, Norway; 93Z5198

self-directed personality, Japan; work/social stratification variables; empirical data; males; 93Z5163

youth socialization/personality development; employment; secondary data; 93Z5874

Personnel Management

wrongful discharge, employers' legal understanding, personnel/legal professions' impact; literature review, published data; wrongful discharge cases; 93Z5626

Personnel Policy

employee search activities, inequality perpetuation, personnel workers; questionnaire; banking institution; social impact theory perspective; 93Z4591

personnel reduction, voluntary separation incentive, US military; 93Z4615

Persuasion

home marketing parties, persuasion/influence process; interviews; organizers, guests; 93Z4337

interpersonal influence strategies, Winston Churchill-Franklin Roosevelt bases-for-destroyers exchange, 1940; 93Z4324

Peru

agricultural practices, single women, Peruvian indigenous people; interview data; Amuesha (Yanesha) women; 93Z4536

legal vs illegal political protest determinants, West Germany/Israel/Peru; cross-cultural differences; 1987/88 national surveys; 93Z4858

urban self-management, goals/impacts; illustrative examples; Chile/Peru/Mexico; 93Z5349

Petroleum Industry

hydrocarbon exploration/discovery, new techniques' effects, modeling framework; illustrative example; exploration, Alberta; 93Z3996

organizational work practices; plant modernization; 1987 questionnaire data; Canadian refinery employees; 93Z4709

Pets

persons alone vs persons with dogs, students' perceptions; experiments; Cleveland State University, Ohio; 93Z4496

pet acquisition decisions, influencing factors, French households; questionnaire data; 93Z4526

Pharmacists

doctors/dentists/pharmacists, public perceptions; questionnaire; southern metropolitan area; 93Z5243

pharmacy education philosophy, 21st century; 93Z5478

self-perceived occupational role, French pharmacists; interview data; 93Z5225

Pharmacy

pharmacy education philosophy, 21st century; 93Z5478

women workers, transnational/small/large local pharmaceutical firms, India; interviews; 93Z5206

Phenomena

phenomena construction, abstract theory utilization; illustrative example; paleomagnetism; 93Z6406

Phenomenology

communication/creativity, intrapersonal communication dialogue model; 93Z4329

ethnographic films/cultural anthropological theory, phenomenological interpretations/analyses; 93Z6675

time, modern memory theories, phenomenological perspective; 93Z4124

Philadelphia, Pennsylvania

crime rate increase, economic correlates, industrialized US cities; 1954-1986 statistical data; 93Z6333 internal story structure, retellings/pretellings/hypothetical tellings, local context/social projects role; taped play interactions; children ages 4-14, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania; 93Z5375

Philanthropy

elite donors, philanthropic attitudes/practices; interviews; New York City; 93Z4917

Philippines

equilibrium theory, socioeconomic-political development relationship; case examples; Chile/Philippines/Spain/Portugal/Saudi Arabia; 93Z5075

higher education-labor force needs mismatch, Philippines; 93Z5454

talk/language as cultural artifacts, Ilokano (Philippines); verbal interaction data; 93Z5395

underdevelopment/resistance politics, gender's role, Philippines; 1989 fieldwork; organized peasant women; 93Z6632

Philosophers

aesthetics/knowledge, José Vasconcelos's philosophy; 93Z6409

Canadian philosopher George Parkin Grant, career/themes; 93Z4095

postmodernism, Jürgen Habermas's vs Jean-François Lyotard's concepts; 93Z4092

Philosophical Doctrines

contemporary political philosophy, ethical foundations, Jürgen Habermas vs Mohandas Gandhi; 93Z4079

Heidegger, Martin, metaphysical views, Nazism affiliation challenged; book review essay; 93Z6422

philosophical similarities/differences, Georg Simmel/Max Weber; 93Z4059

temporality, philosophical approaches; special issue introduction; 93Z4156

Philosophy

ecophilosophy, individual vs community emphasis, US/Norway; 93Z6516

historians/philosophers of science, philosophical technology research strategies; 93Z5706

messianic angel paradigm, philosophy of history, Walter Benjamin's work; 93Z5552

philosophy-politics connection, Cuba; 93Z6403

school pedagogy, Georg Simmel's views; 1915/16 lectures; 93Z5434

Simmel, Georg, Italian-German conference proceedings; 93Z4182

sociology/philosophy, discipline specificity, communication process critiqued; literature review; 93Z4070.

Phobias

social phobia/avoidant personality disorder, diagnosis/treatment issues; literature review; 93Z6230

xenophobia, Left vs Right political parties, Eastern Europe, postcommunist era; 93Z4377

Photographs

ethnographic photography, Brazilian Indian tribe; 93Z6679

landscape photography, bourgeois political features, 19th-century US; discourse analysis; Nathan Farb's work; 93Z6681

photographs, iconicity/narration/discourse; 93Z4448

photojournalism vs photographic art, institutional boundaries; 93Z6684

Physical Characteristics

body image disturbances, social comparisons, gender differences; scale/inventory data; college students; 93Z4269

jealousy, married men/women; vignettes; Tel Aviv, Israel; 93Z6637

male vs female actual/ideal/stereotypical conceptions, upper torso; scale data; undergraduates, University of South Florida; 93Z6655

Physical Sciences

social events/development, thermodynamics perspective, open vs ordered societies; 93Z4180

Physically Handicapped

academic achievement/social-emotional development, students with learning difficulties, integrated vs other classrooms; longitudinal questionnaires/tests; Switzerland; 93Z5426

disability, integration issues, labeling theory; rejoinder; 93Z4336

special needs children, care/education, father's potential role, intervention suggestions; 93Z6028
special needs education, social/curricular integration; response/rejoinder; 93Z5435

Physicians
Alzheimer's disease medicalization; secondary empirical data; physicians/family caregivers; 93Z6161
assisted suicide/euthanasia attitudes, graduate students, Norway; questionnaire data; 93Z6192
doctors/dentists/pharmacists, public perceptions; questionnaire; southern metropolitan area; 93Z5243
ethical medical practice, US Supreme Court (Nancy) Cruzan decision's impact; 93Z5239
intraprofessional conflict, general practitioners vs medical elite, Victorian-era GB; 93Z6190
medical advertising, doctors'/consumers' attitudes, California; questionnaire data; 93Z5201
medical decision making, incompetent patients, legal standards needed; illustrative examples; New York; 93Z5655
medical decisions, incompetent patients, families authoritative role; 93Z5985
medical ethics, liberal model; book review essay; 93Z6159
medical profession, structural transformation/political role, Spain; 1983 survey data; physicians; 93Z6175
medicalization/social control, conceptual issues; research review; 93Z6123
prescription drug misuse/abuse, Germany; international comparison; 93Z6270
social class-patient treatment attitudes, physicians, health care implications; 1962/1987 questionnaire data; 93Z6113
termination of medical treatment, decision-making standards, state courts' role; 93Z5646

Physics
social events/development, thermodynamics perspective, open vs ordered societies; 93Z4180

Piaget, Jean
subject-object differentiation/cognitive development, children, Jean Piaget's theory vs interactionist constructivism; 93Z4196

Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania
US society; immigrant ethnic/religious diversity; case study; 1880-1920 Hungarian Slovak immigrants, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania; 93Z5520

Placement
difficult-to-place people, agency management techniques, Oxford, England; secondary data; 93Z6555

Planning
agroecosystem research, designing future strategies; 93Z5253
global climate changes, outdoor recreation opportunity/behavior impacts; 93Z4922
handicapped persons, open space access, design criteria; site visits; 93Z6452

Plant Closure
job loss resistance/acquiescence, trade unions; case studies; automobile manufacturing plants, GB; 93Z4570

Play
childhood play experience, white professional women, Mississippi; questionnaire data; 93Z5204
children's play attitudes, assessment measures evaluated; scale data; midwestern metropolitan area; 93Z3958
children's sex-typed play styles-peer group acceptance link, gender/age differences; scale/observational data; 2nd/4th graders, Ontario; 93Z5837
internal story structure, retellings/pretellings/hypothetical tellings, local context/social projects role; taped play interactions; children ages 4-14, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania; 93Z5375
play, authorial presence, research implications; 93Z4451
play/sport/culture research, Clifford Geertz's impact; restrospective comments; 93Z4516

Plea Bargaining
plea bargaining practices; court caseloads; 1968-1983 time-series data; El Paso, Texas; 93Z5634 plea bargaining, rational choice theory; interview data; judges/lawyers/other legal professionals, Germany; 93Z5639

Pluralism
dispute resolution system, village courts, Papua New Guinea; 93Z5656
social policy as plural action system, Western Europe; 93Z6458

Poetry
feminine poetic language, metaphor use, French poststructural theory application; T. Saastamoinen's Finnish prose poem analysis; 93Z6598

Poets
Greek tragic poets as alternative to humanism, postmodernism implications; 93Z6421

Poland
constitution making process, post-1989 Poland; content analysis; 93Z5082
constitutional choices, Czechoslovakia/Hungary/Poland, 1989-1991 democratization, Stein Rokkan's analytical approach; 93Z5070 environmental protection needs, foreign ecological assistance possibilities, Eastern Europe; case example; Poland; 93Z6495
evolution of constitutionalism, Poland, WWII-1989; 93Z5640
new constitution, Poland, potential changes; 93Z5653
nonprofit sector, government policies, Poland vs Hungary; interviews; 93Z4692 privatization process, post-1990 Poland; empirical data; 93Z5025

Polanyi, Karl Paul
Polanyi, Karl, critique of economic institutions/capitalist society; 93Z4823

Polarization political polarization, party characteristics, postcommunist Bulgaria; 93Z5086

Police
child sexual abuse, police/social worker investigations; videotaped interviews; England; 93Z5832 intradepartmental tensions/role shifts, US police departments; computer-based information technologies introduction; ethnographic fieldwork/interviews/other data; 93Z5685
job functions, rural police; questionnaire/interview data; Illinois; 93Z5684 job task performance-training subject congruence, state police, Delaware; inventory data; police officers; 93Z5698
occupational fears/stressors, police recruits, Brisbane, Australia; questionnaire data; 93Z5674
occupational stressors, Australian police; scale data; 93Z5667
police officers, informing on other officers' illegal behaviors, subcultural perspective; personal knowledge/observations; 93Z4315
police studies, ethnographic methodology assessed; 2-book review essay; 93Z5696
police studies, recent trends, GB; 5-book review essay; 93Z5695
police/space/society interrelationships, UK/US; 93Z5671
restitution vs retribution, former Communist party informants, postcommunist Czechoslovakia; 93Z4209

Police Community Relations
crime-social control-society relationship; book review essay; 93Z6334
mentally ill suspects, police decision making; 1980/81 observational data; large US midwestern city; 93Z6241
police/space/society interrelationships, UK/US; 93Z5671
policing/state judical structures/social control, South Africa, sociological study; 3-book review essay; 93Z5692
ritual's role, legal systems/practice, anthropological theory; illustrative example; Miranda criminal procedure role; 93Z5658

Policy
environmental regulation, control, conflicts, "disputing" paradigm, 93Z6514
gender/leisure policy analysis, theoretical approaches critiqued; 93Z4934 nuclear policy, GB, US-UK relations impact; archival/other data; 93Z4985
old age policy, social movement success, political mediation model, US; 1930-1950 state-level economic data; 93Z6288
pronatalism/women's equality policies; literature review, case studies, Canada; 93Z6581
refugee protection problem, Canada, 1960s-present; 93Z4438

Policy Making educational policy-making process, sociology's role, Italy; 93Z5494
foreign policymakers' international conflict misperception, rational deterrence theory's validity, game-theoretic technique application; 93Z5697
homosexual exclusion policy, US military, political/legal development, 93Z5931
international environmental policy, US/Canada, Great Lakes ecosystem; 93Z6510
population aging, social policy implications; 93Z6315
professional societies' policy decisions; interorganizational linkages, interview/archival data; health/safety professionals; 93Z4672
urban containment policy, Belfast, Northern Ireland; empirical data; 93Z6464

Political Action
capitalist development resistance, 19th-century southern Illinois; election returns, newspapers, agricultural census data; 93Z4224

East European communist regimes' overthrow, cultural explanations; literature review; 93Z4866
gay politics, "queer community" concept, constructionist perspective; 93Z6611
integration dynamics, European Community, pluralistic analysis framework; 93Z4990
international environmental cooperation, nation-states' response; 1990/91 statistical data; 93Z6499
mass strikes for universal suffrage, socialist political reform strategy, turn-of-the-century Belgium; 93Z4860
political action, interdisciplinary research; 93Z4835

Political Action Committees
right-wing political party support, Giessen, Germany; 1989 survey; 93Z5097

Political Affiliation
national identity perceptions, university students, US/Hungary/Bulgaria/Greece; survey data; 93Z5134
political behavior/affiliation/opinions/attitudes, Andalusians, 1990/91 election data; 93Z5019
political partisanship individual's/wife's characteristics; 1984/85 Australian National Social Science Survey; 93Z5052
right-wing political party support, Giessen, Germany; 1989 survey; 93Z5097

Political Attitudes
consociational "Lager" system, electoral impacts, Austria; illustrative example; 1990 general election; 93Z5088
Nazism/Italian fascism, Peace Pledge Union's support; 1936-1945; 93Z5040
political attitudes/behavior, Finnish university students, measurement issues; questionnaire/scale data; Helsinki; 93Z5071
political correctness, changing social interpretation; 93Z6577
political cynicism, post-baby-boom generation Americans; 93Z5021
political preferences, cultural vs rational choice theories; 93Z5036
prevailing political worldview, educational implications; 93Z5079
public opinion/voting behavior; 1980 Jimmy Carter-Ronald Reagan presidential debate; 1980 US National Election Study; 93Z5068
social ills/radical individualism/weak civic commitment, US; 2-book review essay; 93Z4469
social/political attitudes-creativity link; questionnaires; college students, David Duke senatorial campaign, Louisiana; 93Z4262 spiral of silence theory, survey respondent candor, 1988 US presidential election; telephone survey; Orange County, California; 93Z4873

Political Behavior
constitution making process, post-1989 Poland; content analysis; 93Z5082 genetic identity establishments, kidnapped children, interdisciplinary/multicultural contexts; illustrative case; Association of Grandmothers, Argentina; 93Z4837
man, Max Weber's concept; 93Z4087
political behavior, young Italians, 1980s; literature review; 93Z5012
political behavior/affiliation/opinions/attitudes, Andalusians, 1990/91 election data; 93Z5019
political behavior; social mobility; 93Z5191
political conflict, theoretical paradigm shift; 93Z5063
political obedience, Frankfurt school's social-psychological explanation; 93Z4313
political preferences, cultural vs rational choice theories; 93Z5036
religious/political attitudes, Palestinian students, Najah University, West Bank; questionnaire data; 93Z5523
tobit analysis coefficients decomposition, political protests in debtor nations; 93Z3984

Political Campaigns political ideals, Hungary; content analysis; 1990 electoral campaign posters; 93Z5113

Political Culture
cultural practices, political foundations, ethnography critically reassessed; 93Z4518
minority neighborhood regeneration policies, London vs Liverpool, England; 93Z5341
nativism/political heresy, Protestantism's influence, US society/political organizations; 93Z5058
official language, political issues, South Africa; book review essay; 93Z5398
photographs, iconicity/narration/discourse; 93Z4448
political correctness, changing social interpretation; 93Z6577
political discourse, North-South dominance patterns; illustrative example, Kenya; 93Z5015
public opinion-political culture/system relationship, US; 93Z5101
transition to democracy, Mexico, political culture/party system roles; 93Z5048
US political culture/pragmatism, Federal Republic of Germany, postwar decades; 93Z5010

Political Economy
agricultural geography, political economy approaches; literature review; 93Z5306
global conflict-political economy linkage; 1954-1980 secondary data; 93Z4977
Japan's political economy, changing Western views; book review article; 93Z4218 public dispute research, dynamic historical approach; illustrative example; Two Forks Dam controversy, Denver, Colorado; 93Z6496
world system, qualitative transformation on typology; 93Z4809

Political Elites
South Korean economic development "miracle," antecedent factors/human costs; 93Z4779

Political Factors
International economic globalization, regional development impacts; 93Z4965
acquired immune deficiency syndrome discourses, biological/cultural/political dimensions; 93Z6125
antihomosexual attitudes, sociodemographic correlates; 1985 national survey data; US adults; 93Z6650
Arab sociology, sociologists' task/status; 93Z4015
British democracy/economy/sociology departments; interview; 93Z5098
Canadian/European economic/political relations, new focus; 93Z4986 capitalist systems, government role, economic/political/social impacts; 1974-1981 statistical data; 93Z4828
civil society emergence, post-1989 Czechoslovakia; 93Z5109
collective action, Weberian status group perspective; 93Z4913
cultural practices, political foundations, ethnography critically reassessed; 93Z4518
Czech physicist Jaroslav Šafránek's television transmission system failure, pre-/post-WWII era; political circumstances; archival material; 93Z5702
drug screening, hair analysis technology; research review; 93Z6276
Eastern European upheavals, sociology's misunderstanding, Talcott Parsons's modernization theory; 93Z4826
economic/political/religious/nationalistic conflicts, German community, antebellum US; 93Z5794
educational reform, social democracy's failure, New Zealand; 93Z5448 environmental/community conflicts, politics/collective behavior interpretations; comments; 93Z6511
feminist sociology, Third World nationalist/feminist politics' influence; 93Z6584
forest resource use conflict, Ixtlán, Mexico; 93Z6436
gentrification, land-based interest groups' role; US census/other data; 93Z5338 gentrification, US cities, 1970-1980; political-economic/other variables; census/other data; 93Z5330
global conflict-political economy linkage; 1954-1980 secondary data; 93Z4977
hegemony-insularity relationship, global technological age; 93Z5042
higher education expansion, post-WWII Austria; interview data; 93Z6466
homelessness-mental illness relationship, alternative approach; 93Z6212
international immigrant incorporation, theoretical approaches; 93Z5784
Jewish emigration, USSR; sociopolitical conditions; 1989 survey data; 93Z5763
judicial independence/selection, Latin America, political influences; case examples; 93Z5618
labor history, Trinidad/Tobago, 1937-1990; documentary/archival data; 93Z4583
local self-government, Slovak municipalities, 1940-1990; 93Z5346
medical profession, structural transformation/political role, Spain; 1983 survey data; physicians; 93Z6175
modernization theories, 1960s/1970s, West Germany/UK/US; literature review; 93Z4788
nonworking poor, political/policy dimensions, US; 11-chapter discussion; 93c01680
nuclear policy, GB, US-UK relations impact; archival/other data; 93Z4985
old age policy, social movement success, political mediation model, US; 1930-1950 state-level economic data; 93Z6288
Orthodox church, social/political role, postcommunist Russia; 93Z5602
philosophy-politics connection, Cuba; 93Z6403

political affiliations/voting practices, rural residents, Spain; 1983/1988 surveys; 93Z5039
"political correctness" debate, US academe; 93Z4275
political transformations, German/European unification; interview; 93Z4770
political/social/economic change, Argentina; 93Z5028
politics of rights-new social movements association, class issues; Canadian experience; 93Z4846
postmodern politics; 93Z4205
postmodernism, political aspects; 93Z6425
privatization of justice, theoretical/political questions; 93Z6473
public health policies/conditions; political conditions, socioeconomic development; international statistics; 93Z6124
public opinion-political culture/system relationship, US; 93Z5101
public-sector mediation, research agenda; 93Z6476
public/private sector interaction, Mexico; 18th-/19th-century newspaper articles; 93Z5007
sacralization process, Mt. Šipovac, Herzegovina; historical periodization; 93Z5526
school prayer/creationism support; political/religious factors; interview data; North Carolina; 93Z5611
scientific knowledge production, social/political context effects, internationalization implications; 93Z5059
social science myths, political use; 93Z4046
social/political/economic/geographical change, Europe; 93Z4978 sociology of language definition/methodology, J. A. Fishman minority language maintenance, political issues; interview; 93Z5373
sociology, South Africa; response; 93Z4044
Somali refugee repatriation, Ethiopia, political conditions/other issues; personal observations; 93Z4444
unemployment, Israel; economic/political factors; 1958-1986 government statistics; 93Z4731
urban concept, spatial/material world considerations; case study; Copenhagen, Denmark; 93Z5311 urban politics/planning, professional planners' role; illustrative example; Copenhagen, Denmark; 93Z5337

Political Ideologies

affirmative action's future, possible alternatives, US; comments; 93Z4435
Bakhtin, Mikhail, social/political theory contributions; 6-chapter overview; 93c01672
capitalism spirit/social psychological dimensions, Max Weber's/Thornstein Veblen's views; 93Z4830
civil war, Yugoslavia; 93Z5043
conservatism crisis/ideological fragmentation, late-1980s US; 93Z5179
democracy, Western social/political thought, Jean-François Lyotard vs Jürgen Habermas; 93Z6424
Indian philosophy-Indian icons-Sanskrit philology-National Socialist (Nazi) ideology relationship; 93Z4466 liberation ideologies, black Transvaal students, Johannesburg, South Africa; questionnaire data; 93Z4492
liberation philosophy, Latin America, Enrique Dussel's work; 93Z6664
martyrdom notion, Shi'ite political ideology, postrevolutionary Iran; 93Z4311
Olympic ideology/nationalism, implications for international relations; illustrative example; 1992 Barcelona (Spain) Olympics; 93Z4950
perestroika, conceptual evolution, 1985-1990; 93Z4775
political discourse, North-South dominance patterns; illustrative example; Kenya; 93Z5015
political ideals, Hungary; content analysis, 1990 electoral campaign posters; 93Z5113
political Left, future prospects, 93Z5044
political parties, normative models; 93Z5089
Schmitt, Carl, antiliberal leftist theory, Frankfurt school's analysis; 93Z4067
US legal system interpretation, rhetorical deconstruction project, Stanley Fish's work; 93Z4168

Political Movements

advocacy groups' emergence/development/political influence, US political system; 93Z5065
antinuclear movements, cross-national variations, political process perspective; 93Z4848 civil society development potential, Eastern Europe; 93Z4486
conservatism growth, US politics, 1950s-1980s; 6-chapter historical review; 93c01675
"deep ecology" movement's history/potential; 93Z4852
democracy transition problems, Raul Alfonsin's presidency, Argentina; 93Z5023
democratic pluralism/economic change, implications for work, Slovakia; 93Z4557
1989 demonstrations, East Germany, mass media's role; 93Z4914
French television technology transfer, Hungary, communist-democratic regime transition period, political/economic problems; 93Z5735
gay politics, "queer community" concept, constructionist perspective; 93Z6611
Greek domestic politics, Panhellenic Socialist Movement, post-1974; 4 book review essay; 93Z4811
historical development, cyclical processes, USSR; 93Z4762
identity politics, community vs ethnic ties, pro-Sandinista Orinocans, Nicaragua; 93Z4400
legal vs illegal political protest determinants, West Germany/Israel/Peru; cross-cultural differences; 1987/88 national surveys; 93Z4858
Marxist humanist/state capitalism movements, central/Eastern Europe, 93Z4806 mountain communities, northern Italy, La Giovane Montagna weekly review, modernization/religious promotion goals; 93Z5558
new social movement concept, environmental/peace movements' contradictions, GB; secondary/interview data; 93Z4862 political ecology movement, France; case study; Brittany; 93Z4861
postmodernist critical theorizing, emancipatory politics potential; 93Z4204
Sahrawi women, liberation struggle participation, western Sahara; 93Z4849
state-political party interaction, Greece, 1984-1989; case study; 93Z5105
tobacco movement, Iran, 1890-1892, Shi'i religious discourse's role, 93Z4855

Political Participation

communitarianism; roundtable discussion; 93Z5009
East European communist regimes' overthrow, cultural explanations, literature review; 93Z4866
genetic identity establishments, kidnapped children, interdisciplinary/multicultural contexts; illustrative case; Association of Grandmothers, Argentina; 93Z4837
liberation ideologies, black Transvaal students, Johannesburg, South Africa; questionnaire data; 93Z4492
political behavior, young Italians, 1980s; literature review; 93Z5012
political participation/racial orientations, black males; military background; 1979/80 national survey data; 93Z4624
popular participation, public life; Brazil's 1988 constitution; historical analysis; 93Z5077
postmodernist critical theorizing, emancipatory politics potential; 93Z4204
public participation, working-class power, remedial action planning, Great Lakes; 93Z4847
Sahrawi women, liberation struggle participation, western Sahara, 93Z4849
slum sector, Third World metropolitan areas, planning issues; empirical data; Bangkok, Thailand; 93Z5360
social ills/radical individualism/weak civic commitment, US, 2-book review essay; 93Z4469 validated US election turnout, racial differences, blacks' voting overreporting; 1986-1988 national data; 93Z5004

Political Parties

Christian Lebanese nationalist discourse, Lebanese civil war; 93Z5564
congressional representation stagnation, southern US Republicans, incumbency/coattail/primary competition explanations; 1956-1986 election data; 93Z5107
equilibria, multiparty systems, rational-choice model; 93Z5055
Italian Popular party, Molise, 1919-1924, Rodolfo Benevento's role, book review essay; 93Z5022
Japanese Social Democratic Party, chairperson Takako Doi's feminist politics; 93Z5064
Kurdish identity/persecution, Saddam Hussein's Baathist regime, Iraq; 93Z4543
local district clubs, Flemish Social Democratic Party, Ghent, Belgium, 93Z5018
mass consumption industries-Democratic party relationship, 1936 US presidential election; campaign contributions analysis; 93Z5116
Nazi party support, agrarian Catholic sector, Germany; historical records; Black Forest region; 93Z5053
Partido Acción Nacional, history/political role, Mexico; 93Z5062
Partido Revolucionario Institucional sectoral quotas, federal deputy elections, México; 1979-1988 published data; 93Z5083
Partido Revolucionario Institucional, power loss, Mexico; 93Z5084
political affiliations/voting practices, rural residents, Spain; 1983/1988 surveys; 93Z5039
political attitudes/behavior, Finnish university students, measurement issues; questionnaire/scale data; Helsinki; 93Z5071

political parties' electoral effectiveness, 1988 federal deputy elections, Mexico; 93Z5045
political parties, normative models; 93Z5089
political parties/actors, Antonio Gramsci's views; 93Z5072
political party differences, US, 1950s-present; 4-book review essay; 93Z5118
political party system, Mexico, theoretical typologies; 93Z5111
political party system, West Germany; 93Z5073
political party systems, structure/functioning, Spain/Italy; 1979-1983 election data; 93Z5106
political polarization, party characteristics, postcommunist Bulgaria; 93Z5086
political power/parties, social class issues, US New Deal era, Theda Skocpol's state autonomy theory critiqued; article, comments; 93Z5031
Popular party activities, social activist Pier Giorgio Frassati, Italy, 1920s; 93Z5060
right-wing political party support, Giessen, Germany; 1989 survey; 93Z5097
social class-political party relationship, Netherlands; 1970-1986 survey data; 93Z5173
transition to democracy, Mexico, political culture/party system roles; 93Z5048
transition to democracy, Mexico, principal political parties' potential effects; 93Z5099
voting behavior/party preferences, Greece; political scandals; survey data; Papandreou administration era; 93Z5029
xenophobia, Left vs Right political parties, Eastern Europe, postcommunist era; 93Z4377

Political Philosophy

contemporary political philosophy, ethical foundations, Jürgen Habermas vs Mohandas Gandhi; 93Z4079
liberation philosophy, Latin America, Enrique Dussel's work; 93Z6664 political philosophy, fear of death's role, Thomas Hobbes's/Michel Foucault's work; 93Z4505 Schmitt, Carl, antiliberal leftist theory, Frankfurt school's analysis; 93Z4067

Political Power

Canada-US free trade agreement, Brian Mulroney's change of opinion, financial capital theory/power balance model explanation; 93Z4995
feminist movement, Latin American countries; personal experience/research; 93Z6595 Partido Revolucionario Institucional, power loss, Mexico; 93Z5084
political power/parties, social class issues, US New Deal era, Theda Skocpol's state autonomy theory critiqued; article, comments; 93Z5031
Soviet-type system, etacratistic nature; 1986 survey data; top Party functionaries; 93Z5093

Political Representation

political party system, West Germany; 93Z5073
public opinion, congressional responsiveness; 1986 National Election Study/1987 survey data; US House of Representatives members; 93Z5056

Political Science

Italian political scientist Paolo Ammassari, life/work; 93Z4058
political parties/actors, Antonio Gramsci's views; 93Z5072
scientization of politics/politicization of science, logical empiricist tradition critique; 93Z6487
sociology professionalism, Italy; 93Z4101

Political Socialization

childhood-young adulthood transition, political socialization, France; 1986 questionnaire survey data; high school students; 93Z5080
civics education-political socialization relationship, Oceania; UNESCO publications; 93Z5016

Political Sociology

Bakhtin, Mikhail, social/political theory contributions; 6-chapter overview, 93c01672
civil society emergence, post-1989 Czechoslovakia; 93Z5109
new social movements, Belgium/Europe, political/sociological conceptual problems; 93Z4868 political sociology nonexistence, Algeria; 93Z5006
sociology of local government/politics, subdisciplinary development, postcommunist Czechoslovakia; 93Z5061

Political Systems

advocacy groups' emergence/development/political influence, US political system; 93Z5065
agricultural sector, former German Democratic Republic, reunification's impact; secondary survey data; 93Z5250
Cambodia's Khmer Rouge dictator Pol Pot, US/world acceptance/support; 93Z4991
commercial capitalism/state formation, early modern Europe, bourgeoisie's role; historical empirical evidence; 93Z4221
communist-to-democratic transition, Eastern Europe, centrally directed nature; 93Z5013
consociational "Lager" system, electoral impacts, Austria; illustrative example; 1990 general election; 93Z5088
constitutional choices, Czechoslovakia/Hungary/Poland, 1989-1991 democratization, Stein Rokkan's analytical approach; 93Z5070
constitutionalism, political reconstruction, non-Western world; 93Z5011
criminal justice reform mandates, Texas political system's response, 1980-present; 93Z5669
current political system crisis, modernity context, Mexico; 93Z5034
democracy/socialism, USSR, historical analysis; 2-book review essay; 93Z5081
democratization process, Argentina; alienation; interview/obervational/other data; 93Z5041
democratization process, Latin American vs Eastern European experience; literature review; 93Z4825
East European economic/political development; sociohistorical perspective; 93Z4769 electoral systems, comparative study; literature review; 93Z5069
equilibria, multiparty systems, rational-choice model; 93Z5055
French Bourbon reforms, peasant physical resistance, late-18th-century Mexico City; 93Z5190
German Democratic Republic collapse, external/internal causes; 93Z4818
German unification, causes/future prospects; 93Z4817
The Good Society by Robert Bellah et al; review symposium; 93Z4207
Habermas, Jürgen, postmodernism critique; 3-book review essay; 93Z4146
local state reform, labor-capitalist struggles, Toledo, Ohio, 1927-1949; pluralist/class analysis; 93Z5188
national identity/democracy formation, Eastern Europe, institutional reconstitution needs; 93Z5103
new constitution, Poland, potential changes; 93Z5653
Partido Acción Nacional, history/political role, Mexico; 93Z5062
Partido Revolucionario Institucional sectoral quotas, federal deputy elections, Mexico; 1979-1988 published data; 93Z5083
political conflict, theoretical paradigm shift; 93Z5063
political party system, Mexico, theoretical typologies; 93Z5111
political party system, West Germany; 93Z5073
political party systems, structure/functioning, Spain/Italy; 1979-1983 election data; 93Z5106
political system changes, Fernando Collor de Mello's rise to presidency, Brazil; 93Z4266
political system, 1988 disruption/state party's reaction, Mexico; 93Z5085
postmodern politics; 93Z4205
principal political system actors, university students' perceptions, Mexico; survey data; 93Z5024
public opinion-political culture/system relationship, US; 93Z5101
socialism, global crisis; 1991 round-table discussion; Brazil; 93Z5120
Soviet political pathology's origin, fundamental premise of Marxism; 93Z5035
television's role, 1989 overthrow, communist East Germany; interview data; journalists, US/East German networks; 93Z4851
urban systems/changes, postcommunist Eastern Europe; 93Z5344

Political Violence

career militancy, Irish Republic army; personal contact; 93Z6566
identity politics, community vs ethnic ties, pro-Sandinista Orinocans, Nicaragua; 93Z4400
Shay's/Whiskey/Fries' rebellions, early US, theoretical connections; 93Z4840 terrorism, political violence research integration; 93Z6567

Politicians

clothing behavior, image-making functions, Korean female legislators; 1985/86 field research; 93Z4295
Japanese Social Democratic Party, chairperson Takako Doi's feminist politics; 93Z5064 principal political system actors, university students' perceptions, Mexico; survey data; 93Z5024
public opinion, congressional responsiveness; 1986 National Election Study/1987 survey data; US House of Representatives members; 93Z5056

Politics

Castells, Manuel, housing/urban political theories; 93Z4155
collective grief/rage, gender/peace politics, Middle East conflict context, Israel; 1990 fieldwork data; 93Z6618
economic/political instability, post-1975 Madagascar; 93Z4217
Greek domestic politics, Panhellenic Socialist Movement, post-1974; 4-book review essay; 93Z4811
Habermas, Jürgen, postmodernism critique; 3-book review essay; 93Z4146
integration dynamics, European Community, pluralistic analysis framework; 93Z4990
labor law reforms, political discourse, social science research's role, West Germany; 93Z3959
Merquior, José Guilherme, liberal social/political theory contributions; posthumous tribute; 93Z4160
police/space/society interrelationships, UK/US; 93Z5671
politics/economics/nationalism, postcommunist Eastern European nations; 93Z5047
postmodern politics; 93Z4205
Slovene sociologist Ferdo Kočevar, 19th-century political views; 93Z4049

Pollution
agricultural pollution hazards, agricultural scientists' perceptions; survey data; faculty members, Institute of Agriculture, India; 93Z6513
ecological security, industrial civilization's threat; 93Z6533
international environmental policy, US/Canada, Great Lakes ecosystem; 93Z6510
natural/technologically induced disasters, international economic impact, US/USSR examples; 93Z6523
rural settlement, associated environmental problems; Uganda, 1972-1989; 93Z5037

Pollution Control
world system, modified model; 93Z3988

Polynesia
tourism's economic impact, South Pacific island microstates; 93Z4927

Popular Culture
animal-human relations, archetypal historical categories; content analysis; tabloid press articles; 93Z4471
enterprising/consumer self-representation, thirtysomething television show, US; content analysis; UK broadcasts, 1989/90; 93Z4936
feminism commodification, mass media; 1987 Mademoiselle magazine advertisements; 93Z6578
national iconic culture, Finland; 93Z4506
popular music, 20th century; illustrative examples; critique/introduction; 93Z5400
prostitution, dominant sexuality discourses, feminist challenges' failure; 93Z4901
racial inequality/bias perpetuation, mainstream films, US; illustrative examples; 93Z4412
racism, Italy; 93Z4404
rhetorical gaze, postrevolution Chinese posters/paintings; 93Z5540
romantic love rationalization, middle-class women's magazines; content analysis; 93Z4892
spheres of reality, sociological theory, Siegfried Kracauer's The Detective Novel; 93Z5416
sports popularization, international differences, continental Europe; 93Z4958
symbolic racism, Italian popular culture; 93Z4367
visual communication, Brazil; fieldwork data; 93Z6676
women's representation, mass media/popular culture, feminist cultural theory; 93Z4941

Population
human population surveys, incomplete data, sources/solutions; literature review, secondary data; 93Z3957

Population Density
prison populations; recidivism, prison capacity; male commitment data; North Carolina; 93Z5681

Population Distribution age distribution of crime invariance, mathematical analysis; 1952-1987 arrest data; 93Z6290 federal revenue distribution, population estimates' utility; 93Z5804
interactive Markov chains, stability/monotomicity issues; 93Z3989

Population Growth
desertification, international community's perceived inaction; 93Z6509
global population growth-resource use-environmental quality relationship; 93Z6515
global warming/population growth, environmental consequences, ameliorative agricultural strategies; 93Z5803
pellagra death rate changes, turn-of-the-century Italy; demographic/economic/political factors; 93Z6195
population explosion, birthrate decline potential, sociobiological perspectives; 93Z5822
prison population growth, Illinois; criminal justice policy; 93Z5680
rural repopulation trends, Northern Ireland; secondary data; 93Z5812
rural settlement, associated environmental problems; Uganda, 1972-1989; 93Z5037
voluntary organization population change analysis, aggregate/individual-level data roles, Norwegian research project; 93Z4667

Population Policy fertility trends, Third World, research/policy issues; 93Z5796
international migration, demographic trends, immigration policies; article/comment; 93Z5782
women's fetility-related behavior, China; son preference, population policy, government control; 1988 survey data; 93Z6073

Populism
communitarianism; roundtable discussion; 93Z5009
social activist Pier Giorgio Frassati, interwar-era Turin, Italy; 93Z5096

Pornography
antipornography campaigns, 1980s, US vs England; 93Z4886
pornography control, feminist attitudes, rights/freedom vs responsibility issues; questionnaire data; National Organization for Women newsletter readers, California; 93Z5622 pornography, feminist debate; 8-chapter literature review; 93c01659 violence against women, pornography's influence, 1985 Meese Commission's report; comment/reply/rejoinder; 93Z6641

Portugal
equilibrium theory, socioeconomic-political development relationship, case examples; Chile/Philippines/Spain/Portugal/Saudi Arabia, 93Z5075
household/workplace gender inequality, immigrant Portuguese working women, London, England; interview data; 93Z6620
science problem solving, students' recognition/realization skills; social class factors; questionnaire/interview data; students ages 10-12, Lisbon, Portugal; 93Z5483
sex-stereotype knowledge, young children, Portugal; empirical data, 93Z6638

Positivism
Comtean studies/positivism, Italian historiography; 93Z4098
historical science, 20th-century crisis; 93Z6405
human resource management, logical positivist model critiqued; 93Z5710
MacCormick, Neil, institutional theory of law critiqued; 93Z5644
positivism/neo-Kantianism, Georg Simmel's position, early career, literature review; 93Z4162
temporalized sociology, theoretical underpinnings; 93Z4125

Postindustrial Societies
qualitative economic growth, leftist theory; book review; 93Z4822
social scientists' changing visions of future; 93Z6450
technological knowledge as industrial capital, postcommunist Slovenia; 93Z4778

Postmodernism aesthetic theories, Fredric Jameson vs Jürgen Habermas; 93Z6428
agency, feminist poststructuralist theory; 93Z6575
alienation/reification, Marxist theories; 93Z4501
anthropology, postmodernism's utility; 93Z4540
anthropology, postmodernist trends; 93Z4523
Bataille, Georges, College of Sociology, postmodernist antagonisms, 93Z4083
conventional symbolic interactionism, postmodernism; comments/reply; 93Z4349
cultural modernization, nationalism, stratified theory; 93Z5133
discourse analysis popularity, Finnish sociology; 93Z3968
Giddens, Anthony, modernity theories; review symposium; 93Z6419
Greek tragic poets as alternative to humanism, postmodernism implications; 93Z6421
Habermas, Jürgen, postmodernism critique; 3-book review essay, 93Z4146
human rights, modern discourse; 93Z5628
law/humanities schools, postmodernism applications; special journal issue introduction; 93Z6429
Los Angeles, California, postmodern city interpretation; 93Z5325
modernist radicalism/foundationalism, social theory; 7-chapter examination; 93c01667
modernity; 4-book review essay; 93Z4508
museums, postmodernist elements; illustrative example; Australia; 93Z5410 new technoeconomic systems, post-Fordist social order emergence; 93Z5730

personal identity crisis, postmodernity; 93Z4282
postmodern anthropology, descriptive/practice modes; 93Z3930
postmodern anthropology, ethnographic aspects; 93Z5586
postmodern ethics; British legal judgments; 93Z5625 postmodern ethnography; 93Z3966
postmodern politics; 93Z4205
postmodernism vs postlibertarianism, minimal statism issues; 93Z4148
postmodernism's subjectivity/cultural logic, implication for law practice; case study; John Hinkley's 1981 assassination attempt trial; 93Z4480
postmodernism, contemporary critical theory; 93Z6489
postmodernism, contemporary status; forum; 93Z4515
postmodernism, Jürgen Habermas's vs Jean-François Lyotard's concepts; 93Z4092
postmodernism, new middle class cultural definitions; illustrative example; 1980s Federal Republic of Germany; 93Z4935
postmodernism, political aspects; 93Z6425
postmodernism-cultural imperialism relationship, social scientist's perspective; 93Z4051
postmodernist critical theorizing, emancipatory politics potential; 93Z4204
postmodernist "framing" notion critiqued; illustrative examples; contemporary artist Robert Mapplethorpe/writer Franz Kafka; 93Z5414
postmodernity, ideological analysis; 93Z6412
religion's revitalization, modern/postmodern ambivalence, postsocialist Eastern Europe; 93Z5573
self-presentation, psychological vs sociological approaches; 93Z4346
societal change, Europe, theoretical/analytical issues; 93Z4033
symbolic interaction, modernity/postmodernity, Jürgen Habermas's/George Herbert Mead's work; 93Z4327
temporality-linguistics relationship, poststructuralist/-modern thought; 93Z5381
theory-practice relationship, postmodernism; 93Z4166
traditional vs postmodern marriage/family spheres; 93Z5949
truth, postmodern social science, T. R. Young critiqued; 93Z6427
understanding legal behavior, modern ethology/Darwinian jurisprudence; literature review; 93Z5630
"weak thought," contemporary French poststructuralism; 93Z4323
women's representation, mass media/popular culture, feminist cultural theory; 93Z4941

Posttraumatic Stress Disorder
chronic posttraumatic stress disorder, patient/disorder characteristics; scale/interview data; health maintenance organization, Michigan; 93Z6207 substance abuse-posttraumatic stress disorder relationship; 1982/83 interviews; residents, Saint Louis, Missouri; 93Z6213

Postulates
organizational theory, unproductive assumptions, sociologists; 1991 invited address; 93Z4665

Post World War II Period
agrarian reform, post-WWII Hungary; 93Z5269
armed conflicts, development/progress, justifications, Latin America; 93Z4768
British economic problems, postwar era, vocational training's role; 93Z4812
British university fiction, post-WWII; book review essay; 93Z5421
conservative-liberal attitude shift, post-WWII US; 1972-1989 General Social Survey data; article/comments; 93Z4871
ex-President Dwight Eisenhower, US, leadership style; 93Z4312
higher education expansion, post-WWII Austria; interview data; 93Z6466
industrial mobilization-military autonomy relationship, WWII-era US; critique/reply/rejoinder; 93Z5030
integration/disintegration, Eastern/Western Europe, post-WWII-present; 93Z4992
intelligence function, democratic governments; 3-book review essay; 93Z4617
internationalization of capital, labor impacts, post-WWII period, Third World; statistical data; 93Z4797
national crime rate trends, postwar Japan, integrated theory perspective, 1954-1988 time-series data; 93Z6332
national cultural identity, post-WWII Canada, Americanization impact; 1949 Massey Commission survey; 93Z4483
political cynicism, post-baby-boom generation Americans; 93Z5021
post-WWII agricultural changes, adult education impacts, France; 93Z5197
postwar educational research/reform, Raymond Boudon's critique; reply; 93Z5584
shop-floor militancy, automobile industry, post-WWII decline; mass production automation; archival/interview data; 93Z4759
Swedish welfare state, historical development; 93Z5126
urban sociology, postwar focus/themes; 93Z5334 village demographic profiles, post-WWII/postcommunist changes, Czechoslovakia; monographical studies; 93Z6441

Poverty
female poverty identification, contemporary Europe, analytical/methodological shortcomings; research review; 93Z6539
ill health, underdeveloped nations, militarism's effects; 93Z6145
nonworking poor, political/policy dimensions, US; 11-chapter discussion; 93c01680 poverty alleviation policy, US workers, public attitudes; poll/national survey data; 93Z6455
poverty causes/cures, US debate; 10-chapter overview; 93c01663
poverty levels, rural/urban Bangladesh, estimation methodology; 1982-1986 survey data; 93Z6538
poverty, government relief/administration, early 19th century-present; 93Z6540
poverty-child development relationship; lead poisoning/stress/maternal depression/drug use; 93Z6541
racism/poverty causes, post-civil rights era, US; 93Z4397
rural children, changing family composition/economic status, US; 1960-1980 census data; 93Z5278
underclass concept, questionable assumptions/symbolic power; 93Z5180 underclass debate, US inner cities; book review essay; 93Z4380

Power
bases of power model, 30-year evolution; 93Z4338
child sexual abuse, feminist thought-Michel Foucault's model of power relationship; 93Z6573 Enlightenment interpretations, Michel Foucault vs Georges Sorel; 93Z4099
epistemological externalism, knowledge/society/power, theoretical discussion; 93Z3934
human rights, modern discourse; 93Z5628
masculinity, critical appraisal, feminism's influence; 93Z6587
penal system, postrevolutionary China, Michel Foucault's disciplinary power definition; 93Z4461
power relations, women's role, Cairo, Egypt; case example; lower-middle-class women, popular women's movement; 93Z4485
power/gender theory; 3-book review essay; 93Z4140
public text, power relations/everyday life, Michael Jackson; documentary data; 93Z4937
sacralization process, Mt. Šipovac, Herzegovina; historical periodization; 93Z5526 surveillance/control, contemporary industrial labor process; observational data; Japanese electronics firm, GB; 93Z4746

Power Elite
US mass media, elite power group model shift; 93Z4878

Power Structure
hegemony-insularity relationship, global technological age; 93Z5042

Practitioner Patient Relationship
assisted suicide/euthanasia attitudes, graduate students, Norway; questionnaire data; 93Z6192
cross-cultural psychiatry, antiracist intervention need; case study; 93Z6236
doctor-patient relationship, (former) East Germany; unification, medical practice privatization; 93Z6197
elderly patients, sense of control needs, nursing skills training's effectiveness; observations, evaluation data; nurse-patient dyads, extended care facility; 93Z6313 human immunodeficiency virus-/hepatitis-infected health care workers, patient transmission risk, prevention guidelines; 93Z6134
human immunodeficiency virus-infected medical professionals, patient transmission risks, control issues; 93Z6128
patient-physician communication; clinical interviews; 93Z6121
physician outpatient services use-desirable life events relationship; 1986 longitudinal interview data; older men/women, Chicago, Illinois; 93Z6133
sexual exploitation of clients, psychotherapists' rationales, Colorado; content analysis; grievance board reports; 93Z4317
social class-patient treatment attitudes, physicians, health care implications; 1962/1987 questionnaire data; 93Z6113
switching physicians, Medicare patients; economic competition; article/comment/reply; 93Z6173

Pragmatics
mentalities study, linguistic research, methodological proposals; 93Z5368

Pragmatism
critical theory/pragmatism, US vs Frankfurt school perspectives; 93Z4330
Habermas, Jürgen, theory of communicative action, pragmatist alternative; 93Z4342
neopragmatism, Jürgen Habermas/Richard Rorty; 93Z4325
pragmatic text analysis, literary biographies application; 93Z3956 pragmatist perspective, critical theory; 93Z6490
US legal system interpretation, rhetorical deconstruction project, Stanley Fish's work; 93Z4168
US political culture/pragmatism, Federal Republic of Germany, postwar decades; 93Z5010
Praxis
Soviet-type system, etacratistic nature; 1986 survey data; top Party functionaries; 93Z5093
Prayer
school prayer/creationism support; political/religious factors; interview data; North Carolina; 93Z5611 Prediction
intent to consume beef, women, Texas, prediction model; 1985 interview data; 93Z4514
modern science, theoretical inaccuracy-prediction accuracy paradox, holistic explanation; 93Z3927
social prognosis research, Czechoslovakia; 93Z4791
substance abuse, late adolescence, predictive factors; Ontario; 93Z6248 Prediction Models
chaos theory, disorder/unpredictability/nondecidability problems, inappropriate application; 93Z4133 Preferences
contradictory preferences, choice making, sociometric/-dynamic tests; empirical data; psychodrama students; 93Z3981
musical preference-reckless behavior relationship, adolescents, southern metropolitan area; 1990 survey data; 93Z5848
political preferences, cultural vs rational choice theories; 93Z5036
punishment, public preferences, Japan/US/Russia; legal culture; survey data; 93Z5649
sexual activities/preferences, youth ages 16-20, UK; questionnaire data; 93Z5905 student help-seeking preferences; achievement/ethnicity/gender/classroom organization; scale data; intermediate schools, Auckland, New Zealand; 93Z5509
Pregnancy
black adolescent females, first pregnancy incidence, cohort changes; 1982 national survey data; 93Z6077
first-birth timing, women born 1940 vs 1960, Netherlands; statistical data; 93Z6080
foster care/out-of-wedlock births, US clinical sociologist's potential interventions; 93Z6667
gestational substance abuse, court-ordered prenatal intervention, legal issues; 93Z6062
health-related behavior theories, construct reliability; illustrative tests; 93Z3942 welfare dependency/school dropout/violent crime/teenage pregnancy reduction, successful health/social service/educational programs, US/Canada; 93Z6543
Prejudice
aboriginal issues, public's response, Canada; prejudice, perceived group conflict, economic conservatism; 1986 interview data, literature review; 93Z4385
anti-Semitism, publishing industry; 23-chapter analysis; 93c01662
biological determinism; 7-chapter theoretical overview; 93c01677
ingroup bias; salience/relevance/status; social-psychology journal research reports; 93Z4239
racist attitudes, male youth of German/Turkish parentage, Berlin, Federal Republic of Germany; interviews; 93Z4422
Premarital Sex
first premarital intercourse, Mexican- vs Anglo-American females, Los Angeles, California; socioeconomic/subcultural factors; 1984/85 interview data; 93Z5929
premarital sexual behavior/attitudes, Chinese college students, US; acculturation; 1982 questionnaire data; 93Z5914
Premature Infants
preterm infants, parents'/grandparents' experiences; interview/questionnaire data; 93Z6011
Preschool Children
single mothers of preschoolers, well-being/role demands; survey; southern California; 93Z5972
teaching/learning, native Hawaiian families; children's preschool experience; narratives; 93Z5474 Preschool Education parental role, preschool child's education; questionnaire/interview data; Adelaide, South Australia; 93Z5497
Presidents
1988 presidential hopefuls Jesse Jackson/Pat Robertson, white southern voters' support; religion; national survey data; 93Z5608
democracy transition problems, Raul Alfonsin's presidency, Argentina; 93Z5023
ex-President Dwight Eisenhower, US, leadership style; 93Z4312
interpersonal influence strategies, Winston Churchill-Franklin Roosevelt bases-for-destroyers exchange, 1940; 93Z4324
mass consumption industries-Democratic party relationship, 1936 US presidential election; campaign contributions analysis; 93Z5116
political system changes, Fernando Collor de Mello's rise to presidency, Brazil; 93Z4266
presidential candidates' election likelihood; gender, private life difficulties; scenario/questionnaire experiments; college students; 93Z6639
public opinion/voting behavior; 1980 Jimmy Carter-Ronald Reagan presidential debate; 1980 US National Election Study; 93Z5068
Prestige
prestige, theories/measurement; 93Z5192
Pretoria, South Africa ethnic collective action, South Africa, resource mobilization theory; newspaper accounts; Pretoria-Witwatersrand-Vaal; 93Z4396
Prevention
alcohol use/misuse perceptions, Chinese/Indo-Pakistani/Latin American communities, British Columbia, prevention program implications; literature review/interview data; 93Z6271
breast cancer/mamography screening, increased incidence; survey data; Wisconsin; 93Z6150
cocaine addiction, group relapse prevention program;; 93Z6274
drug abuse prevention/education programs, postlegalization US; 93Z6259
drug use prevention, US youth, marijuana legalization's negative implications; 93Z6255
earthquake effect mitigation/prevention, health sector's role; case study; 1988 earthquake, Yunnan Province, People's Republic of China; 93Z6529
human immunodeficiency syndrome infection prevalence, injecting drug users, behavioral risk reduction strategies; statistical data; 93Z6283
human immunodeficiency virus infection, problem perception; high-risk-group vs risky-behavior framing; questionnaire; university-level students, UK; 93Z4240
human immunodeficiency virus prevention screening programs, costs/benefits; 93Z6166
human immunodeficiency virus transmission/prevention knowledge, social construction; interview data; heterosexual college students, Montreal, Quebec; 93Z6156
sexual activities/preferences, youth ages 16-20, UK; questionnaire data; 93Z5905
workplace health monitoring/promotion, alternative approach; 93Z4569 Priests
women in clerical profession, Church of England, diakonia metaphor; 93Z5519 Primary Education family structure/value changes, implications for educators; 93Z5516
Primates
social group dominance, social seniority vs chronological age as determinants; experimental data; macaques, Japanese students; 93Z4236
Printing printing press, history; 93Z5418 Prison Culture
mental/physical health, Australian prison officers; negative affectivity, perceptions of demands/discretion/support; questionnaire data; 93Z5232
prison life, litigated reform's impact; 4-book review essay; 93Z5689
violence, US prisons, historical/structural/cultural contexts; 93Z5693 Prisoners
adult education, federal prisons, educators' perceptions, Canada; interview data; 93Z5670 human immunodeficiency virus/acquired immune deficiency syndrome, deviance/pollution discourse; case study; prison system upheaval, New South Wales, Australia; 93Z5675
mentally incompetent prisoners sentenced to death, mental health treatment, ethical dilemma; 93Z6222
prison populations, Washington, 1981 Sentencing Reform Act, forecasting challenges; 93Z5686 prisoners testing positive for human immunodeficiency virus, rights/care, GB; 93Z5699

violence, US prisons, historical/structural/cultural contexts; 93Z5693 wife assault risk markers, federal offenders; records, interviews, questionnaires; inmates/female partners; 93Z6559

Prisons
adult education, federal prisons, educators' perceptions, Canada; interview data; 93Z5670
human immunodeficiency virus/acquired immune deficiency syndrome, deviance/pollution discourse; case study; prison system upheaval, New South Wales, Australia; 93Z5675 imprisonment length/cost, mandatory minimum sentences' effects; 1979-1990 official data; Department of Corrections, Florida; 93Z5661
local United Methodist churches, prison ministry model; 93Z5545 medical service, 18th-/20th-century English prisons, history/consolidation; 93Z5694
model prison, Jeremy Bentham's panopticon notion, electronic surveillance implications; 93Z5683
personality/health/job stress, penitentiary/maximum security hospital employees; questionnaire data; Trondheim, Norway; 93Z5198
prison population growth, Illinois; criminal justice policy; 93Z5680
prison populations; recidivism, prison capacity; male commitment data; North Carolina; 93Z5681
prison security officers' self/other/inmate perceptions; scale data; South Korea/midwestern US; 93Z5665
US correctional system, reform needs; 7-chapter discussion; 93c01669
violence, US prisons, historical/structural/cultural contexts; 93Z5693
women, criminal sentence execution, Austrian prisons; 93Z5691

Privacy
outing movement, US homosexuals, legal/ethical issues; 93Z5925
private wishes, gender similarities/differences; questionnaire; pedestrians/college students, New York; 93Z6613
public/private persona presentation, sauna setting, Finland; questionnaire; 93Z4464
unregulated private security, GB vs US/Belgium/France/New Zealand; 93Z5678

Private Schools
educational selection, single-sex vs coeducational secondary schools, US; family/student factors; questionnaire/record/observational data; 93Z5473 postgraduate cultural/social capital accumulation, public vs prep school students, 1963 Yale College alumni; content analysis; 25-year-reunion class book submissions; 93Z5195

Private Sector disaster evacuation planning/behavior, private sector planning vs public response; interviews; tourism firm executives, Florida/Texas/Tennessee; 93Z6521
private disputing institutions, national/international developments; 93Z6478 private international development aid, discourse/objectives, US/Western Europe/Canada; book review essay; 93Z4998
urban problems, incomplete modernity's role, Mexican example; 93Z5326

Privatization agricultural privatization, farmer attitudes, Czechoslovakia; 1990 survey/interview data; 93Z5271
civil/"private" courts, public function, policy/research issues; 93Z6477
doctor-patient relationship, (former) East Germany; unification, medical practice privatization; 93Z6197
economic crisis, privatization solutions, Latin America; 93Z4803
legal profession privatization, Italy; 93Z5209
open market/privatization policies, Mexico, effects on workers; 1987-1990 legislation; 93Z4983
pharmaceutical availability, Uganda; health service privatization; fieldwork data; 93Z6196
pretrial dispute resolution, US, privatization; 93Z6481
private disputing institutions, national/international developments; 93Z6478
privatization consequences, small coffee producers, Mexico; government statistics; 93Z5288
privatization of justice, theoretical/political questions; 93Z6473
privatization process, post-1990 Poland; empirical data; 93Z5025

Probability sexual risk estimation; human immunodeficiency virus seropositivity disclosure; hypothetical cases; 93Z6181

Probation
child support enforcement duties, New Jersey probation officers, role stress; questionnaire; 93Z5688 community crime prevention, probation officers' involvement hindrances; fieldwork data; English cities; 93Z5690 probation services, probation committees' role, GB; interviews; committee members, chief probation officers; 93Z5676

Problem Solving
creativity, ecosocial problem generation, figurative originality-heuristic competence relationship; inventory/other data; technical college students, Czechoslovakia; 93Z4547 democratic problem-solving intervention, everyday conflicts; pre-/posttraining evaluation; Israeli social workers/police; 93Z4398
problem-solving competence/decision-making mechanisms, municipal political-administrative systems; illustrative example; suburban community; 93Z6447
science problem solving, students' recognition/realization skills; social class factors; questionnaire/interview data; students ages 10-12, Lisbon, Portugal; 93Z5483
small-group democracy, definition/illustration; 93Z4238

Problems
Arab universities, goals/obstacles; 93Z5458
parent-adolescent communication problems, adolescents' perceptions; questionnaire data; southwestern US undergraduates; 93Z5896
sociologists' problematic public image, popular literature representation; 93Z4052

Production
art world, conceptual difficulties; literature review; 93Z5415
information technology, production/distribution/application; literature review/statistical analysis; 93Z5749
international business competition, Japanese lean production concept critiqued; company reports/accounts, official statistics; car industry; 93Z4794
production paradigm obsolescence; 93Z6433
social science/language research productivity, Spanish universities; 1986-1988 publication data; 93Z5719
state socialist societies' demise, future possibilities, Eastern Europe; 93Z4808
technological knowledge as industrial capital, postcommunist Slovenia; 93Z4778

Production Consumption Relationship
information technology, production/distribution/application; literature review/statistical analysis; 93Z5749
production/consumption/income strategies, rural households, Kenya; drought; 1984-1987 survey data; 93Z5275

Productivity
management participation, workers, India; 93Z4696
psychology research, increased production, information exchange; article/comments; 93Z5725
research universities-national economic development relationship, Western society; 93Z5502
scientific knowledge production, social/political context effects, internationalization implications; 93Z5059
scientific productivity, gender differences; citation analysis; 93Z5714
sociological scholarship citations, gender differences; citation analysis; Social Problems; 93Z4025
worker participation, productivity impacts, US; 93Z4728

Professional Associations professional societies' policy decisions; interorganizational linkages; interview/archival data; health/safety professionals; 93Z4672

Professional Ethics
academic expert testimony, new religious movement trials, ethical/professional questions; 93Z4864
assisted suicide/euthanasia attitudes, graduate students, Norway; questionnaire data; 93Z6192
ethical medical practice, US Supreme Court (Nancy) Cruzan decision's impact; 93Z5239 medical decision-making/right-to-die issues, post-Cruzan decision; 93Z4253
medical ethics, liberal model; book review essay; 93Z6159 successful technology transfer, French parent company/Brazilian subsidiary; professional ethics/cooperation; 93Z6669
termination of medical treatment, decision-making standards, state courts' role; 93Z5646

Professional Identity
midwifery, European Community member countries, cross-national variations; 93Z5238

Professional Orientations
intraprofessional conflict, general practitioners vs medical elite, Victorian-era GB; 93Z6190
legal profession privatization, Italy; 93Z5209
teachers, educational reform's impact, New Zealand; 93Z5455

Professional Sports
hegemonic masculinity reproductions, US sports culture; content analysis; media representations, baseball player Nolan Ryan; 93Z4956
Professional Training
drug user treatment counselors, backgrounds/roles; literature review; 93Z6286 journalism students, professional attitudes, cross-national comparison; questionnaire data; 93Z5438
post-WWII agricultural changes, adult education impacts, France; 93Z5197 professional advancement, university education vs company-sponsored training; interview data; insurance companies, Germany; 93Z5460 school inspector training, Germany, system-oriented counseling approach; preliminary evaluation data; trainers/trainees; 93Z5450
US Air Force training problems/solution, analytic onion metaphor; hypothetical example; 93Z4632
Professional Women
childhood play experience, white professional women, Mississippi; questionnaire data; 93Z5204
demographic/personality/job-related characteristics, female business owners, traditionally male-dominated industries; empirical data; 93Z6651
elite occupational pools/positions, women's representation, US; census/government data; 93Z6656
female sociology professors, affirmative action measures, Germany; 93Z4027
gender integration, academic sociology; 1984 national survey data; 93Z5222
job satisfaction, gender-related differences; 1982-1988 interviews; teachers, Frankfurt, West Germany; 93Z5865
leadership styles, gender role-integrative model; 93Z6629
women's participation/representation, Flemish universities, Belgium; questionnaire data; 93Z5512
Professional Workers
air traffic controllers/other information-processing blue-collar workers, characteristics/labor activism; 93Z5242 attitudes toward egalitarianism/business/labor, professionals/managers/blue-collar workers, Australia/US; 1985 survey data; 93Z5178
home/work influence strategies, professional couples; interview data; 93Z6031
new technology, workers' reaction; questionnaire data; hospital laboratory workers, Antwerp, Belgium; 93Z4734
psychologist licensure, stringency determination factors, public/provider interest theories; 1977/78 American Association of State Psychology Board exam data; 93Z5224
Professionalism
sociology professionalism, Italy; 93Z4101
Professionalization
informal caregiving; literature review; 93Z5200
social work professionalization, Australia; interview data, field observations; social work personnel; 93Z5196
teacher professionalization, teacher educators' role; 93Z5223
Professions
higher education-labor force needs mismatch, Philippines; 93Z5454
museum restoration, professional occupation; visual sociological study; 93Z5405
professional motivation, college professors, eastern US; interview data; 93Z5228
psychologist licensure, stringency determination factors, public/provider interest theories; 1977/78 American Association of State Psychology Board exam data; 93Z5224
test-using professional groups' characteristics; international questionnaire data; test administrators/supervisors; 93Z5233 work activities/professional expectations, sociological/anthropological analytic frameworks; 93Z4738
Program Evaluation
equal opportunity, US military, evaluation instrument construction/testing; 93Z4621
school inspector training, Germany, system-oriented counseling approach; preliminary evaluation data; trainers/trainees; 93Z5450
social intervention impacts, multimethod assessment; illustrative example; methadone maintenance treatment, heroin addicts, California; 93Z6249
treatment effectiveness, alcohol problems, evaluation research; 93Z6280
Programming (Broadcast)
British/US television soap operas/romance genre films, portrayal of women; 2-book review essay; 93Z4939
visual communication, Brazil; fieldwork data; 93Z6676
Programs
alcohol use/misuse perceptions, Chinese/Indo-Pakistani/Latin American communities, British Columbia, prevention program implications; literature review/interview data; 93Z6271 international environmental policy, US/Canada, Great Lakes ecosystem; 93Z6510 Progress
patients' behavior/progress; religious beliefs/values; case studies; 93Z5565 Progressivism ethnic education, Chicago, Illinois, Progressive era; article/critique; 93Z4368 standard time establishment, turn-of-the century US; 93Z4178
Promiscuity
casual sex, Norwegian adolescents; 1989 questionnaire data; 93Z5933 Promotion (Occupational)
career status attainment, social structural influences, Aage B. Sørensen's model evaluated; personnel data; West German mechanical engineering company; 93Z4702
national industrialization, Mexico, export promotion policy; 1929-1990 statistics; 93Z4967
sex-linked bias, job promotion decisions; candidate's career relevance/prior experience; questionnaire data; business/government/nonprofit organization employees, Tel-Aviv, Israel; 93Z6642
women in clerical profession, Church of England, diakonia metaphor, 93Z5519 Propaganda
evangelical propaganda, turn-of-the-century Methodist missionaries, Solomon Islands; photographs/documentation; 93Z5600
pharmaceutical drugs, advertisement/promotion history, US; 93Z4910 Schweitzer, Hans, German National Socialist poster artist, life/work; archival data, content analysis; posters; 93Z4903 Property
social intervention impacts, multimethod assessment; illustrative example; methadone maintenance treatment, heroin addicts, California; 93Z6249
Property Rights
human tissue, property rights, Moore v. Regents of the University of California; case study; 93Z5700
legal property rights, de facto cohabiting couples, Australia; 93Z5974
property rights reform, state-second economy relationship, socialist Hungary; 93Z5102
property rights/stratification, socialist redistributive economies; 1986 survey data; Tianjin, Peoples Republic of China; 93Z4833
Prosecutors
decarceration, panoptican interpretation critiqued; interviews; judges/prosecutors/community service order workers; Canadian city; 93Z5128
Prostitution
growing prostitution/sexual exploitation, women/girls, India, government act enforcement failure; official/media statistics; 93Z5924
male prostitution-by-choice, demographic/clinical/behavioral correlates; interview/questionnaire data; midwestern US; 93Z4314
male street prostitutes, male customers' sexual behavior patterns; interviews; New Orleans, Louisiana; 93Z5920 prostitutes' female children's plight; field data; red light district, Bombay, India; 93Z5923
prostitution, dominant sexuality discourses, feminist challenges' failure; 93Z4901
prostitution/brothelkeeping, criminal prohibition, Netherlands, public debate; 93Z6318
veneral disease-prostitution link, prerevolutionary China, Western medical community's impact; 93Z5912
Protection
gay rights issues, legal discourse, personal storytelling technique; 93Z6617
refugee protection problem, Canada, 1960s-present; 93Z4438
Protectionism
technological development/protectionism, computer/other industries, Brazil; pro/con analysis; 93Z4211
Protest Movements
antifascist protest, 1936 Popular Olympic Games, Barcelona, Spain; documentary/other data; 93Z4954
Chicano protest movement, Catholic church injustices, San Diego/Los Angeles, California; 93Z4405
genetic identity establishments, kidnapped children, interdisciplinary/multicultural contexts; illustrative case; Association of Grandmothers, Argentina; 93Z4837
legal vs illegal political protest determinants, West Germany/Israel/Peru; cross-cultural differences; 1987/88 national surveys; 93Z4858

low-caste protest movement, 19th-/20th-century Maharashtra, India; 93Z4842
mothers' activist movement Madres de Plaza de Mayo, Argentina; observational/interview data; Buenos Aires; 93Z4844
antiremoval struggle, Oukasie township, Johannesburg, South Africa; 93Z5078 political acquiescence vs protest, unemployment; empirical data; 1930 vs 1980s, GB; 93Z4549
social protest success, William Gamson's work reevaluated; secondary empirical data; 93Z4845
tobit analysis coefficients decomposition, political protests in debtor nations; 93Z3984
township politics, 1980s South Africa; documentary/interview data; Kagiso; 93Z4863
year 1968, twentieth-anniversary recollections, "mythologizers"; 93Z4859

Protestant Ethic
Protestant ethic, popular humor, capitalist society, late 19th-early 20th centuries; content analysis; 93Z5541
Weber, Max, Protestant ethic thesis reexamined; symposium; 93Z4119
Weber, Max, Protestant ethic/Calvinism interpretations, Malcom H. MacKinnon's challenge; critical comment; 93Z5613
work ethic research, activity focus advocated; 93Z4574
work ethic, undergraduate university students, South Africa; scale data; 93Z4867
work ethic, undergraduates; scale data; Johannesburg, South Africa; 93Z5895

Protestant Reformation
Protestantism, Slovakia, historical overview; 93Z5587

Protestantism community identity, religious denominational fissions, Dutch coastal communities; statistical data; 93Z5158
evangelical Protestantism conversions, Mayan village, Guatemalan highlands; field observations; 93Z5548
German Protestant church's Home Mission, interwar/Nazi eras; book review essay; 93Z5525
nativism/political heresy, Protestantism's influence, US society/political organizations; 93Z5058
political institution establishment, Catholic/Protestant political identities' barrier, Northern Ireland; 93Z4853
Protestantism, Latin America, sociohistorical approach; literature review, statistics; 93Z5524
Protestantism, Slovakia, historical overview; 93Z5587
Weber, Max, Protestant ethic thesis reexamined; symposium; 93Z4119

Protestants
attitudes toward corporal punishment of children, Protestant fundamentalism's influence; 1991 interview data; Oklahoma; 93Z5562 conservative Protestant church/dual-earner family traditional norms conflict; 1989 interview/questionnaire data; church staff/members, Indiana; 93Z5544

Psychiatric Research international psychiatric epidemiology, World Health Organization studies, ethnographic corrective; 93Z6224 schizophrenia prognosis, Third World vs Western countries, cross-cultural psychiatric theory/research; article/comments/response; 93Z6211

Psychiatrists
male/female psychiatrists, income differentials, US; 1982/83 survey/questionnaire data; 93Z5203

Psychiatry
cross-cultural psychiatry, antiracist intervention need; case study; 93Z6236
human immunodeficiency virus disease, psychiatric care, ethical issues; literature review, other data; 93Z6206 postdisaster psychiatric case management; case study; organic brain damage patient, Hillsborough (England) football stadium disaster; 93Z6531
psychiatric facilities, organizational analysis, task analysis model; observations; 93Z4333
psychiatry development, Victorian era-present, US/GB; 3-book review essay, 93Z6231
psychiatry's role, higher education; 93Z6234
psychiatry, research advances/strategies; 93Z6401
US psychiatry, sociological studies vs self-definition; 93Z6396

Psychoanalysis
Castoriadis, Cornelius, views on sublimation/cathexis/Freudian theory/Lacanian psychoanalysis; interview; 93Z6423
conventional symbolic interactionism, postmodernism; comments/reply; 93Z4349
feminism/psychoanalysis, Juliet Mitchell's/Nancy Chodorow's work; 93Z6572
sexual disorders, sexoanalysis treatment; clinical case study; 93Z5927
shame analysis, psychoanalytic anthropology; 93Z3955
temporality, Sigmund Freud's dream interpretations; 93Z4145

Psychoanalytic Interpretation
circumcision/clitorectomy, structuralist/functionalist views; 93Z4541
death instinct, Sigmund Freud; 93Z6402
male transsexualism, psychoanalytic theory challenge; vignettes; 93Z5922
unemployment, psychological impacts on marriage, psychoanalytic perspective; empirical data; marital therapy clients, London, England; 93Z6018

Psychological Development
academic achievement/social-emotional development, students with learning difficulties, integrated vs other classrooms; longitudinal questionnaires/tests; Switzerland; 93Z5426
adolescent adaptation; elementary school peer reputation; descriptive matching instrument; urban Minneapolis, Minnesota; 93Z5880
rape/sexual coercion, male evolutionary psychology perspective; article/comments/reply; 93Z5932
self-conception development, US vs People's Republic of China; cultural/social/political/psychological factors; 93Z4286
subjective self-identity-athletic participation relationship, high school students, 1980-1982 longitudinal survey data; 93Z5894

Psychological Distress
psychological symptoms, reporting differences, males vs females; 1986 survey data; Finland; 93Z6601
unemployment/unsatisfactory employment, psychological impacts, gender differences; longitudinal questionnaire data; school leavers, South Australia; 93Z5901

Psychological Factors
African-American voter turnout, socioeconomic/psychological/exceptionalism explanations; 1977-1988 General Social Survey data; 93Z5050
art world, conceptual difficulties; literature review; 93Z5415
creativity, style/climate assessment approaches; inventory/questionnaire data; US; 93Z4578
male batterers, personality variables; Taylor-Johnson Temperament Analysis; convicted offenders; 93Z6557
marital separation/divorce, psychosocial impacts, individual coping responses; literature review; 93Z6009
psychosomatic/psychological symptoms, social meanings, semiotics investigation; questionnaire, participant observation; factory workers, Finland; 93Z6140
relationship addiction, feminist/psychodynamic perspectives; case example; adult children of alcoholics; 93Z6262
women's health, psychological determinants, rural Haryana State, India; interviews; 93Z6157 youth un-/underemployment, psychological impacts, longitudinal research attrition rate; questionnaire data; Adelaide, Australian school leavers; 93Z4613

Psychological Research
human immunodeficiency virus-infected gay men, psychosocial changes, behavioral intervention guidelines; 93Z6204

Psychological Stress adolescent stress levels, East vs West Germany; questionnaire data; Saxony, North-Rhine Westphalia; 93Z5887 parenthood adaptation, stress-reduction strategies; questionnaire data; prenatal parenting class participants, Canberra, Australia; 93Z6034
posttraumatic stress disorder occurrence/aetiology/treatment; literature review; 93Z6232
social stress, theory/research issues; 93Z6203

Psychologists
academic psychologists' job attainment, job rank/institutional prestige; published data; US; 93Z5220
electronic journal publishing, archive use, psychologists; article/comments/reply; 93Z5704
psychologist licensure, stringency determination factors, public/provider interest theories; 1977/78 American Association of State Psychology Board exam data; 93Z5224
social-psychological research, psychologists' contributions, Netherlands; 1989 questionnaire; members, Dutch Association of Social Psychological Research; 93Z4276
test-using professional groups' characteristics; international questionnaire data; test administrators/supervisors; 93Z5233
Wundt, Wilhelm, influence on social psychology; 93Z4069

Psychology
cognitive psychology criticized; 93Z4185
cultural psychology; 2-book review essay; 93Z4304

developmental processes, cognitivism's limited impact; 93Z4200
electronic journal publishing, archive use, psychologists; article/comments/reply; 93Z5704
feminist psychological research methodology, cultural diversity-related problems/solutions; experimental data; undergraduate women; 93Z6583
human relationships, psychological process vs population models; 93Z6417
non-English material exclusion, Psychological Abstracts; 93Z5701
psychological case reports, discourse analysis; 93Z6208
psychology research, increased production, information exchange; article/comments; 93Z5725
psychology's lack of scientific discovery; epistemological evaluation; 93Z3940
scientific realism, psychological applications; article/comments/response; 93Z4151
scientific/common sense psychology, differences/goals/rationale; 93Z4203

Psychosis
chronic solvent abuse, psychiatric/neurological impacts; interview/case record data; Alberta; 93Z6252
medical decisions, incompetent patients, families authoritative role; 93Z5985

Psychosocial Factors
capitalism spirit/social psychological dimensions, Max Weber's/Thornstein Veblen's views; 93Z4830
graffiti, Bergen, Norway; media-based US/UK cultural impact; survey data; 93Z4470
group defamation, language's/social construction of reality's roles, social-cognitive perspective; 93Z4366
human immunodeficiency virus-infected gay men, psychosocial changes, behavioral intervention guidelines; 93Z6204
ingroup bias; salience/relevance/status; social-psychology journal research reports; 93Z4239
job insecurity, psychological effects; questionnaire/interview data; employees; firms, Montreal Quebec; 93Z4606
national identity, mentality/personality aspects, international settings; 1987 fieldwork; European University Institute, Florence, Italy; 93Z5138
prenatal care timing, low-income racial-ethnic primiparous women, Los Angeles County, California; sociodemographic/health behaviors/medical risk/psychosocial risk factors; 1988 interview data; 93Z6361
psychological aesthetics, empathy approach; 93Z4137
self-conception development, US vs People's Republic of China; cultural/social/political/psychological factors; 93Z4286
women's studies role, women's oppression alleviation/change; critical examination; 93Z6636

Psychotherapy
family therapy model, cognitive restructuring innovation; 93Z6027
psychotherapy, feminization, US; 93Z6235
sexual exploitation of clients, psychotherapists' rationales, Colorado; content analysis; grievance board reports; 93Z4317
shame/addiction interconnections, recovery fram shame, psychotherapeutic approach; naturalistic research; 93Z6284
unemployment, psychological impacts on marriage, psychoanalytic perspective; empirical data; marital therapy clients, London, England; 93Z6018

Public Behavior
insulting/cursing, social interactions, theoretical explanations; 93Z4897
public text, power relations/everyday life, Michael Jackson; documentary data; 93Z4937
public/private persona presentation, sauna setting, Finland; questionnaire; 93Z4464
technological risks, public responses, sociological perspective; 93Z5738

Public Goods
social choice, modeling approach; experimental data; university students, Israel; 93Z4241

Public Health acquired immune deficiency syndrome, US public health response, lesbian/gay challenges; 93Z6179
health needs assessment/action, community participation; illustrative example; Community-Oriented Primary Care Project, Madison County, North Carolina; 93Z6390
health policy, New Zealand, public health concerns/fiscal crisis; 93Z6116 illegal drug policy, US, public health perspective; 93Z6463
infant mortality, 19th-century Sheffield, England; social/geographic inequalities; official records; 93Z5818
medicalization/social control, conceptual issues; research review; 93Z6123
Minnesota Heart Health Program, community health promotion delivery system; survey data; North Dakota/Minnesota/South Dakota/Wisconsin; 93Z6194
public health policies/conditions; political conditions, socioeconomic development; international statistics; 93Z6124
public health, early 19th-century GB, competing etiological theories; 93Z6136
veneral disease-prostitution link, prerevolutionary China, Western medical community's impact; 93Z5912

Public Housing
housing policy outcomes, GB; racial discrimination; 93Z5343
public housing policy-economic development relationship, Valladolid, Spain; 1940-1963 official policies; 93Z5328
public housing/racial issues, US vs England; 93Z4370
race equality in housing, GB, recent housing legislation/policy changes; 93Z4393
tenant participation, public housing, power/influence issues; 1981-1989 interviews; 93Z4915

Public Officials
Italian notary public, professional model, institutional/cultural changes; 93Z5235
senior citizen nomination, US vice presidency, 1805-present; 93Z6303

Public Opinion
1988 presidential hopefuls Jesse Jackson/Pat Robertson, white southern voters' support; religion; national survey data; 93Z5608 acquired immune deficiency syndrome, public knowledge/attitudes/education needs, Kenya; survey; 93Z6167
anti-Semitism/-perestroika/pro-*Pamyat*attitudes, Muscovites/New Yorkers; 1988 poll; 93Z4764
Canada-US free trade agreement, Brian Mulroney's change of opinion, financial capital theory/power balance model explanation; 93Z4995
criminal defendants, public's moral evaluation; interview data; West Germany; 93Z4875
disaster evacuation planning/behavior, private sector planning vs public response; interviews; tourism firm executives, Florida/Texas/Tennessee; 93Z6521
doctors/dentists/pharmacists, public perceptions; questionnaire; southern metropolitan area; 93Z5243
emigration desire, Russian/Lithuanian residents; 1991 poll data, 93Z5767
global warming, public understanding; ethnographic interview data, New Jersey; 93Z6507
intergroup conflict, Rajneeshee commune members/other adults, 1980s Oregon; interview/participant observation data; 93Z5578
Mexican migration/border region dynamics, San Diego County (California) residents' perceptions; 1980-1990 census/other data; 93Z6438
Mexico-US Free Trade Agreement, Mexicans'/Eastern Europeans' views; interviews; 1990/91; 93Z5001 nativity scenes, government property, public opinion; controversy; 1989 interviews; Kentucky; 93Z5567 penal reform, public attitudes, definitional problems, GB; 93Z4876
perceptions of justice, Public Service Commission complaint resolution, West Virginia; 1989/90 survey data; clientele; 93Z5620
political behavior/affiliation/opinions/attitudes, Andalusians, 1990/91 election data; 93Z5019
public opinion, congressional responsiveness; 1986 National Election Study/1987 survey data; US House of Representatives members; 93Z5056
public opinion-media coverage relationship, 1988 federal elections, Mexico; newspaper editorials, other data; 93Z5038
public opinion-political culture/system relationship, US; 93Z5101
public opinion/voting behavior; 1980 Jimmy Carter-Ronald Reagan presidential debate; 1980 US National Election Study; 93Z5068
racism, Italy; 93Z4404
science, public confidence, gender differences, US; 1973-1989 General Social Survey data; 93Z5703
social issue beliefs/opinions, reasoned argument process; education/other variables; interviews; residents, New York City; 93Z4332
socioeconomic inequality, postcommunist era changes, public perceptions, Czechoslovakia; national questionnaire data; 93Z5169
sociologists' problematic public image, popular literature representation; 93Z4052
surrogate motherhood, public attitudes; interview data; Roanoke Valley, Virginia; 93Z6088
women in combat, public attitudes, racial/gender differences; 1982 General Social Survey data; 93Z4645

women's labor force participation, public opinion, (former) West Germany/GB/US; comparative analysis; 1988 international survey data; 93Z4695

Public Opinion Research

drug use surveys, sealed booklet vs direct questioning approach; national survey data; 93Z6631

erroneous exit poll results; methodological problems; 1989 Virginia gubernatorial election; 93Z5110

public opinion questionnaire, Netherlands; illustrative application; 93Z3963

public opinion research, nonresponse problems; 93Z3926

Public Policy

British repatriation policies/practices, Eastern European Jewish immigrants, 1881-1914; 93Z5786

civil/"private" courts, public function, policy/research issues; 93Z6477

contemporary multicultural agenda, Swedish/other alternatives; 93Z4417

corporal punishment, public support, US school system; religion/socioeconomic status; 1989 interview data; southern metropolitan area; 93Z5457

drought, public policy, India; 93Z6526

health maintenance organization policy, institution building, Blue Cross Association; 93Z6163

male child preferences/selective abortion use, regulation issues, cross-cultural perspective; secondary research; India/South Korea/People's Republic of China; 93Z6079

nobility policy, Netherlands; 93Z5142

Norplant contraceptive experimentation, Brazil feminist opposition's success; 93Z6057

old age policy, social movement success, political mediation model, US, 1930-1950 state-level economic data; 93Z6288

trade union membership, Canada; 93Z4579

undocumented immigration, US; 1986 Immigration/Reform Act; empirical data; 93Z5775

Public Relations

managing nuclear terror, public's response/civil defense strategies, US, 1945-1954; 93Z4637

media profile enhancement, sociology/anthropology, American Sociological Association initiatives; 93Z4030

Public Schools

adolescent friendship/personal adjustment; questionnaire data; French-speaking Montreal (Quebec) teenagers; 93Z5859

national identity, public schooling's impact, 19th-century Canada; 93Z5466

postgraduate cultural/social capital accumulation, public vs prep school students, 1963 Yale College alumni; content analysis; 25-year-reunion class book submissions; 93Z5195

self-destructive behavior, delinquent vs normative adolescents, Ohio; scale data; 93Z5863

teacher-government conflict, Japan; teacher internship requirement implementation; observations; public schools; 93Z5241

Public Sector

Between States and Markets: The Voluntary Sector in Comparative Perspective by R. Wuthnow (Ed); review essay; 93Z4687

job evaluation, Hay system's gender bias; empirical data; public sector jobs, Minnesota; 93Z4751

public access, online government data banks, legislation/potential benefits, 93Z4003

public-sector mediation, research agenda; 93Z6476

senior managerial access/participation, gender influences, US public sector goverment bureaucracies; interview data; New York; 93Z6635

urban problems, incomplete modernity's role, Mexican example; 93Z5326

Public Sector Private Sector Relations

civil/"private" courts, public function, policy/research issues; 93Z6477

moderate-income household renovation, public-individual partnership, Israel, 1979-1983 evaluation data; 93Z5320

public-sector comparable worth wage adjustments, economic/employment implications; statistics; San Jose, California; 93Z4582

public/private sector interaction, Mexico; 18th-/19th-century newspaper articles; 93Z5007

residential development associations, private government interpretation, survey, case studies, interviews; board presidents/industry professionals/residents, California; 93Z5314

Public Services

perceptions of justice, Public Service Commission complaint resolution, West Virginia; 1989/90 survey data; clientele; 93Z5620

Public Transportation

constant comparative method, field research, New York City subway system; 93Z3961

criminal victimization fear, subway patrons, New York City; 1988 survey data; 93Z6368

subway system construction, Canton, China, technical assistance consensus, engineering company/government decisionmakers; 93Z6454

Publications

Simmel, Georg, 1990 book/article abstracts reprinted; 93Z4117

Simmel, Georg, Japanese publications, 1975-1988; bibliography; 93Z4037

Publishing Industry

anti-Semitism, publishing industry; 23-chapter analysis; 93c01662

electronic journal publishing, archive use, psychologists; article/comments/reply; 93Z5704

literature-theory relationship, global change context; 93Z5419

social science publishing, US, 18th century-present; 93Z4157

Puerto Rico

Cuban vs Dominican immigration patterns, Puerto Rico; secondary data; 93Z5774

hurricane-related deaths, 1989 hurricane, Puerto Rico/South Carolina; medical examiner/coroner information; 93Z6528

Punishment

cooperation, large groups; punishment; 93Z5821

crime/punishment, role/effects, Scottish criminal justice system; 93Z5672

model prison, Jeremy Bentham's panopticon notion, electronic surveillance implications; 93Z5683

punishment, public preferences, Japan/US/Russia; legal culture; survey data; 93Z5649

restitution vs retribution, former Communist party informants, post-communist Czechoslovakia; 93Z4209

social control, economy variations/social structural factors; 1983-1987 state-level data; 93Z5677

US drug policy, punitiveness critiqued/alternative approaches; 93Z5647

US drug problem, militaristic/punitive vs etiological approaches; 93Z5651

Punjab, India

tubectomy acceptors, demographic/socioeconomic differences, Amritsar district, Punjab, India; interviews; 93Z6081

Purchasing

groomprice, marriage market changes, Kerala, India; demographic/sociocultural developments; 93Z5943

Puritans

early American national character, Puritans' religious influence, Alexis de Tocqueville's views; 93Z4068

Qatar

labor immigration, Arab nations, post-1973 international oil embargo; 93Z5769

Qualitative Methods

analytic hierarchy process, qualitative/quantitative data; 93Z3976

children, qualitative interview instrument; 93Z5827

hospice patients, qualitative research studies, ethical issues; illustrative examples; 93Z3937

settlement centrality determination, Croatia, qualitative methodological procedure; census data; 93Z6439

soil structure, sustainability issues, qualitative evaluation framework; 93Z5277

Quality

doctoral thesis quality, information-based evaluation; test; chemistry theses, USSR; 93Z4012

quality control mechanisms, technology transfer; case study; Chilean automotive industry; 93Z5745

social science myths, political use; 93Z4046

Quality of Health Care

health maintenance organizations, competition/service quality concerns, 1990s; 93Z6138

Quality of Life

human immunodeficiency virus disease, quality of life evaluation; research review; 93Z6209

perestroika, Soviet society, Mikhail Gorbachev's failed reforms; 93Z4795

postdivorce adjustment, black vs white parents; 1987/88 national survey data; 93Z5964

quality of life perceptions; health behaviors/status; questionnaire/test data; US Navy personnel; 93Z6199

quality of life, Zagreb, Croatia; 1990/91 questionnaire data, content analysis; 1990/91 letters to the editor, newspapers; 93Z6446
quality of life-activity/disengagement relationship, elderly; interview data; Arkansas; 93Z6302

Quality of Working Life

teacher satisfaction; community support/empowerment/work conditions/student attitudes; survey; Maine; 93Z5240
working conditions maquiladora plants, Tijuana/Ciudad Juarez, Mexico; Free Trade Agreement impact; 1991 government survey data; 93Z4704

Quantitative Methods

analytic hierarchy process, qualitative/quantitative data; 93Z3976
drunk-driving automobile accidents, traffic safety interventions/other prevention approaches; 4-book review essay; 93Z5648
gender-linguistic variants, 1970s' research, quantitative paradigm's biased limitations; feminist perspective; 93Z5377
information technology, production/distribution/application; literature review/statistical analysis; 93Z5749

Quebec

family/childbearing, Quebec; demographic changes; life story/other data; 93Z5833
masculine gender transformation, Quebec; discourse analysis; 93Z6612
motherhood, Quebec, historical images/realities; secondary data; 93Z6063
Quebec's separation, Canadian economic benefits; 93Z5143
sovereignty referendum/nationalism revival, Quebec, causes/consequences; 93Z4850
women immigrants, Quebec, 1980s, sociodemographic characteristics/adaptation mechanisms; Canadian census/other data; 93Z6052
women's reproductive/labor force participation choices, Quebec; 1990 colloquium; 93Z5776

Questionnaires

indigenous groups, 16th-century Mexico, Friar Bernardino de Sahagú's research; 93Z5476
mail survey response rate, health professionals, strategy review; 93Z3960
public opinion questionnaire, Netherlands; illustrative application; 93Z3963
survey data quality; questionnaire design; Detroit, Michigan; 93Z3971
survey nonresponse; questionnaire length; 1987 data; England, Wales; 93Z3948

Quotas

middle/lower caste employment quotas, India, anthropologists' views critiqued; 93Z4065

Race

adolescent female sexual activity, schooling consequences, ethnic differences; 1987/88 national survey data; 93Z5866
affirmative action's future, possible alternatives, US; comments; 93Z4435
Asian vs black/Hispanic electoral success, US city councils; 1986 government survey; 93Z5008
bank bailouts, racial/class aspects; case study; Connecticut/New York; 93Z4369
equal opportunity programs, whites' attitudes, survey question methodology; 1986 questionnaire data; 93Z4365
gender/race construction, organizations, social identity/group mobilization perspectives; 93Z4671
race concept, origins/development/use; 1991 presidential address; North Carolina Sociological Association; 93Z4409
race-housing relationship, GB, 1980s; 93Z4401
race/ethnicity research, Robert E. Park's contributions; 93Z4105
race/ethnicity/culturally assigned meaning, research; comment; 93Z4372
racial inequality/bias perpetuation, mainstream films, US; illustrative examples; 93Z4412
racial/ethnic/gender integration, US federal agencies; demographic/organizational factors; 1982-1988 statistical data; 93Z4382
sexual harassment revelation, Anita Hill/US Supreme Court nominee Clarence Thomas case, sociological explanation; 93Z5632

Racial Differences

African-American caucuses, predominately white organizations, organizational disputing implications; 93Z4358
first premarital intercourse, Mexican- vs Anglo-American females, Los Angeles, California; socioeconomic/subcultural factors; 1984/85 interview data; 93Z5929
income attainment differentials, Asian vs native white males, US; 1960-1980 Census data; 93Z5156 juvenile justice dispositions, race differentials; social context; 1979-1981 court processing data; Florida; 93Z6347
occupational prestige/segregation/earnings; gender/race; 93Z4758
personal racial consciousness, black/white language/world view difference, key events' impact; 93Z4356
racial bias, child/adolescent public mental health system admissions, NY; 1988 admissions data; 93Z6225
racial/class/gender diversity, sociological implications; 93Z4433
racial/sexual occupational inequality, conceptual/measurement issues; 93Z4703
validated US election turnout, racial differences, blacks' voting overreporting; 1986-1988 national data; 93Z5004
women in combat, public attitudes, racial/gender differences; 1982 General Social Survey data; 93Z4645

Racial Relations

aboriginal experience, 19th-century Australia; 3-book review essay; 93Z4359
anti-Semitism, publishing industry; 23-chapter analysis; 93c01662
campus racism, American Indian students' experiences/perceptions; questionnaire data; midwestern US; 93Z4378
ethnic identity, 4-book review essay; 93Z4256
inner-city communities, GB, urban renewal policy; 93Z4408
interracial homicide, macrostructural opportunity perspective; statistical data; US cities; 93Z6329
legal dispute processing, racial attitudes'/beliefs' role, alternative dispute resolution controversy; 93Z6471
political participation/racial orientations, black males; military background; 1979/80 national survey data; 93Z4624
public housing/racial issues, US vs England; 93Z4370
race equality in housing, GB, recent housing legislation/policy changes; 93Z4393
race relations research, GB, conceptual deficiencies; 93Z4354
race relations, micro-/macroperspectives, Shelby Steele's works; 93Z4421
race relations/conflict resolution, 1980s theories, methodological individualism's influence; case study; South Africa; 93Z6484
race relations/multicultural education, UK; 93Z4428
race/class/gender, historical relationships; case study; working-class women, South Africa, 1930s-present; 93Z4246
race/cultural novel's usefulness, education, sociology classrooms; empirical data; white college students; 93Z4010
racial inequality/bias perpetuation, mainstream films, US; illustrative examples; 93Z4412
sex-role attitudes, college freshmen; gender/race/religion/political orientation; questionnaire data; Ivy League university; 93Z6630

Racial Segregation

ethnic residential segregation, Dutch cities, 1970-1990; empirical data 93Z4431
public housing/racial issues, US vs England; 93Z4370

Racism

antiracism policy needs/obstacles, Germany; 93Z4374
antiracist curriculum model, teacher education, Europe; 93Z5432
biological determinism; 7-chapter theoretical overview; 93c01677
campus racism, American Indian students' experiences/perceptions; questionnaire data; midwestern US; 93Z4378
criminal justice system, racial/ethnic bias; Washington Sentencing Reform Act; Yakima County; illustrative example; 93Z4376
cross-cultural psychiatry, antiracist intervention need; case study; 93Z6236
discrimination against black students, white colleges; interviews; blacks; 93Z4364
equal opportunity climate, minorities/women, US Navy; 1970-1990 Navy Personnel Research & Development Center research; 93Z4638
equal opportunity programs, whites' attitudes, survey question methodology; 1986 questionnaire data; 93Z4365
gender/racial discrimination/harassment, Chicana white-collar workers; survey/interview data; public university, California; 93Z6648 hidden curriculum, English classes, UK, systematic exploitation of blacks, fieldwork data; 93Z5451
housing policy outcomes, GB; racial discrimination; 93Z5343
Indian philosophy-Indian icons-Sanskrit philology-National Socialist (Nazi) ideology relationship; 93Z4466
journalistic racism; book-review essay; 93Z4905
political correctness, changing social interpretation; 93Z6577
race relations research, GB, conceptual deficiencies; 93Z4354
racial discrimination, labor market, urban Brazil; life histories, black workers, São Paulo; 93Z4414 racial discrimination, US military personnel, redress issues, civilian vs military justice systems; court cases; 93Z4642

racial inequality-homicide rate relationship, US cities; Federal Bureau of Investigation homicide data, literature review; 93Z6328
racial vs racist incidents, analytical distinction, GB; 93Z4430
racism trends, young white adults, US; 1984-1990 General Social Survey/National Election Study data; 93Z4425
racism, Italy; 93Z4404
racism, synchronic nature, US/other nations; 93Z4423
racism, US, media reports vs survey data; 1972-1989 General Social Surveys; 93Z4406
racism/poverty causes, post-civil rights era, US; 93Z4397
racism/sectarianism, Northern Ireland; empirical data; Tottenham/West Belfast; 93Z4389
racist attitudes, male youth of German/Turkish parentage, Berlin, Federal Republic of Germany; interviews; 93Z4422
symbolic racism, Italian popular culture; 93Z4367
US military, racial/ethnic/gender issues; special journal issue introduction; 93Z4629

Radicalism
class formation as radicalism/collective behavior; democratization/industrialization circumstances; cross-sectional historical data; capitalist democracies; 93Z5162 left realist criminology strengths/weaknesses, feminist critique; 93Z6592
modernist radicalism/foundationalism, social theory; 7-chapter examination; 93c01667
radicalism/modernity; 2-book review symposium; 93Z5121

Railroads
atmospheric propulsion railway innovation failure, 19th-century England; 93Z5734

Random Samples
random sample size planning, anticipated uncertainty level control, methodological techniques; 93Z3974

Ranking tourist destination attractiveness ranking; cross-national questionnaire data; tourists, tourism-related business; 93Z3998

Rape
rape case judgments; victim's/assailant's previous alcohol consumption; factorial experiment, vignettes/questionnaire; 93Z6379
rape studies, flawed research methodology; 93Z5908
rape's meaning, investigator-victim perspective; personal experience; 93Z6383
rape, African-American women writers' portrayals; illustrative examples; poets; 93Z6556
rape, victimization patterns; 1979-1987 national survey data; 93Z6384
rape/domestic violence, USSR; research/theoretical issues; 93Z6381
rape/sexual coercion, male evolutionary psychology perspective; article/comments/reply; 93Z5932 sexual assault, South Africa, black woman activist's work; 93Z5840

Rates
hydrocarbon exploration/discovery, new techniques' effects, modeling framework; illustrative example; exploration, Alberta; 93Z3996
imprisonment rate changes, 1948-1985 US; unemployment/inflation; time-series data; 93Z5682
rating scales, extreme response style measurement; 1975-1987 survey data; US adults; 93Z3952

Rational Choice
cooperation, rational choice theory; illustrative example; Mormon Church; 93Z5585
equilibria, multiparty systems, rational-choice model; 93Z5055
historical sociology, structuralism/rational choice theories; 93Z4227
job quitting rationale, relative deprivation vs rational choice theory application; 1987 questionnaire data; bank/insurance employees, Zurich, Switzerland; 93Z4745
plea bargaining, rational choice theory; interview data; judges/lawyers/other legal professionals, Germany; 93Z5639
political preferences, cultural vs rational choice theories; 93Z5036
rational choice perspective, theoretical assessment; article/comments; 93Z4188 rational choice theory pros/cons; 10-chapter analysis; 93c01665
rational choice theory-Alfred Schütz's interpretive sociology parallels; 93Z4344
social norms, Jon Elster's methodologically individualistic assumptions; 93Z4306

Rationality
decision making, Herbert Simon's bounded rationality concept critiqued; 93Z4175 epistemological externalism, knowledge/society/power, theoretical discussion; 93Z3934
foreign policymakers' international conflict misperception, rational deterrence theory's validity, game-theoretic technique application; 93Z5697
Habermas, Jürgen, communication theory, language functions; 93Z4163 labor process control, relational rationality theory explanation; empirical data; industrial firms, New Jersey; 93Z4602
Pentecostalist churches' growth, Brazil, technoscientific/bourgeois ideology's role; 93Z5534
rationality/value freedom, modern science; 93Z4334
social issue beliefs/opinions, reasoned argument process; education/other variables; interviews; residents, New York City; 93Z4332
spheres of reality, sociological theory, Siegfried Kracauer's The Detective Novel; 93Z5416
symbolic interaction, modernity/postmodernity, Jürgen Habermas's/George Herbert Mead's work; 93Z4327

Rationalization
defetishization of modernity, sociology's role; 93Z4228
penal law, Max Weber's rationalization theory critiqued; 93Z5654 romantic love rationalization, middle-class women's magazines; content analysis; 93Z4892

Ratios
analytic hierarchy process, qualitative/quantitative data; 93Z3976

Reading
children's reading behavior, parental/family/social class influence, the Netherlands; 93Z5843
newspapers, young adults' attitudes; autobiographical data; undergraduates, midwestern US university; 93Z5850
reading/viewing, temporal dimension, texts/images/films; 93Z5378

Reagan Administration
crisis/membership decline, manufacturing unions' responses, resource dependence model; survey/other data; 93Z4596
public opinion/voting behavior; 1980 Jimmy Carter-Ronald Reagan presidential debate; 1980 US National Election Study; 93Z5068

Realism (Philosophy)
evolutionary theory, explanatory practice; 93Z6416
local crime surveys, leftist realist discourse/practice; 93Z6327
realism/relativism/constructionism, critical evaluation; 93Z5717
scientific realism, psychological applications; article/comments/response; 93Z4151 scientific realism/functionalism incompatibility; theoretical analysis; 93Z3935

Reality
motherhood, Quebec, historical images/realities; secondary data; 93Z6063

Reasoning
"practical sociological reasoning" concept, everyday sociological imagination, theoretical issues; 93Z4343
social issue beliefs/opinions, reasoned argument process; education/other variables; interviews; residents, New York City; 93Z4332

Rebellions
Shay's/Whiskey/Fries' rebellions, early US, theoretical connections; 93Z4840

Recidivism
cocaine addiction, group relapse prevention program;; 93Z6274
corporate crime recidivism; sanctions; event-history analysis; 1928-1981; 93Z4668
prison populations; recidivism, prison capacity; male commitment data; North Carolina; 93Z5681
recidivism prevention, new criminal justice philosophy, UK; 93Z5687

Reciprocity
cooperation, large groups; punishment; 93Z5821
reciprocity, exchange relations; 93Z4127

Recreation
adult-toddler interactions, gender differences; observational data; families, recreation areas, Sacramento, California; 93Z6000
global climate changes, outdoor recreation opportunity/behavior impacts; 93Z4922
leisure, escape/separation motivations, US families; questionnaire; Iowa recreation center visitors; 93Z4933

Recreational Facilities
cultural boundaries for US product, Disneyland/DisneyWorld/Tokyo Disneyland/EuroDisney compared; 93Z4511

Recruitment
Dutch corporate/political elite, university fraternity's recruitment; questionnaire; former fraternity leaders; 93Z5463
management's recruitment of temporary labor, contradictions/tensions; observational/interview data; US electronics firms operating in Ireland; 93Z4715
recruit quality-team performance relationship; experiment; soldiers, advanced training, Fort Gordon, Georgia; 93Z4626

Reference Materials
non-English material exclusion, Psychological Abstracts; 93Z5701 refugees/forced migration, geographical research; literature review; 93Z4437

Reform
Arab sociology, reforms & paradigm; case study; Egyptian social sciences; 93Z4086
criminal justice reform mandates, Texas political system's response, 1980-present; 93Z5669
evolution of constitutionalism, Poland, WWII-1989; 93Z5640
French Bourbon reforms, peasant physical resistance, late-18th-century Mexico City; 93Z5190
labor allocation/regulation, 1950s-1970s; People's Republic of China; 93Z4720
local state reform, labor-capitalist struggles, Toledo, Ohio, 1927-1949; pluralist/class analysis; 93Z5188 national health service reform, GB; 1990; 93Z6155
new constitution, Poland, potential changes; 93Z5653
perestroika, Soviet society, Mikhail Gorbachev's failed reforms; 93Z4795
property rights reform, state-second economy relationship, socialist Hungary; 93Z5102
slum sector, Third World metropolitan areas, planning issues; empirical data; Bangkok, Thailand; 93Z5360
undocumented immigration, US; 1986 Immigration/Reform Act; empirical data; 93Z5775
vampire capitalism, US; 93Z4832
welfare dependency/school dropout/violent crime/teenage pregnancy reduction, successful health/social service/educational programs, US/Canada; 93Z6543

Refugees
asylum crisis, European states' response; 93Z4443
cross-cultural adjustment, Tibetan refugees, India; 93Z4440
forced emigration, refugee problem, USSR; statistical/other data; 93Z5814
health care provision/health status, Ban Napho Refugee Camp vs Nakhom Phanom Province, Thailand; 1985-1989 province/Save the Children Fund records, school observation data; 93Z4441
international migration, demographic trends, immigration policies; article/comment; 93Z5782
minority housing associations, GB, refugee policies; 93Z4394 mortality/morbidity, Ethiopian refugee camps, Sudan; 1986-1990 UN data; 93Z4442
refugee camp conditions, Bethlehem, Israel; 1990 questionnaire data; residents; 93Z4445
refugee protection problem, Canada, 1960s-present; 93Z4438
Refugee Studies Programme, University of Oxford; 93Z4439
Somali refugee repatriation, Ethiopia, political conditions/other issues; personal observations; 93Z4444

Regional Development
International economic globalization, regional development impacts; 93Z4965
economic crisis, new localism response, Slovakia border cities; 93Z6437
neoliberal policies, regional/urban territory, Latin America; 93Z5090
regional commerce, Latin America, Uruguayan participation; 1983-1988 statistics; 93Z4964
regional development, Third World, theoretical perspectives; statistical data; 93Z4773
US suburb, historical evolution; literature review; 93Z6435

Regional Differences
attitudinal differences, Sunbelt migrants vs nonmigrant Northerners; 1977-1980 General Social Surveys; 93Z5777
crime rate; economic development/modernization; 1969-1982 INTERPOL data; 93Z6331
cultural holism, regional/historical specificity, South Asian anthropology; field research; oral literature/rituals, Kumaon region, northern India; 93Z4530
earnings inequality, blacks, southern US; region; 1980 Census; 93Z4363
interstate return migration patterns, regional differences, 1975-1980; 1983 US Census data; 93Z5817
minority neighborhood regeneration policies, London vs Liverpool, England; 93Z5341
regional development, Third World, theoretical perspectives; statistical data; 93Z4773
sports popularization, international differences, continental Europe; 93Z4958
stranger-local inhabitant interaction, various cultural/geographic settings; 93Z4919 structural disharmony/growth rates, Yugoslavia/Slovenia, suburbanization/excessive urbanization models; 1984-1991 questionnaire data; 93Z5359
suicide rates, West vs East Germany (Saxony); 93Z4278
women's/minorities' union participation, white males' attitudes, regional differences; questionnaire data; midwestern/southeastern union members; 93Z4580

Regionalism
unionization determinants/regional patterns, rural US South; case study; United Furniture Workers; 1963-1982; 93Z5255

Regression Analysis
cross-validation's use, regression/covariance structure analysis; 93Z3980
event count data, sociological analysis, generalized quasi-likelihood estimation proposed; 93Z3979
regression models, large-sample estimation, two-stage least squares approach; 93Z3993
tobit analysis coefficients decomposition, political protests in debtor nations; 93Z3984

Regulation
equal employment opportunity/affirmative action mandates, compliance efforts; case studies; 93Z6459
psychologist licensure, stringency determination factors, public/provider interest theories; 1977/78 American Association of State Psychology Board exam data; 93Z5224
unregulated private security, GB vs US/Belgium/France/New Zealand; 93Z5678

Reification
alienation/reification, Marxist theories; 93Z4501 careers research, reification problems; literature review; 93Z5208

Rejection
black inner-city mothers, perceived acceptance/rejection attitudes toward their sons, academic/other effects; questionnaire data; 93Z5942
chemical-dependent adolescents, parental acceptance/rejection/shame, self-report questionnaire; father-adolescent dyads; 93Z5883

Relative Deprivation economic beliefs; relative economic deprivation; 1988 interviews; adult residents, Alberta; 93Z5165 job quitting rationale, relative deprivation vs rational choice theory application; 1987 questionnaire data; bank/insurance employees, Zurich, Switzerland; 93Z4745

Relatives
well-being/marital adjustment, Korean wives; mother-in-law conflict; questionnaire data; Seoul; 93Z5951

Relativism
culture/human rights, universalist/relativist debates, South African context; article/comments; 93Z4449
Habermas, Jürgen, critical theory, Stephen Toulmin's views, relativistic predicament; 93Z4341
realism/relativism/constructionism, critical evaluation; 93Z5717

Relevance
ingroup bias; salience/relevance/status; social-psychology journal research reports; 93Z4239

Reliability
Community Oriented Program Environment Scale's reliability, chemically dependent black females; scale data; 93Z3943
health-related behavior theories, construct reliability; illustrative tests, 93Z3942

Religion Politics Relationship
1988 presidential hopefuls Jesse Jackson/Pat Robertson, white southern voters' support; religion; national survey data; 93Z5608
conservatism growth, US politics, 1950s-1980s; 6-chapter historical review; 93c01675
Islamic modernism/secularization; two-part review essay; 93Z5615
nativism/political heresy, Protestantism's influence, US society/political organizations; 93Z5058
political institution establishment, Catholic/Protestant political identities' barrier, Northern Ireland; 93Z4853
religion's revitalization, modern/postmodern ambivalence, postsocialist Eastern Europe; 93Z5573
religious identity changes, Switzerland; article/comments; 93Z5532
school prayer/creationism support; political/religious factors; interview data; North Carolina; 93Z5611
sex-role attitudes, college freshmen; gender/race/religion/political orientation; questionnaire data; Ivy League university; 93Z6630
US Catholic church-capitalism relationship, nationalist ideology; 93Z5531

Religions

alternative religions, Switzerland/France/Western Europe; article/comments; 93Z5582
civilization definition, religious foundation; 93Z4473 economic ethics, world religions, Max Weber's views; 93Z5606
religion's marginalization, Switzerland; article/comments; 93Z5604
religion, People's Republic of China; 20-book review essay; 93Z5522
religion-ethnicity connections, collective identity as negotiation process, Canadian historiography; 93Z5799
religious competitiveness-vitality relationship, economics perspective; secondary data; Western democracies; 93Z5536

Religiosity

American Indian religiosity/free religious practice, US Supreme Court decisions' impact; 93Z5543
Armenian church national autonomy/religious freedom pursuit, former USSR; 93Z5563
behavior toward strangers, religious affiliation constraints; prisoner's dilemma, Utah/Oregon; 93Z5588
Between States and Markets: The Voluntary Sector in Comparative Perspective by R. Wuthnow (Ed); review essay; 93Z4687
church-society relationship, Switzerland; article/comments; 93Z5530
early American national character, Puritans' religious influence, Alexis de Tocqueville's views; 93Z4068
Islam status, Central Asian republics, postcommunist USSR; 93Z5521
religion-culture relationship, traditional vs modern societies; 93Z5594
religion-culture relationship; 93Z5609
religiosity-adaptation relationship, oldest old; scale data; Georgia; 93Z5538
religiosity-deviance relationship; religious denomination; questionnaire; US undergraduates; 93Z5553
religious beliefs, semantic considerations, Switzerland; article/comments; 93Z5576
religious development, Finnish children/adolescents; longitudinal questionnaire data; students/teachers; 93Z5598
religious identity changes, Switzerland; article/comments; 93Z5532
religious vitality, international variations; forum; 93Z5616
Slovene ethnic identity, US, religious faith's role; illustrative example; rural Slovene settlement, Stearns County, Michigan; 93Z5575
US society; immigrant ethnic/religious diversity; case study; 1880-1920 Hungarian Slovak immigrants, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania; 93Z5520

Religious Attitudes

1988 presidential hopefuls Jesse Jackson/Pat Robertson, white southern voters' support; religion; national survey data; 93Z5608
attitudes toward corporal punishment of children, Protestant fundamentalism's influence; 1991 interview data; Oklahoma; 93Z5562
birth control ban, Old Laestadian revivalist movement; 93Z6055 intergroup conflict, Rajneeshee commune members/other adults, 1980s Oregon; interview/participant observation data; 93Z5578
religious/political attitudes, Palestinian students, Najah University, West Bank; questionnaire data; 93Z5523

Religious Behavior

belief in God-worldview of modern science reconciliation; 93Z5560
constitutional religious freedom vs state Islamization policies, Malaysia; article/response; 93Z5593
demonism practice, Sri Lankan Sinhalas, Christianity's influence; 93Z6414
divorce mediation process, cultural/religious issues; 93Z6389
folk healing practices, rural France; interview data; 93Z5570
Islamic modernism/secularization; two-part review essay; 93Z5615
patients' behavior/progress; religious beliefs/values; case studies; 93Z5565
religious beliefs/behaviors; 1987/88 televangelist scandals; time series data; 93Z4877
religious vitality, international variations; forum; 93Z5616
social action/evangelism/ecumenism; community/theological/church structural variables; 1986 survey; eastern/midwestern US congregations; 93Z5571
United Methodist Church, social/political change attempts, Detroit, Michigan, 1950-1980; 93Z5566

Religious Beliefs

alcohol consumption patterns, college/university students, Louisiana/Iowa; cultural/religious/other factors; survey data; 93Z6462
American Indian religiosity/free religious practice, US Supreme Court decisions' impact; 93Z5543
antipornography campaigns, 1980s, US vs England; 93Z4886
Armenian church national autonomy/religious freedom pursuit, former USSR; 93Z5563
Catholic confession/penance, Spanish colonial Mexico, Nahua natives' autobiographical self-reconstruction; 93Z5574 church attendance, social meaning, independent charismatic church, Austin, Texas; interviews, statistical data; 93Z5527
environmentalism, utopian/religious aspects; observation/interview data; environmental groups, workers, Baden-Württemburg, Germany; 93Z6399
European Catholic evangelism, colonial Mexico, cuadernillos (pictoral Christian doctrines) usage; religious/cultural encounter; 93Z5554 heroin use, Left Realist assumptions/policy critiqued; 93Z6277
India, 1947 Hindu/Muslim partition, Sikhs' exclusion; 93Z5187
male cross-gender behavior, acaults, Myanmar (Burma), Buddhist spirit god beliefs; observational/interview data; 93Z6607
man, Max Weber's concept; 93Z4087
marital dissolution, Italy; socioeconomic factors, family size; 1983 survey data; women ages 15-64; 93Z5959
religious beliefs, semantic considerations, Switzerland; article/comments; 93Z5576
religious beliefs/behaviors; 1987/88 televangelist scandals; time series data; 93Z4877
religious beliefs/moral values, Mormon vs other Christian congregations, US; questionnaire survey; church members; 93Z5569
religious themes' humor/modern relevance, comic strips; content analysis; Los Angeles Times, 1979-1987; 93Z5581
secularization theory critique; reply; 93Z5539

Religious Conversion

evangelical Protestantism conversions, Mayan village, Guatemalan highlands; field observations; 93Z5548
Jewish identity maintenance, conversionary vs mixed marriages, US Jews; file data; 93Z4390
Pentecostalism's spread, rural migrants, Mexico City vs Puebla village, Mexico; field observations; 93Z5557
secularization theory critique; reply; 93Z5539
sociodemographic/behavioral/other characteristics, US Jewry; 1990 national survey; 93Z4371

Religious Cultural Groups allegiance conflicts, different religious groups, colonial Ireland; 93Z4210 individual-community relationship, Sweden; empirical case study; Svenska Missionsförbundet; 93Z4298

Islam status, Central Asian republics, postcommunist USSR; 93Z5521
Italian Catholicism, US, parish perspective; 1900-1910 parish-level data; Waterbury, Connecticut; 93Z5551
Jewish/Christian religious enterprise organizations; interview data, case studies; 93Z5577
Judaism/Jewishness, USSR, ethnicity vs religion; 93Z5559
labor activity, Druse vs Jews, Haija Port, Israel; rural-urban commute; case study; Druse, Israel; 93Z5276
national identity perceptions, university students, US/Hungary/Bulgaria/Greece; survey data; 93Z5134
school prayer/creationism support; political/religious factors; interview data; North Carolina; 93Z5611

Religious Doctrines

feminist ethics discourse, Roman Catholic Church; 93Z5550 homosexual ordination, United Church of Canada, 1990 General Council compromise; 93Z5596

Religious Education

family/marriage/sexuality, Roman Catholic Church teachings, Flanders, church members' criticisms; survey; 93Z5590
religious development, Finnish children/adolescents; longitudinal questionnaire data; students/teachers; 93Z5598

Religious Fundamentalism

antipornography campaigns, 1980s, US vs England; 93Z4886
attitudes toward corporal punishment of children, Protestant fundamentalism's influence; 1991 interview data; Oklahoma; 93Z5562
Christian Lebanese nationalist discourse, Lebanese civil war; 93Z5564
conservative Protestant church/dual-earner family traditional norms conflict; 1989 interview/questionnaire data; church staff/members, Indiana; 93Z5544
Islamic fundamentalism discourse, Middle East/Southeast Asia, critical perspective; 93Z5518
Lubavitch, ultrareligious Hasidic Jewish movement, Messianic prophecy; 93Z5595
Middle East, Islamic fundamentalism, image-centered forms of social regulation; 93Z4504

Religious Literature

Roman Catholic catechism, 16th-century indigenous language translation, Guatemala; historical documents, fieldwork data; 93Z5449

Religious Movements

academic expert testimony, new religious movement trials, ethical/professional questions; 93Z4864

Baptist movement, Latin America; historical literature, interviews; national leaders; 93Z5533
birth control ban, Old Laestadian revivalist movement; 93Z6055
Catholic Action movement, Turin, Italy, Pier Giorgio Frassati's position; 93Z5556
collective irrational behavior, alternative analytic methods; case studies; New Age movements, US; 93Z4916
Italian social activist Pier Giorgio Frassati, background/activities; 93Z5027
Jesus/charismatic movements, stigmatization's role; 93Z5549
Lubavitch, ultrareligious Hasidic Jewish movement, Messianic prophecy; 93Z5595
mountain communities, northern Italy, La Giovane Montagna weekly review, modernization/religious promotion goals; 93Z5558
Pentecostalism's spread, rural migrants, Mexico City vs Puebla village, Mexico; field observations; 93Z5557
Pentecostalist churches' growth, Brazil, technoscientific/bourgeois ideology's role; 93Z5534
Popular party activities, social activist Pier Giorgio Frassati, Italy, 1920s; 93Z5060
Protestantism, Latin America, sociohistorical approach; literature review, statistics; 93Z5524
religion, People's Republic of China; 20-book review essay; 93Z5522
religious movement internationalization; case study; Muslim Jamiyah, Singapore; 93Z5607
social activist Pier Giorgio Frassati, interwar-era Turin, Italy; 93Z5096
Toba Pentecostalism, Argentina, theoretical models; 93Z5612
tobacco movement, Iran, 1890-1892, Shi'i religious discourse's role; 93Z4855

Religious Orientations
congregational religious style-social world orientation relationship; 1987 survey; midwestern US church members; 93Z5583
cooperation, rational choice theory; illustrative example; Mormon Church; 93Z5585

Religious Orthodoxy
Orthodox church, social/political role, postcommunist Russia; 93Z5602
Ukrainian Greek Catholic church, contemporary Russia; 93Z5529

Religious Revivalism
birth control ban, Old Laestadian revivalist movement; 93Z6055 religion, People's Republic of China; 20-book review essay; 93Z5522

Relocation
adolescent coping strategies, family relocation abroad; scale/inventory data; US teenagers living in Belgium; 93Z5897
gentrification-black residential dislocation, Washington, DC; census data; 93Z5361
migrant characteristics, 1980s urban-to-rural migration, Spain; interviews; 93Z5295
refugees/forced migration, geographical research; literature review; 93Z4437

Remarriage
child support-remarriage relationship, divorced mothers; 1979-1986 Current Population Survey data; 93Z5965 financial support, children of divorce; economic resources, remarriage; 1968-1980 panel data; 93Z5977
household labor, husbands' contributions, first-/remarried families; 1987/88 national survey; 93Z5979
parental support of adult children; parental divorce/remarriage; 1987/88 national survey data; 93Z6044
remarriage instability/quality decline; partner attributes; interview data; 93Z5944
remarriage patterns, demographic characteristics/gender differences; statistical data; 93Z6046

Renaissance
family labor/economic strategies, early modern Swabia (Germany); 1480-1618 archival records; Augsburg; 93Z5287 technological innovation, cultural/societal impact, Renaissance era; 93Z4484

Rents gentrification, rent/value gap explanations; case study; Sweden; 93Z5322

Reports
psychological case reports, discourse analysis; 93Z6208

Representation
animal-human relations, archetypal historical categories; content analysis; tabloid press articles; 93Z4471

Repression (Political) economic/political instability, post-1975 Madagascar; 93Z4217

Reproductive Technologies
biogenetic/reproductive technologies cultural context; case study; popular magazines; 93Z6086
new reproductive technologies, women's body-self control rights, feminist discourse; 93Z6065
reproductive science; round-table discussion; 93Z6058
reproductive/genetic engineering/control, women's oppression issues; 93Z6069

Research organized crime, competing paradigms, US research, 1920-present; empirical data; 93Z6337
personality research, global traits approved; 93Z4265 psychologist Cyril L. Burt, intelligence heritability research defended 2-book review essay; 93Z5720
psychology research, increased production, information exchange; article/comments; 93Z5725
research universities-national economic development relationship, Western society; 93Z5502
research/teaching activity, higher education faculty, Australia; 1989 questionnaire data; 93Z5492
social-psychological research, psychologists' contributions, Netherlands; 1989 questionnaire; members, Dutch Association of Social Psychological Research; 93Z4276
urban research, France, 1960s-present; literature review; 93Z5357
West European astronomical research evaluation, citation vs publication data; international data bases; 93Z5709

Research and Development
high-technology innovation, perceived organizational support; demographic/other factors; questionnaire survey; electronics firm employees; 93Z5742

Research Applications
labor law reforms, political discourse, social science research's role, West Germany; 93Z3959

Research Design
health-related behavior theories, construct reliability; illustrative tests 93Z3942
job performance research, unmeasured variables' importance, model development; 93Z5707
suicidal behavior, human immunodeficiency syndrome disease; research review; 93Z6229
survey data quality; questionnaire design; Detroit, Michigan; 93Z397 survey data validity; unclear terms; telephone interviews; 93Z3951

Research Design Error
labor law reforms, political discourse, social science research's role, West Germany; 93Z3959

Research Ethics
children with human immunodeficiency virus/acquired immune deficiency syndrome, clinical treatment/drug testing, ethical issues; 93Z6152
hospice patients, qualitative research studies, ethical issues; illustrative examples; 93Z3937
international ethical guidelines, clinical research; 93Z3928
open social research methods, ethical consideration; 93Z4014

Research Methodology
alienation research, methodological changes; 93Z3953
analytic hierarchy process, qualitative/quantitative data; 93Z3976
children with human immunodeficiency virus/acquired immune deficiency syndrome, clinical treatment/drug testing, ethical issues; 93Z6152
constant comparative method, field research, New York City subway system; 93Z3961
drug abuse epidemiology, research/intervention strategies, Europe, 93Z6269
drug abuse research, Mexico; literature review; 93Z6275
drug abuse, local/national research, GB; research review; 93Z6263
equal opportunity programs, whites' attitudes, survey question methodology; 1986 questionnaire data; 93Z4365
feminist methodology debate; article/comments; 93Z6580
historians/philosophers of science, philosophical technology research strategies; 93Z5706
local labor markets, longitudinal/cross-sectional research strategies; illustrative example; Georgia; 93Z4721
mentalities study, linguistic research, methodological proposals; 93Z5368
multilevel analysis/theory, model specification; illustrative application; 93Z3999
open social research methods, ethical consideration; 93Z4014
organizational demography, alternative research approaches; empirical literature review; 93Z4647

play, authorial presence, research implications; 93Z4451
police studies, ethnographic methodology assessed; 2-book review essay; 93Z5696
political polling developments, US; 93Z4870
rape studies, flawed research methodology; 93Z5908
single indicators, multiwave panel data, stability estimate models; 93Z3994
sociological research, evaluation processes; 93Z3929
survey nonresponse; questionnaire length; 1987 data; England, Wales; 93Z3948

Research Responses
household drug use reporting, surveys; telephone vs face-to-face interviewing; 1986/87 empirical data; 93Z3945
interviewing, response rates, presurvey enhancement methods; case study; two-stage interviewing; 93Z3965
mail survey response rate, health professionals, strategy review; 93Z3960
public opinion questionnaire, Netherlands; illustrative application; 93Z3963
public opinion research, nonresponse problems; 93Z3926
respondent behavior, interviewer effects; social desirability; empirical data; German cities; 93Z3970
spiral of silence theory, survey respondent candor, 1988 US presidential election; telephone survey; Orange County, California; 93Z4873
survey interview responses; state/task uncertainty; empirical data; Madison, Wisconsin; 93Z6082
survey nonresponse; questionnaire length; 1987 data; England, Wales; 93Z3948
survey response motivation, self-selected vs electronic mail survey samples; 93Z3975

Research Subjects
official census problems, voluntary vs mandatory participation, Germany; 93Z5808

Researcher Subject Relations
ethnic monitoring, social scientists' role; 93Z4388
ethnographer/informant relationship development; fieldwork data; Gur Hasidic sect, Tel-Aviv, Israel; 93Z3950
international ethical guidelines, clinical research; 93Z3928
open social research methods, ethical consideration; 93Z4014

Researchers
information dissemination, Statistics Canada-research community collaboration strategy; 93Z4002

Residence income level, Israeli communities; residence/employment community; 1983 census data; 93Z4608
residential development associations, private government interpretation; survey, case studies, interviews; board presidents/industry professionals/residents, California; 93Z5314

Residential Institutions
sexual behavior, group residences for mentally retarded/mentally ill disabled, Jewish agency's ethical dilemmas; 93Z5913
suicide, long-term care facilities, US; institutional environmental factors; questionnaire; administrators; 93Z6103

Residential Mobility
rural repopulation trends, Northern Ireland; secondary data; 93Z5812

Residential Patterns
gentrification-black residential dislocation, Washington, DC; census data; 93Z5361
migratory patterns, Portuguese, Argentina; 1855-1895 census data; 93Z5315

Residential Preferences
homeless mentally ill, residential preferences; interview/self-report data; transitional shelters, Boston, Massachusetts; 93Z6550
moderate-income household renovation, public-individual partnership, Israel; 1979-1983 evaluation data; 93Z5320

Residential Segregation
ethnic residential segregation, Dutch cities, 1970-1990; empirical data; 93Z4431
neighborliness/socializing/residential satisfaction, German/Spanish immigrants, Toronto, Ontario; questionnaire data; 93Z4387

Residents
engineering job market, Cosenza, Italy; university establishment; questionnaires, interviews; 93Z4710
Mexican Americans, border region resident characteristics; interview data; 93Z6444
social relationships, nursing home residents; interviews; 93Z6296 substance abuse-posttraumatic stress disorder relationship; 1982/83 interviews; residents, Saint Louis, Missouri; 93Z6213

Resistance
capitalist development resistance, 19th-century southern Illinois; election returns, newspapers, agricultural census data; 93Z4224
cultural resistance theory, GB; illustrative example; male working-class youth; 93Z4482
job loss resistance/acquiescence, trade unions; case studies; automobile manufacturing plants, GB; 93Z4570
underdevelopment/resistance politics, gender's role, Philippines; 1989 fieldwork; organized peasant women; 93Z6632

Resource Allocation
crisis management, communication resources, planning/propaganda/societal morale; 93Z4972
food distribution, social policy, 16th-/17th-century England; 93Z6467 infant mortality; health care resources; 1988 World Bank statistical data; 117-country analysis; 93Z6147 risk evaluation, individual vs societal perspective; 93Z6527
teenage pregnancy risk reduction program, scarce resource allocation, US; program data; Bamberg County, South Carolina; 93Z5877

Resource Management
desertification, international community's perceived inaction; 93Z6509
forest resource use conflict, Ixtlán, Mexico; 93Z6436
global climate changes, outdoor recreation opportunity/behavior impacts; 93Z4922
human resource management, logical positivist model critiqued; 93Z5710
human resource management, taxonomies evaluated; 93Z4652 human resource management, theory development/presentation problems; 93Z4661
human resource management, theory development; 93Z4670
organizational learning, failure/success rate; asset depletion; hypothetical examination; 93Z3997

Resource Mobilization women's organizations, response to 1970s women's movement, resource mobilization theory; archival data, interviews; Cincinnati, Ohio; 93Z4838

Resources
global population growth-resource use-environmental quality relationship; 93Z6515

Respect
science ideas, respectability; false rationalization vs proven explanation; statistical data; 93Z5711

Respondents
police officers, informing on other officers' illegal behaviors, subcultural perspective; personal knowledge/observations; 93Z4315
respondent behavior, interviewer effects; social desirability; empirical data; German cities; 93Z3970
survey response motivation, self-selected vs electronic mail survey samples; 93Z3975

Responsibility
childrearing, biological parents' responsibility, theoretical issues; literature review; 93Z4201
conversational interaction, wrongdoing ownership avoidance techniques; 93Z5366

Restitution (Corrections)
restitution vs retribution, former Communist party informants, post-communist Czechoslovakia; 93Z4209

Retail Industry
cooperative retail buying groups, incentive structures; 93Z4653

Retirement
elderly social problems, India; interview data; retired government employees/old age home residents; 93Z6308
retirement/inheritance negotiation, elderly Alexanderwohl Mennonites, US capitalist vs Russian feudal systems; census/interview/other data; 93Z6305

Return Migration
British repatriation policies/practices, Eastern European Jewish immigrants, 1881-1914; 93Z5786
economic/family/social activities, Yugoslav women immigrants; questionnaire data; 93Z5813
interstate return migration patterns, regional differences, 1975-1980; 1983 US Census data; 93Z5817
Somali refugee repatriation, Ethiopia, political conditions/other issues; personal observations; 93Z4444

Revolutions
East European communist regimes' overthrow, cultural explanations; literature review; 93Z4866
industrial revolution/technological change, South Africa; literature review; 93Z4772
liberation ideologies, black Transvaal students, Johannesburg, South Africa; questionnaire data; 93Z4492

Partido Revolucionario Institucional, power loss, Mexico; 93Z5084
rural/small town life, Czechoslovakia; communism's downfall; 1989-1990 empirical data; 93Z5054
Soviet society, scholarly conceptions, civilizational factors of Russian history; 93Z4465

Rewards
home ownership, financial gains; empirical data; urban New Zealand; 93Z5327

Rhetoric
cognitive psychology criticized; 93Z4185
collaborative composing practices, rhetoric's role, workplace/classroom; case examples; 93Z5491
disarmament rhetoric, care/peripheral/semiperipheral states, world-system theory; 1982 UN special session proceedings; 93Z4963
human-computer interaction, social nature, rhetorical contract; experiment; college students, New York; 93Z4008
science practice, boundary demarcation, rhetorical negotiation; literature review; illustrative example; 93Z5724
US legal system interpretation, rhetorical deconstruction project, Stanley Fish's work; 93Z4168

Rhode Island
local reggae bands, Rhode Island; ethnographic study; 93Z5402
women's career/family roles, college-age daughters'/parents' expectations; questionnaire; Rhode Island university; 93Z6023

Right to Die
ethical medical practice, US Supreme Court (Nancy) Cruzan decision's impact; 93Z5239
human immunodeficiency virus disease, psychiatric care, ethical issues; literature review, other data; 93Z6206
life/death choices, US Supreme Court's 1990 decision, (Nancy) Cruzan case; 93Z4268
medical decision-making/right-to-die issues, post-Cruzan decision; 93Z4253
termination of medical treatment, decision-making standards, state courts' role; 93Z5646

Right Wing Politics
conservatism crisis/ideological fragmentation, late-1980s US; 93Z5179
conservatism growth, US politics, 1950s-1980s; 6-chapter historical review; 93c01675
parent idealization, authoritarians/rightists; interview data, literature review; 93Z5873
right-wing political party support, Giessen, Germany; 1989 survey; 93Z5097

Rights
animal rights, sociolegal perspective; 93Z5645
disputes/social relationships, analytic approach; illustrative example; welfare rights; 93Z6472
gestational substance abuse, court-ordered prenatal intervention, legal issues; 93Z6062
grandparents' rights, sociological analysis; participant observation; self-help/advocacy group, midwestern city; 93Z5958
paternity determinations, child's relitigation rights; 93Z6064 prisoners testing positive for human immunodeficiency virus, rights/care, GB; 93Z5699
violence, US prisons, historical/structural/cultural contexts; 93Z5693

Rio de Janeiro, Brazil environmental crisis, turn-of-the-millenium, democratic/environmentally sensitive alternatives; 1992 Earth Summit, Rio de Janeiro, Brazil; 93Z6517

Risk
acquired immune deficiency syndrome risk behavior/knowledge, chronic psychiatric outpatients; questionnaire data; Wisconsin; 93Z6143
acquired immune deficiency syndrome stigma, social interaction; means of transmission/risk knowledge/gender; survey data; undergraduates; 93Z6153
acquired immune deficiency syndrome, knowledge/risk perception, US; 1988/89 survey data; 93Z6187
hazardous waste landfill risk perceptions, community leaders vs general public, Sumter County, Alabama; interview/survey data; 93Z6492
high risk drug use/sexual practices, intravenous drug users, Athens, Greece; questionnaire/scale data; 93Z5916
human immunodeficiency syndrome infection prevalence, injecting drug users, behavioral risk reduction strategies; statistical data; 93Z6283
human immunodeficiency virus-/hepatitis-infected health care workers, patient transmission risk, prevention guidelines; 93Z6134
human immunodeficiency virus-infected medical professionals, patient transmission risks, control issues; 93Z6128
modernity, risk society concept; 8-chapter analysis; 93c01657
practicing sports, social risks, illustrative example; sports facility closures, post-Chernobyl USSR; 93Z4946
risk evaluation, individual vs societal perspective; 93Z6527
risk taking/perception/management, intravenous drug users; street-based ethnographic research, survey data; Massachusetts drug treatment facilities; 93Z6122
risk-based technologies, crime prevention applications; 93Z5643
sexual risk estimation; human immunodeficiency virus seropositivity disclosure; hypothetical cases; 93Z6181
technological risks, public responses, sociological perspective; 93Z5738
tire fire, Hagersville, Ontario, community risk interpretation/coping; interviews; 93Z6518
traffic risk perception study, judgment/decision-making psychology research's implications; 93Z6520
unsafe sexual intercourse, social correlates, gays/bisexuals/heterosexuals; questionnaire/interview/other data; Perth, Australia; 93Z5934
violent death risk; gender/age; 1950-1986 mortality statistics; Canada, 93Z6563
work/industry modernization, West Germany, 1988-1990, risk society concept; empirical data; 93Z4222

Risk Assessment
chronic posttraumatic stress disorder, patient/disorder characteristics; scale/interview data; health maintenance organization, Michigan; 93Z6207
environmental regulation, control, conflicts, "disputing" paradigm, 93Z6514
man-made vs natural hazards, risk perceptions; scale data; university students, Norway; 93Z6494
risk evaluation, individual vs societal perspective; 93Z6527
tire fire, Hagersville, Ontario, community risk interpretation/coping; interviews; 93Z6518
traffic risk perception study, judgment/decision-making psychology research's implications; 93Z6520
wife assault risk markers, federal offenders; records, interviews, questionnaires; inmates/female partners; 93Z6559

Rituals
Chinese dinner table mien tze (politeness) interaction, "face" notion, rituals/norms; restaurant dinner observation; Taiwan; 93Z5371
Colombian leave-taking rituals, ethnographic significance, speech patterns, communication rituals; audiotaped conversation; 93Z5374
communal group members' self-esteem; leader's charisma, ritual, collective effervescence; scale/other data; US cities; 93Z4254
occupation-ritual practice relationships, occupational hierarchical ranking implications, Egypt; empirical data; 93Z5207
ritual's role, legal systems/practice, anthropological theory; illustrative example; Miranda criminal procedure role; 93Z5658
ritualized communication/greetings/leave-taking; resource bibliography; 93Z5386
Soziale Welt, 1989 articles; review essay; 93Z4074
symbolic sexual violence meanings, Tukanoan rituals, Colombia; 1968-1970 fieldwork data; 93Z6375

Role Ambiguity
role expectation conflict, generalized theory; 93Z4164
social interactions, social role/consensus expectations negotiations; conversational analysis; student dyads; 93Z4296

Role Conflict
dual-role stress/coping, working mothers; interview/questionnaire data; London, England; 93Z6024
employment attitudes, young people, Germany, gender differences; empirical data; 93Z5879
gender relations/multiple selves construction, Sri Lankan Muslims; narrative/case study data; 93Z4519 immigrant women's bicultural roles/values/identities, resulting stress, personal experience; Arab Americans, California; 93Z6158
role expectation conflict, generalized theory; 93Z4164
social support contingencies/functions, Polish immigrants, US; participant observation, questionnaire/interview data; 93Z4436 work/family role stressors/strain, Korean-American dual-earner families; family resources/coping strategy; empirical data; 93Z5984

Role Satisfaction
institutional emotional norms/role satisfaction, Assembly of God missionary wives; participant observation/interview/other data; 93Z6654

Roles
child support enforcement duties, New Jersey probation officers, role stress; questionnaire; 93Z5688
economic/family/social activities, Yugoslav women immigrants; questionnaire data; 93Z5813

family/community, youth's role/position, Korea; research review; 93Z5857
job functions, rural police; questionnaire/interview data; Illinois; 93Z5684
Partido Acción Nacional, history/political role, Mexico; 93Z5062
personality disorder definitions, Diagnostic & Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders III, underrating social/relationship nature; 93Z6665
unemployment, psychological impacts on marriage, psychoanalytic perspective; empirical data; marital therapy clients, London, England; 93Z6018

Roman Catholicism
Catholic Action movement, Turin, Italy, Pier Giorgio Frassati's position; 93Z5556
Catholic church evangelism/economic exploitation, 16th-/17th-century colonial Latin America, doctrina as organizational unit; secular/ecclesiastical record; 93Z5579
Catholic confession/penance, Spanish colonial Mexico, Nahua natives' autobiographical self-reconstruction; 93Z5574
European Catholic evangelism, colonial Mexico, cuadernillos (pictoral Christian doctrines) usage; religious/cultural encounter; 93Z5554
family/marriage/sexuality, Roman Catholic Church teachings, Flanders, church members' criticisms; survey; 93Z5590
Italian Catholicism, US, parish perspective; 1900-1910 parish-level data; Waterbury, Connecticut; 93Z5551
Italian social activist Pier Giorgio Frassati, background/activities; 93Z5027
Latin America, Spanish colonialism/evangelism; special issue introduction; 93Z5555
Popular party activities, social activist Pier Giorgio Frassati, Italy, 1920s; 93Z5060
religious commitment, competition's effects; cross-societal secondary data Roman Catholics; 93Z5597
Roman Catholic catechism, 16th-century indigenous language translation, Guatemala; historical documents, fieldwork data; 93Z5449
sacralization process, Mt. Šipovac, Herzegovina; historical periodization; 93Z5526
social activist Pier Giorgio Frassati, interwar-era Turin, Italy; 93Z5096
US Catholic church-capitalism relationship, nationalist ideology; 93Z5531

Roman Catholics
feminist ethics discourse, Roman Catholic Church; 93Z5550
religious commitment, competition's effects; cross-societal secondary data Roman Catholics; 93Z5597
Roman Catholic church's role, Stroessner-era Paraguay; documentary/interview/other data; 93Z5535

Romania
abortion/international adoption, postcommunist Romania; 93Z6070

Rome, Italy
decentralized development, Rome, reform/social planning issues; Italian census data; 93Z5773 sociologist Martino Ancona, Rome, Italy; contributions/activities; memoriam; 93Z4114

Rumors
false rumor transmission; comment; 93Z4895

Rural Areas
black labor force participation, rural US South; questionnaire/secondary data; 93Z5254
depopulation, social/economic change, Imotski district, rural Croatia; 1857-1991 census data; 93Z5806
economic relations/exchange, transition context, provincial Russia; 1990 observations; 93Z4474
family farms, agricultural modernizations's impact, Croatia; historical sketch; 93Z5310 family relations/gender division of labor, farm families, Spain, 1930s; oral histories; 93Z4714
folk healing practices, rural France; interview data; 93Z5570 industry, development/spatial distribution, rural Croatia; 1981-1989 official census data; 93Z5289
job functions, rural police; questionnaire/interview data; Illinois; 93Z5684
labor force experiences, nonmetropolitan men vs women; individual/structural factors; 1980 survey; Kentucky; 93Z4754
new business start-up research, local economy enumeration data need; database comparison; rural Iowa; 93Z5318 poverty levels, rural/urban Bangladesh, estimation methodology; 1982-1986 survey data; 93Z6538
rural characteristics, France; agricultural data; 93Z5251
rural children, changing family composition/economic status, US; 1960-1980 census data; 93Z5278
rural counties, Georgia, agricultural structure/well-being relationship; 1969-1987 longitudinal/panel data; 93Z5305
rural economic changes, policy implications, 1970s/1980s US; 93Z5252
rural labor markets, economic concepts; 93Z5270
rural settlement, associated environmental problems; Uganda, 1972-1989; 93Z5037
sibling/parent relationships, preadolescents' perceptions, rural areas/small towns; interviews, inventory data; parents/siblings; 93Z6032
Slovene ethnic identity, US, religious faith's role; illustrative example; rural Slovene settlement, Stearns County, Michigan; 93Z5575
social change, rural Croatia; 93Z5301
social mobility, northeastern Italy; migration; survey data; 93Z5177
unionization determinants/regional patterns, rural US South; case study; United Furniture Workers; 1963-1982; 93Z5255 village decline, Croatia, revitalization strategies; 93Z4219 youth employment prospects, rural/urban Germany; production changes; 1985-1990 empirical data; Jörgenstorf, Leipzig; 93Z5870

Rural Communities
farming communities, modernization's impact; historical-anthropological analysis; 19th-century Ciénega de Chalapa, Jalisco, Mexico; 93Z5731
household famine resilience/migration, rural communities, Sudan; 1989 interviews; migrants; 93Z5294
occupational/spatial mobility, agricultural Hakka community, southeast Asia; genealogical data; 93Z5161
rural communities, US; 13-chapter sociological analysis; 93c01671
rural economy, agricultural production's declining importance, Spain; 1950-1989 statistics/other published data; 93Z5285
rural life, change/old-new conflict, sociological perspective; personal experiences, fieldwork; sociologists; 93Z5284
rural/small town life, Czechoslovakia; communism's downfall; 1989-1990 empirical data; 93Z5054
technological innovation adoption, rural communities, social perspective; case studies; photoelectric solar energy panel introduction, villages, Senegal/Chad/central Africa/Spain; 93Z5750

Rural Development
alternative agrarian social relations, environmental perception's importance; case study; rural landsharing collective, Victoria, Australia; 93Z5263
household structure/family formation, late 19th-century France; economic changes, protindustrialization; secondary data; rural Loire Département; 93Z5793
integrated rural development project, Ethiopia, social learning framework; documentary analysis; 93Z5309 rural development/agrarian structures, Barcelona (Catalonia)/Andalusia, Spain; 93Z5258
rural policy, industrialization's role, US; Marxist perspective; 93Z530
social transformations, People's Republic of China; 93Z4220

Rural Education
demographic/economic shifts, 20th-century French countryside, educational system implications; 93Z5290
French agricultural sector, continuing education needs; 93Z5256
post-WWII agricultural changes, adult education impacts, France; 93Z5197
rural education, France; 20th-century student memoirs; 93Z5264

Rural Population
alternative rural credit, Mexico; 1989 workshop meeting; 93Z5266
Chilean rural sector, social science research's organizational utility; 93Z5265
folk healing practices, rural France; interview data; 93Z5570
political affiliations/voting practices, rural residents, Spain; 1983/1988 surveys; 93Z5039
production/consumption/income strategies, rural households, Kenya; drought; 1984-1987 survey data; 93Z5275
rural characteristics, France; agricultural data; 93Z5251
rural family forms/labor organization, ecotype approach; secondary data; Alpine Austria; 93Z4533
rural repopulation trends, Northern Ireland; secondary data; 93Z5812

Rural Poverty
rural homelessness, New York; field research; 93Z6548
rural poverty, problem definition, US social programs; 93Z6544

Rural Sociology
economic restructuring/Fordist transition, rural sociological impacts; 93Z5280
rural sociology, Alvin L. Bertrand's contributions; 93Z4048

Rural to Urban Migration adjustment strategies, separated couples, husband's urban migration, Bangladesh; interview data, personal letters; 93Z6012

rural-urban migration decisions, socioeconomic/occupational/other factors, Jordan; interviews; migrants, Irbid; 93Z6201
rural-urban migration, Croatia/Bosnia/Herzegovina; 1989 questionnaire data; 93Z5801

Rural Urban Continuum
higher education-labor force needs mismatch, Philippines; 93Z5454
labor activity, Druse vs Jews, Haija Port, Israel; rural-urban commute; case study; Druse, Israel; 93Z5276

Rural Urban Differences
environmental quality, social attitudes, rural vs urban Croatia; 1989 questionnaire data; 93Z6537
literacy, India; 1961-1981 statistics; 93Z5470
mortality/morbidity rates, Guantanamo province, Cuba; 1988 census statistics; 93Z6135
Pentecostalism's spread, rural migrants, Mexico City vs Puebla village, Mexico; field observations; 93Z5557
youth employment prospects, rural/urban Germany; production changes; 1985-1990 empirical data; Jörgenstorf, Leipzig; 93Z5870

Rural Youth
Rural Christian Youth Movement, France; 1989/90 participant observation; 93Z5592

Russia
economic relations/exchange, transition context, provincial Russia; 1990 observations; 93Z4474 mean household size/type, 18th-century Russian towns; inventory data; 93Z4230
Orthodox church, social/political role, postcommunist Russia; 93Z5602
social psychology, Russia/USSR; historical overview; 93Z4297
social theory, postcommunist Russia; 93Z4138
Soviet society, scholarly conceptions, civilizational factors of Russian history; 93Z4465
Ukrainian Greek Catholic church, contemporary Russia; 93Z5529

Sacredness
Bataille, Georges, College of Sociology, postmodernist antagonisms; 93Z4083
sacralization process, Mt. Šipovac, Herzegovina; historical periodization; 93Z5526
Soziale Welt, 1989 articles; review essay; 93Z4074

Safety
occupational health/safety regulation, GB vs Federal Republic of Germany; interview data; 93Z6461

Saint Barthelemy
marriage/economic patterns Saint Barthélemy French West Indies; 1878-1976 parochial/civil records; 93Z4786

Sales
home marketing parties, persuasion/influence process; interviews; organizers, guests; 93Z4337

Sales Workers wage differences, salary vs commission payment systems, department store salespersons, US; 1981 survey data; 93Z4739

Salience
ingroup bias; salience/relevance/status; social-psychology journal research reports; 93Z4239

Sampling
homogeneous invisible population, sample representativeness; 93Z3986
new business start-up research, local economy enumeration data need; database comparison; rural Iowa; 93Z5318
random sample size planning, anticipated uncertainty level control, methodological techniques; 93Z3974
small sample analyses, validity problems, post hoc power analysis application; 93Z3954
snowball sampling possibilities, estimation issues; 93Z3972
social research, sample selection biases, modeling approaches; 93Z3977

San Diego, California
American Indian burial site, church's proposed desecration/local response, Mission San Diego, California; 93Z4507
Mexican migration/border region dynamics, San Diego County (California) residents' perceptions; 1980-1990 census/other data; 93Z6438
urban planning, cultural differences, Tijuana, Mexico/San Diego, California; 93Z5333

San Francisco, California school adjustment, Soviet immigrant vs US-born Jewish children; parental attitudes toward social change; questionnaire data; San Francisco, California; 93Z5828 sexually transmitted diseases, associated sexual/alcohol/drug use behaviors; interviews; adults, San Francisco Bay area, California; 93Z5906

Sanctions
juvenile crime, alternative sanctions's effects, Netherlands; interviews; arrested vandals, Rotterdam; 93Z6323
past political injustices, legal sanctioning strategies, postcommunist societies; 93Z4827

Satisfaction
neighborliness/socializing/residential satisfaction, German/Spanish immigrants, Toronto, Ontario; questionnaire data; 93Z4387
network structure/social support functions/satisfaction, families/individuals, convoy model; secondary data; 93Z4674
relationship stability/satisfaction, cohabiting gay/lesbian couples, contextual/interpersonal models; survey data; 93Z5988

Saudi Arabia
labor immigration, Arab nations, post-1973 international oil embargo; 93Z5769
state agriculture relationship, Saudi Arabia; 93Z5249

Scales
children's play attitudes, assessment measures evaluated; scale data; midwestern metropolitan area; 93Z3958
Community Oriented Program Environment Scale's reliability, chemically dependent black females; scale data; 93Z3943
rating scales, extreme response style measurement; 1975-1987 survey data; US adults; 93Z3952
Severity of Violence against Women Scale, 2 versions compared; empirical data; Dallas/Fort Worth, Texas; 93Z6562

Scandals
religious beliefs/behaviors; 1987/88 televangelist scandals; time series data; 93Z4877
voting behavior/party preferences, Greece; political scandals; survey data; Papandreou administration era; 93Z5029

Scandinavia
job security, part-time/temporary workers, Nordic countries; empirical data; 93Z4737

Scheler, Max
sociology of knowledge, post-WWI Germany, Karl Mannheim's/Max Scheler's works; literature review; 93Z6408

Schizophrenia informal caregiving; literature review; 93Z5200
international psychiatric epidemiology, World Health Organization studies, ethnographic corrective; 93Z6224 schizophrenia prognosis, Third World vs Western countries, cross-cultural psychiatric theory/research; article/comments/response; 93Z6211
schizophrenia, family interactions; literature review; 93Z6026
sociology of schizophrenia, afflicted person's perspective, George Herbert Mead's concepts applied; 93Z6214

Scholarship
Braudel, Fernand, scholarly career; 93Z4045
scientific scholarship, function of reviews; 93Z4100
sociological scholarship citations, gender differences; citation analysis, Social Problems; 93Z4025

School Attendance school attendance/truancy, sociohistorical account, UK; 93Z5452

Schools
Highlander schools, southern US; five-book review essay; 93Z5441
individual as citizen, gender/democracy/education issues, Nordic welfare states; illustrative case; feminization of Finnish schools; 93Z5456
school inspector training, Germany, system-oriented counseling approach; preliminary evaluation data; trainers/trainees; 93Z5450
school prayer/creationism support; political/religious factors; interview data; North Carolina; 93Z5611

Schutz, Alfred
"practical sociological reasoning" concept, everyday sociological imagination, theoretical issues; 93Z4343
rational choice theory-Alfred Schütz's interpretive sociology parallels; 93Z4344

Science
culture systems parallel development, theory critiqued; 93Z5401
discovery, scientific epistemology; 93Z3939
human resource management, logical positivist model critiqued; 93Z5710
knowledge/skills/attitudes requirements, science-related jobs, South African industry; interview/questionnaire data; officials; 93Z5496
methodological indeterminacy, human sciences application; 93Z3933
modern science, theoretical inaccuracy-prediction accuracy paradox, holistic explanation; 93Z3927

science problem solving, students' recognition/realization skills; social class factors; questionnaire/interview data; students ages 10-12, Lisbon, Portugal; 93Z5483
science, cultural norms/standards; 93Z5715
science, historical development; 26-essay collection; 93c01658
science, public confidence, gender differences, US; 1973-1989 General Social Survey data; 93Z5703
science-everyday life/knowledge relationship, philosophical perspective; 93Z5708
scientific discourse styles, Finnish universities, difficulties for students; 93Z5511
scientific realism, psychological applications; article/comments/response; 93Z4151
social history of science; book review essay; 93Z5716
social science/language research productivity, Spanish universities; 1986-1988 publication data; 93Z5719

Science and Technology cultural rebirth obstacles, Africa; 93Z4490
historians/philosophers of science, philosophical technology research strategies; 93Z5706
low-income housing, industrialized building innovation, 1955-1977; 93Z5747
new technoeconomic systems, post-Fordist social order emergence; 93Z5730
science-technology-society instruction, inservice model, Iowa; 93Z4028
science/technology research, state governments' funding decisions; case study; Michigan; 93Z5722
scientific knowledge access, science-technology-society approach; 93Z5430
sociological theory/research advances, 1980s; 93Z4084

Science Policy
science practice, boundary demarcation, rhetorical negotiation; literature review; illustrative example; 93Z5724

Scientific Community
scientific disciplines, paradigm uncertainty/earnings inequality/gender composition; 1972-1982 longitudinal data; 93Z5723
Venezuela scientific community, erratic evolution; interview/other data; 93Z5718

Scientific Development
psychology's lack of scientific discovery; epistemological evaluation; 93Z3940
scientific "hard program," sociology of scientific knowledge; symposium; 93Z5721
social history of science; book review essay; 93Z5716

Scientific Discoveries
discovery, scientific epistemology; 93Z3939
psychology's lack of scientific discovery; epistemological evaluation; 93Z3940
science ideas, respectability; false rationalization vs proven explanation; statistical data; 93Z5711

Scientific Knowledge
belief in God-worldview of modern science reconciliation; 93Z5560
lifeworld, 20th-century conceptualizations; literature review; 93Z5727
paradigms of belief/theory/metatheory; reply; 93Z3941
rationality/value freedom, modern science; 93Z4334
science ideas, respectability; false rationalization vs proven explanation; statistical data; 93Z5711
science-everyday life/knowledge relationship, philosophical perspective, 93Z5708
scientific "hard program," sociology of scientific knowledge; symposium; 93Z5721
scientific knowledge access, science-technology-society approach; 93Z5430
scientific knowledge production, social/political context effects, internationalization implications; 93Z5059
scientific scholarship, function of reviews; 93Z4100
social scientific knowledge, practical applications; 5-chapter overview; 93c01687
sociology of territory, Italy; 1991 meeting proceedings; 93Z5352

Scientific Management
new technoeconomic systems, post-Fordist social order emergence; 93Z5730

Scientific Method
scientific practice, anthropological study; book review; 93Z5712
scientific realism/functionalism incompatibility; theoretical analysis; 93Z3935
scientific/common sense psychology, differences/goals/rationale; 93Z4203
scientization of politics/politicization of science, logical empiricist tradition critique; 93Z6487
social sciences, scientific method's application problems; 93Z4036
systems theory, methodological problems; 93Z3938

Scientific Research
general/abstract concepts, empirical educational vs scientific research; illustrative examples; 93Z5431
psychiatry, research advances/strategies; 93Z6401
science practice, boundary demarcation, rhetorical negotiation; literature review; illustrative example; 93Z5724
science, public confidence, gender differences, US; 1973-1989 General Social Survey data; 93Z5703
science/technology research, state governments' funding decisions; case study; Michigan; 93Z5722
scientific practice, anthropological study; book review; 93Z5712
scientific productivity, gender differences; citation analysis; 93Z5714
scientific scholarship, function of reviews; 93Z4100
uses of animals, attitudes; questionnaire; 93Z4460

Scientific Technological Revolution
industrial/scientific revolution, early modern Europe, Whiggish generalizations critiqued; 93Z6426

Scientists
agricultural pollution hazards, agricultural scientists' perceptions; survey data; faculty members, Institute of Agriculture, India; 93Z6513
Czech physicist Jaroslav Šafránek's television transmission system failure, pre-/post-WWII era; political circumstances; archival material; 93Z5702
Japanese microbiological warfare experimentation, WWII-era China, US cover-up; 93Z4975

Scotland
crime/punishment, role/effects, Scottish criminal justice system; 93Z5672
health status, women, England/Scotland/Wales; employment/domestic factors; 1984/85 survey data; 93Z6114
juvenile justice systems, US/Scotland/England/India/South Africa; 93Z6348 management buyouts, ownership/control status, Scotland; 1982-1989 interview data; 93Z6670
solicitor practices, divorce cases, Scotland, "simulated client" model; 93Z6342

Seasonal Variations fertility, seasonal variations, US; 1947-1980 official statistics; 93Z6083
infant mortality, 19th-century Sheffield, England; social/geographic inequalities; official records; 93Z5818
international air tourist arrivals, Orlando, Florida; terrorism/seasonality factors; empirical data; 93Z4924

Seattle, Washington
food safety attitudes, Kobe, Japan vs Seattle, Washington; household characteristics; 1988 survey data; 93Z4872

Secondary Education
European Community integration challenges, German secondary school curriculum; 93Z5461
school-work transition, Indian secondary students, South Africa; observational/other data; 93Z5881
secondary education centers, territorial distribution, Galicia, Spain; 1960-1990 empirical data; 93Z5475
tertiary sector growth, human capital theory, New Zealand; 1982 empirical data; secondary school students; 93Z5464

Secondary Schools
dropout, American-Indian urban secondary school students; interview data; 93Z5440 educational achievement, blacks, secondary/postsecondary levels; census/other data; 93Z5471
student alienation, conceptual/empirical dimensions; questionnaire; secondary school students, Hawaii; 93Z5878
teacher job satisfaction/stress; age/experience/school size; scale data; physical education teachers, secondary schools, Florida/Georgia; 93Z5216 voluntary community participation in schools, rationales/consequences, Australia; interview data; 93Z4684

Secrecy
intelligence function, democratic governments; 3-book review essay; 93Z4617
Israeli children's secret sharing, social uses; 93Z5384 restitution vs retribution, former Communist party informants, post-communist Czechoslovakia; 93Z4209

Sects
ethnographer/informant relationship development; fieldwork data; Gur Hasidic sect, Tel-Aviv, Israel; 93Z3950
gender equality, Shakers religious sect, 18th century; 93Z6604

Sectarianism
racism/sectarianism, Northern Ireland; empirical data; Tottenham/West Belfast; 93Z4389
Secularization
Islamic modernism/secularization; two-part review essay; 93Z5615
Jewish/Christian religious enterprise organizations; interview data, case studies; 93Z5577
nation-state models; 93Z4987
religious identity changes, Switzerland; article/comments; 93Z5532
secularism, France; 93Z5603
secularization theories, historical origins; 93Z4198
secularization theory critique; reply; 93Z5539
Security
biographical insecurity, modernization of modernity; 1982-1987 interview data, literature review; female temporary workers, German Democratic Republic; 93Z4352
community security-technological progress relationships; 93Z5743
job security vs environmental protection, workers' perceptions, lower Elbe region, West Germany; questionnaire data; 93Z4554
unregulated private security, GB vs US/Belgium/France/New Zealand; 93Z5678
Segregation
age segregation, churches, cultural context; 93Z5950
gender segregation, labor market, Finland; 93Z4727
gender segregation/female inferiority, Bedouin groups, Ramia, Israel vs Negev Highlands; 93Z6627
Selection Procedures
Dutch corporate/political elite, university fraternity's recruitment; questionnaire; former fraternity leaders; 93Z5463
educational selection, single-sex vs coeducational secondary schools, US; family/student factors; questionnaire/record/observational data; 93Z5473
employee search activities, inequality perpetuation, personnel workers; questionnaire; banking institution; social impact theory perspective; 93Z4591
judicial independence/selection, Latin America, political influences; case examples; 93Z5618
managerial selection, procedural fairness-later work satisfaction relationship; questionnaire data; professional managers, New Zealand; 93Z4747 selective college attendance; class/gendered differential asset conversion; 1980-1986 national survey data; secondary school seniors; 93Z5488
social research, sample selection biases, modeling approaches; 93Z3977
Self Care
poorly defined health disorders, medicalization, self-medication/fringe remedy promotion; 93Z6164
self-care/-medication, increased awareness/information sources; 93Z6185
Self Concept
adolescent drug use; social influence/cognitive factors; survey; eighth grade students, California/Oregon; 93Z6260
anthropology's concept of self, origins/non-Western notions; 93Z4305
body image disturbances, social comparisons, gender differences; scale/inventory data; college students; 93Z4269
counseling troubled youth, groupwork considerations; 93Z5845
disabled college students, perceived family of origin/locus of control/self-concept, family systems theory; 1988 questionnaire; 93Z5847
manhood conceptualizations, African-American men; empirical data; New York; 93Z6624
personal identity crisis, postmodernity; 93Z4282
personal identity, J. Searle's Chinese room argument critique, artificial mind possibility; 93Z4136
personal mental illness explanations, impact on life; interview data; 93Z6215 prison security officers' self/other/inmate perceptions; scale data; South Korea/midwestern US; 93Z5665
self-alienation, G. W. F. Hegel's/Karl Marx's/Friedrich Nietzsche's work; 93Z4498
self-concept, social-psychological/sociological/developmental research; 93Z4260
self-conception development, US vs People's Republic of China; cultural/social/political/psychological factors; 93Z4286
self-images, memories' role, single Italians; interview data; 93Z4251
self/family/teacher/school perceptions, Indian children, Republic of South Africa; age/parental marital status; 93Z5836
self/identity transformation, colectomy/ileostomy patients; interview data; 93Z6144
sociology of schizophrenia, afflicted person's perspective, George Herbert Mead's concepts applied; 93Z6214
Soziale Welt, 1989 articles; review essay; 93Z4074
subjective self-identity-athletic participation relationship, high school students, 1980-1982 longitudinal survey data; 93Z5894
suicide propensity, successful college students, fraud complex theory; 93Z6095
work-identity relationship, low-status workers; interview data; custodians; 93Z4717
Self Control
new reproductive technologies, women's body-self control rights, feminist discourse; 93Z6065
Self Destructive Behavior
martyrdom notion, Shi'ite political ideology, postrevolutionary Iran; 93Z4311
musical preference-reckless behavior relationship, adolescents, southern metropolitan area; 1990 survey data; 93Z5848
self-destructive behavior, delinquent vs normative adolescents, Ohio; scale data; 93Z5863
Self Disclosure
homosexuality disclosure decisions, gay men; interviews; Montreal, Quebec; 93Z4252
outing movement, US homosexuals, legal/ethical issues; 93Z5925
Self Employment
self-employment, foreign- vs native-born Greeks, New York City; 1980 US Census data; 93Z4726
Self Esteem
adolescent self-esteem/social class relationship; inventory/student record data; Catholic middle school, midwestern US; 93Z5876
aggression/self-esteem; videogame playing; questionnaire data; students grades 6-12/their teachers; 93Z4264
communal group members' self-esteem; leader's charisma, ritual, collective effervescence; scale/other data; US cities; 93Z4254 depressive realism/nondepressive control illusions, esteem maintenance/impression management explanations; experiments; psychology patients, Northwestern University; 93Z6227
high achievers, other students' attitudes; questionnaire data; high school students, South Australia; 93Z4263 influence strategy selection; dispositional self-efficacy/target's organizational status; experiment/scale data; college students; 93Z4339
self-esteem, young adults; agentic vs communal traits; questionnaire data; Los Angeles County, California; 93Z6653
subjective self-identity-athletic participation relationship, high school students, 1980-1982 longitudinal survey data; 93Z5894
welfare recipients, self-efficacy/self-worth; work, social support; longitudinal data; 93Z4291
Self Evaluation
self-/other evaluation complementarity, romantic relationships; questionnaire data; undergraduates; 93Z4284
Self Expression
tattoos, communication content changes, 20th-century Hungary; 93Z4299
Self Help
individualism/conformity values, self-help books, 1950s vs 1980s; content analysis; 93Z4301
Luhmann, Niklas, modern society theory, critical analysis; 93Z4488
self-help books, female readership; questionnaire; Lexington, Kentucky; 93Z5417
systems theory, Niklas Luhmann's autopoiesis concept; 93Z4123
unemployment, manager vs blue-collar worker experiences/views; interviews; unemployed clients, self-help agency, US; 93Z4752
Self Presentation conservative self-identification, US youth; 1974-1986 national survey data; 93Z5076
gender relations/multiple selves construction, Sri Lankan Muslims; narrative/case study data; 93Z4519
interpersonal influence strategies, Winston Churchill-Franklin Roosevelt bases-for-destroyers exchange, 1940; 93Z4324
public/private persona presentation, sauna setting, Finland; questionnaire; 93Z4464
self-presentation, psychological vs sociological approaches; 93Z4346
social interactions, social role/consensus expectations negotiations; conversational analysis; student dyads; 93Z4296
the self, conversion experience; 93Z4345
Semantics
corporate culture concept, general semantic principles' implications; literature review; 93Z4659
group defamation, language's/social construction of reality's roles, social-cognitive perspective; 93Z4366

religious beliefs, semantic considerations, Switzerland; article/comments; 93Z5576

Semiotics

national iconic culture, Finland; 93Z4506

psychosomatic/psychological symptoms, social meanings, semiotics investigation; questionnaire, participant observation; factory workers, Finland; 93Z6140

societal change, Europe, theoretical/analytical issues; 93Z4033

sociological theory, semiotics, Pierre Bourdieu; book review essay; 93Z4096

weaving, semiotic interpretation; case study; Barabanki, India; 93Z4532

Senegal

technological innovation adoption, rural communities, social perspective; case studies; photoelectric solar energy panel introduction, villages, Senegal/Chad/central Africa/Spain; 93Z5750

Senility

senile dementia, social construction; case studies; 93Z6299

Seniority

social group dominance, social seniority vs chronological age as determinants; experimental data; macaques, Japanese students; 93Z4236

Sensory Systems

olfactory symbolism, identity/difference expressions, diverse cultures; 93Z4456

Sentencing

criminal justice sentencing outcomes, men vs women, Pennsylvania; 1977 court records; 93Z5666

criminal justice system, racial/ethnic bias; Washington Sentencing Reform Act; Yakima County; illustrative example; 93Z4376

criminal offenders, objective sentencing guidelines, decisionmakers' subjectivity; quasi-experiment, interviews, other data; presentence investigation unit, Nevada; 93Z5664

criminal sentencing; gender; empirical data; comment/reply; 93Z5629

imprisonment length/cost, mandatory minimum sentences' effects; 1979-1990 official data; Department of Corrections, Florida; 93Z5661

prison populations, Washington, 1981 Sentencing Reform Act, forecasting challenges; 93Z5686

women, criminal sentence execution, Austrian prisons; 93Z5691

Seoul, South Korea

well-being/marital adjustment, Korean wives; mother-in-law conflict; questionnaire data; Seoul; 93Z5951

Settlement Patterns

first Americans' origins, inconsistent evidence; 93Z4459

settlement centrality determination, Croatia, qualitative methodological procedure; census data; 93Z6439

transition to settled villages, !Kung San people, Botswana; 1980s fieldwork; 93Z4520

Seventeenth Century

Catholic church evangelism/economic exploitation, 16th-/17th-century colonial Latin America, doctrina as organizational unit; secular/ecclesiastical record; 93Z5579

peasant-to-class society transformation, Germany, 17th-19th centuries; agrarian system development, cottage linen industry; secondary data; Belm parish; 93Z5296

Sex

gender/race construction, organizations, social identity/group mobilization perspectives; 93Z4671

race/class/gender, historical relationships; case study; working-class women, South Africa, 1930s-present; 93Z4246

work group sex composition, majority/minority members' experiences; questionnaire; southern California; 93Z4587

Sex Differences

acquired immune deficiency syndrome stigma, social interaction; means of transmission/risk knowledge/gender; survey data; undergraduates; 93Z6153

adult-toddler interactions, gender differences; observational data; families, recreation areas, Sacramento, California; 93Z6000

affective message decoding, accuracy, intimate relationships; observations; couples' discussions; 93Z4302

aggression, attitudes/personal experiences, gender/ethnic differences; questionnaire data; college students; 93Z6560

alcohol use/misuse perceptions, Chinese/Indo-Pakistani/Latin American communities, British Columbia, prevention program implications; literature review/interview data; 93Z6271

alcohol-homicide relationship, Denmark; psychiatric reports; homicide defendants; 93Z6322

athlete portrayals, gender differences, 1984/1988 summer Olympics, Canadian/US newspapers; content analysis; 93Z4953

body image disturbances, social comparisons, gender differences; scale/inventory data; college students; 93Z4269

career paths, University of Linz (Austria) sociology graduates; 1989 interview/questionnaire data; 93Z4013

children's sex-typed play styles-peer group acceptance link, gender/age differences; scale/observational data; 2nd/4th graders, Ontario; 93Z5837

computer attitudes, university students; age/gender/computer experience; scale data; 93Z4005

criminal court outcomes, male vs female offenders, Middlesex County, Ontario, 1871-1920; 93Z5663

criminal justice sentencing outcomes, men vs women, Pennsylvania; 1977 court records; 93Z5666

criminal sentencing; gender; empirical data; comment/reply; 93Z5629

developmental patterns, same-/mixed-sex groups; session audiotapes; 1988 group relations conference; 93Z4243

dispute resolution, gender's role; research review; 93Z6652

divorce experiences, gender differences; questionnaire; Marion County, Indiana; 93Z5953

divorce reasons, partner differences; interview data; Oregon/Pennsylvania; 93Z6010

domestic labor-gender inequality in income; 1986 survey data; employed people, Australia; 93Z4551

earnings gap, male vs female television writers; 1982-1990 career history data; US; 93Z4700

economic status, gender differences, US trends; statistical data; 93Z6615

educational persistence, premed students, gender differences; interviews; State University of New York Stony Brook; 93Z5210

educational selection, single-sex vs coeducational secondary schools, US; family/student factors; questionnaire/record/observational data; 93Z5473

elderly suicide, gender differences; literature review; North America/GB; 93Z6292

elderly suicide/natural death, surviving spouse bereavement, social/emotional support sources, gender differences; interview/questionnaire data; 93Z6094

equality/difference synthesis methods, 1920s feminists; implications for US welfare state; 93Z6591

family conceptualizations/meanings, females vs males, Sweden; questionnaire data; 93Z5989

females, managerial jobs, decision-making authority; 1982 survey; managers, Illinois; 93Z4742

feminist discourse, different voices; comment/reply; 93Z5472

gender relations, Mexican-American men/women; patriarchal constraints; 93Z5787

gender targeting advertising, prescription/over-the-counter drugs/tobacco/alcohol products; literature review; 93Z4896

gender-/racially-based wage inequality, minority power hypothesis; 1972/73 statistical data; work organizations, Detroit, Michigan; 93Z5186

gender-linguistic variants, 1970s' research, quantitative paradigm's biased limitations; feminist perspective; 93Z5377

gender/leisure policy analysis, theoretical approaches critiqued; 93Z4934

gender/social class-illness relationship, youth, Finland; 1986 interview data; 93Z5890

government social policy, male vs female treatment; illustrative example, West German social pension legislation; 93Z5935

health behavior, social control/gender/marital status factors; 93Z6189

high-technology innovation, perceived organizational support; demographic/other factors; questionnaire survey; electronics firm employees; 93Z5742

household/workplace gender inequality, immigrant Portuguese working women, London, England; interview data; 93Z6620

human immunodeficiency virus infection, problem perception; high-risk-group vs risky-behavior framing; questionnaire; university-level students, UK; 93Z4240

immigration experience, Yugoslav women factory workers, West Berlin, Germany; 1987 questionnaire data; 93Z5766

individual as citizen, gender/democracy/education issues, Nordic welfare states; illustrative case; feminization of Finnish schools; 93Z5456

individualism/collectivism/gender-differentiated handling of students, Japanese vs US 5th-grade teachers; observational data; 93Z6622

intelligence conceptualizations, gender stereotypes; questionnaire ratings; 93Z6644 intimacy definition/expression, cross-/same-sex friendships; 1989/90 self-report questionnaire data; college students; 93Z4335

jealousy, married men/women; vignettes; Tel Aviv, Israel; 93Z6637

job complexity/supervision relationship, male vs female workers; interview data; 93Z6633

job evaluation, Hay system's gender bias; empirical data; public sector jobs, Minnesota; 93Z4751
job satisfaction, gender-related differences; 1982-1988 interviews; teachers, Frankfurt, West Germany; 93Z5865
job-family compatibility, parents; job characteristics; 1977 national survey data; 93Z4718
juvenile delinquency, shared vs unshared environmental influences, adolescent siblings; 1980 national survey; 93Z6353
labor force experiences, nonmetropolitan men vs women; individual/structural factors; 1980 survey; Kentucky; 93Z4754
language/worldview, gender/cross-cultural differences; 3-book review essay; 93Z5387 legal mediation styles, gender differences; 1987 case data; Ohio mediation program; 93Z6388
life course planning, gender differences, young adults, Netherlands; questionnaire; 93Z5862
literacy, India; 1961-1981 statistics; 93Z5470
male vs female actual/ideal/stereotypical conceptions, upper torso; scale data; undergraduates, University of South Florida; 93Z6655
male/female earnings equality; union density; 1980 US Census data; 93Z4567
male/female psychiatrists, income differentials, US; 1982/83 survey/questionnaire data; 93Z5203
managerial positions, women's attainment/functioning; organizational mechanisms, family life; empirical data; 93Z4701

Sex Differences D297300

Marxian critiques of advanced industrial society, sex/gender distinction; 93Z6657

Sex Differences

masculinity, critical appraisal, feminism's influence; 93Z6587
masculinity-feminity link, Carl Jung's sexuality theory; literature review; 93Z6597
mate selection preferences, single men/women, values perspective; scale/inventory data; 93Z5976
mathematical achievements, boys vs girls; individual-psychological/familial characteristics; self-report data; 5th/6th graders, US/Yugoslavia; 93Z5467
methadone maintenance treatment responsiveness, heroin addicts, gender/ethnic differences; interview data; California; 93Z6267
migration experiences, Central Americans, Washington, DC; gender, immigration reform; survey/interview data; migrants/employers; 93Z5807
occupational mobility projections, US, present-2000; 93Z4631
occupational prestige/segregation/earnings; gender/race; 93Z4758
off-farm commuting patterns, Louisiana; 1982 survey; 93Z5257
old age definitions, historical perspective; literature review; 93Z6294
organizational sex segregation/gender stratification; special journal issue; 93Z4722
pay entitlement evaluations, gender differences; comparison information/performance feedback; scenario/questionnaire experiment; State University of New York students; 93Z6606 physical child abuse, male vs female caregivers, research issues; 93Z5996
power/gender theory; 3-book review essay; 93Z4140
presidential candidates' election likelihood; gender, private life difficulties; scenario/questionnaire experiments; college students; 93Z6639
private wishes, gender similarities/differences; questionnaire; pedestrians/college students, New York; 93Z6613
psychiatric diagnosis/length of hospitalization; gender/ethnicity; discharge data; midwestern city; 93Z6221
psychological symptoms, reporting differences, males vs females; 1986 survey data; Finland; 93Z6601
psychotherapy, feminization, US; 93Z6235
racial/class/gender diversity, sociological implications; 93Z4433
racial/ethnic/gender integration, US federal agencies; demographic/organizational factors; 1982-1988 statistical data; 93Z4382
racial/sexual occupational inequality, conceptual/measurement issues; 93Z4703
remarriage patterns, demographic characteristics/gender differences; statistical data; 93Z6046
science, public confidence, gender differences, US; 1973-1989 General Social Survey data; 93Z5703
scientific productivity, gender differences; citation analysis; 93Z5714 selective college attendance; class/gendered differential asset conversion; 1980-1986 national survey data; secondary school seniors; 93Z5488
self-esteem, young adults; agentic vs communal traits; questionnaire data; Los Angeles County, California; 93Z6653
sex-role attitudes, college freshmen; gender/race/religion/political orientation; questionnaire data; Ivy League university; 93Z6630
sexual fantasies, gender differences; questionnaire; university students; 93Z6621
social actors, social experiences, game theories; 93Z5100
sociological scholarship citations, gender differences; citation analysis; Social Problems; 93Z4025
speech, dominance vs affiliation paradigms, sex differences; 93Z5422
student help-seeking preferences; achievement/ethnicity/gender/classroom organization; scale data; intermediate schools, Auckland, New Zealand; 93Z5509
suicide, youth ages 10-19, Newfoundland/Labrador; 1977-1988 pathologist register data; 93Z6202
suicides, inferred characteristics; gender/context; experimental data; undergraduates, Norfolk, Virginia; 93Z6097
surnames, Swedish attitude trends; questionnaire; 93Z6036
unemployment/unsatisfactory employment, psychological impacts, gender differences; longitudinal questionnaire data; school leavers, South Australia; 93Z5901
violent death risk; gender/age; 1950-1986 mortality statistics; Canada; 93Z6563
women in combat, public attitudes, racial/gender differences; 1982 General Social Survey data; 93Z4645
work ethic, undergraduate university students, South Africa; scale data; 93Z4867
work interruption, gender differences, marriage/childbearing impact, Canada; 1984 national survey data; 93Z5990 work life courses, contemporary changes/gender differences, West Germany; 1984 questionnaire data; 93Z4698
work-related status/earnings, female-/male-dominated occupations; gender; 1986 survey; 1970-1984 midwestern university graduates; 93Z5202

Sex Education

sexual activities/preferences, youth ages 16-20, UK; questionnaire data; 93Z5905
sexual socialization processes, advantaged vs disadvantaged adolescent females, Israel; interview data; 93Z5891
teenage pregnancy risk reduction program, scarce resource allocation, US; program data; Bamberg County, South Carolina; 93Z5877

Sex Information

adolescent sexual initiation, Finland; cultural/social conditions; 1986/1988 questionnaire data; 93Z5917
sexual knowledge/attitudes, adolescent male sex offenders; group treatment/education program; 93Z5915

Sex Role Attitudes

attitudes toward women leaders; number of women leaders; empirical data; 93Z6645
childhood socialization experiences, 19th-century Hindu Brahmin women, Maharashtra, India; autobiographies/novel; 93Z6100
domestic division of labor; marital power/sex-role attitudes/time constraints; 1986 Australian survey data; 93Z5941
gender equality, Shakers religious sect, 18th century; 93Z6604
gender inequality, government policies/individual perceptions, Cuba, interview data; female factory workers; 93Z4598
gender/leisure policy analysis, theoretical approaches critiqued; 93Z4934
gender/role attitudes, white female Afrikaans university students; traditional male/female course enrollment; questionnaire/interview data; 93Z6628
job evaluation, Hay system's gender bias; empirical data; public sector jobs, Minnesota; 93Z4751
power/gender theory; 3-book review essay; 93Z4140
sex-linked bias, job promotion decisions; candidate's career relevance/prior experience; questionnaire data; business/government/nonprofit organization employees, Tel-Aviv, Israel; 93Z6642
sex-role attitudes, college freshmen; gender/race/religion/political orientation; questionnaire data; Ivy League university; 93Z6630
sex-stereotype knowledge, young children, Portugal; empirical data; 93Z6638
sex/acquired immune deficiency syndrome, attitudes/sexual behavior, Anglophone/Francophone Canadians; questionnaire data; 93Z5872
sexual attitudes, mothers/college-age daughters; time period/cohort/developmental stage; questionnaire; midwestern US; 93Z5904
surnames, Swedish attitude trends; questionnaire; 93Z6036
workplace gender integration barriers; special journal issue introduction; 93Z6634

Sex Role Identity

fashion communication functions, Western society; 9-chapter sociological analysis; 93c01668
female labor force participation increase, work/family consequences, 93Z4732
gender relations/multiple selves construction, Sri Lankan Muslims; narrative/case study data; 93Z4519

homosexuality disclosure decisions, gay men; interviews; Montreal, Quebec; 93Z4252
masculinity, critical appraisal, feminism's influence; 93Z6587
power/gender theory; 3-book review essay; 93Z4140
ex Role Orientations
female health visitors, socialization process, practice implications; 93Z6176
sexual activities/preferences, youth ages 16-20, UK; questionnaire data; 93Z5905
ex Roles clothing behavior, image-making functions, Korean female legislators; 1985/86 field research; 93Z4295
dispute resolution, gender's role; research review; 93Z6652
emotions, changing family structure's impact, US; interviews; dual-income couples; 93Z4247
female aggression; gender-role masculinity; experimental/questionnaire data; undergraduates; 93Z6626
gender-role socialization-popularity link, elementary school students; 93Z6048
health behavior, social control/gender/marital status factors; 93Z6189
leadership styles, gender role-integrative model; 93Z6629
Marxian critiques of advanced industrial society, sex/gender distinction; 93Z6657
physical activities, gender appropriateness, children's perceptions; index data; elementary school children, Utah; 93Z6643
sex-role stereotypes, television commercials, Australia; content analysis; 93Z4900
sexual harassment revelation, Anita Hill/US Supreme Court nominee Clarence Thomas case, sociological explanation; 93Z5632
sexual revolution, impacts on women; 2-book review essay; 93Z6576
underdevelopment/resistance politics, gender's role, Philippines; 1989 fieldwork; organized peasant women; 93Z6632
Sex Stereotypes
gender distinctions, magazine advertisements, Finland; 1955-1985 advertisements; 93Z6623
intelligence conceptualizations, gender stereotypes; questionnaire ratings; 93Z6644
male vs female actual/ideal/stereotypical conceptions, upper torso; scale data; undergraduates, University of South Florida; 93Z6655
physical activities, gender appropriateness, children's perceptions; index data; elementary school children, Utah; 93Z6643
prostitution, dominant sexuality discourses, feminist challenges' failure; 93Z4901
rape, African-American women writers' portrayals; illustrative examples, poets; 93Z6556
sex-role stereotypes, television commercials, Australia; content analysis; 93Z4900
sex-stereotype knowledge, young children, Portugal; empirical data; 93Z6638
Sexism
Africans' mobility, colonial Rhodesia, policy's gendered nature; 93Z6603
equal opportunity climate, minorities/women, US Navy; 1970-1990 Navy Personnel Research & Development Center research; 93Z4638
gender segregation/female inferiority, Bedouin groups, Ramia, Israel vs Negev Highlands; 93Z6627
homophobia/heterosexism issues, US, mediation programs' potential role; conflict resolution literature; 93Z4429
homosexual exclusion policy, US military, political/legal development; 93Z5931
individual as citizen, gender/democracy/education issues, Nordic welfare states; illustrative case; feminization of Finnish schools; 93Z5456
job evaluation, Hay system's gender bias; empirical data; public sector jobs, Minnesota; 93Z4751
male underrepresentation, female-dominated professions; interviews; urban US; 93Z5246
political correctness, changing social interpretation; 93Z6577
scientific disciplines, paradigm uncertainty/earnings inequality/gender composition; 1972-1982 longitudinal data; 93Z5723
sex-determination testing female fetus abortion consequences, India; 93Z6074
sex-linked bias, job promotion decisions; candidate's career relevance/prior experience; questionnaire data; business/government/nonprofit organization employees, Tel-Aviv, Israel; 93Z6642
US military, racial/ethnic/gender issues; special journal issue introduction; 93Z4629
violence against women, global human rights agenda; 93Z6366
workplace gender integration barriers; special journal issue introduction; 93Z6634
Sexual Abuse
rape, African-American women writers' portrayals; illustrative examples; poets; 93Z6556
rape/sexual coercion, male evolutionary psychology perspective; article/comments/reply; 93Z5932
sexual abuse aftermath, body symptoms as expressive language; case study; 93Z6369
Sexual Arousal
sexual desire lack-paraphilia connection; 93Z5921
sexual disorders, sexoanalysis treatment; clinical case study; 93Z5927
Sexual Assault
male batterers, personality variables; Taylor-Johnson Temperament Analysis; convicted offenders; 93Z6557
repeated sexual victimization, personal characteristics; literature review, 1983/84 interview data; Los Angeles, California; 93Z6380
sexual assault, South Africa, black woman activist's work; 93Z5840 violence against women, pornography's influence, 1985 Meese Commission's report; comment/reply/rejoinder; 93Z6641
Sexual Behavior
acquired immune deficiency syndrome risk behavior/knowledge, chronic psychiatric outpatients; questionnaire data; Wisconsin; 93Z6143
adolescent female sexual activity, schooling consequences, ethnic differences; 1987/88 national survey data; 93Z5866
adolescent sexual initiation, Finland; cultural/social conditions; 1986/1988 questionnaire data; 93Z5917
aggression, attitudes/personal experiences, gender/ethnic differences; questionnaire data; college students; 93Z6560
breast cancer treatments, sexual side effects; 93Z6142
casual sex, Norwegian adolescents; 1989 questionnaire data; 93Z5933
high risk drug use/sexual practices, intravenous drug users, Athens, Greece; questionnaire/scale data; 93Z5916
home/work influence strategies, professional couples; interview data; 93Z6031
human immunodeficiency virus infection/acquired immune deficiency syndrome, public knowledge/policy attitudes/sexual practices, Canada; interviews; adults; 93Z6168
male street prostitutes, male customers' sexual behavior patterns; interviews; New Orleans, Louisiana; 93Z5920
premarital sexual behavior/attitudes, Chinese college students, US; acculturation; 1982 questionnaire data; 93Z5914
sex/acquired immune deficiency syndrome, attitudes/sexual behavior, Anglophone/Francophone Canadians; questionnaire data; 93Z5872
sexual activities/preferences, youth ages 16-20, UK; questionnaire data; 93Z5905 sexual activity, divorced persons; 1988/89 General Social Survey data; 93Z5930
sexual behavior, group residences for mentally retarded/mentally ill disabled, Jewish agency's ethical dilemmas; 93Z5913
sexual daydreaming/attitudes/activity relationship, women ages 26-78; questionnaire/interview data; Baltimore, Maryland; 93Z5926
sexual exploitation of clients, psychotherapists' rationales, Colorado; content analysis; grievance board reports; 93Z4317
sexual fantasies, gender differences; questionnaire; university students; 93Z6621
sexual revolution, impacts on women; 2-book review essay; 93Z6576
sexual risk estimation; human immunodeficiency virus seropositivity disclosure; hypothetical cases; 93Z6181
sexually transmitted diseases, associated sexual/alcohol/drug use behaviors; interviews; adults, San Francisco Bay area, California; 93Z5906
symbolic sexual violence meanings, Tukanoan rituals, Colombia; 1968-1970 fieldwork data; 93Z6375
Sexual Deviation
sexual knowledge/attitudes, adolescent male sex offenders; group treatment/education program; 93Z5915
Sexual Division of Labor
domestic division of labor; marital power/sex-role attitudes/time constraints; 1986 Australian survey data; 93Z5941
domestic labor-gender inequality in income; 1986 survey data; employed people, Australia; 93Z4551
family relations/gender division of labor, farm families, Spain, 1930s; oral histories; 93Z4714
female health visitors, socialization process, practice implications; 93Z6176
female labor force participation increase, work/family consequences; 93Z4732
females, managerial jobs, decision-making authority; 1982 survey; managers, Illinois; 93Z4742
household labor, husbands' contributions, first-/remarried families; 1987/88 national survey; 93Z5979

household tasks, husband's share, US; occupational sex segregation, individual-/couple-level resources; 1977-1988 national survey data; 93Z4697
occupational/industrial sex segregation, developed/developing countries; international statistical data, 1960-1980; 93Z4723
office work as women's work research, problematic conceptualizations, methodological approach proposed; 93Z4741
sexual division of labor, home/workplace, middle-class ideologies; content analysis; women's magazine articles, 1950-1989; 93Z4894
women's career shifts, sex-typed vs sex-atypical occupations; longitudinal questionnaire/interview data; public high school students, Washington; 1965-1979; 93Z4743
women's reproductive/labor force participation choices, Quebec; 1990 colloquium; 93Z5776
work-role traditionality, men/women, US; literature review; 93Z4753

Sexual Dysfunction
sexual desire lack-paraphilia connection; 93Z5921

Sexual Harassment
gender/racial discrimination/harassment, Chicana white-collar workers; survey/interview data; public university, California; 93Z6648
sexual disorders, sexoanalysis treatment; clinical case study; 93Z5927
sexual harassment revelation, Anita Hill/US Supreme Court nominee Clarence Thomas case, sociological explanation; 93Z5632
sexual harassment, terminology/typology; research review; 93Z5910
sexual harassment, US military personnel; racial/ethnic power differential; 1988 Department of Defense survey; 93Z4636

Sexual Inequality
criminal sentencing; gender; empirical data; comment/reply; 93Z5629
economic status, gender differences, US trends; statistical data; 93Z6615
equality/difference synthesis methods, 1920s feminists; implications for US welfare state; 93Z6591
fertility, Mexican migrants vs Mexican-Americans vs non-Hispanics, US; gender inequality; 1980 census data; 93Z6078
gender equality, India, culture/cultural change conceptions' applications; 93Z6649
gender equality, Shakers religious sect, 18th century; 93Z6604
gender inequality, government policies/individual perceptions, Cuba; interview data; female factory workers; 93Z4598
gender integration, academic sociology; 1984 national survey data; 93Z5222
gender segregation, labor market, Finland; 93Z4727
gender segregation/female inferiority, Bedouin groups, Ramia, Israel vs Negev Highlands; 93Z6627
gender subordination/inequality, perpetuation theories; 93Z6614
government social policy, male vs female treatment; illustrative example, West German social pension legislation; 93Z5935
male-female inequality, home/work; marriage, parenthood; 1981 survey; British young adults; 93Z4756
male/female earnings equality; union density; 1980 US Census data; 93Z4567
masculine gender transformation, Quebec; discourse analysis; 93Z6612
military women, US policy debates; 1941-1985 Congressional testimony; 93Z4641
modern feminist movement, persistent conflicts/contradictions; 93Z6589
occupational gender desegregation, impacts on women, US, 1970s; case studies; 93Z6646
occupational gender inequality, Yugoslavia; nationality, ethnicity; 1981 census data; 93Z5149
occupational gender segregation, GB; economic recession/work-force restructuring; 1979-1990 census/survey data; 93Z4719
occupational sex segregation variations, industrial countries; 1985 labor statistics; 93Z4708
public-sector comparable worth wage adjustments, economic/employment implications; statistics; San Jose, California; 93Z4582
racial/sexual occupational inequality, conceptual/measurement issues; 93Z4703
scientific disciplines, paradigm uncertainty/earnings inequality/gender composition; 1972-1982 longitudinal data; 93Z5723
sexual revolution, impacts on women; 2-book review essay; 93Z6576
women in clerical profession, Church of England, diakonia metaphor; 93Z5519
workplace gender integration barriers; special journal issue introduction; 93Z6634

Sexual Intercourse
breast cancer treatments, sexual side effects; 93Z6142
unsafe sexual intercourse, social correlates, gays/bisexuals/heterosexuals; questionnaire/interview/other data; Perth, Australia; 93Z5934

Sexual Preferences
pedophilia; homosexuals vs heterosexuals; phallometric test data; 93Z6218
sexual desire lack-paraphilia connection; 93Z5921

Sexual Reproduction
abortion/international adoption, postcommunist Romania; 93Z6070
family/childbearing, Quebec; demographic changes; life story/other data; 93Z5833 fertility change, Gainj population, Papua New Guinea; development; fieldwork; 93Z4527 fertility, Bolivia; social class; national survey data; 93Z5185
reproductive rights movement, Canada, white middle-class orientatio[n] critiqued; 93Z4839
reproductive science; round-table discussion; 93Z6058
reproductive/genetic engineering/control, women's oppression issues; 93Z6069
women's reproductive/labor force participation choices, Quebec; 199[0] colloquium; 93Z5776

Sexuality
family/marriage/sexuality, Roman Catholic Church teachings, Flanders, church members' criticisms; survey; 93Z5590
masculinity, critical appraisal, feminism's influence; 93Z6587
masculinity-feminity link, Carl Jung's sexuality theory; literature review; 93Z6597
rape, African-American women writers' portrayals; illustrative examples; poets; 93Z6556

Shame
shame analysis, psychoanalytic anthropology; 93Z3955
shame/addiction interconnections, recovery fram shame, psychotherapeutic approach; naturalistic research; 93Z6284

Shelters
homeless shelter residents, drug abuse/mental illness history; interviews; New York City; 93Z6553

Shoplifting
shoplifting; 7-chapter sociological analysis; 93c01676

Siblings
adolescent sibling bereavement process; questionnaire data; 93Z6096
juvenile delinquency, shared vs unshared environmental influences, adolescent siblings; 1980 national survey; 93Z6353
sibling conflict, parent measures, contemporaneous/longitudinal associations; 93Z5830
sibling/parent relationships, preadolescents' perceptions, rural areas/small towns; interviews, inventory data; parents/siblings; 93Z6032
social support, adult siblings; 1987/88 national survey; 93Z6045

Sikhs
India, 1947 Hindu/Muslim partition, Sikhs' exclusion; 93Z5187

Simmel, Georg
modernity, individual/cities clash, Georg Simmel's work; illustrative example; early 19th-century Berlin, Germany; 93Z4073
money, philosophical/sociological/economic aspects, Georg Simmel's conception; 93Z4103
money/exchange/social differentiation, Georg Simmel's vs Max Weber's views; 93Z4199
Parsons, Talcott, Georg Simmel's influence; unpublished 1936 manuscript; 93Z5568
personal memoirs, 1914 meeting, Georg Simmel; 93Z4088
philosophical similarities/differences, Georg Simmel/Max Weber; 93Z4059 political theory, alien figure concept, Carl Schmitt's vs Georg Simmel's writings, post-WWI Germany; 93Z5014
positivism/neo-Kantianism, Georg Simmel's position, early career, literature review; 93Z4162
school pedagogy, Georg Simmel's views; 1915/16 lectures; 93Z5434
Simmel Newsletter founding/goals; editorial; 93Z4081
Simmel, Georg, 1990 book/article abstracts reprinted; 93Z4117
Simmel, Georg, 1991 Budapest (Hungary) colloquium report; 93Z4041
Simmel, Georg, 1991 Paris, France, colloquium report; 93Z4109
Simmel, Georg, aesthetics concept; 93Z4072
Simmel, Georg, Italian-German conference proceedings; 93Z4182
Simmel, Georg, Japanese publications, 1975-1988; bibliography; 93Z4037
Simmel, Georg, philosophy of money, sociology of knowledge perspective; 93Z6418
sociology of Georg Simmel, Max Weber's negative assessment; 93Z4110 writings about Georg Simmel, English-language publications 1980-1983; 500-item bibliography; 93Z4038

Singapore

democracy transition vs authoritarianism, Singapore; 93Z5119
engineers' work experience, newly industrializing Singapore; interview data; 93Z5247
labor immigration policies, Singapore; article/comment; 93Z4568
religious movement internationalization; case study; Muslim Jamiyah, Singapore; 93Z5607

Single Fathers
divorced fathers, child custody/visitation/support, associated variables; questionnaire; Roanoke County, Virginia; 93Z5938

Single Parent Family
Jewish mother-headed one-parent families, Toronto, Ontario; 1987 interview data; 93Z6022
postdivorce adjustment, black vs white parents; 1987/88 national survey data; 93Z5964
single mothers of preschoolers, well-being/role demands; survey; southern California; 93Z5972
welfare receipt, Norwegian single mothers' views, 1971 vs 1989; qualitative interviews; 93Z6360

Single Persons
agricultural practices, single women, Peruvian indigenous people; interview data; Amuesha (Yanesha) women; 93Z4536
married/single employed mothers, child care use patterns; 1987 national survey data; 93Z5982
mate seeking, mediated channels, involuntarily single persons, US; secondary data; 93Z5903
mate selection preferences, single men/women, values perspective; scale/inventory data; 93Z5976
persons alone vs persons with dogs, students' perceptions; experiments; Cleveland State University, Ohio; 93Z4496
self-images, memories' role, single Italians; interview data; 93Z4251 singleness meanings, never-married women ages 32-54; interview data; southern metropolitan area; 93Z6608

Situation
action, traditional/Weberian-inspired conception; 93Z4134
social interactions, social role/consensus expectations negotiations; conversational analysis; student dyads; 93Z4296
student cheating, highly selective US universities; situational ethics; questionnaire; 93Z5479

Sixteenth Century
academic social sciences, historical evolution, India, 1780-1920; 93Z6407
Catholic church evangelism/economic exploitation, 16th-/17th-century colonial Latin America, doctrina as organizational unit; secular/ecclesiastical record; 93Z5579
family labor/economic strategies, early modern Swabia (Germany); 1480-1618 archival records; Augsburg; 93Z5287
food distribution, social policy, 16th-/17th-century England; 93Z6467
indigenous groups, 16th-century Mexico, Friar Bernardino de Sahagú's research; 93Z5476
Roman Catholic catechism, 16th-century indigenous language translation, Guatemala; historical documents, fieldwork data; 93Z5449

Skills
social skills, maritally violent vs nonviolent men; questionnaire/measurement data; Indianapolis, Indiana; 93Z6561

Slovenia
Slovene sociologist Ferdo Kočevar, 19th-century political views; 93Z4049 structural disharmony/growth rates, Yugoslavia/Slovenia, suburbanization/excessive urbanization models; 1984-1991 questionnaire data, 93Z5359
technological knowledge as industrial capital, postcommunist Slovenia; 93Z4778

Slums
slum sector, Third World metropolitan areas, planning issues; empirical data; Bangkok, Thailand; 93Z5360

Small Businesses
enterprise culture; 4-book review essay; 93Z4658
family business, 1971-1988 increases, Mexico; macroeconomic conditions, statistics; 93Z4767
privatization consequences, small coffee producers, Mexico; government statistics; 93Z5288

Small Groups
democratic problem-solving intervention, everyday conflicts; pre-/posttraining evaluation; Israeli social workers/police; 93Z4398
ingroup bias; salience/relevance/status; social-psychology journal research reports; 93Z4239
small informal group structure, transitivity models tested; secondary empirical data; 93Z4237
small-group democracy, definition/illustration; 93Z4238
status protection, high-status minority groups; experiment; high school students; 93Z4362

Smoking
drug use prevention, US youth, marijuana legalization's negative implications; 93Z6255
gender targeting advertising, prescription/over-the-counter drugs/tobacco/alcohol products; literature review; 93Z4896
health-related behavior theories, construct reliability; illustrative tests; 93Z3942 household drug use reporting, surveys; telephone vs face-to-face interviewing; 1986/87 empirical data; 93Z3945
psychiatric disorder-alcohol/tobacco/marijuana/hard drug use relationship, adolescents; questionnaire; Ontario; 93Z6247
tobacco movement, Iran, 1890-1892, Shi'i religious discourse's role; 93Z4855

Social Acceptance
acquired immune deficiency syndrome stigma, social interaction; means of transmission/risk knowledge/gender; survey data; undergraduates; 93Z6153
alcohol use/misuse perceptions, Chinese/Indo-Pakistani/Latin American communities, British Columbia, prevention program implications; literature review/interview data; 93Z6271
assisted suicide/euthanasia attitudes, graduate students, Norway; questionnaire data; 93Z6192
black inner-city mothers, perceived acceptance/rejection attitudes toward their sons, academic/other effects; questionnaire data; 93Z5942
corporal punishment, public support, US school system; religion/socioeconomic status; 1989 interview data; southern metropolitan area; 93Z5457
paid health care, cultural acceptability, sub-Saharan Africa; 93Z4509
science, public confidence, gender differences, US; 1973-1989 General Social Survey data; 93Z5703
women's/minorities' union participation, white males' attitudes, regional differences; questionnaire data; midwestern/southeastern union members; 93Z4580

Social Action
action, traditional/Weberian-inspired conception; 93Z4134
boxing, social logic, black ghetto, Chicago, Illinois; ethnographic/participant observation data; 93Z4959
conversation analysis, context posture, ethnographic perspective; 93Z5388 interaction analysis constraints, intention/meaning/strategy role, social action context; speech examples; 93Z5379
minimal social situations, combinatorial theory; 93Z4189
rationality/value freedom, modern science; 93Z4334
social action analysis, mental concepts, ethnological perspective; high school attendance office telephone recordings; 93Z5393
social action/evangelism/ecumenism; community/theological/church structural variables; 1986 survey; eastern/midwestern US congregations; 93Z5571
social choice, modeling approach; experimental data; university students, Israel; 93Z4241
Weberian causality, social sciences, critical realist perspective; 93Z4141

Social Anthropology
anthropology, postmodernism's utility; 93Z4540
anthropology, postmodernist trends; 93Z4523
cultural anthropologists' representations, US tabloid press; content analysis; 93Z4493
cultural holism, regional/historical specificity, South Asian anthropology; field research; oral literature/rituals, Kumaon region, northern India; 93Z4530
ethnographic films/cultural anthropological theory, phenomenological interpretations/analyses; 93Z6675
evolutionism, 19th-century social anthropology; literature review; 93Z4539
fire/culture research; book review essay/comment/reply; 93Z4510
Frazer, James, The Golden Bough, social anthropology; 93Z6394
interpretive anthropology, Clifford Geertz's cultural system theory critiqued; 93Z4512
Maghreb societies, Western anthropological approach critiqued; illustrative example; matrimonial behaviors; 93Z4522
mentally ill homeless, anthropological perspective; ethnographic data; Los Angeles, California; 93Z6226
Orientalism by Edward Said, social/cultural anthropological relevance; 93Z5108
postmodern anthropology, ethnographic aspects; 93Z5586
socialism, anthropological approaches; conference presentations; 93Z4089

Social Attitudes
- adolescent alcohol abuse, theories/attitudes, 6th-grade-college students, southwestern US; survey data; 93Z6282
- aggression, attitudes/personal experiences, gender/ethnic differences; questionnaire data; college students; 93Z6560
- antihomosexual attitudes, sociodemographic correlates; 1985 national survey data; US adults; 93Z6650
- assisted suicide/euthanasia attitudes, graduate students, Norway; questionnaire data; 93Z6192
- attitude shifts toward mentally retarded people, 1975-1988; scale data; undergraduates, University of Victoria, British Columbia; 93Z4874
- attitudes toward homeless persons, community board meeting attendees, New York City; questionnaire data; 93Z6545
- attitudes toward mentally ill persons, label/belief effects; 1988 mail survey; Delaware County, Indiana; 93Z6238
- attitudes toward military issues, demographic variations, US; 1982-1984 survey data; 93Z4618
- attitudes toward war, diplomats/journalists/Catholic clergy/military officers/congresspersons; 1986-1988 questionnaire data; 93Z4640
- computer attitudes, university students; age/gender/computer experience; scale data; 93Z4005
- elite donors, philanthropic attitudes/practices; interviews; New York City; 93Z4917
- entrepreneurship attitudes, Hungary; 1988 survey; 93Z6672
- environmental quality, social attitudes, rural vs urban Croatia; 1989 questionnaire data; 93Z6537
- food safety attitudes, Kobe, Japan vs Seattle, Washington; household characteristics; 1988 survey data; 93Z4872
- human immunodeficiency virus infection/acquired immune deficiency syndrome, public knowledge/policy attitudes/sexual practices, Canada; interviews; adults; 93Z6168
- legal dispute processing, racial attitudes'/beliefs' role, alternative dispute resolution controversy; 93Z6471
- marriage, changing attitudes, Italy; 93Z6002
- medical advertising, doctors'/consumers' attitudes, California; questionnaire data; 93Z5201
- Mexican migration/border region dynamics, San Diego County (California) residents' perceptions; 1980-1990 census/other data; 93Z6438
- minority/immigrant groups, Finnish attitudes/behaviors; case studies; 93Z4379
- North African Maghrebin immigrants, French attitudes; 93Z4383
- penal reform, public attitudes, definitional problems, GB; 93Z4876
- people with visible disability, health care trainees'/professionals' judgment; questionnaire data; Sydney, Australia; 93Z6132
- political behavior/affiliation/opinions/attitudes, Andalusians, 1990/91 election data; 93Z5019
- women in combat, public attitudes, racial/gender differences; 1982 General Social Survey data; 93Z4645

Social Background
- academic ability/achievement-family ethnicity relationship, 1977 birth cohort, Christchurch, New Zealand; longitudinal data; 93Z5444
- drug user treatment counselors, backgrounds/roles; literature review; 93Z6286
- peace activists' backgrounds/attitudes, US; 1986 interview data; Beyond War members, Los Angeles, California; 93Z4281
- presidential candidates' election likelihood; gender, private life difficulties; scenario/questionnaire experiments; college students; 93Z6639
- self/family/teacher/school perceptions, Indian children, Republic of South Africa; age/parental marital status; 93Z5836
- work patterns, girl children, India; family/other characteristics; interviews; girls ages 5-15; 93Z5842
- youth family influence patterns, post-1900 changes; secondary questionnaire data; former West Germany; 93Z6013

Social Behavior
- action, traditional/Weberian-inspired conception; 93Z4134
- bully/victim problems, middle school children, Yorkshire, England; questionnaire data; 93Z6365
- minority/immigrant groups, Finnish attitudes/behaviors; case studies; 93Z4379
- social actors, social experiences, game theories; 93Z5100
- social behaviors/movements; urban spatial relations; theoretical discussion; 93Z6535
- social skills, maritally violent vs nonviolent men; questionnaire/measurement data; Indianapolis, Indiana; 93Z6561
- socialization of emotions, parental influences; 93Z6049
- waiting lines, behavioral norms/auto-organizational structure, Moscow, USSR; 1991 participant observation; 93Z4447

Social Change
- International economic globalization, regional development impacts; 93Z4965
- academic social sciences, historical evolution, India, 1780-1920; 93Z6407
- adult education, socialization theory perspective; literature review; 93Z5485
- agricultural sector, former German Democratic Republic, reunification's impact; secondary survey data; 93Z5250
- attitudes toward women leaders; number of women leaders; empirical data; 93Z6645
- Canadian elite sector, British domination; literature review; 93Z5175
- Chicano protest movement, Catholic church injustices, San Diego/Los Angeles, California; 93Z4405
- civil society revitalization, postcommunist Czechoslovakia; round-table discussion; 93Z4517
- communist-to-democratic transition, Eastern Europe, centrally directed nature; 93Z5013
- corporate career patterns; organizational/social change; interviews; British managers; 93Z5214
- crime research, Europe, sociohistorical interdisciplinary approaches; post-1500s historical overview; 93Z6339
- cultural life, postcommunist Bulgaria; 93Z5413
- democratization process, Argentina; alienation; interview/obervational/other data; 93Z5041
- depopulation, social/economic change, Imotski district, rural Croatia; 1857-1991 census data; 93Z5806
- dispute-processing research/theory, democratic social change predisposition; journal issue review; 93Z6480
- doctor-patient relationship, (former) East Germany; unification, medical practice privatization; 93Z6197
- East European economic/political development; sociohistorical perspective; 93Z4769
- East/Central European 1989 revolutions, constitutionalism aspects; 93Z5091
- Eastern European revolution, educational reform implications; case study; Czechoslovakia; 93Z5513
- economic relations/exchange, transition context, provincial Russia; 1990 observations; 93Z4474
- economic transformation, social effects, Czechoslovakia; national statistics; 93Z4777
- education, Solomon Islands, traditional vs Western models, social change effects; fieldwork/other data; 93Z5514
- family structure/value changes, implications for educators; 93Z5516
- female labor force participation increase, work/family consequences; 93Z4732
- female suicide trends, social change/anomie hypotheses tested, US, statistical data, 1950-1984; 93Z6090
- fertility attitudes/behaviors, Jordan; family structural changes; 93Z5993
- Finnish identity shifts; 1987 interview/observational data; 93Z4384
- French television technology transfer, Hungary, communist-democratic regime transition period, political/economic problems, 93Z5735
- German Democratic Republic collapse, external/internal causes; 93Z4818
- German unification, causes/future prospects; 93Z4817
- globalization; 12-chapter cultural perspective; 93c01682
- hierarchical vs democratic schooling/knowledge management, Pohnpei (Micronesia); US-influenced social change; 1980-1982 fieldwork, 93Z5443
- humans-wolves relationship, positive vs negative images, current studies vs historical documentation; 93Z6497
- ideological movements, theoretical model; book review essay; 93Z4455
- juvenile delinquency, Japan; 93Z6354
- labor market changes, Czechoslovakia; public opinion surveys; 93Z4611
- life course theory/research, US/former West Germany; book review essay; 93Z5911
- literacy education, Iran, social change/stability role; 93Z5481
- market change, Middle Ages, lawyers'/merchants' role; 93Z4799
- marriage, changing attitudes, Italy; 93Z6002
- mass/high culture, 1955-1985 audience change, Netherlands; secondary data; 93Z5406
- military vs peaceful world paradigm, nuclear weapons industry's conversion to civilian industries; 93Z4980
- national identity transformation, postcommunist Germany; 93Z5139
- national identity/democracy formation, Eastern Europe, institutional reconstitution needs; 93Z5103
- nationalization/social democratization, Czechoslovakia; 93Z5135
- Partido Revolucionario Institucional, power loss, Mexico; 93Z5084
- political correctness, changing social interpretation; 93Z6577

political system, 1988 disruption/state party's reaction, Mexico; 93Z5085
political transformations, German/European unification; interview; 93Z4770
political/social/economic change, Argentina; 93Z5028
qualitative economic growth, leftist theory; book review; 93Z4822
race concept, origins/development/use; 1991 presidential address; North Carolina Sociological Association; 93Z4409
racial/class/gender diversity, sociological implications; 93Z4433
religion's revitalization, modern/postmodern ambivalence, postsocialist Eastern Europe; 93Z5573
rural life, change/old-new conflict, sociological perspective; personal experiences, fieldwork; sociologists; 93Z5284
rural/small town life, Czechoslovakia; communism's downfall; 1989-1990 empirical data; 93Z5054
social change strategies, Eastern Europe, 1980s, Polish model; 93Z5094
social change, rural Croatia; 93Z5301
social policy regimes/solidarity strategies, post-WWII Eastern vs Western Europe; 93Z5026
social theory, postcommunist Russia; 93Z4138
social transformation, Third World, underdevelopment theories; 93Z4771
social transformations, People's Republic of China; 93Z4220
social/political/economic/geographical change, Europe; 93Z4978
socialism, global crisis; 1991 round-table discussion; Brazil; 93Z5120
socialist system breakdown, capitalist development, modernization theory breakdown; Yugoslavian example; 93Z4804
societal change, Europe, theoretical/analytical issues; 93Z4033 socioeconomic change, adaptation strategies, Lacandona community, Mexico; 93Z4783
socioeconomic inequality, postcommunist era changes, public perceptions, Czechoslovakia; national questionnaire data; 93Z5169
Soviet empire dissolution, nationalism issues; 11-chapter analysis; 93c01664
Soviet-East European relations, postcommunist era; 9-essay collection; 93c01681
Soviet-type system, etacratistic nature; 1986 survey data; top Party functionaries; 93Z5093
stereotypes of Americans, Persian Gulf war period; checklist questionnaire; university students, Australia; 93Z4373
theoretical parallels, George H. Mead/Thorstein Veblen; 93Z4144
transition to democracy, Mexico, political culture/party system roles; 93Z5048
transition to democracy, Mexico, principal political parties' potential effects; 93Z5099
transition to settled villages, !Kung San people, Botswana; 1980s fieldwork; 93Z4520
United Methodist Church, social/political change attempts, Detroit, Michigan, 1950-1980; 93Z5566
urban systems/changes, postcommunist Eastern Europe; 93Z5344
US males, 1990s, gender/workplace/other issues; 93Z6625
US mass media, elite power group model shift; 93Z4878
value change, youth's role, Western societies; 1980-1991 literature review; 93Z5861
village demographic profiles, post-WWII/postcommunist changes, Czechoslovakia; monographical studies; 93Z6441
wife beating, Lane County, Oregon, 1890s; divorce cases; 93Z6007
women, changing roles; 8-chapter historical analysis; 93c01660
women, historical positions, AD 1000-present; 5-chapter retrospective; 93c01661
year 1968, twentieth-anniversary recollections, "mythologizers"; 93Z4859

Social Class

bank bailouts, racial/class aspects; case study; Connecticut/New York; 93Z4369 children's reading behavior, parental/family/social class influence, the Netherlands; 93Z5843
class consciousness, GB, measurement problems; secondary survey data; 93Z5151
class perceptions, Western Europe/Asia/US; book review essay; 93Z5168
fertility, Bolivia; social class; national survey data; 93Z5185
gender/social class-illness relationship, youth, Finland; 1986 interview data; 93Z5890
labor market structure, sociological research; 93Z4748
school attainment, immigrants' children, Netherlands; social class vs social status; school files; 93Z5436
science problem solving, students' recognition/realization skills; social class factors; questionnaire/interview data; students ages 10-12, Lisbon, Portugal; 93Z5483
social class, public perceptions, Hungary/Australia; 1986-1989 interview/questionnaire data; 93Z5152
social class-patient treatment attitudes, physicians, health care implications; 1962/1987 questionnaire data; 93Z6113
social class-political party relationship, Netherlands; 1970-1986 survey data; 93Z5173
women's class assignment, individual vs family-centered criteria; 1973-1987 multinational survey data; 93Z5150

Social Closure

class/stratification, capitalist societies, closure theories critiqued; 93Z4170

Social Cohesion

inhibition of war, humankind's unity, architecture's potential contributions; 93Z6522
lax treatment of time, Kelantanese peasants, heightened cultural awareness/identity; 93Z4495
political behavior, young Italians, 1980s; literature review; 93Z5012
solidarity, middle-/working-class women, 19th-century; 93Z5193

Social Conditions

public dispute research, dynamic historical approach; illustrative example; Two Forks Dam controversy, Denver, Colorado; 93Z6496
social erosion, Norway; 93Z5127

Social Conflict

Castells, Manuel, housing/urban political theories; 93Z4155
collective grief/rage, gender/peace politics, Middle East conflict context, Israel; 1990 fieldwork data; 93Z6618
environmental regulation, control, conflicts, "disputing" paradigm; 93Z6514
forest resource use conflict, Ixtlán, Mexico; 93Z6436
Israeli-Palestinian conflict; 93Z4869
modern feminist movement, persistent conflicts/contradictions; 93Z6589
political conflict, theoretical paradigm shift; 93Z5063
post-Cold-war-era US, strengths/challenges; 93Z4834
rural life, change/old-new conflict, sociological perspective; personal experiences, fieldwork; sociologists; 93Z5284
social conflict, segmentary tribal vs functionally differentiated societies, Emile Durkheim's sociology of morality; case studies; Papua New Guinea/West Germany; 93Z5171

Social Control

community treatment order debate, England/Wales, historical development; 93Z6217
constitutionalism, political reconstruction, non-Western world; 93Z5011
crime-social control-society relationship; book review essay; 93Z6334
decarceration, panoptican interpretation critiqued; interviews; judges/prosecutors/community service order workers; Canadian city; 93Z5128
deliquent adolescent girls, internal social control/differential association explanations; 1984-1986 questionnaire data; Texas; 93Z6352
drug abuse, minority communities, US, legislation/policy issues; 93Z6256
Enlightenment interpretations, Michel Foucault vs Georges Sorel; 93Z4099
health behavior, social control/gender/marital status factors; 93Z6189
illegal drug control, US policy critiqued, decriminalization/legalization proposed; 93Z6278
juvenile delinquency, Japan; 93Z6354
juvenile delinquency, social control theory tested; interview data, police records; Venlo/The Hague, Netherlands; 93Z6350
medicalization/social control, conceptual issues; research review; 93Z6123
policing/state judical structures/social control, South Africa, sociological study; 3-book review essay; 93Z5692
pornography control, feminist attitudes, rights/freedom vs responsibility issues; questionnaire data; National Organization for Women newsletter readers, California; 93Z5622
reproductive/genetic engineering/control, women's oppression issues; 93Z6069
risk-based technologies, crime prevention applications; 93Z5643
social control, economy variations/social structural factors; 1983-1987 state-level data; 93Z5677
social progress, paradoxical issues; 7-book review essay; 93Z6171
surveillance/control, contemporary industrial labor process; observational data; Japanese electronics firm, GB; 93Z4746
US drug control policy critiqued, alternative proposed; 93Z6264 violence control, former West Germany; book review essay; 93Z4057

Social Criticism

"On the Significance of Militant Materialism" by V. I. Lenin, dialectical materialism as critical thinking method; 93Z6660
popular music, 20th century; illustrative examples; critique/introduction; 93Z5400
Social Democracy
educational reform, social democracy's failure, New Zealand; 93Z5448
local district clubs, Flemish Social Democratic Party, Ghent, Belgium; 93Z5018
nationalization/social democratization, Czechoslovakia; 93Z5135
welfare state development/economic performance, social-democratic model; literature review; 93Z5033 Social Desirability
body image disturbances, social comparisons, gender differences; scale/inventory data; college students; 93Z4269
female body shape ideals, cross-cultural variations, socioecological perspective; Standard Cross-Cultural Sample data; 93Z6602
Social Determination of Meaning
Alzheimer's disease medicalization; secondary empirical data; physicians/family caregivers; 93Z6161
church attendance, social meaning, independent charismatic church, Austin, Texas; interviews, statistical data; 93Z5527
class/social relations, linguistic representations/usage, historical accounts; 12-essay collection; 93c01666
cultural psychology; 2-book review essay; 93Z4304
death, social construction, 1991 Gulf war; content analysis; New York Times stories; 93Z4644 dispute processing, official bureaucracies, social-constructivist model; 93Z6475
fashion communication functions, Western society; 9-chapter sociological analysis; 93c01668
group defamation, language's/social construction of reality's roles, social-cognitive perspective; 93Z4366
human immunodeficiency virus transmission/prevention knowledge, social construction; interview data; heterosexual college students, Montreal, Quebec; 93Z6156
human immunodeficiency virus/acquired immune deficiency syndrome, deviance/pollution discourse; case study; prison system upheaval, New South Wales, Australia; 93Z5675
nationality, European racial purity, social construction, 18th-century colonial North America/20th-century GB; 93Z4502
olfactory symbolism, identity/difference expressions, diverse cultures; 93Z4456
psychosomatic/psychological symptoms, social meanings, semiotics investigation; questionnaire, participant observation; factory workers, Finland; 93Z6140
public space, social construction, urban areas; medieval Europe-present; 93Z5317
race/ethnicity/culturally assigned meaning, research; comment; 93Z4372
senile dementia, social construction; case studies; 93Z6299
situation meaning/ethnography/conversation analysis; F. Wiseman's High School film transcripts; 93Z5392 social construction of sight, historical overview; 93Z6686
social interactions, social role/consensus expectations negotiations; conversational analysis; student dyads; 93Z4296
social reality construction, media discourse/imagery influences; 93Z4885
strangers, modern society, social construction; 93Z4126
US drug use patterns, cultural context, policy implications; 93Z6268
wilderness, culturally constructed definition, capitalist US society; case study; Adirondack Mountains, New York; 93Z5350
Social Development
adult education, socialization theory perspective; literature review; 93Z5485
armed conflicts, development/progress, justifications, Latin America; 93Z4768
commercial capitalism/state formation, early modern Europe, bourgeoisie's role; historical empirical evidence; 93Z4221
community security-technological progress relationships; 93Z5743
decentralized development, Rome, reform/social planning issues; Italian census data; 93Z5773
equilibrium theory, socioeconomic-political development relationship; case examples; Chile/Philippines/Spain/Portugal/Saudi Arabia; 93Z5075
nationalism's development, France vs Germany; 93Z5132
patronage, developed societies; response; 93Z4669
peasant-to-class society transformation, Germany, 17th-19th centuries; agrarian system development, cottage linen industry; secondary data; Belm parish; 93Z5296
post-Gulf war conditions, Iraq medical relief team's description; 93Z5066
race concept, origins/development/use; 1991 presidential address; North Carolina Sociological Association; 93Z4409
science-technology-society instruction, inservice model, Iowa; 93Z4028
social events/development, thermodynamics perspective, open vs ordered societies; 93Z4180
social prognosis research, Czechoslovakia; 93Z4791
social transformation, Third World, underdevelopment theories; 93Z4771
socioeconomic development, sub-Saharan Africa; female education; UN/government data; Gambia; 93Z5428
state apparatus crisis, agrobusiness's land monopoly's role, Brazil; 93Z5272
sub-Saharan African development, illustrative example; Nigeria; 93Z4780
technology-society relationship, educational module; 93Z4011
technology-society relationship, individual/collective conflicts; literary works; 93Z6210
women's rights, human rights principles' applications; 93Z6605
Social Disorganization
chaos theory, disorder/unpredictability/nondecidability problems, inappropriate application; 93Z4133
Mexico-US Free Trade Agreement, potential negative impact, Mexico; 93Z5003
Palestinian social fragmentation, Arab identity impacts; 7-chapter analysis; 93c01656
Social Distance
African-American men, West Indian men's distancing/identification responses; 93Z4432 social space/symbolic space; four 1989 lectures by Pierre Bourdieu, 93Z4453
Social Dynamics
suburban delinquency, class dynamics; self-report survey; youths, New York; 93Z6349
Social Environment
discourse communities, Reformation/Enlightenment/European socialism; book review essay; 93Z4468
personal relationships research, physical environment's centrality, theory/method implications; 93Z4348
scientific knowledge access, science-technology-society approach; 93Z5430
social environment description trends, ethical components, sociological theory; literature review; 93Z4131
Social Evolution
crime-social control-society relationship; book review essay; 93Z6334
technical progress, social evolutionary interpretation; illustrative empirical examples; 93Z5753
Social Facts
Weber, Max, methodological approaches; 93Z4143
Social Factors accident proneness, school children, Iceland; secondary data; 93Z5835 acquired immune deficiency syndrome perceptions, adults, Federal Republic of Germany; 1990 survey data; 93Z6141 alcohol consumption, Danish children ages 11-15, social correlates; 1988 national survey data; 93Z6258
alcoholism/social adjustment, Chinese male immigrants, New York City; case studies; 93Z6254
capitalist systems, government role, economic/political/social impacts, 1974-1981 statistical data; 93Z4828
Christianity's origins, Friedrich Engels's/Max Weber's/Ernst Troeltsch's writings; 93Z5605
Christianity's origins, sociocritical vs historicocritical approach; special journal issue introduction; 93Z5601
cocaine addiction, group relapse prevention program;; 93Z6274
computer crime laws, US states, property rights bases; 93Z6330
conduct disorder; parent-child interaction; research review; 93Z5970
decision making, Herbert Simon's bounded rationality concept critiqued; 93Z4175
drug screening, hair analysis technology; research review; 93Z6276
early Christian leadership; 4th-century texts; 93Z5528
Jewish emigration, USSR; sociopolitical conditions; 1989 survey data, 93Z5763
Kingdom and Community: The Social World of Early Christianity by John G. Gager; 93Z5547 museum restoration, professional occupation; visual sociological study; 93Z5405
Orthodox church, social/political role, postcommunist Russia; 93Z5602

peace activists' backgrounds/attitudes, US; 1986 interview data; Beyond War members, Los Angeles, California; 93Z4281
reproductive science; round-table discussion; 93Z6058
school-work transition, Indian secondary students, South Africa; observational/other data; 93Z5881
scientific realism, psychological applications; article/comments/response; 93Z4151
stereotypes of Americans, Persian Gulf war period; checklist questionnaire; university students, Australia; 93Z4373
suicides, inferred characteristics; gender/context; experimental data; undergraduates, Norfolk, Virginia; 93Z6097
surrogate motherhood, past/present social context, South Africa/Western societies; 93Z6089
work meanings, changing trends, German labor force; 1982/1989 interview data; 93Z4604
work meanings, comparative analytical approaches; cross-cultural data; 93Z4563

Social Equilibrium
equilibrium theory, socioeconomic-political development relationship; case examples; Chile/Philippines/Spain/Portugal/Saudi Arabia; 93Z5075
inhibition of war, humankind's unity, architecture's potential contributions; 93Z6522

Social Function
crime's utility, Emile Durkheim's thought critiqued; 93Z6338

Social Groups
collective action, Weberian status group perspective; 93Z4913
mass media credibility determination; viewer's group identification; interview data; 93Z4887

Social History
America at Century's End, book review symposium; 93Z4208
great revolutions, comparative historical-sociological analytical frameworks; 93Z4226
historical sociology history/development; 93Z4231
historical sociology vs philosophy of morals; 93Z4229
historical sociology, structuralism/rational choice theories; 93Z4227
humans-wolves relationship, positive vs negative images, current studies vs historical documentation; 93Z6497
lesbianism, China, historical overview/present account; observational/interview/other data; 93Z6647
public space, social construction, urban areas; medieval Europe-present; 93Z5317
social history of science; book review essay; 93Z5716
socialism/historical events, interpretive models; 93Z5049
statistics production, historical evolution, 1840s-1960s, Egypt; 93Z4066
US airmail pickup system, commercial failure/military success, 1939-1949; 93Z5746
US labor movement; historical research review; 93Z4584
women, changing roles; 8-chapter historical analysis; 93c01660
women, historical positions, AD 1000-present; 5-chapter retrospective; 93c01661

Social Identity
African-American men, West Indian men's distancing/identification responses; 93Z4432
alienation/autonomy/social identities; 93Z4491
counseling troubled youth, groupwork considerations; 93Z5845
cultural identity, relevancy issues; empirical data; homo-/heterosexual men; 93Z4882
fashion communication functions, Western society; 9-chapter sociological analysis; 93c01668
gender/race construction, organizations, social identity/group mobilization perspectives; 93Z4671
group membership/social identity, minimal group paradigm; secondary data; 93Z4290
manhood conceptualizations, African-American men; empirical data; New York; 93Z6624
Palestinian social fragmentation, Arab identity impacts; 7-chapter analysis; 93c01656
personal identity crisis, postmodernity; 93Z4282
personal identity, J. Searle's Chinese room argument critique, artificial mind possibility; 93Z4136
personal mental illness explanations, impact on life; interview data; 93Z6215
political institution establishment, Catholic/Protestant political identities' barrier, Northern Ireland; 93Z4853
race/class/gender, historical relationships; case study; working-class women, South Africa, 1930s-present; 93Z4246
racism, synchronic nature, US/other nations; 93Z4423
religion-ethnicity connections, collective identity as negotiation process, Canadian historiography; 93Z5799
religious identity changes, Switzerland; article/comments; 93Z5532

Social Impact Assessment
economic transformation, social effects, Czechoslovakia; national statistics; 93Z4777
employee search activities, inequality perpetuation, personnel workers; questionnaire; banking institution; social impact theory perspective; 93Z4591
literacy impacts, autonomous/ideological models; survey; Nigerian men; 93Z5365
social impact assessment, broadened conceptual framework; 93Z6456

Social Inequality
advanced societies, equality/individualism ideologies, Western Europe; 93Z5176
child developmental delay; socioeconomic status; questionnaire; Brisbane, Australia; 93Z5838
employee search activities, inequality perpetuation, personnel workers; questionnaire; banking institution; social impact theory perspective; 93Z4591
increasing social inequality, university education, Norway; 1977-1985 statistics; 93Z5459
postwar educational research/reform, Raymond Boudon's critique; reply; 93Z5584
pronatalism/women's equality policies; literature review, case studies; Canada; 93Z6581
racial inequality-homicide rate relationship, US cities; Federal Bureau of Investigation homicide data, literature review; 93Z6328
racism/poverty causes, post-civil rights era, US; 93Z4397
social injustice reproduction, law's role, late-capitalist societies, Robert Hale's/Michel Foucault's work; 93Z5637
social stratification, Erving Goffman's dramaturgical theory; 93Z5184 socialist health care system inadequacies, German Democratic Republic; social inequality; 93Z6110
socioeconomic inequality, postcommunist era changes, public perceptions, Czechoslovakia; national questionnaire data; 93Z5169
US welfare system, structural inequalities, conservative reform proposals; 93Z5124

Social Influence
adolescent drug use; social influence/cognitive factors; survey; eighth grade students, California/Oregon; 93Z6260
bases of power model, 30-year evolution; 93Z4338
body image disturbances, social comparisons, gender differences; scale/inventory data; college students; 93Z4269
English-language spread, influencing factors; 93Z5394
tenant participation, public housing, power/influence issues; 1981-1989 interviews; 93Z4915

Social Institutions
civics education-political socialization relationship, Oceania; UNESCO publications; 93Z5016
decentered social institutions, US; book review essay; 93Z4213
MacCormick, Neil, institutional theory of law critiqued; 93Z5644
parallel ethnic institutions, completeness notion; illustrative examples; ethnic groups/state policy, Montreal, Quebec; 93Z4411
religion's marginalization, Switzerland; article/comments; 93Z5604
social/legal institutions, linguistic/social bonds, contract law; 93Z5624
war making-state building relationship, institutional theory of war; 93Z4627

Social Integration
academic achievement/social-emotional development, students with learning difficulties, integrated vs other classrooms; longitudinal questionnaires/tests; Switzerland; 93Z5426
disability, integration issues, labeling theory; rejoinder; 93Z4336
European Community integration challenges, German secondary school curriculum; 93Z5461
health behaviors/status, Mexican-American women, southwestern US; social-contextual factors; survey data; 93Z6160
integrated rural development project, Ethiopia, social learning framework; documentary analysis; 93Z5309
integration/disintegration, Eastern/Western Europe, post-WWII-present; 93Z4992
racial/ethnic/gender integration, US federal agencies; demographic/organizational factors; 1982-1988 statistical data; 93Z4382
socialization process, Yugoslav immigrant families, France; official statistics; 93Z5831
special needs education, social/curricular integration; response/rejoinder; 93Z5435
technological innovation, cultural/societal impact, Renaissance era; 93Z4484

Ukrainian immigrants, Canada, social integration; 93Z5790
Social Interaction
acquired immune deficiency syndrome stigma, social interaction; means of transmission/risk knowledge/gender; survey data; undergraduates; 93Z6153
cooperation, large groups; punishment; 93Z5821
insulting/cursing, social interactions, theoretical explanations; 93Z4897
interaction analysis constraints, intention/meaning/strategy role, social action context; speech examples; 93Z5379
language use/functions, occupational/professional relationships; 93Z5230
minimal social situations, combinatorial theory; 93Z4189
patient-physician communication; clinical interviews; 93Z6121
public participation, environmental risk decision making, social interaction theory; 93Z4202 residential/social interaction patterns, Indian immigrants, Sydney, Australia; interview/other data; 93Z5798
self-images, memories' role, single Italians; interview data; 93Z4251
social interactions, social role/consensus expectations negotiations; conversational analysis; student dyads; 93Z4296
social stress, theory/research issues; 93Z6203
social values research, methodological contexts/aspects; 93Z4476
stranger-local inhabitant interaction, various cultural/geographic settings; 93Z4919
stratification/self-location image, successive social interactions' role, formal theory; 93Z5153
symbolic interactions, diverged statement systems; 93Z4328
the self, conversion experience; 93Z4345
theoretical parallels, George H. Mead/Thorstein Veblen; 93Z4144
tubectomy acceptors, demographic/socioeconomic differences, Amritsar district, Punjab, India; interviews; 93Z6081
Social Isolation
loneliness as modern disease, three-dimensional perspective; 93Z4294
long-term unemployed, social polarization, kinship/friendship patterns; interviews; husbands, Hartlepool, England; 93Z4593
social phobia/avoidant personality disorder, diagnosis/treatment issues; literature review; 93Z6230
Social Justice
adoption criteria/process, local justice concept, US; 93Z6087
Chicano protest movement, Catholic church injustices, San Diego/Los Angeles, California; 93Z4405 critical justice studies, history/development, Canada; 93Z5477 justice, philosophical accounts vs social-psychological theory/research; literature review; 93Z4154
past political injustices, legal sanctioning strategies, postcommunist societies; 93Z4827
perestroika, social policy erosion, former USSR; 93Z4829
social injustice reproduction, law's role, late-capitalist societies, Robert Hale's/Michel Foucault's work; 93Z5637
social justice, Emile Durkheim's work; 93Z4174
socioeconomic inequality, postcommunist era changes, public perceptions, Czechoslovakia; national questionnaire data; 93Z5169
theories of justice/social injustice; 4-book review essay; 93Z5659 universal health care, rationing's role/justice, US; illustrative example; Oregon initiative; 93Z6120
Social Mobility
counterculture notions, Pierre Bourdieu's vs Paul Willis's theories; 93Z4179
latent budget analysis, two-way contingency tables; 93Z4000
political behavior; social mobility; 93Z5191
post-1965 immigrants, US, economic future; 93Z5779
social class-political party relationship, Netherlands; 1970-1986 survey data; 93Z5173
social mobility patterns, former Olympic athletes; survey data; southern California; 93Z4947
social mobility, northeastern Italy; migration; survey data; 93Z5177
social networks/support; social mobility; 1986/87 survey data; women, Canberra, Australia; 93Z5174
status inconsistency/visibility relationship; questionnaire data; secondary school students, Belgium; 93Z5147 upward social mobility, black vs white working women's subjective experiences; life-history interview data; Memphis, Tennessee; 93Z5160
Social Movements
abortion rights movement, judicial role, US/Canadian comparison; 93Z6059
black voluntary housing movement, England; 1989/90 interview data; 93Z4683
Castells, Manuel, housing/urban political theories; 93Z4155
city structure/spatial differentiation, social movements-dominant culture conflict; case studies; secondary data; 93Z5354
contemporary multicultural agenda, Swedish/other alternatives; 93Z4417
"deep ecology" movement's history/potential; 93Z4852
educational social movement, Malta, 1990; case study; 93Z5507
feminist movement, Latin American countries; personal experience/research; 93Z6595
Highlander schools, southern US; five-book review essay; 93Z5441
human rights movement, indigenous peoples, Mexico; illustrative examples; Oaxaca/Guerrero; 93Z4413
ideological movements, theoretical model; book review essay; 93Z4455
lesbian/feminist movement, 1970s; 93Z6594
Middle East, Islamic fundamentalism, image-centered forms of social regulation; 93Z4504
"new journalism" movement, US/Germany; 93Z4888
new social movement concept, environmental/peace movements' contradictions, GB; secondary/interview data; 93Z4862
new social movements, Belgium/Europe, political/sociological conceptual problems; 93Z4868
old age policy, social movement success, political mediation model, US; 1930-1950 state-level economic data; 93Z6288
outing movement, US homosexuals, legal/ethical issues; 93Z5925
politics of rights-new social movements association, class issues; Canadian experience; 93Z4846
power relations, women's role, Cairo, Egypt; case example; lower-middle-class women, popular women's movement; 93Z4485
radicalism/modernity; 2-book review symposium; 93Z5121
repetition strain injury, sociology of medical knowledge/social problem perspective, Australia; 93Z6112
social behaviors/movements; urban spatial relations; theoretical discussion; 93Z6535
social movement emergence from community organizations vs masses, illustrative example; Mexico; 93Z5345
social movement organization members, demographic characteristics, Washington; interview data; 93Z4843
social movements, theory; 2-book review essay; 93Z4865
value, subject-object relationship; 93Z4193
women's studies/grass-roots women's movement interaction/cooperation, Republic of Ireland; 93Z4856 year 1968, twentieth-anniversary recollections, "mythologizers"; 93Z4859
Social Networks adolescent girls' friendship networks, inclusion/exclusion process; interviews; Australian high school; 93Z5391 agricultural innovation diffusion, network variables' influence, social contagion model; empirical data; no-till agriculture; 93Z4673
cognitive processing theory, connectionist modeling's contributions; 93Z6411 family/social networks, elderly Italians, Gippsland, Victoria, Australia; 1985/86 interview data; 93Z6015 human immunodeficiency virus infection, urban social network; interviews; Colorado Springs, Colorado; 93Z6149 network structure/social support functions/satisfaction, families/individuals, convoy model; secondary data; 93Z4674
position concept, social network analysis, theoretical issues; illustrative examples; 93Z4675
religious movement internationalization; case study; Muslim Jamiyah, Singapore; 93Z5607
social networks/attachments, adulthood; parental care in childhood, literature review; 93Z6054
social networks/support; social mobility; 1986/87 survey data; women, Canberra, Australia; 93Z5174
Social Order
constitutionalism, political reconstruction, non-Western world; 93Z5011
The Good Society by Robert Bellah et al; review symposium; 93Z4207
law-social customs relationship; anthropological analysis/historical sketch; 93Z5627
new technoeconomic systems, post-Fordist social order emergence; 93Z5730
organizational theory of society; 93Z4446
peace/justice relationship/definitions, interactionist-sociological perspective; 93Z4971
social actors, social experiences, game theories; 93Z5100
social events/development, thermodynamics perspective, open vs ordered societies; 93Z4180
state legitimacy crisis, Ecuador; 93Z4988

Social Perception
acquired immune deficiency syndrome perceptions, adults, Federal Republic of Germany; 1990 survey data; 93Z6141
criminal defendants, public's moral evaluation; interview data; West Germany; 93Z4875
hazardous waste landfill risk perceptions, community leaders vs general public, Sumter County, Alabama; interview/survey data; 93Z6492
public perception, media effects, differential attentiveness theory; literature review; 93Z4881
self/family/teacher/school perceptions, Indian children, Republic of South Africa; age/parental marital status; 93Z5836
social class, public perceptions, Hungary/Australia; 1986-1989 interview/questionnaire data; 93Z5152
Social Philosophy
primitivism, Gilles Deleuze's/Félix Guattari's A Thousand Plateaus; 93Z4529
Soviet political pathology's origin, fundamental premise of Marxism; 93Z5035
Social Planning
crisis management, communication resources, planning/propaganda/societal morale; 93Z4972
decentralized development, Rome, reform/social planning issues; Italian census data; 93Z5773
German unification, causes/future prospects; 93Z4817
planning theory, feminist theory's contributions; 93Z6590
Social Policy
drug abuse prevention/education programs, postlegalization US; 93Z6259
elderly social problems, India; interview data; retired government employees/old age home residents; 93Z6308
food distribution, social policy, 16th-/17th-century England; 93Z6467
government social policy, male vs female treatment; illustrative example, West German social pension legislation; 93Z5935
guaranteed minumum income, social rationalization of the economy, constitutional entitlement, Germany; literature review; 93Z4711
historical immigration trends, US, contemporary European implications; literature review; 93Z5761
perestroika, social policy erosion, former USSR; 93Z4829
population aging, social policy implications; 93Z6315
pronatalism/women's equality policies; literature review, case studies; Canada; 93Z6581
social policy as plural action system, Western Europe; 93Z6458
sociology professionalism, Italy; 93Z4101
solicitor practices, divorce cases, Scotland, "simulated client" model; 93Z6342
transnational welfare/social policy; 93Z5122
Social Power
black feminist thought; book review symposium; 93Z6599
Enlightenment interpretations, Michel Foucault vs Georges Sorel; 93Z4099
legal profession privatization, Italy; 93Z5209
Luhmann, Niklas, power/system theory; critical analysis; 93Z4181
sacralization process, Mt. Šipovac, Herzegovina; historical periodization, 93Z5526
sexual harassment, US military personnel; racial/ethnic power differential; 1988 Department of Defense survey; 93Z4636
small sample analyses, validity problems, post hoc power analysis application; 93Z3954
Social Pressure
conformity, response alteration, perceived social disagreement; experiment data; undergraduate students; 93Z4235
spiral of silence theory, survey respondent candor, 1988 US presidential election; telephone survey; Orange County, California; 93Z4873
Social Problems
asylum crisis, European states' response; 93Z4443
drug control policy, prohibition/legalization problems, US; 93Z5638
economic performance, modern India, traditional views, human nature's impact; 93Z4535
elderly social problems, India; interview data; retired government employees/old age home residents; 93Z6308
forced emigration, refugee problem, USSR; statistical/other data; 93Z5814
poverty-child development relationship; lead poisoning/stress/maternal depression/drug use; 93Z6541
rural communities, US; 13-chapter sociological analysis; 93c01671
shame/addiction interconnections, recovery fram shame, psychotherapeutic approach; naturalistic research; 93Z6284
small town growth/economic reorganization, concomitant problems, US; case study; Carlisle, Pennsylvania; 93Z5358
social erosion, Norway; 93Z5127
social ills/radical individualism/weak civic commitment, US; 2-book review essay; 93Z4469
social intervention-family imagery relationship; 93Z5946
social issue beliefs/opinions, reasoned argument process; education/other variables; interviews; residents, New York City; 93Z4332
social problems, macrolevel perspective; 93Z4212
theories of justice/social injustice; 4-book review essay; 93Z5659
US drug problem, militaristic/punitive vs etiological approaches; 93Z5651
welfare dependency/school dropout/violent crime/teenage pregnancy reduction, successful health/social service/educational programs, US/Canada; 93Z6543
youth/community concepts' relevance, youth service provision, Ireland; interviews; Cork; 93Z5867
Social Processes
civilizing process, intellectual origins, Norbert Elias's/neo-Kantians' views; 93Z6410 historical development, cyclical processes, USSR; 93Z4762
human systems/social process, systemic perspective; 93Z4255
organizational theory of society; 93Z4446
Polanyi, Karl, critique of economic institutions/capitalist society; 93Z4823
social processes, relevance of space, theoretical approaches compared; 93Z5316
Social Programs
abortion "gag rule" 1990/91, decision, US Supreme Court, social welfare program impact; 93Z5657
abused/neglected elders, service improvement models; 1985-1987 demonstration projects; Illinois; 93Z6312
national service programs, US, humanist sociology's contributions; 93Z4689
rural poverty, problem definition, US social programs; 93Z6544 tribal/state service providers, Indian child welfare training program, western Washington; program evaluation data; 93Z6357
Social Progress
armed conflicts, development/progress, justifications, Latin America; 93Z4768
social prognosis research, Czechoslovakia; 93Z4791
social progress, paradoxical issues; 7-book review essay; 93Z6171
welfare state, dysfunctional effects; 93Z4813
Social Psychology
African literary critique, trends/themes; 93Z5420
cultural psychology; 2-book review essay; 93Z4304
ideologies, social psychology; 3-book review essay; 93Z4273
modern social psychology; 93Z4034
self-presentation, psychological vs sociological approaches; 93Z4346
social psychology, Japan, US influence; 93Z4270
social psychology, Russia/USSR; historical overview; 93Z4297
social psychology, time-centered perspective; 93Z4171
social-psychological research, psychologists' contributions, Netherlands; 1989 questionnaire; members, Dutch Association of Social Psychological Research; 93Z4276
Tavistock school, GB; book review essay; 93Z5482
Wundt, Wilhelm, influence on social psychology; 93Z4069
Social Reality
social reality construction, media discourse/imagery influences; 93Z4885
social reality interpretation, circularity, sociology of knowledge/science scientists; illustrative example; citation structure, English-Canadian sociological studies; 93Z4076
Social Reform
agrarian reform, post-WWII Hungary; 93Z5269
civil society development potential, Eastern Europe; 93Z4486
criminal justice system, racial/ethnic bias; Washington Sentencing Reform Act; Yakima County; illustrative example; 93Z4376
low-caste protest movement, 19th-/20th-century Maharashtra, India; 93Z4842
mass strikes for universal suffrage, socialist political reform strategy, turn-of-the-century Belgium; 93Z4860
social progress, paradoxical issues; 7-book review essay; 93Z6171
Social Relations
acquired immune deficiency syndrome-related stigma, social relationships; questionnaire data; 93Z4322
alternative agrarian social relations, environmental perception's importance; case study; rural landsharing collective, Victoria, Australia; 93Z5263
disputes/social relationships, analytic approach; illustrative example; welfare rights; 93Z6472

feminist discourse, different voices; comment/reply; 93Z5472
homosexuality disclosure decisions, gay men; interviews; Montreal, Quebec; 93Z4252
human relationships, psychological process vs population models; 93Z6417
ironwork-peasant relationships, colonial Tanzania; eyewitness/other data; 93Z6442
long-term unemployed, social polarization, kinship/friendship patterns; interviews; husbands, Hartlepool, England; 93Z4593
modernity; 4-book review essay; 93Z4508
nature of state, alternative Marxist explanations; comment; 93Z5074
obesity, stigma/social reactions, sociological model; 93Z6182
organizational learning, failure/success rate; asset depletion; hypothetical examination; 93Z3997
personality disorder definitions, Diagnostic & Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders III, underrating social/relationship nature; 93Z6665
public/private persona presentation, sauna setting, Finland; questionnaire; 93Z4464
reciprocity, exchange relations; 93Z4127
social relations-economic market performance relationship; 93Z4781
social relationships, nursing home residents; interviews; 93Z6296
social relationships-health association; questionnaire data; medical patients, New York; 93Z6129
social structure, exchange theory vs social network analysis; 93Z4676
social/legal institutions, linguistic/social bonds, contract law; 93Z5624
work-identity relationship, low-status workers; interview data; custodians; 93Z4717

Social Reproduction
ironwork-peasant relationships, colonial Tanzania; eyewitness/other data; 93Z6442

Social Response
aboriginal issues, public's response, Canada; prejudice, perceived group conflict, economic conservatism; 1986 interview data, literature review; 93Z4385
conformity, response alteration, perceived social disagreement; experiment data; undergraduate students; 93Z4235

Social Revolution communist downfall, Eastern/Central Europe, 1989; 93Z5067
East/Central European 1989 revolutions, constitutionalism aspects; 93Z5091
Eastern European revolution, educational reform implications; case study; Czechoslovakia; 93Z5513
great revolutions, comparative historical-sociological analytical frameworks; 93Z4226
industrial revolution/technological change, South Africa; literature review; 93Z4772
sexual revolution, impacts on women; 2-book review essay; 93Z6576

Social Science Education
computer-aided instruction, social science pedagogy; 1987/88 evaluation; IBM-compatible sociology software; 93Z4007

Social Science Research
alienation research, methodological changes; 93Z3953
Chilean rural sector, social science research's organizational utility; 93Z5265
dispute-processing research/theory, democratic social change predisposition; journal issue review; 93Z6480
early Christianity, social science publications, 1947-1990; bibliography; 93Z5546
economic crisis, privatization solutions, Latin America; 93Z4803 homelessness, social science research; 93Z6551
judgment/decision-making theory/research methodology; 93Z4272
life course theory/research, US/former West Germany; book review essay; 93Z5911
linear variable interrelationships, social sciences, estimation approaches; Monte Carlo simulations; 93Z3985
open social research methods, ethical consideration; 93Z4014
social science myths, political use; 93Z4046
social science research problems, Morocco; 93Z6460
social science research, empirical evaluation methods; 93Z4040 social science research, Spain; 1988-1990 statistical data; 93Z4061
social science research, utilization strategies, control/power/conflict issues; 93Z3964
social science/language research productivity, Spanish universities; 1986-1988 publication data; 93Z5719
social theory, social time concept applied; 93Z4177
sociology, nature/practice, South Africa; comment/responses; 93Z4115

Social Sciences
academic social sciences, historical evolution, India, 1780-1920; 93Z6407
aging trends, US; 93Z6298
biographical histories' use, sociology/social sciences; 93Z4351
biological evolution theories, social science; comment/reply; 93Z582
methodological indeterminacy, human sciences application; 93Z3933
new historicism, social sciences, implications for urban history; 93Z5355
reproductive science; round-table discussion; 93Z6058
scientization of politics/politicization of science, logical empiricist tr dition critique; 93Z6487
Simmel, Georg, Italian-German conference proceedings; 93Z4182
social reality interpretation, circularity, sociology of knowledge/science scientists; illustrative example; citation structure, English-Canadian sociological studies; 93Z4076
social science disciplines, normative integration, shared questions; 93Z4183
social science publishing, US, 18th century-present; 93Z4157
social sciences, scientific method's application problems; 93Z4036
social sciences/humanities, degree types, Italian universities; 93Z548
sustainability definitions/assumptions, social scientists vs ecologists, ecosystemic implications; 93Z6512
Tavistock school, GB; book review essay; 93Z5482
truth, postmodern social science, T. R. Young critiqued; 93Z6427
Weberian causality, social sciences, critical realist perspective; 93Z4141

Social Scientists
ethnic monitoring, social scientists' role; 93Z4388
Italian political scientist Paolo Ammassari, life/work; 93Z4058
social scientists' changing visions of future; 93Z6450

Social Segmentation
computer industry restructuring, market segmentation/open systems influence; 93Z5737
India, 1947 Hindu/Muslim partition, Sikhs' exclusion; 93Z5187

Social Services
difficult-to-place people, agency management techniques, Oxford, En gland; secondary data; 93Z6555
family assessment process, service delivery, developmentally disabled children; 93Z5939 family services, federal government's role, US; 93Z5987
family-focused services, national/community foundation grants, US, 1988/89 statistical data; 93Z5999
family/children's services, states' role, US; 93Z5963
homeless, process work applications; interviews; homeless persons, 93Z6552 Indian gerontology, aging misrepresentations; narrative/deconstructiv analysis; 93Z6293
national service programs, US, humanist sociology's contributions; 93Z4689
nonprofit/voluntary sector's role, postcommunist denationalization process, Hungary; comment; 93Z4685
women's victimization, human rights declaration; 93Z6374

Social Space
social space/symbolic space; four 1989 lectures by Pierre Bourdieu; 93Z4453

Social Status
cheese making, women's role/status, England vs US, 1800-1930; 93Z5283
class/stratification, capitalist societies, closure theories critiqued, 93Z4170
collective action, Weberian status group perspective; 93Z4913
female internal migration, role/status impacts; 93Z5764
learning disabled children's social status; sociometric data; 4th-6th graders, Dade County, Florida; 93Z5506
occupation-ritual practice relationships, occupational hierarchical ranking implications, Egypt; empirical data; 93Z5207
women's class assignment, individual vs family-centered criteria; 1973 1987 multinational survey data; 93Z5150
women, historical positions; AD 1000-present; 5-chapter retrospective; 93c01661

Social Stratification
caste/occupational structure changes, urban peripheral villages; city functional type; interviews; households, India; 93Z5155
class perceptions, Western Europe/Asia/US; book review essay; 93Z5168
class/stratification, capitalist societies, closure theories critiqued; 93Z4170
money/exchange/social differentiation, Georg Simmel's vs Max Weber's views; 93Z4199

organizational sex segregation/gender stratification; special journal issue; 93Z4722
property rights/stratification, socialist redistributive economies; 1986 survey data; Tianjin, Peoples Republic of China; 93Z4833
self-directed personality, Japan; work/social stratification variables; empirical data; males; 93Z5163
social stratification, Erving Goffman's dramaturgical theory; 93Z5184
stratification/self-location image, successive social interactions' role, formal theory; 93Z5153
waged labor participation-racial stratification order position, married Chinese women, British Columbia/California/Hawaii; historical/census data; 93Z6619

Social Structure

career status attainment, social structural influences, Aage B. Sørensen's model evaluated; personnel data; West German mechanical engineering company; 93Z4702
charisma concept, social structure theories; 93Z4165
city structure/spatial differentiation, social movements-dominant culture conflict; case studies; secondary data; 93Z5354
hierarchical vs democratic schooling/knowledge management, Pohnpei (Micronesia); US-influenced social change; 1980-1982 fieldwork; 93Z5443
labor force experiences, nonmetropolitan men vs women; individual/structural factors; 1980 survey; Kentucky; 93Z4754
labor market structure, sociological research; 93Z4748
micro-macro link, integrative approach; 93Z3924
Middle East, Islamic fundamentalism, image-centered forms of social regulation; 93Z4504
modern society, metastructural theory; 93Z4128
national identity changes, postcommunist Albania; census data, 1945-1989; 93Z4381
perestroika, social policy erosion, former USSR; 93Z4829
postmodernism, new middle class cultural definitions; illustrative example; 1980s Federal Republic of Germany; 93Z4935
rural-urban migration decisions, socioeconomic/occupational/other factors, Jordan; interviews; migrants, Irbid; 93Z6201
secularization theory critique; reply; 93Z5539
social control, economy variations/social structural factors; 1983-1987 state-level data; 93Z5677
social policy regimes/solidarity strategies, post-WWII Eastern vs Western Europe; 93Z5026
social structure, exchange theory vs social network analysis; 93Z4676
socialist social structure, 20th century, theoretical model; 93Z4820
structure blindness, false consciousness; 93Z5167
urban network structure analysis, graph theoretic models' applicability; 93Z5335
waiting lines, behavioral norms/auto-organizational structure, Moscow, USSR; 1991 participant observation; 93Z4447
women's subjective class identification, Australia; 1984/85 national survey data; 93Z5159

Social Studies

organization studies; 4-book review essay; 93Z4656
social relationships-health association; questionnaire data; medical patients, New York; 93Z6129
social studies of technology, Latin American contributions; 93Z5751

Social Support

breast vs bottle feeding, social support dimensions, new mothers; questionnaire; Pennsylvania; 93Z6076
communitarianism; roundtable discussion; 93Z5009
elderly suicide/natural death, surviving spouse bereavement, social/emotional support sources, gender differences; interview/questionnaire data; 93Z6094
intrafamilial support, parents-adult children, life course changes; 1987/88 national survey; 93Z5955
kin ties/support, rural older adults; 1985/86 interviews; Piedmont region, North Carolina; 93Z5293
late-life divorce incidence/impacts; national survey/census data, 1974-1988; 93Z5973
mortality, elderly Japanese women; intergenerational relations; 1670-1870 government population data; 93Z5956
network structure/social support functions/satisfaction, families/individuals, convoy model; secondary data; 93Z4674
parental support of adult children; parental divorce/remarriage; 1987/88 national survey data; 93Z6044 perceived health status; stress, social support, job characteristics; 1988/89 survey data; East Germany; 93Z4581
postdisaster stress amelioration, high school students, South Carolina; cognitive social support group; evaluation data; 1989 Hurricane Hugo, 93Z6530
poverty alleviation policy, US workers, public attitudes; poll/national survey data; 93Z6455
psychological adjustment, elderly female community/nursing home residents; social support; questionnaire/observational data; 93Z6317
social support contingencies/functions, Polish immigrants, US; participant observation, questionnaire/interview data; 93Z4436
social support, adult siblings; 1987/88 national survey; 93Z6045
social support, Hispanic military personnel, US; 1990 interviews; Defense Equal Opportunity Management Institute; 93Z4630 task relationships, mixed-status partners; social support role perceptions; focus group interview, mail questionnaire; nurse-manager staff dyads; 93Z4321
teacher satisfaction; community support/empowerment/work conditions/student attitudes; survey; Maine; 93Z5240
welfare recipients, self-efficacy/self-worth; work, social support; longitudinal data; 93Z4291

Social Systems

development/modernization, global system context, sociological interpretation; 93Z4792
human systems/social process, systemic perspective; 93Z4255
migrant alienation, social systemic causes; research review; 93Z4477
social communication systems, technology's role; literature review; 93Z5729
social policy as plural action system, Western Europe; 93Z6458
social stress, theory/research issues; 93Z6203
symbolic interactions, diverged statement systems; 93Z4328
urban network structure analysis, graph theoretic models' applicability; 93Z5335

Social Theories

Bakhtin, Mikhail, social/political theory contributions; 6-chapter overview; 93c01672
classical liberalism incorporation, undergraduate social theory courses; 93Z4023
cultural change model, critical theory; 93Z4513
cultural modernization, nationalism, stratified theory; 93Z5133
Dahrendorf, Ralf, Homo Sociologicus, theory construction, sociolinguistics; 93Z4035
Danish urban theory rejuvenation, international/interdisciplinary roots; 93Z5356
defetishization of modernity, sociology's role; 93Z4228
The Foundations of Social Theory by James S. Coleman; review symposium/reply; 93Z4206
Frame Analysis by Erving Goffman, theoretical perspectives; 93Z4326
Giddens, Anthony, internationally renowned British social theorist; 3-book review essay; 93Z4135
Habermas, Jürgen, postmodernism critique; 3-book review essay; 93Z4146
human temporality, naturalistic/hierarchical theory; 93Z6400
Merquior, José Guilherme, liberal social/political theory contributions; posthumous tribute; 93Z4160
modern time experience, technology connection, social theory implications; 93Z4121
modernist radicalism/foundationalism, social theory; 7-chapter examination; 93c01667
modernization theories, 1960s/1970s, West Germany/UK/US; literature review; 93Z4788
obesity, stigma/social reactions, sociological model; 93Z6182
organization studies; 4-book review essay; 93Z4656
organizational theory of society; 93Z4446
planning theory, feminist theory's contributions; 93Z6590
social behaviors/movements; urban spatial relations; theoretical discussion; 93Z6535
social construction of sight, historical overview; 93Z6686
social science disciplines, normative integration, shared questions; 93Z4183
social theory, comparative analysis approach; 93Z4167
social theory, postcommunist Russia; 93Z4138
social theory, social time concept applied; 93Z4177
socialist system breakdown, capitalist development, modernization theory breakdown; Yugoslavian example; 93Z4804
socialization model/theory, Talcott Parsons's work; 93Z4062
sustainable agriculture, economic/social/ecological measurement issues; 93Z5297
systems theory, Niklas Luhmann's autopoiesis concept; 93Z4123
understanding legal behavior, modern ethology/Darwinian jurisprudence; literature review; 93Z5630

Social Values

cultural values, museums' role; 4-book review essay; 93Z5412
culturalist theory/community concept; 93Z4194
individual/collectivism tendencies, Sweden; secondary survey data; 93Z4259

individualism/conformity values, self-help books, 1950s vs 1980s; content analysis; 93Z4301
individualist worldview development, late 19th-early 20th-century Finland; temperance movement ideology; 93Z4836
mate selection preferences, single men/women, values perspective; scale/inventory data; 93Z5976
Olympic Games as social phenomenon; special journal issue introduction; 93Z4948
social values research, methodological contexts/aspects; 93Z4476
value change, youth's role, Western societies; 1980-1991 literature review; 93Z5861
work values/organization, cultural typology, Europe; 93Z4646

Social Welfare
abortion "gag rule" 1990/91, decision, US Supreme Court, social welfare program impact; 93Z5657
disputes/social relationships, analytic approach; illustrative example; welfare rights; 93Z6472
mothers' pension laws, state-to-federal transformation, program, 1920-1940; Children's Bureau records/other data; 93Z5125
sustainability definitions/assumptions, social scientists vs ecologists, ecosystemic implications; 93Z6512
US welfare system, structural inequalities, conservative reform proposals; 93Z5124
welfare state development, judicial welfare's role, UK; 93Z5621

Social Work
alcoholic women, social work practice, theoretical frameworks; 93Z6251
homeless, process work applications; interviews; homeless persons; 93Z6552
social work evolution/training, GB vs US; 93Z5226
social work professionalization, Australia; interview data, field observations; social work personnel; 93Z5196

Social Work Cases
case-managed community based long-term care, quality assurance model; 1984/1989 records/interview data; case management program, Ohio; 93Z6385
child abuse, social work bureaucratization; 93Z6386
child sexual abuse, police/social worker investigations; videotaped interviews; England; 93Z5832
difficult-to-place people, agency management techniques, Oxford, England; secondary data; 93Z6555

Social Work Education
social work evolution/training, GB vs US; 93Z5226

Socialism
Catholic Action movement, Turin, Italy, Pier Giorgio Frassati's position; 93Z5556
democracy/socialism, USSR, historical analysis; 2-book review essay; 93Z5081
discourse communities, Reformation/Enlightenment/European socialism; book review essay; 93Z4468
Greek domestic politics, Panhellenic Socialist Movement, post-1974; 4-book review essay; 93Z4811
local crime surveys, leftist realist discourse/practice; 93Z6327
property rights reform, state-second economy relationship, socialist Hungary; 93Z5102
Slovene sociologist Ferdo Kočevar, 19th-century political views; 93Z4049
socialism, anthropological approaches; conference presentations; 93Z4089
socialism, global crisis; 1991 round-table discussion; Brazil; 93Z5120
socialism/historical events, interpretive models; 93Z5049
socialist bureaucracy, organizational/management conditions, Eastern Europe; 93Z4649
socialist social structure, 20th century, theoretical model; 93Z4820
socialist state's development, world-systems perspective; illustrative example; China; 93Z4831 spirit of work, capitalism vs socialism; 1930 article/comment; 93Z4716

Socialist Parties
mass strikes for universal suffrage, socialist political reform strategy, turn-of-the-century Belgium; 93Z4860
state-political party interaction, Greece, 1984-1989; case study; 93Z5105

Socialist Societies
past political injustices, legal sanctioning strategies, postcommunist societies; 93Z4827
property rights/stratification, socialist redistributive economies; 1986 survey data; Tianjin, Peoples Republic of China; 93Z4833
socialist health care system inadequacies, German Democratic Republic; social inequality; 93Z6110 socialist system breakdown, capitalist development, modernization theory breakdown; Yugoslavian example; 93Z4804
state socialist societies' demise, future possibilities, Eastern Europe; 93Z4809
workers' participation, socialist society; 93Z4735

Socialization
academic performance, American Indian vs white college students; family background perceptions; questionnaire data; 93Z5991
adult education, socialization theory perspective; literature review; 93Z5485
aggression/self-esteem; videogame playing; questionnaire data; students grades 6-12/their teachers; 93Z4264
army officers' wives, socialization; participant observation; 93Z4616
childhood conscience development, toddler antecedents; narrative data; 93Z6051
childhood socialization experiences, 19th-century Hindu Brahmin women, Maharashtra, India; autobiographies/novel; 93Z6100
cross-generational marital styles; questionnaires; couples; 93Z6039 family socialization, birth order effects; 93Z5960 female child's socialization, India; interview/other data; craftsmen/farmer families; 93Z5936
gender-role socialization-popularity link, elementary school students; 93Z6048
hard-line vs dovish views, children's socialization, Jewish families, Israel; television news viewing; observations; 93Z4899
health/illness responses, Mexican-/African-American children; socialization; illustrative examples; 93Z4403 humanistic academics, career choice motivations; 93Z4258
religious development, Finnish children/adolescents; longitudinal questionnaire data; students/teachers; 93Z5598
sexual socialization processes, advantaged vs disadvantaged adolescent females, Israel; interview data; 93Z5891
socialization model/theory, Talcott Parsons's work; 93Z4062
socialization of emotions, parental influences; 93Z6049
socialization process, Yugoslav immigrant families, France; official statistics; 93Z5831
youth socialization/personality development; employment; secondary data; 93Z5874

Socialization Agents
female health visitors, socialization process, practice implications; 93Z6176

Socialized Medicine medical care delivery, eastern Germany, socialist-privatist transition; 93Z6126 universal health care, rationing's role/justice, US; illustrative example; Oregon initiative; 93Z6120

Society
America at Century's End, book review symposium; 93Z4208
class/social relations, linguistic representations/usage, historical accounts; 12-essay collection; 93c01666
epistemological externalism, knowledge/society/power, theoretical discussion; 93Z3934
police/space/society interrelationships, UK/US; 93Z5671
society groups, theoretical/methodological issues; 93Z4187
work/industry modernization, West Germany, 1988-1990, risk society concept; empirical data; 93Z4222

Sociobiology
biological determinism; 7-chapter theoretical overview; 93c01677
cultural/genetic relatedness parallels, mathematical model; 93Z5820
group analysis, instinct theory; 93Z5825
population explosion, birthrate decline potential, sociobiological perspectives; 93Z5822
sociology of the family, sociobiology's contributions; 93Z5918
understanding legal behavior, modern ethology/Darwinian jurisprudence; literature review; 93Z5630

Sociocultural Factors accident proneness, school children, Iceland; secondary data; 93Z5835
acquired immune deficiency syndrome discourses, biological/cultural/political dimensions; 93Z6125
adolescent sexual initiation, Finland; cultural/social conditions; 1986/1988 questionnaire data; 93Z5917
alcohol use studies, ethnicity variable's misuse; 93Z6265
anorexia nervosa; Western cultural values; case studies; Minnesota; 93Z6246
art world, conceptual difficulties; literature review; 93Z5415
biogenetic/reproductive technologies cultural context; case study; popular magazines; 93Z6086
cultural diversity-based conflicts, college campuses, mediation's role; personal experience; 93Z6392

cultural psychology; 2-book review essay; 93Z4304
divorce mediation process, cultural/religious issues; 93Z6389
East European communist regimes' overthrow, cultural explanations; literature review; 93Z4866
feminist psychological research methodology, cultural diversity-related problems/solutions; experimental data; undergraduate women; 93Z6583
fertility, Kenya; socioeconomic/cultural factors; 1977/78 national survey; 93Z6068
gentrification, accompanying material culture changes, Lincoln Park, Illinois; 1985/86 fieldwork; 93Z5351
groomprice, marriage market changes, Kerala, India; demographic/sociocultural developments; 93Z5943
homelessness culture, US; 93Z6547
illness coping, use of cultural meaning systems, highland Ecuador; case studies; 93Z4287
local development, cultural/entrepreneurial strategies; empirical data; Risor/Notodden, Norway; 93Z4789
Mexican Americans, border region resident characteristics; interview data; 93Z6444
moral behavior development, Indian children; sociocultural factors; questionnaire/scale data; 93Z4277
personal mental illness explanations, impact on life; interview data; 93Z6215
physical artifacts' incorporation, sociological analyses; case study; 8th-century Buddhist sculpture, Japan; 93Z4458
religion's marginalization, Switzerland; article/comments; 93Z5604
religion-culture relationship; 93Z5609
science, cultural norms/standards; 93Z5715
scientific knowledge production, social/political context effects, internationalization implications; 93Z5059
self-conception development, US vs People's Republic of China; cultural/social/political/psychological factors; 93Z4286
social space/symbolic space; four 1989 lectures by Pierre Bourdieu; 93Z4453
technological innovation, cultural/societal impact, Renaissance era; 93Z4484
technology-culture relationship; 2-book review essay; 93Z5756
US/Mexico border states, cultural/social/economic ties; 1900-1990 statistical data; 93Z6443
work values/organization, cultural typology, Europe; 93Z4646

Sociodemographic Factors
absenteeism correlates, 1st-year college students; questionnaire; midwestern US; 93Z5517
antihomosexual attitudes, sociodemographic correlates; 1985 national survey data; US adults; 93Z6650
black adolescent females, first pregnancy incidence, cohort changes; 1982 national survey data; 93Z6077
crime victimization fears, North Carolina; demographic/victimization/perceptual variables; empirical data; 93Z6378
criminal justice sentencing outcomes, men vs women, Pennsylvania; 1977 court records; 93Z5666
demographic/personality/job-related characteristics, female business owners, traditionally male-dominated industries; empirical data; 93Z6651
ethnic diversity, University of California, Berkeley, affirmative action/multiculturalism/demographic trends issues; 93Z5487
first birth timing, Ghana; sociodemographic factors; 1979/80 fertility survey; 93Z6056
immigration needs/projections, Europe; UN/other data; 93Z5771
life satisfaction determinants, black/white differential; 1971/1978 survey data; 93Z4300
male street prostitutes, male customers' sexual behavior patterns; interviews; New Orleans, Louisiana; 93Z5920
migrant characteristics, 1980s urban-to-rural migration, Spain; interviews; 93Z5295
off-farm commuting patterns, Louisiana; 1982 survey; 93Z5257
pellagra death rate changes, turn-of-the-century Italy; demographic/economic/political factors; 93Z6195
prenatal care timing, low-income racial-ethnic primiparous women, Los Angeles County, California; sociodemographic/health behaviors/medical risk/psychosocial risk factors; 1988 interview data; 93Z6361
racial/ethnic/gender integration, US federal agencies; demographic/organizational factors; 1982-1988 statistical data; 93Z4382
right-wing political party support, Giessen, Germany; 1989 survey; 93Z5097
rural-urban migration, Croatia/Bosnia/Herzegovina; 1989 questionnaire data; 93Z5801
school attainment, immigrants' children, Netherlands; social class vs social status; school files; 93Z5436 school persistence vs dropout; vocational/business course enrollment; 1982 High School & Beyond survey; 93Z5490
sociodemographic/behavioral/other characteristics, US Jewry; 1990 national survey; 93Z4371
stepfamily integration; step-/grandmothers' role perceptions; questionnaire; remarried mothers, South Dakota; 93Z5975
suicides, inferred characteristics; gender/context; experimental data; undergraduates, Norfolk, Virginia; 93Z6097
village demographic profiles, post-WWII/postcommunist changes, Czechoslovakia; monographical studies; 93Z6441
women immigrants, Quebec, 1980s, sociodemographic characteristics/adaptation mechanisms; Canadian census/other data; 93Z6052

Socioeconomic Factors
African-American voter turnout, socioeconomic/psychological/exceptionalism explanations; 1977-1988 General Social Survey data; 93Z5050
compulsive gambling, social/economic costs, US; 93Z6273
crime rate increase, economic correlates, industrialized US cities; 1954-1986 statistical data; 93Z6333
demographic transition, China; socioeconomic factors, government policy; 1985 survey data; 93Z6084
elderly suicide, social/economic correlates; 1940-1984 time-series data; 93Z6304
emigration trends, Commonwealth of Independent States; opinion polls/official predictions; 93Z5809
fertility, Kenya; socioeconomic/cultural factors; 1977/78 national survey; 93Z6068
first birth timing, Ghana; sociodemographic factors; 1979/80 fertility survey; 93Z6056
global climate change, socioeconmic dimensions; journal issue introduction; 93Z5172
guaranteed minumum income, social rationalization of the economy, constitutional entitlement, Germany; literature review; 93Z4711 gypsies, ethnic identity, postcommunist Czechoslovakia; 93Z4353
homelessness-mental illness relationship, alternative approach; 93Z6212
marital dissolution, Italy; socioeconomic factors, family size; 1983 survey data; women ages 15-64; 93Z5959
maternal education-child health outcome relationship; prospective data; children, Pelotas, Brazil; 93Z6191
peasants/civil servants/industrial workers, Java, roles/functions/growth; literature review; 93Z5164
psychological symptoms, reporting differences, males vs females; 1986 survey data; Finland; 93Z6601
public health policies/conditions; political conditions, socioeconomic development; international statistics; 93Z6124
rural-urban migration decisions, socioeconomic/occupational/other factors, Jordan; interviews; migrants, Irbid; 93Z6201
science problem solving, students' recognition/realization skills; social class factors; questionnaire/interview data; students ages 10-12, Lisbon, Portugal; 93Z5483
socioeconomic change, adaptation strategies, Lacandona community, Mexico; 93Z4783
socioeconomics theory vs neoclassical economic paradigm; 93Z6415
tubectomy acceptors, demographic/socioeconomic differences, Amritsar district, Punjab, India; interviews; 93Z6081

Socioeconomic Status
adolescent self-esteem/social class relationship; inventory/student record data; Catholic middle school, midwestern US; 93Z5876
American Indians, demographic/socioeconomic position; 93Z4503
child developmental delay; socioeconomic status; questionnaire; Brisbane, Australia; 93Z5838
children's reading behavior, parental/family/social class influence, the Netherlands; 93Z5843
corporal punishment, public support, US school system; religion/socioeconomic status; 1989 interview data; southern metropolitan area; 93Z5457
dowry practice/calculations, India; interview/other data; women; 93Z6021
economic status, gender differences, US trends; statistical data; 93Z6615
fertility, Kenya; socioeconomic/cultural factors; 1977/78 national survey; 93Z6068 fertility-socioeconomic status nonlinear relationship, Bangladesh; literature review, household survey data; 93Z6066
post-1965 immigrants, US, economic future; 93Z5779
refugee camp conditions, Bethlehem, Israel; 1990 questionnaire data; residents; 93Z4445
Reserve Officer Training Corp participation, socioeconomic status/life satisfaction impacts; 93Z4635

school attainment, immigrants' children, Netherlands; social class vs social status; school files; 93Z5436
socioeconomic status, young male veterans; 1964-1984 Mar Current Population Surveys; 93Z5194
socioeconomic status-psychiatric disorder relationship, black/white differences; 93Z6243
US/Mexico border states, cultural/social/economic ties; 1900-1990 statistical data; 93Z6443

Sociography
democratic changes, youth movement's role, Czechoslovakia; 93Z4854
Slovak Anton Štefánek, sociological concepts/work; 93Z4102

Sociological Associations culture/society, German sociological research; 3-book review essay; 93Z4487
International Institute of Sociology, 30th World Congress, 1991, key themes; 93Z4091
media profile enhancement, sociology/anthropology, American Sociological Association initiatives; 93Z4030
organizational theory, unproductive assumptions, sociologists; 1991 invited address; 93Z4665
professional sociological associations, South Africa, apartheid issues; article/comment; 93Z4104
social science research, German scholarship; conference reports; 93Z4029
sociology of territory, Italy; 1991 meeting proceedings; 93Z5352
student participation, Canadian Sociology & Anthropology Association; questionnaires; graduate students; 93Z4042

Sociological Research
annotated sociological teaching/research/reference bibliography; 93Z4022
culture/society, German sociological research; 3-book review essay; 93Z4487
current research projects, Flemish sociologists; 93Z4116
event count data, sociological analysis, generalized quasi-likelihood estimation proposed; 93Z3979
exemplary sociological texts, GB; 11-chapter review; 93c01679
grandparents' rights, sociological analysis; participant observation; self-help/advocacy group, midwestern city; 93Z5958
HIV (human immunodeficiency syndrome) prevalence, UK, sociological research's educational contribution; 93Z6198
labor market structure, sociological research; 93Z4748
organizational health promotion field, sociological practitioners' potential role; 93Z6393
organized crime, sociological study, US; 1918-1992 works; 93Z4082
policing/state judical structures/social control, South Africa, sociological study; 3-book review essay; 93Z5692
political action, interdisciplinary research; 93Z4835
research projects, sociology professors, Azcapotzalco, Mexico; 93Z4120
rural life, change/old-new conflict, sociological perspective; personal experiences, fieldwork; sociologists; 93Z5284
social science research, German scholarship; conference reports; 93Z4029
sociological research on Mexico; 93Z4054
sociological research, evaluation processes; 93Z3929
sociological research, undergraduate library use instruction; 93Z4024
sociological research/teaching, South Africa; 93Z4077
sociology research/development, national policy/programs, Spain; 93Z4056 sociology/sociological research, Berlin, Germany; 93Z5336
US psychiatry, sociological studies vs self-definition; 93Z6396

Sociological Theory
ambivalence, sociological significance, adoption information example; 93Z6042
banking, sociological study, social act/communication theory approaches; 93Z6668
Christianity's origins, Friedrich Engels's/Max Weber's/Ernst Troeltsch's writings; 93Z5605
Christianity's origins, sociocritical vs historicocritical approach; special journal issue introduction; 93Z5601
collective action, Weberian status group perspective; 93Z4913
Comtean studies/positivism, Italian historiography; 93Z4098
Dahrendorf, Ralf, Homo Sociologicus, theory construction, sociolinguistics; 93Z4035
death/dying themes, sociology; literature review; 93Z6108
defetishization of modernity, sociology's role; 93Z4228
Durkheim, Emile The Elementary Forms of Religious Life, synopsis; 93Z4107
Durkheim, Emile, textual consistency/interpretations; 93Z4075
Elias, Norbert, sociological theory; 93Z4039
exemplary sociological texts, GB; 11-chapter review; 93c01679
feminism/psychoanalysis, Juliet Mitchell's/Nancy Chodorow's work; 93Z6572
gender subordination/inequality, perpetuation theories; 93Z6614 general education program, first-year state university students; evaluation data; midwestern US; 93Z5505
historical sociology vs philosophy of morals; 93Z4229 homo economicus demise, contemporary theoretical traditions' role; 93Z6431
ideological movements, theoretical model; book review essay; 93Z4455
informal caregiving; literature review; 93Z5200
international technology transfer, sociological analysis; journal issue introduction; 93Z5736
modern society, Parsonian treatment; 93Z4113
organizational health promotion field, sociological practitioners' potential role; 93Z6393
Parsons, Talcott, Georg Simmel's influence; unpublished 1936 manuscript; 93Z5568
political action, interdisciplinary research; 93Z4835
postmodernism, contemporary status; forum; 93Z4515
shoplifting; 7-chapter sociological analysis; 93c01676
Slovak Anton Štefánek, sociological concepts/work; 93Z4102
social environment description trends, ethical components, sociological theory; literature review; 93Z4131
sociolegal theory, "black letterist" (liberal/feminist) perspective; illustrative examples; 93Z5652
sociological theory, semiotics, Pierre Bourdieu; book review essay; 93Z4096
sociological theory/research advances, 1980s; 93Z4084
sociology of schizophrenia, afflicted person's perspective, George Herbert Mead's concepts applied; 93Z6214
spheres of reality, sociological theory, Siegfried Kracauer's The Detective Novel; 93Z5416
technological risks, public responses, sociological perspective; 93Z5738
temporalized sociology, theoretical underpinnings; 93Z4125
theoretical parallels, George H. Mead/Thorstein Veblen; 93Z4144
theoretical sociology, Niklas Luhmann; 93Z4142
urban problems, incomplete modernity's role, Mexican example; 93Z5326

Sociologists
Bendix, Reinhard (1916-1991), sociology contributions, memorial tribute; 93Z4043
Giddens, Anthony, internationally renowned British social theorist; 3-book review essay; 93Z4135
Goffman, Erving, sociological contributions; 8-chapter tribute; 93c01678
historical sociology, Morris Ginsberg's/J. A. Banks's views; comment; 93Z4064 labor market prospects, 1980-1989 sociology graduates, Germany; questionnaire data; female students; 93Z4111
memorial tribute, sociologists Jay W. Artis/Marvin Olsen; 93Z4108
organizational theory, unproductive assumptions, sociologists; 1991 invited address; 93Z4665
rural sociology, Alvin L. Bertrand's contributions; 93Z4048
Slovak Anton Štefánek, sociological concepts/work; 93Z4102
Slovak sociologist Anton Štefánek, work/life; 93Z4112
Slovene sociologist Ferdo Kočevar, 19th-century political views; 93Z4049
sociological scholarship citations, gender differences; citation analysis; Social Problems; 93Z4025
sociologist Martino Ancona, Rome, Italy; contributions/activities; memoriam; 93Z4114
sociologists' problematic public image, popular literature representation; 93Z4052

Sociology
Arab sociology, sociologists' task/status; 93Z4015
comparative historical sociology, approaches/programs; 93Z4999
current research projects, Flemish sociologists; 93Z4116
discourse analysis popularity, Finnish sociology; 93Z3968 economics-sociology relationship, growing interdependence; illustrative examples; 93Z4063
feminist sociology, Third World nationalist/feminist politics' influence; 93Z6584
Finnish sociology; conference proceedings; 93Z4118
gender integration, academic sociology; 1984 national survey data; 93Z5222
historical sociology history/development; 93Z4231
Indian ethnosociology; comments; 93Z4544 abor market outcomes, sociology/anthropology 1982 graduates, Canada; national survey data; 93Z4053 nedia profile enhancement, sociology/anthropology, American Sociological Association initiatives; 93Z4030 ›hysical artifacts' incorporation, sociological analyses; case study; 8th-century Buddhist sculpture, Japan; 93Z4458

›ostmodernism-cultural imperialism relationship, social scientist's perspective; 93Z4051
'practical sociological reasoning" concept, everyday sociological imagination, theoretical issues; 93Z4343
acial/class/gender diversity, sociological implications; 93Z4433 esearch projects, sociology professors, Azcapotzalco, Mexico; 93Z4120 Revue Internationale de Sociologie journal, 100-year history; editorial retrospective; 93Z4050 ocial reality interpretation, circularity, sociology of knowledge/science scientists; illustrative example; citation structure, English-Canadian sociological studies; 93Z4076 ocial symbolism, Western sociology's neglect; illustrative examples; 93Z4347 ociology discipline's future, US; 11-essay collection; 93c01674 ociology discipline, Spain; 93Z4055 ociology's status/role, Arab world; journal issue conclusion; 93Z4085 ociology, Israel, history/future; 93Z4080 ociology, nature/practice, South Africa; comment/responses; 93Z4115 ociology, South Africa; response; 93Z4044 ociology-criminology specialty link; 1992 Southern Sociological Association presidential address; 93Z4031
sociology/philosophy, discipline specificity, communication process critiqued; literature review; 93Z4070
Soziale Welt, 1989 articles; review essay; 93Z4074
village studies tradition, Indian sociology; 93Z5286

ciology Education acquired immune deficiency syndrome/human immunodeficiency virus portrayals, post-1985 introductory sociology textbooks, US; content analysis; 93Z4026
annotated sociological teaching/research/reference bibliography; 93Z4022
British democracy/economy/sociology departments; interview; 93Z5098
career paths, University of Linz (Austria) sociology graduates; 1989 interview/questionnaire data; 93Z4013
classical liberalism incorporation, undergraduate social theory courses; 93Z4023
computer-aided instruction, social science pedagogy; 1987/88 evaluation; IBM-compatible sociology software; 93Z4007
female sociology professors, affirmative action measures, Germany; 93Z4027
post-1928 clinical sociology courses, US universities; 93Z6666
race/cultural novel's usefulness, education, sociology classrooms; empirical data; white college students; 93Z4010
sociological research/teaching, South Africa; 93Z4077
sociologist Martino Ancona, Rome, Italy; contributions/activities; memoriam; 93Z4114 sociology education, student initiation/discovery promotion, teaching methods; 93Z4416
sociology internships, career choice impacts; scale data; Tennessee Technological University; 93Z4019
sociology internships, liability issues; personal supervision experience; 93Z4021
sociology professionalism, Italy; 93Z4101
teaching students to see, visual sociology; 93Z6677
teaching visual sociology, Doshisha University, Japan; personal experiences; 93Z6682
Third World education, ethnocentric portrayals, introductory sociology textbooks; 1990/91 content analysis; 93Z4018 visual sociology course, University of Amsterdam, Netherlands; 93Z6680

Sociology of Art
sociology of the arts; book review essay; 93Z5403

Sociology of Education
educational policy-making process, sociology's role, Italy; 93Z5494
pedagogy/sociology of education, Emile Durkheim's work, performative/constative aspects; 93Z4161
rural education, France; 20th-century student memoirs; 93Z5264

Sociology of Knowledge
environmentalism, utopian/religious aspects; observation/interview data; environmental groups, workers, Baden-Württemburg, Germany; 93Z6399
family/childbearing, Quebec; demographic changes; life story/other data; 93Z5833
knowledge theory, sociology of knowledge's influence; 7-chapter analysis; 93c01688
modernist radicalism/foundationalism, social theory; 7-chapter examination; 93c01667
realism/relativism/constructionism, critical evaluation; 93Z5717
Simmel, Georg, philosophy of money, sociology of knowledge perspective; 93Z6418
social reality interpretation, circularity, sociology of knowledge/science scientists; illustrative example; citation structure, English-Canadian sociological studies; 93Z4076
social scientific knowledge, practical applications; 5-chapter overview; 93c01687
sociology of knowledge, post-WWI Germany, Karl Mannheim's/Max Scheler's works; literature review; 93Z6408

Sociology of Law
animal rights, sociolegal perspective; 93Z5645
child welfare/law discourses, constructivist legal theory's treatment, UK; 93Z5636
law, Niklas Luhmann's autopoietic model critiqued; 93Z4186
legal profession, sociological approaches; 4-book review essay; 93Z5617
MacCormick, Neil, institutional theory of law critiqued; 93Z5644

Sociology of Leisure
baseball card collectors, investment vs leisure activity, personality differences; Myers-Briggs Personality Inventory; Houston, Texas; 93Z4921
female integration, Australian pool halls; observational/interview data; university union; 93Z4918

Sociology of Literature
sociology of religion, literature-sociology links; 4-book review essay; 93Z4094

Sociology of Religion
Durkheim, Emile The Elementary Forms of Religious Life, synopsis; 93Z4107
patients' behavior/progress; religious beliefs/values; case studies; 93Z5565
personal memoirs, 1914 meeting, Georg Simmel; 93Z4088
secularization theory critique; reply; 93Z5539
sociology of religion, literature-sociology links; 4-book review essay; 93Z4094
sociology of religion, Netherlands; literature review; 93Z5542 sociology of religion; bibliography; 93Z5614

Sociology of Science
historians/philosophers of science, philosophical technology research strategies; 93Z5706
realism/relativism/constructionism, critical evaluation; 93Z5717
science, historical development; 26-essay collection; 93c01658
scientific "hard program," sociology of scientific knowledge; symposium; 93Z5721

Sociology of Sports
boxing, social logic, black ghetto, Chicago, Illinois; ethnographic/participant observation data; 93Z4959
football players, occupational careers, sociological viewpoint; 93Z4960
Olympic Games as social phenomenon; special journal issue introduction; 93Z4948
sport achievement value differences, Anglo- vs Francophone Canadians; participation differences; comments; 93Z4961
sports doping, game theoretical perspective; 93Z4944
sports popularization, international differences, continental Europe; 93Z4958

Sociology of Work sociology of work, feminist challenge; 93Z4694
work activities/professional expectations, sociological/anthropological analytic frameworks; 93Z4738

Sociometric Analysis
contradictory preferences, choice making, sociometric/-dynamic tests; empirical data; psychodrama students; 93Z3981
sociometric strategies, sociological/organizational/criminological research; 93Z3947

Soil Conservation
agricultural modernization, soil conservation practices, Southern Brazil; 1984 census data; 93Z5259
soil structure, sustainability issues, qualitative evaluation framework; 93Z5277

Solar Energy
technological innovation adoption, rural communities, social perspective; case studies; photoelectric solar energy panel introduction, villages, Senegal/Chad/central Africa/Spain; 93Z5750

Solidarity Movements
social policy regimes/solidarity strategies, post-WWII Eastern vs Western Europe; 93Z5026
Solomon Islands
education, Solomon Islands, traditional vs Western models, social change effects; fieldwork/other data; 93Z5514 evangelical propaganda, turn-of-the-century Methodist missionaries, Solomon Islands; photographs/documentation; 93Z5600
Somalia
Somali refugee repatriation, Ethiopia, political conditions/other issues; personal observations; 93Z4444
Sons
black inner-city mothers, perceived acceptance/rejection attitudes toward their sons, academic/other effects; questionnaire data; 93Z5942
Sorel, Georges
Enlightenment interpretations, Michel Foucault vs Georges Sorel; 93Z4099
South Africa
black-white relations, South African Eastern Cape frontier; book review essay; 93Z4415
Castells, Manuel, housing/urban political theories; 93Z4155 constructive conflict intervention, South Africa; 93Z6391 culture/human rights, universalist/relativist debates, South African context; article/comments; 93Z4449
ethnic collective action, South Africa, resource mobilization theory; newspaper accounts; Pretoria-Witwatersrand-Vaal; 93Z4396
gender/role attitudes, white female Afrikaans university students; traditional male/female course enrollment; questionnaire/interview data; 93Z6628
historical development, Nazi Germany vs South Africa, explanatory problems; 93Z4214
industrial revolution/technological change, South Africa; literature review; 93Z4772
knowledge/skills/attitudes requirements, science-related jobs, South African industry; interview/questionnaire data; officials; 93Z5496
labor movement, post-1965 Brazil vs South Africa; case examples; 93Z4607
liberation ideologies, black Transvaal students, Johannesburg, South Africa; questionnaire data; 93Z4492
nuclear threat perceptions/antinuclear activism, college students; 1984-1986 multinational scale data; 93Z4841
official language, political issues, South Africa; book review essay; 93Z5398
policing/state judical structures/social control, South Africa, sociological study; 3-book review essay; 93Z5692
professional sociological associations, South Africa, apartheid issues; article/comment; 93Z4104
race relations/conflict resolution, 1980s theories, methodological individualism's influence; case study; South Africa; 93Z6484
race-specific conscription, South African Defense Force, coercive methods; interviews; young men; 93Z4619
race/class/gender, historical relationships; case study; working-class women, South Africa, 1930s-present; 93Z4246
safety health issues/trends, mining industry, South Africa; 93Z6151
school-work transition, Indian secondary students, South Africa; observational/other data; 93Z5881
self/family/teacher/school perceptions, Indian children, Republic of South Africa; age/parental marital status; 93Z5836
sexual assault, South Africa, black woman activist's work; 93Z5840
sociological research/teaching, South Africa; 93Z4077
sociology, nature/practice, South Africa; comment/responses; 93Z4115
sociology, South Africa; response; 93Z4044
spare-time use/well-being perceptions, black youth, South Africa; 93Z6457
surrogate motherhood, past/present social context, South Africa/Western societies; 93Z6089
township politics, 1980s South Africa; documentary/interview data; Kagiso; 93Z4863
work ethic, undergraduate university students, South Africa; scale data; 93Z4867
South America
first Americans' origins, inconsistent evidence; 93Z4459
juvenile justice systems, US/Scotland/England/India/South Africa; 93Z6348 paternalism-violence relationship, South American maize farms, early 20th century; historical analysis; 93Z5304
South Asia
cultural holism, regional/historical specificity, South Asian anthropology; field research; oral literature/rituals, Kumaon region, northern India; 93Z4530
South Asian Cultural Groups
cross-cultural adaptation, communication's role, Asian Indians, US; secondary survey data; 93Z4907
self/family/teacher/school perceptions, Indian children, Republic of South Africa; age/parental marital status; 93Z5836
South Carolina hurricane-related deaths, 1989 hurricane, Puerto Rico/South Carolina; medical examiner/coroner information; 93Z6528
postdisaster stress amelioration, high school students, South Carolina; cognitive social support group; evaluation data; 1989 Hurricane Hugo; 93Z6530
teenage pregnancy risk reduction program, scarce resource allocation, US; program data; Bamberg County, South Carolina; 93Z5877
South Dakota
Minnesota Heart Health Program, community health promotion delivery system; survey data; North Dakota/Minnesota/South Dakota/Wisconsin; 93Z6194
stepfamily integration; step-/grandmothers' role perceptions; questionnaire; remarried mothers, South Dakota; 93Z5975
South Korea
clothing behavior, image-making functions, Korean female legislators; 1985/86 field research; 93Z4295
conflict mediation, community-based US system vs Korean-Americans' informal process; interviews; Washington, DC; 93Z6387 economic development/earnings inequality, South Korea; 93Z5166
family/community, youth's role/position, Korea; research review; 93Z5857
male child preferences/selective abortion use, regulation issues, cross-cultural perspective; secondary research; India/South Korea/People's Republic of China; 93Z6079
prison security officers' self/other/inmate perceptions; scale data; South Korea/midwestern US; 93Z5665
South Korean economic development "miracle," antecedent factors/human costs; 93Z4779
South Pacific Ocean
tourism's economic impact, South Pacific island microstates; 93Z4927
Southeast Asia
Islamic fundamentalism discourse, Middle East/Southeast Asia, critical perspective; 93Z5518
occupational/spatial mobility, agricultural Hakka community, southeast Asia; genealogical data; 93Z5161
unskilled labor migration, economic impact, Southeast Asia; article/comment; 93Z5759
Southeast Asian Cultural Groups
school-work transition, Indian secondary students, South Africa; observational/other data; 93Z5881
Southern States
1988 presidential hopefuls Jesse Jackson/Pat Robertson, white southern voters' support; religion; national survey data; 93Z5608
adolescent alcohol abuse, theories/attitudes, 6th-grade-college students, southwestern US; survey data; 93Z6282
attitudinal differences, Sunbelt migrants vs nonmigrant Northerners, 1977-1980 General Social Surveys; 93Z5777
black labor force participation, rural US South; questionnaire/secondary data; 93Z5254
congressional representation stagnation, southern US Republicans, incumbency/coattail/primary competition explanations; 1956-1986 election data; 93Z5107
corporal punishment, public support, US school system; religion/socioeconomic status; 1989 interview data; southern metropolitan area; 93Z5457
doctors/dentists/pharmacists, public perceptions; questionnaire; southern metropolitan area; 93Z5243
earnings inequality, blacks, southern US; region; 1980 Census, 93Z4363
Highlander schools, southern US; five-book review essay; 93Z5441
labor control/paternalism, unionized/nonunionized companies, rural South; interviews; workers; 93Z4599
leisure studies, hermeneutic/interpretive approaches; illustrative application; 1930s essays, US South; 93Z4925
musical preference-reckless behavior relationship, adolescents, southern metropolitan area; 1990 survey data; 93Z5848
singleness meanings, never-married women ages 32-54; interview data; southern metropolitan area; 93Z6608
unionization determinants/regional patterns, rural US South; case study; United Furniture Workers; 1963-1982; 93Z5255
women's/minorities' union participation, white males' attitudes, regional differences; questionnaire data; midwestern/southeastern

union members; 93Z4580

Soviet Union Cultural Groups

anti-Semitism/-perestroika/*pro-Pamyat*attitudes, Muscovites/New Yorkers; 1988 poll; 93Z4764

Canadian immigration, refugee policy changes, Soviet citizens; statistical/interview data; 93Z5762

Croatian emigration, mid-19th century-1981; 93Z5800

school adjustment, Soviet immigrant vs US-born Jewish children; parental attitudes toward social change; questionnaire data; San Francisco, California; 93Z5828

Soviet Jew absorption problems, Israel; 93Z5770

Soviet Jews' heterogeneity, Vienna, Austria; interview/biographical data; 93Z4402

Ukrainian immigrants, Canada, social integration; 93Z5790

Space

handicapped persons, open space access, design criteria; site visits; 93Z6452

modern society/technology, evolution, time/space roles; 93Z4479

police/space/society interrelationships, UK/US; 93Z5671

social behaviors/movements; urban spatial relations; theoretical discussion; 93Z6535

Space and Time

time, masculine/feminine perspectives, Mary O'Brien's/Luce Irigaray's works; 93Z4132

Spain

Catholic confession/penance, Spanish colonial Mexico, Nahua natives' autobiographical self-reconstruction; 93Z5574

city planning, combinatorial model; case examples; Barcelona, Catalonia; 93Z6453

equilibrium theory, socioeconomic-political development relationship; case examples; Chile/Philippines/Spain/Portugal/Saudi Arabia; 93Z5075

family relations/gender division of labor, farm families, Spain, 1930s; oral histories; 93Z4714

Latin America, Spanish colonialism/evangelism; special issue introduction; 93Z5555

medical profession, structural transformation/political role, Spain; 1983 survey data; physicians; 93Z6175

migrant characteristics, 1980s urban-to-rural migration, Spain; interviews; 93Z5295

municipal vs national elections, Spain, 1979-1991; aggregate data; 93Z5017

political affiliations/voting practices, rural residents, Spain; 1983/1988 surveys; 93Z5039

political behavior/affiliation/opinions/attitudes, Andalusians, 1990/91 election data; 93Z5019

political party systems, structure/functioning, Spain/Italy; 1979-1983 election data; 93Z5106

public housing policy-economic development relationship, Valladolid, Spain; 1940-1963 official policies; 93Z5328

rural economy, agricultural production's declining importance, Spain; 1950-1989 statistics/other published data; 93Z5285

secondary education centers, territorial distribution, Galicia, Spain; 1960-1990 empirical data; 93Z5475

social resources-occupational attainment relationship, Spain/US/Netherlands; survey data; 93Z5181

social science research, Spain; 1988-1990 statistical data; 93Z4061

social science/language research productivity, Spanish universities; 1986-1988 publication data; 93Z5719

sociology discipline, Spain; 93Z4055

sociology research/development, national policy/programs, Spain; 93Z4056

technological innovation adoption, rural communities, social perspective; case studies; photoelectric solar energy panel introduction, villages, Senegal/Chad/central Africa/Spain; 93Z5750

women's work, family farms, Spain; interviews; 93Z5291

work organization/worker participation, national/transnational firms, Spain; case studies; 93Z4706

Spatial Analysis

city structure/spatial differentiation, social movements-dominant culture conflict; case studies; secondary data; 93Z5354

Danish urban theory rejuvenation, international/interdisciplinary roots; 93Z5356

Jewish-Arab relations, spatial differences, Natzerat Illit, Galilee, Israel; 93Z5348

police/space/society interrelationships, UK/US; 93Z5671

public space, social construction, urban areas; medieval Europe-present; 93Z5317

social processes, relevance of space, theoretical approaches compared; 93Z5316

structure/locality; 93Z6434

urban concept, spatial/material world considerations; case study; Copenhagen, Denmark; 93Z5311

urban network structure analysis, graph theoretic models' applicability; 93Z5335

urban sociology, postwar focus/themes; 93Z5334

Spatial Behavior

occupational/spatial mobility, agricultural Hakka community, southeast Asia; genealogical data; 93Z5161

social behaviors/movements; urban spatial relations; theoretical discussion; 93Z6535

Special Education

special education theory/research practice, Newtonian mechanistic vs holistic paradigms; article/comments; 93Z6137

Specialization

sociology-criminology specialty link; 1992 Southern Sociological Association presidential address; 93Z4031

Speech

communication disciplines; book review essay; 93Z6395

Dahrendorf, Ralf, Homo Sociologicus, theory construction, sociolinguistics; 93Z4035

language evolution hypothesis, primate Broca's area homologue, hierarchically organized sequential behavior; article/comments/reply; 93Z5823

speech, dominance vs affiliation paradigms, sex differences; 93Z5422

Spirit Possession

demonism practice, Sri Lankan Sinhalas, Christianity's influence; 93Z6414

Spiritualism

spiritual/mental health resource use, psychiatrically disordered Dominican migrant women, Manhattan, New York; interview/participant observation data; 93Z6242

volunteerism, self-vs other-regarding tendencies, spiritual aspect; literature review; 93Z4690

Sports

athlete portrayals, gender differences, 1984/1988 summer Olympics, Canadian/US newspapers; content analysis; 93Z4953

baseball card collectors, investment vs leisure activity, personality differences; Myers-Briggs Personality Inventory; Houston, Texas; 93Z4921

baseball's popularity, Japan, cultural reasons; 93Z4928

cockfighting, subcultural variations; participant observation/interview/other data; Arkansas/Oklahoma; 93Z4320

ethos, modern Olympic games; 93Z4955

hegemonic masculinity reproductions, US sports culture; content analysis; media representations, baseball player Nolan Ryan; 93Z4956

play/sport/culture research, Clifford Geertz's impact; restrospective comments; 93Z4516

practicing sports, social risks, illustrative example; sports facility closures, post-Chernobyl USSR; 93Z4946

sports popularization, international differences, continental Europe; 93Z4958

Sports Participation

burnout, social organizational roots, adolescent athletes, US; interview data; 93Z4945

ethos, modern Olympic games; 93Z4955

football players, occupational careers, sociological viewpoint; 93Z4960

individual vs team sports, Olympic Games; illustrative examples; 1988/1992 summer games; 93Z4943

practicing sports, social risks, illustrative example; sports facility closures, post-Chernobyl USSR; 93Z4946

sport achievement value differences, Anglo- vs Francophone Canadians; participation differences; comments; 93Z4961

sports club formation/organizational growth, Iceland; case study; 93Z4957

sports doping, game theoretical perspective; 93Z4944

sports participation, Anglo-immigrant/minority student relation's impact, Garden City High School, Kansas; ethnographic data; 93Z4949 subjective self-identity-athletic participation relationship, high school students, 1980-1982 longitudinal survey data; 93Z5894

Sports Violence

postdisaster psychiatric case management; case study; organic brain damage patient, Hillsborough (England) football stadium disaster; 93Z6531

Spouse Abuse

abuse/neglect experiences, children of abused women; quantitative/qualitative data; crisis center residents, Denmark; 93Z6367 husbands' violence against wives, Jewish families; historical overview; 93Z5968

social skills, maritally violent vs nonviolent men; questionnaire/measurement data; Indianapolis, Indiana; 93Z6561
spousal/child abuse, US military families stationed abroad, legal/institutional issues; 93Z6362
wife assault risk markers, federal offenders; records, interviews, questionnaires; inmates/female partners; 93Z6559 wife batterers, court-mandated counseling; interview survey; staff, batterer programs; 93Z6373
wife beating, Lane County, Oregon, 1890s; divorce cases; 93Z6007
women who leave abusive spouses, reasons/needs, support program goals; interviews; midwestern state; 93Z6037

Spouses
elderly suicide/natural death, surviving spouse bereavement, social/emotional support sources, gender differences; interview/questionnaire data; 93Z6094
household tasks, husband's share, US; occupational sex segregation, individual-/couple-level resources; 1977-1988 national survey data; 93Z4697
jealousy, married men/women; vignettes; Tel Aviv, Israel; 93Z6637
remarriage instability/quality decline; partner attributes; interview data; 93Z5944
unemployment, psychological impacts on marriage, psychoanalytic perspective; empirical data; marital therapy clients, London, England; 93Z6018

Sri Lanka
demonism practice, Sri Lankan Sinhalas, Christianity's influence; 93Z6414
gender relations/multiple selves construction, Sri Lankan Muslims; narrative/case study data; 93Z4519

St. Louis, Missouri substance abuse-posttraumatic stress disorder relationship; 1982/83 interviews; residents, Saint Louis, Missouri; 93Z6213

Stability
interactive Markov chains, stability/monotomicity issues; 93Z3989
marital satisfaction-stability relationship, theoretical explanations; empirical data; women, midwestern city; 93Z5981
self-concept, social-psychological/sociological/developmental research; 93Z4260
single indicators, multiwave panel data, stability estimate models; 93Z3994
work interruption, gender differences, marriage/childbearing impact, Canada; 1984 national survey data; 93Z5990

Standard of Living quality of life, Zagreb, Croatia; 1990/91 questionnaire data, content analysis; 1990/91 letters to the editor, newspapers; 93Z6446

Standards
science, cultural norms/standards; 93Z5715

State
nation-state models; 93Z4987
police/space/society interrelationships, UK/US; 93Z5671
youth employment/education, state policy, New Zealand; 1981/1986 census data; 93Z4774

State Capitalism
Marxist humanist/state capitalism movements, central/Eastern Europe; 93Z4806

State Formation
commercial capitalism/state formation, early modern Europe, bourgeoisie's role; historical empirical evidence; 93Z4221
war making-state building relationship, institutional theory of war; 93Z4627

State Intervention
bank bailouts, racial/class aspects; case study; Connecticut/New York; 93Z4369
labor allocation/regulation, 1950s-1970s; People's Republic of China; 93Z4720
poverty, government relief/administration, early 19th century-present; 93Z6540
state-imposed educational reform, GB vs USSR; 93Z5480

State Planning
socialist social structure, 20th century, theoretical model; 93Z4820

State Power
state legitimacy crisis, Ecuador; 93Z4988

State Role
family/children's services, states' role, US; 93Z5963
international environmental cooperation, nation-states' response; 1990/91 statistical data; 93Z6499
low-income housing, industrialized building innovation, 1955-1977; 93Z5747
low-level radioactive waste, state disposal siting responsibilities, US; 93Z6500
male child preferences/selective abortion use, regulation issues, cross-cultural perspective; secondary research; India/South Korea/People's Republic of China; 93Z6079
nature of state, alternative Marxist explanations; comment; 93Z5074
political power/parties, social class issues, US New Deal era, Theda Skocpol's state autonomy theory critiqued; article, comments; 93Z5031
political system, 1988 disruption/state party's reaction, Mexico; 93Z5085
science/technology research, state governments' funding decisions; case study; Michigan; 93Z5722
state agriculture relationship, Saudi Arabia; 93Z5249
state apparatus crisis, agrobusiness's land monopoly's role, Brazil; 93Z5272 state's energy consumption control, resulting ethnic identity proliferation; 93Z5005
state-media interaction, pre-1980 Chile; 93Z4908
termination of medical treatment, decision-making standards, state courts' role; 93Z5646
theories of justice/social injustice; 4-book review essay; 93Z5659
urban land use, state/enterprises/society roles, Mexico City; book review essay; 93Z5353

State Society Relationship
Between States and Markets: The Voluntary Sector in Comparative Perspective by R. Wuthnow (Ed); review essay; 93Z4687
capitalist systems, government role, economic/political/social impacts; 1974-1981 statistical data; 93Z4828
democratic pluralism/economic change, implications for work, Slovakia; 93Z4557
labor movement, post-1965 Brazil vs South Africa; case examples; 93Z4607
law-social customs relationship; anthropological analysis/historical sketch; 93Z5627
official language, political issues, South Africa; book review essay; 93Z5398
policing/state judical structures/social control, South Africa, sociological study; 3-book review essay; 93Z5692
socialism, anthropological approaches; conference presentations; 93Z4089
state legitimacy crisis, Ecuador; 93Z4988
state-political party interaction, Greece, 1984-1989; case study; 93Z5105
urban land use, state/enterprises/society roles, Mexico City; book review essay; 93Z5353

States (Political Subdivisions)
class bias, state electorates, policy consequences, US; 1984/1986 Census data; 93Z5057
European nation-states, cosmopolitism/localism forces; 93Z5136
fiscal crisis, US states; personal experience; faculty members, University of Massachusetts; 93Z4760
interactive Markov chains, stability/monotomicity issues; 93Z3989
interstate return migration patterns, regional differences, 1975-1980, 1983 US Census data; 93Z5817
postmodernism vs postlibertarianism, minimal statism issues; 93Z4148
Soviet empire dissolution, nationalism issues; 11-chapter analysis, 93c01664

Statistics
hierarchical linear model, multilevel statistical analysis; illustrative example; labor market status attainment, Norway; 93Z3983
information dissemination, Statistics Canada-research community collaboration strategy; 93Z4002
science ideas, respectability; false rationalization vs proven explanation; statistical data; 93Z5711
statistics production, historical evolution, 1840s-1960s, Egypt; 93Z4066

Status
independent sector organizations, status legitimation activities, US, 93Z4681
status protection, high-status minority groups; experiment; high school students; 93Z4362

Status Attainment
hierarchical linear model, multilevel statistical analysis; illustrative example; labor market status attainment, Norway; 93Z3983
social resources-occupational attainment relationship, Spain/US/Netherlands; survey data; 93Z5181

Status Inconsistency
status inconsistency/visibility relationship; questionnaire data; secondary school students, Belgium; 93Z5147

Stepfamily

ousehold labor, husbands' contributions, first-/remarried families; 1987/88 national survey; 93Z5979 arental discipline/affection, step- vs biological fathers, white middle-class college students' perceptions; experimental data; 93Z5952 arenting perceptions, stepfathers with coresident stepchildren; 1987/88 national survey data; 93Z5997 tepfamily integration; step-/grandmothers' role perceptions; questionnaire; remarried mothers, South Dakota; 93Z5975

reotypes

ndividualism meanings/local stereotypes, Finnish-American "uniontown," Pacific Northwest; archival/fieldwork data; 93Z4386
Saami reindeer owners, northern Norway, stereotype creation/maintenance; 93Z4244 tereotypes of Americans, Persian Gulf war period; checklist questionnaire; university students, Australia; 93Z4373 ymbolic racism, Italian popular culture; 93Z4367

gma

acquired immune deficiency syndrome stigma, social interaction; means of transmission/risk knowledge/gender; survey data; undergraduates; 93Z6153
acquired immune deficiency syndrome-related stigma, social relationships; questionnaire data; 93Z4322
human immunodeficiency virus/acquired immune deficiency syndrome, deviance/pollution discourse; case study; prison system upheaval, New South Wales, Australia; 93Z5675
Jesus/charismatic movements, stigmatization's role; 93Z5549
lonely persons, self-/others' perceptions, social stigma view; scale data; undergraduates, Lakehead University, Ontario; 93Z4289
obesity, stigma/social reactions, sociological model; 93Z6182 stigma management, topless dancers, participant observation/interviews; dancers, waitresses, club managers, bartenders, topless bars; 93Z4319

ores

wage differences, salary vs commission payment systems, department store salespersons, US; 1981 survey data; 93Z4739

orytelling

children's story processing, input medium effect; research review; 93Z4880
gay rights issues, legal discourse, personal storytelling technique; 93Z6617 internal story structure, retellings/pretellings/hypothetical tellings, local context/social projects role; taped play interactions; children ages 4-14, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania; 93Z5375

rangers

behavior toward strangers, religious affiliation constraints; prisoner's dilemma, Utah/Oregon; 93Z5588
stranger-local inhabitant interaction, various cultural/geographic settings, 93Z4919
strangers, modern society, social construction; 93Z4126

rategies

burnout, job stress, nurses; palliative/preventive/existential coping strategies; survey data; Canadian hospitals; 93Z5234
burnout, social organizational roots, adolescent athletes, US; interview data; 93Z4945
drug abuse epidemiology, research/intervention strategies, Europe; 93Z6269
family adaptive strategies, conceptual/methodological/theoretical issues, 93Z6001
home/work influence strategies, professional couples; interview data; 93Z6031
human immunodeficiency syndrome infection prevalence, injecting drug users, behavioral risk reduction strategies; statistical data; 93Z6283
influence strategy selection; dispositional self-efficacy/target's organizational status; experiment/scale data; college students; 93Z4339
interpersonal influence strategies, Winston Churchill-Franklin Roosevelt bases-for-destroyers exchange, 1940; 93Z4324
social science research, utilization strategies, control/power/conflict issues; 93Z3964
welfare dependency/school dropout/violent crime/teenage pregnancy reduction, successful health/social service/educational programs, US/Canada; 93Z6543

Stratification

cultural modernization, nationalism, stratified theory; 93Z5133
food/eating ideas, cultural values' influence, US; personal journal data, college students, New Jersey/Pennsylvania; 93Z4457
labor markets, stratification research, theoretical/methodological issues; illustrative example; shellfishing industry, northern Florida; 93Z5189
West Indian kinship/domestic life; methodological critique; 93Z6016

Stress

burnout, social organizational roots, adolescent athletes, US; interview data; 93Z4945
child support enforcement duties, New Jersey probation officers, role stress; questionnaire; 93Z5688
Jewish mother-headed one-parent families, Toronto, Ontario; 1987 interview data; 93Z6022 perceived health status; stress, social support, job characteristics; 1988/89 survey data; East Germany; 93Z4581 stress/coping/health process, cultural differences, Taiwan/US; survey data; 93Z6233

Strikes

industrial relations, Havelock asbestos mine, Swaziland, 1939-1945; 93Z4561
mass strikes for universal suffrage, socialist political reform strategy, turn-of-the-century Belgium; 93Z4860

Structural Models

city planning, combinatorial model; case examples; Barcelona, Catalonia; 93Z6453
multivariate discrete response data, structural relations estimation, grade-of-membership model; 1982/1984 national survey data; health services utilization/expenditures; 93Z3982

Structuralism

agency, feminist poststructuralist theory; 93Z6575
circumcision/clitorectomy, structuralist/functionalist views; 93Z4541 feminine poetic language, metaphor use, French poststructural theory application; T. Saastamoinen's Finnish prose poem analysis; 93Z6598
structure, theoretical reformulation; 93Z4184
temporality-linguistics relationship, poststructuralist/-modern thought; 93Z5381
temporalized sociology, theoretical underpinnings; 93Z4125

Structuration

structure, theoretical reformulation; 93Z4184

Structure

medical profession, structural transformation/political role, Spain; 1983 survey data; physicians; 93Z6175
small informal group structure, transitivity models tested; secondary empirical data; 93Z4237
structure/locality; 93Z6434

Student Attitudes

adolescent alcohol abuse, theories/attitudes, 6th-grade-college students, southwestern US; survey data; 93Z6282
employment attitudes, young people, Germany, gender differences; empirical data; 93Z5879
international teaching assistants' impact on student attitudes/recall/ethnocentrism/uncertainty reduction; personal cultural examples' use; experimental data; midwestern US; 93Z4395
liberation ideologies, black Transvaal students, Johannesburg, South Africa; questionnaire data; 93Z4492
newspapers, young adults' attitudes; autobiographical data; undergraduates, midwestern US university; 93Z5850
principal political system actors, university students' perceptions, Mexico; survey data; 93Z5024
student cheating, highly selective US universities; situational ethics; questionnaire; 93Z5479
teacher satisfaction; community support/empowerment/work conditions/student attitudes; survey; Maine; 93Z5240
value change, youth's role, Western societies; 1980-1991 literature review; 93Z5861

Student Teacher Relationship

adult education classes, GB, teachers' "pleasing students" orientation; fieldnotes, interviews; 93Z5498 ethnic minority children, teachers' treatment, ethnocentrism theory critiqued; 93Z5447
family structure/value changes, implications for educators; 93Z5516 inequality courses, student resistance/paralysis/rage reactions; personal teaching experience; 93Z4009
preschool children, behavior management, cross-cultural teaching model; personal experience; North American teacher of Haitian children; 93Z5423
sociology education, student initiation/discovery promotion, teaching methods; 93Z4416

Students

humor, interactionist perspective; empirical data; students; 93Z4308 student participation, Canadian Sociology & Anthropology Association; questionnaires; graduate students; 93Z4042

Styles

cross-generational marital styles; questionnaires; couples; 93Z6039

legal mediation styles, gender differences; 1987 case data; Ohio mediation program; 93Z6388
primitivism, Gilles Deleuze's/Félix Guattari's A Thousand Plateaus; 93Z4529

Sub Saharan Africa
paid health care, cultural acceptability, sub-Saharan Africa; 93Z4509
socioeconomic development, sub-Saharan Africa; female education; UN/government data; Gambia; 93Z5428
sub-Saharan African development, illustrative example; Nigeria; 93Z4780

Subcultures
cockfighting, subcultural variations; participant observation/interview/other data; Arkansas/Oklahoma; 93Z4320
consociational "Lager" system, electoral impacts, Austria; illustrative example; 1990 general election; 93Z5088
Hollywood (California) film/television actors, occupational culture/career/adaptation; 1977-1986 participant observation; 93Z5213
police officers, informing on other officers' illegal behaviors, subcultural perspective; personal knowledge/observations; 93Z4315

Subjectivity
agency, feminist poststructuralist theory; 93Z6575
criminal offenders, objective sentencing guidelines, decisionmakers' subjectivity; quasi-experiment, interviews, other data; presentence investigation unit, Nevada; 93Z5664
fathering style choices, college-age men's intentions; empirical data; 93Z6006
personal identity crisis, postmodernity; 93Z4282
postmodernism's subjectivity/cultural logic, implication for law practice; case study; John Hinkley's 1981 assassination attempt trial; 93Z4480
subjective (psychological)/objective (economic) well-being relationship; interview/diary data; US families; 93Z4261
value, subject-object relationship; 93Z4193

Subordination
gender subordination/inequality, perpetuation theories; 93Z6614

Substance Abuse
adolescent substance abuse, family dynamic/structural factors; scale data; adolescents; 93Z5994
drug abuse research, Mexico; literature review; 93Z6275
drug abuse, local/national research, GB; research review; 93Z6263
ethnicity/adaptation, English-language bibliography; 93Z6272
substance abuse patterns/mental health, homeless postadolescents; interview data; Florida; 93Z6285
substance abuse treatment programs, women clients' treatment needs; life histories; Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York; 93Z6287
substance abuse, late adolescence, predictive factors; Ontario; 93Z6248 substance abuse-posttraumatic stress disorder relationship; 1982/83 interviews; residents, Saint Louis, Missouri; 93Z6213

Suburbanization
structural disharmony/growth rates, Yugoslavia/Slovenia, suburbanization/excessive urbanization models; 1984-1991 questionnaire data; 93Z5359
urban sociology/ecology, new paradigms; 93Z5332

Suburbs
suburban delinquency, class dynamics; self-report survey; youths, New York; 93Z6349
US suburb, historical evolution; literature review; 93Z6435

Success
aging success/life satisfaction meanings; interviews; senior activity center; 93Z6297
high achievers, other students' attitudes; questionnaire data; high school students, South Australia; 93Z4263
organizational learning, failure/success rate; asset depletion; hypothetical examination; 93Z3997
suicides, inferred characteristics; gender/context; experimental data; undergraduates, Norfolk, Virginia; 93Z6097

Sudan
household famine resilience/migration, rural communities, Sudan; 1989 interviews; migrants; 93Z5294 mortality/morbidity, Ethiopian refugee camps, Sudan; 1986-1990 UN data; 93Z4442

Suicide
adolescent suicidal behavior; peer suicide cause perceptions, knowing suicide attempters; questionnaire data; 11th-/12th-grade students/their families, northeastern US; 93Z5860
assisted suicide/euthanasia attitudes, graduate students, Norway; questionnaire data; 93Z6192
elderly suicide rates; 1988 mortality statistics; 93Z6306
elderly suicide, gender differences; literature review; North America/GB; 93Z6292
elderly suicide, social/economic correlates; 1940-1984 time-series data; 93Z6304
elderly suicide/natural death, surviving spouse bereavement, social/emotional support sources, gender differences; interview/questionnaire data; 93Z6094
female suicide trends, social change/anomie hypotheses tested, US; statistical data, 1950-1984; 93Z6090
suicidal adolescents, family environment perceptions; scale data; Michigan; 93Z6102
suicidal behavior, human immunodeficiency syndrome disease; research review; 93Z6229
suicide incidence/discourse, 1800-1850, Paris, France; statistics, morgue register; 93Z6105 suicide labeling changes, historical analysis; content analysis; German lexical articles, 1743-1980; 93Z6091
suicide propensity, successful college students, fraud complex theory, 93Z6095
suicide rates, West vs East Germany (Saxony); 93Z4278 suicide, 1910-1920 US; WW1/prohibition/great influenza epidemic; census data; 93Z6107
suicide, long-term care facilities, US; institutional environmental factors; questionnaire; administrators; 93Z6103 suicide, media influences, Depression-era US; content analysis; New York Times stories; 93Z6106
suicide, youth ages 10-19, Newfoundland/Labrador; 1977-1988 pathologist register data; 93Z6202
suicide; country music; 1984/85 statistical data; urban whites; 93Z6239
suicides, inferred characteristics; gender/context; experimental data; undergraduates, Norfolk, Virginia; 93Z6097

Superior Subordinate Relationship
bases of power model, 30-year evolution; 93Z4338
business organization, dispute resolution frameworks; 93Z4625
computerized job surveillance, workplaces; interview data; New York firms; 93Z4605
influence strategy selection; dispositional self-efficacy/target's organizational status; experiment/scale data; college students; 93Z4339
job complexity/supervision relationship, male vs female workers; interview data; 93Z6633
management's recruitment of temporary labor, contradictions/tensions; observational/interview data; US electronics firms operating in Ireland; 93Z4715
sexual harassment, US military personnel; racial/ethnic power differential; 1988 Department of Defense survey; 93Z4636 task relationships, mixed-status partners; social support role perceptions; focus group interview, mail questionnaire; nurse-manager staff dyads; 93Z4321

Supervision
computerized job surveillance, workplaces; interview data; New York firms; 93Z4605
sociology internships, liability issues; personal supervision experience, 93Z4021

Supply and Demand
adoption criteria/process, local justice concept, US; 93Z6087
manufacturing decline, GB vs other industrialized countries; excessive wage claims; 1979-1989 unit labor cost statistics; 93Z4595
modern social/economic/environmental realities, neoclassical vs ecological economics perspectives; 93Z4149 work alienation reduction, underlying supply/demand factors; illustrative international examples; 93Z4744

Surgery
self/identity transformation, colectomy/ileostomy patients; interview data; 93Z6144

Surrogate Parents
surrogate motherhood, past/present social context, South Africa/Western societies; 93Z6089
surrogate motherhood, public attitudes; interview data; Roanoke Valley, Virginia; 93Z6088

Surveys
class consciousness assessment, acquiescent response bias control method; attitude scale data; US/Canada/Norway/Sweden; 93Z3987
drug use surveys, sealed booklet vs direct questioning approach; national survey data; 93Z6631
erroneous exit poll results; methodological problems; 1989 Virginia gubernatorial election; 93Z5110
human population surveys, incomplete data, sources/solutions; literature review, secondary data; 93Z3957

information transmission, survey interviews; 93Z3944
interviewing, response rates, presurvey enhancement methods; case study; two-stage interviewing; 93Z3965
link-tracing methodologies' utility, special/hidden populations location; literature review; 93Z3973
local crime surveys, leftist realist discourse/practice; 93Z6327
occupation measurement errors, household surveys; company/union records, employee interviews; 93Z3962
rapid childhood nutrition surveys, optional cluster size; comparative survey data; Africa; 93Z6519
survey data quality; questionnaire design; Detroit, Michigan; 93Z3971
survey data validity; unclear terms; telephone interviews; 93Z3951
survey interview responses; state/task uncertainty; empirical data; Madison, Wisconsin; 93Z6082
survey nonresponse; questionnaire length; 1987 data; England, Wales; 93Z3948
survey response motivation, self-selected vs electronic mail survey samples; 93Z3975
working-class crime victimization, left-realist perspective, research issues; national survey; Canada; 93Z6377

Sutherland, Edwin Hardin differential association theory expansion/test; scale data; adolescents, Netherlands; 93Z6344

Swaziland
industrial relations, Havelock asbestos mine, Swaziland, 1939-1945; 93Z4561

Sweden
class consciousness assessment, acquiescent response bias control method; attitude scale data; US/Canada/Norway/Sweden; 93Z3987
contemporary multicultural agenda, Swedish/other alternatives; 93Z4417
conversation analysis, context posture, ethnographic perspective; 93Z5388 crisis decision making, information management, theoretical perspectives; illustrative example; "Whiskey on the Rocks" crisis, Sweden; 93Z4997
family conceptualizations/meanings, females vs males, Sweden; questionnaire data; 93Z5989
gentrification, rent/value gap explanations; case study; Sweden; 93Z5322
individual-community relationship, Sweden; empirical case study; Svenska Missionsförbundet; 93Z4298
individual/collectivism tendencies, Sweden; secondary survey data; 93Z4259
nuclear threat perceptions/antinuclear activism, college students; 1984-1986 multinational scale data; 93Z4841
surnames, Swedish attitude trends; questionnaire; 93Z6036
Swedish innovative bicycle failure, 1980s; consumer survey; 93Z5744
Swedish welfare state, historical development; 93Z5126
universal conversation features, Swedish eh acknowledgment token, ethnographic approach; 93Z5367

Switzerland
academic achievement/social-emotional development, students with learning difficulties, integrated vs other classrooms; longitudinal questionnaires/tests; Switzerland; 93Z5426
alternative religions, Switzerland/France/Western Europe; article/comments; 93Z5582
church-society relationship, Switzerland; article/comments; 93Z5530
job quitting rationale, relative deprivation vs rational choice theory application; 1987 questionnaire data; bank/insurance employees, Zurich, Switzerland; 93Z4745
patent protection, judicial argumentation, Austria/West Germany/Switzerland; content analysis; 93Z5623
religion's marginalization, Switzerland; article/comments; 93Z5604
religious beliefs, semantic considerations, Switzerland; article/comments; 93Z5576
religious identity changes, Switzerland; article/comments; 93Z5532

Sydney, Australia
people with visible disability, health care trainees'/professionals' judgment, questionnaire data; Sydney, Australia; 93Z6132
residential/social interaction patterns, Indian immigrants, Sydney, Australia; interview/other data; 93Z5798

Symbolic Interactionism
conventional symbolic interactionism, postmodernism; comments/reply, 93Z4349
critical theory/pragmatism, US vs Frankfurt school perspectives; 93Z4330
Habermas, Jürgen, theory of communicative action, pragmatist alternative; 93Z4342
interaction order; 93Z4150
modern social psychology; 93Z4034
symbolic interaction, modernity/postmodernity, Jürgen Habermas's/George Herbert Mead's work; 93Z4327
symbolic interactions, diverged statement systems; 93Z4328

Symbolism
social construction of sight, historical overview; 93Z6686
social space/symbolic space; four 1989 lectures by Pierre Bourdieu; 93Z4453
social symbolism, Western sociology's neglect; illustrative examples; 93Z4347
symbolic sexual violence meanings, Tukanoan rituals, Colombia; 1968-1970 fieldwork data; 93Z6375
symbolism/maternal primacy, Luisa Muraro's work; 93Z6609

Symptoms
adult children of alcoholics, symptomology; background/treatment; 93Z6244
chronic posttraumatic stress disorder, patient/disorder characteristics; scale/interview data; health maintenance organization, Michigan; 93Z6207
psychological symptoms, reporting differences, males vs females; 1986 survey data; Finland; 93Z6601
sexual abuse aftermath, body symptoms as expressive language; case study; 93Z6369

Systems
civilization, formal knowledge systems' definitions; 93Z4472

Systems Theory
Luhmann, Niklas, power/system theory; critical analysis; 93Z4181
systems theories/modernization, Ivan Mucha's work critiqued; 93Z4172
systems theory, methodological problems; 93Z3938
systems theory, Niklas Luhmann's autopoiesis concept; 93Z4123

Taiwan
Chinese dinner table mien tze (politeness) interaction, "face" notion, rituals/norms; restaurant dinner observation; Taiwan; 93Z5371
contraceptive method use/knowledge, Taiwanese women; interviews; health clinic patients, Taipei; 93Z6072
nuclear threat perceptions/antinuclear activism, college students; 1984-1986 multinational scale data; 93Z4841
stress/coping/health process, cultural differences, Taiwan/US; survey data; 93Z6233

Tanzania
ironwork-peasant relationships, colonial Tanzania; eyewitness/other data; 93Z6442

Task Oriented Groups
African-American caucuses, predominately white organizations, organizational disputing implications; 93Z4358

Task Performance task relationships, mixed-status partners; social support role perceptions; focus group interview, mail questionnaire; nurse-manager staff dyads; 93Z4321

Tasks
psychiatric facilities, organizational analysis, task analysis model; observations; 93Z4333
task orientation notion, preindustrial societies' adoption, historians' misinterpretation; 93Z4597

Taxation
child care services financing, local taxes, public rejection, Fremont, California; exit poll/interview/other data; 93Z6470
handicapped employment, 1981 Austrian law, use of tax penalty funds; 93Z6469

Teacher Education
antiracist curriculum model, teacher education, Europe; 93Z5432
teacher professionalization, teacher educators' role; 93Z5223
teacher-government conflict, Japan; teacher internship requirement implementation; observations; public schools; 93Z5241

Teachers
adolescent behavior, Dutch research/theory; 93Z5849
career teachers, higher education, UK; interviews; 93Z5218
educational social movement, Malta, 1990; case study; 93Z5507
externalized occupational stress-job satisfaction relationship, teachers; questionnaire data; New South Wales, Australia; 93Z5229
preschool children, behavior management, cross-cultural teaching model; personal experience; North American teacher of Haitian children; 93Z5423
teacher burnout rate, school culture's influence; inventory/interview data; elementary school teachers/principals; 93Z5212

teacher job satisfaction/stress; age/experience/school size; scale data; physical education teachers, secondary schools, Florida/Georgia; 93Z5216
teacher professionalization, teacher educators' role; 93Z5223
teacher satisfaction; community support/empowerment/work conditions/student attitudes; survey; Maine; 93Z5240
teacher supply/retention/morale problems, state educational policy implications, England/Wales; 93Z5215
teacher-government conflict, Japan; teacher internship requirement implementation; observations; public schools; 93Z5241
teachers, educational reform's impact, New Zealand; 93Z5455
test-using professional groups' characteristics; international questionnaire data; test administrators/supervisors; 93Z5233
voluntary community participation in schools, rationales/consequences, Australia; interview data; 93Z4684

Teaching
education system, US, reform agenda/obstacles; 93Z5442
inequality courses, student resistance/paralysis/rage reactions; personal teaching experience; 93Z4009
job satisfaction, gender-related differences; 1982-1988 interviews; teachers, Frankfurt, West Germany; 93Z5865
pedagogy/sociology of education, Emile Durkheim's work, performative/constative aspects; 93Z4161
research/teaching activity, higher education faculty, Australia; 1989 questionnaire data; 93Z5492
school pedagogy, Georg Simmel's views; 1915/16 lectures; 93Z5434
sociological research/teaching, South Africa; 93Z4077
teaching/learning, native Hawaiian families; children's preschool experience; narratives; 93Z5474
visual sociology, undergraduate course; personal teaching experience; 93Z6683

Teaching Methods
computer-aided instruction, social science pedagogy; 1987/88 evaluation; IBM-compatible sociology software; 93Z4007
preschool children, behavior management, cross-cultural teaching model; personal experience; North American teacher of Haitian children; 93Z5423
race relations, micro-/macroperspectives, Shelby Steele's works; 93Z4421
race/cultural novel's usefulness, education, sociology classrooms; empirical data; white college students; 93Z4010
sociological research, undergraduate library use instruction; 93Z4024
sociology education, student initiation/discovery promotion, teaching methods; 93Z4416
structural/curricular change, inner-city minority population school, Midlands, England; observations/interviews/discussions; teachers/students; 93Z5227
teaching visual sociology, Doshisha University, Japan; personal experiences; 93Z6682 visual sociology course, University of Amsterdam, Netherlands; 93Z6680

Teamwork
individual vs team sports, Olympic Games; illustrative examples; 1988/1992 summer games; 93Z4943
recruit quality-team performance relationship; experiment; soldiers, advanced training, Fort Gordon, Georgia; 93Z4626
work teams, reward scheme construction difficulties alternative/non-market-based solutions; 93Z4600

Technocracy
internal mangagement crisis, technocratic/bureaucratic elites, US; 93Z5182

Technological Change
computer industry restructuring, market segmentation/open systems influence; 93Z5737
hegemony-insularity relationship, global technological age; 93Z5042
industrial revolution/technological change, South Africa; literature review; 93Z4772
new technoeconomic systems, post-Fordist social order emergence; 93Z5730
technical progress, social evolutionary interpretation; illustrative empirical examples; 93Z5753
technological development/protectionism, computer/other industries, Brazil; pro/con analysis; 93Z4211

Technological Innovations
drug screening, hair analysis technology; research review; 93Z6276
high-technology innovation, perceived organizational support; demographic/other factors; questionnaire survey; electronics firm employees; 93Z5742
human tissue, property rights, Moore v. Regents of the University of California; case study; 93Z5700
model prison, Jeremy Bentham's panopticon notion, electronic surveillance implications; 93Z5683
new technology, workers' reaction; questionnaire data; hospital laboratory workers, Antwerp, Belgium; 93Z4734
new technology/market pressures, firms' technical/organizational responses, economic performance outcomes; empirical data; 93Z4572
risk-based technologies, crime prevention applications; 93Z5643
technological innovation, cultural/societal impact, Renaissance era; 93Z4484
technological innovation, diffusion models; 93Z3992
technological innovations, labor/union response; 93Z4989
wheatlands, 1890-1914 mechanization/economic development, Argentina vs Canada; 93Z5728

Technological Progress
atmospheric propulsion railway innovation failure, 19th-century England; 93Z5734
automotive gas turbine engine research/development, US Chrysler Corporation, 1950-1980; 93Z5732 aviation development, technological inspiration, pre-WWI France/Germany; 93Z5754
community security-technological progress relationships; 93Z5743
English engineer Joseph Day's 1891 innovative gas engine failure; 93Z5758
hydrocarbon exploration/discovery, new techniques' effects, modeling framework; illustrative example; exploration, Alberta; 93Z3996
pebble-bed furnace fertilizer production process, technical innovation failure; 93Z5755
perestroika, Soviet society, Mikhail Gorbachev's failed reforms; 93Z4795
subway system construction, Canton, China, technical assistance consensus, engineering company/government decisionmakers; 93Z6454
Swedish innovative bicycle failure, 1980s; consumer survey; 93Z5744 symmetrical success/failure explanation, electrical plough/tractor example, early 20th-century Germany; 93Z5726
technical progress, social evolutionary interpretation; illustrative empirical examples; 93Z5753
technological innovation adoption, rural communities, social perspective; case studies; photoelectric solar energy panel introduction, villages, Senegal/Chad/central Africa/Spain; 93Z5750
technological modernization, union movement impacts, Brazil; interview data; 93Z4545
technological risks, public responses, sociological perspective; 93Z5738
technology, failed vs successful innovations; symposium introduction, 93Z5733
technology-culture relationship; 2-book review essay; 93Z5756
technology-society relationship, educational module; 93Z4011
technology-society relationship, individual/collective conflicts; literary works; 93Z6210
US Gemini spacecraft paraglider landing system, innovation failure, 1961-1964; 93Z5740

Technology closed technologies, automation/industry; 93Z4787
culture systems parallel development, theory critiqued; 93Z5401
death/dying attitudes, Western culture; 93Z6101
modern society/technology, evolution, time/space roles; 93Z4479
modern time experience, technology connection, social theory implications; 93Z4121
natural/technologically induced disasters, international economic impact, US/USSR examples; 93Z6523
social communication systems, technology's role; literature review, 93Z5729
social studies of technology, Latin American contributions; 93Z5751 technical education system, Argentina; official/other data; Buenos Aires; 93Z5508
technological knowledge as industrial capital, postcommunist Slovenia, 93Z4778
technology-structure research; literature review; 93Z5741
world system, modified model; 93Z3988

Technology Transfer
Chinese telecommunications system, French technology transfer, conflict issues; 93Z5739 cooperative industrial technology transfer, East European firms; 93Z4666
French television technology transfer, Hungary, communist-democratic regime transition period, political/economic problems; 93Z5735
international technology transfer, sociological analysis; journal issue introduction; 93Z5736
modernization program, Chinese electronics industry, joint venture technology transfer vs license transfer approaches; 93Z6671

iality control mechanisms, technology transfer; case study; Chilean automotive industry; 93Z5745 ccessful technology transfer, French parent company/Brazilian subsidiary; professional ethics/cooperation; 93Z6669 enezuela scientific community, erratic evolution; interview/other data; 93Z5718

ard de Chardin, Pierre

eilhard de Chardin, Pierre, scientific contributions; content analysis; 93Z4060

Aviv, Israel

hnographer/informant relationship development; fieldwork data; Gur Hasidic sect, Tel-Aviv, Israel; 93Z3950 mily type, behaviorally disordered vs adjusted children; card sort/teacher rating data; day care center, Tel Aviv, Israel; 93Z5841 alousy, married men/women; vignettes; Tel Aviv, Israel; 93Z6637 x-linked bias, job promotion decisions; candidate's career relevance/prior experience; questionnaire data; business/government/nonprofit organization employees, Tel-Aviv, Israel; 93Z6642

communications

hinese telecommunications system, French technology transfer, conflict issues; 93Z5739 ass communication research, information society; 5-book review essay; 93Z4940 ass media use, Pentecostalist churches, Brazil; 93Z5589 w technoeconomic systems, post-Fordist social order emergence; 93Z5730

ology

leology, causal features; 93Z4129

phone Communications

cial action analysis, mental concepts, ethnological perspective; high school attendance office telephone recordings; 93Z5393 lephone call, termination exchanges; response; 93Z4245 lephone conversation openings, universals/particulars, North American English vs other cultural norms; 93Z5383

phone Surveys terviewing performance-question/interviewer attributes relationship; telephone survey; 93Z3967 irvey data validity; unclear terms; telephone interviews; 93Z3951

vision

ggression/self-esteem; videogame playing; questionnaire data; students grades 6-12/their teachers; 93Z4264 ritish/US television soap operas/romance genre films, portrayal of women; 2-book review essay; 93Z4939 ild-parental television viewing patterns; diary data; Topeka, Kansas; 93Z4909 zech physicist Jaroslav Šafránek's television transmission system failure, pre-/post-WWII era; political circumstances; archival material; 93Z5702 arnings gap, male vs female television writers; 1982-1990 career history data; US; 93Z4700 rench television technology transfer, Hungary, communist-democratic regime transition period, political/economic problems; 93Z5735 ard-line vs dovish views, children's socialization, Jewish families, Israel; television news viewing; observations; 93Z4899
Hollywood (California) film/television actors, occupational culture/career/adaptation; 1977-1986 participant observation; 93Z5213
mass media use, Pentecostalist churches, Brazil; 93Z5589 eligious beliefs/behaviors; 1987/88 televangelist scandals; time series data, 93Z4877 ex-role stereotypes, television commercials, Australia; content analysis; 93Z4900 television cable system, educational institutions, Detroit, Michigan; 93Z5752 television coverage, US, presidential election years, 1968-1988; evening news broadcast samples; 93Z4889
television's role, 1989 overthrow, communist East Germany; interview data; journalists, US/East German networks; 93Z4851
visual communication, Brazil; fieldwork data; 93Z6676

levision Viewing

abortion discourse, middle- vs working-class women; television program; group interview data; Ann Arbor, Michigan; 93Z4906
child-parental television viewing patterns; diary data; Topeka, Kansas; 93Z4909
enterprising/consumer self-representation, thirtysomething television show, US; content analysis; UK broadcasts, 1989/90; 93Z4936
fear of victimization, mass media's impact, older West German women; 1985/86 questionnaire data; 93Z4911
leisure/media studies, links/common interests, GB; research review; 93Z4920 television viewing, children; genetic influences; empirical data; adopted children, Colorado; 93Z4904 television/video viewing habits, adolescents, Barbados; survey; 93Z5884

Temperance Movements

individualist worldview development, late 19th-early 20th-century Finland; temperance movement ideology; 93Z4836

Tenants

rental housing-owner occupation transition, Latin America; surveys; Mexican cities; 93Z5331
tenant participation, public housing, power/influence issues; 1981-1989 interviews; 93Z4915

Tennessee

disaster evacuation planning/behavior, private sector planning vs public response; interviews; tourism firm executives, Florida/Texas/Tennessee; 93Z6521
sociology internships, career choice impacts; scale data; Tennessee Technological University; 93Z4019 upward social mobility, black vs white working women's subjective experiences; life-history interview data; Memphis, Tennessee; 93Z5160

Terminal Illness

pain/other symptom management, terminally ill cancer patients; personal experience; Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center, New York City; 93Z6093
progressive diseases, screening test scheduling, mathematical model; illustrative cases; 93Z3991

Termination of Treatment

termination of medical treatment, decision-making standards, state courts' role; 93Z5646

Terminology

visual terminology, Arabic language; 93Z5369

Territoriality

secondary education centers, territorial distribution, Galicia, Spain; 1960-1990 empirical data; 93Z5475

Terrorism

career militancy, Irish Republic army; personal contact; 93Z6566
international air tourist arrivals, Orlando, Florida; terrorism/seasonality factors; empirical data; 93Z4924
terrorism, political violence research integration; 93Z6567 terrorism/low-intensity conflict, research issues; literature review; 93Z6569 terrorism; case examples, Hiroshima, Japan, Rotterdam, Netherlands; 93Z6568

Tests

children with human immunodeficiency virus/acquired immune deficiency syndrome, clinical treatment/drug testing, ethical issues; 93Z6152
human immunodeficiency virus prevention screening programs, costs/benefits; 93Z6166
human immunodeficiency virus/acquired immune deficiency syndrome, blinded/unlinked seroprevalence studies, ethical issues; 93Z6115
prisoners testing positive for human immunodeficiency virus, rights/care, GB; 93Z5699
progressive diseases, screening test scheduling, mathematical model; illustrative cases; 93Z3991
psychiatric patients, human immunodeficiency virus detection; serological testing, medical records; Manhattan acute care facility, New York City; 93Z6178
psychologist licensure, stringency determination factors, public/provider interest theories; 1977/78 American Association of State Psychology Board exam data; 93Z5224
recruit quality-team performance relationship; experiment; soldiers, advanced training, Fort Gordon, Georgia; 93Z4626
sex-determination testing female fetus abortion consequences, India; 93Z6074
test-using professional groups' characteristics; international questionnaire data; test administrators/supervisors; 93Z5233

Texas

career satisfaction, dental hygienists, Texas; questionnaire data; 93Z5211
church attendance, social meaning, independent charismatic church, Austin, Texas; interviews, statistical data; 93Z5527
criminal justice reform mandates, Texas political system's response, 1980-present; 93Z5669
deliquent adolescent girls, internal social control/differential association explanations; 1984-1986 questionnaire data; Texas; 93Z6352
disaster evacuation planning/behavior, private sector planning vs public response; interviews; tourism firm executives, Florida/Texas/Tennessee; 93Z6521

employment changes, agricultural labor market, Lower Rio Grande Valley, Texas; 1978-1984 census/survey/other data; 93Z5267
immigration adaptation, attributional confidence, media use's role; survey; Chinese immigrants, Texas; 93Z4891
incarceration policy-crime rate link, 1970s/1980s, Texas/California/US; statistical data; 93Z5668
intent to consume beef, women, Texas, prediction model; 1985 interview data; 93Z4514
maquiladora plants, Mexico/US impacts; illustrative examples; El Paso, Texas/Ciudad Juarez, Mexico; 93Z4724
motivation differences, repeat/first-time/nonvisitors, Lower Rio Grande Valley, Texas; questionnaire data; 93Z4923 plea bargaining practices; court caseloads; 1968-1983 time-series data; El Paso, Texas; 93Z5634

Textbooks

acquired immune deficiency syndrome/human immunodeficiency virus portrayals, post-1985 introductory sociology textbooks, US; content analysis; 93Z4026
exemplary sociological texts, GB; 11-chapter review; 93c01679
Third World education, ethnocentric portrayals, introductory sociology textbooks; 1990/91 content analysis; 93Z4018

Thailand

development initiatives, traditional agriculture villages, Thailand; case studies; observational/interview data; 93Z5274
health care provision/health status, Ban Napho Refugee Camp vs Nakhom Phanom Province, Thailand; 1985-1989 province/Save the Children Fund records, school observation data; 93Z4441 labor migrants, Thailand, economic influences; article/comment; 93Z4609 talk/interactions, Tai-Lue (Thailand) village, cultural aspects, ethnographic perspective; 93Z5390
tourist destination attractiveness ranking; cross-national questionnaire data; tourists, tourism-related business; 93Z3998

Theater Arts

mass media, Italian cinema, Cesare Zavattini's work; 93Z4884

Theology

theology, new evolutionary perspective; 93Z4499

Theoretical Problems

action, traditional/Weberian-inspired conception; 93Z4134
adolescent behavior, Dutch research/theory; 93Z5849
adult education, socialization theory perspective; literature review; 93Z5485
agricultural labor market, conceptual/measurement issues; research review; 93Z5307
alcohol use studies, ethnicity variable's misuse; 93Z6265 alienation theory, G. Burrell's/G. Morgan's classification paradigms critiqued; literature review; 93Z4153
America at Century's End, book review symposium; 93Z4208
anthropology, postmodernist trends; 93Z4523
attachment theory/research, historical overview; 93Z4267
Bataille, Georges, College of Sociology, postmodernist antagonisms; 93Z4083
Calvinism-capitalism relationship, Max Weber's theory criticized; 93Z4078
Capital by Karl Marx, Henry K. Grossman's theories critically assessed; personal correspondence; 93Z6661
chaos theory, disorder/unpredictability/nondecidability problems, inappropriate application; 93Z4133
charisma concept, social structure theories; 93Z4165
civilization, formal knowledge systems' definitions; 93Z4472
class/stratification, capitalist societies, closure theories critiqued; 93Z4170
community studies, English-language bibliographies; literature review; 93Z6448
community, conceptual/definitional issues; 93Z6440
contemporary world system, non-Eurocentric theoretical analysis; 93Z4815
crime's utility, Emile Durkheim's thought critiqued; 93Z6338
criminality, indigenous vs migrant youth, Netherlands; interview data; 93Z6325
crisis decision making, information management, theoretical perspectives; illustrative example; "Whiskey on the Rocks" crisis, Sweden; 93Z4997
culturalist theory/community concept; 93Z4194
culture/human rights, universalist/relativist debates, South African context; article/comments; 93Z4449
Dahrendorf, Ralf, Homo Sociologicus, theory construction, sociolinguistics; 93Z4035
death/dying themes, sociology; literature review; 93Z6108
democracy, Western social/political thought, Jean-François Lyotard vs Jürgen Habermas; 93Z6424
demonism practice, Sri Lankan Sinhalas, Christianity's influence; 93Z6414
developmental processes, cognitivism's limited impact; 93Z4200
differential association theory expansion/test; scale data; adolescents, Netherlands; 93Z6344
discourse ethics, Jürgen Habermas's work; 93Z6432
drug use-ethnicity relationship, research, theoretical/methodological problems; 93Z6253
Eisenstadt, Shmuel N., sociological theory development; 93Z4122
Elias, Norbert, civilizing process theory as ideographic modernization theory; 93Z4130
equilibrium theory, socioeconomic-political development relationship; case examples; Chile/Philippines/Spain/Portugal/Saudi Arabia; 93Z5075
ethnic labor force segmentation, New Zealand; 1980s economic transformation; competing theoretical approaches; 93Z4749
ethnographic films/cultural anthropological theory, phenomenological interpretations/analyses; 93Z6675
event-based concept of strategic time, new organizational strategy perspective; 93Z6465
family adaptive strategies, conceptual/methodological/theoretical issues; 93Z6001
family studies, different theoretical perspectives; illustrative example, Mexican farm families; 93Z6019
feminist psychological research methodology, cultural diversity-related problems/solutions; experimental data; undergraduate women; 93Z6583
fertility change, Gainj population, Papua New Guinea; development, fieldwork; 93Z4527
fire/culture research; book review essay/comment/reply; 93Z4510
Foucauldian theory, Jürgen Habermas's critique; 93Z4159
The Foundations of Social Theory by James S. Coleman; review symposium/reply; 93Z4206
gender segregation/female inferiority, Bedouin groups, Ramia, Israel vs Negev Highlands; 93Z6627
generic fascism model, "spectral-syncretic" conceptual approach; 93Z5032
gentrification, rent/value gap explanations; case study; Sweden; 93Z5322
Giddens, Anthony; 3-book review essay; 93Z4147
The Good Society by Robert Bellah et al; review symposium; 93Z4207
group analysis, instinct theory; 93Z5825
Habermas, Jürgen, critical theory, Stephen Toulmin's views, relativistic predicament; 93Z4341
Habermas, Jurgen, developmental logical theory of evolution critiqued; 93Z4195
Habermas, Jürgen, theory of communicative action, pragmatist alternative; 93Z4342
heuristic/bias similarities, theoretical/everyday thinking; 93Z3931
historical development, Nazi Germany vs South Africa, explanatory problems; 93Z4214
human resource management, theory development/presentation problems; 93Z4661
human resource management, theory development; 93Z4670
international immigrant incorporation, theoretical approaches; 93Z5784 international relations, English school, theoretical issues; 3-book review essay; 93Z5000
interpretive anthropology, Clifford Geertz's cultural system theory critiqued; 93Z4512
job quitting rationale, relative deprivation vs rational choice theory application; 1987 questionnaire data; bank/insurance employees, Zurich, Switzerland; 93Z4745
juridical systems, peripheral urban communities, Latin America; 93Z5312
juvenile delinquency, social control theory tested; interview data, police records; Venlo/The Hague, Netherlands; 93Z6350
knowledge theory, sociology of knowledge's influence; 7-chapter analysis; 93c01688
labor markets, stratification research, theoretical/methodological issues; illustrative example; shellfishing industry, northern Florida; 93Z5189
language evolution hypothesis, primate Broca's area homologue, hierarchically organized sequential behavior; article/comments/reply; 93Z5823
law, Niklas Luhmann's autopoietic model critiqued; 93Z4186
leisure studies, hermeneutic/interpretive approaches; illustrative application; 1930s essays, US South; 93Z4925

lifestyle, conceptual difficulties, sociological discourse; 93Z4279
literature-theory relationship, global change context; 93Z5419
Luhmann, Niklas, modern society theory, critical analysis; 93Z4488
Luhmann, Niklas, power/system theory; critical analysis; 93Z4181
Marxism, historical crises, alternative ecology theory proposed; 93Z6663
mentally ill homeless, anthropological perspective; ethnographic data; Los Angeles, California; 93Z6226
Merquior, José Guilherme, liberal social/political theory contributions; posthumous tribute; 93Z4160
micro-macro link, integrative approach; 93Z3924
modern society, metastructural theory; 93Z4128
modernity, individual/cities clash, Georg Simmel's work; illustrative example; early 19th-century Berlin, Germany; 93Z4073
modernity, Vilfredo Pareto's thought; 93Z4169
multilevel analysis/theory, model specification; illustrative application; 93Z3999
nature of state, alternative Marxist explanations; comment; 93Z5074
neopragmatism, Jürgen Habermas/Richard Rorty; 93Z4325
organizational demography research, methodological/theoretical issues; research review; 93Z4663
Parsons, Talcott, Georg Simmel's influence; unpublished 1936 manuscript; 93Z5568
personal relationships research, physical environment's centrality, theory/method implications; 93Z4348
phenomena construction, abstract theory utilization; illustrative example; paleomagnetism; 93Z6406
political conflict, theoretical paradigm shift; 93Z5063
political parties/actors, Antonio Gramsci's views; 93Z5072
political party system, Mexico, theoretical typologies; 93Z5111
political power/parties, social class issues, US New Deal era, Theda Skocpol's state autonomy theory critiqued; article, comments; 93Z5031
post-Marxism critiqued; 93Z6659
postmodernity, ideological analysis; 93Z6412
power/gender theory; 3-book review essay; 93Z4140
"practical sociological reasoning" concept, everyday sociological imagination, theoretical issues; 93Z4343
prestige, theories/measurement; 93Z5192
privatization of justice, theoretical/political questions; 93Z6473
race concept, origins/development/use; 1991 presidential address; North Carolina Sociological Association; 93Z4409
race relations research, GB, conceptual deficiencies; 93Z4354
race/ethnicity research, Robert E. Park's contributions; 93Z4105
racial vs racist incidents, analytical distinction, GB; 93Z4430
rational choice perspective, theoretical assessment; article/comments; 93Z4188
rational choice theory pros/cons; 10-chapter analysis; 93c01665
rural labor markets, economic concepts; 93Z5270
rural life, change/old-new conflict, sociological perspective; personal experiences, fieldwork; sociologists; 93Z5284
schizophrenia prognosis, Third World vs Western countries, cross-cultural psychiatric theory/research; article/comments/response; 93Z6211
scientific realism, psychological applications; article/comments/response; 93Z4151
secularization theory critique; reply; 93Z5539
sexual harassment, terminology/typology; research review; 93Z5910
social impact assessment, broadened conceptual framework; 93Z6456
social movements, theory; 2-book review essay; 93Z4865
social norms, Jon Elster's methodologically individualistic assumptions; 93Z4306
social processes, relevance of space, theoretical approaches compared; 93Z5316
social scientists' changing visions of future; 93Z6450
social transformation, Third World, underdevelopment theories; 93Z4771
socialist social structure, 20th century, theoretical model; 93Z4820
societal change, Europe, theoretical/analytical issues; 93Z4033
society groups, theoretical/methodological issues; 93Z4187
socioeconomics theory vs neoclassical economic paradigm; 93Z6415
sociology of Georg Simmel, Max Weber's negative assessment; 93Z4110
sociology of religion, literature-sociology links; 4-book review essay; 93Z4094
special education theory/research practice, Newtonian mechanistic vs holistic paradigms; article/comments; 93Z6137
speech, dominance vs affiliation paradigms, sex differences; 93Z5422 strategic communication theory, R. E. Sanders's Cognitive Foundations of Calculated Speech: Controlling Understandings in Conversation and Persuasion; critique/reply; 93Z5397
stratification/self-location image, successive social interactions' role, formal theory; 93Z5153
structure, theoretical reformulation; 93Z4184
"structures of housing provision" concept, rhetorical problems; 93Z5313
subject-object differentiation/cognitive development, children, Jean Piaget's theory vs interactionist constructivism; 93Z4196
systems theories/modernization, Ivan Mucha's work critiqued; 93Z4172
terrorism, political violence research integration; 93Z6567
terrorism; case examples, Hiroshima, Japan, Rotterdam, Netherlands; 93Z6568
theoretical parallels, George H. Mead/Thorstein Veblen; 93Z4144 theory development/change, biomedicine; cardiological case study; angina pectoris; 93Z5713
Toba Pentecostalism, Argentina, theoretical models; 93Z5612
underclass concept, questionable assumptions/symbolic power; 93Z5180
urban research, Latin America; 93Z5324
urban self-management, goals/impacts; illustrative examples; Chile/Peru/Mexico; 93Z5349
US legal system interpretation, rhetorical deconstruction project, Stanley Fish's work; 93Z4168
values-needs link; 93Z4192
visual sociology, underlying assumption; 93Z6685
wage differential determination, efficiency wage theory; 1952-1988 data sets; Netherlands; 93Z4197
war making-state building relationship, institutional theory of war; 93Z4627
"weak thought," contemporary French poststructuralism; 93Z4323
Weber, Max, methodological approaches; 93Z4143
Weber, Max, Protestant ethic/Calvinism interpretations, Malcom H. MacKinnon's challenge; critical comment; 93Z5613
white-collar crime, Millsian-based sociology of elite deviance perspective; 93Z6336
Williams, Raymond, cultural studies; article/comment; 93Z6404

Theories

paradigms of belief/theory/metatheory; reply; 93Z3941
political preferences, cultural vs rational choice theories; 93Z5036
social events/development, thermodynamics perspective, open vs ordered societies; 93Z4180

Theory Formation

The Foundations of Social Theory by James S. Coleman; review symposium/reply; 93Z4206
human resource management, theory development/presentation problems; 93Z4661
human resource management, theory development; 93Z4670
industrial sociology, theoretical/methodological development, paradigm shifts; 93Z4660
structure, theoretical reformulation; 93Z4184

Theory Practice Relationship

alcoholic women, social work practice, theoretical frameworks; 93Z6251
Castells, Manuel, housing/urban political theories; 93Z4155
critical theory, Jürgen Habermas's work; 93Z4158
ethnomethodology theory/practice; 93Z3949
human resource management, theory development; 93Z4670
journalistic racism; book-review essay; 93Z4905
nonprofit-funding environment relations, theory/applications; 93Z4679
planning theory, feminist theory's contributions; 93Z6590
postmodern anthropology, descriptive/practice modes; 93Z3930
postmodernism, political aspects; 93Z6425
science practice, boundary demarcation, rhetorical negotiation; literature review; illustrative example; 93Z5724
social scientific knowledge, practical applications; 5-chapter overview; 93c01687
sociology, nature/practice, South Africa; comment/responses; 93Z4115
theory-practice relationship, postmodernism; 93Z4166
theory/practice question, Jürgen Habermas's work; 2-book review essay; 93Z3925

Thinking

heuristic/bias similarities, theoretical/everyday thinking; 93Z3931
social issue beliefs/opinions, reasoned argument process; education/other variables; interviews; residents, New York City; 93Z4332

Threat

nuclear threat perceptions/antinuclear activism, college students; 1984-1986 multinational scale data; 93Z4841

Time
Being and Time by Martin Heidegger, Buddhist critique; 93Z6430
domestic division of labor; marital power/sex-role attitudes/time constraints; 1986 Australian survey data; 93Z5941
event-based concept of strategic time, new organizational strategy perspective; 93Z6465
human temporality, naturalistic/hierarchical theory; 93Z6400
lax treatment of time, Kelantanese peasants, heightened cultural awareness/identity; 93Z4495
modern society/technology, evolution, time/space roles; 93Z4479
modern time experience, technology connection, social theory implications; 93Z4121
reading/viewing, temporal dimension, texts/images/films; 93Z5378
social psychology, time-centered perspective; 93Z4171
social theory, social time concept applied; 93Z4177
standard time establishment, turn-of-the century US; 93Z4178
task orientation notion, preindustrial societies' adoption, historians' misinterpretation; 93Z4597
temporal perspectives/aging attitudes, adults ages 19-83; interview data; 93Z6311
temporality, philosophical approaches; special issue introduction; 93Z4156
temporality, Sigmund Freud's dream interpretations; 93Z4145
temporality-linguistics relationship, poststructuralist/-modern thought; 93Z5381
temporalized sociology, theoretical underpinnings; 93Z4125
time, masculine/feminine perspectives, Mary O'Brien's/Luce Irigaray's works; 93Z4132
time, modern memory theories, phenomenological perspective; 93Z4124

Time Periods
criminal court outcomes, male vs female offenders, Middlesex County, Ontario, 1871-1920; 93Z5663

Time Series Analysis
event count data, sociological analysis, generalized quasi-likelihood estimation proposed; 93Z3979
mortality-unemployment relationship, aggregate time-series regression models critiqued; 93Z6183
plea bargaining practices; court caseloads; 1968-1983 time-series data; El Paso, Texas; 93Z5634
time-aggregation bias minimization, hazard-rate models with covariates; 93Z3995

Time Utilization
clocks' domination, industrial society, mid-20th-century literary challenge; 93Z4489
lax treatment of time, Kelantanese peasants, heightened cultural awareness/identity; 93Z4495
spare-time use/well-being perceptions, black youth, South Africa; 93Z6457
weaving, semiotic interpretation; case study; Barabanki, India; 93Z4532
working on Sunday, French debate; 93Z4555

de Tocqueville, Alexis Charles Henri Maurice Clerel
early American national character, Puritans' religious influence, Alexis de Tocqueville's views; 93Z4068

Tolerance
behavior toward strangers, religious affiliation constraints; prisoner's dilemma, Utah/Oregon; 93Z5588

Tonga
decentered family, overseas migration's effect, Tonga; interview/survey data; 93Z4524

Toronto, Ontario
day care centers' founding/failure rate, Toronto, Ontario; population/relational density; 1971-1989 statistical data; 93Z4648
Jewish mother-headed one-parent families, Toronto, Ontario; 1987 interview data; 93Z6022
neighborliness/socializing/residential satisfaction, German/Spanish immigrants, Toronto, Ontario; questionnaire data; 93Z4387

Totalitarianism
Soviet political pathology's origin, fundamental premise of Marxism; 93Z5035
Soviet society, scholarly conceptions, civilizational factors of Russian history; 93Z4465

Tourism
ethnic tourism/division of labor; fieldwork data; tourists, San Cristóbal, Mexico; 93Z4931
international air tourist arrivals, Orlando, Florida; terrorism/seasonality factors; empirical data; 93Z4924
motivation differences, repeat/first-time/nonvisitors, Lower Rio Grande Valley, Texas; questionnaire data; 93Z4923
tourism's economic impact, South Pacific island microstates; 93Z4927
tourism, environmental impact; 93Z4930
tourist destination attractiveness ranking; cross-national questionnaire data; tourists, tourism-related business; 93Z3998
tourist roles; 1989 interview data; university students, Connecticut; 93Z4932

Towns
Asian vs black/Hispanic electoral success, US city councils; 1986 government survey; 93Z5008
labor force participation; individual characteristics/local job opportunities; questionnaire data; Israeli households; 93Z4550
municipal vs national elections, Spain, 1979-1991; aggregate data; 93Z5017
antiremoval struggle, Oukasie township, Johannesburg, South Africa, 93Z5078
small town growth/economic reorganization, concomitant problems, US; case study; Carlisle, Pennsylvania; 93Z5358

Toxic Substances
low-level radioactive waste, state disposal siting responsibilities, US, 93Z6500

Trade
Canada-US free trade agreement, Brian Mulroney's change of opinion, financial capital theory/power balance model explanation; 93Z4995
economic relations/exchange, transition context, provincial Russia, 1990 observations; 93Z4474
maquiladora plants, Mexico/US impacts; illustrative examples; El Paso, Texas/Ciudad Juarez, Mexico; 93Z4724
Mexican agriculture, Mexico-US Free Trade Agreement's possible effects; 93Z4558
Mexican agriculture, Mexico-US Free Trade Agreement's potential impact; 93Z4966
Mexican maquiladora industry, Mexico-US-Canada Free Trade Agreement's effects; statistical data; 93Z4974
Mexico-US Free Trade Agreement, Mexicans'/Eastern Europeans' views; interviews; 1990/91; 93Z5001
Mexico-US Free Trade Agreement, potential effects, Mexico, 93Z4994
Mexico-US Free Trade Agreement, potential negative impact, Mexico, 93Z5003
mode of exchange, economic concept, English/Japanese commercial development; 93Z4800
regional commerce, Latin America, Uruguayan participation; 1983-1988 statistics; 93Z4964
trade-foreign investment-migration relationship; 1991 seminar; 93Z5795
US/Mexico border states, cultural/social/economic ties; 1900-1990 statistical data; 93Z6443
working conditions maquiladora plants, Tijuana/Ciudad Juarez, Mexico; Free Trade Agreement impact; 1991 government survey data, 93Z4704

Traditional Medicine
demonism practice, Sri Lankan Sinhalas, Christianity's influence, 93Z6414 excision (female circumcision), European criminalization vs traditional African value systems; 1989 French court case; 93Z4521
folk healing practices, rural France; interview data; 93Z5570 health practices/family planning, rural Tamil Nadu; ethnomedical beliefs; participant observation, interviews; traditional birth assistants, 93Z6075
pharmaceutical availability, Uganda; health service privatization; fieldwork data; 93Z6196

Traditional Societies
agricultural practices, single women, Peruvian indigenous people; interview data; Amuesha (Yanesha) women; 93Z4536
Catholic confession/penance, Spanish colonial Mexico, Nahua natives' autobiographical self-reconstruction; 93Z5574
colonial discourse, weapon of white domination/native resistance, illustrative example, Latin American Nahuas; 93Z4528
cooperative work organization vs contractual wage labor, Orissa, India; 1979-1988 fieldwork; 93Z4594
development initiatives, traditional agriculture villages, Thailand; case studies; observational/interview data; 93Z5274

ethnographic photography, Brazilian Indian tribe; 93Z6679
fertility change, Gainj population, Papua New Guinea; development; fieldwork; 93Z4527
Hindu mother-goddess Kālī worship, Calcutta, India; 93Z4537
household wealth differences, 1984 drought's effects, Ariaal pastoralists, Kenya; 1976-1985 livestock counts/informant statements; 93Z5261
illness coping, use of cultural meaning systems, highland Ecuador; case studies; 93Z4287
Maghreb societies, Western anthropological approach critiqued; illustrative example; matrimonial behaviors; 93Z4522
minority/immigrant groups, Finnish attitudes/behaviors; case studies; 93Z4379
Native Americans, literary production/new movement; 93Z4427
New Zealand Maori, poverty/family/health issues; literature review, interviews; 93Z5945
religion-culture relationship, traditional vs modern societies; 93Z5594
residential/economic units, Herero ranchers, Botswana; 93Z4525
Saami reindeer owners, northern Norway, stereotype creation/maintenance; 93Z4244
Sahrawi women, liberation struggle participation, western Sahara; 93Z4849
symbolic sexual violence meanings, Tukanoan rituals, Colombia; 1968-1970 fieldwork data; 93Z6375
talk/interactions, Tai-Lue (Thailand) village, cultural aspects, ethnographic perspective; 93Z5390
talk/language as cultural artifacts, Ilokano (Philippines); verbal interaction data; 93Z5395
task orientation notion, preindustrial societies' adoption, historians' misinterpretation; 93Z4597
transition to settled villages, !Kung San people, Botswana; 1980s fieldwork; 93Z4520

Traditionalism
education, Solomon Islands, traditional vs Western models, social change effects; fieldwork/other data; 93Z5514
local education, Pulapese, Chuuk State (Micronesia), Western/traditional model amalgamation; 1979/80 field data; 93Z5446
modern urban development, traditional cultural heritage/international cultural transfer influence, People's Republic of China; 93Z5347
traditional beliefs/religious discrimination, Chinese immigrants, post-1850s US; case examples; 93Z5537 traditional vs postmodern marriage/family spheres; 93Z5949

Traditions
Chinese fishing families, traditional behavior models, family therapy implications; fieldwork data; 93Z5937
motherhood, Quebec, historical images/realities; secondary data; 93Z6063
work-role traditionality, men/women, US; literature review; 93Z4753

Traffic
traffic risk perception study, judgment/decision-making psychology research's implications; 93Z6520

Training
post-WWII agricultural changes, adult education impacts, France; 93Z5197
science-technology-society instruction, inservice model, Iowa; 93Z4028
tribal/state service providers, Indian child welfare training program, western Washington; program evaluation data; 93Z6357

Translation
Roman Catholic catechism, 16th-century indigenous language translation, Guatemala; historical documents, fieldwork data; 93Z5449

Transportation
Mexico City, 1987-1989 academic publications; 93Z5323
Swedish innovative bicycle failure, 1980s; consumer survey; 93Z5744
transportation-air pollution links, Mexico City; book review essay; 93Z5342 voluntary community transportation organizations, GB, decision-making processes; comparative case study; 93Z4680

Transsexualism
male cross-gender behavior, acaults, Myanmar (Burma), Buddhist spirit god beliefs; observational/interview data; 93Z6607
male transsexualism, psychoanalytic theory challenge; vignettes; 93Z5922

Transvestism
male cross-gender behavior, acaults, Myanmar (Burma), Buddhist spirit god beliefs; observational/interview data; 93Z6607

Treaties
maquiladora plants, Mexico/US impacts; illustrative examples; El Paso, Texas/Ciudad Juarez, Mexico; 93Z4724
Mexican agriculture, Mexico-US Free Trade Agreement's possible effects; 93Z4558
Mexican agriculture, Mexico-US Free Trade Agreement's potential impact; 93Z4966
Mexican maquiladora industry, Mexico-US-Canada Free Trade Agreement's effects; statistical data; 93Z4974
Mexico-US Free Trade Agreement, Mexicans'/Eastern Europeans' views; interviews; 1990/91; 93Z5001
Mexico-US Free Trade Agreement, potential effects, Mexico; 93Z4994
Mexico-US Free Trade Agreement, potential negative impact, Mexico; 93Z5003
northern frontier region, Mexico, Mexico-US-Canada Free Trade Agreement's potential effects; 93Z5002
US/Mexico border states, cultural/social/economic ties; 1900-1990 statistical data; 93Z6443 working conditions maquiladora plants, Tijuana/Ciudad Juarez, Mexico; Free Trade Agreement impact; 1991 government survey data; 93Z4704

Treatment
children with human immunodeficiency virus/acquired immune deficiency syndrome, clinical treatment/drug testing, ethical issues; 93Z6152
community treatment order debate, England/Wales, historical development; 93Z6217 cultural geography concepts, social science of health care application, therapeutic locations; 93Z6502
drug abuse, national policy failure, US; 93Z6281
drug user treatment counselors, backgrounds/roles; literature review; 93Z6286
social class-patient treatment attitudes, physicians, health care implications; 1962/1987 questionnaire data; 93Z6113

Treatment Compliance
mentally ill, deviance severity/treatment compliance; childhood/adult social bonds; survey; outpatients, community mental health center; 93Z6228

Treatment Methods
alcoholism/social adjustment, Chinese male immigrants, New York City; case studies; 93Z6254
breast cancer treatments, sexual side effects; 93Z6142
drug/alcohol treatment, disease-oriented vs self-efficacy vs no therapy approaches; 93Z6279
end-of-life medical treatment decisions, advance directions; literature review, interviews; Ohio; 93Z6098
family therapy model, cognitive restructuring innovation; 93Z6027 female infertility treatment, feminist perspective; 93Z6593
pediatric acquired immune deficiency syndrome, treatment strategies; case study; New York City; 93Z6193
postdisaster psychiatric case management; case study; organic brain damage patient, Hillsborough (England) football stadium disaster; 93Z6531
social phobia/avoidant personality disorder, diagnosis/treatment issues; literature review; 93Z6230

Treatment Programs
acquired immune deficiency syndrome, drug user treatment implications; 93Z6119
cocaine addiction, group relapse prevention program;; 93Z6274
drug/alcohol treatment, disease-oriented vs self-efficacy vs no therapy approaches; 93Z6279
methadone maintenance treatment responsiveness, heroin addicts, gender/ethnic differences; interview data; California; 93Z6267
offenders, community treatment; case study; GB; 93Z5679
risk taking/perception/management, intravenous drug users; street-based ethnographic research, survey data; Massachusetts drug treatment facilities; 93Z6122
sexual disorders, sexoanalysis treatment; clinical case study; 93Z5927
social intervention impacts, multimethod assessment; illustrative example; methadone maintenance treatment, heroin addicts, California; 93Z6249
substance abuse treatment programs, women clients' treatment needs; life histories; Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York; 93Z6287
treatment effectiveness, alcohol problems, evaluation research; 93Z6280 wife batterers, court-mandated counseling; interview survey; staff, batterer programs; 93Z6373

Trends affirmative action's future, possible alternatives, US; 93Z4424
affirmative action's future, possible alternatives, US; comments/response; 93Z4434
African literary critique, trends/themes; 93Z5420
aging trends, US; 93Z6298
cohabitation relationships, partners' characteristics, Australia; 1981/1991 interview data; 93Z5971

community studies, English-language bibliographies; literature review; 93Z6448
current research projects, Flemish sociologists; 93Z4116
elderly suicide rates; 1988 mortality statistics; 93Z6306
emigration trends, Commonwealth of Independent States; opinion polls/official predictions; 93Z5809
fashion communication functions, Western society; 9-chapter sociological analysis; 93c01668
historical immigration trends, US, contemporary European implications; literature review; 93Z5761
late-life divorce incidence/impacts; national survey/census data, 1974-1988; 93Z5973
marriage age trends, Indian females, 1921-1987; census/interview data; Rajasthan state; 93Z6004
national crime rate trends, postwar Japan, integrated theory perspective; 1954-1988 time-series data; 93Z6332
occupational mobility projections, US, present-2000; 93Z4631
race-housing relationship, GB, 1980s; 93Z4401
rural repopulation trends, Northern Ireland; secondary data; 93Z5812
sociological theory/research advances, 1980s; 93Z4084
work meaning changes, 1982-1989, US; interviews; 93Z4566
work meanings, changing trends, German labor force; 1982/1989 interview data; 93Z4604 worldwide political/economic transformation, US foreign aid strategies, 1950s-1990s; 93Z4763

Trials
academic expert testimony, new religious movement trials, ethical/professional questions; 93Z4864
competency to stand trial decisions, criminal court-mental health practitioner interactions, district courts; interview/other data; 93Z5662
postmodernism's subjectivity/cultural logic, implication for law practice; case study; John Hinkley's 1981 assassination attempt trial; 93Z4480

Trinidad and Tobago
labor history, Trinidad/Tobago, 1937-1990; documentary/archival data; 93Z4583

Troeltsch, Ernst
Christianity's origins, Friedrich Engels's/Max Weber's/Ernst Troeltsch's writings; 93Z5605
sociology of religion, literature-sociology links; 4-book review essay; 93Z4094

Truancy
school attendance/truancy, sociohistorical account, UK; 93Z5452 truancy-drug use-HIV (human immunodeficiency virus) knowledge relationship, British teenagers; questionnaire data; 93Z5888

Trust
mass media credibility determination; viewer's group identification; interview data; 93Z4887

Truth
human rights, modern discourse; 93Z5628
truth, postmodern social science, T. R. Young critiqued; 93Z6427

Turkey housing cooperatives, Turkey; 1984 survey; officials; 93Z5319
nationalism/ethnic rivalry, Armenian community, Ottoman Turkey, early-20th century; 93Z5131
racist attitudes, male youth of German/Turkish parentage, Berlin, Federal Republic of Germany; interviews; 93Z4422

Turn of the Century
Belgian immigration rates, pre-WWI US; historical survey; 93Z5788
British repatriation policies/practices, Eastern European Jewish immigrants, 1881-1914; 93Z5786
evangelical propaganda, turn-of-the-century Methodist missionaries, Solomon Islands; photographs/documentation; 93Z5600
governance development, 1992-2002, US; 93Z5046
individualist worldview development, late 19th-early 20th-century Finland; temperance movement ideology; 93Z4836
marriage/migratory patterns, Italian emigrants, Rosario, Argentina; 1870-1914 census data; 93Z6025
mass strikes for universal suffrage, socialist political reform strategy, turn-of-the-century Belgium; 93Z4860
national identity, public schooling's impact, 19th-century Canada; 93Z5466
southern vs eastern European emigrants, US; 1910 steamship passenger lists; 93Z5781
standard time establishment, turn-of-the century US; 93Z4178
wheatlands, 1890-1914 mechanization/economic development, Argentina vs Canada; 93Z5728
youth family influence patterns, post-1900 changes; secondary questionnaire data; former West Germany; 93Z6013

Twentieth Century
adolescent behavior, Dutch research/theory; 93Z5849
clocks' domination, industrial society, mid-20th-century literary challenge; 93Z4489
educational reform, Venezuela, 1960-present; 93Z5493
endogamy/exogamy, ethnic immigrant groups, Guatraché, La Pampa, Argentina; 1910-1939 census data; 93Z5995
fertility, black/white 1905-1954 birth cohorts, US; cohort size; time-series data; 93Z6061
historical science, 20th-century crisis; 93Z6405
Indian immigrant behavior/adaptation, Australia, 19th century-present; 93Z5219
low-caste protest movement, 19th-/20th-century Maharashtra, India; 93Z4842
medical service, 18th-/20th-century English prisons, history/consolidation; 93Z5694
nationality, European racial purity, social construction, 18th-century colonial North America/20th-century GB; 93Z4502
Protestant ethic, popular humor, capitalist society, late 19th-early 20th centuries; content analysis; 93Z5541
Soviet emigration patterns, 1990s; government statistics; 93Z5785
tattoos, communication content changes, 20th-century Hungary; 93Z4299
violence, US prisons, historical/structural/cultural contexts; 93Z5693
year 1968, twentieth-anniversary recollections, "mythologizers"; 93Z4859
youth family influence patterns, post-1900 changes; secondary questionnaire data; former West Germany; 93Z6013

Typology
homeless shelter residents, drug abuse/mental illness history; interviews; New York City; 93Z6553
motherhood, feminist thought typology; 93Z6060

Uganda
pharmaceutical availability, Uganda; health service privatization; fieldwork data; 93Z6196
rural settlement, associated environmental problems; Uganda, 1972-1989; 93Z5037

Ukraine
Ukrainian Greek Catholic church, contemporary Russia; 93Z5529

Underclass
underclass concept, questionable assumptions/symbolic power; 93Z5180
underclass debate, US inner cities; book review essay; 93Z4380
urban underclass/poverty, US; book review symposium; 93Z5363

Underemployment
long-term unemployed, social polarization, kinship/friendship patterns, interviews; husbands, Hartlepool, England; 93Z4593
youth un-/underemployment, psychological impacts, longitudinal research attrition rate; questionnaire data; Adelaide, Australian school leavers; 93Z4613

Undergraduate Programs
visual sociology, undergraduate course; personal teaching experience; 93Z6683

Undergraduate Students
acquired immune deficiency syndrome stigma, social interaction; means of transmission/risk knowledge/gender; survey data; undergraduates; 93Z6153
attitude shifts toward mentally retarded people, 1975-1988; scale data; undergraduates, University of Victoria, British Columbia; 93Z4874
classical liberalism incorporation, undergraduate social theory courses, 93Z4023
computer anxiety, cross-cultural differences; scale data; undergraduates, Los Angeles (California)/Hunan (People's Republic of China); 93Z4004
conformity, response alteration, perceived social disagreement; experiment data; undergraduate students; 93Z4235
female aggression; gender-role masculinity; experimental/questionnaire data; undergraduates; 93Z6626
injustice, situational variables, behavioral responses; scale data; undergraduates, US; 93Z4257
lonely persons, self-/others' perceptions, social stigma view; scale data, undergraduates, Lakehead University, Ontario; 93Z4289
parent-adolescent communication problems, adolescents' perceptions; questionnaire data; southwestern US undergraduates; 93Z5896
parental divorce/family conflict/friendship network relationships, divorced/intact families; questionnaire; undergraduates, state university; 93Z5983

self-/other evaluation complementarity, romantic relationships; questionnaire data; undergraduates; 93Z4284
sociological research, undergraduate library use instruction; 93Z4024
undergraduate students' expectancies/persistence relationship; questionnaire/school record data; midwestern US; 93Z5424
work ethic, undergraduate university students, South Africa; scale data; 93Z4867

Undocumented Immigrants
Mexican migration/border region dynamics, San Diego County (California) residents' perceptions; 1980-1990 census/other data; 93Z6438
undocumented immigration, US; 1986 Immigration/Reform Act; empirical data; 93Z5775

Unemployment capitalist systems, government role, economic/political/social impacts; 1974-1981 statistical data; 93Z4828
imprisonment rate changes, 1948-1985 US; unemployment/inflation; time-series data; 93Z5682
Israeli unemployment levels; Arab guest workers; government statistical/other data; 1970-1986; 93Z4757 job changing/loss, youth labor market, Ireland; longitudinal interview data; 93Z4556
job loss resistance/acquiescence, trade unions; case studies; automobile manufacturing plants, GB; 93Z4570
long-term unemployed, social polarization, kinship/friendship patterns; interviews; husbands, Hartlepool, England; 93Z4593
nonworking poor, political/policy dimensions, US; 11-chapter discussion; 93c01680
outplacement candidates, job loss/career change experiences, grounded theory approach; interviews; UK; 93Z4730
political acquiescence vs protest, unemployment; empirical data; 1930 vs 1980s, GB; 93Z4549
unemployment rates, Italy, interpretive difficulties; 93Z5248
unemployment, Israel; economic/political factors; 1958-1986 government statistics; 93Z4731
unemployment, manager vs blue-collar worker experiences/views; interviews; unemployed clients, self-help agency, US; 93Z4752
unemployment, psychological impacts on marriage, psychoanalytic perspective; empirical data; marital therapy clients, London, England; 93Z6018
unemployment/unsatisfactory employment, psychological impacts, gender differences; longitudinal questionnaire data; school leavers, South Australia; 93Z5901
work involvement, unemployed, Norway; 1983/84 interviews; 93Z4755
youth un-/underemployment, psychological impacts, longitudinal research attrition rate; questionnaire data; Adelaide, Australian school leavers; 93Z4613

Unemployment Rates
mortality-unemployment relationship, aggregate time-series regression models critiqued; 93Z6183

Union of Soviet Socialist Republics
democracy/socialism, USSR, historical analysis; 2-book review essay; 93Z5081
doctoral thesis quality, information-based evaluation; test; chemistry theses, USSR; 93Z4012
emigration desire, Russian/Lithuanian residents; 1991 poll data; 93Z5767
forced emigration, refugee problem, USSR; statistical/other data; 93Z5814
historical development, cyclical processes, USSR; 93Z4762
Jewish emigration, USSR; sociopolitical conditions; 1989 survey data; 93Z5763
Judaism/Jewishness, USSR, ethnicity vs religion; 93Z5559
labor allocation/regulation, 1950s-1970s; People's Republic of China; 93Z4720
natural/technologically induced disasters, international economic impact, US/USSR examples; 93Z6523
perestroika, conceptual evolution, 1985-1990; 93Z4775
perestroika, social policy erosion, former USSR; 93Z4829
practicing sports, social risks, illustrative example; sports facility closures, post-Chernobyl USSR; 93Z4946
punishment, public preferences, Japan/US/Russia; legal culture; survey data; 93Z5649
rape/domestic violence, USSR; research/theoretical issues; 93Z6381
retirement/inheritance negotiation, elderly Alexanderwohl Mennonites, US capitalist vs Russian feudal systems; census/interview/other data; 93Z6305
social psychology, Russia/USSR; historical overview; 93Z4297
Soviet communism, Max Weber's views; 93Z4047
Soviet emigration patterns, 1990s; government statistics; 93Z5785
Soviet empire dissolution, nationalism issues; 11-chapter analysis; 93c01664
Soviet political pathology's origin, fundamental premise of Marxism; 93Z5035
Soviet society, scholarly conceptions, civilizational factors of Russian history; 93Z4465
Soviet-East European relations, postcommunist era; 9-essay collection; 93c01681
Soviet-type system, etacratistic nature; 1986 survey data; top Party functionaries; 93Z5093
state socialist societies' demise, future possibilities, Eastern Europe; 93Z4808
state-imposed educational reform, GB vs USSR; 93Z5480

Unionization
unionization determinants/regional patterns, rural US South; case study; United Furniture Workers; 1963-1982; 93Z5255

Unions
criminal defendants, public's moral evaluation; interview data; West Germany; 93Z4875
crisis/membership decline, manufacturing unions' responses, resource dependence model; survey/other data; 93Z4596
equal pay actions, union support, UK case data; 93Z4562
faculty union elections, Universidad Nacional Autónoma de México; 1980-1987 case studies; 93Z5112
job loss resistance/acquiescence, trade unions; case studies; automobile manufacturing plants, GB; 93Z4570
labor control/paternalism, unionized/nonunionized companies, rural South; interviews; workers; 93Z4599
male/female earnings equality; union density; 1980 US Census data; 93Z4567 material-informational industrial transition, Brazil, union movement's role; 93Z4546 occupational health/safety regulation, GB vs Federal Republic of Germany; interview data; 93Z6461
technological innovations, labor/union response; 93Z4989
technological modernization, union movement impacts, Brazil; interview data; 93Z4545
trade union membership, Canada; 93Z4579
trade unionism; 1990 Australian Workplace Industrial Relations Survey; 93Z4565
union election outcomes; employer/union organizing tactics; questionnaire data; international union officials, US; 93Z4601
unionized industries, collective bargaining practices, post-Stroessner-era Paraguay; 1989/90 documentary/legislative/statistical data; 93Z5020
women's/minorities' union participation, white males' attitudes, regional differences; questionnaire data; midwestern/southeastern union members; 93Z4580

United Arab Emirates
labor immigration, Arab nations, post-1973 international oil embargo; 93Z5769

United Kingdom
British democracy/economy/sociology departments; interview; 93Z5098
career teachers, higher education, UK; interviews; 93Z5218
child welfare/law discourses, constructivist legal theory's treatment, UK; 93Z5636
education management, UK; literature review; 93Z5486
elderly people's situation, Devon (UK) vs Bosnia/Hercegovina (former Yugoslavia), 1990; 93Z5815
enterprising/consumer self-representation, thirtysomething television show, US; content analysis; UK broadcasts, 1989/90; 93Z4936
equal employment opportunity policies, success measurement, UK; 93Z5772
equal pay actions, union support, UK case data; 93Z4562
hidden curriculum, English classes, UK, systematic exploitation of blacks, fieldwork data; 93Z5451
HIV (human immunodeficiency syndrome) prevalence, UK, sociological research's educational contribution; 93Z6198
human immunodeficiency virus infection, problem perception; high-risk-group vs risky-behavior framing; questionnaire; university-level students, UK; 93Z4240
labor market flexibility, UK; extended book review essay; 93Z6674 labor market problems, skill shortages/deficiencies, continuing education policies, UK; empirical data; 93Z4571
modernization theories, 1960s/1970s, West Germany/UK/US; literature review; 93Z4788
outplacement candidates, job loss/career change experiences, grounded theory approach; interviews; UK; 93Z4730
police/space/society interrelationships, UK/US; 93Z5671

race relations/multicultural education, UK; 93Z4428
recidivism prevention, new criminal justice philosophy, UK; 93Z5687
school attendance/truancy, sociohistorical account, UK; 93Z5452
sexual activities/preferences, youth ages 16-20, UK; questionnaire data; 93Z5905
welfare state development, judicial welfare's role, UK; 93Z5621

United Nations
disaster relief management, global database, World Health Organization; 93Z4006
immigration needs/projections, Europe; UN/other data; 93Z5771 international development organizations/aid sources; 1991 UN Committee on Aid for Development report; 93Z4782
international psychiatric epidemiology, World Health Organization studies, ethnographic corrective; 93Z6224
UN disaster relief system, inadequacies; illustrative examples; Ethiopia/Mozambique; 93Z6525
UN, Decade of International Law, goals/effectiveness; 93Z4962

United States of America
abortion rights movement, judicial role, US/Canadian comparison; 93Z6059
absenteeism correlates, 1st-year college students; questionnaire; midwestern US; 93Z5517
academic psychologists' job attainment, job rank/institutional prestige; published data; US; 93Z5220
acquired immune deficiency syndrome, knowledge/risk perception, US; 1988/89 survey data; 93Z6187
acquired immune deficiency syndrome, US public health response, lesbian/gay challenges; 93Z6179
acquired immune deficiency syndrome/human immunodeficiency virus portrayals, post-1985 introductory sociology textbooks, US; content analysis; 93Z4026
adoption criteria/process, local justice concept, US; 93Z6087
advocacy groups' emergence/development/political influence, US political system; 93Z5065
affirmative action's future, possible alternatives, US; 93Z4424
affirmative action's future, possible alternatives, US; comments/response; 93Z4434
affirmative action's future, possible alternatives, US; comments; 93Z4435
aging trends, US; 93Z6298
agricultural modernization, soil conservation practices, Southern Brazil; 1984 census data; 93Z5259 agriculture Extension staffing requirements, farm declines' impact, US; 1985 questionnaire data; freshmen university students; 93Z6341
America at Century's End, book review symposium; 93Z4208
American Jewish humor, Jewish singularity variation; 93Z4462
animal-human relations, archetypal historical categories; content analysis; tabloid press articles; 93Z4471
antifeminist countermovements, Canada/US; 93Z6596
antihomosexual attitudes, sociodemographic correlates; 1985 national survey data; US adults; 93Z6650
antipornography campaigns, 1980s, US vs England; 93Z4886
Asian vs black/Hispanic electoral success, US city councils; 1986 government survey; 93Z5008
athlete portrayals, gender differences, 1984/1988 summer Olympics, Canadian/US newspapers; content analysis; 93Z4953
attitudes toward egalitarianism/business/labor, professionals/managers/blue-collar workers, Australia/US; 1985 survey data; 93Z5178
attitudes toward military issues, demographic variations, US; 1982-1984 survey data; 93Z4618
automotive gas turbine engine research/development, US Chrysler Corporation, 1950-1980; 93Z5732
baseball's popularity, Japan, cultural reasons; 93Z4928
Belgian immigration rates, pre-WWI US; historical survey; 93Z5788
black labor force participation, rural US South; questionnaire/secondary data; 93Z5254 British/US television soap operas/romance genre films, portrayal of women; 2-book review essay; 93Z4939
burnout, social organizational roots, adolescent athletes, US; interview data; 93Z4945
Canada-US free trade agreement, Brian Mulroney's change of opinion, financial capital theory/power balance model explanation; 93Z4995
case-managed community based long-term care, quality assurance model; 1984/1989 records/interview data; case management program, Ohio; 93Z6385
"cease-fire" concept, mass media uses; case study; network news coverage, 1982 Lebanon war; 93Z4893
cheese making, women's role/status, England vs US, 1800-1930; 93Z5283
class bias, state electorates, policy consequences, US; 1984/1986 Census data; 93Z5057
class consciousness assessment, acquiescent response bias control method; attitude scale data; US/Canada/Norway/Sweden; 93Z3987
class perceptions, Western Europe/Asia/US; book review essay; 93Z5168
collective irrational behavior, alternative analytic methods; case studies; New Age movements, US; 93Z4916
communal group members' self-esteem; leader's charisma, ritual, collective effervescence; scale/other data; US cities; 93Z4254
communitarianism; roundtable discussion; 93Z5009
compulsive gambling, social/economic costs, US; 93Z6273
computer crime laws, US states, property rights bases; 93Z6330
conflict mediation, community-based US system vs Korean-Americans' informal process; interviews; Washington, DC; 93Z6387
congregational religious style-social world orientation relationship; 1987 survey; midwestern US church members; 93Z5583
conservatism crisis/ideological fragmentation, late-1980s US; 93Z5179
conservatism growth, US politics, 1950s-1980s; 6-chapter historical review; 93c01675
conservative self-identification, US youth; 1974-1986 national survey data; 93Z5076
conservative-liberal attitude shift, post-WWII US; 1972-1989 General Social Survey data; article/comments; 93Z4871
contingent (part-time/subcontracted) employment, US, policy issues; 93Z4564
corporal punishment, public support, US school system; religion/socioeconomic status; 1989 interview data; southern metropolitan area; 93Z5457
creativity, style/climate assessment approaches; inventory/questionnaire data; US; 93Z4578
critical theory/pragmatism, US vs Frankfurt school perspectives; 93Z4330
cross-cultural adaptation, communication's role, Asian Indians, US; secondary survey data; 93Z4907
cultural anthropologists' representations, US tabloid press; content analysis; 93Z4493
cultural boundaries for US product, Disneyland/DisneyWorld/Tokyo Disneyland/EuroDisney compared; 93Z4511
death, social construction, 1991 Gulf war; content analysis; New York Times stories; 93Z4644
decentered social institutions, US; book review essay; 93Z4213
democracy-market economy relationship, individual citizen's role, US; 93Z5114
demographic changes, Meso-America, 1950-1985, education/economy/migration impacts; 93Z5765
drug abuse prevention/education programs, postlegalization US, 93Z6259 drug abuse, juvenile detainees, US; longitudinal data; Tampa, Florida; 93Z6346
drug abuse, minority communities, US, legislation/policy issues; 93Z6256
drug abuse, national policy failure, US; 93Z6281
drug control policy, prohibition/legalization problems, US; 93Z5638
drug use prevention, US youth, marijuana legalization's negative implications; 93Z6255
drunk-driving automobile accidents, traffic safety interventions/other prevention approaches; 4-book review essay; 93Z5648
early American national character, Puritans' religious influence, Alexis de Tocqueville's views; 93Z4068
earnings gap, male vs female television writers; 1982-1990 career history data; US; 93Z4700
economic status, gender differences, US trends; statistical data; 93Z6615
economic/political/religious/nationalistic conflicts, German community, antebellum US; 93Z5794
ecophilosophy, individual vs community emphasis, US/Norway; 93Z6516
education system, US, reform agenda/obstacles; 93Z5442
educational selection, single-sex vs coeducational secondary schools, US; family/student factors; questionnaire/record/observational data; 93Z5473
elderly suicide, gender differences; literature review; North America/GB; 93Z6292 elite occupational pools/positions, women's representation, US; census/government data; 93Z6656
emotions, changing family structure's impact, US; interviews; dual-income couples; 93Z4247

employee commitment, conceptual/empirical distinctions; questionnaire; medical personnel, midwestern US; 93Z4736
enterprising/consumer self-representation, thirtysomething television show, US; content analysis; UK broadcasts, 1989/90; 93Z4936
equal opportunity climate, minorities/women, US Navy; 1970-1990 Navy Personnel Research & Development Center research; 93Z4638
equal opportunity, US military, evaluation instrument construction/testing; 93Z4621
equality/difference synthesis methods, 1920s feminists; implications for US welfare state; 93Z6591
ethnic identity, 4-book review essay; 93Z4256
ethnicity/adaptation, English-language bibliography; 93Z6272
European Economic Community's economic objectives, US competition/cooperation implications; 93Z4993 Europeanist anthropology's emergence, underlying causes/trends; literature review; 93Z4106
ex-President Dwight Eisenhower, US, leadership style; 93Z4312 family farm restructuring, US; illustrative example; dairy farms; 93Z5279
family services, federal government's role, US; 93Z5987
family structure disruption-violent victimization relationship, US; 1973-1984 General Social Survey data; 93Z6363 family structure/goal changes, US; book review symposium; 93Z6047
family, legal definition, US; legal case review; 93Z6035
family-focused services, national/community foundation grants, US; 1988/89 statistical data; 93Z5999
family/children's services, states' role, US; 93Z5963
feminist sociology, Third World nationalist/feminist politics' influence; 93Z6584
fertility, black/white 1905-1954 birth cohorts, US; cohort size; time-series data; 93Z6061 fertility, Mexican migrants vs Mexican-Americans vs non-Hispanics, US; gender inequality; 1980 census data; 93Z6078
fertility, Mexican-origin women, US; adaptation/assimilation/disruption; 1970/1980 census data; 93Z6085
fertility, seasonal variations, US; 1947-1980 official statistics; 93Z6083 filial responsibility, cross-cultural/-generational differences, Taiwanese/Chinese Americans/European Americans; survey; 93Z5980
film colorization, "paper entrepreneurialism" trend, 1980s US; 93Z5408
fiscal crisis, US states; personal experience; faculty members, University of Massachusetts; 93Z4760
foreign workers, labor force participation, 18th-20th century US; article/comment; 93Z4590
foster care/out-of-wedlock births, US clinical sociologist's potential interventions; 93Z6667
functionalist/critical perspectives, organizational studies; secondary data; 93Z4552
futures studies, origins/recent developments; 93Z6451
Garveyism, black nationalist movement, founder's wife Amy's role, US; biographical data; 93Z6571
general education, US; 3-book review essay; 93Z5500
gentrification, land-based interest groups' role; US census/other data; 93Z5338
gentrification, US cities, 1970-1980; political-economic/other variables; census/other data; 93Z5330
The Good Society by Robert Bellah et al; review symposium; 93Z4207
governance development, 1992-2002, US; 93Z5046
graffiti, Bergen, Norway; media-based US/UK cultural impact; survey data; 93Z4470 health insurance coverage decline, US; 1976-1991 national interview/census data; 93Z6139
hegemonic masculinity reproductions, US sports culture; content analysis, media representations, baseball player Nolan Ryan; 93Z4956 higher education expansion, 1870-1985, Germany/Italy/France/US/Japan; statistical data; 93Z5515
Highlander schools, southern US; five-book review essay; 93Z5441
historical immigration trends, US, contemporary European implications; literature review; 93Z5761
homelessness culture, US; 93Z6547
homosexual exclusion policy, US military, political/legal development; 93Z5931
homosexual "outing," media role, US; 93Z5909
human immunodeficiency virus/acquired immune deficiency syndrome, blinded/unlinked seroprevalence studies, ethical issues; 93Z6115
illegal drug control, US policy critiqued, decriminalization/legalization proposed; 93Z6278
illegal drug policy, US, public health perspective; 93Z6463
imprisonment rate changes, 1948-1985 US; unemployment/inflation; time-series data; 93Z5682
incarceration policy-crime rate link, 1970s/1980s, Texas/California/US; statistical data; 93Z5668
income attainment differentials, Asian vs native white males, US; 1960-1980 Census data; 93Z5156
independent sector organizations, status legitimation activities, US; 93Z4681 individual freedom vs common good, US; book review essay; 93Z4176 individualism increase, US, alternative hypothesis; 93Z4249 individualism/collectivism/gender-differentiated handling of students, Japanese vs US 5th-grade teachers; observational data; 93Z6622
industrial mobilization-military autonomy relationship, WWII-era US; critique/reply/rejoinder; 93Z5030 informal economy, advanced capitalist countries; 2-book review essay; 93Z4776
injustice, situational variables, behavioral responses; scale data; undergraduates, US; 93Z4257
intelligence function, democratic governments; 3-book review essay; 93Z4617
intercultural anxiety reduction, US college students, Morocco; intercultural contact; questionnaire data; 93Z4426
internal mangagement crisis, technocratic/bureaucratic elites, US; 93Z5182
international environmental policy, US/Canada, Great Lakes ecosystem; 93Z6510
interpersonal influence strategies, Winston Churchill-Franklin Roosevelt bases-for-destroyers exchange, 1940; 93Z4324
interracial homicide, macrostructural opportunity perspective; statistical data; US cities; 93Z6329
interstate return migration patterns, regional differences, 1975-1980; 1983 US Census data; 93Z5817
intradepartmental tensions/role shifts, US police departments; computer-based information technologies introduction; ethnographic fieldwork/interviews/other data; 93Z5685
Italian Catholicism, US, parish perspective; 1900-1910 parish-level data; Waterbury, Connecticut; 93Z5551
Japanese microbiological warfare experimentation, WWII-era China, US cover-up; 93Z4975
Jewish community participation, US; demographic size; census/statistical data; 93Z5591
Jewish identity maintenance, conversionary vs mixed marriages, US Jews; file data; 93Z4390
juvenile justice systems, US/Scotland/England/India/South Africa; 93Z6348 kinship conceptions, family models, European countries/US/Israel; 93Z5940 labor reserve, paid workforce inclusion, skill issues; 93Z4750
landscape photography, bourgeois political features, 19th-century US; discourse analysis; Nathan Farb's work; 93Z6681
leadership model, 21st-century US; illustrative examples; 93Z4310
legalism concepts, Japan vs US; 93Z6485
leisure, escape/separation motivations, US families; questionnaire; Iowa recreation center visitors; 93Z4933
life course theory/research, US/former West Germany; book review essay; 93Z5911
local labor market growth, 1950-1980, US; right-to-work legislation; published data; 93Z4576
low-intensity conflict policy/doctrine problems, US; literature review; 93Z4623
low-level radioactive waste, state disposal siting responsibilities, US; 93Z6500
male child preferences/selective abortion use, regulation issues, cross-cultural perspective; secondary research; India/South Korea/People's Republic of China; 93Z6079
male prostitution-by-choice, demographic/clinical/behavioral correlates; interview/questionnaire data; midwestern US; 93Z4314
male underrepresentation, female-dominated professions; interviews; urban US; 93Z5246
male/female earnings equality; union density; 1980 US Census data; 93Z4567
male/female psychiatrists, income differentials, US; 1982/83 survey/questionnaire data; 93Z5203
management's recruitment of temporary labor, contradictions/tensions; observational/interview data; US electronics firms operating in Ireland; 93Z4715
managing nuclear terror, public's response/civil defense strategies, US, 1945-1954; 93Z4637

maquiladora plants, Mexico/US impacts; illustrative examples; El Paso, Texas/Ciudad Juarez, Mexico; 93Z4724
married/single employed mothers, child care use patterns; 1987 national survey data; 93Z5982
mass consumption industries-Democratic party relationship, 1936 US presidential election; campaign contributions analysis; 93Z5116
mate seeking, mediated channels, involuntarily single persons, US; secondary data; 93Z5903
mathematical achievements, boys vs girls; individual-psychological/familial characteristics; self-report data; 5th/6th graders, US/Yugoslavia; 93Z5467
Mexican agriculture, Mexico-US Free Trade Agreement's possible effects; 93Z4558
Mexican agriculture, Mexico-US Free Trade Agreement's potential impact; 93Z4966
Mexican immigration, US; norteña music lyrics; article/critique; 93Z5409
Mexican maquiladora industry, Mexico-US-Canada Free Trade Agreement's effects; statistical data; 93Z4974
Mexico-US Free Trade Agreement, Mexicans'/Eastern Europeans' views; interviews; 1990/91; 93Z5001
Mexico-US Free Trade Agreement, potential effects, Mexico; 93Z4994
Mexico-US Free Trade Agreement, potential negative impact, Mexico; 93Z5003
military women, US policy debates; 1941-1985 Congressional testimony; 93Z4641
mode of exchange, economic concept, English/Japanese commercial development; 93Z4800
modern feminist movement, persistent conflicts/contradictions; 93Z6589
modernization theories, 1960s/1970s, West Germany/UK/US; literature review; 93Z4788
National Association of Scholars, campaign against political correctness; 93Z6397
national cultural identity, post-WWII Canada, Americanization impact; 1949 Massey Commission survey; 93Z4483
national identity perceptions, university students, US/Hungary/Bulgaria/Greece; survey data; 93Z5134
national service programs, US, humanist sociology's contributions; 93Z4689
nativism/political heresy, Protestantism's influence, US society/political organizations; 93Z5058
network television coverage, US political affairs, objectivity paradox; content analyses; US Senatorial coverage, 1972-1984; 93Z4898
"new journalism" movement, US/Germany; 93Z4888
nonprofit organizations, US, national trends; published data; 93Z4688
nonworking poor, political/policy dimensions, US; 11-chapter discussion; 93c01680
northern frontier region, Mexico, Mexico-US-Canada Free Trade Agreement's potential effects; 93Z5002
northern Mexico/US border region, research trends; bibliography; 93Z6445
nuclear policy, GB, US-UK relations impact; archival/other data; 93Z4985
nuclear threat perceptions/antinuclear activism, college students; 1984-1986 multinational scale data; 93Z4841
nurse-midwifery, antitrust law control, US; historical case study; 93Z5221
occupational change, 1950-1980, US; census data; 93Z5245
occupational gender desegregation, impacts on women, US, 1970s; case studies; 93Z6646
occupational mobility projections, US, present-2000; 93Z4631
old age definitions, historical perspective; literature review; 93Z6294
old age policy, social movement success, political mediation model, US; 1930-1950 state-level economic data; 93Z6288
old age/life course perceptions, cross-cultural variations; interview data; Hong Kong/US/Ireland/Botswana; 93Z4271
optimism rationale, current US situations, relocated Hungarian sociologist's perspective; 93Z4478
organized crime, competing paradigms, US research, 1920-present; empirical data; 93Z6337
organized crime, sociological study, US; 1918-1992 works; 93Z4082
parent-adolescent communication problems, adolescents' perceptions; questionnaire data; southwestern US undergraduates; 93Z5896
personnel reduction, voluntary separation incentive, US military; 93Z4615
pharmaceutical drugs, advertisement/promotion history, US; 93Z4910
police/space/society interrelationships, UK/US; 93Z5671
"political correctness" debate, US academe; 93Z4275
political cynicism, post-baby-boom generation Americans; 93Z5021
political geography, methodologies/education, US universities; 93Z6536
political party differences, US, 1950s-present; 4-book review essay; 93Z5118
political polling developments, US; 93Z4870
political power/parties, social class issues, US New Deal era, Theda Skocpol's state autonomy theory critiqued; article, comments; 93Z5031
post-1928 clinical sociology courses, US universities; 93Z6666
post-1938 emigration, Jews, Trieste, Italy; Benito Mussolini's anti-Semitic laws; personal correspondence, interviews; immigrants, US; 93Z5797
post-1965 immigrants, US, economic future; 93Z5779
post-Cold-war-era US, strengths/challenges; 93Z4834
post-high-school choices, men, US; 93Z6640
postenlistment outcomes, US Navy recruits; background characteristics; administrative data; male enlistees, 1978-1982; 93Z4620
postmodernism's subjectivity/cultural logic, implication for law practice; case study; John Hinkley's 1981 assassination attempt trial; 93Z4480
postmodernism-cultural imperialism relationship, social scientist's perspective; 93Z4051
potential antipoverty programs, US; 93Z6542
poverty alleviation policy, US workers, public attitudes; poll/national survey data; 93Z6455
poverty causes/cures, US debate; 10-chapter overview; 93c01663
premarital sexual behavior/attitudes, Chinese college students, US; acculturation; 1982 questionnaire data; 93Z5914
pretrial dispute resolution, US, privatization; 93Z6481
prison security officers' self/other/inmate perceptions; scale data; South Korea/midwestern US; 93Z5665
professional motivation, college professors, eastern US; interview data; 93Z5228 psychiatric-mental health nurses' career/activity/client characteristics, US; mail questionnaire survey; 93Z5199
psychiatry development, Victorian era-present, US/GB; 3-book review essay; 93Z6231
psychotherapy, feminization, US; 93Z6235
public housing/racial issues, US vs England; 93Z4370
public opinion-political culture/system relationship, US; 93Z5101
punishment, public preferences, Japan/US/Russia; legal culture; survey data; 93Z5649
quality of life perceptions; health behaviors/status; questionnaire/test data; US Navy personnel; 93Z6199
racial discrimination, US military personnel, redress issues, civilian vs military justice systems; court cases; 93Z4642
racial inequality-homicide rate relationship, US cities; Federal Bureau of Investigation homicide data, literature review; 93Z6328
racial inequality/bias perpetuation, mainstream films, US; illustrative examples; 93Z4412
racial/ethnic/gender integration, US federal agencies; demographic/organizational factors; 1982-1988 statistical data; 93Z4382
racism trends, young white adults, US; 1984-1990 General Social Survey/National Election Study data; 93Z4425
racism, synchronic nature, US/other nations; 93Z4423
racism, US, media reports vs survey data; 1972-1989 General Social Surveys; 93Z4406
racism/poverty causes, post-civil rights era, US; 93Z4397
radicalism/modernity; 2-book review symposium; 93Z5121
rating scales, extreme response style measurement; 1975-1987 survey data; US adults; 93Z3952
religiosity-deviance relationship; religious denomination; questionnaire; US undergraduates; 93Z5553
religious beliefs/moral values, Mormon vs other Christian congregations, US; questionnaire survey; church members; 93Z5569
retirement/inheritance negotiation, elderly Alexanderwohl Mennonites, US capitalist vs Russian feudal systems; census/interview/other data; 93Z6305
Rockefeller Foundation's 1921-1923 yellow fever campaign, Mexico; secondary data; 93Z6184
rural children, changing family composition/economic status, US; 1960-1980 census data; 93Z5278
rural communities, US; 13-chapter sociological analysis; 93c01671
rural economic changes, policy implications, 1970s/1980s US; 93Z5252
rural policy, industrialization's role, US; Marxist perspective; 93Z5308
rural poverty, problem definition, US social programs; 93Z6544
science, public confidence, gender differences, US; 1973-1989 General Social Survey data; 93Z5703

self-conception development, US vs People's Republic of China; cultural/social/political/psychological factors; 93Z4286
senior citizen nomination, US vice presidency, 1805-present; 93Z6303
senior managerial access/participation, gender influences, US public sector goverment bureaucracies; interview data; New York; 93Z6635
sexual harassment, US military personnel; racial/ethnic power differential; 1988 Department of Defense survey; 93Z4636
Shay's/Whiskey/Fries' rebellions, early US, theoretical connections; 93Z4840
shop-floor militancy, automobile industry, post-WWII decline; mass production automation; archival/interview data; 93Z4759 single black female-headed family formation, large US cities; 1980 census data; 93Z6014
small town growth/economic reorganization, concomitant problems, US; case study; Carlisle, Pennsylvania; 93Z5358
social action/evangelism/ecumenism; community/theological/church structural variables; 1986 survey; eastern/midwestern US congregations; 93Z5571
social ecology, European/US traditions; 93Z4139
social ills/radical individualism/weak civic commitment, US; 2-book review essay; 93Z4469
social protest success, William Gamson's work reevaluated; secondary empirical data; 93Z4845
social psychology, Japan, US influence; 93Z4270
social resources-occupational attainment relationship, Spain/US/Netherlands; survey data; 93Z5181
social science publishing, US, 18th century-present; 93Z4157
social support contingencies/functions, Polish immigrants, US; participant observation, questionnaire/interview data; 93Z4436
social support, adult siblings; 1987/88 national survey; 93Z6045
social work evolution/training, GB vs US; 93Z5226
sociodemographic/behavioral/other characteristics, US Jewry; 1990 national survey; 93Z4371 sociology discipline's future, US; 11-essay collection; 93c01674
sociology-criminology specialty link; 1992 Southern Sociological Association presidential address; 93Z4031
southern vs eastern European emigrants, US; 1910 steamship passenger lists; 93Z5781
spousal/child abuse, US military families stationed abroad, legal/institutional issues; 93Z6362
standard time establishment, turn-of-the century US; 93Z4178
stress/coping/health process, cultural differences, Taiwan/US; survey data; 93Z6233 student absenteeism/other characteristics, black vs white schools, US; High School & Beyond data set; 93Z5504 suicide, 1910-1920 US; WWI/prohibition/great influenza epidemic; census data; 93Z6107
suicide, long-term care facilities, US; institutional environmental factors; questionnaire; administrators; 93Z6103 suicide, media influences, Depression-era US; content analysis; New York Times stories; 93Z6106
suicide; country music; 1984/85 statistical data; urban whites; 93Z6239
Taiwanese students, pre- vs postarrival emotional well-being, US; scale data; 93Z4309
teenage pregnancy risk reduction program, scarce resource allocation, US; program data; Bamberg County, South Carolina; 93Z5877
television's role, 1989 overthrow, communist East Germany; interview data; journalists, US/East German networks; 93Z4851
Third World education, ethnocentric portrayals, introductory sociology textbooks; 1990/91 content analysis; 93Z4018
traditional beliefs/religious discrimination, Chinese immigrants, post-1850s US; case examples; 93Z5537
tubectomy acceptors, demographic/socioeconomic differences, Amritsar district, Punjab, India; interviews; 93Z6081
underclass debate, US inner cities; book review essay; 93Z4380
undocumented immigration, US; 1986 Immigration/Reform Act; empirical data; 93Z5775
unemployment, manager vs blue-collar worker experiences/views; interviews; unemployed clients, self-help agency, US; 93Z4752
union election outcomes; employer/union organizing tactics; questionnaire data; international union officials, US; 93Z4601
unionization determinants/regional patterns, rural US South; case study; United Furniture Workers; 1963-1982; 93Z5255
universal health care, rationing's role/justice, US; illustrative example; Oregon initiative; 93Z6120
unregulated private security, GB vs US/Belgium/France/New Zealand; 93Z5678
urban homelessness, US, conflict theory perspective; 93Z6554
urban sociology, postwar focus/themes; 93Z5334
urban underclass/poverty, US; book review symposium; 93Z5363
US airmail pickup system, commercial failure/military success, 1939-1949; 93Z5746
US Catholic church-capitalism relationship, nationalist ideology; 93Z5531
US correctional system, reform needs; 7-chapter discussion; 93c01669
US drug control policy critiqued, alternative proposed; 93Z6264
US drug policy, punitiveness critiqued/alternative approaches; 93Z5647
US drug problem, militaristic/punitive vs etiological approaches; 93Z5651
US drug problem; Washington, DC-Honduras support; 93Z4996
US drug use patterns, cultural context, policy implications; 93Z6268
US education, 21st-century projections; 93Z5437
US educational crisis, misleading assumptions; 93Z5445
US Gemini spacecraft paraglider landing system, innovation failure, 1961-1964; 93Z5740
US industrial relations; Japanese investment; questionnaire/interview/other data; southern California/Japanese factories; 93Z4733
US labor movement, future; 93Z4559
US labor movement; historical research review; 93Z4584
US legal system interpretation, rhetorical deconstruction project, Stanley Fish's work; 93Z4168
US males, 1990s, gender/workplace/other issues; 93Z6625
US mass media, elite power group model shift; 93Z4878
US media coverage of Cuba; content analysis; New York Times stories, 1982-1990; 93Z4982
US military, minorities'/women's access/retention; post-1970 Department of Defense data; 93Z4643
US military, racial/ethnic/gender issues; special journal issue introduction; 93Z4629
US news media, conservative nature; content analysis; network news programs; 93Z5123
US political culture/pragmatism, Federal Republic of Germany, postwar decades; 93Z5010
US psychiatry, sociological studies vs self-definition; 93Z6396
US society; immigrant ethnic/religious diversity; case study; 1880-1920 Hungarian Slovak immigrants, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania; 93Z5520
US suburb, historical evolution; literature review; 93Z6435
US welfare system, structural inequalities, conservative reform proposals; 93Z5124
US's global hegemonic role, 1990s; 93Z4810
US/Mexico border states, cultural/social/economic ties; 1900-1990 statistical data; 93Z6443
validated US election turnout, racial differences, blacks' voting overreporting; 1986-1988 national data; 93Z5004
vampire capitalism, US; 93Z4832
verbal/physical courtship violence, university students, US; survey data; 93Z6565
vigilantism, Canada vs US; illustrative examples; 93Z5631
violence, US prisons, historical/structural/cultural contexts; 93Z5693 voluntary association boards, member/community characteristics; mail survey/census data; US affiliates, Habitat for Humanity; 93Z4678
volunteer/family caregiving, US; book review symposium; 93Z6200
wage differences, salary vs commission payment systems, department store salespersons, US; 1981 survey data; 93Z4739
war on drugs policy, US, peace movement's potential impact; 93Z6250
welfare dependency/school dropout/violent crime/teenage pregnancy reduction, successful health/social service/educational programs, US/Canada; 93Z6543
wilderness, culturally constructed definition, capitalist US society; case study; Adirondack Mountains, New York; 93Z5350
women labor force participation-reproductive/child care behavior relationship, US; 1968-1983 national longitudinal survey data; 93Z4740
women's labor force participation, public opinion, (former) West Germany/GB/US; comparative analysis; 1988 international survey data; 93Z4695
work meaning changes, 1982-1989, US; interviews; 93Z4566
work-role traditionality, men/women, US; literature review; 93Z4753
work/family role stressors/strain, Korean-American dual-earner families; family resources/coping strategy; empirical data; 93Z5984
worker participation, productivity impacts, US; 93Z4728
working women, US, global capitalist economic restructuring context; 93Z6600 workplace talk, occupational relevance, conversation/culturally contexted discourse analysis role; dialogue samples; US airlines operations room employees; 93Z5370

worldwide political/economic transformation, US foreign aid strategies, 1950s-1990s; 93Z4763
United States Supreme Court abortion "gag rule" 1990/91, decision, US Supreme Court, social welfare program impact; 93Z5657
American Indian religiosity/free religious practice, US Supreme Court decisions' impact; 93Z5543
ethical medical practice, US Supreme Court (Nancy) Cruzan decision's impact; 93Z5239
life/death choices, US Supreme Court's 1990 decision, (Nancy) Cruzan case; 93Z4268
Universalism-Particularism
strangers, modern society, social construction; 93Z4126
Universities
Arab universities, goals/obstacles; 93Z5458
British university fiction, post-WWII; book review essay; 93Z5421
campus racism, American Indian students' experiences/perceptions; questionnaire data; midwestern US; 93Z4378
engineering job market, Cosenza, Italy; university establishment; questionnaires, interviews; 93Z4710
ethnic diversity, University of California, Berkeley, affirmative action/multiculturalism/demographic trends issues; 93Z5487 higher education development, Western concept transfer, Israel; historical analysis; 93Z5510
international relations, English school, theoretical issues; 3-book review essay; 93Z5000
political geography, methodologies/education, US universities; 93Z6536
post-1928 clinical sociology courses, US universities; 93Z6666
Refugee Studies Programme, University of Oxford; 93Z4439
research universities-national economic development relationship, Western society; 93Z5502
scientific discourse styles, Finnish universities, difficulties for students; 93Z5511
social science/language research productivity, Spanish universities; 1986-1988 publication data; 93Z5719
social sciences/humanities, degree types, Italian universities; 93Z5484
sociology internships, liability issues; personal supervision experience; 93Z4021
women's participation/representation, Flemish universities, Belgium; questionnaire data; 93Z5512
Unwed Mothers
foster care/out-of-wedlock births, US clinical sociologist's potential interventions; 93Z6667
Urban Areas
community activism, low-income urban mothers; 93Z4857
contraceptive method use/knowledge, Taiwanese women; interviews; health clinic patients, Taipei; 93Z6072
dropout, American-Indian urban secondary school students; interview data; 93Z5440
human immunodeficiency virus infection, urban social network; interviews; Colorado Springs, Colorado; 93Z6149
infant mortality, 19th-century Sheffield, England; social/geographic inequalities; official records; 93Z5818
informal sector, urban areas, Latin America, 1970s-present; 93Z4798
juridical systems, peripheral urban communities, Latin America; 93Z5312
male underrepresentation, female-dominated professions; interviews; urban US; 93Z5246
Mexico City, 1987-1989 academic publications; 93Z5323
modern society/technology, evolution, time/space roles; 93Z4479
neoliberal policies, regional/urban territory, Latin America; 93Z5090
new historicism, social sciences, implications for urban history; 93Z5355
occupational preference patterns, middle-class high school students, Bangalore, India; scale data; 93Z5846
poverty levels, rural/urban Bangladesh, estimation methodology; 1982-1986 survey data; 93Z6538
public space, social construction, urban areas; medieval Europe-present; 93Z5317
racial discrimination, labor market, urban Brazil; life histories, black workers, São Paulo; 93Z4414
racism/sectarianism, Northern Ireland; empirical data; Tottenham/West Belfast; 93Z4389
rental housing-owner occupation transition, Latin America; surveys; Mexican cities; 93Z5331
social behaviors/movements; urban spatial relations; theoretical discussion; 93Z6535
social movement emergence from community organizations vs masses; illustrative example; Mexico; 93Z5345
urban homelessness, US, conflict theory perspective; 93Z6554
urban land use, state/enterprises/society roles, Mexico City; book review essay; 93Z5353
urban network structure analysis, graph theoretic models' applicability; 93Z5335
urban problems, incomplete modernity's role, Mexican example; 93Z5326
urban systems/changes, postcommunist Eastern Europe; 93Z5344
urban underclass/poverty, US; book review symposium; 93Z5363
Urban Crime
crime-neighborhood characteristics link, offender mobility's role; police/municipal statistics; Utrecht, Netherlands; 93Z6324
Urban Decline
gentrification, US cities, 1970-1980; political-economic/other variables; census/other data; 93Z5330
urban gentrification, theoretical treatments compared; 93Z5362
Urban Development
decentralized urban land development, sequential programming model, 93Z5340
gentrification patterns, Lincoln Park neighborhoods, Chicago, Illinois; census data; 93Z5329
gentrification, accompanying material culture changes, Lincoln Park, Illinois; 1985/86 fieldwork; 93Z5351
gentrification, land-based interest groups' role; US census/other data, 93Z5338 gentrification, US cities, 1970-1980; political-economic/other variables; census/other data; 93Z5330
gentrification-black residential dislocation, Washington, DC; census data; 93Z5361
Latin American cities, crisis/problems/challenges; book review essay, 93Z5339
modern urban development, traditional cultural heritage/international cultural transfer influence, People's Republic of China; 93Z5347
urban gentrification, theoretical treatments compared; 93Z5362
urban planning, cultural differences, Tijuana, Mexico/San Diego, California; 93Z5333
US suburb, historical evolution; literature review; 93Z6435
Urban Policy
inner-city communities, GB, urban renewal policy; 93Z4408
urban concept, spatial/material world considerations; case study, Copenhagen, Denmark; 93Z5311
urban politics/planning, professional planners' role; illustrative example; Copenhagen, Denmark; 93Z5337
urban public housing reform, People's Republic of China; literature review, 1989 interview/other data; Tianjin; 93Z5321
Urban Population
city structure/spatial differentiation, social movements-dominant culture conflict; case studies; secondary data; 93Z5354
gentrification patterns, Lincoln Park neighborhoods, Chicago, Illinois, census data; 93Z5329
urban sociology, postwar focus/themes; 93Z5334
Urban Poverty
urban underclass/poverty, US; book review symposium; 93Z5363
Urban Renewal
gentrification, rent/value gap explanations; case study; Sweden; 93Z5322
inner-city communities, GB, urban renewal policy; 93Z4408
minority neighborhood regeneration policies, London vs Liverpool, England; 93Z5341 nntiremoval struggle, Oukasie township, Johannesburg, South Africa, 93Z5078
Urban Sociology
Castells, Manuel, housing/urban political theories; 93Z4155
Danish urban theory rejuvenation, international/interdisciplinary roots; 93Z5356
gentrification, land-based interest groups' role; US census/other data, 93Z5338
Mexico City, 1987-1989 academic publications; 93Z5323
social processes, relevance of space, theoretical approaches compared, 93Z5316
urban gentrification, theoretical treatments compared; 93Z5362
urban research, France, 1960s-present; literature review; 93Z5357
urban research, Latin America; 93Z5324
urban sociology, postwar focus/themes; 93Z5334
urban sociology/ecology, new paradigms; 93Z5332
Urban to Rural Migration migrant characteristics, 1980s urban-to-rural migration, Spain; interviews; 93Z5295
Urbanization

caste/occupational structure changes, urban peripheral villages; city functional type; interviews; households, India; 93Z5155
juridical systems, peripheral urban communities, Latin America; 93Z5312
structural disharmony/growth rates, Yugoslavia/Slovenia, suburbanization/excessive urbanization models; 1984-1991 questionnaire data; 93Z5359
urban self-management, goals/impacts; illustrative examples; Chile/Peru/Mexico; 93Z5349 urbanization, 18th-century France; comment; 93Z4232

Uruguay
regional commerce, Latin America, Uruguayan participation; 1983-1988 statistics; 93Z4964

Utah
behavior toward strangers, religious affiliation constraints; prisoner's dilemma, Utah/Oregon; 93Z5588
computer bulletin board partners, mechanomorphism process; questionnaire data; Salt Lake City, Utah; 93Z4293 physical activities, gender appropriateness, children's perceptions; index data; elementary school children, Utah; 93Z6643

Utilization
social science research, utilization strategies, control/power/conflict issues; 93Z3964

Validity
small sample analyses, validity problems, post hoc power analysis application; 93Z3954
survey data validity; unclear terms; telephone interviews; 93Z3951

Value Neutrality
rationality/value freedom, modern science; 93Z4334

Value Orientations
political correctness, changing social interpretation; 93Z6577
values-needs link; 93Z4192
work meanings, changing trends, German labor force; 1982/1989 interview data; 93Z4604

Values
conservative Protestant church/dual-earner family traditional norms conflict; 1989 interview/questionnaire data; church staff/members, Indiana; 93Z5544
cultural values, museums' role; 4-book review essay; 93Z5412
humans-wolves relationship, positive vs negative images, current studies vs historical documentation; 93Z6497
man, Max Weber's concept; 93Z4087
value, subject-object relationship; 93Z4193
values-needs link; 93Z4192
work meanings, comparative analytical approaches; cross-cultural data; 93Z4563

Variables
job performance research, unmeasured variables' importance, model development; 93Z5707
linear variable interrelationships, social sciences, estimation approaches; Monte Carlo simulations; 93Z3985
micro-macro link, integrative approach; 93Z3924

Variance (Statistics)
cross-validation's use, regression/covariance structure analysis; 93Z3980

Veblen, Thorstein Bunde
capitalism spirit/social psychological dimensions, Max Weber's/Thornstein Veblen's views; 93Z4830
theoretical parallels, George H. Mead/Thorstein Veblen; 93Z4144

Venereal Diseases
sex/acquired immune deficiency syndrome, attitudes/sexual behavior, Anglophone/Francophone Canadians; questionnaire data; 93Z5872
sexually transmitted diseases, associated sexual/alcohol/drug use behaviors; interviews; adults, San Francisco Bay area, California; 93Z5906
veneral disease-prostitution link, prerevolutionary China, Western medical community's impact; 93Z5912

Venezuela
educational reform, Venezuela, 1960-present; 93Z5493
Venezuela scientific community, erratic evolution; interview/other data; 93Z5718

Verbal Accounts
conversational interaction, wrongdoing ownership avoidance techniques; 93Z5366
criminal defendants, public's moral evaluation; interview data; West Germany; 93Z4875 criticism-giving techniques, work situations, multiple goals; case study, self-reports; 93Z5396
helplessness-explanatory style relationship; questionnaire/diary data; students/young adults, Ann Arbor, Michigan; 93Z4283 internal story structure, retellings/pretellings/hypothetical tellings, local context/social projects role; taped play interactions; children ages 4-14, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania; 93Z5375
justice, philosophical accounts vs social-psychological theory/research; literature review; 93Z4154
psychological symptoms, reporting differences, males vs females; 1986 survey data; Finland; 93Z6601
sexual harassment revelation, Anita Hill/US Supreme Court nominee Clarence Thomas case, sociological explanation; 93Z5632

Verbal Communication conversation, argumentative vs social cognitive perspective; recorded conversation; 93Z5364 internal story structure, retellings/pretellings/hypothetical tellings, local context/social projects rôle; taped play interactions; children ages 4-14, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania; 93Z5375
talk/language as cultural artifacts, Ilokano (Philippines); verbal interaction data; 93Z5395
telephone call, termination exchanges; response; 93Z4245 workplace talk, occupational relevance, conversation/culturally contexted discourse analysis role; dialogue samples; US airlines operations room employees; 93Z5370

Veterans
occupational attainment, Vietnam veterans; education; 93Z5145
socioeconomic status, young male veterans; 1964-1984 Mar Current Population Surveys; 93Z5194

Victim Offender Relations
rape case judgments; victim's/assailant's previous alcohol consumption; factorial experiment, vignettes/questionnaire; 93Z6379
rape's meaning, investigator-victim perspective; personal experience; 93Z6383
women's victimization, human rights declaration; 93Z6374

Victimization
crime victimization fears, North Carolina; demographic/victimization/perceptual variables; empirical data; 93Z6378
criminal victimization fear, subway patrons, New York City; 1988 survey data; 93Z6368
family structure disruption-violent victimization relationship, US; 1973-1984 General Social Survey data; 93Z6363 multiple/repeat crime victimization, policy/practice implications; literature review; 93Z6371
rape's meaning, investigator-victim perspective; personal experience; 93Z6383
rape, victimization patterns; 1979-1987 national survey data; 93Z6384
repeated sexual victimization, personal characteristics; literature review, 1983/84 interview data; Los Angeles, California; 93Z6380
women's victimization, human rights declaration; 93Z6374
working-class crime victimization, left-realist perspective, research issues; national survey; Canada; 93Z6377

Victimology
rape, victimization patterns; 1979-1987 national survey data; 93Z6384

Victims
bully/victim problems, middle school children, Yorkshire, England; questionnaire data; 93Z6365

Videotape Recordings
children's story processing, input medium effect; research review; 93Z4880

Vienna, Austria
Soviet Jews' heterogeneity, Vienna, Austria; interview/biographical data; 93Z4402

Vietnam
occupational attainment, Vietnam veterans; education; 93Z5145

Vietnam War
low-intensity conflict policy/doctrine problems, US; literature review; 93Z4623

Vigilantism
vigilantism, Canada vs US; illustrative examples; 93Z5631

Villages
caste/occupational structure changes, urban peripheral villages; city functional type; interviews; households, India; 93Z5155
development initiatives, traditional agriculture villages, Thailand; case studies; observational/interview data; 93Z5274
dispute resolution system, village courts, Papua New Guinea; 93Z5656
evangelical Protestantism conversions, Mayan village, Guatemalan highlands; field observations; 93Z5548
Pentecostalism's spread, rural migrants, Mexico City vs Puebla village, Mexico; field observations; 93Z5557

talk/interactions, Tai-Lue (Thailand) village, cultural aspects, ethnographic perspective; 93Z5390
technological innovation adoption, rural communities, social perspective; case studies; photoelectric solar energy panel introduction, villages, Senegal/Chad/central Africa/Spain; 93Z5750
transition to settled villages, !Kung San people, Botswana; 1980s fieldwork; 93Z4520
village demographic profiles, post-WWII/postcommunist changes, Czechoslovakia; monographical studies; 93Z6441
village studies tradition, Indian sociology; 93Z5286

Violence abusive teen dating relationships, research/policy implications; 93Z6376
aggression, attitudes/personal experiences, gender/ethnic differences; questionnaire data; college students; 93Z6560
circumcision/clitorectomy, structuralist/functionalist views; 93Z4541 dating violence, high school students, abusive/nonabusive households; questionnaire data; North Dakota; 93Z6564
family structure disruption-violent victimization relationship, US; 1973-1984 General Social Survey data; 93Z6363
male batterers, personality variables; Taylor-Johnson Temperament Analysis; convicted offenders; 93Z6557
male violence against women, Canada; literature review; 93Z6319
paternalism-violence relationship, South American maize farms, early 20th century; historical analysis; 93Z5304
Severity of Violence against Women Scale, 2 versions compared; empirical data; Dallas/Fort Worth, Texas; 93Z6562
symbolic sexual violence meanings, Tukanoan rituals, Colombia; 1968-1970 fieldwork data; 93Z6375
verbal/physical courtship violence, university students, US; survey data; 93Z6565
violence against women, global human rights agenda; 93Z6366
violence against women, pornography's influence, 1985 Meese Commission's report; comment/reply/rejoinder; 93Z6641
violence control, former West Germany; book review essay; 93Z4057
violence, US prisons, historical/structural/cultural contexts; 93Z5693
violent death risk; gender/age; 1950-1986 mortality statistics; Canada; 93Z6563

Virginia
divorced fathers, child custody/visitation/support, associated variables; questionnaire; Roanoke County, Virginia; 93Z5938
erroneous exit poll results; methodological problems; 1989 Virginia gubernatorial election; 93Z5110
surrogate motherhood, public attitudes; interview data; Roanoke Valley, Virginia; 93Z6088

Vision
social construction of sight, historical overview; 93Z6686
visual terminology, Arabic language; 93Z5369

Visitation
divorced fathers, child custody/visitation/support, associated variables; questionnaire; Roanoke County, Virginia; 93Z5938
female health visitors, socialization process, practice implications; 93Z6176

Visual Arts
culture systems parallel development, theory critiqued; 93Z5401
photojournalism vs photographic art, institutional boundaries; 93Z6684
physical artifacts' incorporation, sociological analyses; case study; 8th-century Buddhist sculpture, Japan; 93Z4458

Visual Sociology
ethnographic photography, Brazilian Indian tribe; 93Z6679
museum restoration, professional occupation; visual sociological study; 93Z5405
teaching students to see, visual sociology; 93Z6677
teaching visual sociology, Doshisha University, Japan; personal experiences; 93Z6682
visual sociology course, University of Amsterdam, Netherlands; 93Z6680
visual sociology, undergraduate course; personal teaching experience; 93Z6683
visual sociology, underlying assumption; 93Z6685
working class neighborhood, social/physical demise; photographs; Highland Park, Kentucky; 93Z6678

Vocational Education
apprenticeship/vocational training, former East/West Germany, postunification changes; 93Z5855
British economic problems, postwar era, vocational training's role; 93Z4812 catering/hotel management students, national diploma school, GB; participant observation; 93Z5495
customized labor training, workplaces; interviews; personnel directors, worker-students, trainers; 93Z4577
labor market problems, skill shortages/deficiencies, continuing education policies, UK; empirical data; 93Z4571
occupational preference patterns, middle-class high school students, Bangalore, India; scale data; 93Z5846 school persistence vs dropout; vocational/business course enrollment; 1982 High School & Beyond survey; 93Z5490 school-work transition, vocational training, Germany; longitudinal data; 93Z5889

Voluntarism acquired immune deficiency syndrome, government/voluntary sector response, GB vs Germany; 93Z6130
Between States and Markets: The Voluntary Sector in Comparative Perspective by R. Wuthnow (Ed); review essay; 93Z4687
nongovernmental organizations/voluntary sector, India; 93Z4686
nonprofit organizations, US, national trends; published data; 93Z4688
voluntary association boards, member/community characteristics; mail survey/census data; US affiliates, Habitat for Humanity; 93Z4678
voluntary community participation in schools, rationales/consequences, Australia; interview data; 93Z4684
voluntary organization population change analysis, aggregate/individual-level data roles, Norwegian research project; 93Z4667
volunteerism, self-vs other-regarding tendencies, spiritual aspect; literature review; 93Z4690

Volunteers
national service programs, US, humanist sociology's contributions; 93Z4689
volunteer/family caregiving, US; book review symposium; 93Z6200

Voters
1988 presidential hopefuls Jesse Jackson/Pat Robertson, white southern voters' support; religion; national survey data; 93Z5608
equilibria, multiparty systems, rational-choice model; 93Z5055
public opinion/voting behavior; 1980 Jimmy Carter-Ronald Reagan presidential debate; 1980 US National Election Study; 93Z5068

Voting
child care services financing, local taxes, public rejection, Fremont, California; exit poll/interview/other data; 93Z6470
equilibria, multiparty systems, rational-choice model; 93Z5055
erroneous exit poll results; methodological problems; 1989 Virginia gubernatorial election; 93Z5110
political affiliations/voting practices, rural residents, Spain; 1983/1988 surveys; 93Z5039

Voting Behavior
African-American voter turnout, socioeconomic/psychological/exceptionalism explanations; 1977-1988 General Social Survey data; 93Z5050
consociational "Lager" system, electoral impacts, Austria; illustrative example; 1990 general election; 93Z5088
political attitudes/behavior, Finnish university students, measurement issues; questionnaire/scale data; Helsinki; 93Z5071
public opinion/voting behavior; 1980 Jimmy Carter-Ronald Reagan presidential debate; 1980 US National Election Study; 93Z5068
voting behavior/party preferences, Greece; political scandals; survey data; Papandreou administration era; 93Z5029

Voting Rights
mass strikes for universal suffrage, socialist political reform strategy, turn-of-the-century Belgium; 93Z4860

Wages
equal pay actions, union support, UK case data; 93Z4562
industrial wage change, intra-/intersectoral wage growth's role; 1971-1981 wage data; 47 countries; 93Z4707
labor reserve, paid workforce inclusion, skill issues; 93Z4750
manufacturing decline, GB vs other industrialized countries; excessive wage claims; 1979-1989 unit labor cost statistics; 93Z4595
nonwage labor survival/revival, contemporary world agriculture, 93Z4796
pay entitlement evaluations, gender differences; comparison information/performance feedback; scenario/questionnaire experiment; State University of New York students; 93Z6606
public-sector comparable worth wage adjustments, economic/employment implications; statistics; San Jose, California; 93Z4582
wage differences, salary vs commission payment systems, department store salespersons, US; 1981 survey data; 93Z4739
wage differential determination, efficiency wage theory; 1952-1988 data sets; Netherlands; 93Z4197
waged labor participation-racial stratification order position, married Chinese women, British Columbia/California/Hawaii; historical/census data; 93Z6619

Wales

aging/family succession, farms, England/Wales; 1990 survey data; 93Z5292

community treatment order debate, England/Wales, historical development; 93Z6217

health status, women, England/Scotland/Wales; employment/domestic factors; 1984/85 survey data; 93Z6114

survey nonresponse; questionnaire length; 1987 data; England, Wales; 93Z3948

teacher supply/retention/morale problems, state educational policy implications, England/Wales; 93Z5215

War

armed conflicts, development/progress, justifications, Latin America; 93Z4768

attitudes toward war, diplomats/journalists/Catholic clergy/military officers/congresspersons; 1986-1988 questionnaire data; 93Z4640

"cease-fire" concept, mass media uses; case study; network news coverage, 1982 Lebanon war; 93Z4893

civilizations-empires-war correlations, dialectical evolutionary theory; historical global data; 93Z4463

class struggle, Marxist theories' war metaphors; 93Z5170

death, social construction, 1991 Gulf war; content analysis; New York Times stories; 93Z4644

inhibition of war, humankind's unity, architecture's potential contributions; 93Z6522

Japanese microbiological warfare experimentation, WWII-era China, US cover-up; 93Z4975

low-intensity conflict policy/doctrine problems, US; literature review; 93Z4623

post-Gulf war conditions, Iraq medical relief team's description; 93Z5066

power/authority legitimation, German military occupation, Netherlands; 93Z4633

social symbolism, Western sociology's neglect; illustrative examples; 93Z4347

stereotypes of Americans, Persian Gulf war period; checklist questionnaire; university students, Australia; 93Z4373

war as learning experience; book review essay/comment; 93Z4628

war attitudes, young Germans, Persian Gulf War context; 93Z5852

war making-state building relationship, institutional theory of war; 93Z4627

Washington, D.C.

conflict mediation, community-based US system vs Korean-Americans' informal process; interviews; Washington, DC; 93Z6387

gentrification-black residential dislocation, Washington, DC; census data; 93Z5361

migration experiences, Central Americans, Washington, DC; gender, immigration reform; survey/interview data; migrants/employers; 93Z5807

US drug problem; Washington, DC-Honduras support; 93Z4996

Washington (State)

criminal justice system, racial/ethnic bias; Washington Sentencing Reform Act; Yakima County; illustrative example; 93Z4376

prison populations, Washington, 1981 Sentencing Reform Act, forecasting challenges; 93Z5686

social movement organization members, demographic characteristics, Washington; interview data; 93Z4843

tribal/state service providers, Indian child welfare training program, western Washington; program evaluation data; 93Z6357

women's career shifts, sex-typed vs sex-atypical occupations; longitudinal questionnaire/interview data; public high school students, Washington; 1965-1979; 93Z4743

Wastes

hazardous waste landfill risk perceptions, community leaders vs general public, Sumter County, Alabama; interview/survey data; 93Z6492

low-level radioactive waste, state disposal siting responsibilities, US; 93Z6500

Wealth

household wealth differences, 1984 drought's effects, Ariaal pastoralists, Kenya; 1976-1985 livestock counts/informant statements; 93Z5261

Weapons

Japanese microbiological warfare experimentation, WWII-era China, US cover-up; 93Z4975

Weather

global climate change, socioeconmic dimensions; journal issue introduction; 93Z5172

global climate changes, outdoor recreation opportunity/behavior impacts; 93Z4922

Weber, Max

action, traditional/Weberian-inspired conception; 93Z4134

Calvinism-capitalism relationship, Max Weber's theory criticized; 93Z4078

capitalism spirit/social psychological dimensions, Max Weber's/Thornstein Veblen's views; 93Z4830

Christianity's origins, Friedrich Engels's/Max Weber's/Ernst Troeltsch's writings; 93Z5605

church-state relationship, cross-national perspective, Max Weber's views; 93Z5599

class/stratification, capitalist societies, closure theories critiqued; 93Z4170

collective action, Weberian status group perspective; 93Z4913

discourse ethics, Jürgen Habermas's work; 93Z6432

economic ethics, world religions, Max Weber's views; 93Z5606

Giddens, Anthony, modernity theories; review symposium; 93Z6419

man, Max Weber's concept; 93Z4087

money/exchange/social differentiation, Georg Simmel's vs Max Weber's views; 93Z4199

penal law, Max Weber's rationalization theory critiqued; 93Z5654

Pentecostalist churches' growth, Brazil, technoscientific/bourgeois ideology's role; 93Z5534

philosophical similarities/differences, Georg Simmel/Max Weber; 93Z4059

romantic love rationalization, middle-class women's magazines; content analysis; 93Z4892

social theory, comparative analysis approach; 93Z4167

sociology of Georg Simmel, Max Weber's negative assessment; 93Z4110

sociology of religion, literature-sociology links; 4-book review essay; 93Z4094

Soviet communism, Max Weber's views; 93Z4047

Weber, Max, historical analysis; book review essay; 93Z6420

Weber, Max, methodological approaches; 93Z4143

Weber, Max, Protestant ethic thesis reexamined; symposium; 93Z4119

Weber, Max, Protestant ethic/Calvinism interpretations, Malcom H. MacKinnon's challenge; critical comment; 93Z5613

Weber, Max, writing system development; book review essay; 93Z4190

Weberian causality, social sciences, critical realist perspective; 93Z4141

Welfare Dependency

poverty causes/cures, US debate; 10-chapter overview; 93c01663

welfare dependency/school dropout/violent crime/teenage pregnancy reduction, successful health/social service/educational programs, US/Canada; 93Z6543

welfare recipients, self-efficacy/self-worth; work, social support; longitudinal data; 93Z4291

Welfare Policy

mothers' pension laws, state-to-federal transformation, program, 1920-1940; Children's Bureau records/other data; 93Z5125

poverty causes/cures, US debate; 10-chapter overview; 93c01663

transnational welfare/social policy; 93Z5122

US welfare system, structural inequalities, conservative reform proposals; 93Z5124

welfare, moral foundation, modern industrial societies; case study; Hong Kong; 93Z5129

Welfare Recipients

guaranteed annual income experiment, Canadian welfare recipients, income-work-marital dissolution relationship; longitudinal interview data; 93Z5978

welfare receipt, Norwegian single mothers' views, 1971 vs 1989; qualitative interviews; 93Z6360

Welfare Reform

Oregon Medicaid program, restructuring impacts, 1989-1991; 93Z6177

US welfare system, structural inequalities, conservative reform proposals; 93Z5124

Welfare Services

transnational welfare/social policy; 93Z5122

Welfare State

equality/difference synthesis methods, 1920s feminists; implications for US welfare state; 93Z6591

ethnic residential segregation, Dutch cities, 1970-1990; empirical data; 93Z4431

Swedish welfare state, historical development; 93Z5126

welfare state development, judicial welfare's role, UK; 93Z5621

welfare state development/economic performance, social-democratic model; literature review; 93Z5033

welfare state, dysfunctional effects; 93Z4813
Well Being
acquired immune deficiency syndrome, drug user treatment implications; 93Z6119
adult well-being; childhood foster care placement; national survey data; 93Z5954 children of divorced families' lives/well-being; family structure/household income changes; longitudinal data; Australia; 93Z5969
marital status-well being relationship, age differences, Canada; 1985 General Social Survey; 93Z6043
marital well-being; longitudinal study participation; 1986-1989 longitudinal interview data; newlywed couples, Wayne County, Michigan; 93Z6040
rural counties, Georgia, agricultural structure/well-being relationship; 1969-1987 longitudinal/panel data; 93Z5305
single mothers of preschoolers, well-being/role demands; survey; southern California; 93Z5972
spare-time use/well-being perceptions, black youth, South Africa; 93Z6457
subjective (psychological)/objective (economic) well-being relationship; interview/diary data; US families; 93Z4261
Taiwanese students, pre- vs postarrival emotional well-being, US; scale data; 93Z4309
unemployment/unsatisfactory employment, psychological impacts, gender differences; longitudinal questionnaire data; school leavers, South Australia; 93Z5901
well-being/marital adjustment, Korean wives; mother-in-law conflict; questionnaire data; Seoul; 93Z5951
West Virginia
interstate return migration patterns, regional differences, 1975-1980; 1983 US Census data; 93Z5817
perceptions of justice, Public Service Commission complaint resolution, West Virginia; 1989/90 survey data; clientele; 93Z5620
Western Civilization
death/dying attitudes, Western culture; 93Z6101
Western Europe
advanced societies, equality/individualism ideologies, Western Europe; 93Z5176
alternative religions, Switzerland/France/Western Europe; article/comments; 93Z5582
class perceptions, Western Europe/Asia/US; book review essay; 93Z5168
economic/family/social activities, Yugoslav women immigrants; questionnaire data; 93Z5813
integration/disintegration, Eastern/Western Europe, post-WWII-present; 93Z4992
private international development aid, discourse/objectives, US/Western Europe/Canada; book review essay; 93Z4998
social policy as plural action system, Western Europe; 93Z6458
social policy regimes/solidarity strategies, post-WWII Eastern vs Western Europe; 93Z5026
transnational welfare/social policy; 93Z5122
West European astronomical research evaluation, citation vs publication data; international data bases; 93Z5709
Western Society
anorexia nervosa; Western cultural values; case studies; Minnesota; 93Z6246
democracy, Western social/political thought, Jean-François Lyotard vs Jürgen Habermas; 93Z6424
education's significance/dilemmas, Pacific islands, Western educational model's conflicting goals/characteristics; 93Z5427
environmental news, mass media attitudes, People's Republic of China; content analysis; People's Daily coverage, 1987 Daxingan Ling forest fire; 93Z4942
fashion communication functions, Western society; 9-chapter sociological analysis; 93c01668
Japan's political economy, changing Western views; book review article; 93Z4218
local education, Pulapese, Chuuk State (Micronesia), Western/traditional model amalgamation; 1979/80 field data; 93Z5446
man, Max Weber's concept; 93Z4087
research universities-national economic development relationship, Western society; 93Z5502
schizophrenia prognosis, Third World vs Western countries, cross-cultural psychiatric theory/research; article/comments/response; 93Z6211
surrogate motherhood, past/present social context, South Africa/Western societies; 93Z6089
value change, youth's role, Western societies; 1980-1991 literature review; 93Z5861
Western States
adolescent alcohol abuse, theories/attitudes, 6th-grade-college students, southwestern US; survey data; 93Z6282
health behaviors/status, Mexican-American women, southwestern US; social-contextual factors; survey data; 93Z6160
White Collar Crime
corporate crime recidivism; sanctions; event-history analysis; 1928-1981; 93Z4668
fraudulent activity-government's economic liberalism relationship, London (England) financial markets, 1984-1989; 93Z4318.
white-collar crime, Millsian-based sociology of elite deviance perspective; 93Z6336
White Collar Workers
gender/racial discrimination/harassment, Chicana white-collar workers; survey/interview data; public university, California; 93Z6648
high-technology innovation, perceived organizational support; demographic/other factors; questionnaire survey; electronics firm employees; 93Z5742
Whites
1988 presidential hopefuls Jesse Jackson/Pat Robertson, white southern voters' support; religion; national survey data; 93Z5608
academic performance, American Indian vs white college students; family background perceptions; questionnaire data; 93Z5991
equal opportunity programs, whites' attitudes, survey question methodology; 1986 questionnaire data; 93Z4365
first premarital intercourse, Mexican- vs Anglo-American females, Los Angeles, California; socioeconomic/subcultural factors; 1984/85 interview data; 93Z5929
health services utilization, ethnic subpopulation variations; literature review, 1979-1981 empirical data; Federal Employee Health Benefit Plan contracts; 93Z6237 income attainment differentials, Asian vs native white males, US; 1960-1980 Census data; 93Z5156
race/cultural novel's usefulness, education, sociology classrooms; empirical data; white college students; 93Z4010
reproductive rights movement, Canada, white middle-class orientation critiqued; 93Z4839
sibling conflict, parent measures, contemporaneous/longitudinal associations; 93Z5830
suicide; country music; 1984/85 statistical data; urban whites; 93Z6239
Wisconsin
acquired immune deficiency syndrome risk behavior/knowledge, chronic psychiatric outpatients; questionnaire data; Wisconsin; 93Z6143
breast cancer/mamography screening, increased incidence; survey data; Wisconsin; 93Z6150
Minnesota Heart Health Program, community health promotion delivery system; survey data; North Dakota/Minnesota/South Dakota/Wisconsin; 93Z6194
Witchcraft
modern witchcraft/occultism, English village; observational/interview data; Quest members; 93Z4538 survey interview responses; state/task uncertainty; empirical data; Madison, Wisconsin; 93Z6082 Wives
army officers' wives, socialization; participant observation; 93Z4616
dowry practice/calculations, India; interview/other data; women; 93Z6021
farm management decision making, Q-test modeling; interviews; farmers, wives; 93Z5299
institutional emotional norms/role satisfaction, Assembly of God missionary wives; participant observation/interview/other data; 93Z6654
Naval submarine officers, career demands on wives; questionnaire; 93Z4634
well-being/marital adjustment, Korean wives; mother-in-law conflict, questionnaire data; Seoul; 93Z5951
wife beating, Lane County, Oregon, 1890s; divorce cases; 93Z6007
women's subjective class identification, Australia; 1984/85 national survey data; 93Z5159
Womens Education
"political correctness" debate, US academe; 93Z4275
socioeconomic development, sub-Saharan Africa; female education; UN/government data; Gambia; 93Z5428
women's participation/representation, Flemish universities, Belgium; questionnaire data; 93Z5512
women's studies role, women's oppression alleviation/change; critical examination; 93Z6636
Womens Groups

modern feminist movement, persistent conflicts/contradictions; 93Z6589 women's movement, post-1989 Slovakia; 93Z6585
women's organizations, response to 1970s women's movement, resource mobilization theory; archival data, interviews; Cincinnati, Ohio; 93Z4838

Womens Rights
abortion rights movement, judicial role, US/Canadian comparison; 93Z6059
feminist movement, Latin American countries; personal experience/research; 93Z6595
new reproductive technologies, women's body-self control rights, feminist discourse; 93Z6065
reproductive rights movement, Canada, white middle-class orientation critiqued; 93Z4839
reproductive/genetic engineering/control, women's oppression issues; 93Z6069
women's rights, human rights principles' applications; 93Z6605
women, changing roles; 8-chapter historical analysis; 93c01660
women, historical positions, AD 1000-present; 5-chapter retrospective; 93c01661

Womens Roles
cheese making, women's role/status, England vs US, 1800-1930; 93Z5283
children's rights movement, India, women's role; 93Z6092
female internal migration, role/status impacts; 93Z5764
gender subordination/inequality, perpetuation theories; 93Z6614
motherhood, Quebec, historical images/realities; secondary data; 93Z6063
power relations, women's role, Cairo, Egypt; case example; lower-middle-class women, popular women's movement; 93Z4485
Sahrawi women, liberation struggle participation, western Sahara; 93Z4849
women, changing roles; 8-chapter historical analysis; 93c01660
women, historical positions, AD 1000-present; 5-chapter retrospective; 93c01661

Work
female child labor, India, abusive conditions; census/other data; 93Z5839
female job performance evaluations; marital/parental status; scale data; undergraduates, midwestern US; 93Z4713
school-work transition, Indian secondary students, South Africa; observational/other data; 93Z5881
spirit of work, capitalism vs socialism; 1930 article/comment; 93Z4716
unemployment, psychological impacts on marriage, psychoanalytic perspective; empirical data; marital therapy clients, London, England; 93Z6018
welfare recipients, self-efficacy/self-worth; work, social support; longitudinal data; 93Z4291
work activities/professional expectations, sociological/anthropological analytic frameworks; 93Z4738
work-health relationship, Jerusalem, Israel, residents age 50+; 1985-1987 questionnaire data; 93Z6109
work-identity relationship, low-status workers; interview data; custodians, 93Z4717
work/industry modernization, West Germany, 1988-1990, risk society concept; empirical data; 93Z4222

Work Attitudes
knowledge/skills/attitudes requirements, science-related jobs, South African industry; interview/questionnaire data; officials; 93Z5496
second industrial revolution, anthroponomic production concept; 93Z4761
work ethic, undergraduate university students, South Africa; scale data, 93Z4867
work ethic, undergraduates; scale data; Johannesburg, South Africa; 93Z5895
work involvement, unemployed, Norway; 1983/84 interviews; 93Z4755
work meaning changes, 1982-1989, US; interviews; 93Z4566
work meanings, changing trends, German labor force; 1982/1989 interview data; 93Z4604
work meanings, comparative analytical approaches; cross-cultural data, 93Z4563
work values/organization, cultural typology, Europe; 93Z4646 work values/traditional ethic, Japan; new recruit training; questionnaire data; electric company; 93Z4592

Work Environment
coronary heart disease incidence, municipal workers; work characteristics, stress symptoms, lifestyle; 1981-1985 longitudinal questionnaire data; 93Z6188
creativity, style/climate assessment approaches; inventory/questionnaire data; US; 93Z4578
health problems, Yugoslav/other immigrant workers; 93Z6186
surveillance/control, contemporary industrial labor process; observational data; Japanese electronics firm, GB; 93Z4746
teacher burnout rate, school culture's influence; inventory/interview data; elementary school teachers/principals; 93Z5212
work alienation reduction, underlying supply/demand factors; illustrative international examples; 93Z4744
workers' health, Latin America, action-oriented participatory research methodology; steel factory, Mexico; 93Z4588
working conditions maquiladora plants, Tijuana/Ciudad Juarez, Mexico; Free Trade Agreement impact; 1991 government survey data; 93Z4704
workplace health monitoring/promotion, alternative approach; 93Z4569

Work Experience
class images, work/community variables; interview/questionnaire data; industrial workers, Santiago Tianquistenco, Mexico; 93Z5154
engineers' work experience, newly industrializing Singapore; interview data; 93Z5247
visual sociology, undergraduate course; personal teaching experience; 93Z6683

Work Groups
work group sex composition, majority/minority members' experiences; questionnaire; southern California; 93Z4587

Work Organization
cooperative work organization vs contractual wage labor, Orissa, India; 1979-1988 fieldwork; 93Z4594
economic restructuring/Fordist transition, rural sociological impacts; 93Z5280
functionalist/critical perspectives, organizational studies; secondary data; 93Z4552
immigration experience, Yugoslav women factory workers, West Berlin, Germany; 1987 questionnaire data; 93Z5766
managerial positions, women's attainment/functioning; organizational mechanisms, family life; empirical data; 93Z4701
new technology/market pressures, firms' technical/organizational responses, economic performance outcomes; empirical data; 93Z4572
organizational work practices; plant modernization; 1987 questionnaire data; Canadian refinery employees; 93Z4709
second industrial revolution, anthroponomic production concept; 93Z4761
technological innovations, labor/union response; 93Z4989
work meanings, theory/research issues; discussion group; 93Z4614
work organization/worker participation, national/transnational firms, Spain; case studies; 93Z4706
work relationships, Germany; comment; 93Z4575
work values/organization, cultural typology, Europe; 93Z4646
work values/traditional ethic, Japan; new recruit training; questionnaire data; electric company; 93Z4592

Work Skills
knowledge/skills/attitudes requirements, science-related jobs, South African industry; interview/questionnaire data; officials; 93Z5496
labor market problems, skill shortages/deficiencies, continuing education policies, UK; empirical data; 93Z4571
labor reserve, paid workforce inclusion, skill issues; 93Z4750
unskilled labor migration, economic impact, Southeast Asia; article/comment; 93Z5759

Work Values
work ethic research, activity focus advocated; 93Z4574

Worker Attitudes
employee commitment, conceptual/empirical distinctions; questionnaire; medical personnel, midwestern US; 93Z4736
intradepartmental tensions/role shifts, US police departments; computer-based information technologies introduction; ethnographic fieldwork/interviews/other data; 93Z5685
job complexity/supervision relationship, male vs female workers; interview data; 93Z6633
job security vs environmental protection, workers' perceptions, lower Elbe region, West Germany; questionnaire data; 93Z4554
mental/physical health, Australian prison officers; negative affectivity, perceptions of demands/discretion/support; questionnaire data; 93Z5232
new technology, workers' reaction; questionnaire data; hospital laboratory workers, Antwerp, Belgium; 93Z4734
work ethic research, activity focus advocated; 93Z4574
work meaning changes, 1982-1989, US; interviews; 93Z4566
work values/traditional ethic, Japan; new recruit training; questionnaire data; electric company; 93Z4592

work-identity relationship, low-status workers; interview data; custodians; 93Z4717

Worker Control

industrial workplace, productivity, peer control; 1989-1991 fieldnotes; 93Z4677

Worker Machine Relationship

human-computer interaction, conversational analysis; book review essay; 93Z5380

human-computer interaction, social nature, rhetorical contract; experiment; college students, New York; 93Z4008

human-computer interaction; personality factors; literature review; 93Z4285

intradepartmental tensions/role shifts, US police departments; computer-based information technologies introduction; ethnographic fieldwork/interviews/other data; 93Z5685

new technology, workers' reaction; questionnaire data; hospital laboratory workers, Antwerp, Belgium; 93Z4734

Worker Participation

management participation, workers, India; 93Z4696

new technology/market pressures, firms' technical/organizational responses, economic performance outcomes; empirical data; 93Z4572

women's/minorities' union participation, white males' attitudes, regional differences; questionnaire data; midwestern/southeastern union members; 93Z4580

work organization/worker participation, national/transnational firms, Spain; case studies; 93Z4706

worker participation, productivity impacts, US; 93Z4728

workers' participation, socialist society; 93Z4735

Workers

coronary heart disease incidence, municipal workers; work characteristics, stress symptoms, lifestyle; 1981-1985 longitudinal questionnaire data; 93Z6188

environmentalist criticism, chemical company employees' views, West Germany; 1991 interview data; 93Z6503

handicapped employment, 1981 Austrian law, use of tax penalty funds; 93Z6469

labor activity, Druse vs Jews, Haija Port, Israel; rural-urban commute; case study; Druse, Israel; 93Z5276

labor allocation/regulation, 1950s-1970s; People's Republic of China; 93Z4720

organizational research, establishment-/individual-level data utility, Norway; interviews/questionnaires; 93Z4662

organized vs unorganized conflict, dock workers, GB; secondary statistics; 93Z4610

personality/health/job stress, penitentiary/maximum security hospital employees; questionnaire data; Trondheim, Norway; 93Z5198

poverty alleviation policy, US workers, public attitudes; poll/national survey data; 93Z6455

shop-floor militancy, automobile industry, post-WWII decline; mass production automation; archival/interview data; 93Z4759

work meaning changes, 1982-1989, US; interviews; 93Z4566

workers' health, Latin America, action-oriented participatory research methodology; steel factory, Mexico; 93Z4588

Working Class

asset distribution, working-class conflicts/coalition formation, game-theoretical perspective; 93Z6658

class consciousness, GB, measurement problems; secondary survey data; 93Z5151

cultural resistance theory, GB; illustrative example; male working-class youth; 93Z4482

matrifocal families, gender/kinship relations, African-American/white working-class families; secondary research; 93Z6003

public participation, working-class power, remedial action planning, Great Lakes; 93Z4847

race/class/gender, historical relationships; case study; working-class women, South Africa, 1930s-present; 93Z4246

science problem solving, students' recognition/realization skills; social class factors; questionnaire/interview data; students ages 10-12, Lisbon, Portugal; 93Z5483

solidarity, middle-/working-class women, 19th-century; 93Z5193

working class neighborhood, social/physical demise; photographs; Highland Park, Kentucky; 93Z6678

working-class crime victimization, left-realist perspective, research issues; national survey; Canada; 93Z6377

working-class family domesticity ideology, protective legislation struggles, Richard Oastler's work, GB, 1830s-1840s; case study; 93Z5146

Working Hours

contingent (part-time/subcontracted) employment, US, policy issues; 93Z4564

working on Sunday, French debate; 93Z4555

Working Mothers

dual-role stress/coping, working mothers; interview/questionnaire data; London, England; 93Z6024

labor force experiences, young mothers in employment aid project, Federal Republic of Germany; interview data; 93Z5902 maternal employment/child care patterns, Connecticut; interview dat parents; 93Z4705 school-work transition, young mothers, federal training program, Ger many; empirical data; 93Z5875

sexual division of labor, home/workplace, middle-class ideologies; con tent analysis; women's magazine articles, 1950-1989; 93Z4894

single mothers of preschoolers, well-being/role demands; survey; southern California; 93Z5972

women labor force participation-reproductive/child care behavior rela tionship, US; 1968-1983 national longitudinal survey data; 93Z474

women's reproductive/labor force participation choices, Quebec; 1990 colloquium; 93Z5776

Working Women

biographical insecurity, modernization of modernity; 1982-1987 interview data, literature review; female temporary workers, German Democratic Republic; 93Z4352

employment attitudes, young people, Germany, gender differences; empirical data; 93Z5879

family/career combination, women's choice, Netherlands; 93Z5962

female immigrant labor force participation, Israel; interview data; 93Z5783

female job performance evaluations; marital/parental status; scale data; undergraduates, midwestern US; 93Z4713

female labor force participation increase, work/family consequences; 93Z4732

health status, women, England/Scotland/Wales; employment/ domestic factors; 1984/85 survey data; 93Z6114

health status, Yugoslav women laborers, West Berlin, Germany; interview data; 93Z6170

immigration experience, Yugoslav women factory workers, West Berlin, Germany; 1987 questionnaire data; 93Z5766

labor market prospects, 1980-1989 sociology graduates, Germany; questionnaire data; female students; 93Z4111

male-female inequality, home/work; marriage, parenthood; 1981 survey; British young adults; 93Z4756

married/single employed mothers, child care use patterns; 1987 national survey data; 93Z5982

occupational gender desegregation, impacts on women, US, 1970s; case studies; 93Z6646

office work as women's work research, problematic conceptualizations, methodological approach proposed; 93Z4741

sexual division of labor, home/workplace, middle-class ideologies; content analysis; women's magazine articles, 1950-1989; 93Z4894

social networks/support; social mobility; 1986/87 survey data; women, Canberra, Australia; 93Z5174

upward social mobility, black vs white working women's subjective experiences, life-history interview data; Memphis, Tennessee; 93Z5160

US military, minorities'/women's access/retention; post-1970 Department of Defense data; 93Z4643

women in clerical profession, Church of England, diakonia metaphor, 93Z5519

women workers, transnational/small/large local pharmaceutical firms, India; interviews; 93Z5206

women's labor force participation, public opinion, (former) West Germany/GB/US; comparative analysis; 1988 international survey data; 93Z4695

women's reproductive/labor force participation choices, Quebec, 1990 colloquium; 93Z5776

women's work, family farms, Spain; interviews; 93Z5291

women's work, life event history analysis; existing Canadian studies; 93Z4350

women's/minorities' union participation, white males' attitudes, regional differences; questionnaire data; midwestern/southeastern union members; 93Z4580

work life courses, contemporary changes/gender differences, West Germany; 1984 questionnaire data; 93Z4698

working women, US, global capitalist economic restructuring context, 93Z6600

Workplaces

collaborative composing practices, rhetoric's role, workplace/ classroom; case examples; 93Z5491

computerized job surveillance, workplaces; interview data; New York firms; 93Z4605

criticism-giving techniques, work situations, multiple goals; case study, self-reports; 93Z5396

customized labor training, workplaces; interviews; personnel directors, worker-students, trainers; 93Z4577
equal employment opportunity policies, success measurement, UK; 93Z5772
household/workplace gender inequality, immigrant Portuguese working women, London, England; interview data; 93Z6620 industrial relations typology, 1990 Australian Workplace Industrial Relations Survey critiqued; 93Z4585
industrial relations, conciliation/arbitration, Australia; 1990 survey; 93Z4589
job insecurity, psychological effects; questionnaire/interview data; employees; firms, Montreal Quebec; 93Z4606
language use/functions, occupational/professional relationships; 93Z5230
social work professionalization, Australia; interview data, field observations; social work personnel; 93Z5196
teacher satisfaction; community support/empowerment/work conditions/student attitudes; survey; Maine; 93Z5240
trade unionism; 1990 Australian Workplace Industrial Relations Survey; 93Z4565 workplace family policy, research issues; 93Z6468
workplace gender integration barriers; special journal issue introduction; 93Z6634
workplace talk, occupational relevance, conversation/culturally contexted discourse analysis role; dialogue samples; US airlines operations room employees; 93Z5370

World Economy

International economic globalization, regional development impacts; 93Z4965
capitalist systems, government role, economic/political/social impacts; 1974-1981 statistical data; 93Z4828
democracy/Third World liberation, world-systems perspective; 2-book review essay; 93Z4821
development/modernization, global system context, sociological interpretation; 93Z4792
industrial wage change, intra-/intersectoral wage growth's role; 1971-1981 wage data; 47 countries; 93Z4707
internationalization of capital, labor impacts, post-WWII period, Third World; statistical data; 93Z4797
maternal mortality, poor dependent vs core-hegemonic countries, world-system/dependency theories; World Heath Organization/UN data; 93Z4824
Mexico-US Free Trade Agreement, potential negative impact, Mexico; 93Z5003
neoliberal policies, regional/urban territory, Latin America; 93Z5090
nonwage labor survival/revival, contemporary world agriculture; 93Z4796
peasantry, global capitalist economy; 93Z4968
welfare state, dysfunctional effects; 93Z4813

World Population

population explosion, birthrate decline potential, sociobiological perspectives; 93Z5822

World Problems

Arab world studies/specializations, France; annual reports, doctoral theses documentation; 93Z5499
asylum crisis, European states' response; 93Z4443
desertification, international community's perceived inaction; 93Z6509
disaster relief management, global database, World Health Organization; 93Z4006
futures studies, origins/recent developments; 93Z6451
global climate change, socioeconmic dimensions; journal issue introduction; 93Z5172
global climate changes, outdoor recreation opportunity/behavior impacts; 93Z4922
global ecological crisis, agroecology solution; 93Z5298
global population growth-resource use-environmental quality relationship; 93Z6515
global vs local cultural identity; case study; Texel island, Netherlands; 93Z4542 international drug trade/money laundering, production-/demand-side analysis; 93Z4802
post-Cold-war-era US, strengths/challenges; 93Z4834
Refugee Studies Programme, University of Oxford; 93Z4439
UN disaster relief system, inadequacies; illustrative examples; Ethiopia/Mozambique; 93Z6525
vampire capitalism, US; 93Z4832
violence against women, global human rights agenda; 93Z6366
women's rights, human rights principles' applications; 93Z6605

World System Theory

contemporary world system, non-Eurocentric theoretical analysis; 93Z4815 democracy/Third World liberation, world-systems perspective; 2-book review essay; 93Z4821
disarmament rhetoric, care/peripheral/semiperipheral states, world-system theory; 1982 UN special session proceedings; 93Z4963
globalization; 12-chapter cultural perspective; 93c01682
maternal mortality, poor dependent vs core-hegemonic countries, world-system/dependency theories; World Heath Organization/UN data; 93Z4824
military coups/historical trajectory/developing nations, modernization/world-system theories; newspaper content analysis, 1821-1985; 93Z4981
modern social/economic/environmental realities, neoclassical vs ecological economics perspectives; 93Z4149
political exclusion-dependency relations correlation; path analysis; secondary cross-national data; 93Z4819
political geography, methodologies/education, US universities; 93Z6536
socialist state's development, world-systems perspective; illustrative example; China; 93Z4831
world system, modified model; 93Z3988
world system, qualitative transformation on typology; 93Z4809
world-system theory, Emile Durkheim's contributions; 93Z4807 world-system theory, R. Brenner's critique; comment; 93Z4814

World War I

suicide, 1910-1920 US; WWI/prohibition/great influenza epidemic; census data; 93Z6107

World War II

Dutch national character, anthropologist Ruth Benedict's unpublished ethnographic texts, WWII period; content analysis; 93Z5137
Japanese microbiological warfare experimentation, WWII-era China, US cover-up; 93Z4975
post-1938 emigration, Jews, Trieste, Italy; Benito Mussolini's anti-Semitic laws; personal correspondence, interviews; immigrants, US; 93Z5797 power/authority legitimation, German military occupation, Netherlands; 93Z4633

Worldview

belief in God-worldview of modern science reconciliation; 93Z5560
congregational religious style-social world orientation relationship; 1987 survey; midwestern US church members; 93Z5583
ecological worldviews, Australia; 93Z6493 environmental ethics, anthropocentric/nonanthropocentric views; 93Z6508
ethos, modern Olympic games; 93Z4955
individualist worldview development, late 19th-early 20th-century Finland; temperance movement ideology; 93Z4836
language/worldview, gender/cross-cultural differences; 3-book review essay; 93Z5387
personal racial consciousness, black/white language/world view difference, key events' impact; 93Z4356
prevailing political worldview, educational implications; 93Z5079

Worship

Hindu mother-goddess Kālī worship, Calcutta, India; 93Z4537
intelligence function, democratic governments; 3-book review essay; 93Z4617

Writers

earnings gap, male vs female television writers; 1982-1990 career history data; US; 93Z4700
rape, African-American women writers' portrayals; illustrative examples; poets; 93Z6556

Writing

collaborative composing practices, rhetoric's role, workplace/classroom; case examples; 93Z5491
faculty writing, motivation; 93Z5217 written texts, ethnomethodological conversation analysis applicability; 93Z4331

Writing for Publication

academic psychologists' job attainment, job rank/institutional prestige; published data; US; 93Z5220
clinical sociologists, family traditions' impact, personal experiences; article/bibliography; 93Z4071
doctoral thesis quality, information-based evaluation; test; chemistry theses, USSR; 93Z4012
faculty writing, motivation; 93Z5217
psychological case reports, discourse analysis; 93Z6208
scientific productivity, gender differences; citation analysis; 93Z5714
sociological scholarship citations, gender differences; citation analysis; Social Problems; 93Z4025

Weber, Max, writing system development; book review essay; 93Z4190

Young Adults generation gap, Flanders; 1991 questionnaire data; youth ages 20-21; 93Z5898
life course planning, gender differences, young adults, Netherlands; questionnaire; 93Z5862
newspapers, young adults' attitudes; autobiographical data; undergraduates, midwestern US university; 93Z5850
postadolescent street gangs membership, deteriorating inner-city economic conditions' role; field interviews; active gang members, southern California; 93Z6351
racism trends, young white adults, US; 1984-1990 General Social Survey/National Election Study data; 93Z4425
self-esteem, young adults; agentic vs communal traits; questionnaire data; Los Angeles County, California; 93Z6653
sexual activities/preferences, youth ages 16-20, UK; questionnaire data; 93Z5905
substance abuse patterns/mental health, homeless postadolescents; interview data; Florida; 93Z6285 young Jewish adults, Frankfurt am Main, Germany; Jewish identity, Holocaust; interviews; 93Z4407

Youth cognitive dissonance prevention, neutralization techniques, German youths' Nazi Holocaust attitudes; interviews; 93Z6570
conservative self-identification, US youth; 1974-1986 national survey data; 93Z5076
counseling troubled youth, groupwork considerations; 93Z5845
cultural resistance theory, GB; illustrative example; male working-class youth; 93Z4482
drug abuse, minority youth, economically depressed community; 1988/89 interview/observation/discussion data; Columbus, Ohio; 93Z5886
drug use prevention, US youth, marijuana legalization's negative implications; 93Z6255
employment goals/opportunities, Federal Republic of Germany; social restructuring; 93Z5851
family/community, youth's role/position, Korea; research review; 93Z5857 future prospects, German youth; 93Z5869
gender/social class-illness relationship, youth, Finland; 1986 interview data; 93Z5890
political behavior, young Italians, 1980s; literature review; 93Z5012
racist attitudes, male youth of German/Turkish parentage, Berlin, Federal Republic of Germany; interviews; 93Z4422
sexual activities/preferences, youth ages 16-20, UK; questionnaire data; 93Z5905
spare-time use/well-being perceptions, black youth, South Africa; 93Z6457
suicide, youth ages 10-19, Newfoundland/Labrador; 1977-1988 pathologist register data; 93Z6202
test-using professional groups' characteristics; international questionnaire data; test administrators/supervisors; 93Z5233
war attitudes, young Germans, Persian Gulf War context; 93Z5852
youth family influence patterns, post-1900 changes; secondary questionnaire data; former West Germany; 93Z6013
youth labor market entry problems, postunification Germany; statistical data; 93Z5892
youth labor market entry, postunification Germany; journal issue introduction; 93Z5868
youth socialization/personality development; employment; secondary data; 93Z5874
youth un-/underemployment, psychological impacts, longitudinal research attrition rate; questionnaire data; Adelaide, Australian school leavers; 93Z4613
youth/community concepts' relevance, youth service provision, Ireland; interviews; Cork; 93Z5867

Youth Culture
Japanese bosozoku (youth gangs); 7-chapter personal account; 93c01683
sociologist Martino Ancona, Rome, Italy; contributions/activities; memoriam; 93Z4114
value change, youth's role, Western societies; 1980-1991 literature review; 93Z5861

Youth Employment
apprenticeship/vocational training, former East/West Germany, postunification changes; 93Z5855
employment attitudes, young people, Germany, gender differences; empirical data; 93Z5879
employment experiences, 8th-10th grade youth, Federal Republic of Germany; survey data; 93Z5900 knowledge/skills/attitudes requirements, science-related jobs, South African industry; interview/questionnaire data; officials; 93Z5496
labor force experiences, young mothers in employment aid project, Federal Republic of Germany; interview data; 93Z5902
school-work transition, vocational training, Germany; longitudinal data; 93Z5889
school-work transition, young mothers, federal training program, Germany; empirical data; 93Z5875
unemployment/unsatisfactory employment, psychological impacts, gender differences; longitudinal questionnaire data; school leavers, South Australia; 93Z5901
youth employment prospects, rural/urban Germany; production changes; 1985-1990 empirical data; Jörgenstorf, Leipzig; 93Z5870
youth employment/education, state policy, New Zealand; 1981/1986 census data; 93Z4774
youth labor market entry problems, postunification Germany; statistical data; 93Z5892
youth labor market entry, postunification Germany; journal issue introduction; 93Z5868
youth socialization/personality development; employment; secondary data; 93Z5874

Youth Movements
democratic changes, youth movement's role, Czechoslovakia; 93Z4854
parent idealization, authoritarians/rightists; interview data, literature review; 93Z5873
Rural Christian Youth Movement, France; 1989/90 participant observation; 93Z5592
year 1968, twentieth-anniversary recollections, "mythologizers"; 93Z4859

Youth Organizations
youth/community concepts' relevance, youth service provision, Ireland, interviews; Cork; 93Z5867

Yugoslavia
Albanians/Gypsies, recognition as Egyptian minority, Kosovo/Macedonia, Yugoslavia, 1990; 93Z4361
civil war, Yugoslavia; 93Z5043
economic/family/social activities, Yugoslav women immigrants; questionnaire data; 93Z5813
elderly people's situation, Devon (UK) vs Bosnia/Hercegovina (former Yugoslavia), 1990; 93Z5815 family structure, Yugoslav immigrants, West Berlin, Germany; questionnaire data; women; 93Z6005
health problems, Yugoslav/other immigrant workers; 93Z6186
health status, Yugoslav women laborers, West Berlin, Germany; interview data; 93Z6170
immigration experience, Yugoslav women factory workers, West Berlin, Germany; 1987 questionnaire data; 93Z5766
leisure patterns, Yugoslav immigrant vs German women, Germany, 1980-1985 questionnaire data; 93Z4926 mathematical achievements, boys vs girls; individual-psychological/familial characteristics; self-report data; 5th/6th graders, US/Yugoslavia; 93Z5467
national identity changes, postcommunist Albania; census data, 1945-1989; 93Z4381
occupational gender inequality, Yugoslavia; nationality, ethnicity; 1981 census data; 93Z5149
rural-urban migration, Croatia/Bosnia/Herzegovina; 1989 questionnaire data; 93Z5801
socialist system breakdown, capitalist development, modernization theory breakdown; Yugoslavian example; 93Z4804
socialization process, Yugoslav immigrant families, France; official statistics, 93Z5831 structural disharmony/growth rates, Yugoslavia/Slovenia, suburbanization/excessive urbanization models; 1984-1991 questionnaire data; 93Z5359

Zimbabwe
Africans' mobility, colonial Rhodesia, policy's gendered nature; 93Z6603

American Indian Culture and Research Journal

The American Indian Culture and Research Journal provides a quarterly interdisciplinary research forum for scholars and innovators in the area of historical and contemporary American Indian life and culture. Original scholarly papers are invited on a broad range of issues. While encouraging innovations, the editor will favor those articles that demonstrate rigorous and thorough research in an interdisciplinary context.

Mailing address for manuscripts and subscriptions:

Editor
UCLA - American Indian Studies Center
3220 Campbell Hall
405 N. Hilgard Avenue
Los Angeles, CA 90024-1548

Subscription rates:

Regular	$20.00
Institutional	$30.00

Foreign subscriptions add $1.00

Adult Residential Care Journal

The Adult Residential Care Journal (formerly Adult Foster Care Journal) is the first professional journal devoted to noninstitutional community-based care for adults whose residents and providers are unrelated by blood ties. Typically, residents have histories of (a) serious mental illness, (b) mental retardation, and (c) frailties of aging. The journal defines the field conceptually, facilitates empirical knowledge through research, and enhances communication between providers, residents, academicians, clinicians, policy makers, and others who espouse a high quality of life for all citizens.

Papers must be scholarly and in the format of the American Psychological Association (1983) Publication Manual. Write Editor for "Instructions for Authors" reprint. This is a peer-reviewed journal.

The International Journal of Conflict Management

This journal is soliciting original empirical and conceptual articles, case studies, simulations, and teaching notes in the following areas:

1. Organizational conflict
2. Communication and conflict
3. Mediation
4. Arbitration
5. Negotiation
6. Bargaining and industrial relations
7. Law and procedural justice
8. Peace and international conflict
9. Conflict in the public sector
10. Social psychological conflict

The journal is published in January, April, July, and October. Manuscripts must be prepared according to the latest edition of the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association and are reviewed by a double-blind review process. Four copies of the manuscripts and requests for other details may be addressed to:

Dr. Afzal Rahim, Editor
Department of Management
Western Kentucky University
Bowling Green, KY 42101, USA
University Phone/Fax: 502–745–2499/2559
IJCM Phone & Fax: 502–782–2601

Revue canadienne des sciences de l'administration

Canadian Journal of Administrative Sciences

The Canadian Journal of Administrative Sciences is a bilingual (English and French) multidisciplinary quarterly which publishes refereed scholarly articles and book reviews in all areas of business administration. It is the publication of the Administrative Sciences Association of Canada and the only journal in administration linking the Canadian academic community across disciplines.

CJAS is interested in publishing empirical, theoretical and conceptual papers which represent a significant contribution to knowledge in all areas of administrative science. Manuscripts reporting research findings from both the private and public sectors are considered appropriate and, although preference is given to those dealing with Canadian data, other manuscripts deemed to be of interest to Canadian academics will also be published. Manuscripts are accepted for review with the understanding that they have not been submitted for publication elsewhere. Presentation of a paper at a professional conference does not disqualify it from consideration.

Manuscripts should be sent to:

V.V. Baba, Editor-in-Chief
Canadian Journal of Administrative Sciences
Faculty of Commerce and Administration
Concordia University
1455 de Maisonneuve Blvd. West
Montréal, Québec, Canada H3G 1M8

Please forward FIVE copies of your manuscript typed according to the guidelines set out in the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association.

CONTEMPORARY JEWRY

A Journal of Social Scientific Inquiry

A Publication of the Association for the Social Scientific Study of Jewry

Paul Ritterband, editor

Just Issued: Vol. XII, Annual 1992

	INTERMARRIAGE
Richard D. Alba	Intermarriage & Ethnicity Amoung European Americans
Carmel U. Chiswick Evelyn L. Lehrer	Religious Intermarriage: An Economic Perspective
Ariela Keysar, Barry A. Kosmin, Nava Lerer, and Egon Mayer	Exogamy in First Marriages and Remarriages: An Analysis of Mate Selection in First and Second Marriages Among American Jews in the 1990s, and its Theoretical Implications
Arnold A. Lasker Judith N. Lasker	Do They Want Their Children to be Like Them?: Parental Heritage and Jewish Identity
Sergio DellaPergola	New Data on Demography and Identification among Jews in the U.S.: Trends, Inconsistencies and Disagreements

Contemporary Jewry is published annually. Subscription and membership prices are: $ 18. for 1 year; $30. for 2 years; $40. for 3 years. U.S. currency please. Foreign subscriptions add $ 5. per year. Checks should be made payable to ASSJ and sent to: Jerry Alan Winter, Secretary/Treasurer, Association for the Social Scientific Study of Jewry (ASSJ), Dept.of Sociology, Connecticut College, New London, CT. 06320.

EUROPEAN JOURNAL OF INTERCULTURAL STUDIES

Edited by Crispin Jones and Pieter Batelaan with a distinguished international Editorial Advisory Board including Maurice Blanc, Barry Troyna, Hans Reich and David Coulby.

Intercultural studies [illegible] increasingly important concern of most European [illegible]. All have significant cultural minorities which present a challenge to [illegible] established cultural norms and to the social systems [illegible] them. The variety of responses that are emerging [illegible] minority communities throughout Europe are diverse and dynamic. They are subject to research programmes [illegible] by inter governmental organisations, [illegible] national research institutions, public and private, in the fields of [illegible] employment, law, housing, [illegible] and social mobility [illegible]

The European Journal of Intercultural Studies provides a major new international [illegible] in this specialist field and is the journal of the IATE, the International Association for Intercultural Education, based in the Netherlands.

First published Spring 1990
(founding editor Barry Troyna)
ISSN 0952 391 X
Price £55 (overseas £60)
(Three issues: Autumn, Spring and Summer)
(Special reduced rate for personal subscribers — Private Addresses only) Back Issues £19 each.

TRENTHAM BOOKS LTD
Westview House, 734 London Road, Oakhill, Stoke-on-Trent, Staffordshire, England ST4 5NP.
Tel: (0782) 745567 Fax: (0782) 745553

journal of communication inquiry

The Journal of Communication Inquiry publishes manuscripts that emphasize interdisciplinary inquiry into communication and mass communication phenomena within cultural and historical perspectives.

Such perspectives imply that an understanding of these phenomena cannot arise solely out of a narrowly focused analysis. Thus, the journal emphasizes philosophical, evaluative, empirical, legal, historical, and/or critical inquiry into relationships between mass communication and society across time and culture.

Direct queries, subscription orders, requests for reprints, and manuscripts to

Editor
Journal of Communication Inquiry
205 Communication Center School of Journalism and Mass Communication
The University of Iowa
Iowa City, IA [illegible]
[illegible]

The editor encourages the submission of manuscripts that advance international, cross-cultural, non-Western, feminist, and other alternative political and philosophical perspectives. The journal also invites contributions of book reviews and review articles from all scholars.

JOURNAL OF GENDER STUDIES

An international forum for the debate on gender in all fields of study

JOURNAL of GENDER STUDIES
The Journal of Gender Studies is a twice - yearly (May and November) interdisciplinary journal which publishes articles relating to gender from a feminist perspective within a wide range of subject areas covering the Natural Sciences, Arts and Popular Culture, and the Social Sciences.

The Journal invites articles from international sources and from a diversity of cultural backgrounds. Contributions should be sent to the editors ,c/o Department of English, University of Hull, Hull, Hu6 7RX. UK.

Annual Subscriptions (2 issues) :	Institutions	£10.00
	Overseas	£13.00
	Individuals	£ 6.00
	Overseas	£ 9.00

Subscriptions should be sent to: Sheila Cunnison, School of Social and Professional Studies, Humberside Polytechnic, Inglemire Lane,
Hull. Hu6 7LU

The Journal of Mind and Behavior

The Journal of Mind and Behavior (JMB) is dedicated to the interdisciplinary approach within psychology, psychiatry, medicine and related fields—building upon the assumption of a unified science. Mind and behavior interact and causally relate to each other in multidirectional ways, and JMB urges the exploration of these interrelationships. The editors are particularly interested in scholarly work in the following areas: the psychology, philosophy, and sociology of experimentation and the scientific method ☐ the relationship between methodology, operationism, and theory construction ☐ the mind-body problem in the social sciences ☐ historical, existential, teleological, and introspective reports relevant to psychology, psychosocial methodology, and social philosophy ☐ the philosophical impact of a mind/body epistemology upon psychology, psychiatry, and medicine.

JMB is based upon the premise that all meaningful statements about human behavior rest ultimately upon observation—with no one scientific method possessing a priori, greater credence than another. Emphasis upon experimental control should not preclude the experiment as a measure of behavior outside the scientific laboratory. The editors wish to rely upon the paradigm of empirical science as a fundamental basis of scientific knowledge rather than to be a slave to it. We recognize the need to propagate ideas and speculations as well as the need to form empirical situations for testing them. However, we believe in a working reciprocity between theory and method, and in a unity among the sciences; manuscripts should accentuate this interdisciplinary approach—either explicitly in their content, or implicitly within their point of view.

------SELECTED PAPERS OF BACK ISSUES------

Therapeutic Professions and the Diffusion of Deficit. Kenneth J. Gergen, Swarthmore College.

Toward the Obsolescence of the Schizophrenia Hypothesis. Theodore R. Sarbin, University of California, Santa Cruz.

Psychology's Reliance on Linear Time: A Reformulation. Brent D. Slife, Baylor University.

Metatheoretical Issues in Cognitive Science. John A. Teske, Penn State University and Roy D. Pea, Clark University.

The Reality of Operationism: A Rejoinder. Howard H. Kendler, University of California, Santa Barbara.

What Does the Mind's Eye Look At? John Heil, University of California, Berkeley.

Concepts of Consciousness. Thomas Natsoulas, University of California, Davis.

Deconstructing Psychology's Subject. Edward E. Sampson, The Wright Institute.

Functionalism and the Definition of Theoretical Terms. Austen Clark, University of Tulsa.

What is a Perceptual Mistake? Aaron Ben-Zeev, University of Haifa.

Logical Learning Theory: Kuhnian Anomaly or Medievalism Revisited? Joseph Rychlak, Loyola University of Chicago.

Consciousness, Naturalism, and Nagel. Owen Flanagan, Duke University.

The Myth of Operationism. Thomas H. Leahey, Virginia Commonwealth University.

Is Field Work Scientific? Linn Mo, University of Trondheim.

Residual Asymmetrical Dualism: A Theory of Mind–Body Relations. Arthur Efron, State University of New York, Buffalo.

------------MANUSCRIPT SUBMISSION------------

Manuscripts should be submitted in quadruplicate and should follow the style and preparation presented in the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association (third edition, 1983). An optional fee of $23.00, to cover basic handling and mailing costs, may be submitted with manuscripts. Authors holding a current subscription to the Journal or authors subscribing at the time of submission are exempt from paying this fee. There are no page costs. JMB is a refereed journal, and all decisions will be made by the assessing editors, associate editors, and chief editors. The Journal holds the policy of immediate publication of mss. upon notification of acceptance. For more information or manuscript submission, write to:

Raymond C. Russ, Ph.D., Editor
The Journal of Mind and Behavior
Department of Psychology University of Maine
Orono, Maine 04469

SUBSCRIPTION INFORMATION ISSN 0271-0137
Published Quarterly since 1980.

Annual institutional rate:	US $73.00
Annual individual rate:	US $42.00

For back issue info and/or subscription inquiries write to:

Circulation Department
The Journal of Mind and Behavior
PO Box 522, Village Station
New York City, New York 10014-0522

Only checks drawn on U.S. accounts will be accepted.

Published by The Institute of Mind and Behavior

JOURNAL OF RURAL COOPERATION

Vol. XX No. 2 1992

CONTENTS

1. ARTICLES

Hudečková, H. and Lošťák, M.	The Influence of Collectivization and Decollectivization on the Development of Rural Communities in the Czech Republic
Oustapassidis, K.	Economies of Scale in Agricultural Marketing Cooperatives: The Case of the Greek Unions
Stryjan, Y.	Czechoslovak Agriculture: Institutional Change and Cooperative Solutions

2. BOOK REVIEWS

Defourny, J.	Démocratie Coopérative et Efficacité Economique: La performance comparée des SCOP françaises P. Levinger
Fals Borda, O. and Rahman, M.A. (eds.)	Action and Knowledge: breaking the monopoly with participatory action-research B. Lappin
Kinsey, B.H.	Creating Rural Employment D. Felsenstein
Singh, I.	The Great Ascent: the rural poor in south Asia D. Freeman

3. CURRENT INFORMATION

Periodicals Received

Dissertation Abstracts

Editor: Dr. Yair Levi

Administrative Secretary: Daphna Bar-Nes

CIRCOM

Information for Subscribers: The Journal of Rural Cooperation is a semi-annual periodical, aimed at the pursuit of research in the field of rural cooperation. Editorial enquiries and other correspondence should be addressed to CIRCOM, P.O. Box 2355, Rehovot 76122, Israel. Subscription rate: $20 per annum (plus $2.00 sea mail; $6.00 airmail).

// LEGAL STUDIES FORUM:
An Interdisciplinary Journal

The LEGAL STUDIES FORUM, the official journal of the American Legal Studies Association, is published to promote humanistic, critical, and interdisciplinary research and teaching in legal studies, with a non-exclusive focus on common law. Published quarterly and employing a blind review selection process, the FORUM presents imaginative, provocative articles that approach the study of the legal system from a non-technical and value-conscious viewpoint. Articles are predominantly essays about the legal system, but space is allocated to articles about legal pedagogy in non-professional legal studies programs. Occasional thematic issues address topics in the Forum's range of interests; recent symposia have included "Law and the South African Legitimacy Crisis" and "Legal Reelism: The Hollywood Film as Legal Text." This journal also reviews recent books that seek to present philosophical, historical, linguistic, and critical perspectives on law and the operation of the legal system.

Manuscripts and other submissions should be sent to David Ray Papke, Editor, Legal Studies Forum, Indiana School of Law - Indianapolis, 735 W. New York Street, Indianapolis, IN 46202.

Reviews and books for review should be sent to James Foster, Review Editor, Legal Studies Forum, Dept of Political Science, Social Science 307, Oregon State University, Corvallis, OR 97331.

Requests for subscription should be sent to Leonard G. Buckle, Managing Editor, Legal Studies Forum, 341 Cushing Hall, Northeastern University, Boston, MA 02115. Subscription rates are $50 US in North America and $60 US for overseas delivery.

Applications for membership in the American Legal Studies Association should be sent to Suzann R. Thomas-Buckle, Executive Director, American Legal Studies Association, 339 Cushing Hall, Northeastern University, Boston, MA 02115. Members' dues (including a copy of the Forum) are $32 for one year, $60 for two years and $84 for three years.

sociological abstracts—table of contents

volume 41 number 2 jun 1993

	Abstracts	(Page)
100 methodology and research technology
0103 methodology (conceptual & epistemological)	93Z6687	641
0104 research methods/tools	Z6703	643
0105 statistical methods	Z6742	647
0161 models: mathematical & other	Z6755	649
0188 computer methods, media, & applications	Z6768	650
200 sociology: history and theory
0202 of professional interest (teaching sociology)	Z6775	653
0206 history & present state of sociology	Z6811	657
0207 theories, ideas, & systems	Z6864	664
0267 macrosociology: analysis of whole societies	Z6954	675
0285 comparative & historical sociology	Z6963	676
300 social psychology
0309 interaction within (small) groups (group processes, space use, leadership, coalitions, & teamwork)	Z6976	679
0312 personality & social roles (individual traits, social identity, adjustment, conformism, & deviance)	Z6990	680
0373 cognitive/interpretive sociologies, symbolic interactionism, & ethnomethodology	Z7050	688
0394 life cycle & biography	Z7071	690
400 group interactions
0410 social group identity & intergroup relations (groups based on race & ethnicity, age, & sexual orientation)	Z7073	691
0491 refugees	Z7164	701
0500 culture and social structure
0513 culture (kinship, forms of social organization, social cohesion & integration, & social representations)	Z7167	703
0514 social anthropology	Z7227	710
0600 complex organization
0621 jobs, work organization, workplaces, & unions	Z7252	715
0623 military sociology	Z7352	726
0624 bureaucratic structure/organizational sociology	Z7361	728
0665 social network analysis	Z7395	732
0671 sociology of business & entrepreneurism	Z7419	735
0674 voluntary associations/philanthropy	Z7422	735
0700 social change and economic development
0715 social change & economic development	Z7429	737
0749 market structures & consumer behavior	Z7471	742
0770 capitalism/socialism — world systems	Z7483	744
0800 mass phenomena
0826 social movements	Z7520	749
0827 public opinion	Z7563	754
0828 communication	Z7575	756
0829 collective behavior	Z7607	760
0842 sociology of leisure/tourism	Z7610	761
0850 popular culture	Z7622	762
0868 transportation systems & behaviors	---	---
0869 sociology of sports	Z7629	763
0900 political sociology/interactions
0911 interactions between societies, nations, & states	Z7651	767
0925 sociology of political systems, politics, & power	Z7683	771
0989 welfare state	Z7745	779
0995 nationalism	Z7760	781
1000 social differentiation
1019 social stratification/mobility	Z7774	783
1020 sociology of occupations & professions	Z7804	786
1022 generations/intergenerational relations	---	---
1100 rural sociology and agriculture
1116 rural sociology (village, agriculture)	Z7874	795
1200 urban sociology
1218 urban sociology	Z7908	801
1300 sociology of language and the arts
1330 sociology of language/sociolinguistics	Z7922	805
1331 sociology of art (creative & performing)	Z7963	810
1375 sociology of literature	Z7972	811

	Abstracts	(Page)
1400 sociology of education
1432 sociology of education	Z7976	813
1500 sociology of religion
1535 sociology of religion	Z8102	829
1600 social control
1636 sociology of law	Z8180	839
1653 police, penology, & correctional problems	Z8220	844
1700 sociology of science
1734 sociology of science	Z8252	849
1772 sociology of technology	Z8268	851
1800 demography and human biology
1837 demography (population studies)	Z8279	853
1844 human biology/sociobiology	Z8335	859
1864 genetic engineering/reproductive biotechnology	---	---
1900 the family and socialization
1938 sociology of the child	Z8342	861
1939 adolescence & youth	Z8370	864
1940 sociology of sexual behavior	Z8411	869
1941 sociology of the family, marriage, & divorce	Z8451	874
1976 socialization	Z8533	883
1977 birth control (abortion, contraception, fertility, & childbearing)	Z8539	884
1978 sociology of death & dying	Z8584	890
2000 sociology of health and medicine
2045 sociology of medicine & health care	Z8602	893
2046 social psychiatry (mental health)	Z8749	911
2079 substance use/ abuse & compulsive behaviors (drug abuse, addiction, alcoholism, gambling, eating disorders, etc.)	Z8810	919
2100 social problems and social welfare
2143 social gerontology	Z8889	931
2147 sociology of crime	Z8934	936
2148 social work & welfare services	Z8959	939
2151 juvenile delinquency	Z8962	939
2187 social service programs/delivery systems	Z8985	942
2190 victimology (rape, family violence, child abuse)	Z8994	943
2192 sociological practice (clinical & applied)	Z9009	945
2200 sociology of knowledge
2233 sociology of knowledge	Z9018	947
2252 history of ideas	Z9035	949
2300 community/regional development
2317 sociology of communities & regions	Z9048	953
2400 policy, planning, forecasting
2454 planning & forecasting	Z9067	955
2460 social indicators	Z9077	956
2462 policy sciences	Z9084	957
2496 negotiation, dispute settlements	Z9110	960
2499 sociology of ethics & ethical decision making	---	---
2500 radical sociology
2555 Marxist & radical sociologies	Z9119	963
2580 critical sociology	Z9122	963
2600 environmental interactions
2656 environmental interactions	Z9125	965
2681 disaster studies/risk	Z9149	967
2682 social geography	Z9179	971
2697 famine, hunger & malnutrition	---	---
2700 studies in poverty
2757 studies in poverty	Z9183	973
2793 homelessness	Z9199	975
2800 studies in violence
2858 studies in violence	Z9214	977
2884 terrorism	Z9236	979
2898 genocide	Z9237	980
2900 feminist/gender studies
2959 feminist studies	Z9238	981
2983 sociology of gender & gender relations	Z9279	986
IRPS No. 67		93
author index		993
source index		1013
subject index		1037
additional advertising		1210
list of abbreviations		Cover III

0100 methodology and research technology

03 methodology (conceptual & epistemological)

93Z6687

Agnoli, Marie Stella (Facoltà sociologia U Roma, I-00185 Italy), La scelta del problema fra autonomia e istituzione (Autonomy and Institutions in Problem Choosing), Sociologia e Ricerca Sociale, 1992, 13, 38, Sept, 5-39. (ITA)

¶ Problem finding, problem setting, & problem choosing act as the logical-procedural background to problem solving. Here, it is suggested that the system of sociocognitive interdependence in which the scientist works constrains his/her autonomy in decision making, specifically with respect to choice of problem to be investigated. Factors that contribute to the determination of individual & collective research projects are distinguished between those internal to the science system & those external. The internal factors are classified into four categories, ie, those concerning: the researcher (personal interest, value orientation, previous knowledge, etc); the disciplinary context (level of paradigmatic integration, professionalization, & technical requirements); the scientific community (level of uncertainty of the tasks & of coordination difficulty, rigidity/flexibility in the division of work); & the organizational context (dispersion/concentration, degree of interdependence of the different components, etc). External factors are categorized as: establishment of the research & development system; research policy & allocation of resources; technological level; level of interrelation of the scientific system with the educational, economic, political, & cultural systems; & level of articulation & structure of market demand for scientific competences. Together these factors, which interact considerably, form a filter in the choice of problem. However, in terms of the formulation of the problem, cognitive factors assume growing importance; therefore it is in the course of the actual process of investigation that the researcher regains his scope & autonomy in decision making & the research assumes its personal character. 100 References. Modified AA

93Z6688

Bless, Herbert, Bohner, Gerd, Hild, Traudel & Schwarz, Norbert (U Mannheim, D-6800 Federal Republic Germany), Asking Difficult Questions: Task Complexity Increases the Impact of Response Alternatives, European Journal of Social Psychology, 1992, 22, 3, May-June, 309-312.

¶ Using questionnaire data for 183 Ss randomly assigned to a 2 (low vs high frequency scale) X 2 (absolute vs relative frequency report) factorial design, the frequency with which individuals engaged in 5 different behaviors regarding TV consumption is investigated. It was assumed that Ss would simplify the task of estimating consumption time by relying on the range of the response alternatives. The findings reveal that Ss reported higher frequencies when provided with high rather than low frequency response alternatives, indicating that reliance on estimation strategies increases as it becomes more difficult to derive a memory-based answer. The results extend previous research by suggesting that any other variable that increases task difficulty may also increase Ss' reliance on the range of response alternatives presented to them. 1 Table, 7 References. S. Millett

93Z6689

Burjanek, Aleš & Nekuda, Jaroslav (U Masarykova, CS-60177 Brno Czechoslovakia), Některé teoreticko-metodologické otázky mezinárodních sociálně ekonomických komparací (Some Theoretical and Methodological Questions on International Social and Economic Comparison), Sociológia, 1991, 23, 4, 327-337. (CZE)

¶ Over the last several years, the increasing appearance of the economic backwardness of Czechoslovakia brought into focus the need for comparative social & economic studies with other nations. Problems that should be addressed by the comparative studies include: a theoretical concept, comparability & equality, the system contex, country choice strategy, & subjective influences. Rarely does the immediate product of the study provide a solution directly applicable to the acute conditions of Czechoslovakia; however, it is hoped that broader insight can be gained into many issues. 1 Figure, 17 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6690

Déry, Richard (Service enseignement administration resources humains Ecole hautes études commerciales, Montreal Quebec H3T 1V6), Enjeux et controverses épistémologiques dans le champ des sciences de l'administration (Risks and Epistemological Controversies in the Field of Administrative Science), Revue Canadienne des Sciences de l'Administration/Canadian Journal of Administrative Sciences, 1992, 9, 1, Mar, 1-12. (FRE)

¶ Presented are the main arguments of the orthodox model of science, which dominated the epistemology of the administrative sciences until the end of the 1970s. Arguments raised in the recent rejection of the orthodox model, it is suggested, reveal a variety of research methods & practices used in the administrative sciences. This variety is a fresh avenue of critique, & is related to the representation of administrative sciences in terms of a social process. It is concluded that a solid epistemological foundation of the administrative sciences should be based on empirical research. Suggested are specific research directions, eg, a study of the relations between administrative science & practice. 155 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6691

Imelman, Jan Dirk (Rijks U Utrecht, NL-3508 TC Netherlands), Culturpedagogische wegen en omwegen (Cultural Pedagogy Paths and Detours), Comenius, 1992, 46, summer, 205-212. (DUT)

¶ A literature review shows that the social sciences suffer from three types of relativity: (1) their historical object; (2) their ways of questioning & methods for description, comprehension, & explanation; & (3) the way in which the knowledge produced by the sciences often ends up changing the nature of the object. In visualizing & thinking about everyday life, people often make decisions based on social science findings. Thus, the social world is changed in accordance with social science theories. Very few schools of sociology attempt to deal with these relatives. Ignoring the epistemological quality of their assumptions, many theories pretend to be universally valid. 11 References. M. Meeks

93Z6692

Long, Douglas C. (U North Carolina, Chapel Hill 27599), The Self-Defeating Character of Skepticism, Philosophy and Phenomenological Research, 1992, 52, 1, Mar, 67-84.

¶ Skeptics who doubt the existence of an external world commit an epistemological error that renders their self-conscious skepticism incoherent & self-defeating. Such skeptics assume that individuals have a right to be certain of their own existence as a subject of conscious experience, even in the face of doubt about empirical beliefs. The coherence of self-conscious skepticism is challenged on the grounds that introspective knowledge utlimately depends on innate capacities to perceive ourselves as individual agents from an objective point of view shared by others. Philosophical doubt undermines the perceptual access to oneself as an individual subject of mental states that is necessary to know of one's existence as a subject & to be capable of self-reference. W. Howard

93Z6693

Lantley, Michael (Dept Philosophy U Warwick, Coventry CV4 7AL England), Practice Makes Knowledge?, Inquiry, 1992, 35, 3-4, Sept-Dec, 447-461.

¶ A review essay on a book by Pierre Bourdieu, The Logic of Practice (Stanford: Stanford U Press, 1990 [see listing in IRPS No. 67]). This work offers an abstrusely written reexamination of the conditions of knowledge in the social sciences, focusing on the concepts of practice & habitus. Bourdieu argues that the dichotomy between subjectivism & objectivism has proven ruinous for the social sciences, because both modes of knowledge are equally opposed to the practical mode of knowledge that is the basis of ordinary experience in the social world. It is maintained that Bourdieu's account of the theory-practice dichotomy is too clear-cut, & that his conception of theory impoverishes the concept of practice he develops. W. Howard

93Z6694

Luper-Foy, Steven (Trinity U, San Antonio TX 78212), The Absurdity of Life, Philosophy and Phenomenological Research, 1992, 52, 1, Mar, 85-101.

¶ A discussion of the attempt made by Thomas Nagel in "The Absurd" (Journal of Philosophy, 1971, 63, 716-727) & in The View from Nowhere (New York: Oxford U Press, 1986) to show that life is necessarily absurd. Nagel has misdiagnosed the source of absurdity, & he has exaggerated the extent to which it is unavoidable. While there are limits to what we can & should do to escape absurdity, our lives are not necessarily absurd. Modified AA (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6695

Malpas, Jeffrey Edward (School Social Sciences Murdoch U, Western Australia 6150), Analysis and Hermeneutics, Philosophy and Rhetoric, 1992, 25, 2, 93-123.

¶ In discussing the work of Scandinavian praxeologist Jakob Meløe, philosopher Carl Erik Kühl (for both, see Skirbekk, Gunnar [Ed], Praxeology: An Anthology, Bergen, Stavanger, Oslo, Tromso: Universitet forslaget, 1983) suggests a distinction between two sorts of definitional practice: the analytic, according to which the term to be defined must not be presupposed as part of the definition; & the hermeneutic, which holds the peculiarity that it seems to violate the analytic requirement of noncircularity–ie, hermeneutic definition typically defines a term in such a way that the definiendum is presupposed as part of the definiens. Here, the concept of hermeneutic definition & the nature of hermeneutic philosophical practice in general are examined. Focus is on the work of Martin Heidegger & the later Ludwig Wittgenstein, identifying characteristic features of the hermeneutic approach as exemplified in their work. Hermeneutic practice is seen as essentially disclosive: it aims at showing rather than deducing or demonstrating. It is argued that an analytic approach is entirely inappropriate to the reading of such hermeneutic writing: the hermeneutic must be seen, not only as involving a different philosophical style on the part of the writer, but also as requiring a more self-consciously hermeneutic approach on the part of the reader. But while the hermeneutic approach is quite independent of the analytic, analytic practice may nevertheless presuppose the hermeneutic in the same way as analysis presupposes disclosure. AA (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6696

Mauviel, Maurice, Recherche inter-ethnique: evolution des modeles en sciences sociales dans les annees quatre-vingt (Interethnic Research: Evolution of Models in Social Sciences in the 1980s), Cahiers de Sociologie Economique et Culturelle, Ethnopsychologie, 1992, 17, June, 9-27. (FRE)

¶ Examined are the contributions of anthropology, history, psychoanalysis, & linguistics in the past decade to a critical reanalysis of ethnicity, tradition, & nationalism. Interethnic studies in anthropology & history center on epistemological & methodological problems. Interdisciplinary studies considering a comparison of Europeans' cultural perceptions & models distinguishing between strong & weak nationalization offer alternatives to contemporary analyses. In light of the resurgence of nationalism & ethnic conflicts especially in postcommunist societies, the explanatory power of the psychological theory of prejudice proves insufficient. The latest research in linguistics & psychoanalysis points to new perspectives in individual & collective misunderstanding. Future generations of social scientists should return to the original works of the Chicago school of sociology, with an emphasis on cultural contacts. 29 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6697

O'Brien, Robert M., Burns, William J. & Slovic, Paul (Coll Arts & Sciences U Oregon, Eugene 97403-1291), The Effects of Sampling on Measures of Association between Variables Based on Sample Means, Quality and Quantity, 1992, 26, 4, Nov, 409-425.

¶ Issues that arise in the analysis of variables based on the mean ratings of a set of respondents (Rs) are addressed. These issues arise because the mean scores for occupations, crimes, or events are not based on all potential Rs & their possible responses to a question, but rather, on a sample of responses from a given number of Rs. The sampling of Rs & their responses suggests that the effects of different sources of sampling error on the estimates are considered. The analysis derives estimates of the variance of variables & the covariance between variables that have been corrected for these sampling errors. It is shown how these estimates are used to assess the reliability of mean ratings of events & how this reliability depends on the number of Rs. To illustrate how to compute these estimates, 42 Rs rated 40 events on 7 risk perception variables. Computing the variance & covariance for these variables based on event means resulted in a relatively large component attributable to measurement error. 1 Table, 3 Figures, 14 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6698

Patry, Jean-Puc (Pädagogisches Instit U Freiburg, CH-1700 Switzerland), Der Geltungsbereich sozialwissenschaftlicher Aussagen. Das Problem der Situationsspezifität (The Domain of Statements in the Social Sciences. The Problem of Situation Specificity), Zeitschrift für Sozial Psychologie, 1991, 22, 4, 223-244. (GER)

¶ It is argued that the validity of scientific statements in psychology should extend beyond the parameters of empirical testing to insure their generalizability. An object theory of generalizability based on a social learning theory of situation specificity is proposed to judge how far the domain of validity should extend. The value of this theory is assessed, & the problem of generalizability in psychological research discussed. 2 Tables, 1 Figure, 119 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6699

Scott, Iain C. & Irvine, Andrew D. (U British Columbia, Vancouver V6T 1W5), Methodology, Ideology and Rationality: J. R. Brown's The Rational and the Social, Dialogue, 1991, 30, 4, fall, 603-614.

¶ A review essay on a book by James Robert Brown, The Rational and the Social (London & New York: Routledge, 1989 [see listing in IRPS No. 67]). Brown offers a critique of sociological accounts of science, & develops an approach to scientific knowledge that integrates both sociological & rationalist elements. He argues that sociological & anthropological accounts of science are correct only to the extent that the premise on which they are based–ie, that social forces necessarily & inevitably interact with rational theory selection–is true. Sociological accounts of science are inadequate, however, because they ignore or undervalue the role that rationality plays within the scientific enterprise. A valuable contribution to the analysis of scientific knowledge, Brown's book points up the significance of recent debates in the philosophy of science for epistemological issues in general & offers a compelling, if flawed, approach to scientific knowledge that goes beyond the strong program in the sociology of knowledge. 10 References. W. Howard (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6700

Van de Vall, Mark (Dept Sociology Erasmus U Rotterdam, NL-3000 DR Netherlands [e-mail: vall@soc.fsw.eur.nl; FAX: 010-4530758]), The Clinical Approach: Triangulated Program Evaluation and Adjustment, Knowledge and Policy, 1991, 4, 3, fall, 41-57.

¶ The major principles & methods of scientific clinical program evaluation are examined & compared with the academic approach. Applications of this analysis to the redefinition or revision of social policies illustrate the triangulation of quantitative (summative), qualitative (process), & program adjustment (formative) evaluation methods. In clinical evaluation, improving the program is part of the method. 6 Figures, 46 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6701

Yturbe, Corina (U Nacional Autónoma México, 04510 Mexico DF), Individualismo metodológico y holismo en las explicaciones de las ciencias sociales (Metholodological Individualism and Holism in Social Science Explications), Sociológica, 1990, 5, 14, Sept-Dec, 49-61. (SPA)

¶ An exploration of how methodological individualism is used to explain social events & how this position came to be utilized as an alternative to holistic or structural approaches. The fundamental principles of methodological individualism are analyzed, & arguments for & against this approach considered. It is concluded that individualism & holism in social science theory are neither competitive nor mutually exclusive perspectives, but complementary approaches to understanding reality. 11 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6702

——, Symposium on the Social History of Objectivity, Social Studies of Science, 1992, 22, 4, Nov, 595-651.

In an Introduction to this special collection of papers, first presented at the 1989 meeting of the History of Science Society in Seattle, Wash, Theodore M. Porter (U of California, Los Angeles) discusses their unity around the theme of historical & cultural meanings of objectivity as applied to the social sciences. The authors focus on challenging perspectives on objectivity that perceive it as a negative quality. In Objectivity and the Escape from Perspective, Lorraine Daston (U of Göttingen, Federal Republic of Germany) argues that scientific objectivity is "neither monolithic nor immutable," but comprised of several metaphysical, methodological, & moral meanings, each with a distinct history. The origins of aperspectival objectivity are located in late-eighteenth century moral & aesthetic philosophy, from which it spread to the natural sciences in the mid-nineteenth century as a result of a reorganization of scientific life. Distinct from both the ontological & mechanical aspects of objectivity, aperspectival objectivity focuses on eliminating individual (or sometimes group) idiosyncracies. In From Truth to Disinterestedness in the Seventeenth Century, Peter Dear (Cornell U, Ithaca, NY) traces a semantic shift in the use of the word "objective," & the issues arising from it, in the seventeenth century. From an attachment to the concept of "truth," objectivity came to imply "disinterestedness," as European intellectual life became restructured during the scientific revolution. This shift is attributed to a general loss of credibility by the scholastic educational structure, which ushered in new ways of creating knowledge. Modern uses of "objective" have maintained this transformation in meaning. In Quantification and the Accounting Ideal in Science, Porter notes that scholars have traditionally defined objectivity as nearly synonymous with "realism," & suggests instead that it be considered in terms of "impersonality." Accounting is discussed as an example of this type of objectivity, demonstrating how quantification can serve as a strategy to overcome distance & distrust. Implications for the natural sciences are discussed. Adapted from the source document.

04 research methods

93Z6703

Anderson, James A. (Dept Communication U Utah, Salt Lake City 84112), On the Ethics of Research in a Socially Constructed Reality, Journal of Broadcasting & Electronic Media, 1992, 36, 3, summer, 353-358.

¶ In contrast to the monolithic ethical concern in traditional foundationalist science with proper methodology, the ethical issues in a social constructivist science demand hermeneutic empiricism. This brand of qualitative research builds on semiotic analysis, holding the scholar responsible for noninnocent, subjective claims about the nature of reality. Descriptive & normative approaches to the study of the truthful products of human accomplishment are unified. The hermeneutic perspective is used to analyze a statement from a social scientist connecting crime & race, pointing to its potential for harmful racial implications. The scientist should be the agent of social change, & facilitate the development of a coherent social policy through morally significant research. 11 References. J. Sadler

93Z6704

Bawden, D. Lee & Sonenstein, Freya L. (Human Resources Policy Center Urban Instit, 2100 M St NW Washington DC 20037), Quasi-Experimental Designs, Children and Youth Services Review, 1992, 14, 1-2, 137-144.

¶ In evaluations of social programs, quasi-experimental designs are sometimes preferable to experimental designs with random assignment to treatment & control groups. Examined here is the situation in which experimental evaluation designs may be inappropriate. When faced with these limiting conditions, analysts can choose a number of approaches that will strengthen the rigor of their quasi-experimental designs. 8 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6705

Caulfield, Jon (York U, North York Ontario M3J 1P3), The Work of Knowledge in the Age of Mechanical Reproduction, Visual Sociology, 1991, 6, 2, fall, 5-8.

¶ Drawing on the work of Walter Benjamin ("The Work of Art in the Age of Mechanical Reproduction," in Arendt, Hannah [Ed], Illuminations, New York: Schocken Books, 1969, 217-251), it is argued that the use of visual images in disseminating sociological knowledge may have democratizing possibilities. These are analogous to those that Benjamin believed arose from the destruction of "aura" by the mechanical reproduction of works of art. 5 References. Modified AA

93Z6706

Cortés, Fernando (Centro Estudios Sociológicos Colegio México, 01000 Mexico DF), La perversión empirista (The Empirical Perversion), Estudios Sociológicos, 1991, 9, 26, May-Aug, 365-373. (SPA)

¶ Even though the intervention of theory into the construction of empirical data is accepted in principle in Latin American social science, logical empiricism survives in the practice of research. The writings of Hempel & Carnap (no references provided) exemplify three contradictions: (1) the differences between observational & theoretical statements, which are only differences of degree, so that there is direct access to reality, when in fact there is an important argument that reality presents itself in different garbs according to the conceptual tools with which it is approached; (2) the concept of objectivity as reference to an empirical object vs the product of intersubjective agreement, when both are based on observational statements; & (3) the usual distinction made between theoretical & empirical research, despite the denial of qualitative differences between their statements; ie, if this denial is correct, there should be no need to qualify research. Suggestions are offered as to how these contradictions can be resolved by redefining the problem of objectivity, denying the difference between theoretical & empirical research, & redefining the argument that gives greater weight to the former. Modified AA

93Z6707

Criticos, Costas & Quinlan, Tim (Media Resource Centre U Natal, Durban South Africa), Community Video: Power and Process, Visual Sociology, 1991, 6, 2, fall, 39-52.

¶ South African ethnographic filmmakers who incorporate community video into their work consider issues of empowerment, emancipation, & practical problems that are manifest in the politics of video use. Two recent projects are discussed, one documenting the life of Indian fishermen in Durban, South Africa, & a second focusing on the life of herders in the alpine regions of Lesotho. The attraction of community video to academics is explored, identifying the ways that this medium provides a powerful tool for cultural, political, & philosophical expression. Emphasized also is the relationship between researcher & subject, which determines the distribution of power & knowledge. 10 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6708

Daley, James G., Sowers-Hoag, Karen M. & Thyer, Bruce A. (c/o Sowers-Hoag–Dept Social Work Florida International U, North Miami 33181), Construct Validity of the Circumplex Model of Family Functioning, Journal of Social Service Research, 1991, 15, 1-2, 131-147.

¶ An empirical evaluation of a measurement instrument (Family Adaptability & Cohesion Evaluation Scale [FACES]) designed to guage the cohesion & adaptability hypothesized in the circumplex model of family functioning (see SA 28:2/80K6669). The construct validity of this model, premised on a quadratic relationship between scores on FACES & family dysfunction, was tested. An analysis of scores by adult family members (N = 258) tested on both FACES & on the Index of Family Relations (IFR) does not confirm the predicted quadratic relationship; in addition, IFR & FACES scores were not similar. Thus, the family adaptability dimension of the model was not supported. 6 Tables, 17 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6709

Dancy, Barbara L. (Coll Nursing U Illinois, Chicago 60612), The Development of an Ethnically Sensitive and Gender-Specific AIDS Questionnaire for African-American Women, Health Values, 1991, 15, 6, Nov-Dec, 49-54.

¶ The AIDS (acquired immune deficiency syndrome) Knowledge, Feelings, & Behavior Questionnaire (AKFBQ) was developed to acquire baseline data on African-American women's knowledge, feelings, & behavior regarding AIDS. The AKFBQ was then tested in a pilot study involving a quota sample of 319 African-American women, ages 20-77. Ss' reactions to the AKFBQ, along with factor analysis & internal consistency, are discussed. 4 Tables, 13 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6710

Dangler, Jamie Faricellia (State U New York Coll, Cortland 13045), Response to "The Use of Semistructured Interviews in Developing Superfund Community Relations Plans," by Edwin J. Rossman, Sociological Practice Review, 1992, 3, 4, Oct, 279-281.

¶ Edwin J. Rossman is commended for his analysis of data collection methods used to develop superfund community relations plans (see SA 40:5/92Z3763). It is argued that social scientists must be cognizant of any potential discrepancy between the stated intentions of those who commission their studies & the objective possibilities for applying research results in a way consistent with publicized goals. W. Howard

93Z6711

De Silva, W. I. (Research School Social Sciences Australian National U, Canberra ACT 2601), Response Reliability of Demographic Data: A Longitudinal Study in Sri Lanka, Journal of Biosocial Science, 1992, 24, 1, Jan, 77-88.

¶ A sample of 2,219 women interviewed in the 1982 Sri Lanka Contraceptive Prevalence Survey were reinterviewed 3 years later to investigate response consistency. Findings indicated that 78% reported identical year of birth, but only 58% were consistent for age at marriage. Data on sterilization & number of children born were highly reliable, but wives' reports on husband age & education were relatively weak. Multivariate analysis of the effects of socioeconomic factors on consistency in age reporting confirms that education is the most influential factor related to consistency, followed by religion & husband's occupation. 4 Tables, 29 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6712

Dessk, Charles E. & Finkel, Steven E. (Dept Sociology U Virginia, Charlottesville 22903), The Aggregate Impact of Explanatory Variables in Logit and Linear Probability Models, UM American Journal of Political Science, 1992, 36, 3, Aug, 785-804.

¶ Discussed are methods for computing aggregate change in probabilities of a binary dependent variable from changes in distributions of independent variables in logit & linear probability models. A measure for the logit model is developed, based on a Taylor series of polynomial expansion that solves the problems inherent in the nonlinearity & nonadditivity of the logit specification. The method can be used to make out-of-sample predictions based on real or hypothetical changes in one or more independent variables, or to assess the relative importance of different independent variables by computing the change in dependent probabilities accounted for by each. On the basis of simulations & empirical data from the 1972-1976 National Election Studies, it is demonstrated that the aggregate logit impact measure can produce substantially different numerical results from the equivalent measure for linear probability models. Recommendations are made for future research on the application of the logit method, along with some criteria for choosing logit vs linear aggregate impact measures. 3 Tables, 2 Figures, 2 Appendixes, 15 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6713

Gold, Steven J. (Dept Sociology Whittier Coll, CA 90608), Ethnic Boundaries and Ethnic Entrepreneurship: A Photo-Elicitation Study, Visual Sociology, 1991, 6, 2, fall, 9-22.

¶ To study the relationship between 2 subpopulations of Vietnamese refugees in the US–the highly entrepreneurial Chinese-Vietnamese & the more numerous ethnic Vietnamese, in-depth interviews were conducted with 4 Ss, based on photographs of Vietnamese & Chinese-Vietnamese refugees, used to identify: if & how refugees can visually determine a person's ethnicity; what traits respondents associate with either of the 2 subpopulation; & if younger, Americanized refugees understand ethnic boundaries differently than the older, Vietnam-oriented generation. Results indicate that: the Chinese-Vietnamese & ethnic Vietnamese generally can determine the ethnicity of persons shown, their characterizations of both themselves & the "other" group are fairly consistent, & ethnic boundaries appear to be of diminishing importance in the US. 6 Photographs, 20 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6714

Grady, John (Dept Sociology & Anthropology Wheaton Coll, Norton MA 02766), The Visual Essay and Sociology, Visual Sociology, 1991, 6, 2, fall, 23-38.

¶ A discussion of visual sociology, as both an art form & a social science. While largely marginalized in contemporary sociology departments, visual sociology poses major challenges to the traditional study of sociology. If held to rigid standards of scholarship, a sociological essay can be recorded either on paper or with film. The promise of such scholarship includes real-time documentation of cultural practices, less-mediated collection of data on social distances & behaviors, & a more organic recording of the Ss' emotions & instrumental activities. Other ways that visual sociology can help revitalize sociology are also considered. 32 References. M. Maguire

93Z6715

Günther, Hartmut (Instit Psychology U Brazil, 70910 Brasilia DF), Interviewing Street Children in a Brazilian City, Journal of Social Psychology, 1992, 132, 3, June, 359-367.

¶ Based on experience in interviewing 110 street children in Brazil, topics discussed include: preparation of interview questions, interaction during the interviews between interviewer & respondent, & interaction following the interview. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6716

Hansen, Erik Jörgen (Socialforskningsinstit, DK-1300 Copenhagen K Denmark), Kampen om forskningen (Struggling with Research Elements), Dansk Sociologi, 1992, 3, 3, Sept, 4-17. (DAN)

¶ An analysis of recent developments at applied social research institutes in Denmark. The system of financing, involvement of government officials on decision-making boards, importance of grants for program evaluation, & changes in organizational structures will have serious consequences for the quality & usefulness of research results. In contrast to the general marketplace, with many sources of demand for a particular product, the demand for social science research is solely from the government, which purchases research results that invariably state that government programs are largely successful. Thus, scientific objectivity is sacrificed for business purposes. To remedy the situation, it is suggested that: the research institutions become independent of the ministries; recruiting be based on scientific qualifications; & guidelines be established to protect free scientific expression. 3 Photographs, 12 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6717

Harris, Thomas R., Evans, Gano S. & Rafflee, Kambiz (Dept Agricultural Economics U Nevada, Reno 89557), The Need for Multiple Information Sources in the Formulation of an Economic Development Plan: An Application of Delphi, Community, and Executive Survey Techniques, Journal of the Community Development Society, 1991, 22, 2, 47-67.

¶ Due to the growing economic disparity between urban & rural areas in the 1980s, a number of federal & state programs & initiatives have been proposed & enacted to help revitalize rural economies. Using rural Churchill County, Nev, for illustration, a research design is developed that improves the collection & synthesis of local & nonresident input in the formulation of a local economic development plan. The design facilitates qualitative forecasting by calling for a series of continuously refined questionnaires. 10 Tables, 25 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6718

Helmericks, Steven G., Nelsen, Randal L. & Unnithan, N. Prabha (c/o Unnithan–Colorado State U, Fort Collins 80523), The Researcher, the Topic, and the Literature: A Procedure for Systematizing Literature Searches, The Journal of Applied Behavioral Science, 1991, 27, 3, Sept, 285-294.

The logic of fieldwork methods is used to develop a procedure for entering the range & representativeness of publications included in a literature search. The research topic is viewed as a "sensitizing concept," & publications & authors are identified as "sites" & "informants," respectively. Snowball sampling allows the researcher to build a sampling frame of publications, & to identify key sites & informants using consensual & gatekeeper validation criteria. These key sites & informants are subjected to careful reading resembling content analysis. 35 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6719

Henderson, Deborah & Hendershott, Anne B. (Center Survey Research U Hartford, West Hartford CT), Taking the Role of the Other in Designing and Disseminating Evaluation Research: A Case Study, Sociological Practice Review, 1992, 3, 4, Oct, 268-271.

An argument is made for the utility of a cooperative evaluation effort, demonstrating how "taking the role of the other" can help inform the evaluation design & the subsequent dissemination of results. A case study of an evaluation at an adolescent parenting & pregnancy prevention program in a large northeastern city illustrates how evaluation research could better contribute to the making of social policy if its results could be perceived within the program's social & political context. 5 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6720

Holtzworth-Munroe, Amy, Waltz, Jennifer, Jacobson, Neil S., Monaco, Valerie, Fehrenbach, Peter A. & Gottman, John M. (Dept Psychology Indiana U, Bloomington IN 47405), Recruiting Nonviolent Men as Control Subjects for Research on Marital Violence: How Easily Can It Be Done?, Violence and Victims, 1992, 7, 1, spring, 79-88.

¶ Questionnaire & scale data regarding the prevalence of violence among Ss (total N = 552) recruited for nonviolent control groups in 5 studies are presented. Ss were recruited using a variety of methods, eg, couples seeking marital therapy & couples recruited from newspaper advertisements. Across the studies, findings suggest that up to 33% of maritally nondistressed couples & 50% of maritally distressed couples report that husband violence has occurred in their relationship. Implications for the recruitment of control groups in future studies of marital violence are discussed, & questions regarding the recruitment of nonviolent couples for control groups are raised. 3 Tables, 21 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6721

Horowitz, Irving Louis (Rutgers U, New Brunswick NJ 08903), The Place of the Festschrift, Scholarly Publishing, 1990, 21, 2, Jan, 77-83.

¶ In an attempt to define the festschrift–ie, a publication that celebrates an event or honors a person, specifically someone in the physical or social sciences, or other humanities–as both a literary form & a publishing albatross, a checklist is offered of steps to the successful publication of this genre. It is concluded that in a world in which heroes & heroines are in short supply, the fetschrift will continue to serve as a reward for the best & an inspiration for the brightest. L. Dorn

93Z6722

Khan, M. E. & Manderson, Lenore (Population Council, Baroda India), Focus Groups in Tropical Diseases Research, Health Policy and Planning, 1992, 7, 1, Mar, 56-66.

¶ Focus groups are utilized to gather information primarily about beliefs, values, & understanding. Participants in focus groups are specifically selected to explore the range of these beliefs in a study population, & are guided by relatively strict rules of structure & procedure. Group dynamics facilitate the collection of relatively detailed information on prevalent attitudes & ideas, conflicts, & contradictions. The need for flexibility in the conduct of these groups in developing country settings is examined, & their applicability in tropical diseases research investigated. 2 Figures, 1 Chart, 30 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6723

Kleiner, Robert J. & Okeke, Barnabas I. (Temple U, Philadelphia PA 19122), Advances in Field Theory: New Approaches and Methods in Cross-Cultural Research, Journal of Cross-Cultural Psychology, 1991, 22, 4, Dec, 509-524.

¶ Based on Kurt Lewin's field theory (Dynamic Theory of Personality, New York: McGraw-Hill, 1935), a new conceptual & methodological strategy has been proposed for cross-cultural research. Here, this strategy is applied to several recent research projects, & is deemed capable of explaining seemingly paradoxical findings. The place of objective, social, & subjective realities in such research, & the importance of considering their interrelationships are emphasized. The role of an interdisciplinary perspective & the appropriateness of traditional statistical models & their basic assumptions are examined, & new methods proposed to fit the requirements of a field-theory-based research strategy. 1 Table, 23 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6724

Link, Bruce G. & Shrout, Patrick E. (Epidemiology Mental Disorders Research Unit Columbia U, New York NY 10027), Spurious Associations in Longitudinal Research, Research in Community and Mental Health, 1992, 7, 301-321.

¶ In a typical longitudinal panel analysis of the association between a social variable & a psychological/medical disorder, a Time 1 measure of the disorder is controlled by examining the effect of the social variable on a Time 2 measure of the disorder. However, this specification of causality may be spurious in that a third (excluded) variable may be responsible for the association between the social & disorder variables, or patterns of correlation between the dependent & independent variables may generate apparent causal effects. A systematic means by which to avoid constructing these spurious models is proposed. Using LISREL & a series of models of spuriousness adapted from cross-legged correlation analysis, it is demonstrated that data from 2-wave panel studies cannot establish a causal relationship between 2 variables, unless tests to rule out alternative causal explanations (the models of spuriousness) & a logical inquiry are applied. The models of spuriousness can fit patterns of covariance between variables at 2 points in time or the models that depict the variance as causal. 5 Figures, 43 References. M. Pflum

93Z6725

Maio, Mark (Dept Ophthalmology State U New York, Buffalo 14215), Buffalo's Old First Ward: A Photographic Study, Visual Sociology, 1991, 6, 2, fall, 53-77.

¶ A personal experience with documentary photography & visual sociology in the Old First Ward, a neighborhood in Buffalo, NY, that was studied & photographed in depth, is described. Topics considered include the difficulty of finding an "eye" as a photographer & the personal relationships that made this process of self-discovery & photographic practice fruitful. 13 Photographs. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6726

Mauser, Gary A. & Kopel, David B. (Faculty Business Administration Simon Fraser U, Barnaby British Columbia V5A 1S6), "Sorry, Wrong Number": Why Media Polls on Gun Control Are Often Unreliable, Political Communication, 1992, 9, 2, Apr-June, 69-91.

¶ An examination of the quality of the surveys used by the media to investigate gun control, a controversial public policy issue, questioning the scientific quality of the methods used by media in their public opinion polls. Results suggest that many media polls are methodologically flawed & unreliable, suffering from a myriad of technical flaws: (1) slanted or technically incompetent questions, with results claiming to support a position that was never queried; (2) too few questions asked to adequately explore respondents' opinions; & (3) sampling biases stemming from the lack of outside quality controls & the propensity to produce fast results. 2 Tables. Modified AA

93Z6727

McKillip, Jack, Moirs, Katie & Cervenka, Christine (Southern Illinois U, Carbondale 62901-6502), Asking Open-Ended Consumer Questions to Aid Program Planning: Variations in Question Format and Length, Evaluation and Program Planning, 1992, 15, 1, 1-6.

¶ An investigation of the effects of question length & explicitness of directions (format) on responses to open-ended consumer satisfaction questions at 9 health promotion workshops presented on a college campus. Expert judges rated 271 answers written by 97 program participants on several dimensions, including usefulness for program planning, number of complimentary comments, & number of critical comments. Analysis reveals that question format, but not question length, was related to the usefulness of answers. More explicit response directions elicited more useful answers. This relationship was mediated by the ability of explicit directions to elicit critical comments. Implications for the use & the wording of open-ended questions in consumer research are discussed. 2 Tables, 1 Figure, 18 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6728

Moffatt, Michael (Dept Anthropology Rutgers U, New Brunswick NJ 08903), Ethnographic Writing about American Culture, Annual Review of Anthropology, 1992, 21, 205-229.

¶ A literature review of book-length ethnographies about the US published since 1980, 50% by anthropologists, 33% by sociologists. Topics discussed include: research strategies; intensity of research; modes of writing; & findings & interpretations about "American culture," contemporary individualism, class, community, religion, family, youth & age, & ethnic & racial variation. 245 References. Modified AA

93Z6729

Noma, Elliot (Statistical Modeling Associates, Highland Park NJ 08904), Determining Implied Relationships on Incomplete Ordinal Data, Quality and Quantity, 1992, 26, 4, Nov, 427-434.

¶ Described is a constructive method for determining ordinal relationships that are implied by data when the dataset is incomplete. The method can also diagnose inconsistencies in the data. The method is an extension of W. V. Gehrlein's & P. C. Fishburn's computational techniques for defining the space of all vectors satisfying a given set of linear inequalities (see SA 38:4/90V7256). 6 Tables, 13 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6730

Nugent, William R. (Florida Network Youth & Family Services, 804 East Park Ave Tallahassee 32301), A Mathematical Model for Analyzing Single Subject Design Replication Series, Journal of Social Service Research, 1991, 15, 1-2, 93-129.

¶ A mathematically rigorous model of two adjecent single case design phases is compared to two other classical analyses. In developing the model, the single subject phase is assumed to have equal numbers of equally spaced measures. Information is processed through the mathematical model, as well as through a pretest-posttest design & a single subject visual analysis. A comparison of the processing results reveals that the best way to demonstrate functional relationships between subject response & clinical intervention procedure is to systematically perform single subject replication series in tandem with classical group comparisons. 4 Tables, 5 Figures, 27 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6731

Reichertz, Jo (Fernuniversität Hagen, D-5800 1 Federal Republic Germany), Beschreiben oder Zeigen–Über das Verfassen Ethnographischer Berichte (Describing or Showing–On the Writing of Ethnographic Research Reports), Soziale Welt, 1992, 43, 3, 331-350. (GER)

¶ A key aspect of ethonographic scholarship, in addition to obtaining & analyzing data, is the composition of a final research report. Many qualitative studies lack standardization & suffer from undocumented data & conclusions; as such, their validity & reliability are often questionable. Hermeneutic procedures for analyzing field data need to take these limitations into account. Suggestions are offered for improving the quality of ethnographic research, with emphasis on data interpretation. Also addressed are ways to upgrade the final compilation of written reports. A literature review is included, & frequently encountered pitfalls are identified. 117 References. M. Meeks

93Z6732

Reuband, Karl-Heinz (U Cologne, D-5000 41 Federal Republic Germany), On Third Persons in the Interview Situation and Their Impact on Responses, International Journal of Public Opinion Research, 1992, 4, 3, autumn, 269-274.

¶ The impact of the presence of a third person in research involving face-to-face interviews is explored using data from national face-to-face surveys conducted in West Germany in 1987 (N = 7,559 adult respondents [Rs] in 6 cross-sectional surveys & 1,192 Rs in a 3-wave panel study). Findings demonstrate that interviewers frequently do not make serious attempts to protect the privacy of the R, as third persons were present in 28% of all interviews. Process that contribute to third-party presence, & the dynamics of their intervention in the interview process, are described. 2 Tables, 11 References. S. Millett

93Z6733

Ringdal, Kristen (Dept Sociology U Trondheim, N-7055 Dragvoll Norway), Recent Developments in Methods for Multilevel Analysis, Acta Sociologica, 1992, 35, 3, 235-243.

¶ Presented is a nontechnical review of recent contributions to multilevel analysis. Following a brief historical overview, a general linear model for multilevel analysis is described that consists of two sets of regression equations, one for the individual (micro) level & one for the group (macro) level. In the latter, the micro coefficients are considered as dependent variables. Several computer programs & statistical procedures developed to provide statistically satisfactory estimates of the general hierarchical linear model are reviewed, & an abbreviated example of a multilevel analysis is presented. Some important issues in multilevel research are also discussed. 2 Tables, 27 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6734

Schneider, William (Oral History Program U Alaska, Fairbanks 99775), Writing Life Histories from the Field, Journal of Narrative and Life History, 1992, 2, 1, 61-74.

¶ Experience obtained during the writing of the life histories of three Native Alaskan men is drawn on to explore issues of rendering oral narratives as text, the different needs of audiences in oral & literate settings, & how the relationship of narrator & collaborator influences the information & its presentation. To address these issues successfully the anthropologist must also consider the literary impact of the work. It is concluded that the literary consideration raised in this writing genre is basic to the most important of anthropological concerns, ie, the cross-cultural communication of understandings. 25 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6735

Singer, Eleanor, Hippler, Hans-Jürgen & Schwarz, Norbert (Center Social Sciences Columbia U, New York NY 10027), Confidentiality Assurances in Surveys: Reassurance or Threat?, International Journal of Public Opinion Research, 1992, 4, 3, autumn, 256-268.

¶ Previous research has indicated that the public's willingness to take part in surveys has gradually declined over the past thirty years. This has been attributed in part to increasing concerns about confidentiality. After reviewing the early literature, data are reported from 3 experiments conducted in the Federal Republic of Germany, 1988-1990 (total N = 207 university students & 198 adults from the general population) designed to investigate the effects of confidentiality on respondents' expectations & willingness to participate in surveys. Results confirm the hypothesis that confidentiality assurances are not always perceived as reassuring, & do not necessarily increase the public's willingness to respond. 3 Tables, 1 Appendix, 12 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6736

Sprangers, Mirjam & Hoogstraten, Johan (Netherlands Cancer Institute, Plesmanlaan 121 NL-1066 CX Amsterdam), Subject Bias in Three Self-Report Measures of Change, Methodika, 1991, 5, 1-13.

¶ In a methodological experiment, two kinds of study skills training–text-studying training & study-planning training–were assessed among 64 students at the U of Amsterdam, the Netherlands, who completed a self-report instrument & note-taking tasks as a pre- & posttest. Training program participants, even those in a "placebo" program, perceived that their study skills ability had increased through training, supporting the hypothesis of training-related S bias in measures of self-reported change. However, S bias was less operative in the direct improvement reporting made by the text-studying training groups only. Controlling for S bias by including both placebo & no-treatment controls is recommended, since no self-report measure is free from bias. 6 Tables, 17 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6737

Stebbins, Robert A. (Dept Sociology U Calgary, Alberta T2N 1N4), Concatenated Exploration: Notes on a Neglected Type of Longitudinal Research, Quality and Quantity, 1992, 26, 4, Nov, 435-442.

¶ Concatenated exploration (CE) is defined as both a longitudinal qualitative research process & the resulting set of field studies that are linked together in a chain leading to cumulative grounded theory. The methodological & theoretical foundations of CE are outlined, & its advantages & disadvantages assessed. A particular strength of CE is the opportunity it makes available for qualitative researchers to push the study of a set of related groups or social processes toward increased methodological & theoretical rigor without sacrificing flexibility & the further development of grounded theory. 1 Figure, 7 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6738

Stewart, Lea P. (Dept Communication Rutgers U, New Brunswick NJ 08903-5067 (Tel: 908-932-8842; Fax: 908-932-6916]), Ethical Issues in Postexperimental and Postexperiential Debriefing, Simulation & Gaming, 1992, 23, 2, June, 196-211.

¶ Ethical issues in debriefing simulations & games are discussed, with reference to similar issues involved in debriefing research experiments. It is found that ethical issues faced by debriefers & participants in postexperimental & postexperiential debriefing are similar; guidelines are presented for ethical participation in simulation/gaming debriefings. 21 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6739

Stouthamer-Loeber, Magda, van Kammen, Welmoet & Loeber, Rolf (WPIC, 3811 O'Hara St Pittsburgh PA 15213), The Nuts and Bolts of Implementing Large-Scale Longitudinal Studies, Violence and Victims, 1992, 7, 1, spring, 63-78.

¶ Studies that assess large numbers of Ss for longitudinal research, epidemiological purposes, or the evaluation of prevention & intervention efforts, are very costly. The success of such studies, apart from scientific merit, depends largely on the ability of the researcher to plan & set up a smoothly running operation. Here, experience gained in executing a longitudinal study is summarized, describing aspects related to planning, hiring of staff, training & supervision of interviewers, & data collection, entry, & management. The importance of the use of the computer as a management tool is stressed. 14 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6740

Van Tilburg, Theo (Dept Social Research Methodology Vrije U, NL-1081 HV Amsterdam Netherlands), Question Sequence Effects in the Measurement of Reciprocity, Quality and Quantity, 1992, 26, 4, Nov, 395-408.

¶ Sequence effects are discussed as a methodological problem in the measurement of reciprocity of social support. It is hypothesized that the likelihood that a relationship is reciprocal will be greater if the pairs of questions on receiving & giving support immediately succeed each other in the interview than if an entire set of questions on receiving support precedes the entire set of reversed questions. Analysis of responses to a survey conducted with an experimental design among 179 elderly in the Netherlands does not refute this hypothesis; a method effect of approximately 10% was observed in the expected direction. The method effect was also evident in results regarding the exchange orientation: under the pairwise condition, no significant associations were observed between exchange orientation & reciprocity, whereas significant associations in the expected direction were observed under the blockwise condition. 1 Table, 1 Figure, 1 Appendix, 23 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6741

Woelfel, Joseph & Barnett, George A. (Dept Communication U Buffalo, NY 14261), Procedures for Controlling Reference Frame Effects in the Measurement of Multidimensional Processes, Quality and Quantity, 1992, 26, 4, Nov, 367-381.

¶ The choice of a frame of reference against which to array physical motion is known to have a profound effect on the apparent trajectories of objects. Determination of which set of apparent trajectories is optimal in any case depends on theoretical considerations. A simple case of physical motion, the moving of clock hands against the face of a clock, is analyzed by repeated measures, multidimensional scaling procedures. Analysis demonstrates that standard multidimensional scaling procedures in everyday use are unable to describe this simple process, & that reference frame effects must be considered in the description of processes, whether physical, psychological, or cultural. Furthermore, even in very simple processes, artifactual orientation effects of multidimensional scaling solutions can be of the same order of magnitude as the effects of the actual processes themselves. Simple modifications that make it possible to generate the "correct" solutions are presented. 4 Tables, 7 Figures, 8 References. Adapted from the source document.

05 statistical methods

93Z6742

Crépel, Pierre (U Lyon I, F-69622 Velleurbanne Cedex France), Le Dernier mot de Condorcet sur les élections (Condorcet's Last Paper on Voting Theory), Mathématiques, Informatique et Sciences Humaines, 1990, 28, 111, autumn, 7-43. (FRE)

¶ Eight groups of the Marquis de Condorcet's (1743-1794) texts, including a last unpublished manuscript written after his Essai sur l'application de l'analyse à la probabilité des décisions rendues à la pluralité des voix ([Essay on the Analytical Application of Probability to Plural Voting Situations] 1785) are examined. Condorcet's general theory of elections, & textual variations are extracted from these writings, based on six criteria, including type of election & topic analyzed, justification, & external circumstances of the text. Condorcet's theory underwent further development once he realized the practical difficulties involved with his pair-by-pair comparison method, which he considered superior. 1 Appendix, 39 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6743

Croon, M. A. (Social Sciences Dept Tilburg U, NL-5000 Netherlands), Log-Linear Analysis of Partial Preference Rankings, Methodika, 1991, 5, 63-86.

¶ The applicability of the loglinear model to the analysis of partial preference ranking data is illustrated with attitudinal data on political values with three ranks. An incomplete three-dimensional contingency table with cells containing the observed frequencies of the rankings is first constructed, & restrictions are imposed on the model parameters to obtain a fully identified saturated model. The most parsimonious hierarchical submodel, which still provides a good fit, is then derived, based on log-likelihood ratio tests; this yields only a model from which all second-order interaction effects are removed, but which contains all first-order interaction effects. Thus, a bilinear decomposition of the first-order interaction effects is also obtained, using a maximum likelihood estimate in the first stage & a least-squares loss function in the second. This loglinear analysis of preference ranking serves to unveil the fine structure of the preference patterns in the data. 3 Tables, 2 Appendixes, 18 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6744
Flick, Uwe (Instit Psychologie Technische U Berlin, D-1000 10 Federal Republic Germany), Triangulation Revisited: Strategy of Validation or Alternative?, Journal for the Theory of Social Behaviour, 1992, 22, 2, June, 175-197.
¶ Historical & recent conceptions of triangulation in qualitative research are examined to address the question of validity in qualitative research more generally. The concept of "systematic triangulation of perspectives" of research is discussed in the context of different perspectives of qualitative research developed in general, & particularly, in Germany. These discussions, & their historical, theoretical, & methodological backgrounds in German psychology & sociology, are outlined. The application of systematic triangulation of perspectives is demonstrated using the example of a study on trust in counseling in sociopsychiatric services, where subjective theories on trust have been reconstructed in half-standardized interviews & the use of a graphic representation technique. These subjective theories were triangulated on the microlevel with conversation analyses of counseling talk, which was done by the interviewees, & on a macroanalytic level with studies concerning the history of the institution since the beginning of the century, & taking into account official versions of the aims & tasks of the institution as well as official statistics on the institution's activities with clients over a period of twenty years. Thus, multiperspective triangulation in this study was applied on the level of the single case as well as on the level of comparative analysis. Two specific examples of counseling interactions are presented that demonstrate the different perspectives of the methodical approach disclosed. Triangulation is discussed & reformulated as a "method-appropriate" strategy of founding the credibility of qualitative analyses. Developing new criteria or reformulating traditional criteria in such a way that they are appropriate to qualitative methods are also discussed as evaluation strategies of qualitative research in general. 4 Figures, 49 References. Modified AA (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6745
Hagle, Timothy M. & Mitchell, Glenn E., II (U Iowa, Iowa City 52242), Goodness-of-Fit Measures for Probit and Logit, UM American Journal of Political Science, 1992, 36, 3, Aug, 762-784.
¶ Though some regression analysts find the $R2$ statistic relatively useless, others use it extensively to evaluate model performance. In probit & logit analyses, the lack of an analog to the ordinary least squares (OLS) $R2$ statistic is problematic, & several pseudo-$R2$s have been proposed to help in the evaluation of model performance. Dichotomizing a continuous interval-level variable results in distortions due to a loss of information, the degree to which these distortions affect the pseudo-$R2$s vis-à-vis the OLS $R2$, which is based on the underlying continous dependent variable, is unknown. Here, simulation techniques are employed to compare four common pseudo-$R2$s for probit & logit with the $R2$ that would be obtained under OLS regression. After making a correction to one of the measures, two are found to compare quite favorably with the OLS $R2$. It is concluded that the choice between them may be simply a matter of availability & ease of use. 4 Tables, 2 Figures, 22 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6746
Kääriäinen, Juha, Att förena ett kvalitativt och ett kvantitativt perspektiv vid analys av socialvetenskapligt observationsmaterial (Combined Use of the Qualitative and the Quantitative Perspective in Analyzing Sociological Data), Alkoholpolitik, 1990, 7, 4, 177-183. (SWE) ¶ The utility of both qualitative & quantitative data in exploring the relationship between criminal recidivism & alcoholism is demonstrated, combining interview data from 184 Finnish offenders with data from crime investigation reports. The motivations underlying repeat criminality, at least among adult offenders, are often the result of impulsive efforts to obtain money for alcohol. Statistical methods appropriate for the analysis of each type of data are demonstrated. 3 Tables, 5 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6747
Kieser, Meinhard & Victor, Norbert (Instit medizinische Biometrie & Informatik U Heidelberg, D-6900 Federal Republic Germany), A Test Procedure for an Alternative Approach to Configural Frequency Analysis, Methodika, 1991, 5, 87-97.
¶ N. Victor reformulated the common Configural Frequency Analysis test (see SA 38:5/90V9385), used to test the hypothesis of local independence, ie, to identify a type in a contingency table. An asymptotic test for the existence of one type in a contingency within the framework of Victor's model is presented, using an example on the relationship between family structure & parents' education. A general procedure for the exploratory search for types in a given contingency table is also presented. This new approach prevents incorrect classification of types caused by inadequate model building. 1 Table, 1 Appendix, 12 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6748
Lužar, Vesna, Dobrić, Vesna, Maričić, Siniša, Pifat, Greta & Spaventi, Jagoda (Central Medical Library, POB 445 YU-41000 Zagreb Croatia (FAX: 38-41-424001)), A Methodology for Cluster Analysis of Citation Histories, Quality and Quantity, 1992, 26, 4, Nov, 337-365.
¶ An analysis of the scientific output from a multidisciplinary (natural sciences) institute (not identified) is undertaken, using late (ie, after a 10-year lapse) citation data for 558 papers published by the institute 1955-1964. The papers were grouped under various subject headings to consider research subjects as units. Three indicators were derived for the analysis of raw data–measuring the citation efficacy, intensity, & longevity. Hierarchical cluster analysis was performed with the subject topics, resulting in three clusters, each characterized within certain limits for all 3 indicators. The investigation served to ascertain the optimal method for the kind of studies that would be simple yet yield sufficient resolution of the clusters, & to move toward interpreting the factors underlying the obtained clustering. Based on the findings, it is concluded that the precautionary 10-year lapse after publication before recording the late citations acted as a thorough filter of quality in analyzing the scientific output of this particular organizational setting. 8 Tables, 7 Figures, 20 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6749
Monjardet, Bernard (U Paris V, F-75270 Cedex 06 France), Sur diverses formes de la "Règle de Condorcet" d'agrégation des préférences (On Several Forms of "Condorcet's Rule" of Aggregation of Preferences), Mathématiques, Informatique et Sciences Humaines, 1990, 28, 111, autumn, 61-71. (FRE)
¶ The Marquis de Condorcet's (1743-1794) rule of the aggregation of individual preferences into a collective preference is reviewed for internal consistencies in presentation, & compared with modern "rediscoveries" of the rule. The rule is defined formally here in probabilistic terms, using two vector-based order representations. Then, twenty-five other approximately equivalent definitions of the rule are presented & compared. Only J. G. Kemeny's restatement (see Rank Correlation Methods, 3rd edition, New York: Hafner, 1962) of Condorcet's rule among three contemporaneous rediscoveries in 1959/60 is well known. 38 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6750
Poly-Barbut, Claude le Conte de (CNRS CAMS, 54 blvd Raspail F-75270 Paris Cedex 06 France), Automorphismes du permutoèdre et votes de Condorcet (Automorphisms of Permutohedron and Condorcet's Voting), Mathématiques, Informatique et Sciences Humaines, 1990, 28, 111, autumn, 73-82. (FRE)
¶ The Marquis de Condorcet's (1743-1794) voting procedure is unchanged even if there is a reversal of total orders of N elements, or a permutational transformation. It is shown that the automorphisms group of the permutohedron generated by these transformations is isomorphic to the direct product of the two elements group through the symmetric group Sn. 3 Figures, 12 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6751
Sabelli, Linnea Lydia Carlson (U Illinois, Chicago 60680), Measuring Co-Existing Opposites: A Methodological Exploration, Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 5, Nov, 1692-A.
Available from UMI, Ann Arbor, MI. Order No. DA9226372.

93Z6752

Stevens, Lonnie K., Register, Charles & Sessions, David N. (Dept BCIS/QM Hofstra U, Hempstead NY 11550), Simulating Bias in the Estimator of Labor Market Discrimination, Social Indicators Research, 1992, 27, 2, Sept, 157-168.

¶ The statistical bias in the wage gap method of estimating labor market discrimination is investigated. An algebraic expression for the bias is derived & then simulated for a selected set of explanatory variables & model parameters. When applied to data from the 1988 National Longitudinal Survey (N = 6,403 males & 6,283 females ages 23-32), results indicate that when the variables years of schooling & labor market experience are used in earnings functions, the estimator tends to underestimate the actual or "true" amount of labor market discrimination. 2 Tables, 18 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6753

TenHouten, Warren D. (Dept Sociology U California, Los Angeles 90024-1551), Generalization and Statistical Inference from Snowball Samples, BMS, Bulletin de Méthodologie Sociologique, 1992, 37, Dec, 25-40.

¶ Two earlier versions of this paper have been abstracted; see SA 38:6/90S23585/ISA/1990/7267, & 90S24469/ASA/1990/6167. 3 Figures, 28 References.

93Z6754

Young, H. P. (School Public Affairs U Maryland, College Park 29742), Condorcet's Theory of Voting, Mathématiques, Informatique et Sciences Humaines, 1990, 28, 111, autumn, 45-59.

¶ An often overlooked contribution of the Marquis de Condorcet (1743-1794) to the theory of group decision making is highlighted. His decision rule applies to any voting situation, regardless of the presence of cyclic majorities. Originally proposed with the assumption that alternatives could be truly prioritized, Condorcet's rule is equally valid under an axiomatic analysis. In particular, his rule satisfies anonymity, neutrality, unanimity, reinforcement, & local stability. While he knew that Borda's rule was easier to calculate, Borda's rule lacks the property of local stability. 5 Tables, 34 References. Adapted from the source document.

61 models: mathematical & other

93Z6755

Bentler, P. M. & Chou, Chih-Ping (Dept Psychology U California, Los Angeles 90024-1563), Some New Covariance Structure Model Improvement Statistics, UM Sociological Methods and Research, 1992, 21, 2, Nov, 259-282.

¶ It is argued that model modification through reducing constraints in covariance structure analysis can influence the estimates of the maintained free parameters if the model is reevaluated. Three new statistics that focus on the estimated changes of parameter estimates & estimated sampling variability of the maintained free parameters are developed here, along with another that focuses on the significance of the estimated change in restricted, especially fixed, parameters. The performance of these four new statistics is explored empirically, & reveals that they can provide valuable supplementary information to the Lagrange multiplier statistic. 2 Tables, 2 Figures, 22 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6756

Blower, Sally & Medley, Graham (Survey Research Center U California, Berkeley 94720), Epidemiology, HIV and Drugs: Mathematical Models and Data, British Journal of Addiction, 1992, 87, 3, Mar, 371-379.

¶ With collaboration between modelers & drug-use researchers, mathematical models can be developed to help understand the dynamics of human immunodeficiency virus (HIV) transmission among injecting drug users (IDUs) & their non-IDU sex partners. Some of the possible data requirements of transmission models are discussed, as is the need for the collection of appropriate quantitative data, so that modellers can estimate specific parameters for their models. Such collaboration may aid in the design & the evaluation of effective behavioral or medical intervention strategies. 45 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6757

Bollen, Kenneth A. & Long, J. Scott (U North Carolina, Chapel Hill 27599), Tests for Structural Equation Models: Introduction, UM Sociological Methods and Research, 1992, 21, 2, Nov, 123-131.

¶ An introduction to this special journal issue (see related abstracts in this section of SA 41:2) on tests for structural equation models (SEMs) discusses five steps that characterize most applications of SEMs: model specification, identification, estimation, testing fit, & respecification. Various approaches to assessing model fit are discussed, & previous work on SEMs is briefly reviewed. 21 References. W. Howard

93Z6758

Bollen, Kenneth A. & Stine, Robert A. (U North Carolina, Chapel Hill 27599), Bootstrapping Goodness-of-Fit Measures in Structural Equation Models, UM Sociological Methods and Research, 1992, 21, 2, Nov, 205-229.

¶ Measuring goodness of fit in structural equation models has been hampered by three factors: the assumptions that underlie the chi-square tests of model fit are often violated; many fit measures have unknown statistical distributions; & modelers have inadequate knowledge about the distribution & behavior of the fit measures for misspecified or nonnested models. To overcome these problems, modified bootstrapping techniques are advocated, since conventional bootstrapping methods fail when applied to original data. A modified bootstrap method for the chi-square test statistic for model fit is proposed & illustrated using simulated & empirical examples. 1 Table, 6 Figures, 21 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6759

Browne, Michael W. & Cudeck, Robert (Dept Psychology Ohio State U, Columbus 43210), Alternative Ways of Assessing Model Fit, UM Sociological Methods and Research, 1992, 21, 2, Nov, 230-258.

¶ Two types of error involved in fitting a model are considered: (1) error of approximation, which involves the fit of the model, with optimally chosen but unknown parameter values, to the population covariance matrix; & (2) overall error, which involves the fit of the model, with parameter values estimated from the sample, to the population covariance matrix. Measures of the two types of error are proposed & point & interval estimates suggested. These measures take the number of parameters in the model into account to avoid penalizing parsimonious models. Practical difficulties associated with the usual tests of exact fit of a model are discussed, & a test of "close fit" is suggested, & illustrated with four examples. 4 Tables, 1 Appendix, 26 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6760

Gerbing, David W. & Anderson, James C. (School Business Administration Portland State U, OR 97207-0751), Monte Carlo Evaluations of Goodness of Fit Indices for Structural Equation Models, UM Sociological Methods and Research, 1992, 21, 2, Nov, 132-160.

¶ An overview of some goodness-of-fit indices proposed for structural equation models & the Monte Carlo studies that have empirically assessed their distributional properties. It is concluded that many of the indices used until the late 1980s indicated better fit when sample size increased. More recently developed indices based on the chi-square noncentrality parameter are also reviewed, & some recommendations offered for several specific fit indices. 37 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6761

Immerfall, Stefan (U Passau, D-8390 Federal Republic Germany), Macrohistorical Models in Historical-Electoral Research: A Fresh

Look at the Stein-Rokkan-Tradition, Historical Social Research/ Historische Sozialforschung, 1992, 17, 1(61), 103-116.

¶ A territorial approach is advanced by the Stein-Rokkan-tradition (eg, See Rokkan, Stein, "Territories, Nations, Parties: Toward a Geoeconomic-Geopolitical Model for the Explanation of Variations within Western Europe," in Merrit, R. L., & Russet, B. M. [Eds] From Development to Global Community, London: Allen & Unwin, 1981, 70-95) which combines aggregate data analysis & historical comparisons to illuminate the historical dimensions of contemporary opportunity structures. Benefits & drawbacks of this reasoning are discussed, & an empirical example is offered of the electoral history of Imperial Germany. Rokkans's final revision of his geoeconomic-geopolitical model is of most value in explaining variations in processes of European development. 1 Table, 4 Figures, 26 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6762

Long, J. Scott & Trivedi, Pravin K. (Indiana U, Bloomington 47405), Some Specification Tests for the Linear Regression Model, UM Sociological Methods and Research, 1992, 21, 2, Nov, 161-204.

¶ In econometrics, recent research has focused on the development of specification tests (STs) to detect violations of the assumptions of ordinary least squares regression. Evaluated here are some important & computationally convenient STs for the normal regression model as applied to cross-sectional data. Because these STs achieve their optimal properties in large samples, their size & power in finite samples are of great interest & are evaluated with Monte Carlo simulations. Although results show a tendency toward overrejection in some STs, specific variations of the RESET & information matrix tests behave quite well even in small samples. A strategy for the sequential application of ST is proposed. 4 Tables, 14 Figures, 20 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6763

Orme, John G. & Reis, Janet (School Social Work & Community Planning U Maryland, Baltimore 21201), Multiple Regression with Missing Data, Journal of Social Service Research, 1991, 15, 1-2, 61-91.

¶ The assumptions & disadvantages of two methods frequently used with missing data, listwise & pairwise deletion, are discussed, & the use of an alternative method referred to as "coding missing data" is proposed. These three methods are illustrated using the analysis of a hypothetical data set, with emphasis on the interpretation of results using the method of coding missing data, & on the appropriate application of this method. 7 Tables, 28 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6764

Starnaman, Sandra M. & Miller, Katherine I. (Grand Valley State U, Allendale MI 49401), A Test of a Causal Model of Communication and Burnout in the Teaching Profession, UM Communication Education, 1992, 41, 1, Jan, 40-53.

¶ Drawing on survey data collected from 538 teachers in an urban school district in the Midwest, a causal model is developed & tested regarding the relationships among burnout, communication, & organizational stressors, & outcomes in the educational setting. Variables related to communication within schools mediate the burnout process, eg, support from the principal & participation in decision making. The model indicates that teachers' workload & support from their principal influence role conflict & role ambiguity. These role stressors, in turn, influence perceptions of burnout, job satisfaction, & occupational commitment. 2 Tables, 3 Figures, 43 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6765

Tziner, Aharon (Dept Psychology U Montreal, Quebec H3C 3J7), A Comparative Examination of Structural Models of Ability Tests, Quality and Quantity, 1992, 26, 4, Nov, 383-394.

¶ Data obtained via a battery of 17 ability tests from a random sample of 335 young Israeli males who applied for vocational guidance following military service are drawn on to explore whether the same underlying structure of such tests emerges when different data analysis methods are used. A matrix of intercorrelations between scores based on the number of correct answers was obtained, & subjected to factor analysis, with L. Guttman's smallest space analysis, & tree analysis, essentially resulting in different structures. Theoretical implications of the results are discussed in relation to several extant structural models of ability tests. 2 Tables, 2 Figures, 21 References. Adapted from the source document

93Z6766

Van Leeuwe, Jan F. J. & Roskam, Edward E. (Dept Educational Sciences Katholieke U Nijmegen, NL-6525 GG Netherlands), The Conjunctive Item Response Model: A Probabilistic Extension of the Coombs and Kao Model, Methodika, 1991, 5, 14-32.

¶ The item response (IR) function is based on a linear function of the item parameters on separate dimensions. Known models for multidimensional item responses in dichotomously scored tests of ability focus on the compensatorial rule of combining information from each of the dimensions into the exponent of the logistic IR function. In a move away from this focus, the Conjunctive-Disjunctive Model of C. H. Coombs & R. C. Kao ("Nonmetric Factor Analysis," Engineering Research Bulletin No 38, Ann Arbor: U of Michigan Press, 1955) is extended to an IR model by assuming the IR function to be of the logistic type, which is achieved by a straightforward application of the method of marginal maximum likelihood. The results of a small simulation study & some illustrative examples (with data from the Law School Aptitude Test & psychiatric symptomatology) are presented. The robustness of the model & the relationship between partial order scalogram analysis & IR models need further investigation. 2 Tables, 6 Figures, 36 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6767

Zwinderman, Aeilko H. (Dept Medical Statistics Rijks U Leiden, NL-2300 RA Netherlands), A Two-Stage Rasch Model Approach to Dependent Item Responses: An Application of Constrained Latent Trait Models, Methodika, 1991, 5, 33-46.

¶ A constrained latent trait (Rasch) model was applied to modeling the nonindependent probabilities that 467 general practitioners in the Netherlands would diagnose 12 simulated patients as having acute bronchitis & prescribe an antibiotic. In order to also model the importance of patient characteristics, linear logistic test models (LLTMs) were used; to model the importance of practitioner characteristics, logistic regression models with random components were used. These 2 scales were linked by a regression model which maximized the marginal conditional likelihood of the responses. Audible rhonchi was the most important symptom for the diagnosis, with sputum & fever less so, but the latter two symptoms were equally serious with respect to prescribing antibiotic treatment. Practitioners' pharmacy ownership, alma mater, & gender affected the prescription of antibiotics, & patient's age affected the diagnosis. The fit of the Rasch model & the LLTM was good for the treatment response, but only acceptble for the diagnosis response. 6 Tables, 1 Appendix, 13 References. Adapted from the source document.

88 computer methods, media, & applications

93Z6768

Cooper, Geoff (Open U, Milton Keynes MK7 6AA Buckinghamshire England), Representing the User: A Sociological Study of the Discourse of Human-Computer Interaction, * Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 5, Nov, 1672-A.

Available from UMI, Ann Arbor, MI, in association with the British Library. Order No. BRDX96905.

93Z6769

Davenport, Thomas H., Eccles, Robert G. & Prusak, Laurence (c/o Eccles-Business School Harvard U, Cambridge MA 02138), Information Politics, UM Sloan Management Review, 1992, 34, 1, fall, 53-65.

¶ Though information technology was envisioned to increase information flow & eliminate hierarchy, by making information so valuable it has instead created a politics of information. Information has become a source of power; & organizations & individuals either withhold or share information to achieve their goals. Models of information politics include feudalism, anarchy, technocratic utopianism, monarchy, & federalism. Effective management of information requires identification of existing politics of information models, selection of an information state, matching information politics to organizational culture, the practice of technological realism, election of appropriate information politicians, & avoidance of information empire building. 3 Tables, 21 References. D. Generoli

93Z6770

Duncan, D. S. Keith (U Pennsylvania, Philadelphia 19104), Negotiation, Cooperative Work and Conflict in the Provision of Technical Help: An Empirical Study of Telephone Computer Support, * Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 5, Nov, 1673-A.
Available from UMI, Ann Arbor, MI. Order No. DA9227654.

93Z6771

Forster, Dayo & Snow, Bob (Kenya Medical Research Instit Coastal Unit, PO Box 230 Kilifi), Using Microcomputers for Rapid Data Collection in Developing Countries, Health Policy and Planning, 1992, 7, 1, Mar, 67-71.

¶ The use of microcomputer-based management during the course of data collection in health research in developing countries is examined. A selection of projects are described, all of which have used microcomputers in a decentralized fashion, closer to the point of data collection. This approach offers a significant reduction in error rates & can produce data quickly. 25 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6772

Johnson, Terry R. & Geller, Daniel M., Experimental Evidence on the Impacts of Computer-Assisted Instruction in the Job Corps Program, Evaluation Review, 1992, 16, 1, Feb, 3-22.

¶ Results are presented of a computer-assisted instruction (CAI) demonstration project undertaken at 10 Job Corps throughout the US. Classical experimental methods were used to determine the effectiveness of CAI, with students randomly assigned to a treatment group in which they spent about 25%-33% of their class time on the computer as a supplement to the regular self-paced education program, or to a control group in which CAI was not available. Results indicate that the effects of CAI on learning gains after about 60 hours of classroom instruction are very small. However, centers that allowed their experimental students to have sufficient access to CAI & students who used CAI more intensively did experience additional learning gains relative to the control group. Qualitative information obtained from students, teachers, & education supervisors suggests that CAI may be useful in motivating students & supports the potential educational benefits of CAI. 3 Tables, 5 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6773

Koch, Christian (Oberlin Coll, OH 44074 [e-mail: fkoch@ocvaxa.cc.oberlin.edu]), On the Benefits of Interrelating Computer Science and the Humanities: The Case of Metaphor, Computers and the Humanities, 1991, 25, 5, Oct, 289-295.

¶ It is contended that the introduction of computer science & skills in specific areas of the humanities should be directed by persons competent in both the humanities & computer science, rather than those who see a division of labors along the lines of "idea" vs "technical" persons. The new kind of teaching & research that might result is pointed to by describing a connectionist, neural network approach to the study of metaphor. 16 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6774

Sussman, Marvin B. & Hanks, Roma S. (Coll Human Resources U Delaware, Newark 19716), Publishing: In Search of a Home, Marriage and Family Review, 1992, 17, 3-4, 3-268.
Edited with the assistance of Linda Matocha.

¶ Data obtained primarily from the questionnaire responses of approximately 400 editors of journals abstracted in the Family Resources database were used to compile this guide to potential sources of publication for marriage & family scholars. After discussing three issues currently under debate in academic circles–"publish or perish," peer review, & citations as criteria for professional career evaluation–a list of the journals is appended, including information on: types of articles desired, preferred topics, number of manuscript copies, submission guidelines, review period, publication time lag, acceptance rates, & style requirements. 1 Appendix, 5 References. K. Hyatt

0200 sociology: history and theory

02 of professional interest (teaching sociology)

93Z6775

Adam, Barry D. (Dept Sociology & Anthropology U Windsor, Ontario N9B 3P4), Committee on Professional Ethics, Society-Société, 1992, 16, 3, Oct, 24-30.

¶ A statement of professional ethics issued by the Canadian Sociology & Anthropology Assoc, largely based on an earlier statement by the British Sociological Assoc, is reproduced in order to solicit comments. Ethical areas considered include: organizing & initiating research, protecting people in the research environment (including issues of informed consent & covert action), disseminating findings, relations with colleagues & the discipline, faculty appointments, relations with students, harassment & exploitation, relations with institutions, & recommendations. M. Maguire (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6776

Applegate, Jeffrey S. & Walter, Carolyn Ambler (Graduate School Social Work & Social Research Bryn Mawr Coll, PA 19010), Starting Where the Student Is: Meeting the Developmental Challenge of HBSE Courses, Arête, 1989, 14, 2, winter, 1-11.

¶ A model for teaching courses on human behavior & the social environment is presented that addresses the adult developmental challenge inherent in the social work graduate student's learning experiences. This model is based on a "connected teaching" approach that draws on students' life experiences & competencies as resources for promoting personal growth in the learning process. Analysis of qualitative & quantitative data obtained via questionnaires completed by 77 students suggests that this approach delivers needed course content while assisting students through an adaptive developmental process. 1 Table, 8 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6777

Berg, Ellen Ziskind (4862 Reservoir Rd NW, Washington DC 20007), An Introduction to Sociology Using Short Stories and Films: Reshaping the Cookie Cutter and Redecorating the Cookie, Teaching Sociology, 1992, 20, 4, Oct, 265-269.

¶ Described is a course in which: (1) the substantive specialties are rearranged in units on socialization & stratification that resonate with lived experience; (2) short stories & films are used as an experiential world in which sociological processes & patterns can be traced; & (3) methods & theory are presented late in the course as hands-on units of work. 11 References. AA (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6778

Bricher, R. Marie (Dept Sociology U Washington, Seattle 98195), Teaching Introductory Sociology: Using Aspects of the Classroom as Sociological Events, Teaching Sociology, 1992, 20, 4, Oct, 270-275.

¶ A description of how the classroom experiences of students can be used in the introductory course to teach students about how sociologists think about the social world. Specifically, classroom experiences are used in the introductory course to introduce a sociological perspective, to apply key concepts, & to integrate concpets with methods. Several activities used in the courses are described in detail, & it is argued that certain preconditions must be present in the classroom before such activities are initiated: the instructor must take the time to prepare & implement such exercises; the instructor must be able to maintain distance from what goes on in the class to avoid defensive reactions to what is said; & the instructor must continually develop his/her own skills at leading energetic discussions. It is suggested that instructors construct exercises & activities that are integrated with course goals & other instructional styles. Sociology instructors should recognize & act on the fact that most students in introductory courses will not be majors: from this perspective, helping students develop the tools of sociological thinking & argumentation is much more important than teaching them a particular set of facts. 12 References. Modified AA (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6779

Brouillette, John R. & Turner, Ronny E. (Dept Sociology Colorado State U, Fort Collins 80523), Creating the Sociological Imagination on the First Day of Class: The Social Construction of Deviance, Teaching Sociology, 1992, 20, 4, Oct, 276-279.

¶ Students tend to come to sociology classes assuming that deviance is predetermined by genetics, biochemistry, physiology, &/or psychiatric mental states. Here, a first-day-of-class exercise is presented that aims to replace their predispositional beliefs with a sociological perspective that has a profound reorganizational effect that carries throughout the semester. This first-day lecture clearly demonstrates the sociological imagination in such a manner that the subsequent sociological substance of the course can be analogized to the exercise. Although the exercise described here was used in the sociology of deviance, it could easily be modified to fit a variety of other courses in sociology. 8 References. AA (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6780

Carlton-LaNey, Iris (U North Carolina, Charlotte 28223), The Intellectual Biography: A Mechanism for Integrating Historical Content, Arête, 1990, 15, 1, summer, 46-51.

¶ Guidelines are provided for students & faculty for using the intellectual biography as a single-semester term project in social welfare, history, or social policy courses. The primary goal of the intellectual biography is to trace the thinking of a particular historical figure to ascertain her/his major contributions to social work/welfare knowledge. It provides a way to train students in the critical method of historical research & writing, requiring them to borrow data sources & methods from historians as well as sociologists. Evaluative comments from undergraduate students regarding both the content & the process of the intellectual biography are presented. 4 References. Modified AA (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6781

Del Campo, Salustiano, The Twelfth World Congress of Sociology, UM The American Sociologist, 1992, 23, 1, spring, 65-72. Introduction, 63-64.

¶ In Professor Del Campo and the Twelfth World Congress of Sociology, Theodore Caplow defends Salustiano Del Campo's critique regarding organizational problems of the 1990 Twelfth World Congress of Sociology in Madrid, Spain. It is argued that housing arrangements, particularly reassignment to more expensive accommodations, & gross overcharging of participants reflected serious mismanagement of the event. These problems were documented by Del Campo in an article submitted to UNESCO's journal. UNESCO attempted to prevent its publication, refusing to tolerate criticism of the International Sociological Assoc (ISA). Del Campo argued that the organizational disasters included an unappetizing choice of symposia subjects, presented in unappealing sociological jargon, & difficulties with comprehension between the president of the ISA & the chairman of the National Organizing Committee that brought more intrigue than scientific merit to the opening & closing sessions. Also, no simultaneous interpretation was available for Spanish-speaking participants. In addition, Madrid temperatures reached frightening heights, as might be expected in July, & most Congress events were held in non-air-conditioned lecture rooms. Most of the organizational defects fall to the ISA authorities, who failed to ascertain the suitability of Congress preparations. An examination of whether the ISA is still a valid replacement for the International Instit of Sociology is recommended. It is also contended that there is a need for a world organization of sociologists in which the right to vote belongs to individuals, & individuals are admitted on the basis of scientific, not political, criteria. 1 Table. S. Millett (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6782

Fisher, Bradley J. (Dept Sociology & Anthropology Southwest Missouri State U, Springfield 65804), Exploring Ageist Stereotypes through Commercial Motion Pictures, Teaching Sociology, 1992, 20, 4, Oct, 280-284.

¶ An intersession (one-week) course is described that uses commercial motion pictures to explore popular views of the elderly. The primary objective of the course is to enhance students' ability to critically examine the images communicated about old people & old age through the mass media, eg, TV & commercial films. During the course, students explore the impact of negative stereotyping on older people's expectations of later life, & what students expect in their own old age. The day-by-day activities of the class are described, including brief discussions of articles, films, & written assignments. 1 Appendix, 4 References. Modified AA

93Z6783

Fisher-Giorlando, Marianne (Criminal Justice Dept Grambling State U, LA 71245), Sampling in a Suitcase: Multistage Cluster Sampling Made Easy, Teaching Sociology, 1992, 20, 4, Oct, 285-287.

¶ Students & faculty alike struggle with teaching & learning methods & statistics. With the goal of demystifying one sampling procedure, presented is a tactile technique for teaching multistage cluster sampling that enables students to manipulate objects or sampling units. Both the process & required items necessary to reproduce this technique are described. 10 References. Modified AA

93Z6784

Fleck, Christian (Instit Soziologie U Graz, A-8010 Austria), Vom "Neuanfang" zur Disziplin? Überlegungen zur deutschsprachigen qualitativen Sozialforschung anlässlich einiger neuer Lehrbücher (From "New Beginning" to Discipline? Some Considerations of Qualitative Social Research on the Occasion of Several Newly Published Textbooks in German), Kölner Zeitschrift für Soziologie und Sozialpsychologie, 1992, 44, 4, Dec, 747-765. (GER)

¶ In "Qualitative Sozialoforschung. Modetrend oder Neuanfang?" ([Qualitative Social Research: Fashionable Trend or New Beginning?] see SA 30:1/82L9684), Manfred Kuchler discussed the merits of the new qualitative approach as an alternative sociological method; a decade later, many new works on qualitative sociology were being published. An analysis is presented of the content, references, methodology, authorship, & educational worth of five textbooks: (1) Siegfried Lamnek, Qualitative Sozialforshung ([Qualitative Social Research] 2 vols, Munich: Psychologie Verlags Union, 1988/89; (2) Walter Spöhring, Qualitavie Sozioalforschung ([Qualitative Social Research] Stuttgart: Teubner, 1989); (3) Philipp Mayring, Einführung in die qualitative Sozialforschung ([Introduction to Qualitative Social Research] Munich: Psychologie Verlags Union, 1990); (4) Ralf Bohnsacks, Rekonstruktive Sozialforschung. Einführung in Methodologie und Praxis qualitativer Forschung ([Reconstructive Social Research: Introduction to the Methodology and Practice of Qualitative Research] Opladen: Leske & Budrich, 1991); & (5) Uwe Flick et al, Handbuch Qualitative Sozialforschung ([Qualitative Social Research Handbook] Munich: Psychologie Verlags Union, 1991). 3 Tables, 53 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6785

Hedley, R. Alan (Dept Sociology U Victoria, British Columbia V8W 3P5), Gifts from Social Research, Teaching Sociology, 1992, 20, 4, Oct, 288-291.

¶ In providing an accurate & defensible assessment of undergraduate & graduate-level students, it is necessary to employ a variety of measures on repeated occasions. It is suggested that the problem of student assessment & appropriate measures provides an appropriate focus in social research methods courses, as a means to demonstrate how research strategies can be used to solve practical problems. The discourse presents students' answers in a formal manner to demonstrate that error (random & nonrandom) emanates from the students themselves (or the Ss, in the case of research), the instructor (or investigator), & the method of evaluation (or the research instrument). Suggestions for improving the methodology, offered by early reviewers of the article, are discussed. It is contended that the type of course introduction that is described presents all aspects of the research process & provides an integrative focus for the entire course. 1 Table, 12 References. S. Millett

93Z6786

Hong, Lawrence K. (Dept Sociology California State U, Los Angeles 90032), Simple Procedures for Laboratory Demonstrations of Ecological Fallacy and Psychological Reductionism, Teaching Sociology, 1992, 20, 4, Oct, 292-297.

¶ The use of simple correlations & cross-tabulations to explain the concepts of ecological fallacy & psychological reductionism in introductory research methods courses is described. Actual examples are presented, & the software packages, data sets, & statistical results utilized are identified. In demonstrating the concept of ecological fallacy, the example described reveals to students that the negative correlation between church membership & median income found at the group level (using aggregate data from the 50 US states) does not hold at the individual level: ie, data from the 1980 General Social Survey show that higher-income individuals are not less likely than others to be church members or to attend religious services. In exploring psychological reductionism example, the statistics analyzed show that it is risky to explain complex social problems, eg, crime rates, in terms of individual behaviors, eg, religious beliefs: eg, some of the highest homicide, assault, & rape rates are found in the three regions of the US where the beliefs in God as king & liberator are strongest. 4 Tables, 2 Appendixes, 8 References. AA

93Z6787

Ingalsbee, Timothy (Sociology Dept U Oregon, Eugene 97403), Conceive-a-Community: A Group Exercise for Teaching the Theory and Practice of Communitarianism, Teaching Sociology, 1992, 20, 4, Oct, 298-301.

¶ A group course project that allows a large number of students (200) to become actively involved in discussion & to integrate material from a variety of sources (eg, texts, lectures, & guest presentations), & to apply the material in the process of completing a group term paper is described. The course specifically examines the efforts of rural countercultural communitarians in the Pacific Northwest to create intentional or utopian communities. With community defined as a symbolic social-interactional construction involving both institutional & organizational behaviors as well as ideological beliefs & social psyches, the students study the back-to-the-land (or bioregional) movement as they conceived & practiced community. Specific elements of the group project design & how it is evaluated are discussed. It is concluded that the group project approach helps solve a number of pedagogical challenges in large classroom situations & could be effectively used in courses in social psychology, social movements, social change, environmental sociology, & interactionist theory. 6 References. S. Millett

93Z6788

Kain, Edward L. (Dept Sociology Southwestern U, Georgetown TX 78626), Evaluating Students' Presentations with the COPS Form, Teaching Sociology, 1992, 20, 4, Oct, 302-308.

¶ A method for grading oral assignments, the Content, Organization, Planning & Style (COPS) form, which allows faculty members & students to analyze oral presentations critically, is described. The method provides a set of specific questions about the quality of a presentation, & can be used in a wide variety of courses, from undergraduate introductory sociology through upper-level graduate seminars, & is a useful tool for helping students improve their oral communication skills. It is suggested that strengths of the COPS form include its capacity to clarify expectations, provide feedback for future improvement, reduce students' complaints about grades, develop evaluation skills, & permit flexibility in its application. Weaknesses of the form include the amount of time needed to complete it, the consumption of paper, & the potential for information overload. 24 References. S. Millett

93Z6789

Kelly, Jerry S. (Dept Economics Syracuse U, NY 13244-1090), Social Choice Bibliography, Social Choice and Welfare, 1991, 8, 2, Apr, 97-169.

¶ A bibliography of 2,647 articles on social choice, social ethics, & voting appearing in 197 selected journals. L. Dorn

93Z6790

Krol, John F. (Sociology Dept Washington & Jefferson Coll, Washington PA 15301-4801), A Myopic Answering of the Wrong Question with (Possibly?) the Right Information: A Comment on D'Antonio and Tuch, IN The American Sociologist, 1992, 23, 1, spring, 73-75. Reply, 76-78.

¶ William V. D'Antonio's & Steven A. Tuch's "Voting in Professional Association: The Case of the American Sociological Association Revisited" (see SA 40:1/92Y2480) contends that networks make a difference in voting in ASA (American Sociological Assoc) elections. Their findings, however, are based on insufficient data to support the investment hypothesis & too few cases for an analysis. Most importantly, the researchers have asked the wrong question; they should have focused on association & demographic characterisitcs as they relate to the network. In Voting in the ASA: Revisited but Not Revised Reply to Krol, D'Antonio (U of Connecticut, Storrs) & Tuch claim that the myopia criticism is groundless & that nothing in Krol's comment persuades them to revise their conclusion that network links to the ASA are the most predictive indicator of members' voting propensities. S. Millett (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6791

Kunz, Phillip R. & Fernquist, Robert M. (Dept Sociology Bringham Young U, Provo UT 84602), Teaching Criterion-Related Validity in Sociology, Teaching Sociology, 1992, 20, 4, Oct, 309-310.

¶ The importance of criterion-related validity in research on human behavior is emphasized in a project that provides novice (student) researchers with experience in dealing with the problems of achieving valid research findings. Drawing on data supplied by 448 students from introductory sociology classes at a large private university, the specific demonstration involves obtaining the actual time people spend brushing their teeth, as well as obtaining subjective estimates of time spent brushing. A majority (434) of students were able to carry out the demonstration as explained. As hypothesized, the Ss' estimates of brushing time were much greater than the actual time they spent brushing. It is suggested that the exercise helped students to distinguish between relying on Ss' estimates & actual time (the valid measure) spent brushing. 2 References. S. Millett (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6792

Levy, Diane E. (Dept Sociology U North Carolina, Wilmington 28403), Teaching Family Ritual: Sunday, Sausage, and Solidarity, Teaching Sociology, 1992, 20, 4, Oct, 311-313.

¶ Described is a technique used in sociology of the family classes to assist students in recognizing their own ethnocentrism about the variety & diversity of global family systems. Through an exercise in family ritual, students are made aware that ritual is a concept that not only applies to preliterate peoples, but to families in modern society as well. Students are given an assignment to recount rituals in their own family that were spontaneously originated & continue based on their own tradition. Examples (eg, eating sausage on the first day of hunting season, always gathering on Sunday mornings to read the newspaper, regular bedtime snacks) are shared with classmates & generalizations are made. These rituals have much in common, ie, a regularly scheduled event, shared interaction, & expectations & obligations for participation by family members. Students learn that it is not the content of the ritual that matters but that the rituals encourage social solidarity among family memebers. The pervasiveness of family ritual can be viewed as Durkheimian & Goffmanian testament to the continued importance of the family. 9 References. AA (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6793

Lindblad, Sven, Det globale biblioteket: Bibliografiske databaser og Samfunnsvitenskapelig informasjon (The Global Library: Bibliographic Databases and Social Science Information), Tidsskrift for samfunnsforskning, 1992, 33, 1, 49-84. (NOR)

¶ Internet, an information source for people working in the social sciences, makes available full-text sources, networked CD-ROMs, multimedia, & a wealth of online library catalogs, file transfer possibilities, electronic mail, network conferences, electronic publishing, & other information. In addition to Internet's technologically advanced library, other important international bibliographic databases, eg, Datapak, relevant to the social sciences & available on CD-ROM or from online hosts, are listed. In this stage of rapid development of retrieval software, user-friendly, menu-driven interfaces are stressed. 53 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6794

Lowry, Janet Huber (Austin Coll, Sherman TX 75091), The Poster Session by Undergraduate Research Methods Students, Teaching Sociology, 1992, 20, 4, Oct, 314-315.

¶ A review of the value of assigning a poster in research methods courses, describing how to set up a session for sharing the posters near the end of the course. The use of this technique over several years of classes is related, & it is suggested that the practice sharpens students' skills in oral & visual presentation of project results to the college community. Other aspects considered include: the trial run prior to final written reports, the role modeling to introductory students of further course work possibilities, the creativity entailed in exercising other avenues of expression, the cross-disciplinary discussion that viewers share, & the publicity to the wider community about relevant projects involving citizens. AA (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6795

Marvin, Grace M. (Dept Sociology California State U, Chico 95929-0445), Sociological Research Ethics: The ASA Codes Need Strengthening, Sociological Practice Review, 1992, 3, 4, Oct, 264-267.

¶ A revised version of SA 38:6/90S23012/ISA/1990/6694. 15 References. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6796

Miller, Margaret A. (School Liberal Arts Christian Brothers U, Memphis TN 38104), Life Chances Exercise, Teaching Sociology, 1992, 20, 4, Oct, 316-320.

¶ A "life-chances" exercise is presented that aims to assist participants in: identifying the life chances that they value & those that society values; appreciating that the attainment of many important life chances is related, in large part, to the family into which one is born; taking on the role of others of differing socioeconomic class, gender, & race; becoming familiar with the construction of John Rawls's social theory & its applications (A Theory of Justice, Cambridge, Mass: Harvard U Press, 1971) & considering & evaluating alternative systems of economic justice that may increase opportunities for better life chances. 1 Appendix, 15 References. Modified AA (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6797

Newman, David M. (Dept Sociology/Anthropology DePauw U, Greencastle IN 46135), It Ain't Over 'Til It's Over: An Exercise for Concluding a Course, Teaching Sociology, 1992, 20, 4, Oct, 321-325.

¶ One way to resolve the lack of closure in college courses while concluding the course on a positive note is to devote one day during the last week of class to a detailed retrospective appraisal of the course, using input from both the students & the instructor. A specific exercise to bring culmination to a course is described. The verbal assessment involves a review of course content & the larger relevance of the course material & an assessment of the course mechanics (ie, how the instructor & students performed). Finally, the students are asked to specify the one thing they will most remember about the class & the one thing that they know now that they did not know before they took the class. Reactions to the culmination exercise & examples of student feedback are described. 10 References. S. Millett (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6798

O'Flaherty, Kathleen M. (Dept Sociology Wichita State U, KS 67260-0025), Introducing Students to the Concept of the Sociological Imagination: A Written Assignment, Teaching Sociology, 1992, 20, 4, Oct, 326-328.

¶ A written assignment for introductory sociology courses that allows students to begin to develop a framework for understanding the meaning of the concept "sociological imagination" is presented. Described are the in-class introduction to the assignment, the actual assignment given to students, & the strengths & weaknesses of the assignment. The assignment is designed to begin to develop a mind set that will allow students, as they progress through a semester, to understand the importance of the connection between personal biography & social history. It is suggested that, if students can begin to grasp the meaning of the sociological imagination, they will understand more clearly their own lives & the lives of others with whom they interact. 7 References. S. Millett (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6799

Palumbo, Mauro (Facoltà scienze politiche U Genova, I-16126 Italy), L'impiego del sociologo nella programmazione e pianificazione

[illegible]-0202/93 $1.50

pubblica (The Role of the Sociologist in Italian Public Administration), Sociologia e Ricerca Sociale, 1992, 13, 38, Sept, 163-178. (ITA)

¶ In the Italian experience of public planning or programming, a major role is played by professions linked to the hard sciences, eg, engineers, urbanists, economists, & jurists. However, increasing social complexity places the model of "technical planning," which implies both a high predictability of behavior & a clear distinction between natural sciences & social sciences, in a critical position. Today the lack of a central point of observation is generally accepted, & knowledge is considered to depend on the observer & his paradigm. These considerations render a new importance of the sociologist as an expert to public policymakers. The sociologist can also play a role in facilitating decision-making processes, today considered as exchange processes. It is argued that sociology needs to improve its social visibility & to increase its exchange resources through a clearer definition of its own competencies & boundaries. A deontological code can assist in reaching this goal. 34 References. Modified AA

93Z6800

Schacht, Steven P. & Stewart, Brad J. (Dept Sociology Southwest Missouri State U, Springfield 65804), Interactive/User-Friendly Gimmicks for Teaching Statistics, Teaching Sociology, 1992, 20, 4, Oct, 329-332.

¶ Two interactive, user-friendly techniques to reduce math/statistics anxiety among social science students are presented that are based on pedagogical models that advocate active learning. The first technique uses gimmicks where the students are the data while the second technique requires students to create the statistical application & the data. While possible pitfalls of using these techniques are noted, it is believed that creative, interactive learning environments both reduce math anxiety & increase statistical understanding. 14 References. Modified AA

93Z6801

Schwartz, T. P. (Dept Sociology U Rhode Island, Kingston 02881), Alcoholics Anonymous Meetings for Teaching Sociology, Teaching Sociology, 1992, 20, 4, Oct, 333-336.

¶ A report on the use of field visits to open, speaker meetings of Alcoholics Anonymous (AA) as a technique in teaching sociology outside the classroom. It is described how such visits can help students understand & apply basic concepts & principles in a wide range of sociology courses, including deviant behavior, social problems, organizations, small groups, social psychology, & criminology. Many recommendations are provided for assuring that students observe AA meetings in informed, ethical, & nondisruptive ways. It is suggested that attendance at such meetings has great learning value for the students. 4 References. Modified AA

93Z6802

Segal, Elizabeth A. (Society Research Child Development, Washington DC), Teaching Community Organization in the Classroom, Arête, 1989, 14, 2, winter, 42-47.

¶ A sketch of a community organization model for classroom use is presented & evaluated. Incorporating field research (community social investigation), classroom participation articulating theoretical aspects of the instruction, & interaction with community practitioners, the semester-long course for social work students covers the dynamics of intervention strategies & potential outcomes of community work. Two examples derived from teaching experience are presented to illustrate the application of the model. Limitations & advantages of the course outline are also discussed. 1 Figure, 5 References. J. Sadler

93Z6803

Sengstock, Mary C. (Dept Sociology Wayne State U, Detroit MI 48202), Techniques for Imparting Clinical Knowledge in Nonclinical Courses, Clinical Sociology Review, 1992, 10, 214-218.

¶ Techniques for bringing clinical knowledge into the nonclinical classroom are explored & illustrated in a course on elder abuse. Textbook descriptions of definitions, types, & frequencies of a given subject matter are often inadequate, & should be supplemented with clinical information. Presentation of such information to students lacking clinical experience can be very difficult but can be accomplished through the use of case histories, presented in sufficient detail to ensure that the students come to know & empathize with the patient as an individual. Analogies to personal experience & encouragement of participation are suggested. 5 References. D. Generoli

93Z6804

Smith, David Horton (Dept Sociology Boston Coll, Chestnut Hill MA 02167), Encouraging Students' Participation in Large Classes: A Modest Proposal, Teaching Sociology, 1992, 20, 4, Oct, 337-339.

¶ Using primarily qualitative but occasionally quantitative observation methods, a technique that encourages college & university students to exert greater effort in class participation is explored. The technique (incentive system) expects students to make brief notes of their class participation each class day, turn them in at the end of class, & receive class participation credit for each acceptable item up to three per session. At the end of the course, the credits are totaled & special class participation credit is awarded to the three to five students with the highest scores. A recent evaluation of the system produced participation by nearly 66% of the class at some time during the course. Alternative suggestions for shy, deaf, or mute students are offered. A significant limitation of the technique is that many students dislike it; specific complaints from students are discussed. 3 References. S. Millett

93Z6805

Smith, Tom W. (National Opinion Research Center U Chicago, IL 60637), The International Social Survey Program, International Journal of Public Opinion Research, 1992, 4, 3, autumn, 275-278.

¶ A description of the history, goals, & operation of the International Social Survey Program (ISSP). ISSP is a collaboration of social science institutes in twenty-one countries designed to unite social science projects & coordinate research goals so as to bring a cross-national perspective to individual studies. 1 Table. Modified AA

93Z6806

Storrs, Debbie & Ferber, Abby (Dept Sociology U Oregon, Eugene 97403), "Congratulations! You Have Just Been Appointed Justices to the US Supreme Court!" Thinking Critically about Equality and Affirmative Action, Teaching Sociology, 1992, 20, 4, Oct, 340-343.

¶ A group exercise that facilitates critical thinking about key sociological concepts (eg, stratification, discrimination, oppression, & equality under the law) is discussed. Students are asked to take the role of US Supreme Court justices & to formulate decisions regarding affirmative action policies. The exercise is designed to encourage the use of higher-order critical thinking skills, eg, the identification of ambiguity & its role in reasoning & the evaluation of evidence. It is contended that the method's flexibility permits application in a wide variety of courses, although it must fit the subject matter of each course. Preparation for the exercise & the specific manner in which it should be implemented is described. Examples are provided of Supreme Court cases that can be effectively used with the technique. Several disadvantages of the group exercise are also discussed. 6 References. S. Millett

93Z6807

Teixeira, Joao Gabreil L. C. (Dept Sociology U Brasília, 70910 DF Brazil), Theater as a Teaching Procedure in Sociology, Clinical Sociology Review, 1992, 10, 219-225.

¶ By immersing students in the role of characters in a play relevant to sociological issues, students can come to understand sociology from an experiential perspective. The process begins with selection of a play with sufficient sociological content relevant to the course of instruction. Students are then given theoretical & psychological preparation for the theatrical experience. Examples of plays used & results achieved are provided. Personal growth by-products of teaching sociology through theater include increased understanding of the art of rhetoric, greater integration in the educational institution, & development of a sense of collective work & cooperation. 12 References. D. Generoli

93Z6808

Tolich, Martin (Sociology Dept Massey U, Palmerston North New Zealand), Bringing Sociological Concepts into Focus in the Classroom with Modern Times, Roger and Me, and *Annie Hall, Teaching Sociology, 1992, 20, 4, Oct, 344-347.

¶ The sociological import of three movies (Modern Times, Roger and te, & Annie Hall) is reviewed in detail for their usefulness in providing udents with the opportunity to apply sociological analysis. Modern Times & Roger and Me are particularly effective vehicles for analysis in ourses on work, occupations, & industrialization classes, & Annie Hall is effective in courses pertaining to marriage & the family. The sociological literature that students should read in conjunction with the screening of each movie is described. The many annotated films found in the American Sociological Assoc "Using Films in Sociology Courses: Guidelines & Reviews" (Resource Materials for Teaching, Washington, DC, 1987) are also recommended as useful tools for bringing sociological concepts into focus in the college & university classroom. 9 References. . Millett (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6809

——, Let's Train Reviewers, IM American Sociological Review, 1992, 57, 5, Oct, iii-iv.

An editorial comment remarks that fully 25% of all reviews received by the editors of American Sociological Review are unhelpful or misleading. Suggestions are offered for improving the overall quality of reviewer skills, including: (1) discarding the assumption that anyone with PhD is capable of reviewing scholarly work in his/her specialty; (2) initiating seminars in reviewing at the graduate school level; (3) training graduate assistants firsthand in the skill of reviewing; & (4) having the American Sociological Assoc conduct a professional workshop on reviewing. K. Hyatt (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6810

——, O príprave politológov a sociológov na Slovensku a v Čechách (The Teaching of Sociologists at the Universities of Slovakia and Bohemia), Sociológia, 1991, 23, 4, 342-354. (MUL)

¶ A survey is given of several programs available for professional preparation in sociology at Czechoslovak universities. In Katedra sociologie a andragogiky FFUP v Olomouci (The Department of Sociology and Anthropology at the Philosophical Faculty of the University of Prague), Ferdinand Koudelka describes how sociology went underground after the communist takeover in 1948. In Informácia o štúdiu politológie na FFUK v Bratislave (Information on the Study of Political Science at the Philosophical Faculty of Comenius University in Bratislava), L'udmila Malíková describes a program for two levels of studies in preparation for state administration, teaching, mass media, & diplomacy. In Katedra sociologie Filosofické fakulty Karlovy University v Praze (The Department of Sociology of the Philosophical Faculty at Carolinae University in Prague), Jiří Buriánek offers a description of programs of theoretical sociology & social work after the abandonment of Marxism in 1989. In Katedra sociální práce a vzdělávaní dospělých na Filosofické fakultě KU v Praze (The Department of Social Work and Adult Education at the Philosophical Faculty at University Carolinae in Prague), Jiřina Šiková describes programs to prepare social workers with knowledge of sociology, social psychology, social pathology, & civil law. 2 Figures. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

06 history & present state of sociology

93Z6811

Abraham, Gary A. (Saint Bonaventure U, NY 14778), Max Weber: Modernist Anti-Pluralism and the Polish Question, IM New German Critique, 1991, 53, spring-summer, 33-66.

¶ Max Weber's writings on eastern Germany in the 1890s combine a revisionist Marxist hope for free struggle among conflicting groups in society with a disdain for the Polish citizens of Germany. These writings were part of a propaganda campaign in which Weber took a leading role, to direct the government to support ethnic German colonization of the east & impose financial disadvantages on Poles, to force them to relocate, & be assimilated, elsewhere in Germany. The Society for the Support of Germans in the Eastern Marches, of which Weber was a founding member, adopted the rhetoric of economic extrusion & differences in culture from Weber's 1895 Freiburg address, as did the Pan-German League, to a lesser extent. German Protestant liberals also favored race mixing as a solution to the problem of national unity, & this view is incorporated into Weber's analysis of the Polish question. The anti-Polish policies eventually adopted by the government galvanized the nascent Polish solidarity movement, causing those policies to fail &, by WWI, to backfire. AA (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6812

Adorno, Theodor W., The Curious Realist: On Siegfried Kracauer, IM New German Critique, 1991, 54, fall, 159-177.

Translated by Shierry Weber Nicholsen.

¶ An examination of the life & intellectual development of Siegfried Kracauer, describing his early childhood & its effects on his works in philosophy, sociology, & culture. Also explored is Kracauer's adaptation to the US after fleeing Nazi Germany. It is contended that Kracauer's work was "tinged with amateurish thinking" & a laxity that damped self-criticism, he was a compulsive person who avoided the idealism of utopianism & routinized methods. G. Castañeda (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6813

Alijevová, Dilbar (Filozofickej fakulty U Komenského Bratislava, CS-81806 Czechoslovakia), Súčasné vývojové trendy v západnej sociológii (Contemporary Development Trends in Western Sociologies), Sociológia, 1991, 23, 4, 267-280. (SLO)

¶ Although identifying recent trends in contemporary Western sociology is an urgent task, it cannot proceed without achieving a better understanding of the "trends" approach as a cognitive tool. The current vague usage of the trend concept leads to a reductionist interpretation of sociology as a continuous shift of social thought. Sociology is gnoseologically idealized as a scientific, theoretical formation only, ignoring the social institution & scientific community advancing its institutional & structural dimensions. Three basic trends are identified: structural-morphological, cognitive & idea-oriented, & methodological. Special attention is given to the inner integration & hybridization of Western sociologies. 41 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6814

Anheier, Helmut K. (Rutgers U, New Brunswick NJ 08903), German Sociology at the Crossroads, IM Contemporary Sociology, 1992, 21, 5, Sept, 676-678.

¶ A review essay on a book edited by Wolfgang Zapf, Die Modernisierung moderner Gesellschaften: Verhandlungen des 25: Deutschen Soziologentages in Frankfurt am Main 1990 ([The Modernization of Modern Societies: Proceedings of the Twenty-Fifth German Sociological Convention in Frankfurt am Main 1990] Frankfurt & New York: Campus Verlag, 1991 [see listing in IRPS No. 67]). This book is a cross-section of German sociology today. Only 10 of the 61 papers actually deal with "modernity," & most present essays, not empirical research. The proceedings contain little innovative sociology, which reflects the way this convention is run; papers were not widely disseminated & reviewed. Along with the site, context, & topic, the timing of the convention had particular sociological relevance: the convention occurred only a few days after German reunification; however, this issue was not addressed, & West German sociologists appeared to have little interest in their East German counterparts. The next convention holds more promise. M. Pflum (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6815

Bell, Peter F. (Dept Political Science State U New York Coll, Purchase 10577), The Impact of the United States on the Development of the Social Sciences in Thailand, Studies in Third World Societies, 1991, 45, Oct, 95-116.

¶ The influence of US scholarship on the development of social sciences in Thailand is explored, examining research priorities, university curricula, & paradigms, & how these are translated into policy. Thai social sciences changed from applied public administration to the teaching of law, economics, & political science with the adoption of US models. The high status of US researchers, influx of US academics, US funding of social sciences through nonacademic agencies, & scholarship programs for graduate training in the US insure continued US involvement in Thailand. 45 References. G. Castañeda (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

0038-0202/93 $1.50

93Z6816

Blackwell, James E. (U Massachusetts, Boston 02125), Minorities in the Liberation of the ASA?, The American Sociologist, 1992, 23, 1, spring, 11-17.

¶ Examined within the sociopolitical context of the demands confronting the American Sociological Assoc (ASA) is the changing nature of participation of minorities in the organization since 1968. Topics considered include: the role of the Caucus of Black Sociologists in fostering change, the salience of ASA leadership & sensitivity to the issues raised by minorities in the late 1960s & early 1970s, evidence of change, & continuing problems regarding the participation of ASA members identified as racial or ethnic minorities. The paucity of minority representation as recipients of ASA awards is also discussed. It is suggested that minorities are considerably more visible in the ASA than in the late 1960s & early 1970s because of more enlightened leadership, changing electorate & election patterns, recognition of the value of diversity, & a trend toward more equitable decision making regarding ASA governance. S. Millett

93Z6817

Blegvad, Mogens, El kantismo y los inicios de la sociología alemana (Kantianism and Early German Sociology), Sociológica, 1990, 5, 14, Sept-Dec, 295-310. (SPA)

Translated by Eduardo Olguín Salgado & José Hernández Prado.

¶ A Spanish-language version of SA 38:6/90S22072/ISA/1990/5754.

93Z6818

Bourricaud, François, Communication sociale et mobilisation nationale selon Karl W. Deutsch (Social Communication and National Mobilization according to Karl W. Deutsch), Revue française de Sociologie, 1992, 33, 3, July-Sept, 421-442. (FRE)

Introduction, 417-419.

¶ In Memoriam. François Bourricaud, 1922-1991 (Memoriam. François Bourricaud, 1922-1991), Pierre Birnbaum introduces this previously unpublished introduction to the French-language edition of Karl Deutsch's The Nerves of Government (1974). This key work in Bourricaud's intellectual career as a sociologist of value in the Weberian tradition starts with the image of the immigrant fleeing German persecution under Adolf Hitler. Bourricaud's social-psychology perspective informs a vision of a democratic state whose citizens can police themselves. The analysis of Deutsch's work builds on Deutsch's classic Nationalism and Social Communication (Cambridge: MIT Press, 1963 [2nd edition]), in which he defines nationalism as a simple functional extension of a culture that guarantees the integration of the new community. A kind of equivalence between the social community & the construction of a nationalism of communication is supported, noting Clyde Kluckhohn's notion (reference not specified) of society, defined as a group of individuals who have learned to work together, through processes of socialization, despite the multiple discontinuities of economy & language. Deutsch stresses shared meanings, communication systems, & processes of mobilization (push & pull). 3 References. J. Sadler

93Z6819

Brint, Steven (Yale U, New Haven CT 06520), Hidden Meanings: Cultural Content and Context in Harrison White's Structural Sociology, Sociological Theory, 1992, 10, 2, fall, 194-208.

Reply, 209-213, Rejoinder, 213.

¶ Harrison C. White's structural sociology is examined, emphasizing how his concern for cultural elements is consistently marginalized in favor of a focused concern with structural elements, specifically, relations among sets of positions. Analysis of White's "Social Structure from Multiple Networks, I: Blockmodels of Roles & Positions" (with Boorman, Scott A., & Breiger, Ronald L.; see SA 24:3/76H9247) reveals how he works cultural elements into his sociology in three ways: as a neglected basis of social structure in the form of typified behavioral expectations; as a defocalized source of the contexts & relationships in which relational structure develops; & as a rhetorical tool for advocating structural sociology. White's blockmodel research is criticized for failing to produce propositions, & his structural sociology is faulted for continuing the nonidiographic trend in social science. In Social Grammar for Culture: Reply to Steven Brint, White (Columbia U, New York, NY) argues against Brint that "catnets" (or blockmodels) are found only in contexts without clear social disciplines, & that idiographic social science is not disappearing. His current work on social grammar for culture is reviewed, & the concepts of "vacancies" & "identities" are explicated. In Steven Brint's Rejoinder, Brint disagrees with White's assertion that network structure in social organization is analogous to grammar & syntax in language. 80 References. W. Howard

93Z6820

Bryant, Joseph M. (Dept Sociology U New Brunswick, Fredericton E3B 5A3), Towards a Respectable, Reflexive, Scientific Sociology: A Note on the Reformation Required, Canadian Journal of Sociology/Cahiers canadiens de sociologie, 1992, 17, 3, summer, 322-331.

¶ Ways that sociological research traditions, eg, positivism & interpretivism, are institutionally sustained & discursively framed by theoretical "trade languages" are explored, avoiding questions of methodology & of theoretical & empirical validity. Steve Fuller's claim (see SA 40:4/92Y9615) that a reflexive sociology of science will enable sociologists to transcend the impasse of their discipline & that positivism & interpretivism should be made reflexive is critiqued. A response is also offered to Jonathan Turner's criticism (see SA 40:4/92Y9666). It is argued that mimicry of the natural sciences by the social sciences yielded little more than a series of embarrassing parodies of the scientific method. A truly reflexive sociology must be informed by both the sociology & the philosophy of science, & must demand that methods & theories be geared to the nature of the objects investigated. 25 References. S. Millett

93Z6821

Carlsson, Gösta (Sociologiska instit Stockholms U, S-10691 Sweden), Sociologin och det oförklarliga (Sociology and the Unexplainable), Sociologisk Forskning, 1992, 29, 3, 3-11. (SWE)

¶ Even with the vast array of statistical tests & estimation techniques available, analyses of data on human behaviors show that much variation remains unexplainable, eg, criminality & poverty. Such variation in human behavior should not be glossed over too quickly by formulating ideal types from aggregated statistics & by verbal generalizations. The same problem appears in macroanalysis, at the level of cultural or historical individuality of groups or nations. As discussed by Stephen Jay Gould (Wonderful Life, London: Hutchinson, 1989) in reference to evolutionary theory, random walk mechanisms & the element of contingency are useful in addressing the variation problem. 9 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6822

Caveing, Maurice, Réflexions sur le marxisme et les sciences sociales (Reflections on Marxism and the Social Sciences), Raison Présente, 1991, 100, 163-185. (FRE)

¶ In an attempt to identify Karl Marx's metascientific worldview, concepts of society, social sciences, history, dialectics, materialism, social classes, productive forces, & nationalism are reviewed, emphasizing the nineteenth-century context of these ideas through reference to thinkers such as G. W. F. Hegel & Auguste Comte. It is suggested that this theoretical framework produces difficulties when applied to a state's political reality, especially when reconstructed into "socialism in one state" by the teaching of Leninism. The existence of rational explication & sciences of reality in the USSR is reflected on, with reference to the Leninist legacy. I. Shagrir

93Z6823

Chazel, François (U Paris IV, F-75230 Cedex 05 France), French Sociology at the Beginning of the Nineties, Schweizerische Zeitschrift für Soziologie/Revue Suisse de sociologie, 1992, 18, 1, 197-213.

¶ Uncertainty about the future, the recession, & the disenchantment & rejection of global ideologies have gradually changed French intellectual life & led social science specialists in new research directions. The previous dominant approaches, ie, structuralism, determinism, antihumanism, & holism, have been regularly challenged & compelled to change. As compared with Anglo-Saxon countries, methodological individualism developed late in France & has not aroused genuine conversion. Nevertheless, it has helped incubate a number of significant developments, eg, partial indeterminism & rationality of behavior, with Raymond Boudon as leading theorist. More generally, there has been a positive reassessment of the place of the actor in the interpretation of social life, which owes a great deal to Alain Touraine. In the 1980s, Pierre Bourdieu has been engaged in battle against these evolving & prevailing trends, & has be come dominant in the fields of sociology of education & culture &, increasingly, in the political field. Thus, French sociology at the beginning of the 1990s is in a period of transition marked by intensive criticism of the past & the crystallization of new directions that have made the labels Right & Left outdated & irrelevant. Yet, great debates are still lacking & an impressionistic essay-writing tendency coexists with a true professionalization. However, there are reasons for optimism: conditions exist for true sociological research, & there is a new curiosity about work carried out abroad. The present trends have opened up avenues for the reconstruction, on new bases, of sociological knowledge in the direction of a model of sociology that is pluralist, more open, both empirical & theoretical, & autonomous. Modified AA

93Z6824

Cioran, Dima (42 East 65th St, New York NY 20021), The Ethnographer as Geologist: Tocqueville, Lévi-Strauss, Baudrillard and the American Dilemma, Social Science Information/Information sur les Sciences Sociales, 1992, 31, 2, June, 267-292.

¶ Similar ethnographic perspectives are noted in European aristocrat Alexis de Tocqueville's 1831 American travelogue (Mayer, J. P. [Ed], Journey to America, London: Faber & Faber, 1959) & French intellectual Jean Baudrillard's 1988 search for an imagined, "astral America" (America, London: Verso, 1988). Neither writer could transcend the unique dilemma of the lack of ethnological meaning in the New World's pioneer culture, Claude Lévi-Strauss, however, points to geological consciousness as a basis for culture (Tristes Tropiques: An Anthropological Study of Primitive Societies in Brazil. [see SA 13:3-4/65B5918). Fond of contrast to illustrate his observations, de Tocqueville's method was ineffective for describing egalitarianism & the leveling of differences. Declaring the uselessness of real travel, Lévi-Strauss's ethnography hinges on a heightened awareness & spiritual communion with the natural surroundings. Asserting that the historical form & modern projection of the desert derive meaning from its absolute contrast with American civilization, Baudrillard reveres America's substitution of the real by the image, & critiques its loss of the social. He has extended de Tocqueville's analysis of trivial- & original-producing equality. 32 References. J. Sadler

93Z6825

Conyers, James E. (Indiana State U, Terre Haute 47809), The Association of Black Sociologists: A Descriptive Account from an "Insider", UM The American Sociologist, 1992, 23, 1, spring, 49-55.

¶ The activities, beliefs, & accomplishments of the Caucus of Black Sociologists (CBS) 1968-1976, which later became the Assoc of Black Sociologists, are described, drawing on letters, reports, conversations, & personal recollections. The CBS was established in response to the perceived need to achieve recognition for & enhance the opportunities of black sociologists in the American Sociological Assoc (ASA). Major players in the CBS's early development, strategies for dealing with common problems, the CBS's relationship with the ASA, & the CBS's successful achievements resulting from the administration of James E. Blackwell, its first spokesperson, are discussed. It is suggested that the CBS was a product of the protest against the social constraints on blacks prior to the 1960s, & that the reforms imposed by the organization helped to democratize the sociological enterprise. 17 References. S. Millett

93Z6826

Crippen, Timothy (Dept Sociology & Anthropology Mary Washington Coll, Fredericksburg VA 22401-5358), An Evolutionary Critique of Cultural Analysis in Sociology, Human Nature, 1992, 3, 4, 379-412.

¶ It is maintained that sociological analyses of human cultural systems neglect the profoundly evolutionary aspects of human culture & fail to recognize the value of grounding sociocultural theory in an informed evolutionary framework. The evolutionary foundations of human cultural behavior are explored through an analysis of relevant theoretical & empirical developments in evolutionary neurosciences. These developments are illustrated via an evolutionary critique of M. Douglas's & A. Wildavsky's Risk and Culture (Berkeley: U of California Press, 1982). A review of recent work in the analysis of cultural systems is also offered, focusing on the works of Robert Wuthnow (eg, Meaning and Moral Order: Explorations in Cultural Analysis, Berkeley: U of California Press, 1987). It is concluded that the explanatory power of sociocultural theory can be increased by incorporating evolutionary reasoning into its analytical framework. 94 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6827

Dumont, Louis, Une conversation avec Louis Dumont (A Conversation with Louis Dumont), Recherches Sociologiques, 1992, 23, 2, 7-17. (FRE)

Introduction, 1-6. Interviewed by Jean-Claude Galey.

¶ Robert Deliège (U Catholique de Louvain, B-1348 Belgium) introduces Jean-Claude Galey's previously unpublished 1979 interview with Louis Dumont, which highlights his background as an Indianist. His sociological writings, aiming to popularize French structuralism, are widely recognized in the US & UK. His work is highly influential in the evolving anthropology of Indian society. With an abrupt change in direction, his interests now focus on individualism vs holism in Western society. Dumont recalls significant pre-WWII events in his intellectual development, including his study of Sanskrit, Tamil, & Hindi. He discusses his Indianist period, stressing his initial concern with the cultural rather than the sociological. Never completing his comparative analysis of north vs south India, he went on to develop his theories about individualism. 17 References. J. Sadler

93Z6828

Erwin, Robert, The Nature of Goffman, UM The Centennial Review, 1992, 36, 2, spring, 327-342.

¶ A reading of Erving Goffman's work focuses on its "social naturalism," & the way in which Goffman moved away from conventional sociology toward a human ethology by electing to study social competence rather than social practices. Key analytical concepts in Goffman's analyses of social competence are discussed, as is his understanding of the relationship between language & interaction. It is suggested that Goffman underestimated flux & profligacy in nature, & that his sociology ignored disorder & conflict among humans. Despite these oversights, Goffman's ability to make social interaction visible in his writing remains a lasting contribution to sociology. 17 References. W. Howard

93Z6829

Etkind, Alexandre (Sociological Instit Russian Academy Sciences, 198147 Saint Petersburg), The Situation of Sociologists in Russia Today, Schweizerische Zeitschrift für Soziologie/Revue Suisse de sociologie, 1992, 18, 2, 253-256.

¶ Specialist training in sociology has been available in the USSR only since 1989. The recognition of sociologists was advanced by the establishment in the 1970s of the Assoc of Soviet Sociologists, a body associated with the Soviet government. Sociological institutes have existed since 1964, but remained conservative & unchanging until 1989. Based partly on personal experience, reviewed briefly are the activities of sociological institutes, & of the Center for Sociology of Social Movements. The employment situation of sociologists is discussed. I. Shagrir

93Z6830

Ferrarotti, Franco, Colloquio con Franco Ferrarotti (Interview with Franco Ferrarotti), UM La Critica Sociologica, 1991-1992, 100-101, Jan-Mar, 130-134. (ITA)

Interview conducted by Roberto Cipriani.

¶ On the occasion of the one-hundredth issue of this journal, chief editor Franco Ferrarotti discusses: changes since the first issue appeared in 1967; the initial inspiration for founding the journal; comparisons with other journals; & a periodization of key themes, eg, violence during the late 1960s & early 1970s, the workers' movement & power relations during the mid 1970s & early 1980s, & questions of economics & culture during the late 1980s & early 1990s. M. Meeks

93Z6831

Gross, Peter, Horizons bornés et évasion: de la production sociologique récente en Suisse alémanique (Narrowness and Escape: On Recent Sociological Works in German-Speaking Switzerland), Schweizerische Zeitschrift für Soziologie/Revue Suisse de sociologie, 1992, 18, 1, 129-148. (FRE)

¶ A French translation of "Länderbericht. Enge und Flucht. Soziologische Literatur aus der Schweiz" (States Report. Crowding and Escape. Sociological Literature from Switzerland), originally published in Soziologische Revue, 1991, 14, 1, Jan, 33-47. 15 References.

93Z6832
Halnard, François (Instit sociologie science politique U Neuchâtel, CH-2000 Switzerland), Sociologie de la Suisse, sociologie en Suisse (Sociology of Switzerland, Sociology in Switzerland), Schweizerische Zeitschrift für Soziologie/Revue Suisse de sociologie, 1992, 18, 1, 151-154. (FRE)
¶ A review of the topics discussed in the opening statement for the Ninth Congress of the Swiss Society of Sociology. Despite recent growth in both sociological research & instruction, sociology is still poorly developed in Switzerland. Swiss sociology is today at a crucial point, between further development or stagnation. A great challenge lies ahead for sociologists, who need to initiate research programs in the social sciences, preferably demonstrating the value of sociological analysis through their work. Finally, the prevailing spirit of rivalry in Swiss-Romand sociology signals an optimistic trend. Modified AA

93Z6833
Hartmann, Jürgen (Instit Tourism & Travel Research University Coll Falun, S-78156 Borlänge Sweden), Portrait. In memoriam René König (1905-1992), International Sociology, 1992, 7, 4, Dec, 481-483.
¶ A memoriam to German sociologist René König, who was expelled from his academic position in the 1930s, along with many others, & made to flee his country. Although he resettled in Switzerland in 1937 & found it his intellectual home, he returned to Germany in 1949 to accept a position in sociology at the U of Cologne. There he developed a new German sociology based on empirical grounds, distinct from the historical & sociophilosophical traditions of German social sciences. His profound interest in anthropology contributed to his conviction that sociology must be an international science. König will be particularly remembered as a teacher & inspirer of scientific research. To his students & colleagues, his way of soliciting critical opposition & reflection promoted intellectual honesty & the emancipation of the human being using the tools of sociology. S. Millett

93Z6834
Hechter, Michael, Should Values Be Written Out of the Social Scientist's Lexicon?, Sociological Theory, 1992, 10, 2, fall, 214-230.
¶ The prospects for an endogenous theory of values in social science are explored, arguing that critiques of rational choice theory that advocate incorporating values into theoretical models are misguided. It is contended that research on values has been slowed by several impediments: the unobservability of values; lack of theoretical guidance for understanding how values influence behavior; & problems of measurement. The key to understanding values & incorporating them into theory lies in developing better measurement techniques. The study of advance directives for medical treatment offers a research site that is conducive to this end. 1 Figure, 90 References. W. Howard

93Z6835
Hernández Prado, José (Dept Sociología U Autónoma Metropolitana, Azcapotzalco 02000 Mexico DF), Los conceptos de realidad social y sociología en Antonio Caso (The Concepts of Social Reality and Sociology in Antonio Caso), Sociológica, 1990, 5, 14, Sept-Dec, 109-130. (SPA)
¶ An exploration of Antonio Caso's view of sociology (eg, see Obras Completas [Complete Works], Mexico: UNAM, 1972-1985). Caso, an early Mexican sociologist who died in 1946, saw sociology as a science that stemmed from natural science & studied all phenomena of social reality. He also suggested that the study of social reality cannot be totally scientific. To him, society was a product of the activity of individuals embedded in a world of natural causes & outcomes, but also the result of the interaction of people generating culture, values, & historical, nonrepetitive social entities. A comprehensive approach is required to understand those social entities. 21 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6836
Hutmacher, Walo (Service recherche sociologique U Genève, CH-1207 Switzerland), La Suisse vire à la sociologie. Entre dépendances et interdépendances (Switzerland Turns to Sociology. Between Dependency and Interdependency), Schweizerische Zeitschrift für Soziologie/Revue Suisse de sociologie, 1992, 18, 1, 167-180. (FRE)
¶ The future of Swiss sociology looks promising, judging from the convening of another annual Congress, & from growing academic accommodation of sociology departments & curricula. This development is a positive step, considering past legitimacy crises in the more influential Swiss-German institutions. Due to the global changes toward a postindustrial culture, the need for sociology is growing. The necessary & sufficient conditions for sociology & social science education are sketched. Since the 1960s, Swiss sociology has matured from a critical & militant Marxist dogma to a social science studying health, urban planning, ideology, work, migration, & social action–areas of interest well represented by subcommittees attending the Congress. Swiss sociology should reconcile the cultural & linguistic differences internal to the nation as it works toward a better understanding of the social. J. Sadler

93Z6837
Isambert, François-André (Ecole hautes études sciences sociales, F-75006 Paris France), Une Religion de l'homme? Sur trois interprétations de la religion dans la pensée de Durkheim (Man's Religion? Three Interpretations on Religion in the Thought of Durkheim), Revue française de Sociologie, 1992, 33, 3, July-Sept, 443-462. (FRE)
¶ A review of articles by José A. Prades, William S. Pickering, & Jean-Claude Filloux appearing in Relire Durkheim (Rereading Durkheim), a special thematic issue of Archives de sciences sociales des religions (Ladrière, Paul, & Prades, J. A. [Eds], 1990, 35, 69, Jan-Mar), together with three books by the same authors: Prades, Persistance et métamorphose du sacré. Actualiser Durkheim et repenser la modernité (Persistence and Metamorphosis of the Sacred. Updating Durkheim and Rethinking Modernity) (Paris: Presses universitaire de France, 1987); Pickering, Durkheim's Sociology of Religion. Themes and Theories (London: Routledge & Kegan Paul, 1984); & Jean-Claude Filloux, Individualisme, socialisme et changement social chez Durkheim ([Individualism, Socialism, and Social Change in Durkheim] U of Lille III, 1977). Pickering takes the most traditional approach, using a critical history that closely analyzes Emile Durkheim's development; his encyclopedic exploration is commended. Prades approaches Durkheim's theory as a conceptual, judgmental system elaborated on variations in meanings of specialized terms. The social-psychological perspective adapted by Filloux balances out Prades's insistence on the Durkheimian dualism. Filloux highlights aspects of Durkheim's theory linking individual & society, stressing that the concrete individual is a social person, & that an individual's socialization is particularly visible in religion. 58 References. J. Sadler

93Z6838
Laslett, Barbara (U Minnesota, Minneapolis 55455), Gender in/and Social Science History, Social Science History, 1992, 16, 2, summer, 177-195.
¶ In understanding the development of objectivistic, scientistic, quantitative sociology in the US between WWI & WWII, political developments, professional aspirations, & material interests are involved, but so are gender relations, sexuality, & personal life. During the interwar era, private (family) & public (work) spheres were separate, & socially coded respectively as female (F) & male (M). Science was also coded as M. As social science grew, academic social scientists, who were mostly white, middle-class Ms, under pressure to separate themselves from social reform & the women's sphere, adopted the practice of a science divorced from emotion. F social scientists, coming from the social reform area, were in the minority, & were limited by the emergence of this masculinist culture in the field. This analysis shows that gender is an important concept in analyzing structures; it is relevant in historical analysis even when one gender is absent from the event. 54 References. M. Pflum

93Z6839
Lowenthal, Leo, Address upon Accepting the Theodor W. Adorno Prize on 1 October 1989, IN New German Critique, 1991, 54, fall, 179-182.
Translated by Jamie Owen Daniel.
¶ A protest is lodged against what are seen as misrepresentations & distortions of the works of Theodor W. Adorno & Max Horkheimer. Following a discussion of the author's study of postmodern thought, the use of work of Adorno & Walter Benjamin, authors of critical theory, & other postmodern thinkers is described. It is claimed that, since critical theory has bound the Frankfurt school together, the prize should be awarded to the entire group. G. Castañeda

93Z6840

Lowenthal, Leo, As I Remember Friedel, UM New German Critique, 1991, 54, fall, 5-18.

¶ In an essay originally presented as the keynote address at the Kracauer Symposium held in Mar 1990 at Columbia U (New York City), the author recalls his life-long friendship with Sigfried Kracauer & their discussions of philosophical & religious issues, & quotes letters from Kracauer discussing his feelings about his immigration to the US after the Nazi takeover in Germany. G. Castañeda

93Z6841

Martínez Escamilla, Victor Hugo (Dept Sociología U Autónoma Metropolitana, Azcapotzalco 02000 Mexico DF), Notas sobre el individualismo y la sociología norteamericana de principios del siglo (Notes on Individualism and North American Sociology at the Beginning of the Century), Sociológica, 1990, 5, 14, Sept-Dec, 311-321. (SPA)

¶ The influence of individualism as an ideology on the emergence of the discipline of sociology in the US is considered via a review of primary & secondary texts. It is argued that sociology, as any other intellectual endeavor in the US, developed in the context of social, political, economic, & cultural conditions, whose influence was inescapable. Individualism manifested itself in thought & actions & norms & attitudes in individuals & small groups & from there spread to institutional levels, eg, as a scientific criteria to categorize the social. Individualism came to be a symbol of national identity; the first sociologists perceived it as such, & studied & theorized about it. The relationship between individualism & evolutionism is described, & their combined influence on early sociology outlined. 11 References. J. Taylor

93Z6842

Nave-Herz, Rosemarie (U Oldenburg, D-2900 Federal Republic Germany), Kölner Zeitschrift für Soziologie und Sozialpsychologie* 1989 (The Cologne Journal of Sociology and Social Psychology 1989), Soziologische Revue, 1992, 15, 4, Oct, 347-352. (GER)

¶ A review of the 1989 volume of Kölner Zeitschrift für Soziologie & Sozialpsychologie. Key topics include: thematic points of difficulty; the limitation of contributions to specific theoretical traditions or methodological principles; authors' chances of being published; the journal's role as gatekeeper, balancing the blend of local, national, & international contributions. In 1989 the journal maintained its international scope; however, only one book each written in English, Italian, & Polish were reviewed. About 54% of the books reviewed were published in the previous year, 35% two years prior, & 11% before 1987. M. Meeks

93Z6843

Oakes, Guy (Monmouth Coll, NJ 07764-1898), Four Questions concerning *The Protestant Ethic, UM Telos, 1989, 81, fall, 77-86.

¶ A refutation of four claims made by Luciano Pellicani (see SA 41:1/93Z4078; & see abstract in this section of SA 41:2) about Max Weber's The Protestant Ethic and the Spirit of Capitalism ([TPE] see SA 7:1/595444): (1) that Weber's essays on the Protestant sects written after TPE simply repeat its basic thesis, about which it is argued that the essays explain the relation between the Protestant ethic & the spirit of capitalism by means of premises not employed in TPE; (2) that Weber's replies to German critics of TPE, Karl Fischer & Felix Rachfahl, add nothing of significance; (3) that Werner Sombart's thesis that Leon Battista Alberti offers proof of a pre-Reformation spirit of capitalism is correct, against which it is argued that it is a mistake to conflate the economic ethos exemplified by Alberti with the spirit of modern capitalism; & (4) that Weber's position must be rejected because most historians have concluded that it is mistaken, against which it is argued that this mode of criticism is invalid. Modified AA

93Z6844

Pellicani, Luciano (Libera U internazionale studi sociali, I-00198 Rome Italy), Reply to Guy Oakes, UM Telos, 1989, 81, fall, 63-76.

¶ In response to the staunch defense of the famous Weberian thesis on the role played by the Protestant ethic (see SA 7:1/595444) in the process of formation of the capitalist spirit written by Guy Oakes ("Farewell to The Protestant Ethic?," Telos, 1988-1989, 78, winter, 81-94 [subsumed in SA 41:1/93Z4119]) in reply to Luciano Pellicani's devastating critique of this particular thesis in On the Genesis of Capitalism (Telos Press [no additional publication information provided]), it is stressed that a scientific hypothesis must be considered untenable when it distorts reality. Historical reality tells us that in no country did Calvinism encourage the acquisitive spirit & rational pursuit of profit, but quite the opposite; the movement & its various sects did everything possible to combat Mammon &, therefore, contrary to what Max Weber claimed, did not serve as one of the many obstacles blocking the development of capitalism. Nor can it be claimed that this paradox of consequences–as documented by the most recent historical studies–was the diffusion of the Calvinist ethic that paved the way for the development of a market economy. Therefore, the key for interpreting the shift of the driving force of capitalism, in the latter sixteenth century, is not to be sought in the Reformation but in the totalitarian reaction of the counter-Reformation, which, in countries subject to Spanish rule, was blocking economic scientific & technological development. Modified AA

93Z6845

Petrík, Borislav, Ján Lajčiak–zabudnutý slovenský sociológ (Ján Lajčiak–A Forgotten Slovak Sociologist), Sociológia, 1991, 23, 4, 359-362. (SLO)

¶ Though Ján Lajčiak (1875-1918) received a doctorate in oriental philology from the U of Leipzig (Germany) & a doctorate in theology from the Sorbonne (Paris, France), he was unable to secure a teaching position, so he lived among the coal miners of Vyšná Boca, where he tended sheep & bees. Theologians considered him extremely liberal, while political officials saw him as an extreme pan-Slavist. He died on the day of the proclamation of the Slovak Republic on 28 Oct 1918. He is best known for his efforts to bring Christian churches into harmony with contemporary science & culture. He also developed an interesting typology of Slovaks & conducted research on the Slovak family. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6846

Piscová, Magdaléna & Filadelfiová, Jarmila, Európske kolokvium kozmopolitnej sociológie (European Colloquium on Cosmopolitan Sociology), Sociológia, 1991, 23, 4, 354-356. (SLO)

¶ An outline of the First European Colloquium on Cosmopolitan Sociology held Nov 1990 in Strasbourg, France. It was noticed that a degradation has occurred in sociology linked to lack of interest in the knowledge & services that sociologists have to offer; some even claim that sociology is an unnecessary intellectual luxury. This is due to the lack of self-assertion by sociologists in democratic European nations. The newly democratizing nations of Eastern Europe were able to learn from the experienced democracies through the exchange of researchers, students, & literature. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6847

Rasmussen, Steen, Tönnies -og Marx: Samfundets kriser -og sociologiens (Tönnies and Marx: A Crisis among Sociologists), Dansk Sociologi, 1992, 3, 3, Sept, 36-50. (DAN)

¶ A discussion of whether the philosophically oriented sociology in Ferdinand Tönnies's Marx–Leven und Lehre ([Marx: His Life and Teachings] Jena: Erich Lichtenstein, 1921) & other works can contribute anything to alleviate the current sociological crisis. Tönnies's relationship to Karl Marx is examined through concepts such as historical incentive, political economy, & the collapse of capitalism. Tönnies tried to integrate several of his own concepts into the Marxist framework of historical materialism. He differed from Marx by maintaining that the major contradiction under capitalism was between work & commerce. This recurrent theme captured the ahistorical dimension of gender polarity. Also discussed is Tönnies's division of sociology along static/dynamic, concensus/conflict, & hypothesis/verification axes. 3 Photographs, 24 References. Adapted from the source document.

0038-0202/93 $1.50

93Z6848

Roby, Pamela (U California, Santa Cruz 95064), Women and the ASA: Degendering Organizational Structures and Processes, 1964-1974, IM The American Sociologist, 1992, 23, 1, spring, 18-48.

¶ How organizations are degendered, & how such efforts are inhibited, are explored, drawing on the history of the American Sociological Assoc (ASA) for illustration. The reshaping efforts of individual feminist sociologists (including men) & the impact of larger forces 1964-1974 are considered. Through recommended changes in the ASA & sociology in general, accomplishments in the area of degendering include the ASA Committee on the Status of Women & the ASA Section on Sex & Gender, scholarship written from a feminist perspective, greater female authorship, feminist theorizing, & growth in the % of sociology graduate faculty members. Further efforts are recommended in promoting the participation of minority women & women with children in the ASA & the field of sociology, & in exploring the motivation of men & women in sociology to act as feminist. 2 Figures, 259 References. S. Millett

93Z6849

Rodax, Klaus, Ideologiekritiker und Aufklärer Einige Anmerkungen zum Symposion anlässlich des 100. Geburtstages Theodor Geigers (Ideological Critics and Adherents: A Few Remarks on the Symposium for the Hundredth Birthday of Theodor Geiger), Österreichische Zeitschrift für Soziologie, 1992, 17, 3, 87-90. (GER)

¶ To mark the hundredth birthday of Theodor Geiger, a symposium was held 7-9 Nov 1991 in Braunschweig, Germany, his home town, from which he was forced to flee to Denmark during the Nazi era. In Dec 1991, a special Theodor Geiger Archive was opened at the Technical U of Braunschweig. Participants came from Germany, Austria, Switzerland, the Netherlands, & Spain. The relevance of Geiger's works to modern sociology is stressed. While he was alive, critics disagreed with many of his ideas that are now accepted by most sociologists as axiomatic. M. Meeks

93Z6850

Rodríguez Guillén, Raúl & Padilla Pineda, Mario (Dept Sociología U Autónoma Metropolitana Azcapotzalco, 02000 Mexico DF), Sociológica*: los primeros cinco años (Sociológica: The First Five Years), Sociológica, 1991, 6, 15, Jan-Apr, 439-459. (SPA)

¶ A qualitative analysis is presented of the articles in the first fourteen issues (1987-1990) of the journal Sociológica, published by the U Autónoma Metropolitana-Azcapotzalco, Mexcio. Numbers of reviews, empirical articles, theoretical essays, translations, & notes are compared, & affiliations of contributors & other qualitative data considered. Results indicate a predominance of theoretical essays, but a great diversity in theoretical orientations, & an increase in articles submitted for publication. Data on subscriptions & requests for back issues are also presented. 2 Tables, 14 Graphs. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6851

Sewell, William H. (U Wisconsin, Madison 53706), Some Observations and Reflections on the Role of Women and Minorities in the Democratization of the American Sociological Association, 1905-1990, IM The American Sociologist, 1992, 23, 1, spring, 56-62.

¶ Reasons for the fact that only one black & one woman sociologist were elected president of the American Sociological Assoc (ASA) between 1905 & 1970 are attributed to the control of an all-white male power structure & outright discrimination & indifference to the merits of women & minorities. It was not until the late 1960s, when the Women's Caucus & the Caucus of Black Sociologists were formed, that the ASA responded with appointments of women & minorities to elective offices & influential committee positions. Participation of women & minorities in the ASA 1970-1990 is highlighted. S. Millett

93Z6852

Sze, Julia W. (OECD Development Centre, 94 rue Chardon-Lagache F-75016 Paris France), The Trends, Development, and Future of the Social Sciences in Asia, Indian Journal of Social Science, 1991, 4, 4, Oct-Dec, 475-502.

¶ Since most Asian countries attained political independence forty years ago, there has been a struggle to indigenize Asian social science & free its thinking, research methodology, & conceptual foundations from its Western roots. The development of the social sciences in Asia is traced, considering each economy's recent history, population of social scientists, & research concerns. Three challenges are offered: to cultivate greater understanding of other Asian countries' social scientific work & foster stronger ties; to improve communication between government policymakers & social scientists; & to increase nongovernmental funding of the social sciences. 8 Tables, 24 References. L. Dorn

93Z6853

Therborn, Göran (Sociologiska Instit Göteborg U, S-41124 Sweden), Sociologin och de två kulturerna. Anförande vid Sveriges Sociologförbunds årsmöte, Uppsala den 20.2.1992 (Sociology and the Two Cultures. Presidential Address to the Annual Conference of the Swedish Sociological Association, at Uppsala 20 Feb 1992), Sociologisk Forskning, 1992, 29, 2, 3-12. (SWE)

¶ Basic to the divided world of sociology, beneath a number of other cleavages, are two cultures of sociology, a humanistic one & a scientific one. These cultures provide different entries to, & exits from, the core of the discipline, which is explained in terms of actors' cultural belonging & structural location. The different cultural belonging of sociologists mean different identities, cognitive codes, & norms & values of performance. One sociological culture is oriented toward historiography, philosophy, psychoanalysis, & literature, & another toward economics, empirical political science, scientific psychology, demography, social medicine, etc. It is argued that this bicultural character of sociology creates inherent tension & conflict, which should neither be denied nor suppressed. Instead, what should be striven for is a constructive confrontation & cross-fertilization. Apart from sterile trench warfare internally, the main danger of bicultural sociology is dilettantism, of which there are both scientific & humanistic variants. Modified AA

93Z6854

Torvelainen, Teemu, Ziehe ruokkii sosiologista mielikuvitusta? (Is Ziehe Feeding the Sociological Imagination?), Sosiologia, 1992, 29, 3, 236-237. (FIN)

¶ A critique of the extremely technical & often barely comprehensible language used in Thomas Ziehe's The New Youth–Defense of Unconventional Learning (Finnish translation published in Tampere, 1991) It is noted that, instead of difficult sociological terms, more common Finnish ones could have been used without changing the context of the text. The problem of using technical language in the sociological context & the resulting difficulty in transmitting the message to the reading audience are discussed. J. Sihvola

93Z6855

Večerník, Jiří, Introduction, Sociologický Časopis, 1992, 28, special issue, Aug, 3-4.

¶ As an introduciton to this journal issue (see related abstracts in SA 41:2), a historical perspective of sociology in Czechoslovakia is presented. Postwar sociological research & teaching came increasingly under the fire of Stalinist leaders & was completely prohibited in 1950. Sociological research emerged again in 1965 but thrived unfettered only until 1970 when it came under the influence of ideological principles & party control. The lack of continuity in sociology, lowered prestige of sociological research, & lack of qualified professionals & students interested in its study are the major problems facing the field of sociology in Czechoslovakia today. D. Generoli

93Z6856

Vidler, Anthony, Agoraphobia: Spatial Estrangement in Georg Simmel and Siegfried Kracauer, IM New German Critique, 1991, 54, fall, 31-45.

¶ The growth of the major city, or metropolis, in the nineteenth century created the need to understand its social effects, eg, social estrangement. Examined are the spatial & architectural discourses in the writings of Georg Simmel & Siegfried Kracauer, & their attempts to find physical clues to understand the social effects of living in an urban environment. It is argued that the spatial sociology developed by Simmel & the paradigmatic spaces described by Kracauer unite space with society, aiding the understanding of social change. 22 References. G. Castañeda

93Z6857

Weiss, Johannes (Gesamthochschule Kassel, D-3500 Federal Republic Germany), Herkules im Kleinviehstall (Hercules in the Calves' Stable), Soziologische Revue, 1992, 15, 4, Oct, 333-336. (GER)

A reply to Helmut Spinner's claims that reviews of scientific texts & knowledge production play only a marginal role in the overall scheme of science (see SA 41:1/93Z4100). It is argued here that Spinner's criticisms are insignificant & blatantly false; further, his assertions lack empirical backing. M. Meeks (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6858

Wilkinson, Doris (Dept Sociology U Kentucky, Lexington 40506), Guest Editor's Comments, IN The American Sociologist, 1992, 23, 1, spring, 7-10.

An introduction to a special issue (see related abstracts in SA 41:2) on the role of women & minorities, particularly African Americans, in the transformation of the structure of the American Sociological Assoc (ASA). Stanley Lieberson, who was president of the ASA at the time of its 1991 annual meeting, wished to convey the experiences emanating from, & the significance of, the demographic transitions that had occurred in the organization during the decade that incorporated the civil rights movement & the unfolding of the women's liberation movement. Five scholars were chosen to be "representative" participants, who reflected the substantive as well as participatory dynamics of the politically explosive era between 1964 & 1974. The basic theme that emerged from their contributions was that the structure of the ASA has been transformed by the external sociopolitical climate & the collective activism of white women & black men & women sociologists who felt that the profession was not responsive to their intellectual & professional needs & concerns at the time. 1 Bibliography. S. Millett (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6859

Willener, Alfred (U Lausanne, CH-1015 Switzerland), Sociologie: le devoir de critique (Sociology: The Duty to Be Critical), Schweizerische Zeitschrift für Soziologie/Revue Suisse de sociologie, 1992, 18, 1, 181-193. (FRE)

¶ An argument for critical sociology begins with definitions for the terms critic, critical spirit, critique, & criticism. Issues for sociology to address include the equitable evaluation of the sociologist's contribution, the legitimacy of journalism's popularized sociology, & the field's interior critique (sociography). Also noted are trends in critical sociology toward disproportion, explanations via the black box, & tolerance of sociological pluralism. J. Sadler (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6860

Windisch, Uli (Dept sociologie U Genève, CH-1207 Switzerland), Quelle place et quelles questions pour la sociologie en Suisse? (Which Place and Which Questions for Sociology in Switzerland?), Schweizerische Zeitschrift für Soziologie/Revue Suisse de sociologie, 1992, 18, 1, 155-166. (FRE)

¶ Noting the suprising progress in Swiss sociology over the past three decades, sharp contrasts between 1960s-style vs today's social sciences are discussed. Well-educated researchers are still in short supply. Rejecting the denunciatory rhetoric of critical sociology, an exploration of the contributions of sociology & literature to the knowledge of the social is suggested. Switzerland is the fabled laboratory of anthropology, sociology, linguistics, politics, & culture, but is lacking in-depth & original social scientific studies. Only popular articles by journalists have touched on themes of interest to sociology. Themes needing research include race relations between the Swiss & immigrants, cultural differences between the Swiss-German & the Swiss-Romand, & links between Switzerland & Europe. J. Sadler (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6861

Zinn, Alexander (Oppelner Str 6, D-1000 Berlin SO 36 Federal Republic Germany), Gehasst oder instrumentalisiert? Soziologie im Dritten Reich aus der Perspektive des Reichsministeriums für Wissenschaft (Hated or Used? Sociology in the Third Reich from the Perspective of the Reichsministerium für Wissenschaft), Zeitschrift für Soziologie, 1992, 21, 5, Oct, 347-365. (GER)

¶ To investigate the initial position of Nazi Germany toward the discipline of sociology, an analysis was conducted of a file from the Reichs Ministry for Scholarship, Training, & Popular Education from 1935 to 1941. A variety of sociological schools of thought had existed prior to the Nazi takeover in 1933. Sociology lacked a clear focus, & was not a narrowly conceived field, but rather, a common area of discourse for scholars of other disciplines. Although many sociologists emigrated after 1933, others were permitted to keep publishing. However, the number of titles referring to race & nationality increased. The Nazis sent German sociologists to international sociological congresses in Brussels (Belgium) in 1935, in Paris (France) in 1937, & in Bucharest (Romania) in 1939. These conferences served as forums where Nazi racist doctrines could be propagated. 33 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6862

----, In Memory of Herbert Spiegelberg, 1904-1990, Human Studies, 1992, 15, 4, Oct, 364-384.

Introduction, 363, Comments, 385-409.

¶ In Introduction. In Memory of Herbert Spiegelberg 1904-1990, George Psathas (Boston U, Mass) mentions major points in Spiegelberg's academic career, & his outstanding & influential contributions to the development of phenomenology & its history in the US. In Memories of My American Life for My American Children and Children's Children, Spiegelberg sketches his life from pre-immigration days. Fearing reprisals from the anti-Semitic nationalist sentiment in his native Alsace (France), he immigrated to the US to establish an academic life. He took a teaching position in the German department of Swarthmore Coll, Mass, & later taught philosophy at Lawrence Coll, Wisc. He married, had two children, & struggled to stay at Swarthmore despite differences with its new president. Following a brief interlude teaching an introductory philosophy seminar at the U of Michigan, Ann Arbor, he started writing The Phenomenological Movement: A Historical Introduction (The Hague: Martinus Nijhoff Publishers, 1960), with a grant from the Rockefeller Foundation. Following A Bibliography of Herbert Spiegelberg's Published Works 1930-1989, listing 105 publications, Fred Kersten (U of Wisconsin, Green Bay) notes the sociality of Spiegelberg's philosophizing in Some Recollections of Herbert Spiegelberg, which mentions their thirty-five years of correspondence & friendship after initially studying under him. Sharing anecdotes of their informal philosophical discussions, he reproduces Spiegelberg's diagrammed chronology of the phenomenological movement. In Herbert Spiegelberg: The Ironic Self, William S. Hamrick (Southern Illinois U, Edwardsville) reviews entries of Spiegelberg's diary, which ironically reveal his second self. This self is marked by an obsession with the "I-am-me" experience, its connection with the experience of music, & his enjoyment of word play. Don Ihde (State U of New York, Stony Brook), in Herbert Spiegelberg Remembrances, credits Spiegelberg for inspiring him to write a doctoral dissertation on Paul Ricoeur. Spiegelberg's workshops, vehicles for a perceptualist orientation toward the teaching of phenomenology, are recalled. Psathas relates the inception & evolution of the workshop investigational method in In Memory of Herbert Spiegelberg and the Phenomenological Workshops. After noting Spiegelberg's ordeal with cataracts & its influence on his philosophizing, the ground rules for conducting discussion in the workshops are listed, focusing on the unique opportunities they provided to intersubjectively socialize phenomenology as an alternative to a solitary, armchair approach. 3 Photographs, 1 Appendix, 8 References. J. Sadler (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6863

----, Suomalaisen sosiologian vuosikymmenet (The Decades of Finnish Sociology: A Debate), Sosiologia, 1992, 29, 3, 181-202. (FIN)

¶ Several contributions to the annual meeting of the Westermark Society, held 27-28 Mar 1992 in Jyväskylä, Finland, are outlined. The theme of the conference was a survey of the development of Finnish sociology over the last decades. Key studies from the 1940s to 1980s that formed the basis of Finnish sociology & reflected shifts in the sociology-society relationship are noted. In 1950-luku: Tehdas ja ammattiyhdistys (The 1950s: Factories and the Trade Union), Paavo Seppänen (U of Helsinki, Finland) discusses ways that US sociology & social research methods affected the development of Finnish sociology, emphasizing survey research & statistical analysis. Klaus Mäkelä, in 1960-luku: Yhteiskunnan rakenne ja sosiaalinen paine (The 1960s: The Structure of Society and Social Pressure), discusses the importance of Erik Allardt's Yhteiskunnan rakenne ja sosiaalinen paine (The Structure of Society and Social Pressure (no publication information provided) in terms of its influence on other sociological works & dissertations. In 1960-luku: Suo- mäinen nainen ja mies (The 1960s: The Finnish Female and Male), Riitta Jallinoja (U of Helsinki, Finland) discusses issues concerning emancipation, sexual equality, & the social, economic, & political role of the female in society. Juha Partanen, in 1970-luku: TANDEM (The 1970s: TANDEM), reports on a government research project conducted 1973-1977 by the Sociological Commission. In 1980-luku: Avautua sulkeutua (the 1980s: Open-Shut), Pia Sivenius reviews feminist literary theory & other feminist issues. 1 Figure, 1 Illustration. J. Sihvola

07 theories, ideas, & systems

93Z6864

Alanen, Ilkka (Jyväsklä U, SF-40100 Finland), Miten teoretisoida maatalouden pientuotantoa (On the Conceptualization of Petty Production in Agriculture), * Dissertation Abstracts International, C: Worldwide, 1992, 53, 4, winter, 646-C-647-C. (FIN) Unavailable from UMI; published by U of Jyväskylä, Seminaarinkatu 15, SF-40100 Finland.

93Z6865

Albrow, Martin (University Wales Coll, Cardiff CF1 3AT), Las sociedades como hechos construidos: el enfoque de Weber de la realidad social (Societies as Constructed Facts: The Weberian Approach to Social Reality), Estudios Sociológicos, 1991, 9, 26, May-Aug, 339-356. (SPA) Translated from English by Gabriela Montes de Oca Vega.

¶ A revised version of SA 38:6/90S21902/ISA/1990/5584.

93Z6866

Alexander, Jeffrey C. (Dept Sociology U California, Los Angeles 90024-1551), Recent Sociological Theory between Agency and Social Structure, Schweizerische Zeitschrift für Soziologie/Revue Suisse de sociologie, 1992, 18, 1, 7-11.

¶ A revised version of SA 38:6/90S21905/ISA/1990/5587.

93Z6867

Almond, Gabriel A., Flanagan, Scott C. & Mundt, Robert J. (c/o Flanagan–Florida State U, Tallahassee 32306), Crisis, Choice, and Change in Retrospect, Government and Opposition, 1992, 27, 3, summer, 345-367.

¶ Though dominated by reductionism for several decades, political science in the 1980s once again became receptive to synthetic approaches such as described in Crisis, Choice, and Change: Historical Studies of Political Development (Almond, Gabriel A., Flanagan, Scott C., & Mundt, Robert J., Boston: Little Brown, 1973). This work integrated the system-functionalism, social mobilization, rational choice, & leadership theory approaches to overcome individual deficiencies & combine strengths. In so doing the authors attempted to bridge the static-dynamic & the determinacy-choice dichotomies & built a four-phase model of linked processes & stages to explain historic episodes of crisis, choice, & change. Weaknesses & problems with the model's procedures as viewed in retrospect are discussed. D. Generoli

93Z6868

Alway, Joan (Brandeis U, Waltham MA 02554-9110), To Interpret and to Change the World: Critical Theory as Theory with Practical Intent, * Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 5, Nov, 1691-A.
Available from UMI, Ann Arbor, MI. Order No. DA9229447.

93Z6869

Barrelmeyer, Uwe (Versmolderstr 56, D-4802 Halle/Westfalen Federal Republic Germany), Wozu Klassiker? Eine Zitationsanalyse zur soziologischen Rezeption Georg Simmels (Why Classical Authors? A Citation Analysis of the Reception of Georg Simmel), Zeitschrift für Soziologie, 1992, 21, 4, Aug, 296-306. (GER)

¶ To investigate the function of Georg Simmel as a classical sociological author, an analysis was conducted of 2,500 German, English, & French secondary criticisms published in 30 bibliographical souces, 1975-1990. Of these criticisms, 1,053 were published in journals devoted purely to sociology. In 89.2% of the sociological journal articles, & 92.5% of those in other journals, the citation of Simmel served merely to increase the apparent authority of the article, or to complement the bibliography. In the remaining articles, Simmel was cited as part of an exegesis or in historical & systematic analyses. Thus, the primary reason for such citations was to create the scholarly identity needed for communication within a particular discipline, & to legitimate the author's work as being secured by a competent choice of references. 5 Tables, 43 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6870

Beiner, Ronald (U Toronto, Ontario M5S 1A1), Thin Ice, History of the Human Sciences, 1992, 5, 3, Aug, 65-70.

¶ A review article on a book by Leszek Kolakowski, Modernity on Endless Trial (Chicago: U of Chicago Press, 1990 [see listing in IRPS No. 67]). Kolakowski's essays, written over thirteen years, demonstrate a postmodern sensibility. They share a set of themes & preoccupations, including the conflict between science & religion, the disenchanting effects of secularization, the cultural malaise of modernity, the unattainability of perfection, & the unavoidability of evil. A recurrent theme is that, whether one turns toward faith or secular reason, civilizing & barbarizing tendencies seem to intersect in unexpected ways, often resulting in one being drawn in a direction opposed to one's best intentions. On the other hand, themes of the persistence of hope & the unreasonableness of despair are also recurrent. It is suggested that when Kolakowski dons his Catholic theoogian's cap, his conservatism is most apparent, & that when he reflects on the longing for utopia, his liberalism is most evident. Kolakowski argues that a facile repudiation of modernity can be just as dangerous as a facile affirmation of it. S. Millett

93Z6871

Bloom, Leslie Rebecca (School Education Indiana U, Bloomington 47405), "How Can We Know the Dancer from the Dance?": Discourses of the Self-Body, Human Studies, 1992, 15, 4, Oct, 313-334.

¶ Based on phenomenologically informed life-history methods, post-Cartesian ways of articulating illness & body-self unity are examined. Specifically, the lived experiences of three episodes of illness are analyzed in the personal narratives of one woman. In-depth analyses of the narratives are given using Mikhail M. Bakhtin's discourse theory & Sally Gadow's dialectic progression theory (respectvely: "Discourse in the Novel" in Holquist, Mike [Ed], The Dialogic Imagination: Four Essays by M. M. Bakhtin, Emerson, C. [Ed], & Holquist, M. [Trs], Austin, Tex: U of Texas Press, 1981; & "Body and Self: A Dialectic" in Kestenbaum, V. [Ed], The Humanity of the Ill: Phenomenological Perspective, Knoxville: U of Tennessee Press, 1982). It is concluded that medical practice would benefit from studying the lived experiences of patients & from participating in the current postmodern discourse about the body. 14 References. Modified AA

93Z6872

Bourdieu, Pierre (U Paris I, F-75231 Cedex 05 France), The Corporatism of the Universal: The Role of Intellectuals in the Modern World, Telos, 1989, 81, fall, 99-110.
Translated from French by Carolyn Betensky.

¶ The role of intellectuals in the modern world is examined to determine the conditions under which worldwide collective action by intellectuals are conceived as producers of culture who belong to an intellectually autonomous field & who deploy their authority & expertise to a political realm outside of their chosen intellectual domain. A brief history of intellectuals is made. The first act of such an organization would be to acquire the means of guaranteeing all intellectuals freedom from economic, political, religious, or mass media coercion. W. Howard

93Z6873

Broome, John (U Bristol, BS8 1TH England), Deontology and Economics, Economics and Philosophy, 1992, 8, 2, Oct, 269-282.

¶ A response to Amitai Etzioni's book, The Moral Dimension (New York: Free Press, 1988), in which the author claims that economists assume people are self-interested, but that actually people often act for moral motives. Etzioni says that, if economics were to take proper account of people's moral motivations, its methods would need to be radically revised; specifically, people act out of a deontological morality. Here, the difference between deontological morality & other sorts is analyzed, identifying deontological morality by its structure. Agreeing with Etzioni, it is contended that the concept of people typically acting out of deontological morality is radically inconsistent with the methods of economics; but it is also argued that other sorts of morality are, at the most fundamental level, consistent with economics. Although people doubtless have moral motivations, Etzioni has not provided good evidence that their motives are deontological, leaving his case against the methods of economics unproven. 21 References. AA (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6874

Brown, Gregory P. (U Waterloo, Ontario N2L 3G1), A Multivariate Box-Jenkins Time Series Analysis of Emile Durkheim's Theory of Anomic Suicide, * Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 6, Dec, 2127-A.

Available from UMI, Ann Arbor, MI. Order No. DANN69097.

93Z6875

Brown, Kevin L. (Dept Sociology U Chicago, IL 60637), On Human Nature: Utilitarianism and Darwin, Social Science Information/Information sur les Sciences Sociales, 1992, 31, 2, June, 239-265.

¶ Analysis of Charles Darwin's works shows that his early exposure to a debate among utilitarian social theorists on whether reason or innate social emotions enforce the social contract led him to use his theory of natural selection to support Adam Smith's "moral sense" approach, rather than to equate evolution with the enlightened egoism of economic man, as is usually assumed. In addition, Darwin & other evolutionary theorists recognized that the base assumption of psychological hedonism was implied by this new-found biological law. Although crucial in founding Anglo-American sociology at the turn of the century, this evolutionary underpinning to an approach that assumes the limited pursuit of self-interest in a biologically given moral environment of contract was soon forgotten, & has reemerged only with recent efforts both to include the social sciences in biology's modern synthesis & to find a game-theoretic solution to the problem of social order, efforts which suggest a need to revive the moral sense utilitarianism of eighteenth-century Scottish moral philosophy & its early sociobiological approach. This revival should help mediate differences between sociologists & rational choice theorists by fleshing out economic man to his original social self. 83 References. AA (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6876

Bryant, Christopher G. A. (Dept Sociology U Salford, M5 4WT England), Sociology without Philosophy? The Case of Giddens's Structuration Theory, Sociological Theory, 1992, 10, 2, fall, 137-149.

¶ A revised version of SA 38:6/90S22133/ISA/1990/5815. 1 Figure, 48 References. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6877

Cheal, David (U Winnipeg, Manitoba R3B 2E9), Ritual: Communication in Action, UM Sociological Analysis, 1992, 53, 4, winter, 363-374.

¶ Jürgen Habermas's evolutionary narrative of communicative action is critiqued, with attention to his claim that ritual has declined as a medium of communication due to the growth of rational discourse. Rather, it is shown here that rituals have continuing importance in contemporary religious & social life, for three reasons: (1) Rituals help to define alternative realities that are outside the totalizing worldviews of modern elites & the institutions they control. (2) Where a range of possibly irreconcilable interests exists, rituals may be the most effective means for generating unity via feelings of identification that are detached from critical reasoning. (3) Rituals have not been completely displaced by discourse, because rituals themselves have evolved in response to changing social conditions. 77 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6878

Cook, Karen S. & Howard, Judith A. (U Washington, Seattle 98195), Recent Theoretical Advances in Social Psychology: Progress and Promises, UM Social Psychology Quarterly, 1992, 55, 2, June, 87-93.

¶ An introduction to this special journal issue (see related abstracts in SA 41:2) chronicles continuous theoretical progress in the field of social psychology. Discussion includes: methodological relationism vs individualism vs holism; the formation of purposive groups & emergence of social structure; patterns of social relations; the construction of cognitive maps of individual social worlds; the attitude-behavior relationship; face work & language usage; & childhood socialization. Directions for further development are outlined. 11 References. K. Hyatt (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6879

Coole, Diana (U Leeds, LS2 9JT England), Modernity and Its Other(s), History of the Human Sciences, 1992, 5, 3, Aug, 81-91.

¶ A review article on books by: Jürgen Habermas, The Philosophical Discourse of Modernity (Lawrence, F. G. [Tr], Cambridge: Polity Press, 1987); Stephen K. White, Political Theory and Postmodernism (Cambridge: Cambridge U Press, 1991); & Alice A. Jardine, Gynesis. Configurations of Woman and Modernity (Ithaca, NY, & London: Cornell U Press, 1985 [see listings in IRPS No. 67]). The primary focus of the three works lies in discourses that have emerged in response to modernity's rationalistic closure, particularly in the nature of postmodernism, about which they disagree. The reaction rejects the Enlightenment language & criteria that earlier critics employed in attempts to set the emancipatory potential of modernity free, making it difficult to associate postmodernism with radical critiques & political practices developed by (neo) Marxism, democratic political theory, & feminism. It is the relationship between postmodernism & these critical, but modern, discourses that the authors explore. At stake is whether some form of reason continues to be the best hope of escape from modernity's crisis, or whether an appeal beyond reason to its Other should be pursued. S. Millett (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6880

Cottone, R. Rocco & Greenwell, Robert J. (U Missouri, Saint Louis 63121-4499), Beyond Linearity and Circularity: Deconstructing Social Systems Theory, UM Journal of Marital and Family Therapy, 1992, 18, 2, Apr, 167-177.

¶ A case is made for the deconstruction of social systems theory as applied to marital & family therapy in an attempt to address an ethical imperative emerging in the field to account for legal & moral responsibility within families. The systemic principles of linear & circular causality are defined & reworked in an effort to reconcile the ambiguities that have led to their perceived opposition. A call is made for continued deconstruction of these concepts as a means toward either refinement of the systemic paradigm or development of a new paradigm that can acknowledge individual & relational realities. 1 Figure, 30 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6881

Dietz, Thomas & Burns, Tom R. (Dept Sociology & Anthropology George Mason U, Fairfax VA 22030), Human Agency and the Evolutionary Dynamics of Culture, Acta Sociologica, 1992, 35, 3, 187-200.

¶ The role of agency in evolutionary theory (ET) is explored, distinguishing ET from developmental theories usually identified with evolution in discussions of social theory. An approach to agency & to power grounded in social rule systems theory is offered, defining agency as effective, intentional, unconstrained, & reflexive action by individual or collective actors. Using contemporary ET, circumstances under which individual & collective action can meet these requirements & thus be considered agentic are outlined. 84 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6882

Digeser, Peter (U California, Santa Barbara 93106), The Fourth Face of Power, UM Journal of Politics, 1992, 54, 4, Nov, 977-1007.

¶ The utility of Michel Foucault's novel conception of power (reference not specified) to the study of politics is discussed. It is contended that Foucault's meaning of power (referred to as the fourth face of power) can best be understood by placing it alongside the debate over power that has occupied political scientists for thirty years. This juxtaposition reveals a conception of power that claims to be both descriptive & critical of the norms governing our self-understandings & political practices. Considered in conclusion is a political response to Foucault's striking notion of disciplinary power. 56 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6883

Ekstad, Jon Ivar, Et klassebegrep for 90-årene? En kritisk oversikt over tre sosiologiske klasseteorier (A Class Concept for the Nineties? A Critical Review of Three Sociological Theories of Class), Tidsskrift for samfunnsforskning, 1992, 33, 1, 3-26. (NOR)

¶ Three important viewpoints on class theory were developed during the 1970s & 1980s by Erik Olin Wright, Pierre Bourdieu, & Anthony Giddens. In conceptualizing the socioeconomic field of society, Wright departs from the concept of class structure, & contends that material interests are crucial in class formation. Bourdieu pictures the sociomaterial field as a multidimensional social space; habitus is responsible for creating class individuals. In Giddens's theory of structuration based on capitalism, people are attached to the socioeconomic field in accordance with their market capacities, & contribute economic, cultural, & social capital. The different roles of these theories in empirical analyses are discussed. 41 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6884

Embree, Lester (Dept Philosophy Florida Atlantic U, Boca Raton 33431), The Phenomenology of Representational Awareness, Human Studies, 1992, 15, 4, Oct, 301-311.

¶ The perspective of Husserlian phenomenology as taught at the New School for Social Research (New York, NY) grounds the world as it presents itself in intersubjectivity to establish the first philosophy. Rather than exegetic interpretation of texts, emphasis is on phenomenological investigation focusing on representational awareness. After reviewing a classification of intentive processes & objects as they present themselves, it is noted that the consumption of representations is learned. Truth applies to only one class of representational awareness, the linguistic. A more general theory of representational adequacy would include conditions by which represented objects would be justifiably believed in as represented. It is suggested that archaeology requires representational, nonlinguistic observation. 1 Reference. J. Sadler (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6885

Esser, Hartmut (U Mannheim, D-6800 1 Federal Republic Germany), The Rationality of Everyday Behavior: A Rational Choice Reconstruction of the Theory of Action by Alfred Schütz, Rationality and Society, 1993, 5, 1, Jan, 7-31. Comments, 32-67.

¶ Alfred Schütz developed a theory of action whose basic structure is compatible with expected utility theory, a variant of the rational choice paradigm. Schütz's theory of everyday action–particulalry his notions of relevance structures & routines–is modeled in terms of expected utility theory. This theory conceives routines & relevance structures as the result of an action-preceding rational choice in the process of the cognition of situations & under the conditions of bounded rationality. In On the Limits of Rational Choice (Wetterling, Allison, & Luckman, Thomas (Trs), Ilja Srubar (U of Constance, Germany) specifies the limits of the correspondence between Schütz's theory of action & the rational choice paradigm via an analysis of Schütz's discussion of Ludwig von Mises's theory of action (Epistemological Problems in Economics, Princeton, NJ: Van Nostrand Reinhold, 1960). Srubar shows that, although the rational choice model recognizes that the conditions of action are selected by actors' subjective stock of knowledge, it fails to offer a theoretical account of the social constitution of subjective knowledge. In Rationality, Optimality, and Choice: Esser's Reconstruction of Alfred Schütz's Theory of Action, Christopher Prendergast (Illinois Wesleyan U, Bloomington) offers historical & contextual evidence in support of Esser's contention that Schütz's theory of action is compatible with rational choice theory. Prendergast, however, is critical of Esser's subsumption of action under the framework of subjective utility theory, arguing that the two-step selection rule that Esser contrives reduces rational choice to a tautology. In The Rationality of Avoiding Choice, Randall Collins (U of California, Riverside) sees Esser's thesis as a useful contribution that extracts from Schütz's theory of action a model of the rationality of choosing among projects of action, thereby indicating a second order of rationality in choosing whether to calculate or to adhere to an accepted routine; however, Esser's suggestion that instititutional norms are the basis of routines fails to explain where alternative schemata issue from, & does not account for how individuals estimate the subjective probability of finding alternatives. It is argued that the rational pursuit of interests operates through the flow of emotional energy attached to various courses of action. 30 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6886

Farber, Kathleen S. (Bowling Green State U, OH 43403), Feminist Criticism and the Reconceptualization of Critical Thinking, Journal of Thought, 1991, 26, 3-4, fall, 74-81.

¶ It is argued that what constitutes critical thinking has been shaped by a masculine bias toward logocentrism. To facilitate correction of this bias, reflections are offered on female forms of critical thinking in education, & an attempt is made to change our ideas about what constitutes knowledge. Traditionally, critical thinking has been viewed as analogous to the scientific method, which strives for objectivity. Here, it is shown that the subjective/objective dichotomy in knowledge acquisition perpetuates a form of dualistic, hierarchical thinking that leads to patriarchal binary thought. The emphasis on objectivity in critical thinking is biased toward men, because women are viewed as intuitive & subjective. The concept of "reflective thinking" is elaborated toward the goal of disposing of the dualism associated with masculine modes of thought. 10 References. W. Howard (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6887

Farrenkopf, John (Northwestern U, Evanston IL 60208), Weber, Spengler, and the Origins, Spirit, and Development of Capitalism, Comparative Civilizations Review, 1992, 27, fall, 1-30.

¶ Max Weber's & Oswald Spengler's theories of the origins & development of capitalism are compared. Spengler believed that capitalism would eventually collapse & that a catastrophic demise of modern civilization would occur. Weber believed in the indefinite existence of capitalism, & he had faith in the rationalism of modern civilization. It is argued that the international capitalist order has been weakened since 1971, which provides some evidence for Spengler's position, but only time will show who was correct. 92 References. G. Castañeda (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6888

Feenberg, Andrew (Dept Philosophy San Diego State U, CA 92182), Subversive Rationalization: Technology, Power, and Democracy, Inquiry, 1992, 35, 3-4, Sept-Dec, 301-322.

¶ In contrast to technological & economic determinism, it is argued that the dominant model of industrial society is politically contingent. The idea that technical decisions are significantly constrained by rationality–either technical or economic–is shown to be groundless. Constructivist & hermeneutic approaches to technology show that modern societies are inherently available for a different type of development in a different cultural framework. It is possible that, in the future, those who today are subordinated to technology's rhythms & demands will be able to control it & to determine its evolution. The process of creating such a society is here termed "subversive rationalization," because it will require technological advances that can only be made in opposition to the dominant hegemony. Adapted from the source document (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6889

Fehér, Ferenc (New School Social Research, New York NY 10011), Who Is the Author of Dora's Story? (Moral Responsibility [illegible] Psychoanalytical Hermeneutics), Philosophy and Social Criticism, 1991, 17, 4, Oct, 345-358.

¶ Sigmund Freud's affinity with hermeneutics is explored via an analys[illegible] of Dora, Freud's first case study & a seminal psychoanalytic tex[illegible] Freud's method of analysis–"translation"–refers to the translation [illegible] dream language into therapy language. Translation of one language in[illegible] another was the task of early hermeneutics, from which the whole dis[illegible] pline & philosophical attitude have sprung. It is contended that, in ps[illegible] choanalysis, the analyst observes the procedural rules of hermeneuti[illegible] ie, the analyst-hermeneut reads the patient's text several times, interpr[illegible] the surface text with skepticism, then treats the overly coherent narrat[illegible]

0038-0202/93 $1.50

f the patient with outright suspicion. In accord with hermeneutics, Freudian psychoanalysis emphasizes that symptoms have a meaning. Dora's case study shows that Freud was the first methodologically concious historical hermeneut. 4 References. W. Howard

93Z6890

Ferguson, Tamara, Ferguson, Jack & Luby, Elliot D. (School Medicine Wayne State U, Detroit MI 48202), Integrating Psychodynamic, Cognitive, and Interpersonal Therapies: A Biopsychosocial Role Theory, Clinical Sociology Review, 1992, 10, 37-49.

A revised version of SA 39:6/91S24666/SPA/ISA-WGCS/1991/0018. 4 Tables, 2 Figures, 32 References.

93Z6891

Fuchs, Dieter, Gerhards, Jürgen & Neidhardt, Friedhelm (Wissenschaftszenstrum Berlin, Reichpietschufer 50 D-1000 30 Federal Republic Germany), Öffentliche Kommunikationsbereitschaft. Ein Test zentraler Bestandteile der Theorie der Schweigespirale (Willingness to Speak Publicly. A Test of Central Elements of the "Spiral of Silence" Theory), Zeitschrift für Soziologie, 1992, 21, 4, Aug, 284-295. (GER)

¶ Elisabeth Noelle-Neumann's "The Spiral of Silence: A Theory of Public Opinion" (see SA 25:4/77I7781) holds that there is a causal relationship between an individual's perception of public opinion on an issue & readiness to speak publicly about the issue. Those who feel that their opinion is shared by the majority are more open about expressing it. This "spiral of silence" theory has been tested extensively in the US, but it is retested here with interview data obtained from 2,028 adults in the (former) West Germany in 1989 concerning opinions on the problem of asylum-seekers. Respondents reported not only their own feelings, but also their estimation of what other Germans felt about the issue. The analysis did not totally confirm the results predicted by Noelle-Neumann's hypothesis. 3 Tables, 1 Figure, 26 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6892

Fuchs, Martin (U Heidelberg, D-6900 Federal Republic Germany), Le Paradoxe comme méthode? La Structure antithétique de la théorie sociale de Louis Dumont (Paradox as a Method? The Antithetical Structure of Louis Dumont's Social Theory), Recherches Sociologiques, 1992, 23, 2, 19-42. (FRE)

Translated from German by Daniel Devoucoux.

¶ An evaluation of Louis Dumont's social theory starts with an examination of three pivotal & formative paradoxes & contradictions in his work. It is suggested that a nonexplicit theory of value similar to Weberian neo-Kantianism conflicts with structuralist assumptions to cause the following paradoxes: Dumont's assertion that Indian society is based on the hierarchical subordination of religiousness to political power; the modern repalcement by the renouncers of all-embracing religion (also controlling social life) by its opposite, individualism; & his conception of historical differentiation & processes of development that underlies his structuralist society, founded on a value principle. India is a paradigm of hierarchical structuralism & traditional society. 40 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6893

Geser, Hans (Soziologisches Instit U Zurich, CH-8001 Switzerland), Kleinstaaten im internationalen System (Small States in the International System), Kölner Zeitschrift für Soziologie und Sozialpsychologie, 1992, 44, 4, Dec, 627-654. (GER)

¶ A literature review is drawn on to assess three methodological approaches to the problem of small national states, focusing on their intrinsic, relational, or attributive smallness. The most logical starting point would seem to be the small population size of such countries, determining their systemic adaptation capacities, situational conditions, & action strategies within the international system. Normally, a high level of transnational orientation is observed at subinstitutional levels. The capacity for structural differentiation is limited, especially in the realm of occupations & organizations. Small nations may have little effect on their external environment; other nations tend to ignore them. Thus, strategies are needed to preserve political independence while optimizing socioeconomic growth. At present, the survival changes for small states are better than in the past. The number of such countries is climbing steadily in view of the collapse of colonial & multinational empires. 35 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6894

Girola, Lidia & Zabludovsky, Gina (Dept Sociología U Autónoma Metropolitana Azcapotzalco, 02000 Mexico DF), La teoría sociológica en México en la década de los ochenta (Sociological Theory in Mexico in the 1980s), Sociológica, 1991, 6, 15, Jan-Apr, 11-63. (SPA)

¶ Based on a review of materials published in the 1980s by Mexican academic institutes of sociology, the primary theoretical trends are described, along with problems affecting the formation of the sociological community. The importance of intradisciplinary communication in the dissemination of new theoretical themes & their utilization in research is stressed. Implications for the future of sociological research & theory in Mexico are considered. 234 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6895

Gleichmann, Peter R. (U Hannover, D-3000 Federal Republic Germany), Architecture and Civilization: A Sketch, Theory, Culture & Society, 1992, 9, 4, Nov, 27-44.

Translated from German by Mark Ritter.

¶ It is argued that the development of architecture is a characteristic subdivision of civilizational activities, & that the conditions for a relative autonomy of architectonic events can be determined from the framework of a civilizational process. The civilization process has resulted in: the construction of architectonic monuments by professional specialists rather than by the occupants themselves; the commodification of buildings; a considerable narrowing of architectural authority in comparison with that of the Middle Ages; the transformation of architectural modes of thinking; the construction of buildings as a means of domination; & the broadening of control over space. Although buildings have lost their magic significance in the course of civilization, they retain many symbolic functions for people. 44 References. W. Howard

93Z6896

Goodnight, G. Thomas (Dept Communication Studies Northwestern U, Evanston IL 60208), Habermas, the Public Sphere, and Controversy, International Journal of Public Opinion Research, 1992, 4, 3, autumn, 243-255.

¶ Explored is whether the public should adhere to beliefs informed by common opinion vs by those who have refined, specialized knowledge. Also examined is whether civic communication should be understood as a matter of timely & appropriate improvisation, as a rational discourse of the elites, or as a systematic practice among educated citizens. Since the question of the modern public sphere has been a preeminent concern of Jürgen Habermas, considered is whether Habermas's shift away from negative dialectics & toward a theory of communicative action can yield an understanding of the public that is generative of the reemergence of a contemporary public sphere. It is argued that, in drawing attention to the uncoupling of lifeworld & system, Habermas uncovers a space for controversy &, with it, the possible extension of critique aimed at the rehabilitation of the public sphere. A more comprehensive critique that searches for the reemergence of the public sphere in affirmative moments of social emancipation & explores new social movement concerns inside formal bureaucratic organizations is recommended. 33 References. S. Millett

93Z6897

Grey, Alan (147 Mercer Ave, Hartsdale NY 10530-1924), Society as Destiny: Fromm's Concept of Social Character, Contemporary Psychoanalysis, 1992, 28, 2, Apr, 344-363.

¶ Investigated is Erich Fromm's concept of social character (see, eg, The Sane Society, New York: Rinehart, 1955), which refers to aspects of personality shared in a society, or subsociety, due to socialization effects resulting from common exposure to the same institutional practices, notably to efforts of economic institutions. Fromm proposes that within complex Western societies, the same language is used differently in differing socioeconomic groups. These theses are tested against the results of several empirical studies, including one that compared the treatment of psychiatric patients of middle- & lower-class origins (Grey, Alan, "Social Class and the Psychiatric Patient: A Study in Composite Character," Contemporary Psychoanalysis, 1966, 2, 87-121). Results indicate that Fromm's prediction of greater alienation among the middle class is not sustained, but that there are other significant class differences. In general, Fromm's conceptualization provides a useful tool for integrating social science with clinical psychoanalysis. 30 References. Modified AA (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6898

Hardimon, Michael O. (Massachusetts Instit Technology, Cambridge 02139), The Project of Reconciliation: Hegel's Social Philosophy, UM Philosophy and Public Affairs, 1992, 21, 2, spring, 165-195.

¶ It is contended that the central concern of G. W. F. Hegel's social philosophy was to reconcile the people of the nineteenth century to the modern social world, of which the primary institutions were the family, civil society, & the state. Hegel tried to show that these systems formed a single coherent, intelligible system that promoted both individuality & community. A detailed explanation of Hegel's project suggests that the concept of reconciliation ought to be a central organizing category of social & political philosophy. W. Howard (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6899

Harris, Marvin (Dept Anthropology U Florida, Gainesville 32611), Distinguished Lecture: Anthropology and the Theoretical and Paradigmatic Significance of the Collapse of Soviet and East European Communism, American Anthropologist, 1992, 94, 2, June, 295-305.

¶ The impact of the end of state communism & Soviet hegemony on theoretical & paradigmatic issues, particularly Marxism & alternative forms of materialism, is discussed. Though the events of 1990/91 in the USSR undermine many of Karl Marx's specific theories of history & materialist approaches to history in general, cultural materialism, particularly the central concept of infrastructure, provides a framework to explain the Soviet bloc collapse. The Soviet failure to obey the principle of the primacy of infrastructure led to declining efficiency of infrastructure, structural incompatibilities, & ultimately, the nationalist & separatist surge. The collapse of the Soviet bloc can be viewed as selection against a political economy that impeded & ignored the performance & needs of its infrastructure. 42 References. D. Generoli (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6900

Hawthorn, Geoffrey (Cambridge U Press, CB2 1TN England), Is Postmodern Politics Politics?, History of the Human Sciences, 1992, 5, 3, Aug, 93-97.

¶ A review article on books by: William E. Connolly, Identity/Difference: Democratic Negotiations of Political Paradox (Ithaca, NY: Cornell U Press, 1991) & Stephen K. White, Political Theory and Postmodernism (Cambridge: Cambridge U Press, 1991 [see listings in IRPS No. 67]). Connolly & many other liberal Americans have a sense of owing their destinies to world-historical, national, & bureaucratic forces over which they have no control. They feel trapped in the elements of modernity that construct their identities & constrain their lives. Connolly accepts the charge from more orthodox political theorists who acknowledge the paradox of difference & convert it into a conception of the political as the medium through which the interdependent antinomies of identity & difference can be expressed & contested. While White is more circumspect, he too wonders if anything constructive can come from the practice of deconstruction. White's discourse results in a bland & evasive conclusion, barely touching on the reality for which the theory was intended. Connolly's argument presses somewhat harder, drawing a picture of a politics in which the "antagonism of identity" is transformed into the "agonism of difference," but ultimately leaving one to conclude that the possibility of a postmodern politics is indefinitely postponed. The analysis contrasts US & European interest in postmodern politics to explain the authors' arguments. S. Millett (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6901

Hindess, Barry (Research School Social Science Australian National U, Canberra ACT 2601), Power and Rationality: The Western Concept of Political Community, Alternatives, 1992, 17, 2, spring, 149-163.

¶ Much of the conceptualization of power in Western societies depends on the more general idea of a political community of autonomous individuals who can be governed by means that normally depend on their rational consent; but this idea is also regarded as something of a fiction. Discussion of the quantitative understanding of power leads to examination of the idea of sovereign power & related understandings that have been elaborated in terms of such fictional communities. Imaginary communities of autonomous, rational individuals are normally thought to be subject to other determinations–of culture, ethnicity, or language. Also considered are relations between rationalistic & other determinations of the political community in Western political thought. AA (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6902

Hullot-Kentor, Robert (Stanford U, CA 94305), Back to Adorno, UM Telos, 1989, 81, fall, 5-29.

¶ Examined is how the US reception of Theodor W. Adorno's work, particularly The Dialectic of Enlightenment (New York: Continuum Press, 1978), has been misrepresented by poor translations, which have resulted in the wide acceptance of Jürgen Habermas's interpretation of Adorno's writings on reason, aesthetics, & the Enlightenment. Habermas's reading of Adorno's critical theory as a neo-Kantian version of communication theory is discussed, & non-Kantian reading of Adorno's project is presented. The considerable intellectual distance separating the first generation of critical theorists from its contemporary heirs is also examined. W. Howard (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6903

Ingram, David, Habermas on Aesthetics and Rationality: Completing the Project of Enlightenment, UM New German Critique, 1991, 53, spring-summer, 67-103.

¶ It is argued that, like Walter Benjamin & Herbert Marcuse before him, Jürgen Habermas's project seeks in aesthetics what cannot be attained at the level of formal rationality–ie, the utopian anticipation of an emancipated & reconciled form of life. Although aesthetic concerns do not occupy a central position in Habermas's work, they are found in his distinctly aesthetic type of rationality. Habermas maintains that aesthetic rationality should not be the sole province of professional artists & critics, but should also be available to the public in the form of all-encompassing enlightenment. Habermas's reading of Max Weber's understanding of cultural rationalization is discussed, as is the role of communicative action in grounding the expressive value of sincerity & authenticity. Reflections are also offered on the way communication via art differs from communication by speech. W. Howard (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6904

Jacques, T. Carlos (York U, North York Ontario M3J 1P3), Whence Does the Critic Speak? A Study of Foucault's Genealogy, Philosophy and Social Criticism, 1991, 17, 4, Oct, 325-344.

¶ A defense of Michel Foucault against the charge that his genealogical histories undermine the possibility of rationally criticizing or acting against the social practices & bodies of knowledge that are the objects of those histories. Foucault's detractors contend that a rational normative framework is required for objective criticism; but because Foucault links knowledge to power, such a framework becomes impossible, & therefore rational evaluation &/or action is ruled out. In response, it is argued that Foucault's histories do indeed challenge the possibility of disengaged, objective criticism. The consequence, however, is not irrationalism or critical passivity. Such a conclusion would be warranted only if Foucault were concerned to develop a philosophical account of the foundations for rational appraisal. He is not; rather, his work is an empirical investigation into how in fact practices & bodies of knowledge are legitimated & contested. It is the empirical adequacy (an adequacy which itself has to be understood within the context of Foucault's genealogies) of Foucault's histories that must be examined if his work is to be properly evaluated. The repeated, philosophically inspired objection to Foucault reviewed here misses the mark, for it ignores the implications of Foucault's work for philosophy as such. AA (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6905

Jason, Leonard A. (Dept Psychology DePaul U, Chicago IL 60614), Eco-Transactional Behavioral Research, The Journal of Primary Prevention, 1992, 13, 1, fall, 37-72.

¶ Transactional theorists point to reciprocal effects of different systems ch that people are influenced & influence others over long periods of me. Ecological theorists have identified interrelationships between different systems or ecologies. Here, an attempt is made to apply methods vented to capture behavior change to the analysis of transactional & ological processes. 1 Table, 17 Figures, 53 References. Adapted from e source document.

3Z6906

Kaye, Howard L. (Franklin & Marshall Coll, Lancaster PA 17604-3003), Rationalization as Sublimation: On the Cultural Analyses of Weber and Freud, Theory, Culture & Society, 1992, 9, 4, Nov, 45-74.

Max Weber's & Sigmund Freud's fragmentary theoretical writings are xamined to develop a social psychology of rationalization & sublimaion. It is argued that Freud's & Weber's works are highly compatible: Veber addresses the external world of social & cultural structures, & reud describes its impact on individual psyches. Special consideration given to the concepts of sublimation, rationalization, & value spheres. y furnishing a more penetrating explanation of the motive forces behind ationalization, Freudian theory can help to complete the Weberian theoy of rationalization. In return, Weberian theory offers Freudian theory more adequate treatment of the vicissitudes of sublimation understood s both an inner & a cultural process. 94 References. W. Howard

3Z6907

Kweon, Soon Yong (State U New York Buffalo, Amherst 14260), Theses on Repression: Critique of Marcuse's "One-Dimensionality" and His Vision of "Non-Repressive Civilization", * Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 5, Nov, 1691-A-1692-A.

Available from UMI, Ann Arbor, MI. Order No. DA9228061.

93Z6908

Maffesoli, Michel, Post-Modern Sociality, UM Telos, 1990, 85, fall, 89-92.

Translated by Russell Moore.

¶ It is argued that the end of universal morality & the emergence of alternative lifestyles do not mean that there are no specifiable rules governing social relations; rather, social relations are now mediated by the aesthetics of everyday life. Modernity's reliance on universal rules of sociality has given way to postmodernity, which emphasizes the relation between ethics & aesthetics. The process of everyday life has been aestheticized is discussed, & it is concluded that we are witnessing the birth of a new form of culture that dispenses with absolutes & that it is establishing a new mode of sociality. W. Howard

93Z6909

Matustik, Martin J. (Purdue U, West Lafayette IN 47907), Habermas's Reading of Kierkegaard: Notes from a Conversation, Philosophy and Social Criticism, 1991, 17, 4, Oct, 313-323.

¶ A summary of Jürgen Habermas's responses to questions about his concern with Søren Kierkegaard's ethical texts, some discussed during a lecture conducted in 1989 in Copenhagen, Denmark, & others in such texts as Postmetaphysical Thinking (MIT Press, 1992). In response to the question of what posttraditional form of life could socially integrate the modern individual, Habermas views the existential attitude, harnessed to radical self-choice, as a fitting case of both adolescent-individual & adult-cultural crises in need of postnational political culture. He affirms Kierkegaard's objection to the Hegelian sublation of the individual into the nation-state. Yet Habermas critiques Kierkegaard's failure to integrate this post-traditional-crisis individual into the modern community on a rational, noncommunitarian, & postnational basis. Modified AA

93Z6910

McKerlie, Dennis (U Calgary, Alberta T2N 1N4), Equality between Age-Groups, UM Philosophy and Public Affairs, 1992, 21, 3, summer, 275-295.

¶ It is argued that egalitarian principles apply to temporal stages of lives as well as to complete lives. Norman Daniels's theory of justice between age groups (eg, see Am I My Parents' Keeper?, Oxford: Oxford U Press, 1988) is criticized, & two alternative theories are suggested: the first objects to inequality during people's lives even if the inequality is compensated for in terms of complete lives, & the second applies an egalitarian notion of priority to the contents of people's lives rather than to the overall quality of their complete lives. Modified AA

93Z6911

Melucci, Alberto (Dept Política Social U Trento, I-38100 Italy), La acción colectiva como construcción social (Collective Action as Social Construction), Estudios Sociológicos, 1991, 9, 26, May-Aug, 357-364. (SPA)

Translated from English by Alejandra Massolo.

¶ A revised version of SA 38:6/90S23043/ISA/1990/6725.

93Z6912

Munn, Nancy D. (Dept Anthropology U Chicago, IL 60637), The Cultural Anthropology of Time: A Critical Essay, UM Annual Review of Anthropology, 1992, 21, 93-123.

¶ A literature review is used to critique certain central tendencies in the social/cultural anthropology of time. The abstraction of time from space & action in anthropological frameworks is opposed, & a model of temporalization as a symbolic process continually being produced in daily activities is developed. Topics & issues discussed include: the relation between activity & concept in the Durkheimian & functionalist models of the locus of time; notions of static time; time reckoning; time as a medium of political control; & cultural constructions of the past in the present. 199 References. Modified AA

93Z6913

Nabe, Keiichi, Transliterated title not available (Some Problems in Parsons's Theory of Action: Is the Problem of Order a Fundamental Problem in Sociology?), Soshioroji, 1992, 37, 2, Oct, 93-110. (JPN)

¶ The concept of order has been described as a fundamental problem in sociology since Talcott Parsons posed it in The Structure of Social Action (New York: The Free Press, 1968 [1937]; see SA 16:3/68D0525). His solution to it, however, has been criticized by many theorists, including Anthony Giddens, who has emphasized the active behaviors of subjects. It is suggested that Parsons's critique is external, & an attempt is made to criticize his solution to the order problem using an internal approach. It is argued that: (1) since Parsons's solution did not emphasize the common or ultimate value as the emergent property in a system of action, he virtually commits petitio principii; & (2) his core idea, ie, that the internalization of values is the prerequisite to stabilize interaction, suffers from the paradox of mutual knowledge & consequently cannot be theoretically upheld. Finally, any theory which argues that agreement among constitutents of a society is the ultimate ground for social order is destined to break down. 22 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6914

Nakae, Keiko, Transliterated title not available (Two Views of Roman History–Montesquieu and Pareto), Soshioroji, 1992, 37, 2, Oct, 41-57. (JPN)

¶ Philosopher Montesquieu & sociologist Vilfredo Pareto recognized the social historical aspects of Roman history. Montesquieu proposed the concept of le principe (the principle) as an equilibrator between sentiment & reason. Pareto focused on the difference between economy & society & proposed the concept of les residus (uncontrollable sentiments by reason). He argued that two kinds of residues governing Roman society–of combination & of presistence of groups–had created the group of elites who fueled the dynamics of Roman history. It is suggested that the views of Montesquieu & Pareto are most disparate in their methods & situations of social equilibrium & their images of historical dynamics. From their divergent views of Rome, the social transformation that took place within the two centuries between them can be identified. 13 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6915

Neto, Pedro Scuro (U São Paulo, 05508 Brazil), Change and Control on the Loose, Praxis International, 1992, 12, 3, Oct, 284-301.

¶ A crisis in the social science disciplines & among political reformers has developed due to the inadequacy of broad theoretical models created to overcome structural obstacles to an equitable social order & steady growth. The design of such models has distorted the positive qualities of spontaneous mechanisms–technology, the market, & moral sense–leading to a failure to achieve stated goals. It is argued that most models do not advocate a completely free market system; the market mechanism should be treated as a broad reference system. 43 References. G. Castañeda

0038-0202/93 $1.50

93Z6916

Noelle-Neumann, Elisabeth (Instit Demoskopie Allensbach, D-7753 Federal Republic Germany), Antwort auf Dieter Fuchs, Jürgen Gerhards und Friedhelm Neidhardt: Öffentliche Kommunikationsbereitschaft (Response to Dieter Fuchs, Jürgen Gerhards and Friedhelm Neidhardt: Willingness to Speak Publicly), Zeitschrift für Soziologie, 1992, 21, 5, Oct, 385-388. (GER)

¶ A discussion is presented of Dieter Fuchs's, Jürgen Gerhards's, & Friedhelm Neidhardt's "Ein Test zentraler Bestandteile der Theorie der Schweigespirale" ([A Test of the Central Components of the Spiral of Silence Theory] see abstract in this section of SA 41:2). Their work is welcomed as the first German-language contribution to the spiral of silence theory (Noelle-Neumann, Elisabeth, "The Spiral of Silence: A Theory of Public Opinion" [see SA 35:4/77I7781], already widely discussed within US sociological circles. In particular, their analysis of the silent majority's behavior in the elections of 1965 & 1980 in the former West Germany is positively appraised. 10 References. M. Meeks

93Z6917

Noorderhaven, Niels G. (Dept Business Administration U Tilburg, NL-5000 LE Netherlands), The Problem of Contract Enforcement in Economic Organization Theory, Organization Studies, 1992, 13, 2, 229-243.

¶ The limitations of the individual utility maximization assumption from the perspective of agency theory are examined through discussion of contract enforcement. The individual utility maximization assumption, if used as in agency theory, entails logical inconsistencies in explaining the existence of the kind of agreements that purportedly form the basis of organizations. Giving serious consideration to the condition of uncertainty, however, removes the inconsistencies. A classificatory scheme of four sources of obligation is proposed for the analysis of the basis of agreements. Empirical evidence revealing dimensions underlying the proposed classificatory scheme is presented. 1 Table, 34 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6918

Nuyen, A. T. (Dept Philosophy U Queensland, 4072 Australia), The Role of Rhetorical Devices in Postmodernist Discourse, Philosophy and Rhetoric, 1992, 25, 2, 183-197.

¶ It is argued that the rhetorical devices in postmodernist discourse serve a cognitive function, ie, to draw attention to postmodernist themes. It is concluded that the message is in the style, a message that will be lost or greatly diminished if a more conventional philosophical style of writing is adopted. Modified AA

93Z6919

Orbell, John (Instit Cognitive & Decision Sciences U Oregon, Eugene 97403), Hamlet* and the Psychology of Rational Choice under Uncertainty, Rationality and Society, 1993, 5, 1, Jan, 127-140.

¶ Classic explanations of William Shakespeare's Hamlet tend to focus on Hamlet's "deep psychology"–a paradigm that searches for causes of behavior deep within an individual's psyche. Here, it is demonstrated that Hamlet can be coherently & simply understood in terms of "shallow psychology"–a paradigm focusing on difficulties in rational decision making that emphasizes constraints on formation that are necessary for good decision making. Hamlet is shown to be a case of decision making under uncertainty, where the consequences of error are unthinkable & where a decision is unavoidable. It is concluded that a deemphasis on personality & a focus on the structure of situations that normal people confront can contribute not only to an understanding of Shakespeare's play & others like it, but also to the understanding of decision making in general. 2 Figures, 12 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6920

Padilla Pineda, Mario (Dept Sociología U Autónoma Metropolitana, Azcapotzalco 02000 Mexico DF), Durkheim y la formación social de la subjetividad (Durkheim and the Social Formation of Subjectivity), Sociológica, 1990, 5, 14, Sept-Dec, 91-108. (SPA)

¶ Examined is Emile Durkheim's theory of subjectivity (eg, see Las reglas del método sociológico [The Rules of Sociological Method], Buenos Aires: Las Pleyades, 1978 [1895]) & its constituting process. Durkheim defines subjectivity as a social product that leans on a sociobiological support (the body), which is not its substance but provides a basis for its existence. Subjectivity consists of the transfer of concrete & general elements of morality, intelligence, & sensibility to the individual through education & the reciprocal influence of individuals. 13 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6921

Parkin, Robert (Dépt anthropologie sociale U Oxford, OX1 2JD England), Asymétrie dualiste ou opposition hiérarchique? Le Legs de Robert Hertz dans l'oeuvre de Rodney Needham et de Louis Dumont (Dualistic Assymetry or Hierarchical Opposition? Robert Hertz's Legacy in the Works of Robert Needham and Louis Dumont), Recherches Sociologiques, 1992, 23, 2, 43-68. (FRE)

¶ Robert Hertz's 1909 theory concerning symbolic polarity–citing rigid separation between opposites, as between left & right hands (eg, see Death and the Right Hand, Needham, R. [Tr], London: Cohen & West, 1960) is interpreted today through Louis Dumont's & Rodney Needham's writings. Needham's popularized version (eg, see Right and Left Essays on Dual Symbolic Classification, Chicago: U of Chicago Press, 1973), intended for Anglo-Saxon anthropologists, modestly proposes to refine the basic message & extend its use for comparative studies. However, Louis Dumont (reference not specified) revised the Hertzian theoretical basis by introducing a graduated opposition between poles, incorporating the notion of hierarchical opposition, in which one value partly contradicts, yet also totally encompasses, another value. Dumont & Needham disagree on how inequality stemming from Hertz's polarity should be handled: as asymmetry or as hierarchy. Although Dumont criticizes Needham's approach for discarding context as logically uniform, it is noted that he misunderstands Needham's objectives by insisting on discrete & equivalent contexts. 59 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6922

Pecora, Vincent P., Nietzsche, Genealogy, Critical Theory, UM New German Critique, 1991, 53, spring-summer, 104-130.

¶ Friedrich Nietzsche's influence on critical theory is examined via an analysis of critiques of Nietzsche by Jürgen Habermas, Georg Lukács, Max Horkheimer, & Michel Foucault. Nietzsche's status as both a source of rejuvenation for critical thought & a reminder of criticism's desire for self-denial in twentieth-century intellectual history is accounted for by the vicissitudes of power in modern experience, & by the modern intelligentsia's ambiguous adaptation to rationalized social systems, which depend for stability on controlled distributions of power & knowledge. Nietzsche's role in the evolution of critical theory has been that of an indispensable mirror, which acts as the "bad conscience" of a wounded bourgeois faith in historical reason. W. Howard

93Z6923

Peet, Richard (Graduate School Geography Clark U, Worcester MA 01610), Some Critical Questions for Anti-Essentialism, Antipode, 1992, 24, 2, Apr, 113-130.

Replies, 131-156.

¶ The most salient arguments for an anti-essentialist "overdetermination theory," as espoused in Stephen Resnick's & Richard Wolff's Knowledge and Class: A Marxist Critique of Political Economy (Chicago: U of Chicago Press, 1987), & for a "geographic" vision of overdetermination theory, as discussed in Julie Graham's "Theory and Essentialism in Marxist Geography" (Antipode, 1990, 22, 1 Apr, 53-66) are summarized & then subjected to a series of critical questions. In addition, alternative views on the possible future of Marxist geography are explored. In Reply to Richard Peet, Resnick & Wolff (U of Massachusetts, Amherst) reply that, while they share the assumption that much is at stake in the debate between classical Marxists & poststructuralists, they remain committed to their position that both class & nonclass variables must constantly be analyzed, & that it is incorrect to impose structural hierarchy among variables. In Anti-Essentialism and Overdetermination–A Response to Dick Peet, Graham (U of Massachusetts, Amherst) explores the ways in which the concept of "overdetermination" allows her to rethink the relationships between theory & reality, & between structure & agency–& thereby to think differently about the discipline of geography itself. 24 References. M. Maguire

93Z6924

Pharo, Patrick (Centre sociologie éthique CNRS, F-75019 Paris France), Civility before Law, Human Studies, 1992, 15, 4, Oct, 335-359.

¶ A criticism of social contract theories, suggesting, as a possible alternative, a theory of rights grounded in civility & mutual understanding & not in law, either natural or conventional. According to social contract theories, the civil state & recognition of rights proceed basically from citizens' prior commitment to abide by rules of law. Civil & political rules are used as normative guidelines for decision making in contingent circumstances. However, this position seems circular because the only answer to the question of the origin of compliance with rules is civil consent & the recognition of rights. A way out of the circle or infinite regression is possible if it is observed that agents pick out the rules that are supposed to be followed from a civil point of view, which depends essentially on the semantical constraints of mutual understanding. In this view the basic phenomenon of the civil state is not rules of law, but the fact that mutual understanding constrains civil relations by compelling agents to expect truth, consistency, & consideration from one another &, consequently, to follow rules. This way of approaching the civil state can challenge commonplace justifications of Western democracies & question the rational grounds for these democracies. 20 References. AA

93Z6925

Piccone, Paul & Ulmen, Gary L., Schmitt's "Testament" and the Future of Europe, UM Telos, 1990, 83, spring, 3-34.

¶ The development of European unification in the twentieth century is examined via a reading of Karl Schmitt's Die Lage der europäischen Rechtswissenschaft ([The Plight of European Jurisprudence] Turbingen: Internationaler Universitats-Verlag, 1950), which takes as its starting point the obsolescence of the state & the nationalism it fostered. Schmitt traces the rise of European consciousness from its religious foundations in Judeo-Christian traditions, through its secularization in European & Roman law, to the disintegration of the jus publicum Europoeum. Schmitt's relationship to national socialism is discussed, & his understanding of both the crisis of European jurisprudence & consciousness is examined. Schmitt's reflections are drawn on to speculate on the future of Europe & the emergence of a new international order. W. Howard

93Z6926

Pitrone, Marie Concetta (U Catania, I-95124 Italy), Il clientelismo nel quadro della cultura politica (Clientelism in the Framework of the Political Culture), Sociologia e Ricerca Sociale, 1992, 13, 38, Sept, 127-152. (ITA)

¶ The term "clientelism" is recurring both in common language & in sociological & politicological discourse. Here, an attempt is made to define the variegated contours of the concept & to identify its utility in empirical research. Also examined are elements of the value structure connected with the appearance & survival of clientelist ties: eg, psychological traits, cognitive structures, different religions, & different kinds of solidarity Special attention is given to the relationship between familism, particularism, & clientelism, emphasizing the importance of these cultural variables in empirical research. However, many researchers continue to utilize system analyses of political institutions & of the structure of the parties, neglecting the investigation of the point of view of the clients, their needs, their feelings, & their structure of values. 101 References Modified AA

93Z6927

Policar, Alain, Racisme et antiracisme: perspectives et théoriques récentes (Racism and Antiracism: Perspectives and Recent Theories), Raison Présente, 1991, 100, 39-52. (FRE)

¶ To identify the principles of antiracism in France, the specific characteristics of racism, mainly against people of North African origin, are investigated. Reviewed is a typology of racism constructed by P. A. Taguieff (La Force du préjugé [The Power of Prejudice], Paris, 1988). A theoretical model is presented that interprets racism as heterophobia, with illustrative examples of anti-Semitic attitudes. Guidelines for a universal ethic are discussed, emphasizing the role of public discourse & the communications community. The discussion draws on recent French opinion polls & studies of racism. I. Shagrir

93Z6928

Pollock, Gregory B. & Lewis, Keith A. (Northwestern U, Evanston IL 60208), Gambling in a Malthusian Universe: A Game-Theoretic Approach to the Paradoxes of Expected Utility, Rationality and Society, 1993, 5, 1, Jan, 85-106.

¶ Prospect choice is modeled as an n-person game in which each subject assumes that n-1 others will be exposed to the same decision problem (ie, prospect choice set) as self. Prospect choice is usually viewed as a game against nature. Here, however, the goal of the n-person game is not to beat nature but to do relatively better than rivals exposed to the same problem. It is shown that when symmetric pure strategy equilibria do not exist, choice is a symmetric randomized equilibrium, & uncertainty becomes a method of dealing with uncertainty in nature. This approach produces, qualitatively, several empirical expected utility paradoxes–the certainty effect, intransitive cycles, & a form of reflection. A game-theoretic extension is offered to account for all the phenomena revealed by the research of D. Kahneman & A. Tversky ("Choices, Values, and Frames," American Psychologist, 1984, 39, 341-350). 44 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6929

Rajan, Roby (School Business U Wisconsin, Kenosha 53141), Pathological Rationality/Rational Pathologies, Alternatives, 1992, 17, 3, summer, 339-370.

¶ In a discussion of the conception of rationality underlying economic practice, it is argued that economics participates in a discursive field much wider than its self-understanding allows; it meshes with & interpenetrates other seemingly removed discursive formations to produce & reproduce rational/pathological individuals who are fit/unfit to occupy subject positions in contemporary society. The collaboration of economics with the historically contemporaneous discursive formation of psychiatry in constructing & sustaining conceptions of rationality & pathology is discussed, asking: (1) If indeed the rationality demanded by the larger political economy is something like it appears in the representations of economics, then who do they do violence to? & (2) How are alternative subjectives that are potentially subversive of economic subjectivity recuperated & represented in economic discourse, & what have been their ideological effects? The collaboration of economics with psychiatry converges on a shared metaphysics of the subject, a shared epistemology of representation, & a shared commitment to expertise: a subject-centered conception of rationality in economic life helps construct a subject-centered conception of pathology. This collaboration works to efface the complicity of the institutions of political economy in the production of a myriad contemporary pathologies distinctive of the era of a pervasive economic logic & of a self bound up in its operations. AA

93Z6930

Ritzer, George & Gindoff, Pamela (U Maryland, College Park 20742), Methodological Relationism: Lessons for and from Social Psychology, UM Social Psychology Quarterly, 1992, 55, 2, June, 128-140.

¶ Methodological relationism is described as a new metatheoretical perspective created to parallel methodological individualism & methodological holism. Since social psychology has always been relational, it is argued that methodological relationism is a more appropriate metatheory for this area than are the other two perspectives. In particular, it can shed new light on the long-standing problem of fragmentation in social psychology, demonstrating that the idea of crisis in the discipline is overstated. The possibility of an integrated social psychological approach is considered. 78 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6931

Rodriquez, C. David & Stupak, Ronald J. (American Federation

Government Employers, Washington DC 20001-1525), On the Public Sector: A Dialogue between Karl Marx and Max Weber, IM International Review of Modern Sociology, 1992, 22, 1, spring, 1-12.

¶ A hypothetical dialogue between Karl Marx & Max Weber on social epistemology & organizational life in the public sector, set in the context of the 1990s. It is suggested that applied Marxism has failed, as evidenced by the national chaos in the (former) USSR & Eastern Europe. On the other hand, the representative, democratic form of capitalism has succeeded in many countries. While both systems are heavily bureaucratic, the public sector in the latter has been better at accomplishing the social, economic, & political goals of the public interests. However, technological culture, with its accompanying conformity, may become the essential test of whether freedom of any kind can be maintained in the artificial environment of the postmodern, global, technocratic juggernaut. 36 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6932

Rogers, Mary F. (Faculty Sociology U West Florida, Pensacola 32514), Teaching, Theorizing, Storytelling: Postmodern Rhetoric and Modern Dreams, Sociological Theory, 1992, 10, 2, fall, 231-240. Comments, 241-258.

¶ In a response to papers published in a symposium, "The End of Sociological Theory: The Postmodern Hope" (see SA 40:3/92Y5173), it is argued that considerations of postmodernism as a rhetoric & a methodology often diverge among theorists, & that theorists' professional locations, including their relative disengagement from undergraduates, may account for their attraction to postmodern rhetoric & metatheoretical preoccupations. In Postmodernism One Last Time: A Comment on Seidman et al., William Bogard (Whitman Coll, Walla Walla, Wash) argues that the idea of postmodernism reduces a field of multiple, heterogeneous discourses to homogeneous use values, & that theorists who argue that the work of such writers as Michel Foucault & Jean Baudrillard has revitalized sociological theory are misguided, because these men viewed sociology as a discipline of social control. In Sez Who? Charles Lemert (Wesleyan U, Middletown, Conn) defends the incorporation of postmodern ideas into sociological theory, & discusses the relevance of theory to teaching. In Not Reading Closely, Robert J. Antonio (U of Kansas, Lawrence) argues that postmodern theories are plural & contradictory, & that their aims & contexts diverge from sociological theory. In Hide-and-Seek, Laurel Richardson (Ohio State U, Columbus) challenges Rogers's diatribe against postmodernism, defends postmodern ideas as helpful in understanding contemporary culture, & discusses the relationship between feminist-postmodern practice & sociological discourse. In Word Power: Is Rhetoric All There Is? Steven Seidman (State U New York, Albany) challenges Rogers's contention that social theorists' interest in postmodernism reflects their disengagement from undergraduate teaching, & argues against her assertion that postmodern rhetoric is informed by modernist language. 19 References. W. Howard (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6933

Sanders, A. J. G. M. (Vista U, Pretoria 0001 South Africa), Towards Formulating the Tenets of a Communitarian Order, Legal Studies Forum, 1992, 16, 2, 145-153.

¶ With reference to modern South African society & its development toward a nation-state, the private- & public-interest approaches to such development are juxtaposed. It is argued that not only apartheid, but liberalism, must be buried for nation-building to succeed. Additionally, groupism & individualism must make way for communitarianism. Duty-consciousness on the part of the individual, combined with participatory-democratic & consensus-law techniques, ought to make this transition feasible. 19 References. Modified AA (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6934

Smelser, Neil J. (U California, Berkeley 94720), Response to Discussants, Rationality and Society, 1993, 5, 1, Jan, 141-145.

¶ A response to comments by Mary Farmer, Thomas Fararo, Gudmund Hernes, & James Rule on Smelser's "The Rational Choice Perspective: A Theoretial Assessment" (for all, see SA 41:1/93Z4188). Several issues relating to rational choice theory are discussed: whether to represent tastes, information, & other ingredients of rational choice theory from the point of view of the investigator or from that of the actors being studied; the analytic boundaries of economics; & the "theoretical degeneration" of the rational choice perspective as it has reacted to criticisms from within & outside the ranks of rational choice theorists. 1 Table, 5 References. W. Howard (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6935

Smith, Dennis (Aston U, Birmingham B4 7ET England), Review Article: Modernity, Postmodernity and the New Middle Ages, IM The Sociological Review, 1992, 40, 4, Nov, 754-771.

¶ A review article on books by: Anthony Giddens, Modernity and Self-Identity: Self and Society in the Late Modern Age (Polity Press: Oxford, 1991); Zygmunt Bauman, Modernity and Ambivalence (Polity: Oxford, 1991); & Zygmunt Bauman, Intimations of Postmodernity (Routledge London, 1991 [see listings in IRPS No. 67]). These works explore the similarities & differences between two current topics regarding Western modernity, ie, the dynamics of large-scale transformations & the nature of the modernity that is being transformed. Giddens's & Bauman's overlapping but contrasting approaches are rooted in the social & political contexts of Calif & Eastern Europe, respectively. Bauman is more preoccupied with the constraints & limitations on human aspirations, while Giddens focuses on psychological & political formations that allow humans to maximize control. It is suggested that, to make sense of the differences in analyses of modernity, international, urban, & regional comparisons must be informed by the sensitizing concepts, theoretical propositions, & empirical generalizations offered by recent debates, including those among historical sociologists. The potential of a more encompassing analysis that addresses the premodern along with the postmodern is also discussed. 29 References. S. Millett (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6936

Soffer, Gail (Graduate Faculty New School Social Research, New York NY 10011), Gadamer, Hermeneutics, and Objectivity in Interpretation, Praxis International, 1992, 12, 3, Oct, 231-268.

¶ Addressing Hans Georg Gadamer's very influential but highly ambiguous critique of traditional ideals of objectivity in the hermeneutical/historical disciplines, a detailed reconstruction of the Gadamerian position is presented, with special emphasis on his notions of "historicity" & "objectivity". Also examined is whether Gadamer's position is, or entails, a form of relativism, & whether it is prescriptive or descriptive. It is emphasized that phenomenology plays a crucial role in Gadamer's attacks on objectivity. In a critique of his attempt to use phenomenology to undermine traditional ideals of objectivity in the human sciences, it is argued that a consistently phenomenological approach does not (as Gadamer claims) undermine the ideal of intersubjectivity, but only that of absolute certainty. Thus, the constructive implications of phenomenology are elucidated, vindicating it against the negative strain in the Heideggerian/Gadamerian appropriation. AA (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6937

Strong, Tracy B. (U California San Diego, La Jolla 92093), "What Have We to Do with Morals?" Nietzsche and Weber on History and Ethics, History of the Human Sciences, 1992, 5, 3, Aug, 9-18.

¶ A detailed comparison is offered of Max Weber's essay "The Social Psychology of World Religions" (in Gerth, H. H., & Mills, C. W. [Eds], From Max Weber, [see SA 6:4/584952]) & Friedrich Nietzsche's On the Genealogy of Morals (no publication information provided). The two essays exhibit a remarkably parallel structure, one consciously adopted by Weber. Although Weber generally shares Nietzsche's understanding of (Western) modernity & of the impossibility or a substantive ethics, at key moments he refuses to follow Nietzsche's argument. It is shown that these moments are precisely those moments in which Nietzsche calls the ethical enterprise into general question. Raised in conclusion are some questions about the cost of preserving the moral point of view in a modern political landscape. 25 References. AA (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6938

Sulkunen, Pekka, Tosiaan, mikä ihmeen diskurssi? (Indeed, What Discourse?), Sosiologia, 1992, 29, 3, 232-234. (FIN) Comment, 235-236.

¶ A response to Taina Rajanti's attempt (see SA 41:1/93Z3968) to find one true definition of the term discourse, focusing on the one proposed by Michel Foucault. The meaning & significance of discourse in sociological analysis is critically evaluated. Many of Rajanti's points are validated, but it is proposed that the term discourse be abandoned because its use has become so different in different research & theoretical contexts. In Vastineen vastine Pekka Sulkuselle keskustelun jouduttamiseksi (Response to the Response of Pekka Sulkunen to Further the Debate), Rajanti (U of Tampere, Finland) reexamines her theories regarding the term discourse as used by Foucault, responds to some of the criticisms made by Sulkunen, states her willingness to consider other definitions of discourse, but cautions that too many different definitions could lead to discourse becoming a meaningless term. J. Sihvola (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6939

Swanson, Guy E. (U California, Berkeley 94720), Doing Things Together: Some Basic Forms of Agency and Structure in Collective Action and Some Explanations, Social Psychology Quarterly, 1992, 55, 2, June, 94-117.

¶ Previous studies on the process & structure of groups are reviewed under a larger interpretive framework built on George Herbert Mead's social behaviorism. Five forms of social structure frequently seen when individuals aggregate to form groups are identified: network of interdependence, network of exchange relations, organization under central leadership, work groups, & constitutional order. Mead's framework provides answers to questions about agency, collective action, & social structure. Social behaviorism is compared to alternative theoretical treatments of group process & structure: psychological, sociological structuralist, sociological functionalist, symbolic interactionist, & social choice. 1 Table, 1 Appendix, 176 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6940

Tooker, Elisabeth (Dept Anthropology Temple U, Philadelphia PA 19122), Lewis H. Morgan and His Contemporaries, American Anthropologist, 1992, 94, 2, June, 357-375.

¶ Lewis H. Morgan's three most influential studies, League of the Iroquois, Systems of Consanguinity and Affinity, & Ancient Society (published in 1851, 1859, & 1877, respectively), are quite different, suggesting that each was inspired by different sources, as Adam Kuper (see SA 33 3/85O7761) has recently proposed. However, the evidence in Morgan's publications & papers (now in the U of Rochester Library, NY) indicates that Kuper has misidentified the individuals who most influenced Morgan; by presuming that Morgan was merely adding to well-established lines of thought, he has missed what was truly original about Morgan's work. Consideration of what Morgan did, & how, gives a more accurate picture of the questions Morgan actually addressed & the present value of his conclusions to contemporary anthropology, particularly as they relate to the study of kinship terminology. 60 References. AA (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6941

Turner, Charles (U Cambridge, CB2 1TN England), Organicism, Pluralism and Civil Association: Some Neglected Political Thinking, History of the Human Sciences, 1992, 5, 3, Aug, 175-184.

¶ A review article on books by: Otto von Gierke, Community in Historical Perspective (Cambridge: Cambridge U Press, 1990); Paul Q. Hirst (Ed), The Pluralist Theory of the State (London: Routledge, 1989); & Paul Franco, The Political Philosophy of Michael Oakeshott (New Haven & London: Yale U Press, 1990 [see listings in IRPS No. 67]). The literature on post-1989 Eastern Europe is dominated by the question of the foundation for a stable postrevolutionary democracy. These three works present strong arguments against the view that, since the old regimes of Eastern Europe were centralized states, decentralization of state authority is consistent with individualism. They argue instead that the individualism consistent with decentralization entails a rather different account of the character of the state than that subscribed to by those engaged currently in debate about Eastern Europe. While each attempts to defend the integrity of intermediate groups & of associational life in general, their works have received scant attention by contemporary theorists of democracy & the modern state. It is contended that these works provide a body of material that combines practical urgency with theoretical sophistication. S. Millett (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6942

Turner, Jonathan H. (U California, Riverside 92521), Behaviorálna teória sociálnej štruktúry (Behavioral Theory of Social Structure), Sociológia, 1991, 23, 4, 281-299. (SLO)

¶ The problematic issues raised by behaviorism can be analyzed in three steps: (1) specification of basic human needs, (2) description of interpersonal processes used to meet these needs, & (3) delineation of how people use interpersonal processes to create social structures. The following needs motivate human behavior: group inclusion, ontological security, truth, self-affirmation, material & symbolic gratification, & avoidance of anxiety. A structural behavioral theory must be interpersonal, indicating what people do when they employ gestures & interpret the gestures of others. Reciprocal signaling & interpreting lead to the structuring processes of regionalizing, categorizing, ritualizing, stabilizing, normalizing, & routinizing. This model needs to be tested empirically, which would be impossible to do all at once. 1 Figure, 50 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6943

Twenhöfel, Ralf (Instit Soziologie U Regensburg, D-8400 Federal Republic Germany), Zum Vergleich von Theorie sozialer Systeme und Handlungstheorie; "Fruchtbarkeit" als Kriterium der Beurteilung von Theorien (On the Comparison of the Theory of Social Systems and the Theory of Action; "Fruitfulness" as a Criterion for Evaluating Theories), Schweizerische Zeitschrift für Soziologie/Revue Suisse de sociologie, 1992, 18, 2, 461-489. (GER)

¶ In a general sense, the Fruchtbarkeit ("fruitfulness") of a theory refers to its heuristic power. Here, the usefulness of this definition is examined in a comparison of the theory of action & the theory of social systems as developed by Niklas Luhmann (eg, Soziale Systeme [Social Systems], Frankfurt, 1988). Through examples, it is demonstrated that Fruchtbarkeit indeed represents a criterion for the evaluation of theories. Individual aspects of the comparison are differentiated & their content is specified. In every regard, the theory of social systems is found to be superior to the theory of action. 93 References. Modified AA (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6944

Van de Vall, Mark (Dept Sociology Erasmus U Rotterdam, NL-3000 DR Netherlands [e-mail: vall@soc.fsw.eur.nl]), Sociological Practice: Problems, Theory, and Methods, Knowledge and Policy, 1991, 4, 3, fall, 3-9.

¶ An overview of recent developments in sociological practice, focusing on responses to the ill- or unstructured policy problems confronting private or public organizations. Methodologically, sociological practice is responding with the use of mixed methods or triangulation in diagnosing policy problems, as well as evaluating policy programs. Theoretically, the cognitive mapping of unstructured problems occurs increasingly in terms of multivariate conceptual models, usually in a graphic presentation. At a paradigmatic level, these two trends open the way to a clinical approach in sociological practice in which improving the program is an inherent part of the method. 25 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6945

Van Reijen, Willem (Rijks U Utrecht, NL-3508 TC Netherlands), Labyrinth and Ruin: The Return of the Baroque in Postmodernity, Theory, Culture & Society, 1992, 9, 4, Nov, 1-26.
Translated from Dutch by Mark Ritter.

¶ In an examination of the parallels between the baroque & postmodern eras, it is argued that both privilege allegory & melancholy as a form of artistic representation, & that the link between them is best established by Walter Benjamin's analysis of the nineteenth century & baroque art (eg, see Osborne, John [Tr], The Origins of German Tragic Drama, London: New Left Books, 1977). Mediated by the nineteenth century, postmodern art draws on the baroque & its tradition of melancholic art. Like the baroque, fragmentation (ie, ruin) & disorientation (ie, labyrinth) are not merely artistic themes of postmodernity, but also constitute its intellectual disposition. Postmodern literature & art are briefly discussed, & comments are offered on the debate concerning the relationship between modernity & postmodernity. 2 Appendixes, 65 References. W. Howard (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6946

Van Wijck, Peter (Rijks U Leiden, NL-2300 RA Netherlands), On Equity and Utility, Rationality and Society, 1993, 5, 1, Jan, 68-84.

¶ Sociologists & economists tend to give different answers to the question of which distribution of income is considered desirable by an individual. This disparity is addressed here through an interdisciplinary approach that investigates the relation between equitable & preferable distributions. Finally, the conditions under which utility maximization yields the choice of an equitable distribution are considered. 5 Figures, 1 Appendix, 36 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6947

Wapner, Seymour & Craig-Bray, Laura (Heinz Werner Instit Developmental Analysis Clark U, Worcester MA 01610-1477), Person-in-Environment Transitions: Theoretical and Methodological Approaches, UM Environment and Behavior, 1992, 24, 2, Mar, 161-188.

¶ A critical evaluation of four theoretical perspectives–role, family, person/life span, & a holistic, developmental, systems-oriented theory–that examine critical person-in-environment transitions through the life span. The theories are compared with respect to central theme/world hypothesis, unit of analysis, treatment of change, problem formulation, methodology, & types of research conducted. Areas where study of critical transitions can be profitably pursued in future research are identified. 2 Tables, 51 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6948

Zelditch, Morris, Jr. (Dept Sociology Stanford U, CA 94305-2047), Problems and Progress in Sociological Theory, UM Sociological Perspectives, 1992, 35, 3, fall, 415-431.

¶ In this 1992 presidential address to the Pacific Sociological Assoc, the basic tenets of postpositivism are examined to identify the conditions under which postpositivism holds that (1) theory choice is rational, & (2) theory change is progress. Interpreting metatheory as the nonempirical elements of empirical knowledge, metatheoretical conflicts in sociology in the last thirty years are discussed, eg, those between positivism & postpositivism, & functionalism & Marxism. Progress is described as problematized by postpositivism, ie, by the doubt postpositivism casts on the interpretation of knowledge-accumulation as an ideal of science. It is argued that while the basic tenets of postpositivism are irrefutable, postpositivism has implied too large a scope of scientific irrationality. 32 References. I. Shagrir (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6949

——, The American Occupational Structure:* Reflections after Twenty-five Years, UM Contemporary Sociology, 1992, 21, 5, Sept, 596-668.

¶ A review essay symposium assessing the contemporary & historical significance of Peter M. Blau's & Otis Dudley Duncan's The American Occupational Structure (New York: Wiley, 1967 (see listings in IRPS No. 67)), which was based on a status-attainment model that reconceptualized mobility as the influence of socioeconomic origins on life chances & occupational status. In Mobility and Status Attainment, Peter M. Blau (U of North Carolina, Chapel Hill) claims that, while this model has been criticized for neglecting structural influences, the status attainment model does address the concept of segmented social sectors & circulation mobility. Other contributors to this symposium include: William H. Sewell (U of Wisconsin, Madison) & Robert M. Hauser, The Influence of The American Occupational Structure on the Wisconsin Model; Mary Corcoran (U of Michigan, Ann Arbor) Background, Earnings, and the American Dream; Leo A. Goodman (U of California, Berkeley) & Clifford C. Clogg, New Methods for the Analysis of Occupational Mobility Tables and Other Kinds of Cross-Classifications; Mary Diane Burton (Stanford U, Calif) & David B. Grusky A Quantitative History of Comparative Stratification Research; Glen H. Elder, Jr. (U of North Carolina, Chapel Hill), Models of the Life Course; Trond Petersen (U of California, Berkeley), Alternative Ways of Modeling Mobility; Christopher Winship (Harvard U, Cambridge, Mass), Race, Poverty, and *The American Occupational Structure; Paul England (U of Arizona, Tucson) From Status Attainment to Segregation and Devaluation; William T. Bielby (U of California, Santa Barbara), Organizations, Stratification, and The American Occupational Structure; Robert T. Averitt (Smith Coll, Northhampton, Mass), The New Structuralism; Robert D. Mare (U of Wisconsin, Madison), Trends in the Process of Social Stratification; Keiko Nakao (U of New Mexico, Albuquerque), Occupations and Stratification: Issues of Measurement; Michael E. Sobel (U of Arizona, Tucson), The American Occupational Structure and Structural Equation Modeling in Sociology; & Otis Dudley Duncan, What If?. 12 Tables, 3 Figures, 400 References. M. Pflum (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6950

----, Ciclo de conferencias: "Aproximaciones filosóficas a la teoría de los sujectos sociales" (Cycle of Lectures: "Philosophical Approximations toward the Theory of Social Subjects"), Sociológica, 1990, 5, 14, Sept-Dec, 245-289. (SPA)

¶ In Presentación (Presentation), José Hernández Prado (U Nacional Autónoma, Azcapotzalco, 02000 Mexico DF) introduces this publication of a series of lectures presented by researchers affiliated with the U Autónoma Metropolitana (Unidad Azcapotzalco, Mexico) in 1989 dealing with theories of social subjects. In Conceptos inestables (Unstable Concepts), Carlos Pereda (U Nacional Autónoma Mexico, 04510 Mexico DF) argues that there are concepts that fluctuate between objective & subjective viewpoints & provoke ontological vertigo. These concepts define human & social sciences, eg, concepts of personhood, society, & culture. In El antropocentrismo linguístico de Ludwig Wittgenstein (The Linguistic Anthropocentrism of Ludwig Wittgenstein), Alejandro Tomasini Bassols (U Nacional Autónoma Mexico, 04510 Mexico DF) explores Wittgenstein's critique of Western philosophy & values. In El individualismo metodológico (Methodological Individualism), Paulette Dieterlen (U Nacional Autónoma Mexico, 04510 Mexico DF) describes the antecedents & main proposals of methodological individualism, & its relationship to the study of modern phenomena, eg, the market & democracy. The influence of methdological individualism on neoclassical economic theory & Marxism is described. 1 Table, 19 References. J. Taylor (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6951

——, Review Symposium, UM Sociological Perspectives, 1992, 35, 3, fall, 525-541.

Reply, 543-550.

¶ A review symposium on a book by George Ritzer, Metatheorizing in Sociology (Lexington, Mass: Lexington Books, 1991 (see listings in IRPS No. 67)). In Metatheory, Metatheory, Ellsworth R. Fuhrman (Virginia Polytechnic Instit & State U, Blacksburg) & Carol A. Bailey review the three uses of metatheory proposed by Ritzer: (1) as a means for deeper understanding of theory; (2) as a prelude to theory development, & (3) as an overarching perspective on sociological theory. The narrow use of metatheorizing in interdisciplinary discourse is critiqued, as is Ritzer's lack of sensitivity to sources of differences relevant to sociological theory, eg, gender, race, & class. In Metatheory and the Sociology of Sociology, Stephan Fuchs (U of Virginia, Charlottesvile) advances the interpretation of metatheory as sociology of sociology, a branch of sociology of science, to illustrate how the types of metatheory identified by Ritzer can be used for better understanding of sociology & theory. In Metatheorizing: A Preliminary and Promising Program, Paul Colomy (U of Denver, University Park) indicates additional ways to expand the use of metatheory, & suggests an elaboration of Ritzer's threefold typology. In The Legitimization and Institutionalization of Metatheorizing in Sociology Ritzer (U of Maryland, College Park) applauds the directions for elaborating his analysis of metatheory proposed by Fuchs & Colomy, & comments sarcastically on Fuhrman's & Bailey's "reprehensible review," arguing that its suggestions are irrelevant & proposed only for the sake of political correctness. 59 References. I. Shagrir (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6952

——, "Schmitt's 'Testament' and the Future of Europe": Four Exchanges, UM Telos, 1990, 85, fall, 93-148.

¶ A series of exchanges between members of Telos's editorial board discusses the radical federalism model proposed by Paul Piccone & Gary Ulmen (see abstract in this section of SA 41:2) in relation to Carlo Schmitt's legacy & its implications for the coming European unity. The letters explore strategies for reconciling a genuine popular sovereignty rooted in a communitarian participatory democracy within a pluralistic political context that is capable of containing New Class domination inherent in bureaucratic management. Wolf Heydebrand (New York U, NY), in a letter to Piccone & Ulmen, suggests that their article ignores the profound antidemocratic spirit that runs through Schmitt's political theory, & faults Ulmen & Piccone for neglecting the economic processes of political change. Piccone & Ulmen respond by arguing that Schmitt's work contains no antidemocratic animus, & challenging Heydebrand's claim that the functionalization of law is first & foremost a product of capitalism, & only secondarily that of the modern state. Susan Buck-Morss (Cornell U, Ithaca, NY), in a letter to Piccone & Ulmen, argues that Schmitt's appeal to a premodern tradition of European jurisprudence smacks of Eurocentrism & fails to offer an adequate solution to problems in contemporary democracies. In response, Piccone & Ulmen argue that Buck-Morss uncritically accepts postmodern ideas, misunderstands the Frankfurt school, & fails to appreciate the utility & efficacy of Schmitt's political theory. Robert D'Amico (U of Florida, Gainesville) criticizes Piccone & Ulmen for arguing that Schmitt's political theory is important because his constitutionalism is opposed to the instrumentalization & total functionalization of law. Piccone & Ulmen respond by defending their analysis of the collapse of the bureaucratic centralism of the communist bloc as the outcome of developments in the US, ie, the crisis of the welfare state. Paul Gottfried (Elizabethtown College, Pa) has reservations about Schmitt's identification of human rights with Roman jurisprudence, & discusses the technocratic impulses behind European unification. Piccone & Ulmen, in response to Gottfried, address each of his criticisms & explore the concrete meaning of European unification. W. Howard

93Z6953

----, The Sociology of Roland Robertson: A Symposium, UM Journal for the Scientific Study of Religion, 1992, 31, 3, Sept, 396-318.
Response, 319-323.

¶ In Introduction, Frank J. Lechner (Emory U, Atlanta, Ga) argues that sociologist Roland Robertson has helped to set a new direction for the sociology of religion & that critical debate of his work, which is still very much in progress, is offered as a tribute to Robertson's fundamental contributions to the discipline. In Thinking Religion in the Global Circumstance: A Critique of Roland Robertson's Globalization Theory, William R. Garrett (St. Michael's Coll, Colchester, Vt) discusses both the analytical & empirical significance of the Orient in illuminating aspects of globalization & the place of the sociology of religion in global reorganization. In addition, three unresolved issues in Robertson's work are discussed: ethnicity, relativism, & religion as a "deep structure" of society. In From Modernism to Globalization, Edward A. Tiryakian (Duke U, Durham, NC) proposes an intellectual context in which to situate Robertson's work. He also takes issue with some of Robertson's claims about globalization. In The Concept of "the World" in Sociology: A Commentary on Roland Robertson's Theory of Globalization, Bryan S. Turner (U of Essex, Colchester, England CO4 3SQ) raises ethico-sociological questions about the appropriateness of suggesting that sociologists have a "global calling." He focuses on the work of Max Weber, Talcott Parsons, & Georg Simmel. Roland Robertson (U of Pittsburgh, Pa), in Globalization: A Brief Response, addresses the issues & criticisms raised by each contributor. M. Maguire

67 macrosociology: analysis of whole societies

93Z6954

Blanchard, Marc (Dept French U California, Davis 95616), Lost in America, Cultural Anthropology, 1992, 7, 4, Nov, 496-507.

¶ A review article on a book by Mike Davis, City of Quartz: Excavating the Future in Los Angeles (London: Verso Press, 1990 [see listing in IRPS No. 67]). This book explores how physical space has become the social space of conflict & consensus in Los Angeles, Calif. The juxtaposition of internationally financed skyscapers & postmodern architecture & inner-city decay is explored, illustrating how rapid urbanization has transformed & fragmented the urban landscape. This fragmentation is also apparent in the "war zone" perception of poor neighborhoods by the police, & in the need felt by developers to build fortress-like structures & communities to protect themselves. Whether these two strands of history can ever coincide is questioned. 17 References. J. Taylor

93Z6955

Bope, Lobo Bundwoong (Johannes Kepler U Linz, A-4040 Austria), Afrikanische Gesellschaft im Wandel: Mobiltät und Landflucht am Beispiel der Region Mweka (African Society on the Move: Social Mobility and Flight from the Land, as an Example, the Mweka Region), * Dissertation Abstracts International, C: Worldwide, 1992, 53, 4, winter, 645-C. (GER) Unavailable from UMI; reference copy held at Universitätsbibliothek, U of Linz, A-4040 Austria.

93Z6956

Burawoy, Michael (U California, Berkeley 94720), The End of Sovietology and the Renaissance of Modernization Theory, UM Contemporary Sociology, 1992, 21, 6, Nov, 774-785.

¶ A review essay on books by: Walter D. Connor, The Accidental Proletariat: Workers, Politics, and Crisis in Gorbachev's Russia (Princeton: Princeton U Press, 1991); Anthony Jones & William Moskoff, Ko-ops: The Rebirth of Entrepreneurship in the Soviet Union (Bloomington: Indiana U Press, 1991); & Stephen Kotkin, Steeltown, USSR: Soviet Society in the Gorbachev Era (Berkeley: U of California Press, 1991 [see listings in IRPS No. 67]). Arguing that, in the creation of a working class, the USSR inadvertently sowed the seeds of the country's demise, Connor is remarkably short on facts & theory to substantiate this claim. Kotkin provides the experientially based history of the Soviet working class that eluded Connor. Unimaginable before 1989, this work articulates the transformations that Kotkin experienced 1987-1989. The reader is left wondering, however, how generalizable the findings are, & whether the modernization thesis merely obscures distinctive class structure & systematic features of state socialism. If Kotkin is pessimistic about the potential of capitalism in the former USSR, Jones & Moskoff are considerably more optimistic. Examining small-scale private enterprise 1987-1990, Jones & Moskoff are fascinated with market relations that undermine central planning. Whether these enterprises represent the old order in a new guise, however, must not be assumed. M. Maguire

93Z6957

Collinwood, Dean W. (Weber State U, Ogden UT 84408-1208), Columbus and the Discovery of Self, Weber Studies, 1992, 9, 3, fall, 29-44.

¶ In this interpretive study springing from the ongoing debate between deconstructionism/political correctness & conservatism, it is asked how modern Bahamians–now politically independent & governed by black majority rule–view their cultural connections with Christopher Columbus & the European values he represented. It is shown that Bahamians link little of their painful past with Columbus; & most are proud of their Columbian ties, which fuse them directly with the rest of the Western world, more so than with their Lucayan predecessors. It is also shown that Bahamians, now fully a part of the Western tradition–including the negative aspects of materialism, environmental neglect, & racism–are doing to their country & their own people what Columbus did 500 years ago. Rejecting some of the solid virtues of community-mindedness they developed in response to years of poverty & isolation, Bahamians no longer see themselves as victims of oppression & exploitation, but act, instead, as victimizers. 16 References. Modified AA

93Z6958

Musil, Jiří (Újezd 15, CS-15000 Prague 5 Czechoslovakia), Czechoslovakia in the Middle of Transition, Sociologický Časopis, 1992, 28, special issue, Aug, 5-21.

¶ A reprinted version of SA 40:4/92Z0420. 17 References.

93Z6959

Ratcliffe, Peter (Dept Sociology U Warwick, Coventry CV4 2AL England), 'Britain' and 'Europe': An Exploration of Conceptual Confusions, European Journal of Intercultural Studies, 1992, 3, 1, 27-46.

¶ British attitudes on European unification are considered based on political discourse & media representations, emphasizing fears of loss of cultural hegemony, political identity, & economic well-being. Questionnaire data collected from 25 U of Warwick (Coventry, England) students in 1990 indicate that: (1) Europe is conceptualized as separate from GB, (2) the historical role of GB in the twentieth century is favorably contrasted with that of Europe, & (3) perceptions of European unification vary across ethnic & racial lines. 1 Table, 10 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6960

Rescigno, Vincent J. (Dept Sociology & Anthropology North Carolina State U, Raleigh 27695-8107), Conservative and Critical Approaches to the Power Structure Debate: An Assessment and Critique of Empirical Findings, UM Journal of Political and Military Sociology, 1992, 20, 1, summer, 63-81.

¶ The continuing power structure debate revolves around the issues of ownership & control, & elite background, unity, interlock, & influence. An assessment & critique of empirical literature addressing this debate suggests that the different interpretations & conclusions of the conservative & critical approaches are largely due to different operationalizations of key concepts. While the preponderance of the evidence more strongly supports the critical position, some theoretical issues remain unresolved. These issues are examined, along with implications for future empirical work. 48 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6961

Schlegel, Alice (Dept Anthropology U Arizona, Tempe 85721), African Political Models in the American Southwest: Hopi as an Internal Frontier Society, American Anthropologist, 1992, 94, 2, June, 376-397.

¶ Most ethnological & archeological analyses conclude that the social organization of the Pueblo Indians in the Southwest was based on the need to adapt to a harsh, arid environment. However, comparison of the organization of one Pueblo society, the Hopi, with what Igor Kopytoff (The African Frontier, Indiana U Press, 1987) calls internal frontier societies in Africa reveals striking similarities. This does not mean that ecological explanations of Pueblo organization are wrong, just incomplete. The arid environment of the Southwest served as an ecological constraint within which the joint impact of social structures & frontier processes, eg, internal migrations, operated. 1 Table, 40 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6962

——, La Roumanie, au défi de l'économie de marché (Romania and the Challenge of Market Economy), Cahiers de Sociologie Economique et Culturelle, Ethnopsychologie, 1992, 17, June, 149-166. (FRE)

¶ In Situation actuelle et perspectives (Actual Situation and Perspectives), Jacques Manoury (U du Havre, F-76063 France) stresses the terrible state of the Romanian economy at present. The streamlining that is necessary in the economic & industrial fields, & the program of privatization, are described. In L'Incertitude politique: frein et moteur de la mise en place de l'economie de marché (Political Incertitude: Restraint and Motive in the Implementation of the Market Economy), Jean-Pierre Tournon (U du Havre, F-76063 France) deals more specifically with Romanian agriculture, the land law, & the various means required to reorganize it. It is concluded that Romania faces a considerable challenge. In normal growth conditions, there would have been no difficulty in restructuring exsocialist economies. In present world economic conditions, this restructuring is extremely difficult to implement, especially as increases in inflation, bankruptcy, & unemployment, cannot be avoided. Leaving Romania alone to cope, without any help from the European Economic Community in particular, would be a very serious mistake. Modified AA (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

85 comparative & historical sociology

93Z6963

Banaji, Jarius (Saint John's Coll, Oxford OX1 3JP England), Historical Arguments for a 'Logic of Deployment' in 'Precapitalist' Agriculture, Journal of Historical Sociology, 1992, 5, 4, Dec, 379-391.

¶ Presented are historical arguments for "suspending belief" in the hypothesis of discontinuity, which holds that the real or alleged differences between economic regimes & historical periods are more fundamental to their historical interpretation than are the factors they have in common. The notion that different economic epochs are each characterized by a dominant type of labor relation is challenged via analyses of sharecropping & permanent farm contracts in twentieth-century India. The work of medieval historians is drawn on to argue that the agriculture of any given epoch is typified by a complex & differentiated use of labor. It is concluded that the evolution of the categories of labor reflects decisions on employment, & that these decisions express a rationality common to different historical periods. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6964

Caboto, Giovanni, Jr., La scoperta di Colombo. Una cronaca dal XXI secolo (The Discovery of Columbus. A Chronicle of the Twenty-First Century), UM La Critica Sociologica, 1991-1992, 100-101, Jan-Mar, 103-109. (ITA)

¶ A satirical, fictional, futuristic look at revisionist history is represented in the form of a twenty-first century literature review of works on Christopher Columbus's discovery of America. Special attention is given to the fictitious titles: (1) Christopher Columbus's Culture is My Business, a highly recommended autobiography; (2) The Secret Columbus: A True Friend of Israel; & (3) "The Missing Nail" (in The International Handbook of Children's Dreams. M. Meeks (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6965

Emigh, Rebecca Jean (U Chicago, IL 60637), Poverty and Polygyny as Political Protest: The Waldensians and Mormons, Journal of Historical Sociology, 1992, 5, 4, Dec, 462-484.

¶ Secondary & published primary sources, including church documents, diaries, & letters, are drawn on to compare Waldensianism & Mormonism, two very different religious movements separated by time, space, & cultural & economic conditions. Both movements attempted to address contemporary social issues, though neither was principally illogical nor irrational, nor comprised primarily of socially disconnected individuals; neither were they apolitical nor solely political. Instead, both became political protest movements, in addition to being religious movements, & their symbolic content was interwoven with contemporary politics: the movements' ideological critiques implicated the larger political structure that attempted to prevent ideological change. 82 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6966

Feuerwerker, Albert (U Michigan, Ann Arbor 48109), State and Society in Twentieth-Century China, UM The Centennial Review, 1992, 36, 2, spring, 373-386.

¶ The Chinese Communist party-state in 1949 inherited four basic problems that every contender for power in twentieth-century China before them also had to face: (1) to reestablish China's national autonomy & territorial integrity, & to make China again an equal & independent actor in international relations; (2) to construct a unified & effective polity, ie, a political system to replace that of the Qing empire, destroyed in 1911 & never successfully rebuilt; (3) to lead the nation in the achievement of the promise of economic & social development that had helped to bring the regime to power in the first place; & (4) to forge a new set of shared values & beliefs that would glue Chinese society together & provide a genuine sense of Chinese identity as the dominant Confucianism of the imperial past had once done. Except for the first of these, & to some extent the third as well, these were exacerbated, during both the years of Mao Tse-tung "emperorship" to 1976, & the reform decade of 1979-1989 under Deng Xiaoping. The student & popular dissidence of the "Beijing spring" in 1989 was a serious threat to the Chinese Communist party's octogenarian leadership not because it was a counterrevolutionary rebellion to overthrow the party-state, but because the party-state leaders had left their inescapable historical assignments in such shambles after forty years of rule. Modified AA (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6967

Gillingham, John (International History Dept London School Economics, WC2A 2AE England), The Beginnings of English Imperialism, Journal of Historical Sociology, 1992, 5, 4, Dec, 392-409.

¶ Considering the forcible anglicization of Ireland, Scotland, & Wales, it is argued that the set of cultural images providing the moral energy for English imperialism first emerged in the twelfth century, ie, about 400 years earlier than is commonly supposed. By this century, profound ecoomic, social, military, & cultural developments had so transformed England that the English & Celtic worlds were sufficiently far apart for the differences between them to be visible to contemporaries, notably to William of Malmesbury. He was the first to articulate this "significant otherness" in terms of the classical contrast between civilization & barbarism. 57 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6968

Hall, John R. (Dept Sociology U California, Davis 95616), Where History and Sociology Meet: Forms of Discourse and Sociohistorical Inquiry, Sociological Theory, 1992, 10, 2, fall, 164-193.

A revised version of SA 36:3/88S20482/ASA/1988/4765. 3 Tables, 36 References.

93Z6969

Harris, Max (Dept Religious Studies U Virginia, Charlottesville 22903), Disguised Reconciliations: Indigenous Voices in Early Franciscan Missionary Drama in Mexico, Radical History Review, 1992, 53, spring, 13-25.

Hidden transcripts, clandestine critiques of the power of the dominant group, are found in two Nàhuatl (native Mexican Indian) performances of Franciscan catechetical dramas in 1539: The Conquest of Rhodes & The Conquest of Jerusalem. Although the evangelized Indian community played roles developed by missionary playwrights dramatizing the conquest theme, the interpretative freedom they were allowed when presenting in their native language became manifest in disguised messages anticipating future Mexican liberation. African slaves were represented in the Indian dramatizations, playing roles satirizing the conquistadors. 43 References. J. Sadler

93Z6970

Kellogg, Susan (U Houston, University Park TX 77004), Hegemony out of Conquest: The First Two Centuries of Spanish Rule in Central Mexico, Radical History Review, 1992, 53, spring, 27-46.

¶ An analysis of civil court case documents & Spanish colonial & church records reveals how Spanish cultural hegemony was achieved & accommodated through native restructurings in sixteenth-century New Spain. As Catholic dogma & ideology were imposed by the church, colonial legal concepts introduced to the indigenous population transformed private life & gender relations. This alternative explanation to the historiographical problem illustrates how Indians in central Mexico gradually accepted the legitimacy of central Spanish institutions & cultural values. The Spanish introduction of a distinction between crime & sin helped separate political-legal from religious authority. Nuclear families became more privileged than multifamily units, & polygamy was abolished. Thus, Indian responses to the imposed ideology created new religious & family patterns & syncretisms. 91 References. J. Sadler

93Z6971

Morrissey, Marietta, Review Essay: Historical Sociology and Freedom, UM Qualitative Sociology, 1992, 15, 2, summer, 213-218.

¶ A review essay on a book by Orlando Patterson, Freedom, Vol. 1: Freedom in the Making of Western Culture (Basic Books, 1991 [see listing in IRPS No. 67]). Patterson attempts to rectify theoretical & methodological problems facing contemporary historical sociology. He formulates generalized ideal types (ie, the "tripartite cord of freedom") & questions whether sociologists can address trends over a broad historical span with any real specificity. 4 References. M. Maguire

93Z6972

Seed, Patricia (Rice U, Houston TX 77251), On Caribbean Shores: Problems of Writing History of the First Contact, Radical History Review, 1992, 53, spring, 5-11.

¶ A revisionist, parodic account of Christopher Columbus's landing in the New World from the natives' perspective is suggested in the writings of Gabriel García Márquez. While documenting the landing by either written records or oral tradition would be impossible, the conquest might have unfolded as presented in García Márquez's The Autumn of the Patriarch (Rabassa, Gregory [Tr], New York: Harper & Row, 1976). It is proposed that narrative histories of cross-cultural contact between literate & nonliterate societies already contain a certain amount of fiction. Márquez's use of parody, irony, & satire inverts Columbus's Eurocentric attitudes. 5 References. J. Sadler

93Z6973

Sweet, David (U California, Santa Cruz 95064), Native Resistance in Eighteenth-Century Amazonia: The "Abominable Muras" in War and Peace, Radical History Review, 1992, 53, spring, 49-80.

¶ The scanty evidence regarding the indigenous Muras' resistance to & eventual truce with Portuguese colonials in Brazil is collected in this revisionist historiography. In the eighteenth century, after the Muras of central Amazonia had terrorized Portuguese colonial outposts for several decades, they abandoned violence & yielded to colonial rule on their own terms, while still maintaining a self-imposed marginalized stance. Although the Europeans designed the new colonies in imitation of the most successful Indian adaptations to river living, they forced the natives into government service. The Muras waged guerrilla warfare on these settlements, slowing production expected of the servile domestic Indians. A truce was not achieved until the Muras needed to ally with the Portuguese for protection from their feared enemies, the Mundurucú. Other factors contributing to the truce involved changes in Mura warmongering attitudes on domestication, & their wish to insulate themselves from potential Spanish military action. 1 Figure, 42 References. J. Sadler

93Z6974

Whitehead, Judy (McGill U, Montreal Quebec H3A 2T5), Images of Nature and Culture in British and French Representations of Caste, Journal of Historical Sociology, 1992, 5, 4, Dec, 410-430.

¶ Compared are British & French representations of caste in ethnography & sociology in the late-nineteenth & early-twentieth centuries, a formative period in the development of both disciplines & in the spread of European colonial expansion. The concepts of "nature" & "culture" are examined, & the two traditions are analyzed in relation to their respective colonial histories & national political cultures. In GB, the development of a racial theory of the origins of the caste system collapsed nature into culture, thereby rendering caste a permanent, biological sign of India's status as a political minority. For both British & French sociology, the symbolic power of caste inhered in its ability to displace colonial contradictions & collapse them into a metaphor of India's deviations from western Europe. 54 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6975

Wieland, Daphne (York U, North York Ontario M3J 1P3), Native Scholarship: The Enigma of Self-Definition among Jewish and Mennonite Scholars, Journal of Historical Sociology, 1992, 5, 4, Dec, 431-461.

¶ Despite theoretical & methodological attempts by social scientists to depict the relationship between the self & other, few have considered the impact of native scholarship on the construction of knowledge. Here, Mennonite & Jewish scholarly efforts to represent &/or invent their own particular traditions in sociology & historiography are examined. It is suggested that their frequent appeals to particularistic sentiments, which often offend academic sensibilities, raise crucial questions & offer unique insights into historical & sociological analysis. 154 References. Adapted from the source document.

0300 social psychology

09 interaction within (small) groups

93Z6976

Barnard, William A., Baird, Carol, Greenwalt, Marilyn & Karl, Ray (Dept Psychology U Northern Colorado, Greeley 80639), Intragroup Cohesiveness and Reciprocal Social Influence in Male and Female Discussion Groups, Journal of Social Psychology, 1992, 132, 2, Apr, 179-188.

The impact of intragroup agreement on social pressure in small discussion groups is examined through questionnaire & scale data collected from 135 female (F) & 99 male (M) students at the U of Northern Colorado. Half of 54 all-M or all-F discussion groups experienced cohesion through establishment of agreement on 4 controversial social issues, while the other half had no opportunity to establish group cohesion. Each group then experienced conflict by the introduction of a topic on which 1 member disagreed with all others. Establishment of prior agreement among group members was found to increase group cohesion. Greatest opinion change by disagreeing members occurred when cohesion was low & consensus was required. Increased cohesion attenuated social pressure on the disagreeing group member. 20 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6977

Berger, Joseph, Norman, Robert Z., Balkwell, James W. & Smith, Roy F. (Dept Sociology Stanford U, CA 94305), Status Inconsistency in Task Situations: A Test of Four Status Processing Principles, UM American Sociological Review, 1992, 57, 6, Dec, 843-855.

¶ Status inconsistency in task situations is examined experimentally, based on the assumption that people working together on a task attend to one another's ascribed & achieved status attributes & other characteristics that differentiate them. When the evaluated states of these characteristics are consistent, the broad outlines of this process are clear; when they are inconsistent, the principles by which people resolve status inconsistency is at issue. Four such principles are explored here, drawing on data from 322 female undergraduates randomly assigned to 1 of 7 experimental conditions. The results are inconsistent with 3 of the principles, but consistent with the organized subsets combining principle originally set forth by Joseph Berger et al (Status Characteristics and Social Interaction, NY: Elsevier, 1977). The results suggest rethinking some questions about social information processing, as the generalized organized subset principle extends the scope of status characteristics theory to new kinds of social settings & additional types of personal attributes. 2 Tables, 1 Appendix, 49 References. Adapted from the source document

93Z6978

Bossert, W. (Instit Wirtschaftstheorie & OR U Karlsruhe, D-7500 Federal Republic Germany), On Intra- and Interpersonal Utility Comparisons, Social Choice and Welfare, 1991, 8, 3, July, 207-219.

¶ It is argued that assumptions on the comparability of individual utilities should be formulated in terms of meaningful statements, rather than by means of certain sets of admissible transformations. Various assumptions involving intra- & interpersonal comparisons of utility levels & utility differences are introduced in terms of meaningful statements & compared to their traditional counterparts. It is shown that these two approaches are not equivalent. In a social choice framework, the difference between these approaches can be substantial: replacing the usual cardinal unit comparability assumption by a condition involving comparisons of utility differences that is similar in spirit turns a well-known characterization of the utilitarian social welfare functional into an impossibility theorem. 19 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6979

Casper, Lynne M. (Pennsylvania State U, University Park 16802), Community Variations in the Rate and Type of Cohabitation: An Evaluation of Three Explanations with New Data, * Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 5, Nov, 1671-A-1672-A.

Available from UMI, Ann Arbor, MI. Order No. DA9226658.

93Z6980

Díaz Cruz, Rodrigo & Lee Vázquez, Marta (Dept Antropología Universidad National Autónoma México, Iztapalapa), Organizaciones socio-técnicas y procesos efímeros: una aproximación antropológica (Sociotechnical Organizations and Ephemeral Processes: An Anthropological Approximation), Nueva Antropología, 1991, 11, 40, Nov, 113-125. (SPA)

¶ Organizational theories that emphasize instrumental action & the instrumentalist conception of roles are critiqued, & an alternative approach is proposed that focuses on the processes of organizational interaction. Also proposed is the concept of a sociotechnical organization, unique to modern industrialized society, in which objects & humans interact in an organizational network. This alternative includes the concept of sociotechnical actions & implies a heterogeneity & ambiguity on the part of sociotechnical organizations. The role of unintended outcomes in this network is outlined & sociocultural implications are considered. It is concluded that the introduction of nonhuman components enriches the concept of organization & enhances understanding of complex societies. 21 References. J. Taylor

93Z6981

Edwards, Debra Lynn (Temple U, Philadelphia PA 19122), The Effects of Demographic and Social Characteristics on the Reciprocity of Elementary School Children's Friendships, * Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 5, Nov, 1689-A.

Available from UMI, Ann Arbor, MI. Order No. DA9227455.

93Z6982

Fox, Jonathan (Massachusetts Instit Technology, Cambridge 02139), Democratic Rural Development: Leadership Accountability in Regional Peasant Organizations, Development and Change, 1992, 23, 2, Apr, 1-36.

¶ An examination of the major problems of the "Iron Law of Oligarchy"–the ebbs & flows of leadership accountability over time–in the case of rural Mexico. Drawing on the history of a Mexican regional peasant organization since 1974, the Lázaro Cárdenas Union of Ejidos (agrarian reform communities), it is suggested that different kinds of organizational structures encourage or discourage membership action, but moments of mass direct action in turn shape organizational distribution of power. The case analysis shows how the interaction of internal & external factors shaped the evolving balance of power between leaders & members. Participatory subgroups were the crucial counterweight to concentrated leadership power, mediating relations with the membership & providing alternative sources of leadership. Whether formal or informal, multiple vertical channels & alternative horizontal linkages between membership groups are crucial complements to or substitutes for conventional organizational structures. 72 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6983

Freeman, Linton C. (School Social Sciences U California, Irvine 92651), Filling in the Blanks: A Theory of Cognitive Categories and the Structure of Social Affiliation, UM Social Psychology Quarterly, 1992, 55, 2, June, 118-127.

¶ Though individuals are aware of who is affiliated with whom in their immediate social world, their perceptions of the patterning of affiliation do not correspond to the patterning actually displayed. Affiliation is not categorical but perceptions of affiliation are. Here, secondary experimental evidence about errors in learning simple social structures is drawn on to develop a theory to account for this discrepancy. It suggests that people impose a categorical form on noncategorical affiliation patterns by a process of "filling in the blanks" in their experience. 3 Figures, 48 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6984

Freeman, Linton C. (School Social Sciences U California, Irvine 92651), La Resurrection des cliques: application du treillis de galois (The Resurrection of Cliques: Application of Galois Lattices), BMS, Bulletin de Méthodologie Sociologique, 1992, 37, Dec, 3-24. (FRE)

¶ By linking the mathematical definition of clique to Galois lattices, it is demonstrated how the clique can be used to characterize group structure for ethnographic descriptions, ie, to determine the conditions under which a group of individuals constitutes a social group. The clique model & the fundamentals of Galois lattices are reviewed & data collected in two ethnographic studies, of factory workers & monastic novices, are analyzed in clique/Galois lattice terms (see Roethlisberger, F. J., & Dixon, W. J., Management and the Worker, Cambridge, Mass, 1939; & Sampson, S. F., Noviate in a Period of Change: An Experimental Case Study of Social Relations, PhD Dissertation, Cornell U, 1968). 3 Tables, 5 Figures. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6985

Insko, Chester A., Schopler, John, Kennedy, James F., Dahl, Kenneth R., Graetz, Kenneth A. & Drigotas, Stephen M. (Dept Psychology U North Carolina, Chapel Hill 27599-3270), Individual-Group Discontinuity from the Differing Perspectives of Campbell's Realistic Group Conflict Theory and Tajfel and Turner's Social Identity Theory, UM Social Psychology Quarterly, 1992, 55, 3, Sept, 272-291.

¶ An experimental evaluation of the adequacy of Donald T. Campbell's realistic group conflict theory ("Ethnocentrism and Other Altruistic Motives" in Levine, D. (Ed), Nebraska Symposium on Motivation, Vol. 13, Lincoln: U of Nebraska Press, 1965, 283-311) & the social identity theory of Henry Tajfel & John C. Turner (eg, see "The Social Identity Theory of Intergroup Behavior" in Worchel, S., & Austin, W. G. (Eds), Psychology of Intergroup Relations, Chicago: Nelson-Hall, 1986, 7-24) for explaining the individual-group discontinuity (IGD) effect, using 2 groups of Ss (total N = 632 undergraduates) in Chapel Hill, NC. Realistic group conflict theory is interpreted as directly implying that IGD is motivated by competition for valued outcomes (max own), & social identity theory is interpreted as suggesting that IGD is motivated by relativistic social comparisons (max rel). A 3-choice matrix is developed to differentiate max own from max rel competitiveness. In experiment 1, groups selected both more max own & more max rel than did individuals. Results of experiment 2 show that max rel emerged only after some experience with competitive relations, & that the initial reluctance to select max rel was prompted by the associated own sacrifice. It is concluded that max rel is perceived initially as inappropriately confrontational. Although "mere" categorization will not produce max rel, max rel will occur if a category of Ss has experienced intercategory (or intergroup) competitiveness. 7 Tables, 3 Figures, 28 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6986

Kuty, Olgierd (Dépt sciences sociales U Liège, B-4000 Belgium), Identité mythique, règles du jeu et création charismatique: les unités de dialyse rénale revisitées (Mythical Identity, Rules of the Game and Charismatic Creation: Renal Dialysis Units Revisited), Schweizerische Zeitschrift für Soziologie/Revue Suisse de sociologie, 1992, 18, 2, 393-411. (FRE)

¶ In an examination of conditions leading to collective action in hospitals, theoretical reflections are offered, based on empirical research conducted twenty years ago in a hospital kidney dialysis & transplant unit, & on the creation of the specialty of nephrology. Group dynamics are explored with regard to formulation of interests & objectives, fidelity, identity formation, & sources of empowerment in confronting established rules. 44 References. I. Shagrir (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6987

Margolin, Leslie, Kimberly, James C. & Whitt, Hugh P. (Coll Education U Iowa, Iowa City 52242), Status Characteristics and Performance: An Assessment of Their Effects on Acceptance of Influence, UM Sociological Perspectives, 1992, 35, 3, fall, 451-473.

¶ The theory of status characteristics (SCs) asserts that both SCs & performance information are combined to arrive at a single evaluation of the group member (combining). Here, an alternative formulation is proposed which argues that SCs are used as a means of forming evaluations of group members only when members do not have access to performance information (balancing). Data obtained using experimental vignettes with samples of university students (Ns not provided) indicate that combining occurs when SCs & performance information are consistent, & balancing occurs when they are inconsistent. Implications for the empirical scope of the theory of SCs are considered. 2 Tables, 6 Figures, 27 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6988

Petersen, Trond (Walter A. Haas School Business U California, Berkeley 94720), Individual, Collective, and Systems Rationality in Work Groups: Dilemmas and Market-Type Solutions, UM American Journal of Sociology, 1992, 98, 3, Nov, 469-510.

¶ In examining work teams in organizations, two situations are often encountered: (1) one can observe only the output of the group as a whole, not the contributions of each member; & (2) the output of each member depends not only on his/her own effort, but also on that of coworkers Therefore, a problem arises as to how to construct reward schemes. Group piece-rate schemes, often suggested as a solution, are susceptible to free-rider problems. A classic solution relies on a supervisor who keeps free riders in line. Another solution is discussed here, where the relationship between output & reward is highly nonlinear. 3 Tables, 2 Appendixes, 111 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6989

Roško, Róbert (Sociologický ústav Slovak Academy Science, CS-81364 Bratislava), Nad jedným kooperačným pokusom (On a Cooperation Experiment), Sociológia, 1991, 23, 4, 319-326. (SLO)

¶ An analysis of joint research conducted 1982-1989 by a team of philosophers & sociologists at the Instit for Philosophy & Sociology in Bratislava (Slovakia). Key topics included the development of consciousness among the working class & intellectuals & the structure & dynamics of individual, group, & social consciousness/action. Progress was only achieved when sociology changed from a descriptive, analytical science to a theoretical one. The participatory method of the joint study was the response of the sociologists to do research on tasks formulated in a philosopher's style, eg, individual, group, & social dialectics. In general the joint team's efforts can be deemed successful. 15 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

12 personality & social roles

93Z6990

Abrams, Dominic & Emler, Nicholas (Instit Social & Applied Psychology U Kent, Canterbury CT2 7LZ England), Self-Denial as a Paradox of Political and Regional Social Identity: Findings from a Study of 16- and 18-Year-Olds, UM European Journal of Social Psychology, 1992, 22, 3, May-June, 279-295.

¶ The social-psychological aspects of regional or "sectional" bases of voting patterns, as well as the personal costs of group membership & group identification in the context of political & regional affiliations, are explored. The analysis relies on questionnaire data for 2 cohorts (total N = 4,591), ages 16-17 & 18-19, drawn randomly from state school registers of people who had been ages 15-18 in 1987 & 1985, respectively, in 4 parts of GB. The findings indicate that respondents are aware of the opportunities provided by their local labor markets, but that they vary in their sense of identification & belongingness to their locality, regardless of where they live. The greater this commitment, the more they appear motivated to stay where they are, independent of their perceptions of deprivation. The data support the perspective that political preferences may be an important aspect of local commitment in GB. Future research that questions the instrumental values approach & explores the symbolic functions that supporting a party has in maintaining social identity in terms of locality is recommended. 4 Tables, 49 References. S. Millet (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z6991

Alvesson, Mats (Dept Business Administration U Gothenburg, S-41124 Sweden), Leadership as Social Integrative Action. A Study of a Computer Consultancy Company, Organization Studies, 1992, 13, 2, 185-209.

It is suggested that leadership, at least in some types of organizations, can be conceptualized as social integrative action, seen as a synthesis of institutional & human-relations-oriented leadership. Findings of a case study of a Swedish computer consultancy company, a professional service adhocracy, support this argument. It is also argued that leadership can be viewed as an expression of those values, virtues, norms, & symbolic guidelines for understanding that are usually referred to as corporate culture or ideology. Leadership is consequently seen as subordinated to the cultural context. A less "commander"- & micro-oriented view on managerial work (ie, the leader as a boss, understood through focus on him/her & the group) than those common in the literature is recommended. 2 Figures, 38 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6992

Anderson, Laurel & Wadkins, Marsha (Business Programs Arizona State U, Phoenix 85069-7100), The New Breed in Japan: Consumer Culture, Revue Canadienne des Sciences de l'Administration/ Canadian Journal of Administrative Sciences, 1992, 9, 2, June, 146-153.

¶ Japan's shinjinrui, or "new breed," is characterized by: an emphasis on individuality, instant gratification, more leisure time activities, & looser social ties at home & work. Implications of this phenomenon regarding the role of consumption & the characteristics of the work structure are discussed. Two methodologies, parallel demonstration of theory & contrast of contexts, are illustrated in a comparative analysis of changing patterns of consumption during the development of a consumer culture in Japan & the US. 46 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6993

Anderson, Leon & Calhoun, Thomas C. (Ohio U, Athens 45701), Facilitative Aspects of Field Research with Deviant Street Populations, UM Sociological Inquiry, 1992, 62, 4, fall, 490-498.

¶ Participant observation research with 168 homeless persons & male street prostitutes in a sunbelt city during the mid-1980s is drawn on to explore the facilitative aspects of field research, including access to settings, social relationships, acquisition of information, & the maintenance of researcher interest. It is argued that in each of these aspects, street deviants may in some ways be easier to study than other populations. Suggestions for maximizing the efficiency & quality of fieldwork with specific deviant populations are offered. 36 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6994

Armon-Jones, Claire (Linacre Coll, Oxford OX1 1SY England), Affect, Objects and Rationality, Journal for the Theory of Social Behaviour, 1992, 22, 2, June, 129-143.

¶ Two views dominating contemporary philosophical theories of affect are critiqued: (1) the objectual view states that affect is centrally linked with the concept of an object or is a paradigm of things that have objects; (2) the rationality view states that affect is basically rational because it is based on cognitive attitudes that supply reasons for the emotional state & minimally demonstrate its reasonableness. The objectual view is untenable because in many cases, as in moodiness, the "object" of the state does not meet basic conditions of objecthood. Objectless affective states can also lack even basic rationality; they may occur solely due to neurophysical processes. However, objectless affective states may be blindly targeted to an object, & thus, take on a seeming rationality. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6995

Austin, Roy L. & Dodge, Hiroko Hayama (316 Oswald Tower, University Park PA 16802), Despair, Distrust and Dissatisfaction among Blacks and Women, 1973-1987, UM The Sociological Quarterly, 1992, 33, 4, winter, 579-598.

¶ Data from the 1973-1987 General Social Surveys (N = approximately 1,500 respondents (Rs) each year) are used to investigate discontent among US blacks & women in terms of the anomia of despair & distrust, & of job & financial dissatisfaction. Analysis indicates that blacks' discontent exceeds whites' in most instances, particularly among Rs high in socioeconomic status. Black women show significantly higher discontent than other race/gender groups, but gender main effects are almost nonexistent. The finding that white women almost never show more discontent than other race/gender groups is attributed to their greater identification with race than gender & their perception of general but not personal discrimination. Failure of the gender/discontent relationships to differ with the president in office may have a similar explanation. However, as expected, racial differences in discontent tended to be higher during the Nixon/Ford & Reagan administrations than during Carter's. 5 Tables, 71 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6996

Bagozzi, Richard P. (School Business Administration U Michigan, Ann Arbor 48109-1234), The Self-Regulation of Attitudes, Intentions, and Behavior, UM Social Psychology Quarterly, 1992, 55, 2, June, 178-204.

¶ Recent developments in attitude theory are reviewed & the links they make between attitude-intention, subjective norm-intention, & intention behavior/outcome are critiqued. An alternative theory of self-regulatory processes is introduced, demonstrating how these processes stimulate intentions, cause behavior to be enacted, & lead to goal attainment. In the attitude-intention relationship, appraisals of outcome-desire units lead to specific emotions & stimulate coping responses. The subjective norm-intention relationship is governed by cognitive & emotional self-regulation; one's own significant others' expectations are integrated with respect to the shared meaning of the goal-directed behaviors, is conditioned on decision making with respect to means needed to achieve a goal, instrumental activity, motivation, & conditions peculiar to the subject & the situation. This theory of self-regulation eliminates the reductionism of earlier ones & provides a more comprehensive social explanation of behavior. 1 Table, 5 Figures, 86 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6997

Beane, James A. (928 West Shore Dr, Madison WI 53715), Sorting Out the Self-Esteem Controversy, UM Educational Leadership, 1991, 49, 1, Sept, 25-30.

¶ Traditional arguments for the school's role in enhancing self-esteem include its contribution to the general health & well-being of youth, the correlation between self-esteem & achievement, & the idea of personal development beyond coping with problems, & to personal efficacy or power that may lead to action. Approaches that schools have employed to enhance the self-esteem of their students generally fall into the categories of personal development activities, a separate self-esteem program or course, & schoolwide strategies that boost a humanistic & democratic climate. Arguments fueling the larger debate regarding the assumption that positive self-esteem is necessary for school achievement are discussed. It is contended that the self-esteem movement still reflects a "kind of fluff" & radical individualism that is as threatening to authentic progressivism as the conservative restoration. A perspective that sees self-esteem in an integrated view of self & social relations, rather than solely in individualistic terms, is recommended. S. Millett

93Z6998

Blinde, Elaine M. & Taub, Diane E. (Dept Physical Education Southern Illinois U, Carbondale 62901), Women Athletes as Falsely Accused Deviants: Managing the Lesbian Stigma, UM The Sociological Quarterly, 1992, 33, 4, winter, 521-533.

¶ Citing gender norm violations, the behavior of female (F) athletes is often devalued & stigmatized. The impact of such labeling on F athletes is explored here, drawing on data obtained during in-depth telephone interviews with 24 intercollegiate F athletes from three Division I universities. Results reveal that these athletes engage in copying processes that parallel Howard S. Becker's construction of the "falsely accused deviant" (Outsiders: Studies in the Sociology of Deviance, New York: Free Press, 1963) & Erving Goffman's conceptualization of "stigma management" (Stigma: Notes on the Management of Spoiled Identity, Englewood Cliffs, NJ: Prentice-Hall, 1963). Factors leading to false accusation of lesbianism are discussed, as well as the various mechanisms utilized by athletes to manage the lesbian label. 1 Figure, 33 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z6999

Bolognini, Monique, Plancherel, Bernard, Núñez, Rafael & Bettschart, Walter (Service U psychiatrie enfant & adolescent, Bugnon 25 CH-1005 Lausanne Switzerland), Milieu de vie et personnalité: quels sont les facteurs qui protègent les pré-adolescents du stress? (Life Environment and Personal Traits: What Are the Factors that Protect Early Adolescents from Stress?), Schweizerische Zeitschrift für Soziologie/Revue Suisse de sociologie, 1992, 18, 2, 339-361. (FRE)

¶ The difficult transition from infancy to adolescence was studied over 3 years among 353 early adolescents (median age = 12.5 years) in Lausanne, Switzerland, focusing on relations between stress, protective factors, & well-being, & using the "buffering effect" hypothesis, which proposes that the impact of negative life events on mental health is buffered by social support, self-esteem, & coping strategies. Analysis of questionnaire & scale data indicates that life events experienced at this age are similar in most Western countries. Their impact is generally not as important as has been thought, & protective buffering factors play an important role, more as a long-term adaptation style than as a short-term strategy. These factors moderate the relation between stress & well-being more among girls than boys. 5 Tables, 7 Figures, 26 References. Modified AA (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7000

Clarke, Peter (Saint John's Coll, Cambridge CB2 1TP England), Margaret Thatcher's Leadership in Historical Perspective, UM Parliamentary Affairs, 1992, 45, 1, Jan, 1-17.

¶ Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's leadership style is compared with those of William Gladstone, Lord Salisbury, Joseph Chamberlain, & Neville Chamberlain with respect to success in setting the political agenda & mobilizing political support. Thatcher is seen as a latter-day Gladstone, or a more effective Joseph Chamberlain. Gladstone's campaign against the Bulgarians arose from moral populism, a blend of charismatic radicalism & conservatism. Salisbury's support of utilitarianism (for the benefit of privileged minorities, eg, the aristocracy & the Church of England) was a feature of his arch-conservatism. Although he failed to inspire the Right, or to gain mass support, Joseph Chamberlain initially was successful in politicizing the masses. Thatcher was able to replace local rates with a poll tax, promote privatization, free choice, & capitalism, & fight for the Falkland Islands. However, judged by Winston Churchill's moral standards of resolution, magnanimity, defiance, & goodwill, Thatcher falls short. Her insularity, concessions to pragmatism, & sudden fall from public favor resemble the career of Neville Chamberlain. J. Sadler (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7001

Coon, Hilary, Carey, Gregory & Fulker, David W. (Dept Psychiatry U Utah, Salt Lake City 84132), Community Influences on Cognitive Ability, Intelligence, 1992, 16, 2, Apr-June, 169-188.

¶ It is demonstrated that community variables are important factors in intellectual development in childhood. A model of multifactorial cultural transmission, in which many small effects of various aspects of the environment combine to influence the child, is assumed. Indexing these individual small effects with variables aggregated at the community level provides a magnifying lens for the detection of cultural transmission. Using census measures to test this model with participants in the longitudinal Colorado Adoption Project (N not specified), it is found that several aspects of communities show environmental relationships with child IQ over & above the genetic & environmental effects of parental IQ. The strongest association is with characteristics of rural communities, which had a negative environmental influence on child IQ. 5 Tables, 3 Figures, 2 Appendixes, 42 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7002

Coulter, Jeff (Associate Faculty Philosophy Boston U, MA 02215), Bilmes on 'Internal States': A Critical Commentary, Journal for the Theory of Social Behaviour, 1992, 22, 3, Sept, 239-251.

Reply, 253-262.

¶ Jack Bilmes's position (Discourse and Behavior, New York: Plenum Press, 1986) on the issue of whether or not sociologists should concern themselves with psychological states is contradictory. He argues for a discursive psychology with discourse & interaction as the objects of analysis, but he also stresses the need to treat internal occurrences. The nuances of Bilmes's argument on both sides of this issue are discussed. His reasoning is deemed mentalistic, & he falls into the Cartesian trap of transposing mind & brain, rather than viewing the person as a "social being." In Referring to Internal Occurrences: A Reply to Coulter, Bilmes (U of Hawaii, Honolulu) contends that he has been consistently nonmentalist in not utilizing motivation, intention, emotions, & belief as analytical resources, but as analytical topics, since they are attributed by one member of a social group to another; he clarifies what he means by motivation, intention, & theory, & argues that motivation & intention apply to behaviors, not actions. 16 References. M. Pflum (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7003

Der-Karabetian, Aghop & Balian, Natalie (Behavioral Science Dept U La Verne, CA 91750), Ingroup, Outgroup, and Global-Human Identities of Turkish-Armenians, Journal of Social Psychology, 1992, 132, 4, Aug, 497-504.

¶ An examination of the ingroup (Armenian), outgroup (Turkish), & global-human identities of 70 Turkish-Armenians living on Kinali Island, Istanbul, Turkey, based on 1990 questionnaire data. Results indicate that men, older Armenians, & those who attended Armenian schools had stronger ingroup identities, while women, younger Armenians, & those who attended Turkish schools had stronger outgroup & global-human identities. These results indicate a move away from parochialism & possible acculturation. 25 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7004

Dimen, Muriel (New York U, NY 10003), Theorizing Social Reproduction: On the Origins of Decentered Subjectivity, Genders, 1992, 14, Aug, 98-125.

¶ Feminist critiques of Marxism & psychoanalysis have come under attack because feminists challenge the exclusion of women from universal theories on the one hand, & because they challenge the tendency to universalize on the other. A critical reevaluation of the Karl Marx-Sigmund Freud tradition, therefore, is suggested in an attempt to yield new insight about social reproduction, which posits a bridge between political vision & a vision of inner life. Toward this goal, the prehistory origins of "decentered subjectivity" are located, & deficiencies in the Althusserian/Lacanian decentered self are exposed. As an alternative, a feminized version of intersubjectivity is considered; its implication for localizing resistance & its importance to critiques of dualism & postmodernism are elucidated. M. Maguire (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7005

Farrell, Ronald A. & Case, Carole (U Nevada, Las Vegas 89154), The Micro System of Deviance in Intimate Relationships, UM Sociological Inquiry, 1992, 62, 4, fall, 464-479.

¶ It is hypothesized that deviance in intimate relationships may lie as much within the relationship microsystem as it does within the personalities of the actors involved. A Parsonsian framework is drawn on to argue that the strain of systemically disequilibrated relationships can produce deviant personality adaptations which, in turn, intensify conflict & deviance. A reciprocal quality exists to such maladaptations, with each member of the dyad contributing to the amplification of a stable system of deviant behavior patterns within the relationship. Because the patterns of maladaptive dyads spill over into parent-child relationships, they have implications for understanding intergenerational transmission of deviance between intimates. 1 Figure, 37 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7006

Flyghed, Janne (Kriminologiska instit Stockholms U, S-1069 Sweden), Utrikespolitiken och rätten. Exmplet spioneri och sabotage i Sverige under andra världskriget (Foreign Policy and Justice. Espionage and Sabotage in Sweden during the Second World War), Sociologisk Forskning, 1992, 29, 3, 35-53. (SWE)

¶ Diplomatic sources & records on detained & prosecuted agents were utilized to determine why the rate of arrests & convictions of German agents accused of subversive activities & hostile acts against the realm in Sweden increased after the military turning-point of WWII. Possible explanations include: (1) the "foreign policy paradox," whereby the Swedish diplomatic policy of concessions actually generated subversive activities at different rates during the war; (2) the Swedish le system–the security police, prosecutors, & the judiciary–was legally disposed to heed foreign policy considerations, & thus, favored the German agents when it was politically expedient; & (3) the secret security service was not mandated by the political leadership to intervene in certain subversive activities, & without any mandate, was influenced by the political situation abroad not to arrest German agents. The courts did impose higher sentences on German agents toward the end of the war, but the principal political influences were exerted even before the espionage cases got to the courts. 8 Figures, 14 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7007

Forsyth, Craig J. (Dept Sociology U Southwestern Louisiana, Lafayette 70504), Parade Strippers: A Note on Being Naked in Public, UM Deviant Behavior, 1992, 13, 4, Oct-Dec, 391-403.

¶ The practice of exposing the female breasts in exchange for "throws" (trinkets & beads) from Mardi Gras parade floats in New Orleans, La, is examined, drawing on data obtained via observations & interviews with 54 men who rode parade floats & 51 women who exposed themselves during 42 parades in the 1990/91 festivals. This phenomenon is compared to nudism, mooning, nude sunbathing, & streaking, & located within the unique context of Mardi Gras, when "deviance becomes normal." 16 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7008

Fox, John W. (Dept Sociology U Northern Colorado, Greeley 80639), The Structure, Stability, and Social Antecedents of Reported Paranormal Experiences, UM Sociological Analysis, 1992, 53, 4, winter, 417-431.

¶ National sample data from the 1984, 1988, & 1989 General Social Surveys are used to assess cultural source theories of reported paranormal experiences (PEs). Findings suggest that the reported PEs of extrasensory perception, clairvoyance, contact with the dead, & mysticism, but not déjà vu, have an invariant & stable factor structure across the period. Déjà vu is more frequent among younger & more highly educated respondents, but is unaffected by sex, race, income, marital status, & religious preference differences. Other reported PEs are higher among women but are unaffected by age, race, education, income, marital status, & religious preference differences. These results are consistent across the 3 surveys. The findings provide little empirical support for cultural source theories & deprivation theory in explaining reported PEs. 2 Tables, 1 Figure, 34 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7009

Gutiérrez, Roberto (Dept Sociología U Autónoma Metropolitana, Azcapotzalco 02000 Mexico DF), Poder y subjetividad social: en torno a la mirada freudiana en "Psicología de masas y análisis del yo" (Social Subjectivity and Power: Referring to Freud's Psicología de Masas y análisis del yo), Sociológica, 1990, 5, 14, Sept-Dec, 77-90. (SPA)

¶ The attractiveness of Sigmund Freud's work for sociology & political science lies in his suggestions on leadership & charisma, authority, & religious beliefs & their institutionalization, as found in Psicología de las masas y análisis del yo ([Psychology of the Masses and the Analysis of the Ego] Buenos Aires: Amorrortu Editores, 1976 [1921]). Here, these suggestions are synthesized & applied to the constitution of subjectivity & its social effects. These concepts are then related to the identification & idealization of political power & leadership. 7 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7010

Helton, Eugene (U Notre Dame, IN 46556), The Reality of Dreaming, Theory, Culture & Society, 1992, 9, 4, Nov, 119-139.

¶ Dreaming as a formative aspect of human evolution & culture is examined by viewing dreaming as a borderland between biology & culture. From a semiotics perspective, it is argued that dreaming not only displays the cultic roots of culture, but also illustrates one of the ways in which the technics of the biosocial human body itself form the primary source of culture. Here it is demonstrated that dreaming, although private, is a thoroughly cultural, biological, communicative activity. It is concluded that the origins of culture reside in the evolution of communicative practices & in the brain-mind dialogue of dreaming, an assertion that implies a rejection of the nature-culture dichotomy popular among culture theorists. 29 References. W. Howard (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7011

Hart, Ann Weaver (Graduate School Education U Utah, Salt Lake City 84112), Leader Succession and Socialization: A Synthesis, UM Review of Educational Research, 1991, 61, 4, winter, 451-474.

¶ It is estimated that turnover among school principals is as high as 10% per year. It is contended here that socialization theory & research on leader succession can be synthesized to provide an enriched view of leader succession that can be applied to the study of principal succession, role change, & reform in schools. In the face of demands for more creative leadership from principals & for school restructuring, it is concluded that scholars need to expand inquiry into deliberate strategies to promote desired outcomes during succession, when expectations are high. 2 Tables, 110 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7012

Hartman, Sandra J. & Harris, O. Jeff (Dept Management U New Orleans, LA 70148), The Role of Parental Influence in Leadership, Journal of Social Psychology, 1992, 132, 2, Apr, 153-167.

¶ To examine how parental influence may shape the leadership process, 195 students majoring in management at 2 large universities in the southern US used the Leadership Behavior Description Questionnaire to describe their management style & their perceptions of the management style used by a person they nominated as an important early influence in the development of their own leadership style. Finally, the person they nominated completed the instrument. Correlations among the scales were used to examine how the early influence affected the subscale scores of the students. Results suggest that early influence was important & that some gender-related differences were operating. It is concluded that: early influence operated most strongly through perceptions, individuals modeled (rather than reacted against) the perceived style, & the process operated most strongly for male (M) students & for those whose early influence was M. 4 Tables, 39 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7013

Hitchcock, Peter (Baruch Coll, New York NY 10027), The Aesthetics of Alienation, or China's "Fifth Generation", Cultural Studies, 1992, 6, 1, Jan, 116-141.

¶ The locus of democratic change & the source of defiance, transformation, or renewal in the Chinese Communist party (CCP) represented in Beijing, People's Republic of China, in spring 1989 are investigated. It is suggested that, while the expression of democratic will in Tiananmen Square in June 1989 represented a powerful indictment of the CCP, the historical conditions of this incident are difficult to specify without discarding its metonymic profusions. The concept of alienation is used to describe an economic relation, as well as an ideological flux in the technology on temporary Chinese cinema, that complicates rather than confirms the categorical imperatives of suture. Two propositions that may be linked theoretically & historically to alienation are explored: the contradictions between the urban intelligentsia & the founding principles of the CCP have a psychological correlate in cultural representations of the intellectual vis-à-vis the state; & cinematic production has become the primary cultural form to stand in for this antagonistic relationship. Examples from a number of Fifth Generation movement films, particularly Yellow Earth, are used to illustrate alienation as a means to articulate the social contradictions of contemporary China. 2 Figures, 42 References. S. Millett (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7014

Hoge, Dean R. & Hoge, Jann L. (Dept Sociology Catholic U America, Washington DC 20064), The Return of the Fifties? Value Trends at the University of Michigan, 1952 to 1989, UM The Sociological Quarterly, 1992, 33, 4, winter, 611-623.

¶ Reported are the results of 5 identical surveys at the U of Michigan of undergraduate student values conducted 1952-1989 (N = 331-450 respondents each year). Trends in values regarding personal commitments, religion, other-directedness, misanthropy, anomie & alienation, social constraints on certain groups, economics & government, & personal morals are assessed. Results reveal that several elements of the 1950s returned in the 1980s, eg, privatism, concern about loyalty & subversion, & conservatism in personal morals. On the other hand, values associated with the 1952 levels of other-directedness, traditional religious commitment, & trust in human nature were not replicated, though some trends set in motion in the 1960s regarding these values are continuing. The 1980s witnessed a unique combination of political conservatism & personal individualism. It is suggested that events occurring since 1952 produced short-term changes that make the identification of underlying long-term trends in college student values virtually impossible. 6 Tables, 1 Figure, 29 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7015

Jain, Uday (Dept Psychology Barkatullah Vishwavidyalaya, Bhopal 462026 India), The Subjective Construction of Morality: The Indian Experience, The Indian Journal of Social Work, 1991, 52, 3, July, 379-388.

¶ The subjective construction of morality in the prevailing social atmosphere is examined, arguing that attribution of responsibility is involved in moral judgment, & responsibility is understood in distinct ways; further, attribution is also influenced by the social perspective. Data supporting the social aspect of moral judgment are presented, obtained in a study in which 64 Indian college teachers responded to a modified version of L. Kohlberg's Heinz dilemma (eg, see "Moral Stages and Moralization: The Cognitive Developmental Approach" in Lickona [Ed], Moral Development and Behavior: Theory, Research and Social Issues, New York: Holt Reinhart, 1976) & scale measuring perceptions of social atmosphere. Traditional Indian (Hindu) thought on morality is also discussed, along with implications for moral development. 2 Tables, 37 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7016

Khaleque, A., Work Values, Attitudes and Performance of Industrial Workers in Bangladesh, Social Indicators Research, 1992, 27, 2, Sept, 187-195.

¶ Scale & questionnaire data collected from 30 male (M) & 30 female (F) garment factory workers in Dhaka, Bangladesh, are used to assess workers' attitudes & values toward work, & examine relationships among work performance, attitudes, & values. Results show that the rate of production of M workers is significantly higher than that of F workers. Workers' performance is positively related to work ethic, attitudes toward mastery, & competitiveness in work; however, performance is not found to be related to workers' money beliefs & attitudes toward savings. 4 Tables, 18 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7017

Kowalewski, David & Porter, Karen L. (Division Social Sciences Alfred U, NY 14802), Ecoprotest: Alienation, Deprivation, or Resources?, Social Science Quarterly, 1992, 73, 3, Sept, 523-534.

¶ To investigate 3 possible motivating factors behind protest–political alienation, relative deprivation, & resource availability–survey data were collected in 1990 from 626 residents of Allegany County, NY, who were faced with the possibility of having a low-level nuclear waste facility built in their community in 1988. After examining the extent to which any one model can account for protest when controlling for the other 2, it is concluded that all 3 perspectives help explain both moderate & militant protest participation. 1 Table, 1 Figure, 28 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7018

Laé, Jean-François (Instit recherche sociétés contemporaines, F-75849 Paris Cedex 17 France), Economie, culture et sociabilité (Economy, Culture and Sociability), Sociologie du Travail, 1992, 34, 4, 451-467. (FRE)

¶ The relationship between sociability & the economy is analyzed, questioning how alliances occurring in enclaved social networks obstruct the economic order. It is demonstrated how occasional alliances between like-partners in employment & economic networks underlie long-term social relations, eg, family, work, class, & gender relations. It is observed that weakening in long-term social networks increases the role of occasional alliances, & therefore impact the institutional & structural frameworks where these alliances are formed. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7019

Laszlo, Ervin (Vienna Academy Study Future, Porzellangasse 35 A-1090 Austria), Changing Realities of Contemporary Leadership, Futures, 1992, 24, 2, Mar, 167-172.

¶ The leadership role that government once assumed in democratic societies has passed to the business sector in the last two decades. Further, the globalization of manufacturing, trade, services, & finance means that a few key actors are dominant global powers, affecting the lives & well-being, & even the survival, of entire societies & populations. East European countries need to realize that they must go beyond passive cooperation with the private capital- & technology-strong multinationals; they need ambitious pursuit of joint ventures, strategic partnerships, & other innovative forms of cooperation to attract & keep risk capital. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7020

Lubinski, David & Humphreys, Lloyd G. (Dept Psychology Iowa State U, Ames 50011-3180), Some Bodily and Medical Correlates of Mathematical Giftedness and Commensurate Levels of Socioeconomic Status, Intelligence, 1992, 16, 1, Jan-Mar, 99-115.

¶ In an exploration of the relationship between mathematical giftedness, physical & medical well-being, & socioeconomic status, sophomores in high school were grouped according to ranking on upper 1% of a socioeconomic indicator vs ranking on upper 1% of mathematical giftedness (N = 1,132, & 1,005 respectively). Comparisons by gender & on 43 indices of well-being, obtained via questionnaire, indicated that both groups were above the national norm on measures of physical health. However, the data supported a stronger correlation between mathematical giftedness (vs socioeconomic privilege) & medical/physical well-being. This correlation further validates the assertion that level of general intelligence carries a network of correlates in nonintellectual domains. 3 Tables, 1 Appendix, 14 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7021

Lupfer, Michael B., Brock, Karla F. & DePaola, Stephen J. (Memphis State U, TN 38152), The Use of Secular and Religious Attributions to Explain Everyday Behavior, Journal for the Scientific Study of Religion, 1992, 31, 4, Dec, 486-503.

¶ A test of several hypotheses emanating from the "availability hypothesis" (see SA 33:4/85Q0299) concerning factors that affect the use of religious & secular attributions. Ss (N = 183 undergraduates at Memphis State U [Tenn]) who varied in their commitment to the tenets of conservative Christianity were presented with vignettes describing everyday behavior & were asked to attribute the behavior to religious (God, Satan) or secular (change, dispositional, or situational) causal agents. Results confirm several hypotheses about attributions to God & Satan, but none about the use of secular factors. Even so, Ss relied much more heavily on secular than on religious explanations of everyday behavior. It is concluded that the explanatory system underlying religious attributions may exemplify a multiple necessary rather than a multiple sufficient schema (Kelly, H. H., Causal Schemata and the Attribution Process, Morristown, NJ: General Learning Press, 1972). 2 Tables, 37 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7022

Magnusson, David (Dept Psychology Stockholm U, S-10691 Sweden), Back to the Phenomena: Theory, Methods, and Statistics in Psychological Research, European Journal of Personality, 1992, 6, 1, Mar, 1-14.

¶ The research process consists of four interdependent elements: (1) the phenomena with which the problem under consideration is concerned (ie, individual thoughts, feelings, actions, & reaction); (2) theories; (3) methods for the collection of the data; & (4) statistical procedures for data analysis. It is stated that the appropriate use of theory, method, & statistics must be based on systematic analyses & descriptions of the phenomena per se. The scientific quality of research outcomes is dependent on the proper handling of these elements. 25 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7023

McCornack, Steven A. (Dept Communication Michigan State U, East Lansing 48824), Information Manipulation Theory,

Communication Monographs, 1992, 59, 1, Mar, 1-16.

¶ In a presentation of information manipulation theory (IMT), various ways are examined in which information can be manipulated to produce deceptive messages. Norms of rational & cooperative conversational behavior are violated when deceptive messages are included in the conversation. Violations involve varying amounts of disclosed information, distorting information by using ambiguities & varying the information's relevance. A sample of university students (N = 113) developed 3 deception-provoking situations & typical deceptive messages generated as an empirical test of IMT. 1 Table, 23 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7024

McCornack, Steven A., Levine, Timothy R., Solowczuk, Kathleen A., Torres, Helen I. & Campbell, Dedra M. (Dept Communication Michigan State U, East Lansing 48824), When the Alteration of Information Is Viewed as Deception: An Empirical Test of Information Manipulation Theory, UM Communication Monographs, 1992, 59, 1, Mar, 17-29.

¶ In an empirical test of the information manipulation theory (described in the preceding article [see abstract in this section of SA 41:2]), 2 of the 3 deception-provoking situations initially selected were restructured to change Ss (N = 1,074 university students) from message producer to recipient. Messages previously generated were analyzed by a coding system that categorized according to manipulations of: quantity, quality, relevance, & clarity; completely disclosing; & significant combinations of these categories. Messages & situations were crossed to produce a 40-situation matrix, then evaluated by Ss on perceptions of message honesty & competence. It was found that while manipulations of quality produced the most messages perceived as deceptive, manipulations of the other categories also were significantly deceptive. 1 Table, 2 Appendixes, 19 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7025

Meyerson, Eva M. (Stockholm U, S-10691 Sweden), The Impact of Ownership Structure and Team Composition on Firm Performance: The Resolution of a Leadership Paradox, * Dissertation Abstracts International, C: Worldwide, 1992, 53, 4, winter, 644-C-645-C.
Unavailable from UMI; published by the Industrial Instit for Economic & Social Research, Box 5501, S-11485 Stockholm, Sweden.

93Z7026

Mookherjee, Harsha N. (Coll Arts & Sciences Tennessee Technological U, Cookeville 38505), A Comparative Assessment of Life Satisfaction in the United States: 1978-1988, Journal of Social Psychology, 1992, 132, 3, June, 407-409.

¶ To assess whether Americans feel more satisfied with their lives than they did a decade ago, General Social Survey data for 1978 & 1988 (N = 1,532 & 997 adults, respectively) are compared in terms of sex, age, race, marital status, education, & perceived financial status. ANOVA & multiple regression analyses indicate that financial status, marital status, & education significantly predict life satisfaction for both samples, & that race & age also predicted satisfaction in the 1978 sample. Overall, however, no significant difference was found in the general perception of life satisfaction between 1978 & 1988. 1 Reference. M. Maguire

93Z7027

Muse, Mark-Dana & Frigola i Mussons, Gloria, La psicologia del dolor (The Psychology of Pain), Revista de Psicologia General y Aplicada, 1991, 44, 2, Apr, 193-198. (SPA)

¶ An exploration of the new discipline of the science of pain, or "algology," from its origins with the publication of John Bonica's The Management of Pain (Philadelphia: Lea & Febiger, 1953) through the contributions of Ronald Melzack & Patrick Wall on the concept of the pain threshold (eg, see Melzack, The Puzzle of Pain, New York: Basic Books, 1973). Research results over the last twenty years are summarized, & social & cultural impacts on the experience of pain are considered. Theories regarding pain thresholds & the conditioning of patients to continue feeling pain are described in appendices. 2 Figures, 2 Appendixes, 15 References. J. Taylor

93Z7028

Okamoto, Yusuke, Transliterated title not available (G. H. Mead's Behaviorism and the "I" as One of the "Others"), Soshioroji, 1992, 37, 2, Oct, 77-92. (JPN)

¶ Although George Herbert Mead contended that there are two aspects to the self (the "I" & the "me"), a number of sociologists & psychologists ignore Mead's behaviorism & make two erroneous assumptions: (1) they claim that the "I" is known immediately to the self, & even if it cannot be known immediately, one can anticipate one's own acts; & (2) they emphasize the exclusive otherness of the "me" that is derived from others & represented as "others" within oneself, whereas the "I" has been there from the beginning & has no such character. D. J. Bem's self-perception theory ("Self-Perception Theory," in Berkowitz, L. [Ed], Advances in Experimental Social Psychology, Vol. 6, Academic Press, 1972), which is based on the radical behaviorism of B. F. Skinner, cannot accept these assumptions. This theory, along with Mead's theory of the "self," argues that one knows one's own internal states in part by inferring them from observations of one's own overt behavior & circumstances. Two propositions generated by the introduction of the self-perception theory, emphasizing the absolute mediatedness of the "I," & the shared otherness of the "I" & the "me," are discussed. 33 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7029

Owens, Timothy J. (Dept Sociology Indiana U, Indianapolis 46202), The Effect of Post-High School Social Context on Self-Esteem, UM The Sociological Quarterly, 1992, 33, 4, winter, 553-577.

¶ A revised version of SA 37:6/89S21638/ASA/1989/5454. 1 Table, 2 Figures, 2 Appendixes, 120 References.

93Z7030

Parish, Joycelyn G. & Parish, Thomas S. (Kansas State U, Manhattan 66506), Support Systems Functionality, Self-Concepts and Alcohol Use, UM College Student Journal, 1991, 25, 4, Dec, 470-472.

¶ Students at a large midwestern university (N = 265) completed questionnaires to assess their use/nonuse of alcohol, self-concept, & perceived support system failures during childhood &/or adolescence. Results indicate that nonusers had received significantly less peer support than all users, but had higher self-concepts than heavy users. Explanations & implications of these findings are offered. 1 Table, 5 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7031

Pulkkinen, Lea (Dept Psychology U Jyväskylä, SF-40351 Finland), Life-Styles in Personality Development, European Journal of Personality, 1992, 6, 2, June, 139-155.

¶ Defining lifestyle as "the organized whole of an individual's personality characteristics, life attitudes, & everyday activity," adult antisocial & socially adaptable (educated) lifestyles were hypothesized to differ on their developmental prerequisites. Data from the Jyväskylä (Finland) Longitudinal Study on illicit behavior & career lines for 196 boys at age 8, followed up at ages 14 & 26, revealed lifestyle differences based on dispositional, cognitive, & behavioral parameters. The educated Ss (ie, with no criminal arrest records) were less neurotic, oriented more toward high culture, & more pessimistic, & had fewer problems with alcohol abuse, stronger self-control, & more passive behavior than the antisocial group. Adult lifestyles were predictable on the basis of coping behavior in childhood, & were related to family background. Adult lifestyles were rooted in distinctive behavior patterns in childhood & adolescence: cluster analysis showed that about 50% of the educated boys belonged to a "no problems" cluster, while the antisocial boys were more evenly distributed over the 7 clusters found. 6 Tables, 49 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7032

Quicke, John (Division Education U Sheffield, S10 2JA England), Individualism and Citizenship: Some Problems and Possibilities, International Studies in Sociology of Education, 1992, 2, 2, 147-163.

¶ Citizenship ideals & education based on alternative versions of the active citizenship model are examined. Although postmodernist culture may be viewed as posing a threat to citizenship ideals, certain features of it, eg, the decentered view of self & the aestheticized culture, can be accommodated within liberal discourse in ways that retain liberal character ideals & a democratic vision of community. Richard Rorty's views of self & community (see Contingency, Irony, and Solidarity, Cambridge: Cambridge U Press, 1989) are discussed to illustrate how commitment to liberal citizenship ideals requires a sense of the contingency of one's language of moral deliberation & an acceptance of cultural diversity. The educational implications of Rorty's thesis are explored. 32 References. Adapted from the source document.

0038-0202/93 $1.50

93Z7033

Ribes-Iñesta, Emilio & Sánchez Sosa, Silvia (U Guadalajara, 45030 Mexico), Individual Behavior Consistencies as Interactive Styles: Their Relation to Personality, UM The Psychological Record, 1992, 42, 3, summer, 369-387.

¶ To find within-S consistencies as individual differences in a concurrent choice situation simulating risk-taking, 6 adults were exposed through computer simulation to different values of probability & numbers of reinforcement in a task involving betting on 2 simultaneous horse races. In a second experiment conducted 1 year later, 2 of the original Ss repeated the experiment. Results support the reliability of within-S consistencies when experimental tasks are built as open contingencies. The conceptual & experimental implications of the data are discussed in relation to the study of personality. 1 Table, 10 Figures, 20 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7034

Rice, Daniel R. (U North Dakota, Grand Forks 58201), Improving Educational Leadership: A Case Illustration of How Organizational Theory Can Inform Practice, Journal for Higher Education Management, 1991, 7, 1, summer-fall, 19-28.

¶ L. G. Bolman's & T. E. Deal's organizational model (Modern Approaches to Understanding and Managing Organizations, San Francisco: Jossey-Bass, 1984) proposes four frames through which organizations can be observed: structural, human resources, political, & symbolic. Here, this model is illustrated & tested by applying it to a case of the establishment of a higher education center in a major city by a state governing body. Analysis through the four frames yields various different perspectives on organizational problems, & also provides a diagnostic tool for understanding the problems. Under this frame model, it becomes clear that solutions for problems must be developed from the same frame in which the problem lies, & in this sense, the organizational theory can inform practice. 1 Table, 21 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7035

Sachdev, Paul (School Social Work Memorial U Newfoundland, Saint John's A1B 3X8), Adoption Reunion and After: A Study of the Search Process and Experience of Adoptees, UM Child Welfare, 1992, 71, 1, Jan-Feb, 53-68.

¶ Questionnaire data were obtained from 124 Anglo-Saxon Canadian adoptees in Ontario who had arranged a reunion with their biological mothers & relatives 6 months-4 years previously, focusing on the effect of reunion on the adoptive relationship. Four factors were considered: frequency of subsequent meetings, nature of the initial relationship & how it changed over time, degree of satisfaction, & the adoptee's overall feelings of accomplishment. Findings reveal considerable variation in all factors, but most respondents reported being glad they had achieved reunion. 4 Tables, 35 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7036

Smith, Ronald W. (Graduate Coll U Nevada, Las Vegas 89154), Problems and Accomplishments of College and University Presidents, Journal for Higher Education Management, 1991, 7, 1, summer-fall, 53-63.

¶ Survey data obtained from 172 US college & university presidents are used to investigate institutional problems, accomplishments, funding, & enrollment trends. Descriptive analysis reveals that inadequate funding was problematic for about 50% of the presidents, especially those associated with smaller & privately supported institutions. Other problems related to university image, internal management, the loss of control over certain areas, & disagreement over institutional goals & priorities. Enrollment decreases were a relatively minor issue. The establishment of institutional goals/priorities was frequently mentioned as an accomplishment, followed by funding achievements, & improvements in institutional image & in internal management. The presidents' responses indicated that they understand the functional problems associated with their roles & are devoting considerable effort toward finding solutions to them. 3 Tables, 14 References. M. Pflum

93Z7037

Spivak, Gayatri Chakravorty (Columbia U, New York NY 10027), Acting Bits/Identity Talk, UM Critical Inquiry, 1992, 18, 4, summer, 770-803.

¶ Works of such diverse authors as Toni Morrison, Jacques Derrida, Ibn Khaldun, & Jean Genet are drawn on to explore the relationship between women's identity, issues of gender, the nation, & Islam. The construction of women's identity in Bengal, the US, Singapore, Bangladesh, Italy, Canada, & Lebanon is explored. It is maintained that history functions as a kind of locality, which shapes identity, & that local histories need to be viewed in relation to the postcolonial. Among key concepts discussed are translation, otherness, & the fracturing of identity. 5 Figures. W. Howard

93Z7038

Stake, Jayne E. (Dept Psychology U Missouri, Saint Louis 63121), Gender Differences and Similarities in Self-Concept within Everyday Life Contexts, UM Psychology of Women Quarterly, 1992, 16, 3, Sept, 349-363.

¶ After reviewing findings from previous research of a stereotypic pattern of gender differences in self-concept, the validity of these gender differences for two natural life contexts–family & work–is explored. Self-ratings were obtained from 267 undergraduates via Likert scales, & observer ratings were obtained using the same instruments from persons in the family or work contexts who knew the target persons well. Results confirm a gender stereotypic pattern of self-concept scores in both work & family self- & observer-inferred ratings. Gender accounted for 3%-7% of the variance of the 5 self-concept dimensions for which a significant gender difference was found. 3 Tables, 37 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7039

Tang, Thomas Li-Ping & Tzeng, Jen Yann (Coll Business Middle Tennessee State U, Murfreesboro 37132), Demographic Correlates of the Protestant Work Ethic, The Journal of Psychology, 1992, 126, 2, Mar, 163-170.

¶ Mail questionnaire data are used to investigate relationships between the Protestant work ethic (PWE) & several demographic variables in a sample of 689 respondents (Rs) from a Tenn community, including university students/faculty, personnel managers, & local workers. Results indicate that the PWE is related to affiliation with the Republican party, young age, less education, part-time employment, low income, & single marital status. Stepwise multiple regression analysis shows that education & party affiliation are the major predictors of PWE. 37 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7040

Thoits, Peggy A. (Dept Sociology Vanderbilt U, Nashville TN 37235), Identity Structures and Psychological Well-Being: Gender and Marital Status Comparisons, UM Social Psychology Quarterly, 1992, 55, 3, Sept, 236-256.

¶ A revised version of SA 39:6/91S24863/SSSP/1991/3057. 7 Tables, 62 References.

93Z7041

Thompson, William N. (U Nevada, Las Vegas 89154), Machismo: Manifestations of a Cultural Value in the Latin American Casino, UM Journal of Gambling Studies, 1991, 7, 2, summer, 143-164.

¶ After discussing the roots of machismo in Latin American countries, its manifestations in the gambling casinos there are explored. Data obtained during observations in 12 countries, & nonstructured interviews with owners, managers, employees, players, & government regulators (Ns not provided) are used to illuminate the role of machismo in casino operations. 1 Table, 14 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7042

Tjosvold, Dean, Andrews, I. Robert & Struthers, John T. (Faculty Business Administration Simon Fraser U, Burnaby British Columbia V5A 1S6), Leadership Influence: Goal Interdependence and Power, Journal of Social Psychology, 1992, 132, 1, Feb, 39-50.

¶ An investigation of whether goal interdependence & power affect the kinds & success of influence attempts made by leaders. In questionnaires, 143 Canadian employees indicated the extent to which they valued the resources of their manager & their use of directive & collaborative influence attempts. The results suggest that managers with cooperative goals & power relied on collaborative influence, influenced effectively, & contributed to employee work & commitment. These findings support recent theories that successful managers empower their employees; also, the results are consistent with the contingency perspective in that the success of leader-influence strategies depends on the relationship between manager & employee. 1 Table, 2 Appendixes, 44 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7043

Tobacyk, Jerome J. (Behavioral Sciences Louisiana Tech U, Ruston 71272), Changes in Locus of Control Beliefs in Polish University Students before and after Democratization, Journal of Social Psychology, 1992, 132, 2, Apr, 217-222.

¶ In 1985 & 1991, 100 Polish university students (N = 100 each year) completed a Polish translation of J. B. Rotter's Internal-External Locus of Control Scale. ("Generalized Expectancies for Internal versus External Locus of Control of Reinforcement," Psychological Monographs, 1966, 80 [1, whole No. 609]). Analysis of these data allows investigation of the profound sociocultural changes associated with democratization. As hypothesized, political control subscale scores showed a significant change toward internality, whereas personal control subscale scores showed no change. 1 Table, 12 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7044

Tseëlon, Efrat, What Is Beautiful Is Bad: Physical Attractiveness as Stigma, Journal for the Theory of Social Behaviour, 1992, 22, 3, Sept, 295-309.

¶ In the social-psychological literature, physical attractiveness is associated with positive personality characteristics, especially for women. It is argued here, however, that physical attractiveness can also function as a stigma; ie, women are stigmatized by the very expectation that they be beautiful. This argument is supported by Erving Goffman's position that women are constantly on stage & permanently insecure about their temporary beauty (Stigma, Englewood Cliffs: Prentice Hall, 1963). Their devalued bodies permit them to change themselves by unnatural means–cosmetics, diets, & surgery. The argument is also supported by psychoanalytical theory, in which beauty is worn as a disguise for not possessing a phallus. 65 References. M. Pflum (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7045

Wagner, Christine Cecilia (Syracuse U, NY 13244), Rediscovering Memorial Day: Politics, Patriotism and Gender, * Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 6, Dec, 2126-A-2127-A.

Available from UMI, Ann Arbor, MI. Order No. DA9229704.

93Z7046

Wagner, Hans-Josef (Freien U Berlin, D-1000 19 Federal Republic Germany), Identität und Emergenz (Identity and Emergence), Zeitschrift für Sozialisationsforschung und Erziehungssoziologie, 1992, 12, 3, July, 194-203. (GER)

¶ The question of how the subject-person is formed as the result of his acting & processing new experiences on a temporal plane is unanswered by most theories of identity & socialization. Here, an attempt is made to integrate the concepts of time, emergent elements, & subjectivity into the theory of identity, proceeding from George Herbert Mead's pragmatic-naturalistic background in The Philosophy of the Present (La Salle, Ill: Open Court, 1932) & other works. Mead's philosophy of time & his model of a dialectical relationship between determination & emergence are of key importance. The definition of the concept of the subject-person & the relationship between identity & subjectivity are also reviewed. 24 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7047

Weinberg, Richard A., Scarr, Sandra & Waldman, Irwin D. (Instit Child Development U Minnesota, Minneapolis 55455), The Minnesota Transracial Adoption Study: A Follow-Up of IQ Test Performance at Adolescence, Intelligence, 1992, 16, 1, Jan-Mar, 117-135.

¶ A 10-year follow-up study of transracial adoptive families in Minn (original N = 101) tested changes in IQ scores & academic achievement in black, interracial (one black parent) adopted children, other adopted adolescents, & in the families' biological offspring. Data were gathered via adoption records, family interviews, school test data, & various cognitive & personality measures. Adopted children in these families had scored 10 IQ points higher than the average in this region when tested 10 years ago. However, changes in the test norms were reflected in the current decline in scores for both parents & children, regardless of adoptive status. Levels of academic achievement, & aptitude percentiles remained unchanged for reading & vocabulary, with a slight decrease in math. These levels were slightly above national norms, but considerably below those attained by their biological siblings. The expectations of the original study are reconfirmed: ie, IQ test & academic performances are enhanced for black & interracial children reared in a social environment representing a testing school culture. 6 Tables, 24 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7048

Wolf, K. H. (18 Acacia St, Eastwood Sydney New South Wales 2122 Australia), Concatenation Diagrams in Personality Typology: Examining Enneagrams, Social Behavior and Personality, 1992, 20, 2, 101-110.

¶ In personality typological studies, enneagrams are used to model actual & potential interrelationships based on nine factors, parameters, or variables (FPVs). However, psychological-sociological research has to deal with so many FPVs that the oversimplistic enneagrams & similar conceptual figures do not reveal all possible interconnections. When all known FPVs are integrated, many hundreds of additional complexities become obvious. Several linkage or concatenation diagrams useful in handling more than just nine (=ennea-), or multiples thereof, FPVs are described. It is contended that psychological-sociological "systems" are as complex as any of the earth science-based complexes, eg, the worldwide ecological systems (Gaia-type) that are controlled by "innumerable" FPVs. As such, investigations must go far beyond simplistic enneagrams. 2 Figures, 13 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7049

Woodard, Joseph Keith (Dept Politics Brock U, Saint Catharines Ontario L2S 3A1), Extravagance and Mediocrity of Virtue: Their Divergence and the Possibility of Demagoguery, Political Communication, 1992, 9, 2, Apr-June, 123-141.

¶ The ambiguous experience of virtue as both extravagant & mediocre in Plato's dialogue Gorgias is a paradox in ethics. Socrates supported moderation & contended that virtue is knowledge, while the demagogue Callicles advocated insatiable self-indulgence. Although Socrates's rhetorical victory relied on unexamined assumptions in Callicles's position, either side seems reasonable based on experience in the realm of public spiritedness. It is suggested that a recognition of the priority of the object can clarify this & other corollary ethical paradoxes. While harmless moderation only achieves self-preservation, moral extravagance promotes the publicly useful. Virtuousness in itself is dependent on the object of the efforts it serves. Aristotle's & Plato's stands on the notion of virtue, the function of virtue in the regime, & the distinction in the motives to tyranny are also examined in this context. 28 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

73 cognitive/interpretive sociologies, symbolic interactionism & ethnomethodology

93Z7050

Adelman, Mara B. (Dept Communication Studies Northwestern U, Evanston IL 60208-2236), Sustaining Passion: Eroticism and Safe-Sex Talk, Archives of Sexual Behavior, 1992, 21, 5, Oct, 481-494.

¶ In light of the AIDS (acquired immune deficiency syndrome) epidemic & the necessity for safe-sex practices, the topic of caution & prevention is an emerging & critical discourse for the sexual encounter. Yet if this discourse is not to defy passion, the study of sexual linguistics must be grounded within the realm of erotic reality. Here, three themes of eroticism & their implications for sexual interaction are explored: identity, context, & danger. Linguistic & relational constraints for enacting such a discourse are identified, accompanied by a critique of the treatment of erotic discourse in educational programs & the media. 40 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7051

Attardo, Salvatore & Chabanne, Jean-Charles (Purdue U, West Lafayette IN 47907), Jokes as a Text Type, Humor, 1992, 5, 1-2, 165-176.

¶ In an attempt to define the "text type" joke, a set of features shared by all jokes is outlined. Basic textual patterns of jokes are narrative texts ending with a punch line, question-answer structures, one-sentence verbal jokes, mixed-code messages, micronarratives, economical length, cooperative texts, & fictitious settings. Seven textuality requirements of a joke are examined: cohesion, coherence, intentionality, acceptability, informativity, situationality, & intertextuality. 24 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7052

Bakaert, Stefan, Een interpretatieve kritiek op het etnomethodologisch behaviourisme (An Interpretative Critique of Ethnomethodological Behaviorism), Tijdschrift voor Sociologie, 1992, 13, 2, 221-261. (DUT)

¶ In ethnomethodology, the controversy between Harold Garfinkel's & H. Sacks's "On Formal Structures of Practical Actions" (in McKinney, J. C. [Ed], & Tiryakian, E. A. [Ed], Theoretical Sociology: Perspectives and Developments, New York: Appleton-Century-Crofts, 1970, 337-366) & Aaron Cicourel's "Ethnomethodology" (in Seabeok, T. A. [Ed], Current Trends in Linguistics, Vol. 12, The Hague: Mouton, 1974, 1563-1605) is well publicized but poorly debated. While Cicourel is partial to cognitive sociology, Garfinkel & most other ethnomethodologists & conversation analysts are anticognitive. Garfinkel's position strongly resembles pragmatism & analytical philosophy, sharing their main defects: a radical, poorly thought out theory of meaning & a one-dimensional concept of reality, incapable of explaining everyday life. Cicourel's approach is better suited to the tasks of ethnomethodology. However, both approaches have merit due to the dual structure of interpretation, & should be integrated. 57 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7053

Borkenau, Peter & Ostendorf, Fritz (Abteilung Psychologie U Bielefeld, D-4800 Federal Republic Germany), Social Desirability Scales as Moderator and Suppressor Variables, European Journal of Personality, 1992, 6, 3, Sept, 199-214.

¶ Self-report personality scales are particularly subject to social desirability bias. To study the effectiveness of social desirability as a moderator or suppressor variable, 129 male & 171 female German adults were measured on the 5 major personality domains & also completed A. L. Edward's Social Desirability (SD) Scale, D. P. Crowne's & D. Marlowe's SD Scale, the Lie Scale of the Eysenck Personality Inventory, & the Sets of Four scales. Three acquaintances accompanying each S provided independent personality ratings on the S. In examining moderation, all correlations between self-ratings & observer ratings on the personality measures were significant. Self-rating & observer rating correlations were significantly higher for Ss with low SD scores on the Sets of Four scale, but not for the other SD measures. SD moderator effects were present only for neuroticism. Predicting observer ratings with moderated regression equations yielded positive & negative moderator terms with the same frequency, & none of the measures were effective suppressors. It appears that researchers & Ss may hold different views on what responses to SD scales indicate, & that the S's tendency to impression management may not have been activated in this research setting. 6 Tables, 39 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7054

Clark, Colin & Pinch, Trevor (c/o Pinch–Dept Science & Technology Studies Cornell U, Ithaca NY 14853-2501), The Anatomy of a Deception: Fraud and Finesse in the Mock Auction Sales 'Con', Qualitative Sociology, 1992, 15, 2, summer, 151-175.

¶ Audio &/or videotape recordings of "mock auction" sales confidence games ("con") in GB are analyzed to identify the various rhetorical & performative strategies employed by the seller/deceiver to accomplish sales success. Two features that distinguish this con from others are (1) sales are obtained from a crowd of shoppers, & (2) victims rarely complain after they have been deceived. The principal skills used by these salespeople to obtain sales & to manage the audiences' quietude are examined, & it is concluded that the mock auction is, fundamentally, a social & interactional accomplishment. 1 Appendix, 25 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7055

Cooper, Geoff (CRICT Brunel U, Uxbridge Middlesex UB8 3PH England), Talking to Others: Ethnomethodology's 'Foundational Respecification', History of the Human Sciences, 1992, 5, 2, May, 131-140.

¶ A review article on a book edited by G. Button, Ethnomethodology and the Human Sciences (Cambridge: Cambridge U Press, 1991 [see listing in IRPS No. 67]). The compilation concentrates on ethnomethodology's "respecification of foundational matters" for sociology & the human sciences generally. The text attempts to reach beyond the boundaries of its own intellectual community to identify its relevance for a range of issues in a wider domain. The thematic chapters follow a common narrative structure consisting of a debate, an issue, a problem or set of questions, & the scope of respecificational relevance thereby indicated, followed by a discussion of the impact of ethnomethodology on such debates. It is suggested that the collection reflects an embattled quality resulting in a tension derived from ethnomethodology's proclamation of relevance for other forms of discourse that lie beyond its boundaries &, at the same time, its display of concern that those boundaries should be clearly identified so that the version of ethnomethodology proposed can be safeguarded from redescription or incorporation. A lack of engagement with recent intellectual currents that can be seen as both challenging & supporting various aspects of the ethnomethodological project is also noted. The work's primary value is that, in clearly setting out some of the parameters of ethnomethodology's distinctive orientation to the study of the social, it facilitates the articulation of similarities & differences, a crucial component of such a process. S. Millett (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7056

Corsaro, William A. (Dept Sociology Indiana U, Bloomington 47405), Interpretive Reproduction in Children's Peer Cultures, Social Psychology Quarterly, 1992, 55, 2, June, 160-177.

¶ An interpretive approach to childhood socialization is offered that extends traditional psychological views of human development by demonstrating that socialization is a collective process occurring in a social rather than a private realm. Through their participation in cultural routines, children creatively appropriate information from the adult world to produce their own unique peer cultures. This process of interpretive reproduction enables children to become a part of the larger culture. 1 Figure, 88 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7057

De Dreu, Carsten K. W., Emans, Ben J. M. & Van de Vliert, Evert (Dept Psychology U Groningen, NL-9712 TS Netherlands), Frames of Reference and Cooperative Social Decision-Making, UM European Journal of Social Psychology, 1992, 22, 3, May-June, 297-302.

¶ Cooperative decision making is examined as a function of frames of reference (ie, the decisionmakers' cognitive representation of their potential outcomes), where choices affect not only one's own outcomes but also the outcomes of at least one interdependent other. An own frame (gains/losses) X other's frame factorial design was used with cooperation as the main dependent variable, drawing on data for 56 psychology sophomores who were randomly assigned to conditions (24 decomposed computerized games). The results corroborate the hypotheses that an own-gain frame induces less own outcome-oriented cognitive activity than an own-loss frame, & that an other's-loss frame induces more cooperation than an other's-gain frame, though only in case of an own-gain frame. Allocation results, revealing that these effects were primarily due to relatively high weights accorded to other's (negative) outcomes, suggest a two-phase process. No evidence was found to support the prediction that an own-gain frame would produce more cooperation than an own-loss frame. 1 Table, 16 References. S. Millett (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7058

Endler, Norman S. & Parker, James D. A. (Dept Psychology York U, North York Ontario M3J 1P3), Interactionism Revisited: Reflections on the Continuing Crisis in the Personality Area, European Journal of Personality, 1992, 6, 3, Sept, 177-198.

¶ The trait model has dominated personality research & theory since the 1920s. Situationism in personality theory, focusing on external, environmental factors as the major determinants of personality, has challenged the trait approach since the late 1960s. In the mid-1970s, interactionism (the simultaneous assessment of person & situation variables) had been taken as the means to solve the crisis in the personality area & reconcile the perceived weaknesses in the trait & situationism camps, but in practice, interactionism is little used. This may be occurring because more traditional statistics (eg, ANOVAs) do not lend themselves to studying the reciprocal effects of variables, & more complex procedures (eg, LISREL) rely heavily on theoretical constructs. The development of an interactional model for the study of anxiety is examined as an example of the theoretical, research, & practical benefits of the interactional approach. 144 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7059

Haslam, S. Alexander & Turner, John C. (Dept Psychology Australian National U, Canberra ACT 2601), Context-Dependent Variation in Social Stereotyping 2: The Relationship between Frame of Reference, Self-Categorization and Accentuation, UM European Journal of Social Psychology, 1992, 22, 3, May-June, 251-277.

¶ (For abstract of Part 1, see SA 41:1/93Z4373.) Aspects of the analysis of stereotyping provided by self-categorization theory are examined, using questionnaire data for 50 university students enrolled in a first-year psychology course. Ss were assigned to 1 of 3 experimental conditions that sought to manipulate shared category membership either by extension of Ss' frame of reference or by extremitization of target & S with respect to that frame. The results support the experimental hypotheses that variation in accentuation & stereotype content is a function of changes in Ss' frame of reference, which either extremitized their own position & that of a target or extended the range of alternative positions. It is concluded that the findings provide support for the argument that stereotypes are not inherently rigid, but rather, are responsive to features of the social comparative context in which they are produced. As such, the prevailing view that the processes of stereotyping lead inevitably to stereotype persistence is challenged. 6 Tables, 2 Figures, 64 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7060

Hewstone, Miles, Johnston, Lucy & Aird, Peter (Dept Psychology U Bristol, BS8 1TN England), Cognitive Models of Stereotype Change: (2) Perceptions of Homogeneous and Heterogeneous Groups, UM European Journal of Social Psychology, 1992, 22, 3, May-June, 235-249.

¶ (See abstract of Part 1 in SA 41:2.) R. Weber's & J. Crocker's prediction ("Cognitive Processes in the Revision of Stereotypic Beliefs," Journal of Personality & Social Psychology, 1983, 45, 961-977) that conversion regarding occupational stereotypes might occur when the stereotyped group was seen as heterogeneous is explored. Weber & Crocker reasoned that, for heterogeneous groups, minor discrepancies (weak disconfirmers) would not be seen as disconfirming, but would be absorbed into the heterogeneity of the group. An analysis of questionnaire data from 80 undergraduates at Bristol U (England) confirm the advantage of a concentrated over a dispersed pattern for homogeneous groups & their equivalence for heterogeneous groups, if their occupational groups were also perceived as heterogeneous. Ss subtyped extreme disconfirmers in both homogeneous & heterogeneous groups. Some evidence was found for conversion in the concentrated/homogeneous conditions, although subtyping in that condition was also found. It is concluded that the pattern of results across dependent measures indicates a number of differences in how people perceive information about homogeneous & heterogeneous groups, & that these do have an impact on stereotype change. 2 Tables, 1 Figure, 20 References. S. Millett (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7061

Holtgraves, Thomas (Dept Psychological Science Ball State U, Muncie IN 47306 [Tel: 317-285-1716]), The Linguistic Realization of Face Management: Implications for Language Production and Comprehension, Person Perception, and Cross-Cultural Communication, UM Social Psychology Quarterly, 1992, 55, 2, June, 141-159.

¶ The interpersonal underpinnings of language use have been explained using Erving Goffman's concepts of face & face-work (eg, see Interaction Ritual: Essays on Face to Face Behavior, Garden City, NY: Anchor, 1967). Most notable in this regard is the research by Penelope Brown & Stephen Leinson (Politeness: Some Universals in Language Usage, Cambridge, England: Cambridge U Press, 1987), who have operationalized face-work in terms of specific linguistic strategies & linked face concerns with the major interpersonal dimensions of social interaction. After summarizing this research, it is suggested that face-management theory has the potential to explain how speakers will phrase all remarks that have interpersonal implications, as well as certain features of related communication phenomena, eg, language comprehension, person perception, & cross-cultural communication. 3 Tables, 83 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7062

Koeske, Gary F. & Koeske, Randi Daimon (School Social Work U Pittsburgh, PA 15268), Underestimation of Social Support Buffering, The Journal of Applied Behavioral Science, 1991, 27, 4, Dec, 475-489.

¶ It is generally regarded that informal social support helps reduce the negative consequences of stress. Although social psychological studies have not validated this assumption empirically, it is argued here that skepticism regarding the importance of this hypothesized support buffering interaction is misplaced. Reasons why the significance of this buffering interaction may have been underestimated in earlier research, including hypotheses concerning the effect of stress severity on buffering, are considered. 1 Table, 3 Figures, 41 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7063

Lash, Scott (Dept Sociology U Lancaster, LA1 4YL England), Ästhetische Dimensionen Reflexiver Modernisierung (Reflexive Modernization: The Aesthetic Dimension), Soziale Welt, 1992, 43, 3, 261-277. (GER)

¶ A contrastive analysis is presented of two approaches to the concepts of reflexivity & modernity: (1) Ulrich Beck's Risikogesellschaft ([Risk Society] Frankfurt, 1986 [for abstract of English translation, see IRPS No. 66/93c01657]) follows the Englightenment tradition of modernization as a learning process; & (2) Anthony Giddens's The Consequences of Modernity (see IRPS No. 53/90c01280) adopts the view of classical sociology whereby the essential question becomes the establishment of a posttraditional social order. Both perspectives are criticized for concentrating too heavily on the cognitive, rather than aesthetic, aspects of culture. Zygmunt Bauman's Modernity and Ambivalence (Cambridge, 1991) presents a fresh approach stressing the elements of contingency & ambivalence. The limits of reflexivity are discussed. 45 References. M. Meeks (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7064

Lynch, Michael & Peyrot, Mark (Dept Sociology Boston U, MA 02215), Introduction: A Reader's Guide to Ethnomethodology, UM Qualitative Sociology, 1992, 15, 2, summer, 113-122.

¶ In an introdution to this first of two special journal issues on ethnomethodology (see related abstracts in SA 41:2), the contemporary promise of this approach for scholars in sociolinguistics, education, science, literary criticism, sociology of deviance, & applied ethics, is discussed. Ethnomethodology can be used to describe tacit features of textual argumentation & explication, or to analyze spoken & nonverbal actions in both informal & institutional settings. Confusions, frustrations, & other overarching concerns that commonly arise when one first encounters this approach, eg, hyperrealism & jargon, are briefly discussed. 12 References. M. Maguire (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7065

Macbeth, Douglas (Dept Educational Policy & Leadership Ohio State U, Columbus 43210-1177), Classroom "Floors": Material Organizations as a Course of Affairs, UM Qualitative Sociology, 1992, 15, 2, summer, 123-150.

¶ A revised version of SA 37:6/89S21555/ASA/1989/5371. 4 Figures, 32 References. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7066

Maynard, Douglas W. & Marlaire, Courtney L. (Dept Sociology Indiana U, Bloomington 47405), Good Reasons for Bad Testing Performance: The Interactional Substrate of Educational Exams, UM Qualitative Sociology, 1992, 15, 2, summer, 177-202.

¶ Building on earlier research that characterized children's examination results as collaborative productions by examiners & examines (see SA 38:4/90V8401), explored here is a single subtest in the Woodcock Johnson Psychoeducational Battery. The "blending" subtest, in which the clinician pronounces word parts & then the child verbalizes the whole word, is designed to assess a child's broad cognitive ability & reading aptitude. Intensive exploration of the blending subtest as administered by 3 clinicians, each paired with 10 children ages 3-8, underscores the interactional substrate of educational testing & reveals the ways that child's "accountable score" is only arrived at through negotiation, & is not simply an objective, valid, or verifiable measure of ability. 2 Figures, 1 Appendix, 39 References. M. Maguire (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7067

McBroom, William H. & Reed, Fred W. (U Montana, Missoula 59812), Toward a Reconceptualization of Attitude-Behavior Consistency, UM Social Psychology Quarterly, 1992, 55, 2, June, 205-216.

¶ In US social & behavioral science, initial expectations of strong asymmetrical causality between attitude & behavior has not been borne out, & contemporary research suggests that attitude-behavior consistency is a highly complex phenomenon. Here, some overlooked features of the attitude-behavior relationship are identified, & a call is made for longitudinal rather than cross-sectional research. Empirical examples are offered from a survey of marijuana attitudes held by 243 individuals in 1975 & 1980. 5 Tables, 44 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7068

Olvera Serrano, Margarita (Dept Sociología U Autónoma Metropolitana, Azcapotzalco 02000 Mexico DF), El problema de la intersubjetividad en Alfred Schütz (The Problem of Social Intersubjectivity in Alfred Schütz), Sociológica, 1990, 5, 14, Sept-Dec, 131-153. (SPA)

¶ Explored are Alfred Schütz's views (eg, see El problema de la realidad social [The Problem of Social Reality], Buenos Aires: Editores Amorrortu, 1979) regarding the principal tasks of sociology, which he developed drawing on the work of Edmund Husserl & Max Weber. Schütz proposed that sociology should focus on social interaction in everyday life, with special attention to the problems of intersubjectivity. Problems in integrating Husserl's influence in Schütz's reconstruction of the social world are considered. 14 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7069

Travers, Andrew (Dept Sociology U Exeter, EX4 4QJ England), Strangers to Themselves: How Interactants Are Other than They Are, UM The British Journal of Sociology, 1992, 43, 4, Dec, 601-637.

¶ An analysis of sixteen literary frames suggests that Durkheimian anomie neither destroys a frame's integrity nor renders it unintelligible, as Harold Garfinkel & Erving Goffman would have predicted. On the contrary, anomie actually intensifies the frame. In addition, the selves in these highly ritualized frames are not routine selves, but are in fact "strangers to themselves." The idea that interactants can be strangers to themselves represents an extension of Garfinkel's & Goffman's work on interactional self-hood, but problematizes assumptions of the interactional sociology that they pioneered, since strangers to themselves would likely disappear in normal sociological appearances. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7070

Werner, Carol M., Brown, Barbara B., Altman, Irwin & Staples, Brenda (Dept Psychology U Utah, Salt Lake City 84112), Close Relationships in Their Physical and Social Contexts: A Transactional Perspective, Journal of Social and Personal Relationships, 1992, 9, 3, Aug, 411-431.

¶ Arguing that dyadic relationships must be examined in their physical, sociocultural, & temporal contexts, ethnographic accounts are presented of courtship, wedding, & placemaking practices in two different societies–Taiwan & Wales. Results indicate that: (1) social & environmental rituals often make salient the couple members' relationship to one another & their degree of obligation to their families & society, (2) events almost always involve significant use of the physical environment in terms of the location of events, the exchange of gifts, or the use of special clothing & objects; & (3) activities occurring during these stages often symbolize & forecast future relationships between dyad members & between the dyad & its family & kin. Although network researchers often take into account the dyad's social context, these data suggest that physical & temporal qualities are also important. 42 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

94 life cycle & biography

93Z7071

Schweitzer, Friedrich (Neckarhalde 19, D-7400 Tübingen Federal Republic Germany), Lebensgeschichte und Religion. Eine vergessene Dimension pädagogischer Biographieforschung (Life History and Religion. A Forgotten Dimension of Educational Biographical Research), Zeitschrift für Pädagogik, 1992, 38, 2, Mar, 235-252. (GER)

¶ A consideration of the relationship between life history & religion & its implications for education. It is demonstrated that individual religion (rather than the religion of church or society) is more related to traditional education, & should be recognized as a factor in educational biographical research. Hermeneutical & empirical arguments are advanced to show that developments in religion can be considered a general human phenomenon for research purposes. 83 References. R. Logsdon (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7072

Settersten, Richard Alan, Jr. (Northwestern U, Evanston IL 60208), Informal Age Deadlines for Life-Course Transitions, Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 6, Dec, 2121-A.

Available from UMI, Ann Arbor, MI. Order No. DA9229995.

0400 group interactions
10 social group identity & intergroup relations

93Z7073

Adam, Heribert (GSB/UCT, Capetown South Africa), Israel and South Africa: Conflict Resolution in Ethnic States, Telos, 1989-1990, 82, winter, 27-46.

¶ The frequent comparison between Israel & South Africa has degenerated into a weapon in the ideological warfare that has existed since a UN resolution equated Zionism with racism. Focus on the close economic & military collaboration between the two popular outcasts has further obscured structural differences. These differences are explored here, particularly in the neglected area of resistance politics & developments in the subordinate population. Dissecting the strategies of the Palestine Liberation Organization & the African National Congress, & speculating about the options & outcomes of ethnic conflicts in two deeply divided societies, tests the limits of comparative analysis. Theoretical insights from the ethnic relations literature are applied to two cases representing the greatest moral & political challenges of conflict regulation in the contemporary world. The Israeli situation is used as a backdrop to highlight South African developments. Modified AA

93Z7074

Ahmad, Waqar I. U. (U Bradford, West Yorkshire BD7 1DP England), The Maligned Healer: The 'Hakim' and Western Medicine, New Community, 1992, 18, 4, July, 521-536.

¶ During the 1980s, GB experienced an unprecedented increase in alternative or complementary therapies, but still expressed concern about the practices of one type of healer, the hakim. Here, these concerns about "Easter medicine" are explored, examining such issues as: the hakim's education & training, treatment regimens, & client groups; concepts of health & illness prevalent in the Asian communities, & their relevance to the choice of practitioner & implications for health; the status & role of hikmat therapy & other alternative treatments in the context of health care in the Indo Pakistani subcontinent & in the UK. It is concluded that alternative treatments are important areas for further study, particularly as related to the social & structural context of ethnic minorities' health status & access to health care in GB. 46 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7075

Allen, Richard L. & Thornton, Michael C. (Dept Communication U Michigan, Ann Arbor 48109), Social Structural Factors, Black Media and Stereotypical Self-Characterizations among African Americans, National Journal of Sociology, 1992, 6, 1, summer, 41-75.

¶ The relationship between various social-structural factors & black media & their influence on the holding of both negative & positive intragroup stereotypes are examined using interview data collected from a national sample of 865 African Americans as part of the 1980 National Survey of Black Americans. Findings indicate that income, education, occupational status, religiosity, & place of socialization were important factors influencing the degree of endorsement of positive & negative stereotypes. Exposure to the black print media militated against the holding of negative stereotypes. Exposure to black TV programming induced the respondents to accept both negative & positive stereotypes. 4 Tables, 2 Figures, 72 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7076

Anthias, Floya (School Social Sciences Thames Polytechnic Churchill House, Woolwich London SE18 6PF England), Connecting 'Race' and Ethnic Phenomena, Sociology, 1992, 26, 3, Aug, 421-438.

¶ An attempt is made to link the concepts of race, racism, & ethnic phenomena within a multiculturist context that seeks to redress racial disadvantage by providing for ethnic difference. It is argued that the connection between race & ethnic categories is fundamental, yet the connection between fighting racism & ethnic pluralism is more problematic than this position implies. Ethnicity & racism are different but connected discourses for articulating collectivity & belonginess, & serve diverse political interests, including class & nation building. The argument that they can be explained with reference to generic race or ethnic processes is rejected. Their understanding as concrete social relations requires consideration of gender, class, & state processes; the situation in GB is offered as illustration. 56 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7077

Blackman, Margaret B. (Dept Anthropology State U New York Coll, Brockport 14420), Returning Home: Life Histories and the Native Community, Journal of Narrative and Life History, 1992, 2, 1, 49-59.

¶ Analysis of two published life histories of Native American women invites reflection on how these books have been "read" in their native communities & their impact on their narrators & on native-initiated life-history research in these same communities. Also considered is whether anthropologist authors can write life histories for a culturally diverse audience, or whether life stories must be presented differently to multiple audiences. 9 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7078

Blaut, J. M. (Dept Geography U Illinois, Chicago 60680), The Theory of Cultural Racism, Antipode, 1992, 24, 4, Oct, 289-299.

¶ It is argued that, whereas the dominant racist theory of the early nineteenth century was founded on a biblical argument, & from 1850-1950 it was based on a biological argument, today's racist theory is mainly a historical argument grounded in the idea of culture. The concept of cultural racism is explained, & it is shown why it supplanted biological racism as the dominant ideology. Also offered is an explanation of why universities today contain racism but no racists, & illustrative examples of modern cultural-racist theories are given. 14 References. W. Howard

93Z7079

Bonnett, Alastair (Dept Geography U British Columbia, Vancouver V6T 1W5), Anti-Racism in 'White' Areas: The Example of Tyneside, Antipode, 1992, 24, 1, Jan, 1-15.

¶ The development of antiracist consciousness among educators in Tyneside, a predominantly white metropolitan area in northeast England, is discussed, drawing on interviews with 25 antiracist teachers & lecturers conducted in 1988. The notion that the emergence of antiracism in white areas can be adequately conceptualized in terms of antiracism's move from multiracial locations is rejected. It is argued that the development of antiracist attitudes among Tyneside educators must be examined in terms of their experiences of working & living in the area. 51 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7080

Bossuyt, Marc J. (U Instelling Antwerpen, B-2610 Wilrijk Belgium), The United Nations and the Definition of Minorities, Plural Societies, 1991, 21, 1-2, 129-136.

¶ A discussion of the definition of minority within the UN proposed by Jules Deschênes, member of the Sub-Commission on the Prevention of Discrimination & the Protection of Minorities. Amendments to former UN articles specifying civil & political rights should include the right of persons to use their language. Minority rights should be viewed apart from rights of indigenous populations. Deschênes differentiates between numerical minority & minority by virtue of nondominant position. He proposes that: geographical area & numerical population of minority be specified; the origin of the minority be considered important; & only definitions for special protection be given, rather than definitions of the minorities to be protected. J. Sadler

93Z7081

Brewer, John D. (Dept Sociology & Social Policy Queen's U Belfast, BT7 1NN Northern Ireland), Sectarianism and Racism, and Their Parallels and Differences, Ethnic and Racial Studies, 1992, 15, 3, July, 352-364.

¶ The literature regarding conflict & inequality in Northern Ireland is drawn on to differentiate between the concepts of sectarianism & racism. Points of convergence between sectarianism & racism include: (1) production of structured social inequalities, (2) categorization by social markers, (3) roots in colonial exploitation, & (4) expression through pejorative & discriminatory attitudes. Examined is the evolution of the Northern Ireland conflict, placing discrimination against Catholics in a colonial context. It is concluded that sectarianism is experienced in Northern Ireland on three levels: ideas, individual action, & social structure. 35 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7082

Broeckaert, Bert, Positieve actie-plannen voor migranten: een goed idee? (Positive Action Plans for Ethnic Minorities: A Good Idea?), Tijdschrift voor Sociologie, 1992, 13, 2, 189-220. (DUT)

¶ US affirmative action plans came into being in the 1960s under the Lyndon Johnson administration as a way of correcting past discrimination against ethnic minorities by lowering competitive barriers. Belgium is currently considering adopting similar measures. Here, various deontological arguments in favor of preferential treatment for minorities are refuted. The advantages & disadvantages of affirmative action programs are balanced against each other, giving special attention to the costs of these programs, resentment by the majority ethnic group, & the dubious success of such measures in the US. It is concluded that Belgium should seek to find alternate means of eradicating discrimination other than by granting preferential treatment to minorities. 71 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7083

Broman, Clifford L. (Dept Sociology Michigan State U, East Lansing 48824-1111), The Black Experience: Attributing the Causes of Labor Market Success, National Journal of Sociology, 1992, 6, 1, summer, 77-90.

¶ Data from the 1980 National Survey of Black Americans (N = 2,107 respondents [Rs]) are used to explore how African Americans make sense of their labor market experience, testing hypotheses derived from attribution theory. It is found that Rs' attributions about labor market success are not self-serving. The central factor in the type of attributions made is Rs' level of self-esteem: these with high self-esteem reject both external rationales & talent or effort as reasons for their labor market status. It is concluded that race is a declining factor of significance in labor market outcomes. 6 Tables, 15 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7084

Brown, Ursula M. (New York U, NY 10003), A Study of Racial Identity, Conflict, Self-Esteem and Experiential/Physical Factors in Young Adults with One Black and One White Parent, * Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 6, Dec, 2116-A-2117-A.

Available from UMI, Ann Arbor, MI. Order No. DA922937.

93Z7085

Bútorová, Zora & Bútora, Martin (Center Social Studies Comenius U, CS-82109 Bratislava Czechoslovakia [Tel: 42-7-647-45; FAX: 42-7-654-92]), Wariness towards Jews as an Expression of Post-Communist Panic: The Case of Slovakia, Sociologický Časopis, 1992, 28, special issue, Aug, 92-106.

¶ Anti-Semitism in Czechoslovakia, particularly Slovakia, is examined through review of several representative surveys. The population of Slovakia demonstrates higher wariness toward Jews than the Czechs, even though in recent times the Jewish population in Slovakia has decreased. Anti-Jewish attitudes in Slovakia can be seen as a metaphorical & condensed expression of an antiliberal orientation behind which lies social & political insecurity, frustration, authoritarianism, cultural isolation, & general national intolerance. The role of a cultural code & the historical consciousness of the Slovak population in the development of anti-Semitic attitudes are discussed. 5 Figures, 29 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7086

Carby, Hazel V. (Yale U, New Haven CT 06520), Policing the Black Woman's Body in an Urban Context, Critical Inquiry, 1992, 18, 4, summer, 738-755.

¶ It is argued that urbanization processes had gender- & class-specific consequences for the production of African-American culture & for the cultural representation of black females (Fs), 1900-1950. The migration of black Fs between rural & urban areas & between northern & southern cities during the late nineteenth century produced a series of moral panics, which resulted in representations of black F migrants as sexually degenerate & socially dangerous. A product of bourgeois ideology, these representations were circulated by institutions as well as individuals. An article by Frances Kellor ("Southern Colored Girls in the North: The Problem of Their Protection," Charities, 1905, 18 Mar, 584-585), then general director of the Intermunicipal Committee on Household Research in New York City, demonstrates that, as early as 1905, the major discursive elements were already in place that would define black F urban behavior as pathological. W. Howard (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7087

Castoriadis, Cornelius, Reflections on Racism, Thesis Eleven, 1992, 32, 1-12.

Translated from French by David Ames Curtis.

¶ Reflections are offered on racism & the issue of the Other & its recognition in relations between cultures & in social life. It is maintained that racism, the logic of which aims for the annihilation of the Other, manifests the structure of domination & the dynamics of hate & self-hate The history of racism in several cultures is discussed from a historico-political & psychoanalytic perspective, & it is concluded that racism has become one of the major practical problems of our era & has reached the point of paroxysm in the antinomy that exists within Western culture. 6 References. W. Howard (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7088

Čičak-Chand, Ružica, Naznake o nekim etničkim manjinama u Kanadi (Notes on Some Ethnic Groups in Canada), Migracijske teme, 1991, 7, 1, May, 1-12. (SCR)

¶ A historical sketch is presented of four different immigrant groups in Canada, exemplifying four different patterns of assimilation. The Germans are the oldest & most numerous minority in Canada, aside from Anglo- & French-Canadians. The Ukrainians are an especially self-conscious group, playing a key role in creating the modern Canadian pluralistic society. The Croats, in contrast, typify the pattern for immigrants from a smaller nation, although they are the fourth largest Croatian community outside Croatia. South Asians are one of the fastest-growing segments of the population, noted for their economic success, which, because of its high visibility, may be threatened by racial discrimination, especially in times of crisis. 19 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7089

Davidson, Jeanette R. (Dept Sociology & Social Work U North Texas, Denton 76203-3826), White Clinician-Black Client: Relationship Problems and Recommendations for Change from a Social Influence Theory Perspective, Journal of Multicultural Social Work, 1992, 1, 4, 63-76.

¶ Due to the history of race relations in the US, potential problems exist in the white clinician-black client relationship. Some blacks enter the clinical process questioning the white clinician's expertise, trustworthiness, & attractiveness. To prevent early termination or an unsuccessful clinical relationship, clinicians could enhance their position by becoming better educated about black culture, individualizing the client within the clinical process, examining policy toward minorities at their agency, & changing policy, if necessary. 40 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7090

Davies, Christie (U Reading, Berkshire RG6 2AH England), Exploring the Thesis of the Self-Deprecating Jewish Sense of Humor,

Humor, 1991, 4, 2, 189-209.
¶ Jewish humor is self-denigrating in the very weak sense that Jews, like the members of most other minorities, frequently tell jokes about their own group. Although many Jewish jokes use scripts involving anti-Semitic stereotypes, their tone reveals that tellers are neither hostile to their own people nor inclined to support stereotypes. 84 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7091
De Jong, Wiebe & Verkuyten, Maykel (Dept Law Erasmus U Rotterdam, NL-3000 DR Netherlands), Positive Action Policy for Ethnic Minorities in the Netherlands, New Community, 1992, 18, 4, July, 591-602.
¶ As a contribution to the public policy debate in the Netherlands, results are reported of 2 interview studies that investigated the opinion of the Dutch population (N = 702 respondents) & of 39 managers in public sector companies regarding positive action programs for ethnic minorities In general, the data show that most people agree with positive action policies, but object to the consequences of these policies when they imply preferential treatment. 1 Table, 3 Figures, 9 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7092
Dianteill, Erwan (Ecole normale Cachan, 61 ave du Président Wilson F-94235 Cedex France), Les Associations d'immigrés comme lieux de reproduction "elargie" de l'identite-appartenance: l'exemple des associations espagnoles à Paris (The Associations of Immigrants as Places Where the Idea of Identity to a Community Can Be Reproduced and Extended: The Example of the Spanish Associations in Paris), Cahiers de Sociologie Economique et Culturelle, Ethnopsychologie, 1992, 17, June, 29-53. (FRE)
¶ The members of Spanish associations in Paris, France, reproduce their identity by engaging in processes that recall their homeland. These processes constitute the reproduction mode of identity-membership, modified in immigrant populations by cultural contact with the host society. Based on participant observation & interviews with members of 10 Parisian Spanish clubs, 3 main types of identification-reactivation procedures are identified. Besides the immigrant's appropriation of a collective space in the association's meeting place–decorated in traditional Spanish styles–their collective activities of food consumption, body language, & language exchanges all reinforce their Spanish heritage & identity. These activities also introduce Spanish cultural elements into the French mainstream culture. 1 Appendix, 17 References. Adapted from the souce document.

93Z7093
Dormon, James H. (Dept History U Southwestern Louisiana, Lafayette 70504), Louisiana's "Creoles of Color": Ethnicity, Marginality, and Identity, UM Social Science Quarterly, 1992, 73, 3, Sept, 615-626.
¶ From the postbellum years through the civil rights movement, the marginal status experienced by the Creoles of color in La has served as the primary basis of Creole ethnic identity. Recently however, the marginalized Creoles have sought a new basis of identity as part of the larger black community, while maintaining their traditions & distinctiveness as a special group within that community. 32 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7094
Engler, Carol A. (U Toledo, OH 43606-3390), Segregation of Blacks in American Higher Education, 1840 to 1992: Legal and Social Implications for Society, * Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 6, Dec, 2117-A.
Available from UMI, Ann Arbor, MI. Order No. DA9229628.

93Z7095
Fingard, Judith (Dalhousie U, Halifax Nova Scotia B3H 3J5), Race and Respectability in Victorian Halifax, The Journal of Imperial and Commonwealth History, 1992, 20, 2, May, 169-195.
¶ Norms of respectable behavior among Afro-Nova Scotians in late Victorian Halifax are examined, focusing on: (1) the black community's leadership; (2) the 1883 African Baptist Church's resolutions in favor of racially integrated schools; & (3) the 1892 campaign for the dismissal of an "improper" white teacher from an all-black public school. Four sources of the elite's perceived respectability are identified: involvement in the city's organizational life, religious involvement, respect from whites, & self-perception as worthy citizens. It is observed that respectability failed to mediate racial prejudice, especially as held by the white working & lower middle classes. Disappointed with respectability as an avenue to integration, Halifax's black leadership turned increasingly to separatism & racial unity. I. Shagrir

93Z7096
Ganguly, Keya (Carnegie-Mellon U, Pittsburgh PA 15213), Migrant Identities: Personal Memory and the Construction of Selfhood, Cultural Studies, 1992, 6, 1, Jan, 27-50.
¶ In an examination of the relationship among personal memory, cultural identity, & the constitution of social subjects, an ethnography of a community of immigrant Indians settled in NJ is used to understand that ways in which everyday recollections of the past provide the terms for ordinary people to construct & negotiate their selfhood. The analysis relates the lived experience of a particular racial & ethnic minority to larger social debates about subjectivity & representation in a unitary national imaginary. For a theoretical framework, recent discussions on the nature & context of minority discourse, cultural studies, & ethnographic theory are considered. 40 References. AA

93Z7097
Georgas, James (U Athens, GR-10679 Greece), Intrafamily Acculturation of Values in Greece, UM Journal of Cross-Cultural Psychology, 1991, 22, 4, Dec, 445-457.
¶ It is hypothesized that changing ecological & social factors should result in different degrees of acculturation of family values associated with the traditional hierarchical collectivist family system in Greece, between parents & their children. Analysis of results of a family values questionnaire administered to 226 3-person families (comprising mother, father, & son or daughter age 18) from Athens & several small communities indicates that: (1) values associated with hierarchical father-mother roles are rejected by young people from both Athens & small communities, (2) Athenian parents are in a middle position, & (3) parents from small communities still agree with these values. Gender is an important variable: daughters were more rejecting than sons of the traditional family hierarchical collectivistic structure, & fathers of daughters were more traditional than fathers of sons. Two stages in the acculturation of collectivist family values are delineated: rejection of the authority of the father, & active disobedience of paternal authority. 1 Table, 1 Figure, 20 References. Adapted from the source document

93Z7098
Goldberg, David & Hodes, Matthew (Regional Adolescent Unit Long Grove Hospital, Epsom Surrey KT19 8PU England), The Poison of Racism and the Self-Poisoning of Adolescents, UM Journal of Family Therapy, 1992, 14, 1, Feb, 51-67.
¶ Previous research & 3 case examples are reviewed to explore the effect of racism on families when children reach adolescence. Analysis indicates that racism may contribute to distortions of the process by which adolescents, especially girls, negotiate increased autonomy. It may also increase parental protectiveness, which adolescents resist, & may lead to conflict culminating in a crisis in which the adolescent attempts suicide. Symbolic aspects of racism, family & individual boundary maintenance, & suicide by overdosing are discussed, & some therapeutic implications considered. 52 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7099
Gundelach, Peter (Instit Statskundskab U Aarhus, DK-8000 C Denmark), Danskernes intolerance (The Intolerance of the Danes), Dansk Sociologi, 1992, 3, 2, June, 4-22. (DAN)
¶ To determine Danish attitudes toward immigrants, a secondary analysis was performed on data collected from 25 countries in Europe 1981-1983 & from 40 countries in 1990. Intolerance among Danes may be due to low educational level, relative deprivation, political populism, or authoritarian personalities. Although in different segments of the population these factors may be more or less responsible, socioeconomic position is generally more important. A comparison of Denmark with Norway &

0038-0202/93 $1.50

Sweden shows that in all three countries the increasing influx of immigrants over the past decade led to more intolerance. Political factors, including extreme rightist parties, are primarily responsible. 5 Tables, 21 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7100

Hammersley, Martyn (School Education Open U, Milton Keynes MK7 6AA England), A Response to Barry Troyna's "Children, 'Race' and Racism: The Limits of Research Policy", UM British Journal of Educational Studies, 1992, 40, 2, May, 174-177.

¶ Barry Troyna's failure to demonstrate skepticism toward qualitative research (see SA 40:4/92Y9871) is challenged. Premised on the assumption that such research lends superior insight into social reality, his argument begins from the position that the incidences of racial events are already known & that the results of quantitative research dealing with this matter can be rejected on that basis. Furthermore, the grounds on which he concludes that qualitative research has been, or would be, any more successful than quantitative work in giving access to the general nature of race relations in school are not clear. Drawing on other research dealing with racism in education, reasons for skepticism about the results of qualitative research are discussed. It is concluded that a solid research base for effective policy decisions in this field is not yet available. 7 References. S. Millett

93Z7101

Hein, Jeremy (Dept Sociology U Wisconsin, Eau Claire 54701), The Emergence of Ethnic Minorities in France: Market, State, and Life Course Needs among Immigrants and Refugees, Ethnic Groups, 1992, 93, 3, 135-149.

¶ Across much of Western Europe, immigrants once brought to work are forming permanent ethnic communities. Here, statistics drawn from the annual reports of the Social Service for the Aid of Emigrants in France are used to investigate how the transition from migrants to settlers has affected the social welfare needs of four populations over the period 1975-1986: North African & Iberian immigrants, Indochinese refugees, & Third World asylum seekers. At the individual level there is a cycle of needs between residence, social assistance, & other services related to the state, & those related to the family & the life course. Needs at the community level reflect the transition to permanent settlements: an increase in services related to the state & especially the family, & a decline in services related to the market. 4 Tables, 41 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7102

Heršak, Emil & Čičak-Chand, Ružica, Kanada: Multikulturalizam (Canada: Multiculturalism), Migracijske teme, 1991, 7, 1, May, 13-28. (SCR)

¶ Multiculturalism is a possible political solution for the problem of Canadian cultural pluralism, an anthropological condition that has developed more or less spontaneously. Proceeding from Bahu Abu-Laban's & Donald Mottershead's "Cultural Pluralism and Varieties of Ethnic Policies" (see SA 31:1/83M7485), four political models for cultural pluralism are contrasted: (1) corporative, eg, Switzerland & the former USSR; (2) nominal, eg, Paraguay & Iceland; (3) liberal, eg, the US; & (4) integrative, eg, Canada. A historical analysis of demographics shows that, over the last century, the proportion of citizens of British descent has fallen from 60% to 40%, while the share of French Canadians has remained constant at 30% & the remainder of the population is of immigrant origin from other countries. The key actor in the development of cultural pluralism was the growth of the French population in an otherwise British imperial context. The multicultural model that emerged from the political troubles of the 1960s may facilitate the adaptation of immigrants to Canada. Unless ethnic minorities find a definite role for their languages, multiculturalism will not stop linguistic assimilation; the situation in immigrants' home countries is important for their affirmation in Canada. 1 Table, 23 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7103

Hintjens, H. M. (Dept Politics U Exeter, EX4 4QJ England), Immigration and Citizenship Debates: Reflections on Ten Common Themes, International Migration/Migrations Internationales/Migraciones Internationales, 1992, 30, 1, Mar, 5-17.

¶ Recurrent themes in debates over granting citizenship & citizenship rights to immigrants in Western Europe are critically examined: (1) immigrants betray their home country; (2) immigrants are culturally alienated; (3) racial mixing is unnatural; (4) immigrants are merely visitors; (5) the welfare state cannot support the large numbers of immigrants & dependents; (6) many immigrants are criminals; (7) immigrants unsettle the labor market; (8) assimilation of immigrants is new colonialism; (9) religious differences between immigrants & the host society are incompatible; & (10) increased immigration threatens the cohesion of the indigenous population. It is argued that these themes reflect a view of immigrants as a collectivity; in granting human rights, immigrants should be considered as individuals. 17 References. I. Shagrir

93Z7104

Horton, Hayward Derrick (Iowa State U Science & Technology, Ames 50011), Race and Wealth: A Demographic Analysis of Black Homeownership, UM Sociological Inquiry, 1992, 62, 4, fall, 480-489.

¶ An attempt to determine the degree to which levels of US black homeownership, traditionally lower than that of nonblacks, are determined by selected sociodemographic factors & racial discrimination. Analysis of data from the Public Use Microdata Samples of the 1980 Census (N = 80,428 households) indicates that blacks are less likely to be homeowners in nearly every sociodemographic category. The one exception is that elderly blacks are more likely than blacks & nonblacks in all other age categories to be homeowners. It is concluded that race continues to be a significant factor in explaining differential rates of homeownership. 3 Tables, 27 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7105

Hubbard, Amy S. (Syracuse U, NY 13244), Cross-Cultural Conflict Resolution Groups: American Palestinians and Jews in Dialogue on the Middle East, * Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 6, Dec, 2117-A.

Available from UMI, Ann Arbor, MI. Order No. DA9229673.

93Z7106

Isralowitz, Richard E. & Saad, Ismael Abu (Hubert H. Humphrey Instit Social Ecology Ben-Gurion U Negev, IL-84105 Beersheva Israel), Soviet Immigration: Ethnic Conflicts and Social Cohesion in Israel, International Journal of Group Tensions, 1992, 22, 2, summer, 119-138.

¶ The attitudes of Israeli citizens toward immigrants from the USSR & the absorption process of immigrants were examined via questionnaire data measuring conflict, group relations, & demographic variables obtained from 652 residents of the Negev. Significant differences were found between respondents (Rs) with low vs middle/upper incomes. Low-income Rs felt Soviet immigration lowered their quality of life by lessening their ability to secure jobs & housing. They believed immigration should be limited, & that they were entitled to the same benefits offered new immigrants. Middle-/upper-income Rs viewed Soviet immigration as important to the future of the country, but cited the importance of good economic conditions & job security as necessary conditions for good relations & minimal conflict between citizens & immigrants. Unemployed Rs felt that religious leaders could play a role in reducing conflict. 5 Tables, 1 Appendix, 27 References. D. Generoli

93Z7107

Jacob, André (LARESH U Québec, Montreal H3C 3P8), Adaption of Salvadoran Refugees in Montreal, Migration World Magazine, 1992, 20, 1, 21-24.

¶ The progress of Salvadoran refugees adapting to life in Montreal, Quebec, was explored through interviews conducted 1988/89 concerning the life experiences of 22 refugees who arrived 1984-1989. Taking into consideration cultural, economic, & political points of view, it is concluded that: new arrivals depend on their own cultural community for a social support system, which helps to relieve the stresses of immigration & assimilation; age is not as important as sex & marital status in ease of adaptation (men have a more difficult time adapting than do women); & new arrivals should be better informed about the methods of accessing various agencies & programs. G. Castañeda

93Z7108
Jo, Moon H. (Dept Sociology Lycoming Coll, Williamsport PA 17701), Korean Merchants in the Black Community: Prejudice among the Victims of Prejudice, Ethnic and Racial Studies, 1992, 15, 3, July, 395-411.
A revised version of SA 38:6/90S24220/ASA/1990/5918.

93Z7109
Johnson, Graham E. (Dept Anthropology & Sociology U British Columbia, Vancouver B6T 1W5), Ethnic and Racial Communities in Canada and Problems of Adaptation: Chinese Canadians in the Contemporary Period, Ethnic Groups, 1992, 93, 3, 151-174.
Since 1967, when restrictions on Chinese immigration were fully removed, there has been a substantial migration of Chinese to Canada from a wide array of global origins, although Hong Kong has been the major source. In contrast to the past, the cultural expression of a Chinese identity within a multicultural framework has been encouraged. Primarily resident in southern Ontario & British Columbia, Chinese Canadians fully & successfully participate in Canadian society. The community is not residentially segregated & underpinned by an ethnic subeconomy as in the past, although a network of voluntary associations are still a major feature of their structure. Prejudicial attitudes toward Chinese nevertheless remain, especially in western Canada, reminiscent of former patterns of rejection, although they occur in a different context. 12 Tables, 43 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7110
Jongkind, Fred (CEDLA U Amsterdam, NL-1016 EK Netherlands), Ethnic Identity, Societal Integration and Migrants' Alienation: State Policy and Academic Research in the Netherlands, Ethnic and Racial Studies, 1992, 15, 3, July, 365-380.
¶ The Netherlands has adopted a positive orientation toward immigrants & refugees, trying to integrate them into Dutch society, while at the same time stimulating them to keep their own culture. Referring to similar studies on Peru (see SA 24:2/76H8717) & Argentina (see SA 34:1/86Q3213), it is shown how this attitude toward immigrants results in an ambivalent approach that, instead of contributing to the emancipation of the immigrants, tends to increase their feelings of alienation. 19 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7111
Kernberg, Thomas (Instit Soviet & East European Studies U Glasgow, G12 8QQ Scotland), The Polish Community in Scotland, Coexistence, 1992, 29, 2, June, 211-217.
¶ Transformations in Scotland's Polish community 1939-1981 are discussed. Before WWII, less than 1,000 Polish-born persons lived in Scotland, but the defeat of France in 1940 brought some 20,000 Polish servicemen, 3,000 Polish civilians, & the Polish government-in-exile to GB, many to Scotland. Most of the Poles who remained in Scotland after 1945 were servicemen, because the decisions codified in Teheran, Iran, & Yalta, USSR, prevented them from returning to their native country. According to a 1951 census, 10,603 persons born in Poland were living in Scotland. By 1961, that number had decreased to 7,743 because many Poles had emigrated to England & abroad. By 1981, only 5,083 remained. The Poles who have remained, & especially their children, have settled into a role of active community participation. 1 Table. M. Maguire

93Z7112
Kilson, Martin (Harvard U, Cambridge MA 02138), African Americans and Africa: A Critical Nexus, UM Dissent, 1992, 39, 3(168), summer, 361-369.
¶ The political maturing of African-American scholars & community leaders is traced. African Americans' quest to become part of mainstream US politics while maintaining identication with their homeland parallels similar efforts by other ethnic groups. The sociopolitical movements of Marcus Garvey, Malcolm X, & others demonstrate that African Americans have witnessed & participated in their share of nationalist & ethnocentric movements, but the American Society of African Culture has yielded the most significant institutional impact because it has challenged the US government to consider black Americans for political appointments. Continuing obstacles that African Americans confront as they assume a transnational ethnicity are considered. M. Maguire

93Z7113
King, Deborah K. (Dept Sociology Dartmouth Coll, Hanover NH 03755), Unraveling Fabric, Missing the Beat: Class and Gender in Afro-American Social Issues, UM The Black Scholar, 1992, 22, 3, summer, 36-44.
¶ While the social significance of "the vanishing black male" is undeniable, it is argued that the number of headlines, studies, programs, & commissions devoted to this one issue leads to ignorance of the multitude of social issues that contemporary black Americans face. Questions about the constructedness of the "vanishing black male" image are raised: what does it accentuate & obscure; why inquiries have largely been focused on a single issue; & whether highlighting this issue inadvertently places black men & women in competition with one another. The cultural, sociohistorical, & political-economic dynamics involved in constructing social problems are discussed, illuminating how meanings are problematic & why assumptions must always be critically examined. Explored also are the ways in which theoretical & empirical analysis contribute to this process of construction. 39 References. M. Maguire

93Z7114
Klinar, Peter (Fakulteta sociologijo politične vede novinarstvo U Ljubljani, Slovenia), Od etničnega pluralizma k interkulturalizmu (From Ethnic Pluralism toward Interculturism), Migracijske teme, 1991, 7, 1, May, 29-45. (SLV)
¶ Modern industrial societies may be characterized by various levels of development of ethnic pluralism. In postmodernist societies, however, ethnic pluralism processes are transformed into processes of interculturalism, as national states change & as a new form of democracy develops. Among the several factors hindering the advance of interculturalism are the different criteria used by powerful national states with respect to interethnic relations. 19 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7115
Kocadoru, Yüksel, Die Türken: Studien zu ihrem Bild und seiner Geschichte in Österriech (Turks: Studies of Their Image and Its History in Austria), * Dissertation Abstracts International, C: Worldwide, 1992, 53, 4, winter, 644-C. (GER) Unavailable from UMI; reference copy held a Universitätsbibliothek, U für Bildungswissenschaften Klagenfurt, Universitätsstrasse 66-67, A-9022 Austria.

93Z7116
Levine, Julia B. (U California, Berkeley 94720), The Role of Culture in the Representation of Conflict in Dreams: A Comparison of Bedouin, Irish, and Israeli Children, UM Journal of Cross-Cultural Psychology, 1991, 22, 4, Dec, 472-490.
¶ Dream reports of Irish, Israeli, & Bedouin children (total N = 77) were collected during interviews & independently scored by raters who were blind to the culture of the dreamer. Analysis indicates that conflictual dreams were more distorted than nonconflictual dreams in all 3 cultures. Manifestly conflictual dream reports differed cross-culturally along four domains: self-representation, other representation, realistic quality of the dream, & the nature of the conflict. Cross-cultural differences observed in the representation & distortion of dream conflicts are explained in terms of culturally related socialization practices. Findings support the hypothesis that the manifest dream reflects characteristic coping processes of the dreamer & is therefore a useful measure of culturally mediated ego processes. 4 Tables, 30 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7117
Lipset, Seymour Martin (George Mason U, Fairfax VA 22030), Equal Chances versus Equal Results, UM The Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Science, 1992, 523, Sept, 63-74.
¶ Of the two meanings of affirmative action–ie, to affirm equal individual opportunity & to ensure equal group representation–the former meaning predominated until 1969, when the Nixon administration introduced numerical quotas or goals in hiring; subsequently, Republicans opposed & Democrats endorsed group goals. It is argued that since most Americans, including blacks, oppose such policies, as evident in poll results, the

0038-0202/93 $1.50

Democratic party has been hurt by supporting them. Despite the strength of US egalitarianism, blacks have been an oppressed caste for most of the nation's history, eg, via statutory slavery & segregation. Resolution of this contradiction remains a persistent dilemma. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7118

Lipset, Seymour Martin (George Mason U, Fairfax VA 22030), Two Americans, Two Value Systems: Blacks and Whites, The Tocqueville Review/La Revue Tocqueville, 1992, 13, 1, 137-177.

¶ Affirmative action policies have forced a sharp confrontation between two core American values: egalitarianism & individualism. The old values voiced in the Declaration of Independence emphasize equality for individuals, defined as equality of opportunity. The new values emphasize equality of groups, defined as equality of results. These two values underlie the growing public controversy over affirmative action & quota. To understand how these values fit into the debate, their origins in the diverse experience of whites & blacks are examined to explain how the US has been composed of two peoples whose values & outlooks stem from their radically different experiences. 79 References. Modified AA

93Z7119

Label, Shartal, Wolf, Yuval & Krausz, Ernest (Dept Political Science Bar-Ilan U, IL-52100 Ramat-Gan Israel), Inter-Ethnic Differences in the Judgment of Filmed Violence, International Journal of Group Tensions, 1992, 22, 2, summer, 139-149.

¶ To explore aggression as an ethnic-dependent construct, 601 Ss from Israel's 2 largest ethnic groups–Oriental & European–were recruited for a series of experiments in which they viewed films depicting violent acts; information on the degree of intention to cause harm & on the amount of harm actually caused was also provided. Ss were asked to judge the gravity of the aggression & the severity of the punishment that the aggressor deserved. Findings show that the European-origin Ss averaged the information on intent & damage on the basis of simple weighting, while Oriental-origin Ss averaged this information on the basis of differential weighting. 1 Figure, 22 References. Modified AA

93Z7120

Mangaliso, Nomanzengele A. (U Massachusetts, Boston 02125), Conflict after Apartheid?, * Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 6, Dec, 2118-A. Available from UMI, Ann Arbor, MI. Order No. DA9233099.

93Z7121

Marable, Manning (Center Studies Ethnicity & Race America U Colorado, Boulder 80309), Blueprint for Black Studies and Multiculturalism, UM The Black Scholar, 1992, 22, 3, summer, 30-35.

¶ The first renaissance in African-American studies, 1964-1976, was based on the desire to correct dominant myths & misinterpretations; the second, contemporary renaissance must map out the theoretical, structural, & political questions that face the next generation of teachers & scholars. It is argued that the primary challenges will be to: critique & compare various schools of interpretation within the African, Caribbean, & African-American experience; engage & come to terms with the discourse of "Afrocentrism"; pursue the connections & contradictions between African-American scholarship & American/Western Europe cultural traditions; forge linkages with other marginalized scholars; & develop regional networks that will sponsor conferences, journals, paper series, & other collective intellectual enterprises. 8 References. M. Maguire

93Z7122

Marjoribanks, Kevin (U Adelaide, South Australia 5001), Ethnicity, Families as Opportunity Structures and Adolescents' Aspirations, Ethnic and Racial Studies, 1992, 15, 3, July, 381-394.

¶ Interview data collected from parents & their children age 16 of Anglo-Australian, English, Greek, & southern Italian origins (total N = 433 families) living in Australia are used to examine relationships among the opportunity structures of early family environments as defined by parents, adolescents' perceptions of later family opportunity structures, & adolescents' educational & occupational aspirations. Findings suggest that: (1) there are significant variations in the family opportunity structures of adolescents from different ethnic groups; (2) parents' early aspirations & adolescents' perceptions of family opportunity structures combine to be associated with large amounts of variance in adolescents' aspirations; & (3) there are ethnic group differences in the associations among parents' aspirations for their children, adolescents' perceptions of family opportunity structures, & adolescents' aspirations. 3 Tables, 2 Figures, 19 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7123

Matsouka, John K. & Ryujin, Donald H. (School Social Work U Hawaii Manoa, Honolulu 96822), Asian American Immigrants: A Comparison of the Chinese, Japanese, and Filipinos, UM Journal of Sociology and Social Welfare, 1991, 18, 3, Sept, 123-133.

¶ Secondary data are presented in this comparative historical examination of the immigration of Chinese, Filipinos, & Japanese–the most populous Asian-American groups in the US. Implications of their experiences for current & future immigration/resettlement programs & policies are discussed. 14 References. Adapted from the source document

93Z7124

Matsuo, Hisako (Dept Sociology U California, Riverside 92521-0419 [e-mail: hisako@ucrvms.bitnet]), Identificational Assimilation of Japanese Americans: A Reassessment of Primordialism and Circumstantialism, UM Sociological Perspectives, 1992, 35, 3, fall, 505-523.

¶ Two contradictory models of ethnic identity–primordialism & circumstantialism–are tested, drawing on data obtained via mail questionnaire & interviews from 40 Japanese Americans & their adult children (N = 106) in Portland, Ore. Focus is on whether the third generation of Japanese Americans retains ethnic identity or has achieved complete assimilation, & factors that impact assimilation. Analysis demonstrates attenuation of ethnic identity between successive generations. However, the seemingly different ethnic identity of the second & third generations does not necessarily evidence the significance of generation in identificational assimilation. Childhood & adult social networks have the greatest effect on ethnic identity. In addition, generational shift does not lead to assimilation if & when successive generations are placed in the same circumstances. 3 Tables, 1 Figure, 1 Appendix, 38 References Adapted from the source document.

93Z7125

Mattson, Kevin, The Dialectic of Powerlessness: Black Identity Culture and Affirmative Action, UM Telos, 1990, 84, summer, 177-184.

¶ Cultural-political configurations for identifying the contemporary black artist are problematic, due to the politics of victimization & the reproduction of powerlessness through affirmative action strategies. The culture industry's emphasis on diversity attracts self-expressing black artists, but it also victimizes them through their participation. The rap groups Public Enemy & 2 Live Crew are cited as postmodernist artists whose style & promotionally-oriented controversy are reflections of black protest. Also considered is the Spike Lee film "Do the Right Thing" which offers a nihilistic criticism of the crisis of the civil rights movement, focusing on black particularism as political strategy, yet perpetuating white racist stereotypes in its portrayal of black characters. A call is made for transcending the trap of victimization & postmodernism. J. Sadler

93Z7126

Mayall, James & Simpson, Mark (Dept International Relations London School Economics & Political Science, WC2A 2AE England), Ethnicity Is Not Enough: Reflections on Protracted Secessionism in the Third World, International Journal of Comparative Sociology, 1992, 33, 1-2, Jan-Apr, 5-25.

¶ Reflections are offered on the appropriate relationship between nation & state, & an attempt is made to specify the conditions under which national groups are likely to persist in efforts to secede from their host states. The relationship between nationalism & the contemporary international order is analyzed, & the impact of colonialism on nationalism discussed. Secessionist movements in India, Sudan, & Ethiopia are examined to demonstrate that secessionism is the product of subjugation by a dominant other. It is concluded that the view that drawn-out secessionist conflict in postcolonial states is the result of the successful formation of a dissident national identity is not valid. 24 References. W. Howard

93Z7127

Mittelberg, David & Waters, Mary C. (c/o Waters–Dept Sociology Harvard U, Cambridge MA 02138), The Process of Ethnogenesis among Haitian and Israeli Immigrants in the United States, Ethnic and Racial Studies, 1992, 15, 3, July, 412-435.

¶ The process of ethnic identity formation among secular kibbutz-born Israelis & middle-class Haitians–both recent immigrants to the US–is examined. The groups share an ambivalence with the identities that US society assigns to them–as Jews & blacks. The determination of the ultimate definition of ethnic identities is a result of the interaction of the conception of identity the immigrants bring with them from their countries of origin, the definitions & reactions of the host group, & the overall ordering & definitions of US society. It is shown that, because of the primacy of race in US society, Israelis are likely to face many more options in the determination of their identities than are Haitians, although they both face a similar structural dilemma. 1 Table, 1 Figure, 36 References. Adapted from the source document (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7128

Morris, Donald R. (Trident Syndicate, PO Box 271667 Houston TX 77277), South Africa: The Politics of Racial Terminology, Political Communication, 1992, 9, 2, Apr-June, 111-121.

¶ The origins of South African ethnological vocabulary, & modern terms commonly used to refer to different races are examined. Tracing the history of South Africa from early colonial times of Dutch settlement through English rule & finally to independence, it is shown how terms such as Boesman, San, Hottentot, Khoi, Kleuring, coloured, black, Rehoboth Basters, Klaas Swart-Basters, Bantu, kâffir, & rooi-nek have evolved as race labels, & have prompted activists to advocate for black consciousness. 1 Appendix. J. Sadler (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7129

Muga, David A. (American Cultural Studies Dept Western Washington U, Bellingham 98225), Indigenous Americans and the U.S. Constitution, Nature, Society, and Thought, 1992, 5, 1, Jan, 51-67.

¶ The occasion of the quincentenary of Christopher Columbus's discovery of America is used to examine the US Constitution & its impact on the contemporary situation of indigenous communities. The analysis considers the precursors & precipitating events of the Constitution, & identifies the role played by primitive capitalist accumulation as a model for the document. Also examined are the "silences"–ie, citizenship, land, political representation, & self-determination–that reflect the basic contradition between indigenous communities viewed as semi-autonomous nations & as agents of domestic policy. Despite its ability to meet new historical challenges, the Constitution has yet to demonstrate its ability to resolve issues relating to indigenous Americans. 13 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7130

Nagel, Joane & Whorton, Brad (U Kansas, Lawrence 66045), Ethnic Conflict and the World System: International Competition in Iraq (1961-1991) and Angola (1974-1991), UM Journal of Political and Military Sociology, 1992, 20, 1, summer, 1-35.

¶ It is argued that domestic explanations of ethnic conflict ignore an important external source of resources & support for ethnic conflict, ie, international economic, geopolitical, & military competition in the world state system. Just as economic competition produces economic dependency, geopolitical & military competition produce military dependency, which has negative consequences for dependent states: political instability, internal & external war, & ethnic conflict. Here, the results of military dependency are explored in the cases of Iraq (1961-1991) & Angola (1974-1991). Findings reveal that international competition & military dependency have several consequences for domestic ethnic conflict: (1) a militarization of conflict, (2) an escalation & lengthening of conflict, (3) an ideological transformation of conflict, (4) a strengthening of supported ethnic group boundaries, & (5) a reduction in the likelihood of negotiated solutions to ethnic conflict. 126 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7131

Necef, Mehmet Ümit, Moderniteт og etnicitet (Modernity and Ethnicity), Dansk Sociologi, 1992, 3, 3, Sept, 51-71. (DAN)

¶ The interaction between modernity & ethnicity is explored by focusing on immigrants to Denmark & their ethnic identity. Modernity creates both nostalgic & aesthetic modes of cultural & ethnic diversity. The nostalgic mode is an antimodern trend, exploiting the desires & frustrations of the immigrants, while the aesthetic mode views the immigrants' cultural expressions as being appreciated in a detached, distanced way, sometimes leading to "ethnic tourism." The second & third generations of immigrants are increasingly swinging toward the aesthetic mode. Ethnicity per se is becoming a role easily manipulated & reconstructed. 5 Photographs, 36 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7132

Neff, James Alan & Hoppe, Sue Keir (Health Science Center U Texas, San Antonio 78284-7792), Acculturation and Drinking Patterns among U.S. Anglos, Blacks, and Mexican Americans, Alcohol and Alcoholism, 1992, 27, 3, May, 293-308.

¶ A 1988 community survey in San Antonio, Tex, of adult drinkers of different races/ethnicities (N = 412 whites, 239 blacks, & 635 Mexican Americans) examined the links between acculturation, generational status/nativity, & drinking patterns. Acculturation level was further distinguished for the Mexcian Americans, based on language skills. Regular drinking base level was set at 2 drinks per month. Though it was hypothesized, in an acculturation stress model of alcohol use, that more alcohol would be consumed to alleviate stress associated with attainment of high or upper-medium acculturation, the data supported the opposite case; the lowest acculturation group exhibited slightly higher quantity & frequency of drinking. Generational status/nativity is an inadequate measure of acculturation. Future studies may consider a cultural marginality model of acculturation, despite the confounding effects of demographic or psychosocial forces. 4 Tables, 1 Appendix, 31 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7133

Neves, Joao S. & Sanyal, Rajib N. (School Business Trenton State Coll, NJ 08650-4700), UPSIDE DOWN: A Cross-Cultural Experiential Exercise, Simulation & Gaming, 1992, 23, 3, Sept, 370-375.

¶ Described is a game called "Upside Down," which assists participants in understanding & overcoming cultural shock & cultural differences. Two groups of individuals are assigned different "cultural" roles, detailed in the rule book. Each group familiarizes itself with the rules of its own "culture," & then interacts with the other group to attempt to achieve assigned goals, measured in tokens collected. After playing, participants should be able to recognize the role of stereotyping in a culturally alien environment. 1 Appendix. M. Pflum (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7134

Padilla, Raymond V. (Hispanic Research Center Arizona State U, Tempe 85287-2702), Using Dialogical Research Methods to Study Chicano College Students, UM The Urban Review, 1992, 24, 3, Sept, 175-183.

¶ From the perspective of Paulo Freire's dialogical research method (Pedagogy of the Oppressed, New York: Continuum Publishing Corp, 1970), Chicano college students are argued to be experiencing three contradictions: isolation, achievement, & ethnic identity. Vignettes that incorporated the main elements of each contradiction were used as the stimuli to initiate dialogs among 3 groups of Chicano students, (N = 6-8 participants in each) at an urban university in the Southwest; these dialogs constituted the raw data for analysis. Two generative themes were identified from the data: education is experienced by Chicano students within a context of struggle, & ethnicity within a context of cross pressures for assimilation & ethnic loyalty. Implications of these findings for improving the academic achievement of Chicano college students are discussed. 1 Figure, 3 Lists, 1 Appendix, 19 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7135

Pandey, Gyanendra (U Delhi, 11007 Haryana India), In Defense of the Fragment: Writing about Hindu-Muslim Riots in India Today, UM Representations, 1992, 37, winter, 27-55.

¶ Drawing on personal impressions & insights, a general analysis of some of the difficulties of writing the history of violence, particularly sectarian violence, in colonial & postcolonial India is presented. It is suggested that the historiography of sectarian strife functions in a political context in which the rhetoric of nationalism is of central importance. The rhetoric has taken on a new tone in recent decades & reflects the consumerist middle class & its rural (rich peasant) allies. Sectarian violence in Bhagalpur in 1989, contended to be one of the most devastating examples of Hindu-Muslim strife, is used for illustration. It is concluded that the accepted history of these events is inadequate, not only because it tends to be reductionist & continues to ply a tired nationalist rhetoric, but also because it essentializes communalism & the communal riot. The dominant nationalist historiography should be challenged because of its privileging of the general over the particular, the larger over the smaller, the mainstream over the marginal, & view of India & all of South Asia from Delhi alone. S. Millett

93Z7136

Peng, Samuel S., Wang, Margaret C. & Walberg, Herbert J. (National Center Education Statistics US Dept Education, 400 Maryland Ave SW Washington DC 20202-0001), Demographic Disparities of Inner-City Eighth Graders, UM Urban Education, 1992, 26, 4, Jan, 441-459.

¶ A demographic & socioeconomic profile is developed of inner-city (I-C) children, whose education is often characterized by high dropout rates & low achievement test scores, based on data from the 1988 National Educational Longitudinal Study for eighth graders. Findings reveal that: (1) some 7% of these eighth graders were I-C students, indicating 3+ million students in I-C schools, overall; (2) 80% of I-C students were minorities (African American [48%], followed by Hispanic [25%]); (3) 24+% were language minorities (82% Hispanic or Asian American); (4) less than 50% of I-C children lived with both parents; & (5) about 48% of I-C students lived in families whose annual income was below $15,000 in 1988, the poverty level for a family of four. These characteristics represent disadvantages that I-C students & teachers face. They have various implications for education, including the need for different instructional strategies to effectively accomodate diverse needs of students, & the need for further understanding of the educational function taking place at home & in the community. 10 Tables, 17 References. Modified AA

93Z7137

Pinderhughes, Howard Lloyd (U California, Berkeley 94720), Ethnic and Racial Attitudes among Youth and the Rise in Racial Conflict in New York City, * Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 5, Nov, 1680-A.
Available from UMI, Ann Arbor, MI. Order No. DA9228813.

93Z7138

Ramaga, Philip Vuciri (U Essex, Wivenhoe Park Colchester CO4 3SQ England), Relativity of the Minority Concept, UM Human Rights Quarterly, 1992, 14, 1, Feb, 104-119.

¶ Minorities have traditionally been defined on numerical grounds, but this definition has been expanded to include ethnic, religious, & linguistic factors, as well as qualitative factors, eg, nondominance & group identity. Numerical superiority does not always imply political or nonpolitical dominance; South Africa is a case in point. In addition to these factors, the definition of minority must be applied with reference to the nation-state in which the minority resides. Minority status in one state does not imply that the same ethnic group will have minority status in another state, because other factors included in the definition apply. Narrower contexts than the nation-state may be used to define minorities, so long as the narrower unit has authority for exercising group aspirations. However, jurisdictional or administrative context cannot be the sole referent for establishing the boundaries of a minority. Group relations may depend more on social & socioeconomic contexts than jurisdictional bounds. The proper context (geographical, social, etc) in which to evaluate minority status should be the fundamental consideration behind minority protection decisions. M. Pflum

93Z7139

Reilly, Lisa & McCarthy, Cameron (Dept Education Colgate U, Hamilton NY 13346 [Tel: 315-824-7291]), Review Essay, European Journal of Intercultural Studies, 1992, 3, 1, 71-75.

¶ A review essay on a book by David Roediger, The Wages of Whiteness: Race and the Making of the American Working Class (New York & London: Verso, 1991 [see listing in IRPS No. 67]). Roediger analyzes the marginalization of the theme of race in histories of the identity formation of the US working class from the American revolution to the Civil war, focusing on the connection between socioeconomic condition & self-perception. The book's analytical strategies draw on psychoanalysis, new labor history, poststructural literary analysis, & revisionist race relations theories. A case-study is presented of the similarity of the white working-class racism toward Irish-American & black workers. Though Roediger offers a wealth of data & a fascinating analysis, he fails to provide a developed theory on the relations between race & class. 10 References. I. Shagrir

93Z7140

Samad, Yunas (U Oxford, OX1 2JD England), Book Burning and Race Relations: Political Mobilisation of Bradford Muslims, New Community, 1992, 18, 4, July, 507-519.

¶ The international & national campaign in GB against Salman Rushdie's The Satanic Verses interacted with local discontent resulting in the Bradford auto-da-fé. Here, two aspects of the controversy--the Iranian intervention & opposition from Bradford Muslims--are disaggregated. Rushdie's freedom is dependent on the possible improvement of relations between GB & the West with Iran. The militancy of young Pakistanis in Bradford is explained in part by the structural experiences they underwent in the 1980s. It is only by coming to grips with the specificity of the race discourse that it becomes understandable why tension continued after the Rushdie affair had died down elsewhere in the world. 19 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7141

Schuster, John (Dept Cultural Anthropology Rijks U Utrecht, NL-3508 TC Netherlands), The State and Post-War Immigration into the Netherlands: The Racialisation and Assimilation of Indonesian Dutch, European Journal of Intercultural Studies, 1992, 3, 1, 47-58.

¶ Many have contended that there is no racism in the Netherlands, offering as proof the Dutch attitude to the arrival of the Indonesian Dutch & their subsequent integration. Here, analysis of official documents reveals that the notion of race was an important part of official Dutch discourse on immigration 1949-1968. It is shown how the state legitimated its efforts to exclude Dutch nationals through this discourse, effectively "racializing" immigration. 22 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7142

Sharma, Satish K. (Dept Sociology Himachal Pradesh U, Shimla 171005 India), Social Mobility and Growing Resistance: A Study of Social Development and Ethnic Conflicts in India, Social Action, 1991, 41, 1, Jan-Mar, 64-77.

¶ It is argued that the resurgence of ethnic conflicts in contemporary secular democratic societies does not arise from social development per se, but is due to the dilemma between the basic objectives of development on the one hand & the existing social system on the other, which tends to perpetuate existing inequalities. This theoretical assumption, examined in the light of secondary evidence of conflict between ethnic categories--eg, scheduled castes & nonscheduled castes in Indian society--reveals that such conflict often cuts across class lines. Evidence of such conflicts is also found in the history of advanced societies, eg, the US. It is concluded that such ethnic insurgencies can be minimized by the state by rationalizing its developmental policies & programs vis-à-vis the pressing needs of society. 27 References. Modified AA

93Z7143

Shin, SungLim Allison (U Rochester, NY 14627), Acculturation Experience of Asian-Americans: Relationship to Parenting Styles and Internalized Self-Concept, * Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 5, Nov, 1680-A-1681-A.
Available from UMI, Ann Arbor, MI. Order No. DA9218557.

93Z7144

Shively, JoEllen (Dept Sociology U Michigan, Ann Arbor 48109-1382), Cowboys and Indians: Perceptions of Western Films among American Indians and Anglos, UM American Sociological Review, 1992, 57, 6, Dec, 725-734.

¶ A revised version of SA 39:6/91S25427/ASA/1991/6786. 2 Tables, 24 References.

93Z7145
Sidanius, Jim, Devereux, Erik & Pratto, Felicia (Dept Psychology U California, Los Angeles 90024-1563), A Comparison of Symbolic Racism Theory and Social Dominance Theory as Explanations for Racial Policy Attitudes, Journal of Social Psychology, 1992, 132, 3, June, 377-395.
¶ To test the conclusions of T. Jessor in Personal Interest, Group Conflict, and Symbolic Group Affect: Explanations for Whites' Opposition to Racial Equality (doctoral dissertation, U of California, Los Angeles, 1989), symbolic racism & social dominance theories are compared by reanalysis of survey data used by Jessor from a national probability sample of 234 white Americans & by using observed-variables, structural equation models. Contrary to Jessor's conclusions, results did not support the major contentions of symbolic racism theory; rather, they seemed more consistent with the assumptions of social dominance theory. The possibility that symbolic racism serves as an important legitimizing myth in US society is discussed. 2 Tables, 4 Figures, 49 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7146
Smith, Anthony D. (Dept Sociology London School Economics & Political Science, WC2A 2AE England), Chosen Peoples: Why Ethnic Groups Survive, Ethnic and Racial Studies, 1992, 15, 3, July, 436-456.
¶ Understanding the persistence of ethnic communities requires comparison of different patterns of ethnic survival, in terms of symbols & myths of ethnic election (a belief that the group is a "chosen people"). Such myths are identified in the ancient Near East, Judea, Greece, Armenia, Persia, Byzantium, Russia, & Western Europe. Four main patterns of ethnic survival are outlined: imperial-dynastic, communal-demotic, emigrant-colonist, & diaspora-restoration. In each case, modern nationalism reinforces & politicizes the old myths of ethnic election & its forms & intensity can be explained in terms of these patterns of ethnic survival. 99 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7147
Stuart, Paul H. (U Alabama, University 35486), The Kingsley House Extension Program: Racial Segregation in a 1940s Settlement Program, UM The Social Service Review, 1992, 66, 1, Mar, 112-120.
¶ The Kingsley House Extension Program–which was operated in New Orleans, La, 1945-1949–was one of a few settlement houses in the southern US that attempted to promote racial integration without confrontation before the civil rights movement. Described are the development & demise of this biracial program, cosponsored by the Textile Workers Union & Lane Cotton Mills, which provided separate recreation programs for black & white children using the same facilities. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7148
Tastsoglou, Evangelia & Stubos, George (Ryerson Polytechnical Institit, Toronto Ontario M5B 2K3), The Pioneer Greek Immigrant in the United States and Canada (1880s-1920s): Survival Strategies of a Traditional Family, Ethnic Groups, 1992, 93, 3, 175-189.
¶ It is argued that the pioneer Greek immigrant in the US & Canada from the 1880s-1920s was the executor of a well-defined family plan that aimed to preserve as much as possible the physiognomy, identity, & economic autonomy of the family unit left behind. The Greek-American & Greek-Canadian family, limited in scope because of the gender composition of the early immigrants, organized itself in a defensive manner, ie, it closed itself to the outside world & remained "frozen in time," as a result of the hardships of immigrant life, including the racism of the host countries. 1 Table, 66 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7149
Thomas, Melvin E. & Horton, Hayward Derrick (Dept Sociology & Anthropology Lehigh U, Bethlehem PA 18015), Race, Class, and Family Structure: The Case of Family Income, UM Sociological Perspectives, 1992, 35, 3, fall, 433-450.
¶ Explanations for black-white income disparity in the US range from the continued effects of racial discrimination to differences in social class origins or family structures. These perspectives are tested here, drawing on data from the 1968 & 1988 Current Population Surveys. Major findings include: (1) race continued to have a negative effect on family income even after controls in both years; (2) race declined in importance by a very modest amount from 1968 to 1988; (3) in both 1968 & 1988, the negative effect of race was stronger for higher- than for lower-status African Americans; & (4) the negative effect of race was greater for married-couple families than for female-headed families. Explanations for the findings are offered. 7 Tables, 1 Appendix, 37 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7150
Thompson, Aaron (U Kentucky, Lexington 40506), Views on Affirmative Action inside the University: The Relationship between Authority and Attitudes, * Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 6, Dec, 2123-A.
Available from UMI, Ann Arbor, MI. Order No. DA9227824.

93Z7151
Tolnay, Stewart E., Beck, E. M. & Massey, James L. (Dept Sociology State U New York, Albany 12222), Black Competition and White Vengeance: Legal Execution of Blacks as Social Control in the Cotton South, 1890 to 1929, UM Social Science Quarterly, 1992, 73, 3, Sept, 627-644.
¶ Data on the number of black executions from 400+ counties in 6 states of the Cotton South 1890-1909 & 1910-1929 (representing pre- & post-disenfranchisement periods) are used to examine the utility of competition explanations, particularly Hubert M. Blalock's threat hypotheses (Toward a Theory of Minority-Group Relations, New York: Wiley, 1967; see SA 16:1/67C8904), for explaining geographic variation in the frequency of legal black executions (BEs). The relationship between black population concentration & BEs is assessed before & after introducing direct measures of racial competition. Findings for the earlier time period suggest that economic competition between the races had a substantial influence on the frequency of BEs within counties. However, a persistently strong relationship between black population concentration & BEs indicates the operation of social forces not included in the models. For the postdisenfranchisement period, the relationship between a county's racial composition & BE virtually disappears, & none of the direct measures of racial competition exerts a significant influence on BEs. The evidence from the earlier & later time periods combined indicates that a real variation in the propensity to execute blacks was shaped by both economic & political competition between the races. 2 Tables, 2 Figures, 35 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7152
Tripp, Luke (Saint Cloud State U, MN 56301-4498), The Political Views of Black Students during the Reagan Era, UM The Black Scholar, 1992, 22, 3, summer, 45-52.
¶ A report of a longitudinal study of the political views & attitudes of 739 African-American students who attended Southern Illinois U, Carbondale, & were enrolled in Black-American studies courses, 1984-1989. Questionnaire data indicate a dramatic shift toward the belief that US society is inherently unjust. The % of students who favored building a black nation increased, though overall, that goal was not popular. A stable majority believed that a policy based on equal opportunity rather than on racial quotas would be more effective in bringing about social justice, which reflects their acceptance of the value of a meritocracy based on ability & effort. In terms of economic liberalism or conservatism, the students tended to shift toward a more liberal position. In general, they appeared to be somewhat alienated from the dominant political institutions, & suspicious of the US government; however, they can be described as liberal Democrats with moderate black nationalist leanings, a disposition that became stronger under the impact of the political conservatism of the Reagan era. 6 Tables, 31 References. Modified AA

93Z7153
Trovato, Frank (Dept Sociology U Alberta, Edmonton T6G 2E1), Violent and Accidental Mortality among Four Immigrant Groups in Canada, 1970-1972, UM Social Biology, 1992, 39, 1-2, spring-summer,

-0202/93 $1.50

82-101.

¶ A number of studies confirm that immigrants' difficulties in adjusting to a new country can result in increased rates of psychiatric illness, distress, & mental hospital admissions. In a study of 4 major immigrant groups (from GB, the US, Scotland, & Italy [N not specified]) in Canada 1970-1972, deaths due to 4 stress-related causes (suicide, homicide, motor vehicle accidents, & other accidents & violence) were investigated. Multivariate analysis was used to determine the likelihood of violent & accidental mortality caused by the immigrant's background culture, social demographic characteristics, & conditions encountered in the host country. Country of origin was found to predispose Ss to suicide, but not homicide or motor vehicle accidents, but the strongest effect on immigrant mortality was associated with group membership. Future research is urged on a larger group, accounting for selectivity bias & controlling for length of residency. 3 Tables, 75 References. L. Dorn

93Z7154

Tseng, Haunstarng (U Pretoria, Brooklyn 0002 South Africa), The Adaptation of Taiwanese Immigrants in the Republic of South Africa, * Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 5, Nov, 1681-A.

Unavailable from UMI; contact the degree-granting university.

93Z7155

Um, Shin Ja (Texas Woman's U, Denton 76204), Korean Immigrant Women in the Dallas Area Apparel Industry: Looking for Feminist Threads in Patriarchal Cloth, * Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 5, Nov, 1681-A.

Available from UMI, Ann Arbor, MI. Order No. DA9227095.

93Z7156

Van Schendel, Willem (Erasmus U Rotterdam, NL-3000 DR Netherlands), The Invention of the "Jummas": State Formation and Ethnicity in Southeastern Bangladesh, Modern Asian Studies, 1992, 26, 1, Feb, 95-128.

¶ Ethnic innovation in the Chittagong Hill Tracts (Bangladesh), an area bordering on Burma & India, is considered, reviewing the literature on twelve distinct tribes that practice swidden or shifting agriculture, locally known as jhum cultivation. Unpublished historical evidence (notably an extensive manuscript written in 1798 by Francis Buchanan) & contemporary sources are used to reconstruct ethnic identities in the Chittagong Hill Tracts between the late eighteenth & late twentieth centuries. Two competing models of state society & culture are identified for the earlier period: the Southeast Asian (in the form of its Burmese/Arakanese variant) & the South Asian (represented by its Bengali variant). After colonial annexation (1860), the Bengali model became dominant, with far-reaching effects on social organization. Patterns of state formation in the second half of the twentieth century have, however, led to an abandonment of the Bengali model & the development of a new ethnic (or national) identity (jumma), covering all twelve groups. This ethnogenesis is presented as a sociocultural response to increasing state repression & militarization, & as linked with the rise of a resistance movement & continuous guerrilla war since the 1970s. Also included is an assessment of the viability of the new identity, its relationship with the older group identities, & its significance to any attempts to resolve the present political crisis in the Chittagong Hill Tracts. Modified AA

93Z7157

Van Wyk, Gerhard (Drew U, Madison NJ 07940), Toward an Understanding of Social Justice: A Socioethical Exploration of the Social Status of Black South African Women and a Critical Analysis of Their Vision for a More Humane and Just Future Society, * Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 6, Dec, 2126-A.

Available from UMI, Ann Arbor, MI. Order No. DA9233200.

93Z7158

Waller, David V. (Dept Sociology U California, Riverside 92521-0419), Ethnic Mobilization and Geopolitics in the Soviet Union: Towards a Theoretical Understanding, IJ Journal of Political and Military Sociology, 1992, 20, 1, summer, 37-62.

¶ While revolution in the USSR was unexpected from most theoretical perspectives in the social sciences, Randall Collins's theory of geopolitics (eg, see Weberian Sociological Theory [see IRPS No. 39/87c00852]) unambiguously predicted the future decline of the USSR long before its collapse became self-evident. Unlike theories of ethnic mobilization & revolution that looked first for mobilizations from discontented masses, geopolitical theory stresses the external strains on the state. Here, a geopolitical analysis of state breakdown is presented that provides a coherent framework for understanding the rise & fall of the Gorbachev regime, the attempted coup d'etat, the collapse of the central government, & the interstitial rise of the republics to national power following the coup's failure. Formal theoretical models of geopolitics, ethnic mobilization, & a composite model linking these processes are discussed. 3 Figures, 47 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7159

Warnecke, A. Michael, Masters, Roger D. & Kempter, Guido (c/o Masters–Dept Government Dartmouth Coll, Hanover NH 03755), The Roots of Nationalism: Nonverbal Behavior and Xenophobia, Ethology and Sociobiology, 1992, 13, 4, July, 267-282.

¶ The role of nonverbal cues in cross-cultural social interaction is investigated, drawing on data obtained during an experiment in which 84 US adults were presented with televised images of political leaders from the France, the Federal Republic of Germany, & the US. Analysis indicates that Ss feel more negatively when seeing the foreigners & judge them more negatively than their fellow citizens. These effects do not occur when the images are presented with sound so that Ss are aware of nationality. It is concluded that these negative emotions & judgments toward foreigners are due to preconscious monitoring of nonverbal cues rather than to consciously held cognitive prejudices or other factors. 4 Tables, 1 Figure, 40 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7160

Wilson, Bobby M. (Dept Political Science & Public Affairs U Alabama, Birmingham 35294), Structural Imperatives behind Racial Change in Birmingham, Alabama, Antipode, 1992, 24, 3, July, 171-202.

¶ Many scholars have noted the divisive use of race by capitalists to restructure production & enhance profitability, but few have successfully incorporated the study of race within the general framework of historical materialist analyses & class politics. To that end, the ideological use of race in Birmingham, Ala, is considered in both the industrial/Fordist & postindustrial/post-Fordist phases of capitalist development. Birmingham is selected because of its extreme dependence on black labor & for what this dependence reveals about the southern route to industrial capitalism, which differs historically from the northern experience. Implications of this difference for capital-labor relations based on institutionalized racism are detailed. 4 Tables, 103 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7161

Wilson, William Julius (U Chicago, IL 60637), The Plight of the Inner-City Black Male, Proceedings of the American Philosophical Society, 1992, 136, 3, Sept, 320-325.

¶ The text of a lecture delivered at the Chicago (Ill) Urban Poverty & Family Life Conference (10-12 Oct 1991) discusses the plight of inner-city black males (I-CBMs) using data from several surveys conducted 1987/88. It is shown that recent employment changes in Chicago have caused I-CBMs to seek employment in low-wage service-sector & laboring jobs. I-CBMs' difficulty in keeping service-sector jobs is explained by the absence of effective informal job networks, the availability of many illegal activities, & pressures to pursue alternative modes of subsistence, including welfare. Reasons why employers tend to choose other minority group members over blacks are offered. It is concluded that social-structural factors are important for understanding the experiences of I-CBMs, & that cultural factors–eg, group attitudes & orientations–also figure in the social outcomes of the inner-city poor. 7 References. W Howard

93Z7162

Ying, Yu-Wen (School Social Welfare U California, Berkeley 94720), Marital Satisfaction among San Francisco Chinese-Americans, The International Journal of Social Psychiatry, 1991, 37, 3, autumn, 201-213.

¶ Using the A. Campbell/P. E. Converse/W. L. Rodgers model of marital satisfaction, ie, assessment of satisfaction is subjective for each partner (The Quality of American Life, New York: Russell Sage, 1976), 66 married Chinese Americans in San Francisco (Calif) were interviewed on marital satisfaction & completed the Locke-Wallace Marital Adjustment Scale, used to identify subjective variables contributing to marital quality. Per t-tests, females (Fs) were significantly less satisfied with their marriages than were males (Ms). Hierarchical regression analyses indicated that objective demographic variables (years in the US, socioeconomic status, child's age, etc), with the modest exception of gender, were less successful in explaining the variance in marital satisfaction than were the subjective marital component ratings. The important predictors of marital satisfaction were agreement in life aims & moral attitudes (for Ms & Fs), & relating to in-laws & friends (for Ms only); Fs had exclusive & Ms inclusive perspectives on marriage. 5 Tables, 46 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7163

Zwerling, Craig & Silver, Hilary (c/o Silver–Dept Sociology Brown U, Providence RI 02912), Race and Job Dismissals in a Federal Bureaucracy, UM American Sociological Review, 1992, 57, 5, Oct, 651-660.

¶ The records of 2,141 newly hired black & white employees of the US Postal Service in a large northeastern city were analyzed for a 3-year period to investigate racial differentials in job dismissals. Analysis indicates that blacks were more than twice as likely as whites to be fired, after controlling for human capital variables, job tenure, detailed job title, union protection, absenteeism, & incidence of accidents, injuries, & disciplinary actions. It is concluded that racial differentials in job dismissals are at least as great in the private as in the public sector. It is recommended that theories of job dismissals consider employer practices as well as worker characteristics. 2 Tables, 46 References. Adapted from the source document.

91 refugees

93Z7164

Black, Richard & Mabwe, Thomas (King's Coll U London, WC1E 7HU England), Planning for Refugees in Zambia: The Settlement Approach to Food Self-Sufficiency, UM Third World Planning Review, 1992, 14, 1, Feb, 1-20.

¶ In an examination of the planned agricultural-refugee settlement in Zambia, based on 1990 field research, analyzed are the constraints on this type of settlement approach to food self-sufficiency. Short-term pressures for the projection of a "successful" image have concealed underlying long-term weaknesses. In particular, the considerable variability of local conditions within the settlement, & of the skills & capabilities of its inhabitants, have not been matched by flexibility in settlement administration. Lack of accountability to refugees, as consumers of the settlement program, indicates that many problems remain unrectified. 2 Tables, 4 Figures. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7165

Matsuoka, Jon K. & Ryujin, Donald H. (School Social Work U Hawaii Manoa, Honolulu 96822), Vietnamese Refugees: An Analysis of Contemporary Adjustment Issues, The Journal of Applied Social Sciences, 1989-1990, 14, 1, fall-winter, 23-45.

¶ Panel data obtained from a sample of 125 Vietnamese refugee families in San Diego, Calif, are drawn on to explore their adjustment to US society, focusing on social & psychological factors that contribute to qualitative differences in adjustment. The adjustment process is described in terms of an overview of refugee life experiences, mental health factors, & culture conflict encountered during the resettlement phase. Implications of the findings for further research & policy development are discussed. 3 Tables, 15 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7166

Zetter, Roger (Oxford Polytechnic, OX3 0BP England), Refugees and Forced Migrants as Development Resources: The Greek-Cypriot Refugees from 1974, The Cyprus Review, 1992, 4, 1, spring, 7-39.

¶ Government statistics on the large-scale rehousing program for 150, 000 Greek-Cypriot refugees from the 1974 Turkish invasion of Cyprus are analyzed to challenge the assumption that large-scale influxes of refugees & forced migrants burden the economic development of host countries. It is shown that in terms of the performance of the postcrisis national economy, 1973-1986, the program was a major factor in rebuilding efforts. Significant changes in the sectoral & spatial structure of the economy accompanied these outcomes. Crucial to these achievements was the deployment of the refugees as a dynamic resource. The potential for replication in other cases, although limited, is considered. Despite the positive economic outcomes, adverse social & cultural consequences are noted, suggesting the incorporation of refugees into the political economy of state interests. 9 Tables. Adapted from the source document.

0500 culture and social structure
13 culture

;Z7167

Alès, Catherine & Pouyllau, Michel (Centre national recherche scientifique, F-75700 Paris France), La Conquête de l'inutile. Les Géographies imaginaires de l'Eldorado (Conquering the Useless. El Dorado's Imaginary Geographies), L'Homme, 1992, 32, 2-4(122-124), Apr-Dec, 271-308. (FRE)

The mythical El Dorado, a legendary South American "land of gold" ught for three centuries by explorers, survives in fictional literature. In e sixteenth century, places from Guyana to the Andes were explored search of a geographic dissimulation: the gold-walled city of Manoa i the banks of the Parime lacus, in an uncharted area between the Ori-xco & Amazon rivers. This mythical location was perpetuated by zeal-is, politically motivated cartographers. In the utopian literature of Vol-ire (Candide) & Sir Arthur Conan Doyle (The Lost World), & in the nagical realist" works of Spanish-American authors Rómulo Gallegos Alejo Carpentier, the El Dorado myth was revived. Scientific hydro-aphic explorations in the 1920s of a connecting water passage between ie two rivers debunked the existence of a laguna. By 1951, the last terra icognita, the headwaters of the Orinoco River, were also charted. 14 igures, 1 Appendix, 108 References. Adapted from the source docu-ient.

3Z7168

Antweiler, Christoph (U Köln, D-5000 41 Federal Republic Germany), Transgenerational Cultural Dynamics: From Neo-Evolutionism to a Truly Evolutionary Theory, Cultural Dynamics, 1991, 4, 3, 270-289.

A constructive reexamination of central, if not resolved, issues in cul-ural evolutionism, starting with a critique of neoevolutionism from a)arwinian perspective in the search for a truly evolutionary theory of ultural evolution, which can integrate sociobiological theory as a com-onent part. The specific problem is transgenerational cultural change in iuman societies of small scale. A model is constructed using biological heories of evolution as theories about historical change. A Darwinian :ritique of neoevolutionism reveals nonevolutionist elements to be over-come: its use of growth models, its resort to essentialist typologies, & the intihistorical mode of argument. To construct a truly evolutionary mod-el, elements of theories of cultural selection are integrated with learning theory & human sociobiology. The result is that specific conditions for the middle- & long-term fate of elements of cultural systems can be de-limited. the central issue is the question of whether cognitions are trans-lated into behavior & whether the behavior is costly in terms of material, information, & energy. Thus, there are very different selective regimes for different dimensions of culture. The real challenge for a truly evolu-tionary & empirical theory of cultural change thus is the mixed charac-ter of culture as regards substance. 3 Tables, 51 References. AA

93Z7169

Bernand, Carmen & Gruzinski, Serge (U Paris X, F-92001 Nanterre Cedex France), La Redécouverte de l'Amérique (Rediscovering America), L'Homme, 1992, 32, 2-4(122-124), Apr-Dec, 7-38. (FRE)

¶ A survey of topics in Americanist anthropology highlights the latest trends Although past studies have focused almost exclusively on indige-nous (Indian) populations in the New World, a broader-based approach for the twenty-first century will consider the cultural contributions of other subordinated groups: Asians, Africans, blacks, & whites. The origi-nal Spanish conquest culture was fractal (discontinuous & turbulent), but it gradually normalized. The conquest introduced ecological disrup-tions (eg, agriculture & domesticated animals), & church-motivated lit-eracy, proselytizing, & secularizing movements. While contact with na-tive populations resulted in mestizo biological & cultural forms, Europe-an-style urbanization was also a major factor. Historical accounts of ini-tial meetings are valuable additions to the social sciences' study of cultural invariants. 87 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7170

Borgmann, Albert (Dept Philosophy U Montana, Missoula 59812-1038), The Moral Significance of the Material Culture, Inquiry, 1992, 35, 3-4, Sept-Dec, 291-300.

¶ A discussion of ethics as related to material culture. The findings of Mihaly Csikszentmihalyi & Eugene Rochberg-Halton (The Meaning of Things, New York: Cambridge U Press, 1981) reflect two kinds of cul-tural realities that sponsor two kinds of conduct: commanding reality, represented by musical instruments, which invites social & physical en-gagement & provides orientation within the world; & (2) a second kind of reality, exemplified by stereos, consists of consumable commodities & conduces to a life of distraction & disorientation. It is concluded that eth-ics is not just a matter of conduct within whatever reality but of deciding which kind of reality is favored. Here a plea is made on behalf of com-manding reality. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7171

Boxill, Ian O'Brian (Colorado State U, Fort Collins 80523), Material and Structural Determinants of Nutritional Behavior: Towards a Ho-listic Sociological Approach, * Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 6, Dec, 2111-A. Available from UMI, Ann Arbor, MI. Order No. DA9231769.

93Z7172

Boyer, Jay (Arizona State U, Tempe 85287), The Schlemiezel: Black Humor and the Shtetl Tradition, Humor, 1991, 4, 2, 165-175.

¶ A comparison of the "fools" of Eastern European (especially Yiddish) shtetl literature & the comic "victims" in the work of US black humor-ists. Key similarities & distinctions are noted. 8 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7173

Brewer, Devon D., Hip Hop Graffiti Writers' Evaluations of Strate-gies to Control Illegal Graffiti, (M Human Organization, 1992, 51, 2, summer, 188-196.

¶ In order to stimulate hip-hop graffiti (HHG) writers' involvement in the policy-making process to control illegal graffiti, data were collected from 13 elite writers of HHG from New York City, Los Angeles & San Francisco (Calif), & Seattle (Wash). The writers first listed familiar strategies that communities use for controlling illegal graffiti, eg, buffing out graffiti & heavy sentences & fines, & then suggested alternative strategies, eg, legal walls for HHG writers, businesses hiring writers to paint walls, & publication of aerosol art. The writers then ranked the 12 community & 5 alternative strategies according to their effectiveness in reducing illegal graffiti, the writer's preference for the strategy, & the estimated cost of implementation. In cultural consensus analysis, writers from the same area tended to cluster on the effectiveness rankings, with New Yorkers ranking traditional community strategies high & Califor-nians ranking alternative strategies high. In the writer's preference rank-ing, there was a high degree of consensus in preferring the alternative strategies, but very little consensus on cost. Given experiences with alter-native strategies in Calif & in Europe, it is concluded that such strategies may be more effective than traditional ones in controlling costly illegal graffiti. 3 Tables, 60 References. M. Pflum

93Z7174

Cerny, Catherine A. (Dept Textiles/Fashion Merchandising/Design U Rhode Island, Kingston 02881), A Quilt Guild: Its Role in the Elab-oration of Female Identity, Uncoverings, 1991, 12, 32-49.

¶ The symbolic dimensions of the modern quilt world are examined in a case study of a Minn quilt guild. Fieldwork, conducted 1984/85, includ-ed participation observation of guild activities & in-depth interviews of 19 members (including founders, board members, & teachers) sup-plemented by questionnaires completed by 170 members. Focus is on the guild's role in providing a women's support group that addressed & partly resolved ambiguities of contemporary female social life through reflection on a traditional female identity, ie, the quiltmaker. The quilt guild is described as an example of feminine culture, & the role of guild activities in defining quilt tradition is examined. Members' statements about display quilts (recorded in the quilt show catalog) reveal emergent themes of quilter identity & suggest that women's quiltmaking be viewed as empowering personal & social identity. Sherry Ortner's distinction between summarizing & elaborating symbols (see SA 22:4/74G9908) is applied to underscore the significance of the quilt in the lives of guild members. Modified AA

93Z7175

Chakrabarty, Dipesh (U Melbourne, Parkville Victoria 3052 Australia), Postcoloniality and the Artifice of History: Who Speaks for "Indian" Pasts?, UM Representations, 1992, 37, winter, 1-26.

¶ It is argued that, to the extent that Third World histories are written as stories of transition to modernity, they become stories of a hypothetical & imaginary "Europe" in the production of which both European imperialism & modernizing Third World nationalisms have historically collaborated. This is a Europe that is seen as the birthplace of what is presented–often implicitly–in these writings as the highest model of sociality, the state-citizenship bond. Material from nineteenth- & twentieth-century Indian history is used to show how other models of social & human connections are subsumed in this story, & how they survive the models valorized in these narrative strategies. Also demonstrated is the social violence on which the state-citizen bond is both logically &, in the Indian case, historically founded. Predicaments that writers of academic histories of the Third World or non-Western cultures find themselves are discussed, recommending as a solution the writing of histories that consistently trace the violence that accompanies all attempts to structure the world as one. AA

93Z7176

Chandra, Prabha S. & Chaturvedi, Santosh K. (Dept Psychiatry National Instit Mental Health & Neurosciences, Bangalore India), Cultural Variations in Attitudes toward Menstruation, UM Canadian Journal of Psychiatry/Revue Canadienne de Psychiatrie, 1992, 37, 3, Apr, 196-198.

¶ The influence of cultural & social factors on attitudes toward menstruation is explored in a sample of 48 female nursing students in Bangalore, India, drawing on questionnaire data. Analysis reveals that women age 25+ are significantly more likely to consider menstruation as being "natural." No other significant relationships are found between menstrual attitudes & demographic variables. The attitudes of Indian & 154 US college women are also compared, drawing on secondary data from the same questionnaire. 2 Tables, 15 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7177

Chaufrault, Bernard (U Tours, F-37041 Cedex France), The Stereotypes of "Deep France" in the *Almanach Vermot, Humor, 1992, 5, 1-2, 7-31.

¶ Popular French humor is examined using a semiotic approach. Based on the recurrence of stereotypes, this form of humor is representative of the doxa (majority public opinion) of "deep France" (a term refering to myths about an ideal France), which emerges through puns, jokes, & cartoons of the Almanach Vermot, a publication that for a century has chronicled the daily life of deep France. Figurative analysis is used to define the concept of deep France through the different representations of the average Frenchman, focusing on the system of meaning that issues from the articulation of the figures & on the specific axiological system referred to these figures. It is concluded that the laughter provoked by the Almanach Vermot, due to its conformism, emanates more from the comic (ie, popular manifestations of humor) than from humor (ie, humor for sophisticates). 1 Appendix, 17 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7178

Cosgrove, Denis (Dept Geography Loughborough U Technology, Leicester LE11 3TU England), Orders and a New World: Cultural Geography 1990-91, Progress in Human Geography, 1992, 16, 2, June, 272-280.

¶ A review of 1990/91 research & writing of interest to cultural geographers, a period of key world political changes, specifically the collapse of a global order based on First, Second, & Third Worlds, & the one remaining superpower's rhetoric of a new world order. The research is categorized under four themes: (1) theorizing cultural order, exploring materialist approaches to globalism & postmodernism; (2) cultural order & nature, commenting on the relative poverty of territorial concerns in modern cultural geography; (3) natural order & culture, discussing the emergence of a green culture with close links to certain feminist discourses & to environmental morality; & (4) cultural order & nation, examining world order & nationalism, & discussing the growth of interest, particularly among English cultural geogrphers, in geographical expressions of nationalism, both historical & contemporary. A plea is made for diversity in cultural theory within geography & for recognition of the power of imagination & passion in human motivation as cultural geography responds to the political agenda of the 1990s. 40 References. AA

93Z7179

Detrichné Török, Zsuzsa, Kultúra és szakralitás a moldvai csángóknál (Culture and Sacredness among the Hungarian-Speaking Natives of Moldavia), Szociológia, 1990, 3-4, 223-236. (HUN)

¶ Abstract not currently available.

93Z7180

Digard, Jean-Pierre (Unité recherche CNRS, 255 Ivry-sur-Seine France), Un Aspect méconnu de l'histoire de l'Amérique: la domestication des animaux (A Little-Known Aspect of the History of the Americas: The Domestication of Animals), L'Homme, 1992, 32, 2-4(122-124), Apr-Dec, 253-270. (FRE)

¶ Three types of animal domestication processes are distinguished in the New World: (1) the selective hunting of alpacas & llamas, as well as of turkeys, carunculate ducks, & guinea pigs, all New World natives, was a neolithic process established well before Columbus's arrival; (2) true domestication involved certain Amerindian societies' systematic taming of isolated wild animals; & (3) certain European-introduced species, eg, horses, cattle, & guinea fowl, which had reverted to a wild state following the Conquest, were redomesticated. It is noted that, with rare exceptions, an animal species can never be considered definitively domesticated. The actions of man alone maintain its level of tameness. 59 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7181

Dirks, Nicholas B. (U Michigan, Ann Arbor 48109), Castes of Mind, UM Representations, 1992, 37, winter, 56-78.

¶ It is contended that India & Hinduism cannot be understood unless caste–the foundation & core of Indian civilization–is considered. The political logic of Indian society is focused on to redress a former emphasis on religion & to underscore the fact that caste structure, ritual form, & political process were all dependent on power relations. The phenomenon of caste is explored by considering both a colonial & nationalist sociology. It is contended that, if colonial discourse & the documentation apparatus that provided the evidence & the ground for the colonial caste of mind was not autonomously constitutive, neither was it epiphenomenal. Orientalist versions of India's essence & anthropological representations of the centrality of caste have conspired to deny Indians their history. The potential subjectivity of Indians was not suppressed outright but shifted into the cultural logic of reproduction implied by terms such as custom & tradition, which in India meant caste. It is concluded that, in India, the forms of casteism & communalism that continue to work against the imagined community of the nascent nation state have been imagined through the same historical mechanisms that, in the colonizing nations of Europe & the US, were more securely harnessed to the project of state formation. S. Millett

93Z7182

Dressler-Holohan, Wanda (Centre national recherche scientifique, 54 rue Pouchet F-75017 Paris France), Culture minoritaire, culture nationale et culture de diaspora (Minority Culture, National Culture and Diaspora Culture), Social Science Information/Information sur les Sciences Sociales, 1992, 31, 2, June, 375-394. (FRE)

¶ An exploration of post-1950 changes in paradigms shaping Western Europe's acceptance of & reaction to minority cultures & immigrant co onies. Forces of the New Right in England, Italy, France, & Spain claim that minorities are a threat, destablizing laws & hegemonic traditions established in the statist tradition by universalist modern intellectuals & artists. The minority cultural liberation ideology began with demands for bilingual expression (foreign language education) &, with the support of the environmental & feminist agendas, gathered political force among expatriate intellectuals in overseas immigrant colonies. Corsicans, Basques, & Catalonians have formed influential expatriate colonies. Nation-states of Western Europe are trading a predominant cultural unification strategy for new forms of cultural regulation, integrating regional demands for autonomous identity with the need to keep their borders intact. 15 References. J. Sadler

93Z7183

Durham, William H. (Dept Anthropology Stanford U, CA 94305-2145), Applications of Evolutionary Culture Theory, UM Annual Review of Anthropology, 1992, 21, 331-335.

¶ Studies in which evolutionary culture theory (ECT) has been used to analyze status & change in human cultural systems are reviewed. ECT proposes a branching, hierarchical pattern of descent in human cultural systems, with modifications through transformation & diversification. Cultural systems normally descend through successive uniparental fissions; ecological, psycholinguistic, linguistic, & cultural barriers act as mechanisms that isolate cultures & prevent transmission through fusion or hybridization. Cultural modifications occur through sequential change within a given culture (transformation) or through the branching of one culture into two or more descendants (diversifications). The culture of a given group evolves as conveyance forces cause differential rates of social transmission among existing variants. Cultural homologies & ties of descent have been explored in the anthropological subfields of historical linguistics, biological anthropology, archeology, & cultural anthropology, but they have not been integrated or unified. 173 References. M. Pflum

93Z7184

Falasca-Zamponi, Simonetta, The Aesthetics of Politics: Symbol, Power and Narrative in Mussolini's Fascist Italy, Theory, Culture & Society, 1992, 9, 4, Nov, 75-91.

¶ The relationship between politics & symbols (ie, culture) is examined through an analysis of Italian fascism & the narrative structure of Benito Mussolini's speeches on the occasion of the Ethiopian campaign. It is argued that an adequate approach to the study of symbols is not exhausted by considering only the functional effect of specific symbols or rituals, & that symbols, rituals, myths, & cults can be examined as elements that contribute to the formation of a governmental power's political identity. Walter Benjamin's theory of aestheticized politics ("The Work of Art in the Age of Mechanical Reproduction" in Arendt, Hannah [Ed], Illuminations, New York: Yale U Press, 1976), which stresses the importance of the symbolic & mythical apparatus in the construction of Mussolini's power, is discussed, & Mussolini's aesthetic politics examined. 17 References. W. Howard

93Z7185

Fell, Albert P. (Queen's U, Kingston Ontario K7L 3N6), Fathoming World History and the Moral Malaise of Modernity, UM Queen's Quarterly, 1992, 99, 2, summer, 307-313.

¶ A review article on books by: Francis Fukuyama, The End of History and the Last Man (New York: Macmillan; Toronto: Maxwell Macmillan, 1992) & Charles Taylor, The Malaise of Modernity (Concord, Ontario: Anansi, 1991 [see listings in IRPS No. 67]). Fukuyama's book argues that liberal democracy coupled with a market economy might constitute the endpoint of humanity's ideological evolution. Science & worldwide demands for individual rights are the two motors driving the expansion of global market capitalism. Fukuyama's book is praised for its grand historical interpretation, & for offering an interpretation of history that is philosophically informed. Taylor's book offers densely argued reflections on the morality or authenticity of being true to one's self in the era of global capitalism. He suggests that people in modernity are led to nihilism through egoism, disenchantment with the world, rampant instrumental reason, & a feeling of political impotence. W. Howard

93Z7186

Fuss, Diana (Princeton U, NJ 08544), Fashion and the Homospectatorial Look, UM Critical Inquiry, 1992, 18, 4, summer, 713-737.

¶ The fascination that commercial fashion photography holds for its female viewers is examined via an analysis of photographs from fashion magazines. Sigmund Freud's theories of primary & secondary identification, Jacques Lacan's readings of specularity & subjectivity in relation to the preoedipal mirror stage (Sheridan, Alan (Tr), Ecrits: A Selection, New York, 1977), & Julia Kristeva's notions of abjection & the "homosexual-maternal facet" (Gora, Thomas, Jardine, Alice, & Roudiez, Leon S. [Trs & Eds], New York, 1980) are drawn on to argue that fashion photographs work as post-mirror-phase fantasies. It is concluded that the fashion industry operates as one of the few institutionalized areas where women are encouraged to consume, in voyeuristic or vampiristic fashion, the images of other women. 9 Figures. W. Howard

93Z7187

Gallo, Pia Grassivaro & Viviani, Franco (#128/b Via S. Pietro, I-35139 Padova Italy), The Origin of Infibulation in Somalia: An Ethological Hypothesis, Ethology and Sociobiology, 1992, 13, 4, July, 253-265.

¶ Previous research on excisory practices in Somalia have demonstrated a connection between a pastoral way of life & infibulation. After describing characteristics of this pastoral life, it is suggested that infibulation is an evolutionary response to the situation, made necessary by the reaction of animals to sexually linked female odors. The "oderless" infibulated woman who tends the herds of smaller animals is less likely to attract predators & her presence is less disquieting to the sheep & goats that are the main source of subsistence for her people. 1 Figure, 34 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7188

Giraud, Michel (1 allée Georges Braque, F-94000 Creteil France), Assimilation, pluralisme, "double culture": l'ethnicité en question (Assimilation, Pluralism, "Double Culture": The Question of Ethnicity), Social Science Information/Information sur les Sciences Sociales, 1992, 31, 2, June, 395-405. (FRE)

¶ The terms assimilation & cultural pluralism are only two possible representations of the infinite combinations resulting from the integration of immigrants into a dominant culture. Assimilation of foreign ethnic groups into the national culture is the preferred French model, while cultural pluralism, built on ethnic autonomy, prevails in Anglo-Saxon countries. The basic assumption in both models rests on genealogical identity, reducing social actors to their ethnic status, which then is essentially equated with stereotyped characteristics. In France, current trends in ethnic syncretism & cultural mixing are replacing this argument. "Double identity" (or "culture") & cultural marginality characterize this apparently contradictory situation. Ethnic identity arises from culturally & socially conditioned identification strategies, & takes on different meanings according to the context, as with young North African immigrants to France. Although ethnicity is ideologically constructed, it is not imaginary, because of its social impact. 18 References. J. Sadler

93Z7189

Giroux, Henry A. & Trend, David (Miami U, Oxford OH 45056), Cultural Workers, Pedagogy and the Politics of Difference: Beyond Cultural Conservatism, Cultural Studies, 1992, 6, 1, Jan, 51-72.

¶ The debate about culture & difference in the context of education & democracy, & the implications this struggle has for redefining a language of critique capable of challenging the authoritarianism central to the new cultural conservatism, are explored. Following a review of the past decade's political battles over education & the arts, the common challenges facing cultural workers involved in these debates are identified. It is argued that concepts such as education & artistic practice must be broadened into a more integrated category of cultural "writing" that requires a new paradigm of emancipatory practice. It is emphasized that public schools, along with other cultural sites, do not simply provide students with the knowledge & skills they will need to secure employment & positions of privilege, but are also contradictory sites of struggle through which different subject positions, knowledges, & values are produced. 43 References. S. Millett

0038-0202/93 $1.50

93Z7190
Graves, Paul (U Southampton, S09 5NH England), The Persistence of Memory: Dynamics of Sociocultural Evolution, Cultural Dynamics, 1991, 4, 3, 290-320.
¶ The mechanisms by which continuity of activity is maintained are explored to understand human evolution & to determine how & why humans, as individuals & as societies, have changed. It is argued that sociocultural evolution must be examined within a primarily ecological & social context, given that humans maintain & transform the organism-environment relationship through their sociality. However, humans do not transcend nature by this transformation, & the development of culture is no more progressive than is the process of natural selection. It is suggested that if social or cultural evolution & biological evolution are to be compared, it is not by reducing the former to the output of a monolithic mechanism of memetic selection, but rather, by recognizing that biological evolution must be viewed as a structurally complex process taking place on a multiplicity of mutually constraining levels. Both kinds of evolution (if distinct) share characteristics revealed by a radically materialist analysis. Processes of biological & social change are neither homologous nor analogous in their dynamics of operation, but they share the characteristic of being nonprogressive. As each generation reconstructs human knowledge, new aspects of the dialects emerge that drive the evolutionary process. 148 References. S. Millett (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7191
Guille-Escuret, Georges, Cannibales isolés et monarques sans histoire (Isolated Cannibals and Monarchs without a History), L'Homme, 1992, 32, 2-4(122-124), Apr-Dec, 327-345. (FRE)
¶ Structuralist vs functionalist perspectives on cannibalistic practices in the New World (the Caribbeans, Tupi-Guarani, Aztecs, & Iroquois) are compared. The structuralist approach to ethnology locates cannibalism along a line between the opposities of elaborate/primitive & culture/nature. Forms of anthropophagy include exocannibalism, endocannibalism, & the hunt for trophies. The structural approach trivializes the historical factor. By contrast, an ecological, biologically determinist, & functionalist explanation of anthropophagy suggests that the dietary proteins available by consumption of plentiful human flesh provided an advantage for the Aztec elite. 58 References. J. Sadler (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7192
Harris, David John (Harvard U, Cambridge MA 02138), Of Prophecy and Profits: A Study of the Amway Worldview, * Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 5, Nov, 1674-A.
Available from UMI, Ann Arbor, MI. Order No. DA9228207.

93Z7193
Ho, Mae-Wan (Open U, Milton Keynes MK7 6AA Buckinghamshire England), The Role of Action in Evolution: Evolution by Process and the Ecological Approach to Perception, Cultural Dynamics, 1991, 4, 3, 336-354.
¶ Neo-Darwinism is dismissed as an all-embracing theory of evolution in the analysis of the significance of action (as opposed to behavior) in evolution, & its fundamental connection to J. J. Gibson's approach (The Ecological Approach to Visual Perception, Boston: Houghton Mifflin, 1979). An alternative framework for examining evolution is proposed that encompasses the epigenetic approach, the process view, & the view of the dynamic unity of "nature from within." It is argued that the activities of organisms amount to a continual, mutually transformative & structuring engagement with the environment. Action is effective because it is mediated by dynamic principles that can be known, & because organism & environment are connected so that the effect can propagate from organism to environment, to other organisms, back to itself, & ultimately to future generations. The real role of action in evolution lies in its transforming power in shaping the future. 4 Figures, 43 References. S. Millett (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7194
Hobsbawm, Eric, Goodbye Columbus, London Review of Books, 1992, 14, 13, 9 July, 14-15.
¶ Everyone living in the New World today, whether descendents of natives, slaves, or settlers, has been undeniably shaped by the 500 years of history since the first voyages of Christopher Columbus–but so has everyone in Europe. The relative power disparity historically favoring Europeans has served to mask the significant impact of the Americas on the Old World. New World influence is witnessed in ideals of polity & economy as well as in aspects of North American popular cultures that have been disseminated around the globe. Far more significant, it is argued, are transformations in the Old World's food crop production, especially of maize & potatoes, & its consumption of other staples like tobacco & Coca-Cola. As a more realistic account of modern cultural, social, & economic history is being written, these agricultural transformations deserve serious consideration. M. Maguire (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7195
Hoy, Mikita, Bakhtin and Popular Culture, UM New Literary History, 1992, 23, 3, summer, 765-782.
¶ Mikhail Bakhtin analyzes popular culture using a number of concepts: heteroglottal novelization, textual dialogism, carnival & permanent carnivalization, & chronotopes. Novelization is an interplay of dialogues (eg, art, literature, high culture). Style magazines exemplify heteroglottal novelization by anticanonically aggregating unrelated strata of discourse. Language used in this way is self-referential, results in ironic self-parody, & epitomizes aesthetic superficiality. Carnival occurs when dialogical strata are fused in a parodic, ironic festival of language. Carnival is more than conflation–it also implies an engagement of political conflict. The carnivalesque can be textual or performance-bound. The interpretation of carnival as madness or as psychological dialogisms does not constructively contribute to understanding popular culture. Antiageism vacuum-sealed in youth-time is the chronotope, an artificial entity. It is concluded that Bakhtinian dialogical analyses of text will never capture the distinctions of text & reality. J. Sadler (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7196
Ihde, Don (Dept Philosophy State U New York, Stony Brook 11794-3750), Image Technologies and Traditional Culture, Inquiry, 1992, 35, 3-4, Sept-Dec, 377-388.
¶ It is argued that image technologies prominent in today's communications technologies are acidic to traditional cultures. Parallel examples are drawn between the history of early modern science, & its optical instrumentation, & the rise of cinema & TV & other audiovisual technologies. A dominant contemporary phenomenon involves the appearance of pluriculture, a unique mediation of the multicultural in image technologies. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7197
Ingold, Tim (Dept Social Anthropology U Manchester, M13 9PL England), Becoming Persons: Consciousness and Sociality in Human Evolution, Cultural Dynamics, 1991, 4, 3, 355-378.
¶ Western thought is built on a fundamental ontological dualism between nature & humanity, which underwrites the conventional division of academic labor between natural science & the humanities. Accordingly, biologists study human beings as organisms, while social or cultural anthropologists study them as persons. The implications of this division are that the: human organism is seen to differ only in degree from organisms of other species; the development of the person involves the imposition of social or cultural form on a given organic substrate; & the organism is specified by those attributes contributed to individuals at the point of conception. Moreover, a division is set up between social & biological domains of human existence & relationships, which is most frequently adduced in the study of kinship; a similar division appears between the psychologically given self & the person as a cultural construct. These views suggest that, as psychobiologically preconstituted beings, humans are closed to the world, & can only apprehend it by way of their cultural representations. Rejecting this view, it is argued that personhood, far from being "added on" to the human organism through socialization or enculturation, arises within the process of the organism's development in an environment that includes, most importantly, other organism-persons. This argument leads to a refutation of the traditional distinction between biologically innate & culturally acquired aspects of human capability, & with it, the idea that human cultural differences are superimposed on biological universals. It is contended that learning to perceive is actually the fine-tuning of a perceptual system comprised by the whole organism-person in its environment, a view that enables us to show how experience may be shared prior to its linguistic representation, & hence how language is itself grounded in sociality. Seen in this light, history is not opposed to evolution, but is a continuation of an evolutionary process into the human world. 39 References. Modified AA (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7198

Ingold, Tim (Dept Social Anthropology U Manchester, M13 9PL England), Evolutionary Models in the Social Sciences: Introduction, Cultural Dynamics, 1991, 4, 3, 239-250.

¶ An introduction to a special issue of papers–by biologists, psychologists, & anthropologists–on the relevance of evolutionary models for social & cultural theory (see related abstracts in this section of SA 41:2). Reviewing the history of evolutionary thought, it is shown that, whereas in the nineteenth century, ideas about biological change were modeled on processes assumed for culture & society, today, the position is reversed, & many anthropologists are attempting to apply neo-Darwinian principles to the explanation of culture change. Accordingly, cultural systems are said to be made up of units of inheritance analogous to genes, & to evolve as these units undergo mutation & selection. Yet, even within biology, the neo-Darwinian paradigm has attracted strong criticism on the grounds that form is prefigured neither in genes nor in the environment, but rather, arises within the dynamics of developmental systems. Similar objections can be made against the cognitive premise of genetic evolution. Critics of both cognitive psychology & neo-Darwinian biology argue that form & meaning arise in the context of a mutually constitutive engagement between organisms & their environments, & do not precede that engagement. This critical convergence offers the prospect of a synthesis of biological & social/cultural theory that would break the Darwinian mold, transcending the received dualisms of genes & culture, & of organism & environment. 17 References. Modified AA (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7199

Jenkins, Philip & Maier-Katkin, Daniel (Pennsylvania State U, University Park 16802), Satanism: Myth and Reality in a Contemporary Moral Panic, UM Crime, Law and Social Change, 1992, 17, 1, Jan, 53-75.

¶ In recent years, some have advocated the creation of specialized police units to combat the supposed threat of Satanic criminality. However, most of the alleged evils are very poorly substantiated, & highly questionable statements have been widely circulated. In fact, the current concern about the occult appears to have all the hallmarks of a classic moral panic, where a peripheral issue is suddenly perceived as a major social menace. The limited foundation of truth underlying the present Satanic crime-wave is discussed, suggesting that the panic reflects the moral & political agenda of extremists from the fundamentalist religious Right. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7200

Lattanzi, Guglielmo, Alle origini della civiltà rumena (The Origins of Romanian Civilization), Religioni e Società, 1992, 7, 13, Jan-June, 106-110. (ITA)

¶ An overview is given of the prehistory of the land now known as Romania, occupied by the Thracians & Dacians in pre-Roman times. Some clues are provided by words for clothing & musical instruments found in modern Romanian dialects, especially in the highly traditional region of Transylvania. Additional information comes from ancient historians, eg, Herodotus. One of the first modern archeological expeditions, conducted in 1822, led to the discovery of the remains of a temple to Apollo in the Danube delta. Toponyms provide still more information. Technological comparisons can also be made measuring the progress of the Thracians & Dacians against that of other Indo-European peoples. The rise of militarism marked the first stage of a distinctly Romanian civilization. M. Meeks (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7201

Lave, Jean, Duguid, Paul, Fernandez, Nadine & Axel, Erik (U California, Berkeley 94720), Coming of Age in Birmingham: Cultural Studies and Conceptions of Subjectivity, UM Annual Review of Anthropology, 1992, 21, 257-282.

¶ The Center for Contemporary Cultural Studies (CCCS) at the U of Birmingham (England) successfully developed a theory of social practice addressing the relations between social subjects or social orders in accounting for the production of persons in historical & biographical (practical) time. The CCCS works focused on youth, subcultures, & subjective transitions in adult working-class lifestyles, taking class as the central assumption. The research connected the internal working of institutions officially preparing youth for adult lives to other sites of production of adult subjects. CCCS work on cultural transmission was theoretically complex, & raised questions about the irreducibility of class, race, & gender in the social-historical constitution of persons. CCCS's central collective work, Resistance through Rituals (Hall, S., & Jefferson, T. [Eds], London: Hutchinson, 1975) & other CCCS products are described. 143 References. M. Pflum (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7202

Lieberson, Stanley & Bell, Eleanor O. (Dept Sociology Harvard U, Cambridge MA 02138), Children's First Names: An Empirical Study of Social Taste, UM American Journal of Sociology, 1992, 98, 3, Nov, 511-554.

¶ Published data are used to analyze gender differences in naming patterns of newborns in NY, 1973-1985, focusing on how seemingly idiosyncratic expressions of tastes in names are affected by underlying cultural themes. Results suggest that long-standing stereotyped role assignments still have a subtle but major effect on the naming process. Two major parental characteristics–education & race–modify these general patterns. In turn, taste differences in subpopulations reveal their general aesthetic dispositions. 11 Tables, 1 Appendix, 51 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7203

Maisels, Charles, Trajectory versus Typology in Social Evolution, Cultural Dynamics, 1991, 4, 3, 251-269.

¶ In an attempt to operationalize the term "processes," & to trace chains of cause & effect regarding the processual approach to evolutionism, processes as the product of forces & events are discussed. It is argued that the key point about social (& natural) evolution is the cumulative articulation of traits or subsystems, ie, increases in complexity over time. The analysis integrates anthropological & archaeological materials from one cultural area to delineate an actual, lived trajectory that might yield the concepts required to feed a reviving interest in social evolution. To accomplish this, Harappan (Indian) civilization & its devolution are discussed & contrasted with broadly contemporary Mesopotamia to demonstrate how ethnographic fieldwork can contribute to historical reconstruction. The Indian example demonstrates that social evolution is a process of advancing complexity comprised of a sequence of events (constituting a process) induced by forces, such that a great deal is retained even when overarching political or economic structures collapse. 2 Tables, 38 References. S. Millett (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7204

Martiniello, Marco (U Liège, B-4000 Belgium), Dynamique et pluralisme culturels dans l'ensemble Bruxellois (Cultural Dynamics and Pluralism in the Brussels Region), Social Science Information/Information sur les Sciences Sociales, 1992, 31, 2, June, 293-309. (FRE)

¶ A critique of the culturalist discourse predominant in the area of Brussels, Belgium, points to alternative approaches to culture & cultural pluralism. The discourse is basically faulty in assuming that exclusively ethnic, national, or religious categories are sufficient to separate various cultures. As a unique urban laboratory for cultural contact, Brussels's administrative, geographic, & human features are described. It is contended that the culturalist constructs a dysfunctional definition of immigrants (Moroccans & Turks); such categories are only euphemisms for racist terminology. A reconstructed definition of the culture concept entails socioeconomic criteria, & has natural links with urban cultures, peripheral culture, & international bourgeois culture. 11 References. J. Sadler (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7205

Mennell, Stephen, Murcott, Anne & Van Otterloo, Anneke H. (Dept Anthropology & Sociology Monash U, Clayton Victoria 3168 Australia), The Sociology of Food: Eating, Diet and Culture, Current Sociology/La Sociologie Contemporaine, 1992, 40, 2, autumn, 1-152.

¶ A sociology of food is developed that focuses on eating & dietary habits & how they intersect with issues of culture & social structure. Broad theoretical orientations used by sociologists & other social scientists in the study of food & eating in human society are examined, & relevant research on food-related topics is reviewed. An inquiry into the field of ethnological food research identifies affinities between two disciplines–anthropology & histoire des mentalités (history of mentalities). Also discussed are developments in research on food consumption & trends in nutritional policies, & an attempt is made to clarify the interrelationship between food problems on the one hand & developments in food science, food consumption research, & international food policies on the other. Other issues covered include: beliefs & practices about food & health; sociological approaches to eating disorders; the relationship between food & social inequality; the global impact of food technology; the question of whether domestic cooking will be superfluous in the future; the place of food in the domestic division of labor; & food in total institutions. It is suggested that the sociology of food is an emerging field in which the choice of food as a focus makes possible a wide range of intellectual connections. 618 References. W. Howard

0038-0202/93 $1.50

93Z7206

Michaels, Walter Benn (Johns Hopkins U, Baltimore MD 21218), Race into Culture: A Critical Genealogy of Cultural Identity, Critical Inquiry, 1992, 18, 4, summer, 655-685.

¶ It is argued that race has played a determining role in the constitution of US identity, & that even the attempt to criticize & supplant the notion of racial identity with the notion of cultural identity has, in fact, involved the continuation, rather than repudiation of racial ideology. After illustrating how racial difference between blacks & whites was deployed in the Progressive period to create a truly national citizenship & to legitimate the project of assimilating vast numbers of immigrants, it is shown how the Progressive opposition between national & sectional was replaced in the 1920s by the nativist opposition between national & alien, multiplying racial differences & recasting US citizenship as something that could be better understood as inherited rather than acquired. The distinctive character of nativist racial ideology is its pluralism: the dependence of cultural pluralism on nativism is shown, arguing that even the most determined attempts to replace the model of racial inheritance with a model of cultural inheritance must rely on the continuity of race. AA

93Z7207

Mines, Mattison (U California, Santa Barbara 93106), Individuality and Achievement in South Indian Social History, Modern Asian Studies, 1992, 26, 1, Feb, 129-156.

¶ To argue that the role of the individual in India has been understated, the Beeri Chettiars, a merchant class of Madras City, in southern India, are studied during three time periods: 1652-1708, the moiety division of castes reflected the primary competition of individual headmen-brokers, each of whom stood at the apex of an intercaste production & trade network; 1717-1816, headman-traders segmented the town into constituency domains, enabling the heads of the moieties to compete within their own territories for economic preeminence; & 1867-1890, leading men garnered allies & forced a restructuring of the Beeri Chettiar caste, curtailing the autonomous authority of headmen in the civil courts & imposing bureaucratic standards of administration that deflated their power. Thus, individualism does play a role in Indian society, though not based on the values of equality & liberty that characterize Western individualism. Different traits include (1) individualistic social identity defined by public reputation; (2) uniqueness marked by preeminence; (3) achieved identity associated with a deliberate striving after personal gain, dominance, & prestige; & (4) autonomy marked by responsibility for who one is & what one does. 54 References. G. Castañeda

93Z7208

Oxfeld, Ellen (Dept Sociology/Anthropology Middlebury Coll, VT 05753), Individualism, Holism, and the Market Mentality: Notes on the Recollections of a Chinese Entrepreneur, Cultural Anthropology, 1992, 7, 3, Aug, 267-300.

¶ Drawing on interviews conducted in 1989 with a member of the Hakka Chinese community of Calcutta, India, ambivalences & apparent contradictions in the man's account of his life as an entrepreneur are explored. It is argued that, to understand the dialogue of differing voices or views within a given monologue, & to understand why a given individual focuses on a certain realm of human action in the expression of such conflicting or ambivalent outlooks, the observer must look for connections between these expressions & social, economic, or culturally generated tensions inherent in the individual's environment. The case study attempts to demonstrate that moving away from flattened, uniform models of cultural understanding necessitates a focus not only on contending impulses & outlooks, but also on the relationship between such internal formulations & the contradictions of the context. In this case, this includes close inspection of the relationship between the micropolitics of the family economy & the values & imperatives of the larger economic system in which it is embedded. 66 References. S. Millett

93Z7209

Pino-Díaz, Fermín del, La Renaissance et le nouveau monde: José d'Acosta, jésuite anthropologue (1540-1600) (The Renaissance and the New World: José d'Acosta, a Jesuit Anthropologist (1540-1600)), L'Homme, 1992, 32, 2-4(122-124), Apr-Dec, 309-326. (FRE)

Translated from Spanish by Carmen Bernand & Serge Gruzinski.

¶ The anthropology of Jesuit missionary José d'Acosta (1540-1600) foreshadowed modern trends in its emphasis on cultural differences. While doing missionary work in Peru (1572-1587), d'Acosta developed humanist interests in the natural environment & politics, & an evolutionary approach to the origin of native peoples. In the Renaissance tradition of idealizing Greco-Roman life, d'Acosta's ethnocentric analysis of certain Amerindian groups in Mexico & Peru overvalued the importance of their phonetic writing & urban life, while overlooking the potential of other cultural factors. Such eighteenth-century thinkers as John Locke, Hugo Grotius, & Thomas Hobbes were influenced by his theories. A study of d'Acosta's scholarly work & life is part of the anthropology of Spanish elites. 29 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7210

Reddy, B. K. Chandrasekar, Reddy, V. Rami & Balakrishnan, V. (c/o V. Rami Reddy–Dept Physical Anthropology Sri Venkateswara U, Tirupati 517502 India), Sero-Genetic Variation among the Reddis of Southern Andhra Pradesh, Journal of the Indian Anthropological Society, 1990, 25, 1, Mar, 26-34.

¶ To explore serogenetic variation, blood & saliva samples were obtained from 1,250 individuals of both sexes, 250 from each of the 5 Reddi populations: Pokanati, Pedakanti, Panta, Akuthota, & Palle from Chittoor District, Andhra Pradesh, India. Except in the Palle, the blood group "O" predominates, as does the secretor over the nonsecretor gene. 8 Tables, 2 Figures, 27 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7211

Ruch, Willibald, Ott, Christiane, Accoce, Jeannine & Bariaud, Françoise (U Düsseldorf, D-4000 Federal Republic Germany), Cross-National Comparison of Humor Categories: France and Germany, Humor, 1991, 4, 3-4, 391-414.

¶ A humor test employing a taxonomy of humor categories derived from previous German studies was translated into French to examine its cross-national stability. Test 3 WD ((3 humor-dimension) "Diagnose des Humors–Humor als Diagnostikum" [Diagnosis of Humor–Humor as Diagnostic] in Hehl, Franz-Josef, Ebel, Volker, & Ruch, Willibald (Eds), Diagnostik psychischer und psycho-physiologischer Störungen [Psychic Diagnosis and Psycho-Physiological Disturbance], Bonn: Deutscher Psychologen-Verlag, 1985, 253-325) used jokes in cartoons that measured funniness & aversiveness based on incongruity-resolution, nonsense, & sexual humor. Also in both countries, mean funniness & heterogeneity of amused responses (controversiality) were compared, along with humor-appreciating personality types. Results of the translated French test & a survey of conservatism & ambiguity-intolerance found that French Ss (N = 139) & German Ss (N = 115) largely agreed on funniness of jokes, although a cultural differential appeared in the appreciation of sexual humor. The categories used in either culture were interchangeable. In both countries, personality types determined by conservatism & ambiguity-tolerance equally appreciated the different humor categories. 3 Tables, 29 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7212

Saenz, Michael (Dept Radio/Television/Film U Texas, Austin 78712), Television Viewing as a Cultural Practice, Journal of Communication Inquiry, 1992, 16, 2, summer, 37-51.

¶ TV viewing is a strategic institutional arrangement that promotes rhetorical, political, poetic, & cultural work. It provides viewers with another perspective on otherness, & elaborates their implicit social knowledge, which is then used for personal interpretive ends. Viewers aesthetically preciate TV drama due to programming's cultural immediacy & sense performance, yet maintain critical distance from its consumerist poet- & authoritarian rhetoric. TV culturally organizes the development &)duction of a dialectic between distinctive registers of a viewer's expe- nce. 34 References. J. Sadler

Z7213

Santos Corral, María Josefa (U Nacional Autónoma México, 01000 Mexico DF), Cultura e innovación en cuatro empresas mexicanas (Culture and Innovation in Four Mexican Firms), Nueva Antropología, 1991, 11, 40, Nov, 9-22. (SPA)

An analysis of factors that influenced the innovative direction of four exican firms, exploring the elements that contributed to or hindered : socialization of technological innovations, & the impact of the pro- ss of assimilation & development of technological innovations on fac- y culture. The discussion is based on data obtained via case studies, olving direct observation for periods of 2-3 months & interviews with iployees of 4 firms that met the following requirements: (1) their capi- l composition was 100% national; (2) they have carried out modifica- ns to their processes or products as an alternative to survive; & (3) ey are linked in some manner to the U Nacional Autónoma de éxico. The firms were also drawn from different industrial sectors & re characterized by different organizational structures. Described are e different incorporation levels of the technological innovations within e culture of the factories, from assimilation & acceptance with little ssibility of intervention to direct participation in the innovations. It is ncluded that the degree of incorporation depends mostly on the admin- rative structure of the firm & on the knowledge of the employees. 10 eferences. Modified AA

IZ7214

Saper, Bernard (Florida International U, Miami 33199), The JAP Joke Controversy: An Excruciating Psychosocial Analysis, Humor, 1991, 4, 2, 223-239.

Jewish-American princess (JAP) jokes are examined using cognitive- havioral analysis. Understanding of JAP jokes requires analysis of the stile, ethnic, & sexist thematic categories of humor, & applications of nctional analysis to the situations of teller & receiver & their interac- on. It should not be assumed that every JAP joke intends to perpetuate myth about presumed vices & failings, or that every laugh is meant to dicule or inflict harm on Jewish women. While it is possible that the ke could add fuel to antagonistic beliefs & feelings, it is much more kely that it will defuse or soften antagonism. 20 References. Adapted om the source document.

3Z7215

Scott, David (Dept Sociology/Anthropology Bates Coll, Lewiston ME 04240), Anthropology and Colonial Discourse: Aspects of the Demonological Construction of Sinhala Cultural Practice, Cultural Anthropology, 1992, 7, 3, Aug, 301-326.

An exploration of the discursive relationship between anthropology & olonial discourse questions why an identifiably colonial discourse that xercises a specifiably discursive hegemony in the contemporary con- struction of anthropological objects has received little analytical atten- tion. While it is arguable that a humanism of nonpejorative terminology & an impressive level of theoretical sophistication have come to charac- terized the construction of anthropological objects, what is more impor- tant is whether the colonial problematic itself (ie, the interrelated set of distinctive ideological or discursive presuppositions that established the contours of visibility of native practices) has been effectively displaced. It is argued that colonial problematics can & do travel in a variety of up- dated conceptual languages in contemporary anthropology. A case study of the anthropology of a group of Sinhala practices, known as yaktovil, performed in southern & southwestern Sri Lanka to rid victims of the influence of malevolent supernatural figures, is presented. 66 Ref- erences. S. Millett

93Z7216

Shevtsova, Maria (Center European Studies U Sydney, New South Wales 2006 Australia), Dialogism in the Novel and Bakhtin's Theory of Culture, UM New Literary History, 1992, 23, 3, summer, 747-763.

¶ It is argued that Mikhail Bakhtin's theory of culture is inseparable from his theories of language & of the novel, the latter relying heavily on the principles that are central to the former regarding the usage of social signs by specific social agents in situations peculiar to them, & for purposes defined by them. The social semiotics developed by Bakhtin involves the idea that all acts of speech are intentional discourses in processes of interchange & exchange between speakers. These processes are integral to culture which, instead of being a monolithic, homogeneous phenomenon, is fractured & variegated, giving multiple, heterogeneous cultures, all of which coexist in a historical time & place (Bakhtin's concept of the "chronotope") & change historically accordingly. The novel is, in Bakhtin's view, a type of discourse or utterance that depends on the oral quality of language as such & is shaped by the plural speech-types (jargons & official languages included) making up a society & its culture in given circumstances. Differentiated speech-types project the values & worldviews of differentiated social groups whose actions are the source of a particular society's dynamic & direction. Also examined is whether & how Bakhtin's intellectual concerns can be placed in a Marxist perspective, arguing that they are best understood in the Russian political & sociocultural contexts of the 1920s & 1930s. Modified AA

93Z7217

Siskind, Janet (Dept Anthropology Rutgers U, New Brunswick NJ 08903), The Invention of Thanksgiving: A Ritual of American Nationality, Critique of Anthropology, 1992, 12, 2, June, 167-191.

¶ Thanksgiving was "invented" in the US in the late nineteenth century as an occasion allowing a diverse collection of immigrants, by sharing a sacred meal, to become the descendants of the Pilgrims. Thanksgiving brings family members back home, strengthens ties of kinship, & invests the set of meanings incorporated in being an American with the emotional intensity & significance of family. The development of the meanings & symbols of Thanksgiving is analyzed. 37 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7218

Smith, David G. (U Lethbridge, Alberta T1K 3M4), Modernism, Hyperliteracy, and the Colonization of the Word, Alternatives, 1992, 17, 2, spring, 247-260.

¶ The issue of literacy in contemporary society is addressed through a genealogical, phenomenological, deconstructive exploration of three contexts within which any discussion of literacy must be located: gunpowder, Protestantism, & printing; postmodernism; & the transition from ideology to an ecology of consciousness exemplified by the new biology. Drawing on Thomas Carlyle's assessment of the character of the West, it is show that: gunpowder, via the exercise of power, helped determine which interpretations of the world became the dominant ones; Protestantism affected literacy by helping to establish individual freedom in interpretation; & printing provided the technology of dissemination necessary to the libertarian advance across Europe in the sixteenth century. Postmodernism has affected literacy by its focus on the plurality of meanings in the world, & the new biology has affected literacy by problematizing the Enlightenment assumption about rationality & the mechanical quality of nature. W. Howard

93Z7219

Spillman, Lynette Patrice (U California, Berkeley 94720), The Culture of National Identities: Constitutional Conventions, Centennials, and Bicentennials in the United States and Australia, * Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 5, Nov, 1676-A.

Available from UMI, Ann Arbor, MI. Order No. DA9228863.

93Z7220

Sponsler, Claire (George Washington U, Washington DC 20052), Narrating the Social Order: Medieval Clothing Laws, UM CLIO, 1992, 21, 3, spring, 265-283.

¶ A focus on the textuality of cultural productions or transactions is used to examine the considerable role that English clothing laws of the fourteenth & fifteenth centuries played in the articulation of a certain vision of the social order &, however, imperfectly, in the imposition of that imagined social order on experiential reality. By looking at these laws as social practices, it is shown how clothing laws reveal competing interests at work in an ongoing negotiation of social relations. It is further suggested that many of those who have written about clothing laws have fallen for what the laws claimed to be doing, taking them at face value as attempts to limit vanity & excess. Examining the discursive practices in writings about clothing laws makes possible a different interpretation, one that sees these legal texts as cultural work, aimed at shaping the social order in a particular way. From this perspective, clothing laws become decisive activities, powerful events, & meaning-laden social practices of the late Middle Ages. Modified AA

93Z7221

Tejapira, Kasian (Faculty Political Science Thammasat U, Bangkok 10200 Thailand), Pigtail: A Pre-History of Chineseness in Siam, SOJOURN, 1992, 7, 1, Feb, 95-122.

¶ In a challenge to the reification of ethnic categories, the genealogy of Chineseness in pre-twentieth-century Siam is examined, focusing on the pigtail as an alleged sign of Chineseness. A critical scrutiny of G. William Skinner's arguments (Chinese Society in Thailand: An Analytical History, Ithaca, NY: Cornell U Press, 1957) & the political & cultural history of the pigtail in both the Middle Kingdom & the Kingdom of Siam reveal the variable, situational, & pluralistic meanings of the pigtail. Deconstruction of the pigtail as signifier reveals Chineseness to be a recent invention in Thai racist discourse that had little to do with the pigtail as such. 17 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7222

Trigano, Shmuel (U Paris X, F-92001 Nanterre Cedex France), De l'usage marrane de l'Amérique (Marrano Usage of the New World Myth), L'Homme, 1992, 32, 2-4(122-124), Apr-Dec, 347-354. (FRE)

¶ Jews were expelled from Spain in 1492; however, some attempted to remain by converting to Christianity or clandestinely practicing their faith. The Marranos, as these outcast Jews were called, gradually reestablished their existential center by use of the New World myth. Although traditional Jewish society had been declining since the eleventh century, Jewish messianism was evoked in Marranos who fled to Amsterdam. The 1650 book Espercença de Israel, by Menasseh Ben Israel, illustrated the constructive destiny of marranism, which suggests that Jewish survival hinges on disappearance. Their return from exile outside world history is registered by the discovery of the New World. 7 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7223

Tsunoda, Tooru, Parrish, Kiyoko M., Higuchi, Susumu, Stinson, Frederick S., Kono, Hiroaki, Ogata, Motoi & Harford, Thomas C. (National Instit Alcohol Abuse & Alcoholism, 5600 Fishers Ln Rockville MD 20857), The Effect of Acculturation on Drinking Attitudes among Japanese in Japan and Japanese Americans in Hawaii and California, UM Journal of Studies on Alcohol, 1992, 53, 4, July, 369-377.

¶ The extent to which acculturation affects drinking attitudes was investigated in collaborative interviews with Japanese adults (age 18+) in Japan, Japanese Americans in Hawaii & Calif, & white Californians on drinking behavior & attitudes (total N = 1,351 males [Ms] & 1,429 females [Fs]). Ms were more likely to be heavy drinkers than Japanese Americans or whites. Evaluations of drinking appropriateness in 9 varied social situations were significantly different for the 3 Japanese ethnic groups, for both Ms & Fs. In factor analysis, Japanese associated spending time with small children with other situations appropriate for drinking, eg, with friends at home, while Japanese Americans associated spending time with small children with situations inappropriate for drinking, eg, before driving. Japanese-American Ms & Fs showed similar patterns; thus, acculturation differences were more apparent than gender differences. Drinking attitudes for Japanese Ms were more homogeneous than for Japanese Americans, even though the Japanese sample was more geographically & demographically heterogeneous. 7 Tables, 19 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7224

Vincent, Andrew (University Wales Coll, Cardiff CF1 3XA), Citizenship, Poverty and the Real Will, UM The Sociological Review, 1992, 40, 4, Nov, 702-725.

¶ The concept of citizenship in the work of turn-of-the-century British philosopher Bernard Bosanquet & his wife Helen is examined against a broader intellectual & historical framework. Three issues are dicussed in relation to citizenship–class, markets & poverty–through the medium of T.H. Marshall's ideas on citizenship, (Citizenship and Social Class, Cambridge: Cambridge U Press, 1980), taken as broad markers for the discussion of the concept in the post-WWII era. The discussion of each concept is then analyzed in relation to the Bosanquets's theories. While many of their analyses & answers are both inappropriate & antique, they do highlight certain intrinsic difficulties confronting modern states 46 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7225

Wachtel, Nathan (Coll France, F-75231 Paris Cedex 05), Note sur le problème des identités collectives dans les Andes méridionales (A Note about Group Identities in the Southern Andes), L'Homme, 1992, 32, 2-4(122-124), Apr-Dec, 39-52. (FRE)

¶ Colonial rule changed native southern Andean group identities & ethnicities, as illustrated by historically based anthropological case studies of the Yura, K'ulta, & Chipaya Indians. Based on numerous seventeenth-century Spanish descriptions of diabolic rites & beliefs, part of an eradication program is documented; it is noted that until the late eighteenth century, the development of indigenous religious representations & practices combined Christian & pagan beliefs. Such syncretism was institutionalized in a system of religious & civic duties, & the spatial organization of the community was interpreted in a dualist system. Identity was determined through a discourse of domination; the Aymara Indians subordinated the Chipaya, while the Spaniards controlled the Yura & K'ulta. 11 References. Adapted from the source document

93Z7226

Woodrum, Eric (North Carolina State U, Raleigh 27695), Pornography and Moral Attitudes, Sociological Spectrum, 1992, 12, 4, Oct-Dec, 329-347.

¶ Two conflicting antipornography sentiments have been identified in previous research: conservative moral traditionalism & feminism Analyzed here are the underpinnings of these attitudes toward pornography, drawing on data from a 1984 survey of 378 adults in Raleigh, NC Bi- & multivariate analyses indicate that women & elderly, married, & less educated persons are most condemning of pornography, as are religious traditionalists, political conservatives, & persons with restrictive attitudes toward sexuality. These patterns are analyzed further with the estimation of a causal model, gender interaction terms, & a decomposition of the predictor variables' effects. Although women are notably more opposed to pornography than men, gender effects are largely direct; there are no substantial gender interaction effects. 4 Tables, 1 Figure, 34 References. Adapted from the source document.

14 social anthropology

93Z7227

Ackerman, Lillian A. (Dept Anthropology Washington State U, Pullman 99164), Gender Status in Yup'ik Society, Etudes / Inuit / Studies, 1990, 14, 1-2, 209-221.

¶ Gender status in aboriginal Yup'ik culture is examined via a literature review & fieldwork conducted 1966/67 in the village of Goodnews Bay, Alaska. The analysis focuses on gender equality in four spheres–economic, political, domestic, & religious. The review reveals that: men have the advantage in the economic & political spheres; women have a higher status in the domestic sphere; & they are equal in the religious sphere. 3 Tables, 18 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7228

Alberro, Solange (Colegio México, 10740 Mexico DF), L'Acculturation des Espagnols dans le Mexique colonial:

déchéance ou dynamisme culturel? (The Acculturation of Spaniards in Colonial Mexico: Decadence or Cultural Dynamism?), L'Homme, 1992, 32, 2-4(122-124), Apr-Dec, 149-164. (FRE)
The problem of the Spaniard's acculturation in colonial Mexico begins ith the establishment of a creole identity in the eighteenth century. The colized Spaniards were distinguished by a cultural alignment with ingenous Indians, which was neither voluntary, conscious, or desirable r the new class of creoles, but rather, the inevitable result of processes culture contact. Starting with adopted native materials & processes, gitimation of indigenous culture continued as Spaniard caciques, to iin a material advantage, would protect the "idolatrous" Indian from ligious authorities. Spaniards turned to native forms of healing & sorry, & tolerated polygamy. Native practices were assimilated in degrees irying with pragmatic ends, while native beliefs offered Spaniards an ternative to Catholic cosmology & explanations of the human-nature lationship. Far from being a betrayal or degeneration of original Spanh values, acculturation was the creole's contribution to a dynamic 'estern model. 28 References. Adapted from the source document.

3Z7229

Bodenhorn, Barbara (Pembroke Coll, Cambridge CBZ 1RF England), "I'm Not the Great Hunter, My Wife Is" Iñupiat and Anthropological Models of Gender, Etudes / Inuit / Studies, 1990, 14, 1-2, 55-74.
Examination of four well-known models of hunter-gatherer societies iows that they are inadequate for analyzing Inupiat (of the North Slope orough of Alaska) social organization. The models' different perspecves are of: males (Ms) as hunters & females (Fs) as gatherers; Ms' auiority in social affairs in direct relation to the proportion of hunted meat i the total diet; Ms dominating the public/political/social sphere, & Fs ontrolling the domestic/private sphere; & development as favoring Ms t detrimental to the position of Fs. It is argued that these models fail) capture Inupiat society because basic assumptions about what it ieans to hunt or to be married, or about how persons are gendered, reiain unexamined. The analysis shows, among other things, that hunting annot be reduced to the catching & slaughtering of animals, but rather, ıcludes a set of both technical & symbolic activities in which the interependence of Ms & Fs is fundamental. 18 References. Adapted from he source document.

93Z7230

Caillavet, Chantal & Minchom, Martin (CERMACA EHESS, F-75006 Paris France), Le Métis imaginaire: idéaux classificatoires et stratégies socio-raciales en Amérique latine (XVIe-XXe siècle) (The Imaginary Mestizo: Classificatory Ideals and Socioracial Strategies in Latin America (Sixteenth-Twentieth Centuries)), L'Homme, 1992, 32, 2-4(122-124), Apr-Dec, 115-132. (FRE)
A historically based semantic & substantive analysis of the socioracial categories of white, mestizo, & Indian in colonial-era Latin America. The mestizo class was constructed as part of an overall "caste" society by seventeenth-century metropolitan Spaniards obsessed by a categorically strict approach to racial purity. Based on data from consensus, parish registers, & Inquisition records for Mexico, Ecuador, & Peru, the inadequacy of this category to describe the social stratification of colonial reality is demonstrated. The semantic domain of the Spanish & Indian language terms for these categories (including the recent "gringo") is sketched diachronically. Since only pure Indians were exempt from the tribunals of the Inquisition, mestizos reevaluated their white heritage to avoid payment of tributes. After the Bourbon administrative reforms in the late eighteenth century, the category mestizo was eliminated. 30 References Adapted from the source document.

93Z7231

Célestino, Olinda (Centre national recherche scientifique, F-75700 Paris France), Confréries religieuses, noblesse indienne et économie agraire (Religious Brotherhoods, Indian Nobility and the Agricultural Economy), L'Homme, 1992, 32, 2-4(122-124), Apr-Dec, 99-113. (FRE) ¶ Andean colonial society in the late 1700s benefited economically from the work of Catholic brotherhoods. Based on the records of inspections by priests & civil authorities in the Mantaro valley of the central Peruvian Andes, it is noted how the native Indian chiefs & nobility were proselytized, & recruited to perform social & religious functions. Work consisted of agricultural production & raising of livestock. Nobility donated their family wealth to the brotherhoods, allowing the church to safeguard their property. The pastoral economy & financial obligations of the brotherhoods are detailed. 20 References. J. Sadler

93Z7232

Chaumeil, Jean-Pierre (Centre national recherche scientifique, F-75700 Paris France), De Loreto à Tabatinga. D'une frontière l'autre: antagonisme sur l'Amazone au XIXe siècle et après (From Loreto to Tabatinga. From One Border to the Other: Antagonism on the Amazon in the Nineteenth Century and Afterward), L'Homme, 1992, 32, 2-4(122-124), Apr-Dec, 355-375. (FRE) ¶ Possible explanations are given for differences consistently noted by travelers & scientists traveling along the Amazon River in the nineteenth century between Loreto, Peru, & Tabatinga, Brazil. Over the century, change in the size or demography of either site was small, but stark contrasts developed in the global situation of the countries. The Peru of Loreto was characterized by an unstable politics & uncivilized savagery typical of the Hispanic world. The Brazilian destination of Tabatinga was rich in international trade, & represented a world opened to the "modern" nations of England & France. Despite these impressions, the real situation in both cities was identical: desolate & inhospitable. 4 Figures, 1 Appendix, 49 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7233

Chen, Xiaomei (Ohio State U, Columbus 43210), Occidentalism as Counterdiscourse: "He Shang" in Post-Mao China, IM Critical Inquiry, 1992, 18, 4, summer, 686-712.
¶ An analysis of "He Shang," a six-part documentary TV series broadcast in the People's Republic of China in 1988, is drawn on to examine Chinese occidentalism, which is characterized by two related yet separate discursive practices: official occidentalism, which refers to the Chinese government's use of the essentialization of the West to support a nationalism that suppresses its own people; & antiofficial occidentalism, a counterdiscourse of the intelligentsia that rejects traditional values in favor of Western ones. The latter is evident in "He Shang." A product of the Chinese intelligentsia, the appearance of 'He Shang" demonstrates how superficially similar sign systems can be manipulated for different ideological ends. It is concluded that official & antiofficial Occidentalism have in common a teleological worldview & a unilinear & universal historiography. W. Howard

93Z7234

Dachmi, Abdeslam (U Mohammed V, BP 554 Agdal Rabat Morocco), Le Séduction maternelle négative: approche anthropo-analytique du phénomène de la persécution au Maghreb (Negative Maternal Seduction: An Anthropo-Analytical Approach of the Phenomenon of Persecution in the Maghreb), Cahiers de Sociologie Economique et Culturelle; Ethnopsychologie, 1992, 17, June, 103-131. (FRE)
¶ A review of a psychoanalytic clinical study in northern Morocco focusing on instances of persecution in North Africa by the "evil eye." Based on participant observation & multiple interviews with affected family members, the evil eye is the leading cause cited by mothers for their children's illnesses. It is suggested that the evil eye is merely an extension of "negative maternal seduction," whereby a mother discourages her child's autonomous actions, & at the same time psychically compensates for similar treatment by her own mother. A cultural expression of fixation to the object, fear of the evil eye functions to prevent the desire for the "same," analogous to forces motivating the incest taboo. The pathological form, evil eye-phobia differs from the cultural form by translating an unconscious violation of the ban on a desire for the same. Irrational fear of the evil eye, as a projection of desire for the same transformed, is a faulty defense mechanism, unable to keep the "me" & the "non-me" separate. AA Tr & Modified by J. Sadler

93Z7235

Desjarlais, Robert R. (Dept Social Medicine Harvard Medical School, Boston MA 02115), Yolmo Aesthetics of Body, Health and 'Soul Loss', Social Science and Medicine, 1992, 34, 10, May, 1105-1117.
¶ To demonstrate that a culturally constituted "aesthetics" of everyday life underlies moments of health, illness & healing among Yolmo Sherpa of Helambu, Nepal, cultural understandings of bodily & social experience are examined to show how implicit aesthetics–from values of harmony & balance to fears of loss & decay–shape the ways in which Yolmo manage & evaluate their lives & how they construe & experience incidents of "soul loss"–ie, when the balance between body & soul is disrupted. An analysis of shamanic ritual suggests, in turn, that while themes of imbalance, fragmentation, & deficiency haunt the body in illness, healing works to reinstate a visceral sense of harmony, completion, & vitality. It is concluded that a phenomenology of embodied aesthetics requires an analytic approach distinct from current semiotic, intellectualist, or psychological paradigms. 49 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7236

Dreyfus, Simone (Ecole hautes études sciences sociales, F-75006 Paris France), Les Réseaux politiques indigènes en Guyane occidentale et leurs transformations aux XVIIe et XVIIIe siècles (Native Political Networks in Western Guyana and Changes during the Seventeenth and Eighteenth Centuries), L'Homme, 1992, 32, 2-4(122-124), Apr-Dec, 75-98. (FRE)

¶ During the seventeenth & eighteenth centuries, colonial rulers caused changes in the western Guyana native political networks, which they had used for mercantile & slave-hunting trade. War chiefs & their clientele participated in European trade, which gave them access to goods, created new networks of interaction, & redistributed levels of power among the indigenous population; but by the early 1800s, these changes, along with a demographic decline in Amerindian population, resulted in the near destruction of networks of social & ideological communication. The origins of modern native groups lie in the redefinition of vestigal political networks, as well as in different social & symbolic relationships that respect hierarchies & power. Contrary to the Americanist anthropology standard interpretation of Amazonian societies (small, isolationist, self-contained, atomized), a historic anthropological perspective shows the dynamics of the heterogeneous primitive society. 2 Figures, 46 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7237

Elfakir, Abdelhadi (U Toulouse II, F-31058 Cedex France), La Circoncision musulmane entre mythe et fantasme (Muslim Circumcision–Between Myth and Fantasy), Cahiers de Sociologie Economique et Culturelle, Ethnopsychologie, 1992, 17, June, 93-101. (FRE)

¶ Arguing that analysis of the practice of circumcision in the Arab-Muslim world must be placed in its mythical & sociocultural context, several perspectives on the role & significance of this rite are considered. Special attention is focused on the work of Tunisian sociologist A. Bouhdiba (La Sexualité en Islam [Sexuality in Islam], Paris: PUF, 1975), who generally frowns on the practice. He notes two main functions of circumcision: (1) a way for the Muslim cultural group to attempt to safeguard its cohesion, & (2) pain & multilation as an end in themselves. Segments of the Koran dealing with Abraham & Muslim circumcision rituals are examined, & the cases of two males hospitalized for psychological problems related to earlier circumcision are briefly recounted. 8 References. W. Levin

93Z7238

Guha, Abhijit (Dept Anthropology Vidyasagar U, Medinipur West Bengal 721101 India), An Enquiry into Malinowski's Idea about Function: Did It Require any Notion of Structure?, Journal of the Indian Anthropological Society, 1990, 25, 1, Mar, 12-17.

¶ Bronislaw Malinowski's functionalist theory is contrasted with structuralism. Malinowski emphasized the psychobiological needs of man, the connection of social facts to biological needs, & the usefulness of apparently senseless cultural customs among primitive peoples. Though scholars have attempted to infer a concept of structure in Malinowski's ideas, his conception of the structure of institution was a linear model of cause & effect in the demonstration of the nature of sociocultural phenomena, & was little more than an experimental adjunct to his functionalism. Malinowski was not much concerned with the idea of universal structure, but with the issue of the relationship between society & the individual. 25 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7239

Hanks, William F. (U Chicago, IL 60637), Intertextualité de l'espace au Yucatán (Intertextuality of Space in the Yucatán), L'Homme, 1992, 32, 2-4(122-124), Apr-Dec, 53-74. (FRE)

¶ Intertextual variations between a sixteenth-century map of the Yucatán (Mexico) & two land surveys reveal social & political motivations of the documents' producers. As numerous variants of a single text were typical of colonial documents in the official Mayan language, textual comparison shows the different perspectives of two groups of patrilineal kinsmen surveying a single place. Although regions described are approximately the same, the groups note different markers for geopolitical boundaries during the inspections (crónicas) in the 1540s of the village of Yaxkukul, in Ceh Pech province. Besides variations in rhetorical style, the crónicas differ also in authorship, one written by a father, the other by his son. It is suggested that, insofar as boundaries are only concrete forms of social relationships, Yaxkukul's geographic space was the seat of two regions that corresponded to the father's network, with a textual focus on the traditional ancestral authority, & the son's network, which emphasized the authority of the Spanish city council & the allies who helped create the text. 3 Figures, 29 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7240

Jamard, Jean-Luc (Centre national recherche scientifique, F-75700 Paris France), Consomption d'esclaves et production de "races": l'expérience caraïbéenne (The Consumption of Slaves and the Production of "Races": The Caribbean Experience), L'Homme, 1992, 32, 2-4(122-124), Apr-Dec, 209-234. (FRE)

¶ The artificial composition of the insular post-Columbian Caribbean societies can be traced to the importation of European & African populations. While analogies among the different islands are striking, & suggest a society modeled on the totalitarian institution of a large single-product exporting plantation, the cases of the French, Spanish, & British Antilles are notable for racial differences. Using a comparative & transformational analysis, a historical ethnology of their populations focuses on the types of slavery originally established on each island, & traces types & effects of changes or abolition of slave labor. The acceptance of foreign workers recruited from Asia in the role of small farmer was greatest in Jamaica & slightly less in the French Antilles, & met the most resistance in Cuba. These issues have implications for social races & class in West Indian society. 47 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7241

Lucca-Irizarry, Nydia & Pacheco, Angel M. (Faculty Education U Puerto Rico, Rio Piedras PR-00931), Intercultural Encounters of Puerto Rican Immigrants, IIM Environment and Behavior, 1992, 24, 2, Mar, 226-238.

¶ The psychosocial impacts of Puerto Rican migration to & from the mainland US is explored, focusing on the nature of the college student return migrant's encounter with the Puerto Rican culture within a higher education context. Semistructured questionnaire data from 32 professors & 85 return migrant students indicate that reentry is not equivalent to homecoming. In many instances, first-time entry into the new environment is less troublesome than returning to the environment of origin. Several variables are important in the reentry process: language, length of exposure to culture, length of college experience, gender, age, & the physical environment, eg, the library, bookstore, & campus grounds. 10 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7242

Mignolo, Walter D. (Instit Humanities U Michigan, Ann Arbor 48109), Nebrija in the New World. The Question of the Letter, the Colonization of Amerindian Languages, and the Discontinuity of the Classical Tradition, L'Homme, 1992, 32, 2-4(122-124), Apr-Dec, 185-207.

¶ According to the Renaissance philosophy of language & writing, changes in the letter, a written unit of the alphabet, represented adaptations to the language of the territory. A continuation of the Greco-Roman linguistic traditions, the Renaissance philosophy of language suggests that writing develops from speech. Elio Antonio de Nebrija's Latin & Castilian grammars of the 1590s & early 1800s celebrate the invention of writing, & center on the complicity between letter & voice.

With the colonization of native Amerindian languages, grammars for which were written by Nebrija, the letter receives priority over the sound, since letters in the Spanish alphabet could not fit sounds in the native language. Yet, the disappearance of native writing systems displaced by the Latin alphabet did not signal the disappearance of a culture or its cultural construction of territoriality. 84 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7243

Molinié-Fioravanti, Antoinette (U Paris X, F-92001 Nanterre Cedex France), Comparaisons transatlantiques (Transatlantic Comparisons), L'Homme, 1992, 32, 2-4(122-124), Apr-Dec, 165-183. (FRE)

The formative processes involved in a mestizo tradition are examined in this study in acculturation anthropology. The field generally produces little theoretical or methodological innovation, & is overconcerned with "primitive purity." Here, a definition of cultural métissage complemented by comparative techniques is presented that draws on Andean beliefs & institutions. Among these is the "fat-taker" (pishtaku), which illustrates complex relations between practices & images in mestizo culture. The utility value of human fat in seventeenth-century European medicine translated into symbolic effectiveness in Andean culture. Linked to this phenomenon are Andean sacrificial rites, in which the white man replaced animal fat with human fat, causing the zoomorphization of the Indian. Problematic theoretical approaches to identifying Spanish elements in Latin American & mestizo cultures are reviewed. 53 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7244

Morrow, Phyllis (Dept Anthropology U Alaska, Fairbanks 99775), Symbolic Actions, Indirect Expressions: Limits to Interpretations of Yupik Society, Etudes / Inuit / Studies, 1990, 14, 1-2, 141-158.

¶ The problem of flexibility vs structure in Inuit society may be due to a fundamental misinterpretation of Inuit self-presentations & social representations. Using examples from Central Alaskan Yupik society, the analysis traces epistemological & ontological themes that cross-cut numerous social contexts, including linguistic patterning, the imposition of sanctions & censure, gift-giving & obligation, naming & self-reference, the categorization of the supernatural, & instruction. Yupik society is characterized by multiple simultaneous reference, an intellectual posture that stems from a recognition of the essential indeterminacy of meaning. This posture allows the Yupik to embrace certain contradictions without confusion. That this posture results in nonspecific responses to different types of inquiry confounds attempts by researchers to understand Yupik society. 30 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7245

Pérez, Pedro (Ecole haute études sciences sociales, F-75700 Paris France), Malades et médecins à Ciudad Acuña (Mexique): une anthropologie de la médecine dans une région frontalière (Patients and Doctors in Ciudad Acuña (Mexico): An Anthropology of Medicine in a Border Area), L'Homme, 1992, 32, 2-4(122-124), Apr-Dec, 235-251. (FRE)

¶ An analysis of the network of physicians (MDs) north & south of the US-Mexico border & the circulation of patients between these areas, in an attempt to develop an anthropology of health. Four private clinics in Ciudad Acuña, Coahuila, Mexico, staffed by US-trained MDs, are competitive in level of health care specialization with services offered in clinics & hospitals in Del Rio, Tex, across the Rio Grande. Mexican-trained MDs have lower-status positions, & often work in public health facilities. Elitism in staffing private Mexican clinics builds on political & marriage ties; also, unfavorable racist attitudes of the Mexican population toward darker-skinned (mestizo or black) MDs influence staffing in clinics. Mexican-born clients coming to Ciudad Acuña from the US are attracted by Spanish-language service. 40 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7246

Pitt-Rivers, Julian, La Culture métisse: Dynamique du statut ethnique (Mestizo Culture: The Dynamics of Ethnic Status), L'Homme, 1992, 32, 2-4(122-124), Apr-Dec, 133-148. (FRE)

¶ Terminology for ethnic membership in Mexico & the Peruvian Andes is explored. While "mestizo" in Mexico has numerous meanings, referring primarily to whoever is not Indian, the ethnic status of Indian does not necessarily indicate other cultural traits (linguistic, dress) & varies regionally over time. A product of the mestizo culture, the ideological Indian (of postindependence Mexico) does not correspond with the ethnic Indian. In traditional Andean pueblos, there are five ethnic classes: whites, mestizos, cholos, Christian Indians, & savage Indians, distinguished by language & clothing. Terms for classifying African-origin Latin Americans are discussed. For the Yucatán, instead of the category ladino (which refers to cultural traits), mestizo is used. 1 Table, 15 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7247

Reddy, P. Govinda (Dept Anthropology U Madras, 600005 Tamil Nadu India), Educational Levels and Consanguineous Marriages: A Study among Three South Indian Caste Groups, Journal of the Indian Anthropological Society, 1990, 25, 1, Mar, 18-21.

¶ To explore the interrelations between the education of spouses & the frequency of consanguineous marriages, interview data were collected from married men & women (N = 796 & 930, respectively) belonging to 3 south Indian caste groups: the Desuri Kapu, the Devanga, & the Mala. It is found that men's level of education has a significant effect on the frequency of consanguineous marriages only among the Desuri Kapu, an agricultural caste. There is no significant relation between the level of female education & the frequency of consanguineous marriages. 3 Tables, 5 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7248

Romanoff, Steven, Food and Debt among Rubber Tappers in the Bolivian Amazon, UM Human Organization, 1992, 51, 2, summer, 122-135.

¶ Members of households in the tropical forest of northern Bolivia tap natural rubber, gather Brazil nuts, farm on a small-scale, & engage in urban commerce. Here, regional settlement types, human ecological zones, & occupations of the region are described, based on 1981 survey data collected from a stratified cluster sample of 164 households. Focus is on food insecurity, social stratification, & the tension between household strategies & the exigencies of subsistence. Food insecurity contributes to indebtedness, residential mobility, & social inequalities. Development issues include the need for increased food production, the patron/debt mode of economic organization as a potential problem for creating extractive reserves, the participation of indigenous ethnic groups, & the need for social, cultural, geographic, & economic data for planning. 12 Tables, 2 Figures, 44 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7249

Ryang, Sonia (Room 102 Kanbayashi Apostments 7-32-12 Arakawa Arakawa-Ku, Tokyo Japan 116), Indoctrination or Rationalization? The Anthropology of "North Koreans" in Japan, Critique of Anthropology, 1992, 12, 2, June, 101-132.

¶ An examination of a group of Korean minority in Japan whose allegiance is to North Korea, largely a blatant political decision, since almost 98% of Koreans in Japan came originally from south Korea. This group, organized as the General Assoc of Korean Residents in Japan, Chongryuu, operates its own schools, publishing houses, professional football team, & affiliated organizations, eg, the Women's Union, the Youth League, & Young Pioneers. These apparatuses enable Chongryuu to reproduce itself socially as an organizational community based on ideology. Relying on the Althusserian theory of ideology & ideological state apparatuses (ISAs), but critically supplementing it, considered is how an organization such as Chongryuu can continue to exist within Japanese society. It is suggested that there may be more than one set of ISAs in the given frame of a society; therefore, focus is on the multidimensionality & multifunctionality of ideology in communities such as Chongryuu. 1 Figure, 30 References. Modified AA

93Z7250

Turner, Edith (Dept Anthropology U Virginia, Charlottesville 22906-9024), The Whale Decides: Eskimos' and Ethnographer's Shared Consciousness on the Ice, Etudes / Inuit / Studies, 1990, 14, 1-2, 39-52.

¶ An ethnography of whale hunting among the Inupiat Eskimos of Point

Hope, Alaska, examines the principle of the self-sacrificial conscious animal as it operates in actual life. The ethnography dispenses with traditional anthropological theorizing & instead engages in an ethnographic project that seeks to experience Eskimo concepts as revealed in action & observed through participant anthropology. A journal format is used to describe the Inupiat ritual of whale hunting. The Eskimos consider good manners essential for good hunting, & the Inupiat practice rituals that give them knowledge & experience of the religious dimension of the whale. 59 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7251

——, The Legacy of Hortense Powdermaker, UM Journal of Anthropological Research, 1991, 47, 4, winter, 373-488.

¶ Arising from a panel session held at the 1990 meeting of the American Anthropology Assoc, an overview is offered of the contributions of Hortense Powdermaker (1896-1970) to the field. Powdermaker was educated in anthropology at the London School of Economics under Bronislaw Malinowski, & his influence was evident throughout her professional career. Her pioneering research in community studies in the US, the Pacific, & Africa is recounted, demonstrating how, as one of the first women in the field, she frequently predated by several years later directions taken by other anthropologists. Contributions to this special journal issue include: Introduction, by Jill B. R. Cherneff; Powdermaker's Lesu, by Abraham Rosman & Paula G. Rubel; Key Informants in Cottonville: Revisiting Powdermaker's Mississippi by Patricia Aylward Farr; Race, Class, and Difference in Hortense Powdermaker's *After Freedom: A Cultural Study of the Deep South by Gertrude Fraser; Hortense Powdermaker, the Teacher, by Erika Bourguignon; Dreams Are Made Like This: Hortense Powdermaker and the Hollywood Film Industry, by Jill B. R. Cherneff; After Copper Town: The Past in the Present in Urban Zambia, by Karen Tranberg Hansen; Hortense Powdermaker, the Berkeley Years (1967-1970): A Personal Reflection, by Nancy Scheper-Hughes; & Colleague and Friend: A Reminiscence of Hortense Powdermaker, by Ernestine Friedl. 5 Photographs, 175 References. K. Hyatt

0600 complex organization

21 jobs, work organization, workplaces, & unions

93Z7252

Adigun, Isaac O. & Stephenson, Geoffrey M. (c/o Stephenson–Instit Social & Applied Psychology U Kent, Canterbury CT2 7LZ England), Sources of Job Motivation and Satisfaction among British and Nigerian Employees, Journal of Social Psychology, 1992, 132, 3, June, 369-376.

¶ Questionnaire data collected from 31 British & 42 Nigerian resident citizens of the UK are used to compare the origins of job satisfaction & motivation to work hard. Job context factors were more important in the Nigerian sample in explaining both high & low scores on job attitude sequences. Also, the responses of the British sample were considerably more in accordance with predictions from F. Herzberg's, B. Mausner's, & B. B. Snyderman's theory of job satisfaction (see The Motivation to Work, New York: Wiley, 1959) than were the responses of the Nigerian sample. Theories of job satisfaction developed in one society therefore could not be applied to another without careful prior assessment of their relevance. 2 Tables, 15 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7253

al-Jimai, Fuad, Transliterated title not available (Method of Enhancing Female Participation in Iraqi Manpower), Journal of the Gulf and Arabian Peninsula Studies, 1989, 15, 58, Apr, 195-223. (ARA)

¶ Historically, Iraqi women have not effectively participated in the labor force for a variety of economic, sociological, & ideological reasons. Statistical data analyzed for several periods show a close link between low female (F) participation in the labor force & limited educational & training facilities available to Fs of working age. The negative economic effects of this lack of participation are examined. The economic urgency of gainful employment for all of Iraq's potential labor force & means for achieving greater F participation are demonstrated. Guidelines for implementation are suggested. 22 Tables, 14 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7254

Barrientos Granda, Rosa María (U Pedagógica Nacional, CP 14200 Mexico DF), La maestra universitaria: doble jornada laboral (The Female University Professor: The Double Workday), Estudios Sociológicos, 1991, 9, 26, May-Aug, 235-252. (SPA)

¶ Interview data from 281 professors at 2 major Mexican universities are drawn on to investigate the type & distribution of their daily domestic activities. Results indicate that male (M) & female (F) professors differ significantly on the amount of time spent on domestic work, even when their salaries & workdays are comparable; F professors also devote significantly more time to child care than do M professors. Different marital statuses & the presence of children differentially affect Ms & Fs: 72% of the F & 92% of the M professors report that their salary is indispensable in supporting the family unit. Results disprove the hypothesis that the balance between work & domestic activities is symmetrical for highly educated M & F professionals. 10 Tables, 39 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7255

Ben-Ami, Ilan (Graduate Center City U New York, NY 10021), Shlepers and Car Washers: Young Israelis in the New York Labor Market, Migration World Magazine, 1992, 20, 1, 18-20.

¶ A new group of Israelis has become involved in the New York City labor market over the past decade–young, single Israeli men in their early twenties who work in the moving or carwash businesses. Based on personal experience, interviews, & observation of people from both groups, it is noted that they differ from older Israeli immigrants not only in the kind of jobs they do, but also in their social characteristics & immigration experience. Coming from the more prestigious stages of the Israeli society, those involved in the moving business seem to be only temporarily in the IS & are most likely to go back to Israel after a short period of time. Those who work in the car wash business, on the other hand, usually have fewer reasons to go back & are more likely to stay in the US. Modified AA (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7256

Blyton, Paul, Learning from Each Other: The Shorter Working Week Campaigns in the German and British Engineering Industries, Economic and Industrial Democracy, 1992, 13, 3, Aug, 417-430.

¶ Union campaigns in the German & British engineering industries to secure shorter working hours are examined since the late 1970s. Parallels between the campaigns include: (1) use of extensive publicity to gain broad-based public support; (2) exploitation of interdependent production networks; (3) implementation of a strike levy; & (4) use of weekly hours comparisons between the two countries. The settlements established in the engineering industries served as a basis for widespread reduction in working hours in other industries; implications for other European countries are discussed. 17 References. D. Generoli (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7257

Bornman, Elirea (Group: Social Dynamics Human Sciences Research Council, Private Bag X41 0001 Pretoria South Africa), Factors Influencing Ethnic Attitudes in South African Work Situations, Journal of Social Psychology, 1992, 132, 5, Oct, 641-653.

¶ Based on questionnaire data collected in 1986 from Afrikaner & coloured workers (N = 455 & 428, respectively) in South Africa, the relationship between ethnic attitudes & factors associated with work-related intergroup contact is explored. Results indicate that nonwhite & low-status groups were more affected by intergroup contact at work than white & high-status groups. In addition, contrary to the contact hypothesis–ie, greater intergroup contact leads to more positive attitudes–Afrikaners who worked in organizations where the majority of the employees were blacks, Asians, or other minorities were significantly more negative toward coloureds; only coloureds showed improved attitudes due to greater contact with whites. Implications are discussed in relation to contact theory. 2 Tables, 28 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7258

Botta, Paolo, Una ricerca sulla disoccupazione el il precariato di lungo periodo nel Mezzogiorno (A Study of Long-Term Unemployment in Southern Italy), Sociologia e Ricerca Sociale, 1992, 13, 38, Sept, 98-125. (ITA)

¶ To investigate patterns in underemployment & unemployment among young adults in southern Italy, interview data were obtained from young respondents (Rs) (N = 793, ages 26-35) & a control group of older Rs (N = 199, ages 50-59). Analysis reveals that, during the 1980s, unemployment & underemployment increased substantially. Whereas in previous decades, unemployment was concentrated among adolescents, now many young adults in their 30s have not held down a steady job. The underemployment points to the existence of the unofficial economy as well as to an underdeveloped tertiary service sector. A sharp dichotomy exists between those with stable jobs & those employed only sporadically. This segmentation of the labor market is a key feature of the postmodern era. As a result, a gap is growing between the advanced cultural level & low economic level. 1 Graph, 29 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7259

Bouffartigue, Paul, Coninck, Frédéric de & Pendariès, Jean-René (GERM-CERCOM, 2 rue Charite F-13002 Marseille France), Le Nouvel Âge de l'emploi à temps partiel. Un Rôle nouveau lors des débuts de vie active des femmes (The New Age of Part-Time Employment. A New Role at the Start of Women's Careers), Sociologie du Travail, 1992, 34, 4, 403-428. (FRE)

¶ Based on employment surveys conducted 1975-1989 by the French National Instit for Statistic & Economic Research, supplemented by data on labor-force entrance of 2 generational cohorts of women (total N =

1,500) in southern France, the role of part-time employment in women's career paths is analyzed. It is indicated that part-time employment (1) is a central component in the salarization of women, (2) has an increasingly significant role in the beginning of women's career, (3) is increasingly accessible to unqualified female workers, & (4) maintains the familial logic of women's employment & traditional gender roles. These trends are particularly manifest in women ages 20-30. 3 Tables, 2 Figures, 29 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7260
Chiricos, Theodore G. & Delone, Miriam A. (School Criminology & Criminal Justice Florida State U, Tallahassee 32306), Labor Surplus and Punishment: A Review and Assessment of Theory and Evidence, UM Social Problems, 1992, 39, 4, Nov, 421-446.

¶ Theoretical links between labor surplus & punishment are described that are mediated by economic, political, & ideological factors, eg, the value of labor, the systemic needs of capitalism, & the ideology of judges & their communities. The sophistication of theorizing about labor surplus & punishment is matched with skepticism about the corresponding empirical evidence. Here, results from 44 empirical studies are systematically assessed, suggesting that independent of the effects of crime, labor surplus is consistently & significantly related to prison population, & independent of the effects of crime, labor surplus is consistently & significantly related to prison population, & to prison admissions when time-series & individual-level data are used. The relationship of labor surplus & punishment appears slightly stronger when age-, race-, & gender-specific measures are employed. The limitations of existing research, in light of theoretical developments, are discussed. 2 Tables, 2 Appendixes, 72 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7261
Comeau, Yvan (Dépt sociologie U Québec, Montreal H3C 3P8), Les Coopératives de travail au Québec: un bilan de la situation (1991) (Work Cooperatives in Quebec: A Report on the Situation [1991]), Coopératives et Développement, 1991-1992, 23, 2, 59-76. (FRE)

¶ Questionnaire responses obtained in 1991 from members of 45 worker cooperatives in Quebec (eg, in mining, construction, & commerce) are examined to explore recent transformations in the cooperatives, characteristics of members, factors in member satisfaction, & aspects of the cooperatives' democratic functioning. It is observed that cooperatives are concentrated in peripheral regions & in the primary sector (ie, agriculture, forestry, & mines) & are usually medium-size enterprises with a limited lifespan. Members are mostly young & male. Worker involvement in democratic manangement is related to higher member satisfaction. 11 Tables, 20 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7262
Day, Tanis (Dept Economics Queen's U, Kingston Ontario K7L 3N6), Capital-Labor Substitution in the Home, UM Technology and Culture, 1992, 33, 2, Apr, 302-327.

¶ Along with the existence of incentives to shift household production toward capital in the twentieth century, the small capital-goods industries have grown with demands from the North American market. Women's participation in the labor force & production in the home are complex relationships explored here. Specifically, ownership of household appliances as time-saving new technologies is investigated, based on Canadian surveys (1923-1971) conducted by the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission. The diffusion of household goods increases as operating & capital costs decrease, & rate of return on investment increases. A woman's household conditions & work required in the areas of cooking, cleaning, & laundry have improved with the advent of the washing machine, the vacuum cleaner, & the stove. In the study period, women's labor force participation rose 11 times & the average wage doubled. As these appliances increased productivity at home, women's time in the labor force grew. 11 Tables. J. Sadler

93Z7263
Deakin, Simon & Wilkinson, Frank (U Cambridge, CB2 1RD England), The Law and Economics of the Minimum Wage, Journal of Law and Society, 1992, 19, 3, autumn, 379-392.

¶ Though a natural response to growing numbers of low paid workers is the enactment of a statutory minimum wage, the state in GB has resisted such regulation, citing unwanted interference with market forces & the prospect of causing increased unemployment. Such arguments are based on neoclassical economic models that are not well suited to minimum wage analyses. Empirical studies of the minimum wage & alternative explanations of labor market behavior suggest that a statutory minimum wage may have beneficial instead of detrimental effects. The economic influence of minimum wage legislation on employment, economic performance, & household poverty is discussed. D. Generoli

93Z7264
Demailly, Lise (Laboratoire sociologie travail IFRESI, 2 rue Canonniers F-59800 Lille France), Simplifier ou complexifier? Les Processus de rationalisation du travail dans l'administration publique (Simplify or Complicate? The Rationalization of Work in Public Administration), UM Sociologie du Travail, 1992, 34, 4, 429-450. (FRE)

¶ The work organization of administrative personnel in the French Ministry of Education is based on both Taylorian principles & bureaucratic procedures. Recent pressures for improvement & modernization of operations result from increase in functions, decentralization, & consumer demand. However, administrative personnel are not disposed to initiate organizational changes due to (1) overload of urgent actions, (2) cultural internalization of the hierarchic model & resistance to more professional & more democratic forms of organization, & (3) an emphasis on political strategy & administrative technicity. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7265
Demazière, Didier (U Lille I, F-59655 Villeneuve d'Ascq Cedex France), La Négociation des identités des chômeurs de longue durée (The Negotiation of the Identities of the Long-Term Unemployed), Revue française de Sociologie, 1992, 33, 3, July-Sept, 335-363. (FRE)

¶ Based on observation of interaction (N = 35) between unemployment-evaluation officials of the National Employment Agency & the unemployed in France, supplemented by interview data, four typical, subjectively valid classifications of long-term unemployment are proposed. Inactive workers with a physical disability are characterized by withdrawal, & try to negotiate a status quo, while only offered further exclusion by the official. The possible job seeker is dependent, open, & actively seeking employment, mobilizes by asking for job help, & is kept on active file by the official. The unemployed worker with psychological problems protests help, remains uncooperative, demands his benefits, but is officially delayed in processing. Finally, the actively-seeking unemployed entrepreneurial type is noted for his opportunism & problem-solving abilities. His autonomous stance is met with suspicion by the official. 2 Tables, 45 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7266
Doucouliagos, Chris (Bowater Faculty Business Deakin U, Burwood 3121 Victoria Australia), Worker Entrepreneurship, Entrepreneurship, Innovation, and Change, 1992, 1, 1, Mar, 109-126.

¶ Though entrepreneurship has traditionally been associated with capital hiring labor, there is a worldwide trend toward worker entrepreneurship–worker-owned & often -controlled enterprises, where labor hires capital. Here, secondary data are drawn on to evaluate the experience of worker entrepreneurship in the US, Spain, Eastern Europe, Yugoslavia, Italy, France, & the UK, highlighting its success & failures. The relative importance of several factors to worker entrepreneurship is also examined, including access to finance, education & training, organization culture, "shelter organizations," & worker risk-taking. Government policies to facilitate the development of worker entrepreneurship are briefly outlined. 63 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7267
Drago, Robert & Wooden, Mark (c/o Wooden–National Instit Labour Studies Flinders U, Adelaide 5001 South Australia), The Determinants of Labor Absence: Economic Factors and Workgroup Norms across Countries, Industrial and Labor Relations Review, 1992, 45, 4, July, 764-778.

¶ The effects of workgroup norms & economic factors on workplace absence are examined through a 1988 survey of 601 workers in Australia

Canada, New Zealand, & the US. Workgroup cohesion was associated with low levels of absence if job satisfaction was high, & with high levels if satisfaction was low. Lower rates of absence were associated with male gender, short tenure, part-time status, & high wages. Higher rates of absence were associated with shiftwork, sick leave benefits, & low regional unemployment rates. Determinants of absence are distinguished from determinants of the frequency & duration of absence. 3 Tables, 41 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7268

Durrenberger, E. Paul (Dept Anthropology U Iowa, Iowa City 52242), Psychology, Unions, and the Law: Folk Models and the History of Shrimpers' Unions in Mississippi, UM Human Organization, 1992, 51, 2, summer, 151-154.

¶ The history of shrimpers' unions in Miss is traced in questioning the validity of folk models which hold that shrimpers on the Gulf Coast are too psychologically independent to band together for sustained collective action. In Miss, unions were ineffective while packers' schooners supplied their own shrimp. When shrimpers began trawling in their own motorboats in the 1930s, they began to control the supply of shrimp & their unions became more effective. In the 1950s, when they borrowed heavily to buy gulf boats & processors began importing shrimp, shrimpers again lost control of the supply of shrimp & their unions became ineffective; at the same time, they were outlawed. It is concluded that the lack of unions is not a consequence of shrimper psychology, but of the law & relative control of resources. 16 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7269

Edvardsson, Ingi Rúnar (Lund U, S-22100 Sweden), Printing in Action: General Printing in Iceland and Sweden, * Dissertation Abstracts International, C: Worldwide, 1992, 53, 4, winter, 644-C.

Unavailable from UMI; published by Lund U Press, PO Box 141, S-22100 Sweden.

93Z7270

Elchardus, Mark & Heyvaert, Peter, Over de verdeling van het werk tussen de seksen: Een onderzoeksnota (The Division of Work between the Sexes: A Research Note), Tijdschrift voor Sociologie, 1992, 13, 2, 263-293. (DUT)

¶ To examine the gender division of work, time budgets were analyzed through questionnaire data obtained from 423 Belgians ages 20-40. Information was compiled using the continuous registration method to determine the amount of time devoted to paid work, household work, child care, & related travel. Also studied were the hidden workload, parental roles, & the relationship between family development & workload. Analysis reveals that the workload is distributed very evenly among male (M) & female (F) full-time employees & F part-time employees. Only Fs employed only as housewives had a lighter workload. In younger families, household chores are divided more evenly, while larger families follow a more traditional pattern. Part-time work is not found to reduce the burden for working mothers. Among full-time employees, Fs spend 8 hours more per week at housework & 8 hours less per week at paid employment than do Ms. 10 Tables, 6 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7271

Ellis, Alan L., Gunto, Samuel J., Weaver, Cheryl L. & Kelso, Kimberly A. (Dept Psychology U Kentucky, Lexington 40506-0044), The Effect of Contemplated Interpersonal Contact with Union Members on Attitudes toward Labor Unions, Journal of Social Psychology, 1992, 132, 3, June, 411-413.

¶ To evaluate the effect that interpersonal contact with labor union members has on one's attitude toward unions, questionnaire & scale data were collected from 252 college students in Nov 1989–during an ongoing strike against the Pittston Coal Group by the United Auto Workers that led union members to distribute leaflets at the U of Kentucky. Students were asked to contemplate speaking to a labor union member, & to write what they would say about the advantages & disadvantages of unions. Scale data indicate that responses differed by gender & order of presentation: females contemplating interpersonal contact expressed more favorable attitudes toward unions than males, & respondents who contemplated interpersonal contact before completing the scale expressed more favorable attitudes toward unions. 3 References. M. Maguire

93Z7272

Ewert, Joachim (Dept Sociology U Stellenbosch, Cape Province 7600 Republic South Africa), Is Taylorism Coming to an End? Microelectronic Rationalization, Sociological Debate and Trade Union Response in West-Germany, South African Sociological Review, 1991, 4, 1, Oct, 13-26.

¶ Following an overview of the debate among industrial sociologists regarding the meaning & direction of the transformation of work in the wake of microelectronic technology, considered is whether the Taylorist division of labor is irrevocably being replaced by new production concepts. Ways that sociological evidence in this debate has been received by West-German industrial trade unions are examined, along with their political response to the current changes in work organization. 29 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7273

Fearfull, Anne (School Management U Manchester Instit Science & Technology, M60 1QD England), The Introduction of Information and Office Technologies: The Great Divide?, Work, Employment and Society, 1992, 6, 3, Sept, 423-442.

¶ In case studies of 4 organizations in northwestern England, interviews were conducted with 11 managers & 30 clerks to examine the effect of office technologies on clerical skill. Also explored is to what extent resultant employment practices, eg, staff rationalization & demise of the office junior system, have contributed to the appearance that less skill, experience, & training are now required in clerical work. The issues of reducing job opportunities, changing work values, & attempts at corrective measures through training initiatives are addressed. It is argued that these interrelated developments have created a divide, between clerks experienced in pre- or partially-computerized systems & those with only postcomputerization experience. The role played by clerical sector research in perpetuating the image of clerical work as low-status & low-skill is also considered. 27 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7274

Ferdousi, Tahmina (U Pennsylvania, Philadelphia 19104), Turnover from Jobs in an Internal Labor Market: The Study of Gender Inequality, * Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 5, Nov, 1685-A.

Available from UMI, Ann Arbor, MI. Order No. DA9227659.

93Z7275

Freyssenet, Michel (Instit recherche sociétés contemporaines Centre sociologie urbaine, F-75849 Paris Cedex 17 France), Processus et formes sociales d'automatisation. Le Paradigme sociologique (Social Forms and Automation. The Sociological Paradigm), UM Sociologie du Travail, 1992, 34, 4, 469-496. (FRE)

¶ The concept of productive techniques is examined in the context of the social conditions under which they operate. Focus is on the economic & social assumptions that led to decisions on automation in French enterprises, highlighting the failure of automation programs, especially in France, to achieve the set goals of improving productivity, flexibility, & product quality. Based on experience in designing automation programs, presented is a strategy of increasing the social acceptability of automation, emphasizing that productive techniques are simultaneously social determinants & socially determined. 21 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7276

Friedman, Raymond A. & Gal, Shahaf (Harvard Business School, Boston MA 02163), Managing around Roles: Building Groups in Labor Negotiations, The Journal of Applied Behavioral Science, 1991, 27, 3, Sept, 356-378.

¶ It is observed that although the formal role structure of labor negotiations is explicitly confrontational, informal relationships & problem-solving attempt may develop among members of opposing negotiating teams. Effective management of negotiations, it is argued, is a process of managing around formal role structures so that negotiators can interact openly & informally. This is made possible by the creation of joint team identity among labor & management negotiators. This process of managing around roles is illustrated by a comparative case study of labor negotiations in Neb & Minn. 3 Figures, 47 References. Adapted from the source document.

0038-0202/93 $1.50

93Z7277

Gamst, Glenn & Otten, Charles M. (Clinch Valley Coll U Virginia, Wise 24293), Job Satisfaction in High Technology and Traditional Industry: Is There a Difference?, The Psychological Record, 1992, 42, 3, summer, 413-425.

¶ Telephone interviews conducted in 1984 with 1,509 members of the Silicon Valley (Santa Clara County, Calif) work force reveal no reliable differences between high-technology & traditional industry in terms of composite job satisfaction. Although degrees of satisfaction were virtually the same for both sectors, relatively large differences divided social classes within the workplace. Findings may challenge the theory that work in the postindustrial, high-technology society of the future will be more satisfying. Results suggest that the well-documented relationship among class, occupation, & job satisfaction will persist. 1 Table, 58 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7278

Gill, Colin & Krieger, Hubert (Judge Instit Management Studies U Cambridge, CB2 1TN England), The Diffusion of Participation in New Information Technology in Europe: Survey Results, Economic and Industrial Democracy, 1992, 13, 3, Aug, 331-358.

¶ The degree of participation among the 12 member states of the European Community in the introduction of new technology is investigated, drawing on data from a survey of managers & employee representatives (total N = 7,326) in 2,807 companies. Analysis identifies 5 country-specific factors affecting the levels & forms of participation: management's reliance on its workforce to achieve its objectives; management style & attitude toward participation; the bargaining power of organized labor; legal regulation; & the degree of centralization of the industrial relations system. 2 Tables, 4 Figures, 39 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7279

Glauser, Daniel (Instit universitaires psychiatrie Unité investigation sociologique, 6-8 rue du 31 Decembre CH-1207 Geneva Switzerland), Symptômes et mutations de l'esprit puritain romand: essai d'interprétation wébérienne d'entretiens semi-directifs (Symptoms and Mutations of the Puritan Spirit in the French-Speaking Cantons of Switzerland: Essay on the Weberian Interpretation of Semi-Directive Conversation), Schweizerische Zeitschrift für Soziologie/Revue Suisse de sociologie, 1992, 18, 1, 55-86. (FRE)

¶ On the basis of Luc Boltanski's Le Bonheur suisse ([Swiss Welfare] Paris: Minuit, 1966), which seeks to encapsulate the transformation model at the root of the spirit of capitalism, an attempt is made to postulate a derived analogous model that accounts for the untenable situation resulting, in the long term, from the double categorical imperative of Calvinism, ie, produce but do not consume. An interpretative framework applied to preinvestigatory verbal material (N = 31cases) elicited in the context of research on social exclusion in French-speaking cantons of Switzerland shows that those designated by Boltanski as the "inheritors of the Puritans" still revere the strength of character of the virtuous. Nevertheless, many prefer relaxation & charm to the work ethic & seriousness. In consequence, a "sociable individualism" emerges that may be interpreted as spontaneous resistance to attempts at professional standardization of behaviors. A new situation results in which the motive for social control of deviant behavior is no longer pietist fervor but, rather, a system of constraints deriving from the division of a normative framework into competing spheres of competence & normative powers. With regard to such a system of constraints, the presumed moralizing impact of social investment provides a possibility as it palliates the inconsistencies of a system of beliefs, the ultimate guarantor of which is revealed dogma. 1 Appendix, 9 References. Modified AA (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7280

Glover, Judith (Roehampton Instit Southlands Coll, London SW19 5NN England), Studying Working Women Cross-Nationally, Work, Employment and Society, 1992, 6, 3, Sept, 489-498.

¶ A review article on books by: Sara Arber & Nigel Gilbert (Eds), Women and Working Lives: Divisions and Change (Basingstoke: Macmillan, 1992); Lena Dominelli, Women across Continents (London: Harvester Wheatsheaf, 1991); Charles Jones, Lorna Marsden, & Lorne Tepperman, Lives of Their Own: The Individualization of Women's Lives (Toronto: Oxford U Press, 1990); Suzan Lewis, Dafna N. Izraeli, & Helen Hootsmans (Eds), Dual-Earner Families: International Perspectives (London: Sage, 1992); Nanneke Redclift & M. Thea Sinclair ((Eds), Working Women: International Perspectives on Labour and Gender Ideology (London: Routledge, 1991); & Mary Saso, Women in the Japanese Workplace (London: Hilary Shipman, 1990 [see listings in IRPS No. 67]). The books draw on comparisons between & among countries to explore the issue of women's paid & unpaid work. Dominelli additionally examines how the welfare state in different countries treats women in the areas of family & health policy. The books employ two approaches to comparing social phenomenon in different countries–the indicators & the societal approaches. Cross-national comparisons combining both approaches are recommended. The authors draw primarily on the theme of patriarchy to explain women's experience in the labor market & in the welfare state. It is suggested that, while the aim of several of the works is to identify strategies for change, it is difficult to see how disadvantage rooted in patriarchy can be challenged. The authors generally assume that paid work is automatically desirable for women. In looking at policies in other countries that allow women to work full-time & continuously, however, there is a need to ask what kind of paid work women do & what the personal cost is to women who undertake the triple role of full-time worker, mother, & wife. 15 References. S. Millett (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7281

Gottfried, Heidi (Dept Sociology & Anthropology Purdue U, West Lafayette IN 47906), In the Margins: Flexibility as a Mode of Regulation in the Temporary Help Service Industry, Work, Employment and Society, 1992, 6, 3, Sept, 443-460.

¶ Changing workplace control mechanisms resulting from increased reliance on temporary clerical workers are examined through participant observation at 4 US temporary help service firms & interviews with 18 temporary clerical workers. Findings reveal new forms of control that subjects temporary workers to a double layer of management, utilizing a flexible mode of regulation to disperse responsibility for control to individual workers. In this new mode, bureaucracy, characterized by increased centralization & rationalization, coexists with decentralization, based on opposing organizational rationalities. It is argued that such duality calls into question analyses that posit a single, inexorable organizational logic defining economic change in capitalism. Implications for debates within feminist research on gender & work are discussed. 48 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7282

Granrut, Charles du, L'Emploi tertiaire aux Etats-Unis. La Fin de l'âge d'or? (The Service Sector in the United States. The End of the Golden Age?), Futuribles, 1992, 167, July-Aug, 39-60. (FRE)

¶ The significant growth of the US service sector in recent decades may be ascribed to macroeconomic factors–eg, social security & monetary & budgetary policies–& to microeconomic factors–eg, wage increases & the relations between industry & services. After discussing the impact of these dynamics, based on data from existing literature, current & future trends in service sector growth are discussed. It is suggested that conditions favorable for the sector's growth are now changing, ie: (1) restructuration of the sector due to growing competition; (2) a slow-down in the expansion of US industry; & (3) decreasing demand for housework services. It is also suggested that lessons from the US experience can be drawn for the French & European economies. 10 Tables, 2 Figures, 24 References. I. Shagrir (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7283

Gray, John, Jesson, David & Sime, Nicholas (Qualitative & Quantitative Studies Education Research Group U Sheffield, S10 24N England), The 'Discouraged Worker' Revisited: Post-16 Participation in Education South of the Border, Sociology, 1992, 26, 3, Aug, 493-505.

¶ A recent study by D. Raffe & J. D. Willms in Scotland (see SA 38:2/90V4343) found evidence of "discouraged worker" effects: ie, more young people, particularly those with middling-level qualifications, stayed on in full-time education after age 16 in areas of high adult unemployment than in areas of low unemployment. Here, an attempt is made to replicate this analysis using comparable survey data on English young people. Although results suggest evidence of local labor market effects, no discouraged worker effects are found; in fact, more young people stay on in areas of low unemployment. Some possible explanations for differences between the two countries, including the potential influence of different structures of educational opportunities, are suggested. 4 Tables, 2 Figures, 6 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7284

Grayson, J. Paul (Instit Social Research York U, North York Ontario M3J 1P3), Skill, Autonomy, and Technological Change in Canada, Work and Occupations, 1993, 20, 1, Feb, 23-45.

¶ Data from the 1989 General Social Survey in Canada (N = 9,338 respondents [Rs]) are drawn on to examine the relationship between skill & autonomy for Rs in different industrial sectors, occupations, & demographic groups. Also explored is the extent to which the introduction of new technology is associated with various combinations of skill & autonomy. Overall, results indicate that the association between skill & autonomy is not very strong, & varies considerably by sector, occupation, & demographic group. In addition, Rs most likely to report both high skill & high autonomy tend to have been affected by the introduction of new technology between 1985 & 1988. 11 Tables, 23 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7285

Gregory, Jeanne (Gender Research Centre Middlesex U, EN3 4SF England), Equal Pay for Work of Equal Value: The Strengths and Weaknesses of Legislation, Work, Employment and Society, 1992, 6, 3, Sept, 461-473.

¶ Equal value legislation is a response to gendered job segregation & seeks to address the undervaluing of job tasks traditionally performed by women. Despite the passing of an equal pay law in the 1970s, the average hourly earnings of women workers in GB & Northern Ireland still approximate 75% that of men. Although the law was widened in scope in 1983 to include equal pay for work of equal value, there are some formidable opponents to the effective implementation of this provision. (1) the UK government complied with the court ruling reluctantly; (2) employers have used the loopholes & procedural complexities of the law to full advantage, although the House of Lords has closed off some escape routes; (3) some male workers have adopted entrenched positions, although a number of trade unions have begun to play an active role on behalf of women workers. A more proactive law is required, shifting the burden from individuals to employers, with the government taking the lead. A broadly based campaign to mobilize working women would operate at both local & European levels & would include demands for minimum wage laws & improved employment rights in general. A combination of legal & nonlegal strategies is needed to close the gap between what the law promises & what it delivers. 1 Appendix, 9 References. Modified AA

93Z7286

Greider, Paul, Jr., Denise-Neinhaus, Sheila & Statham, Anne (U Wisconsin Parkside, Kenosha 53141-2000), Education and Training as Facilitating Reemployment after a Plant Shutdown, Sociological Practice Review, 1992, 3, 4, Oct, 220-228.

¶ A revised version of SA 39:6/91S25117/ASA/1991/6476. 9 Tables, 22 References.

93Z7287

Grenig, Jay E. (Law School Marquette U, Milwaukee WI 53233), The Dismissal of Employees in the United States, International Labour Review, 1991, 130, 5-6, 569-581.

¶ The US is the last major industrialized country not to have a comprehensive system protecting employees against arbitrary dismissal: approximately 66% of "employees at will" can be dismissed for any or no reason. Here, the erosion of the traditional employment-at-will rule is examined, including relevant judicial decisions, legislation, & the recently approved model Uniform Employment Termination Law. Standards & procedures for dismissing employees covered by collective bargaining agreements are also reviewed, focusing on the role of labor arbitrators in determining what constitutes "just cause" for discharge. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7288

Hammer, Eliot R. (School Business Howard U, Washington DC 20059 [Tel: 202-806-1530; FAX: 202-797-6393]), The "Values" Context of Compensation Decision-Making: Contemporary Contributions from the Literature on "Sociopolitical Barriers", International Journal of Group Tensions, 1992, 22, 3, fall, 209-219.

¶ A review of contemporary thinking that expands T. A. Mahoney's argument that sociopolitical barriers characterize compensation decision making ("Justice and Equity: A Recurring Theme in Compensation," Personnel, 1975, 52, 60-66). Integral to the Mahoney argument & subsequent writing is consideration of the subjective quality of such decisions & thus what influences variation among decisions. D. E. Klingner's model of "values" categories ("Comparable Worth and Public Personnel Values," Review of Public Personnel Administration, 1988, 9, 45-60) captures the essence of much of what is now being published in the area. By considering the model's content, discussion is presented relevant to such issues as: conflicts between values of administrative efficiency & those of social equity & individual rights; how politically responsive values are argued to drive preeminent consideration of administrative efficiency in compensation management; & the potential for political responsivity contributing to administrative inefficiency. 33 References. Modified AA

93Z7289

Heshizer, Brian P., Martin, Harry J. & Wiener, Yoash (Dept Management & Labor Relations Cleveland State U, OH 44115), Normative Commitment and Instrumental Attachment as Intervening Variables in the Prediction of Union Participation, The Journal of Applied Behavioral Science, 1991, 27, 4, Dec, 532-549.

¶ To determine whether normative commitment & institutional attachment are variables that directly relate to union participation or that indirectly intervene between other antecedents & union participation, 2 competing theoretical models were evaluated. Mail questionnaires collected from 176 recently unionized public agency employees in the midwest US reveal that the model hypothesizing normative commitment & institutional attachment as intervening variables better fits the evidence. Moreover, these variables are found to represent separate motivational processes & therefore to influence behavior independently; commitment proves a stronger link to participation than attachment. These findings are consistent with the identification theory of organizational attachment. 2 Tables, 2 Figures, 1 Appendix, 29 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7290

Hinrichs, Karl (Zenstrum Sozialpolitik U Bremen, D-2800 1 Federal Republic Germany), Zur Zukunft der Arbeitszeitflexibilisierung. Arbeitnehmerpräferenzen, betriebliche Interessen und Beschäftigungswirkungen (On the Future of Work-Time Flexibility. Employee Preferences, Management Interests and Employment Effects), Soziale Welt, 1992, 43, 3, 313-330. (GER)

¶ Three positive outcomes have been predicted if employers grant their workers greater scheduling flexibility: (1) workers will be more content since they will have the opportunity to adjust their work hours to fit their personal needs; (2) the desire for a shorter work week will make room for other workers, thereby reducing unemployment; & (3) less standardization of hours will allow new economies, enhancing productivity. However, analysis reveals that, to some degree, these three outcomes are mutually exclusive. Most likely, the first outcome can be targeted as a tangible goal by many different kinds of firms. 1 Figure, 44 References. M. Meeks

93Z7291

Jessell, John C. & Beymer, Lawrence (Indiana State U, Terre Haute 47809), The Effects of Job Title vs. Job Description on Occupational Sex Typing, Sex Roles, 1992, 27, 1-2, July, 73-83.

¶ In an experiment involving 1,601 (F) & 1,344 male (M) students (93% Caucasian) in grades 7 & 8 at 9 metropolitan & 11 rural schools in Ind, differences in sex typing of 18 occupations were explored as a function of (1) job title vs job description, (2) school classification, & (3) gender. Results indicate that job title elicited more sex typing than did job description, & that Ms were more sex typed than Fs in attitudes toward occupations. There was no difference in sex typing ascribed to occupations as a function of school classification; however, more metropolitan than rural school Ms were sex typed in their attitudes, while the situation was reversed for Fs. 2 Tables, 31 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7292

Jones, Ethel B. (Auburn U, AL 36849), Private Sector Union Decline and Structural Employment Change, 1970-1988, UM Journal of Labor Research, 1992, 13, 3, summer, 257-272.

¶ Previous research on the large decline in private sector unionism during the 1970s & 1980s, has focused on explanations particular to those decades & attributed an inconsequential role to the employment shift from goods- to service-producing industries. Here, an adapted version of the Orley Ashenfelter's & John E. Pencavel's model of total union membership over time ("American Trade Union Growth: 1900-1960," Quarterly Journal of Economics, 1969, 83, Aug, 434-448) is applied to statistical data for the period 1903-1988. Analysis reveals stable parameter estimates between the 1960s-1970s & the earlier post-Wagner Act (1935) years. Not only are decade-specific explanations found unnecessary for understanding union membership decline, but the pivotal relationship in the decline is the relative shift in the employment distribution away from traditionally strongly unionized industries. 3 Tables, 1 Appendix, 38 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7293

Jones, Stephen R. G. (Dept Economics McMaster U, Hamilton Ontario L8S 4M4), Was There a Hawthorne Effect?, UM American Journal of Sociology, 1992, 98, 3, Nov, 451-468.

¶ Empirical evidence for the existence of the "Hawthorne effect" is examined using the original data from the celebrated studies of workplace behavior conducted in the 1920s & 1930s at Western Electric's Hawthorne Plant (location not provided). Allowing for a variety of other factors, assessed is whether experimental changes, variously defined, had a common effect that could be regarded as a pure result of the experimentation. The main conclusion is that these data show little or no evidence of a Hawthorne effect. 4 Tables, 4 Figures, 22 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7294

Kenyon, Charles Bowen (Harvard U, Cambridge MA 02138), Labor Relations in Higher Education: A Case Study of the Harvard Union of Clerical and Technical Workers Organizing Campaign, * Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 5, Nov, 1686-A.

Available from UMI, Ann Arbor, MI. Order No. DA9228398.

93Z7295

Kirkpatrick, Keith (Colorado State U, Fort Collins 80523), Political and Economic Determinants of Labor Union Membership: A Cross-Sectional Analysis, * Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 6, Dec, 2122-A.

Available from UMI, Ann Arbor, MI. Order No. DA9231795.

93Z7296

Komai, Hiroshi (Faculty Political Science Chulalongkorn U, Bangkok 10330 Thailand), Are Foreign Trainees in Japan Disguised Cheap Laborers?, Migration World Magazine, 1992, 20, 1, 13-17.

¶ It is argued that foreign trainees in Japan serve as a form of cheap labor. There are two types of trainee systems in which this occurs: (1) expanding enterprises training core workers for branch or affiliated enterprises overseas, while at the same time solving the problem of labor shortages in Japan; & (2) small-scale enterprises without any overseas operations. This system is problematic because trainees are underpaid & deprived of privileges of regular workers, & many of those coming to Japan expecting to be trained are forced to work without proper training. 1 Table, 1 Map. D. Castañeda

93Z7297

Krahn, Harvey (Population Research Laboratory U Alberta, Edmonton T6G 2E1 (Tel: 403-492-4659)), Non-Standard Work Arrangements, Perspectives on Labour and Income, 1991, 3, 4, winter, 35-45.

¶ Nonstandard work arrangements–eg, part-time work, part-year work, & temporary (contract) work–are becoming more common in most industrialized countries. Private sector employers & the state are relying on growing numbers of nonstandard workers to provide additional flexibility in response to consumer/client demands &/or to reduce labor costs. In addition, own-account self-employment (no employees) & multiple-job holding also appear to be increasing, perhaps in response to a decline in employment security. Here, General Social Survey data are used to examine the incidence of these five types of nonstandard work in Canada in 1989, noting gender, age, & interindustry variations. Almost 31% of working-age (15-64) Canadians were in nonstandard work arrangements in 1989; 22% were in part-time, part-year, & temporary work. Nonstandard work was most common in the lower-tier services (eg, retail trade, food & beverage services, tourism), but was also quite common in some of the upper-tier services (eg, education, health, welfare, & in some parts of the goods-producing sector (eg, construction). 2 Tables. AA

93Z7298

Krais, Beate (Max-Plank-Instit Bildungsforschung Forschungsbereich Bildung, D-1000 Berlin 33 Federal Republic Germany), Pourquoi n'y a-t-il pas de cadres en Allemagne? (Why Are There No Cadres in Germany?), UM Sociologie du Travail, 1992, 34, 4, 497-506. (FRE)

¶ Key concepts of German sociology of work in the twentieth century are discussed. It is emphasized that German studies historically dealt with employees, without distinction by profession or gender, while in France focus was placed on socioprofessional groups. Here, the classification of the socioprofessional space into workers, employees, & functionaries in German official statistics & social research is described. Debates over this simplistic structural classification are reviewed, & the emergence in the 1960s of research on class society is described. It is concluded that German sociology has historically contributed to obscuring a major part of Germany's social space. 2 Tables, 33 References. I. Shagrir

93Z7299

Lalive d'Epinay, Christian (Dept sociologie U Geneva, CH-1211 4 Switzerland), Beyond the Antinomy: Work versus Leisure? The Process of Cultural Mutation in Industrial Societies during the Twentieth Century, International Sociology, 1992, 7, 4, Dec, 397-412.

¶ A discussion of sociohistorical logic of the dialectic between (paid) labor & free time among industrial societies with a market economy. The main stages of a cultural mutation are shown & related to changes in the global social structure. On the eve of postindustrial society, a new orientation toward life developed within the framework of free time, privacy, & leisure activities, which has come to dominate all sectors of human life. The possibility that this orientation could help to overcome the antinomy between work & free time activities is discussed. 76 References Adapted from the source document.

93Z7300

Lallement, Michel (U Paris X, F-92001 Nanterre Cedex France), L'Organisation du temps de travail dans l'entreprise (Work-Time Organization in Enterprises), Futuribles, 1992, 165-166, May-June, 193-204. (FRE)

¶ During the 1980s, progressive state withdrawal from employment regulation & decentralization of labor negotiations in France facilitated an increasing flexibility of work-time organization. Based on previously published surveys conducted in the industrial & service sectors, three major types of flexibility formulas are identified: (1) allowing for weekend & nighttime work; (2) modular work-time according to times of greater workforce necessity; & (3) diversification of time-table & employment. It is shown how the success of time rearrangements, often initiated by employers for economic reasons, depends on social relations within the enterprise; this is demonstrated via two case studies of French automobile plants. 1 Table, 3 Figures. AA Tr & Modified by I. Shagrir.

93Z7301

Langford, Tom (U Calgary, Alberta T2N 1N4), Social Experiences and Variations in Economic Beliefs among Canadian Workers, UM La Revue Canadienne de Sociologie et d'Anthropologie/The Canadian Review of Sociology and Anthropology, 1992, 29, 4, Nov, 453-487.

¶ Data from the 1982 Class Structure Project & 1984 National Election Study (weighted N = 2,620 respondents) are used to evaluate the relative influence of labor process, labor market, housing market/home life, working-class (WC) subculture & social/demographic variables on determinants of Canadian workers' economic beliefs. Major findings include: (1) location in internal firm labor markets has an impact on a wide range of workers' economic beliefs, as do past & present class affiliations; & (2) conceptual job content & on-the-job social control have little influence on most beliefs. Results suggest that an approach to WC stratification that focuses on workers' lifelong experiences should illuminate patterns of WC mobilization in contemporary Canada. 3 Tables, 2 Appendixes, 57 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7302

Lansbury, Russell D., Sandkull, Bengt & Hammarström, Olle (U Sydney, New South Wales 2006 Australia), Industrial Relations and Productivity: Evidence from Sweden and Australia, Economic and Industrial Democracy, 1992, 13, 3, Aug, 295-329.

¶ Comparative case studies are offered of a Swedish & Australian plant in the automotive components industry, examining productivity levels & variables that are significant in explaining differences between the performance of the two plants. The Swedish plant achieved higher levels of both productivity & quality than did its Australian counterpart. This success is related not only to higher levels of investment in technology, but to a greater emphasis on skills development & work organization that emphasized teamwork & consultation between the workforce, unions, & management. By contrast, the Australian plant was caught in a vicious cycle of low productivity & quality, poor industrial relations, & a declining market share. Radical changes in its operations are called for, particularly in light of the current recession. 3 Tables, 29 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7303

Leedom, William Patric (U Cincinnati, OH 45221), Factors Influencing the Performance of New York Roles: A Qualitative Study of Change in a Manufacturing Company, * Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 6, Dec, 2122-A.

Available from UMI, Ann Arbor, MI. Order No. DA9232307.

93Z7304

Leman, Steve (Dept Industrial Technology U Bradford, West Yorkshire BD7 1DP England), Ethnicity, Technology and Local Labour Markets in the Clothing Industry of Northern England, ᴜᴍ Urban Anthropology, 1992, 21, 2, summer, 115-136.

¶ The UK clothing industry shows wide variation in company size, investment, market organization, & utilization of labor. In small firms, profits are gained through the availability of low-cost, skilled labor. In larger firms, profits are based on the use of technical advances & on intensification of labor. An examination of ethnicity, technological change, & the local availability of labor makes some sense of this diverse industry Case studies describing 4 companies in northern England indicate that the division between small labor-intensive firms & larger, more technically advanced firms will remain in place for some time. 24 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7305

LeRoy, Michael H. (U Illinois, Champaign 61820), Multivariate Analysis of Unionized Employees' Propensity to Cross Their Union's Picket Line, ᴜᴍ Journal of Labor Research, 1992, 13, 3, summer, 285-292.

¶ Survey data obtained from members of 4 international unions (total N = 615, representing a 27.3% response) are drawn on to explore the characteristics of those employers who would cross their union's picket line during an authorized economic strike. Analysis indicates that potential crossovers differ from potential continuing strikers in their support for union representation & in their attitudes about striking & picketing. Compared to potential continuing strikers, potential crossovers make a lower hourly wage, are more willing to find alternate employment during a strike, & are willing to strike fewer weeks. It is concluded that the no-presumption policy of the National Labor Relations Board best corresponds to the realities of the workplace. 2 Tables, 19 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7306

Liu, Shensheng (U Notre Dame, IN 46556), An Assessment of the Developmental Effects of the Assembly Industry in Mexico and Taiwan, * Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 6, Dec, 2122-A.

Available from UMI, Ann Arbor, MI. Order No. DA9231407.

93Z7307

Loew, Rebecca M. (Brandeis U, Waltham MA 02554-9110), Determinants of Divorced Older Women's Labor Force Participation, * Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 5, Nov, 1687-A-1688-A.

Available from UMI, Ann Arbor, MI. Order No. DA9227598.

93Z7308

Mannheim, Bilha (Faculty Industrial Engineering & Management Technion-Israel Instit Technology, Haifa IL-32000), Gender and the Effects of Demographics, Status, and Work Values on Work Centrality, ᴜᴍ Work and Occupations, 1993, 20, 1, Feb, 3-22.

¶ A closed-ended questionnaire was used to obtain data on the work-role centrality (WRC) of married working females (Fs) vs males (Ms) with high-school age children in a metropolitan area of Israel (total N = 345) along with the relationship to it of factors such as socialization, status, status inconsistency, work values, & job satisfaction. Results indicate that in general Fs are less work-centered than Ms, though further specification indicates that this is true mainly in the intermediate socioeconomic status (SES) categories, but not in others. It is hypothesized that this is related to the greater status inconsistency that Fs experience in these SES categories, & in their dual role as wives/mothers & employed workers. For Fs only, country of origin is of relevance to WRC, suggesting the importance of socialization. A combined model of status, work values, & job satisfaction explains WRC best for Ms, whereas status, socialization, & job satisfaction explain it best for Fs. 2 Tables, 4 Appendixes, 51 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7309

Marsh, Robert M. (Dept Sociology Brown U, Providence RI 02912), A Research Note: Centralization of Decision-Making in Japanese Factories, Organization Studies, 1992, 13, 2, 261-274.

¶ Using the Aston Centralization of Authority scale, it is shown that Japanese organizations vary in their level of overall centralization of authority in decision making, & in the level at which decisions in particular are made. Analysis of survey data obtained for a sample of 48 heterogeneous Japanese manufacturing firms reveals that both spatial dispersion into multiple sites & higher levels of automation of technology increase centralization of authority, while large size, the increasing number of levels to which size gives rise, & greater task variability all have the opposite effect: ie, they lower, somewhat, the levels at which decisions can be made. The implications of these findings for claims of bottom-up, participative decision making in Japan's ringi system are discussed. 3 Tables, 12 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7310

Martella, Maureen (Temple U, Philadelphia PA 19122), The Rhetoric and Realities of Contingent Work: The Case of Women in Clerical Temporary Work, * Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 6, Dec, 2122-A-2123-A.

Available from UMI, Ann Arbor, MI. Order No. DA9227496.

93Z7311

Misztal, Bronislaw (Dept Sociology & Anthropology Indiana U-Purdue U, Fort Wayne 46805-1499 [FAX: 219-481-6673]), Staré, nové a alternatívne. Sociálne hnutia ako činitele konfliktov a spoločenských zmien vo východnej Európe (The Old, the New and the Alternative. Social Movements as Actors in Conflict and in Social Change in Eastern Europe), Sociológia, 1991, 23, 5-6, 387-402. (CZE)

¶ By a strange quirk of history, the "new" political movements of Eastern Europe led to "old" political & economic agendas: privatization, venture capitalism, an end to welfare, & conservative stances on abortion & capital punishment. In Hungary & Czechoslovakia, developments were influenced by events in Poland. However, the general feelings of apathy & alienation eventually led to the demobilization of social change & elimination of original actors, eg, the Alliance of Young Democrats in Hungary & the Republic against Violence in Slovakia. New movements either assumed old agendas or facilitated the way for old movements & conservative parties when social change was precipitously instigated. While the means of modernizing society became more modern, moving toward democracy, the values of modernity became more negative, as a result of dissatisfaction with the slow pace of change. Rather than speaking of old & new, it would be more proper to distinguish between nonconventional, alternative, & basic movements. 1 Table, 65 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7312

Model, Suzanne, Stiers, Gretchen & Weber, Eleanor (U Massachusetts, Amherst 01005), Overtime and Undertime: An Analysis of Hours Worked, UM Sociological Inquiry, 1992, 62, 4, fall, 413-436.

¶ Determinants of annual hours of work for whites, blacks, & mainland-born Puerto Ricans residing in the New York City SMSA in 1979 are compared using data from the 1980 Census' Public Use Microdata Samples (N = approximately 2,000 workers ages 18-64). Analysis supports both a neoclassical specification & an extended structural model. Few differences in coefficients exist between white & minority men, but the hours of minority women are less sensitive to family demands than are those of white women. Implications of the findings are discussed. 3 Tables, 26 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7313

Moore, Dahlia (Dept Sociology & Social Anthropology Hebrew U Jerusalem, Mount Scopus IL-91905 Israel), Economic Development, Socio-Political Ideology and Women's Employment: The Case of Israel, International Sociology, 1992, 7, 4, Dec, 413-431.

¶ It is argued that sociopolitical ideology & societal norms interact with existing economic processes to shape sex segregation & inequality. A case study is presented of the economic development of Israel & concurrent normative & ideological shifts, with attention to their impact on women's participation in the labor force, the structure of sex segregation, & the failure of Israeli women to attain equality. The analysis shows that, although socialism's main premise is equality for all & capitalism offers equality for similarly endowed persons, the latter provides better opportunities to reduce gender inequality. 2 Tables, 63 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7314

Moore, Thomas S. (Dept Sociology U Wisconsin, Milwaukee 53201), Racial Differences in Postdisplacement Joblessness, UM Social Science Quarterly, 1992, 73, 3, Sept, 674-689.

¶ A Weibull regression analysis of reemployment rate data from a subsample of the 1984 & 1986 Displaced Workers Surveys (total N = 4,831) reveals a persistent racial difference in the frequency & length of the jobless spells of black & white workers, both male & female, following displacement. This racial disparity is not explained by inflexible wage expectations or observable worker characteristics, but appears to reflect differing constraints on job search. 3 Tables, 40 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7315

Morreall, John (Rochester Instit Technology, NY 14623), Humor and Work, Humor, 1991, 4, 3-4, 359-373.

¶ Humor & play can have instrumental value in work settings. Specifically, humor can: benefit workers' mental & physical health by reducing in pathogenic stress; promote mental flexibility, which involves divergent thinking, creative problem solving, risk-taking, & tolerance for ambiguity & change, by encouraging disengagement (nonpractical perspectives) & objectivity (the other's perspective); increase effective job interactions by building teamwork & morale. Also, telling jokes reduces boredom & defuses hostile situations. 21 References. J. Sadler

93Z7316

Morris, Lydia & Irwin, Sarah (Dept Sociology U Essex, Wivenhoe Park Colchester CO4 3SQ England), Employment Histories and the Concept of the Underclass, Sociology, 1992, 26, 3, Aug, 401-420.

¶ Data gathered via survey & interview in 1989 from 600 couples in Hartlepoole, England, are drawn on to compare the work histories & characteristics of 3 groups of male respondents: those unemployed continuously for at least 1 year; those recruited to employment within the past year, no matter the current employment status; & those employed with the same firm for at least the past year. A distinct pattern of short-term employment interspersed with unemployment was revealed in the group between the long-term unemployed & the securely employed. It is argued that the existence of such a group undermines the definition of an underclass purely in terms of unemployment. Likewise, the characteristics of the underemployed, despite indicating a clear pattern of disadvantage, are too heterogeneous to constitute a distinctive class position 9 Tables, 22 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7317

Moss, Geoffrey (Columbia U, New York NY 10027), Supervisor-Subordinate Relations in the Employee-Owned Firm, * Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 6, Dec, 2123-A.

Available from UMI, Ann Arbor, MI. Order No. DA9232055.

93Z7318

Mueller, Frank & Purcell, John (c/o Purcell–Templeton Coll U Oxford, OX1 2JD England), The Europeanization of Manufacturing and the Decentralization of Bargaining: Multinational Management Strategies in the European Automobile Industry, The International Journal of Human Resource Management, 1992, 3, 1, May, 15-34.

¶ The convergence of industrial relation systems in multinational companies is examined through case study analysis of the European automobile industry. Though the trend within multinational companies is toward local bargaining & its linkage with investment policy, convergent forces (eg, the globalization of markets, European legislation & common product standards, & the easing of cross-border shipments of components of half-finished products) have led to the emergence of remarkably similar operational requirements in management policies in similar countries National differences in industrial relations systems appear to affect the mode of local negotiation. Industries characterized by comparable technological & cost constraints & product market pressures are likely to develop convergent patterns of employee relations at the plant level. 1 Table, 62 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7319

Ngo, Hang-Yue (Dept Organization & Management Chinese U Hong Kong, Shatin New Territories), Employment Status of Married Women in Hong Kong, UM Sociological Perspectives, 1992, 35, 3, fall, 475-488.

¶ Data obtained in the 1986 Census in Hong Kong are drawn on to investigate choices made by married women ages 20-49 (N = 6,612) concerning their employment status, attempting to relate such choices to wives' family role constraints. Results support the hypothesis that, given their primary responsibilities for child care & domestic labor, married women are likely to choose an employment status that best accommodates their familial obligations. Waged & self-employment conflict with women's domestic responsibilities, whereas outworking & unpaid work in family enterprises do not. The last two employment statuses are characterized by a higher degree of work flexibility &, thus, working wives are in a better position to balance the demands of family & work. 3 Tables, 24 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7320

O'Reilly, Jacqueline (Centre Management Studies Royal Holloway & Bedford New Coll London U, Egham Surrey TW20 0EX England), Comparaison des stratégies d'emploi flexible dans le secteur bancaire en Grande-Bretagne et en France (Comparing Flexible Employment Strategies in Banks in Great Britain and France), UM Sociologie du Travail, 1992, 34, 3, 293-313. (FRE)

Translated from English by Catherine Roux.

¶ Flexible employment strategies in France & GB are compared based on interviews with directors & questionnaires returned from employees (Ns not specified). It is suggested that the theoretical models of functional & numerical flexibility are too schematic; in contrast, strategies created in reality reveal greater variety, although employers are still seeking

: most efficient flexibility strategies. Strategies in the two countries ·y with relation to differing pressures on the banking sector, eg, regu- ed opening hours, & restrictions on part-time & temporary employ- nt. The different strategies are discussed in a national-societal con- .t. 55 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 93, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

Z7321

O'Reilly, Jacqueline (Centre Management Studies Royal Holloway & Bedford New Coll, Egham Surrey TW20 0EX England), Where Do You Draw the Line? Functional Flexibility, Training and Skill in Britain and France, Work, Employment and Society, 1992, 6, 3, Sept, 369-396.

)rawing on in-depth case-study research conducted in the retail bank- ; sector in GB & France, it is argued that research on the concept of ictional flexibility–ie, employees performing more than one task–fails make a clear distinction between a deliberate strategy to enhance skills training, in contrast to where task enlargement has developed in an ad c manner, as a result of restructuring. It is concluded that the flexibili- debates need to be more clearly situated in the specific social & eco- mic context of a given society. 4 Tables, 50 References. Adapted from : source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all hts reserved.)

Z7322

Pak, Sejin (Harvard U, Cambridge MA 02138), Symbiotic Dualism: The Social Organization of the Subcontracting Network in Japan's Machinery Industry, * Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 5, Nov, 1686-A. Available from UMI, Ann Arbor, MI. Order No. DA9228258.

Z7323

Parasuraman, Saroj, Greenhaus, Jeffrey H. & Granrose, Cherlyn Skromme (Coll Business & Administration Drexel U, Philadelphia PA 19104), Role Stressors, Social Support, and Well-Being among Two-Career Couples, Journal of Organizational Behavior, 1992, 13, 4, July, 339-356.

A sample of 119 2-career couples in the eastern US were surveyed on ›rk role stressors (role conflict & role ambiguity), family conflict, ›rk-family conflict, well-being (job satisfaction, family satisfaction, & e stress), & social support. MANOVAs demonstrate that neither ·ess nor social support appeared to cross over between the domains of ›rk & family, contrary to the hypotheses. Work role stressors were neg- ıvely related to job satisfaction, but family role stressors & work- mily conflict were not. Family role stressors were negatively related to mily satisfaction, but work role stressors & work-family conflict were ıt Some evidence was found for cross-over effects of stressors from one ırtner to the well-being of the other partner. Overall well-being was re- ted to stressors in multiple domains: work role stressors had a positive lation to life stress for both genders, family role stressors had a positive lation to life stress for women, & work-family conflict had a positive lation to life stress for men. Social support did not moderate the rela- onship between stressors & well-being. Work support affected job satis- iction, but spousal support did not; spousal support affected family sat- faction for women only. It is possible that, to cope with stress, partners iinimize stress by isolating role domains. 4 Tables, 75 References. M. flum (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

3Z7324

Penn, Roger, Gasteen, Ann, Scattergood, Hilda & Sewel, John (Dept Sociology U Lancaster, LA1 4YW England), Technical Change and the Division of Labour in Rochdale & Aberdeen: Evidence from the Social Change and Economic Life Initiative, UM The British Journal of Sociology, 1992, 43, 4, Dec, 657-680.

An examination of the effects of technical change on the division of la- ›or, based on interviews with representatives of 32 firms in Rochdale & 12 in Aberdeen, UK. Results reveal little difference between establish- ments in the 2 localities within broadly matched industrial sectors, & lit- tle evidence to support the deskilling thesis; rather, there is more evi- dence of workforce skilling. In particular, machine maintenance skills are increasing as a result of computerization, & clerical skills as a result of the introduction of word processors & other computerized equipment. 10 Tables. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Socio- logical Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7325

Plasman, Robert (Dépt économie appliquée U Libre Bruxelles, B-1050 Belgium), Belgique, du partage de l'emploi à la flexibilité (Belgium, From Shared Employment to Flexibility), Futuribles, 1992, 165-166, May-June, 73-84. (FRE)

¶ Shared employment, related to the reduction & novel management of work time, came about in Belgium as the result of a series of legal modifications & collective agreements. The 1987-initiated "Hansenne experience" of 1987 (named after the minister who implemented it) of shortening the work-day per person is briefly reviewed. The effects of the legal modifications resulting from the new arrangements in the metal industry sector are explored. Most plants have implemented the new time management as a response to temporary constraints; long-term planning is rare, & impacts on productivity are as yet unknown. 1 Table, 3 Graphs. AA Tr & Modified by I. Shagrir. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7326

Pontusson, Jonas & Kuruvilla, Sarosh (Cornell U, Ithaca NY 14853), Swedish Wage-Earner Funds: An Experiment in Economic Democracy, Industrial and Labor Relations Review, 1992, 45, 4, July, 779-791.

¶ The impact of the implementation of wage-earner funds (collective share-holdings financed by special payroll & profit taxes) in Sweden in 1983 on wage solidarity policy, corporate decision making, & industrial policy goals is examined. Although the wage-earner funds have met the financial objectives of the 1983 legislation–eg, increase in value, avoidance of risk, & contributions to pension plans–they have fallen short in promoting wage solidarity & worker influence on corporate decisions because of the limited size of their stockholdings & the seven-year restriction on the inflow of revenues into the funds. Compared to the influence of the network of industrial & economic democracy initiatives enacted in the 1970s, wage-earner funds have had relativey little impact on furthering economic democracy. 2 Tables, 1 Figure, 33 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7327

Prasad, Pushkala (Clarkson U, Potsdam NY 13676), Organization Building in a Yale Union, The Journal of Applied Behavioral Science, 1991, 27, 3, Sept, 337-355.

¶ A social constructionist perspective is drawn on to investigate organization building, using a meaning-centered & endogenic approach to study the formation & establishment of a union of clerical workers at Yale U in New Haven, Conn. Qualitative research, combining extensive document analysis with 24 semistructured interviews, suggests that the key elements of successful organization building are: defining meaningful realities, transforming contexts, & benefiting from the historical backwardness of organization members. Implications for organization theory are discussed. 3 Tables, 57 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7328

Pries, Ludger (Centro Estudios Sociológicos Colegio México, 01000 Mexico DF), El cambio industrial en la República Federal de Alemania como una "sociedad de riesgo" (Industrial Change in the Federal Republic of Germany as a "Society of Risk"), Estudios Sociológicos, 1991, 9, 26, May-Aug, 315-337. (SPA)

¶ At the close of the twentieth century, concepts like "the third industrial revolution," "end of the division of labor," & "flexible specialization" are frequently employed to explain changes in technical organization & work. Secondary data on German firms are represented here to explore the concept of the the "risk society." Industrial change, like the transformation from simple to reflexive modernization, is described. 21 References. Modified AA (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7329

Pritchard, Mary E. (Dept Human & Family Resources Northern Illinois U, DeKalb 60115), The Value of the Second Income to Two-Earner Families with Children, Lifestyles, 1990, 11, 2, summer, 127-141.

¶ Based on data from the 1982/83 Consumer Expenditure Survey of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, it is suggested that relative differences between actual after-tax incomes for the single- vs double-earner household are not large, especially after controlling for confounding variables. A regression of after-tax income of 2 groups of married-couple families with children–those with 1 full-time earner vs 2 full-time earners (N = 871 & 753, respectively)–revealed a 28.7% differential in income level. Once distorting influences from other income predictors (educational level, earner gender, & occupation) were removed, the two-earner family had a mean after-tax income $6,000 higher than the single-earner family. The family planning to maximize after-tax income by sending a second earner into the workforce may wish to reconsider the net advantages of such a move. 4 Tables, 25 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7330

Pugliese, Enrico, L'Europa delle disoccupazioni (Europe of Unemployment), La Critica Sociologica, 1991-1992, 100-101, Jan-Mar, 79-89. (ITA)

¶ A discussion of unemployment throughout Europe in terms of its quantity, character, & causes. In Eastern Europe, unemployment is skyrocketing as a result of recent historical events & economic upheavals. In Western Europe, the relationship between employment & unemployment is changing due to the presence of immigrant workers. Their availability & lack of protection leads to the segmentation of the labor market & an expansion of the underpaid sector, bringing new social tensions. Eastern Europe can now be viewed as a resevoir of cheap industrial labor that can be tapped when needed. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7331

Pulkingham, Jane (Dept Sociology & Anthropology Simon Fraser U, Burnaby British Columbia V5A 1S6), Employment Restructuring in the Health Service: Efficiency Initiatives, Working Patterns and Workforce Composition, Work, Employment and Society, 1992, 6, 3, Sept, 397-421.

¶ In a contribution to the debate over pay flexibility in Scotland's National Health Service (NHS), data drawn from labor force statistics & case studies of 2 hospitals are used to explore the processes of employment restructuring, with attention to the impact of efficiency initiatives on NHS domestic ancillary employment. Research suggests that with the restructuring of domestic ancillary employment, particularly the increased reliance on part-time work, the profile of the workforce has changed significantly. Further, while gender appears to be a salient factor in the distribution of jobs at the aggregate level, the female workforce itself is highly differentiated. It is argued that the primary significance of so-called "background" characteristics of incumbents must be recognized in order to more fully understand the dynamics of the flexibility drive & the nature of employment restructuring. 4 Tables, 52 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7332

Rasmussen, Jeffrey Lee (School Science Indiana U-Purdue U, Indianapolis 46202), Data Transformation and Absenteeism, Methodika, 1991, 5, 47-62.

¶ The use of absenteeism as a dependent variable has often resulted in insignificant or low correlations between it & other variables because of its highly skewed distribution. To correct nonnormal absenteeism distributions, a data transformation technique (Monte Carlo) was used to investigate the power & Type I error rate of F tests with both nontransformed & transformed distributions of independent & dependent variables simulated from 2 samples of actual absenteeism data, one mildly nonnormal & the other strongly nonnormal. The transformation, even of the mildly nonnormal distribution, caused an increase in the power of the F ratio to detect a significant correlation between the independent & dependent variables. These results imply that the use of a raw absentee score as a predictor variable is highly suspect, putting the results of previous research in jeopardy. 7 Tables, 40 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7333

Rees, Gareth & Fielder, Sarah (School Social & Administrative Studies University Wales Coll, Cardiff CF1 3XA), The Services Economy, Subcontracting and the New Employment Relations: Contract Catering and Cleaning, Work, Employment and Society, 1992, 6, 3, Sept, 347-368.

¶ Drawing on interviews with regional & local managers (N not specified) & questionnaires completed by 20 employees of 1 catering & 1 cleaning business, women's employment in these subcontracting industries in England & Wales is examined. Both industries have had strongly gendered occupational hierarchies, with women concentrated into the highly exploited operative roles, characterized by low pay & poor working conditions. It is argued that the growth of employment in both industries is a consequence of the expansion of their markets, resulting from subcontracting growth in both public & private sectors. However, the firms have adopted their organizational structure in different ways to cope with these demands. Further, firms in the 2 industries have adopted contrasting employment practices, with different implications for the work experiences of their employees. The cleaning service industry, eg, adopted a strategy of intensification, while catering has moved toward improving employment conditions through enhanced training & promotion possibilities. It is suggested that the analysis of contemporary restructuring must locate patterns of change in employment relations within a context set both by the general trajectories of restructuring & the specific transformations of the social & technical divisions of labor within given industries. 2 Tables, 27 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7334

Reid, Pamela Trotman & Clayton, Susan (Graduate School & U Center City U New York, NY 10036), Racism and Sexism at Work, Social Justice Research, 1992, 5, 3, Sept, 249-268.

¶ While both racism & sexism have handicapped selected groups in terms of salary & access to jobs, promotions, & power, the categories of race & gender, & the experience of racism & sexism, differ in many ways. Here, differences in such experiences resulting from definitions of race & gender, as well as those differences stemming from historical, legal, & demographic factors, are explored, with focus on the interactive effects of racism & sexism in the experience of women of color. Directions for further research are suggested. 2 Tables, 49 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7335

Ries, Lynn Marie (U Washington, Seattle 98195), Evaluating Work: An Examination of Wage Differentials among Men and Women, Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 6, Dec, 2114-A.

Available from UMI, Ann Arbor, MI. Order No. DA9230429.

93Z7336

Roberts, Ken & Parsell, Glennys (Dept Sociology/Social Policy/Social Work Studies U Liverpool, L69 3BX England), Entering the Labour Market in Britain: The Survival of Traditional Opportunity Structures, The Sociological Review, 1992, 40, 4, Nov, 726-753.

¶ Career development among youth in GB is examined, drawing on questionnaire data from representative samples of young people ages 15-18 (total N = 5,764) from 4 areas, surveyed 1987-1989. The findings revealed that career choices were typically inconsequential in terms of subsequent chances of avoiding unemployment & types of occupations entered. Contrary to claims when the new training & educational options were introduced by the Youth Training Scheme in 1983, these opportunities were not of particular benefit to less-qualified early school-leavers from disadvantaged home backgrounds; the scheme appeared to work best for those already well-qualified & from middle-class homes. Most young people's opportunities remained tightly structured by the traditional predictors of career outcomes. As in the 1970s, an academic track for high achievers in education, & employment-led inductions for age 16 or 17 for others, continued to be the main routes into the workforce of the 1980s. Implications for future education & training policies are discussed. 6 Tables, 16 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7337

Rosenberg, Sam (Roosevelt U, Chicago IL 60605), L'Allongement du temps de travail aux Etats-Unis. Travailler plus avec un salaire inchangé (The Lengthening of Working Time in the United States. Working More with an Unchanged Salary), Futuribles, 1992, 165-166, May-June, 129-146. (FRE)

¶ Statistical data are presented on the duration, nature, & structure of working time in the US, 1969-1989. Reversing an earlier trend, the 1980s, weekly & annual work of full-time workers increased in the 1980s, though working time also became more flexible, driven more by employer demands than by worker preferences. Given the minimal governmental regulations regarding working time patterns, the industrial relations system is the main arena wherein working hours are determined. During & after the severe recession of the early 1980s, many unions were forced to agree to increased employer flexibility in scheduling hours of full-time workers & in utilizing part-time workers. At the same time, unionized workers were often pressured to agree to working more hours for the same pay. Two distinct scenarios are proposed for working time in the 1990s: (1) an employee-driven one predicated on a hypothesized labor shortage, & (2) an employer-driven one based on a continuation of an existing labor surplus & a weak labor movement. It is argued that the latter is the more likely scenario, continuing 1980s working time patterns into the 1990s. 4 Tables. Modified AA

93Z7338

Ross, Catherine E. & Mirowsky, John (Dept Sociology U Illinois, Urbana 61801), Households, Employment, and the Sense of Control, UM Social Psychology Quarterly, 1992, 55, 3, Sept, 217-235.

¶ Data obtained in 1985 via a telephone survey of 809 adults in Ill are drawn on to explore how the combination of job & household circumstances modifies the association between employment & the sense of control over one's life. Results indicate that the average sense of control is greater among people with paying jobs than among those without, & this difference increases with greater job autonomy & higher earnings. Though not all household contexts of employment are alike, people who do most of the household work find employment less beneficial to their sense of control. Also, the more family income comes from sources other than one's earnings, the less that employment increases the sense of control. For married women, the typical combination of low pay, low autonomy, high responsibility for household chores, & family income other than personal earnings negates the positive association between employment & sense of control. 3 Tables, 4 Figures, 41 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7339

Ross, Catherine E. & Reskin, Barbara F. (Dept Sociology U Illinois, Urbana 61801), Education, Control at Work, and Job Satisfaction, Social Science Research, 1992, 21, 2, June, 134-148.

¶ To extend previous studies on the apparent lack of relationship between education & job satisfaction, 557 employed workers in Ill were interviewed by telephone about control over the work process, supervisory control, control over monetary decision making, job satisfaction, & education. Regression analyses found that education was significantly associated with the three types of control, supporting the hypothesis that higher education is linked to less routine work, more job autonomy, greater involvement in monetary decisions, & greater supervision of others. Job autonomy & nonroutine work increased job satisfaction, especially for the well-educated; thus, education had an indirect positive effect on job satisfaction, only partially supporting another hypothesis. Since monetary decision making was positively associated with job satisfaction in the well-educated group, but negatively associated in the poorly educated group, the overall main effect of monetary control on job satisfaction was neutral. Control over others was not significantly related to job satisfaction. Net of control at work, education had a significantly negative effect on job satisfaction, & the total effect was null. It is hypothesized that higher education exerts a negative pull on job satisfaction by raising workers' expectations about earnings. 3 Tables, 2 Figures, 22 References. M. Pflum

93Z7340

Sanne, Christer (Instit Tema Research Linköping U, S-58183 Sweden), How Much Work?, Futures, 1992, 24, 1, Jan-Feb, 23-36

¶ A supply & demand perspective is utilized to investigate the future of work, querying: how much work is required to yield a reasonable standard of living, & how much work people would prefer. Data obtained via statistics & several surveys (Ns not provided) are drawn on to explore these questions for the case of a mature welfare state, Sweden. Analysis illuminates the driving forces behind the present pattern of work, & a lagging self-understanding about needs, risks, & possibilities in this type of society. 9 Figures. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7341

Schneider, José Odelso (Pontificia U Gregoriana, I-00187 Rome Vatican City State), Democracia-participação e autonomia cooperativa. Vol. I: Uma abordagem históico-doutrinária. Vol II: Um estudo de caso junto a cooperativas do setor primario do Rio Grande do Sul, Brasil (Participative Democracy and Autonomy in Cooperatives. Vol. I: A Historico-Doctrinal Approach. Vol. II: A Case Study: The Cooperatives of the Primary Sector in Rio Grande do Sul, Brazil), * Dissertation Abstracts International, C: Worldwide, 1992, 53, 4, winter, 646-C. (POR) Unavailable from UMI; contact the degree-granting university.

93Z7342

Sherer, Moshe (Bob Shapell School Social Work Tel-Aviv U, Ramat-Aviv IL-69978 Israel), Job Satisfaction among Paraprofessionals in Israel, UM Journal of Sociology and Social Welfare, 1991, 18, 3, Sept, 101-121.

¶ An examination of the influence of job characteristics on job motivation & satisfaction, based on questionnaire data obtained from 2 samples of Israeli paraprofessionals–street corner workers, who enjoy a relatively high status, & homemakers, whose status is relatively low (N = 37 & 31, respectively). Findings indicate that different variables contribute to & explain the level of job satisfaction & motivation of each group. Ways to improve the working conditions of paraprofessionals in the human services are considered. 2 Tables, 43 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7343

Stevens, Dennis J. (U South Carolina, Aiken 29801), Managerial versus Blue Collar Unemployment, UM International Review of Modern Sociology, 1992, 22, 1, spring, 27-42.

¶ Using a grounded theory perspective interviews were conducted with 32 unemployed middle managers attending a self-help group in a large midwestern city to compare their unemployment experiences with those of blue collar workers reported in the literature. At first, both unemployed managers & blue collar workers blame themselves for their job losses & seek survival type jobs. However, when career-minded managers begin to blame structural factors instead of themselves & use "managerial talk" to establish their differences from other workers, they seek career jobs. Additionally, managers explain that when they fire workers, it is due to worker incompetence. The data imply that since the work managers do is different from that performed by blue-collar workers, their unemployment process is different too. 1 Table, 35 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7344

Tanner, Julian, Davies, Scott & O'Grady, Bill (Dept Sociology U Toronto, Scarborough Ontario M1C 1A4), Immanence Changes Everything: A Critical Comment on the Labour Process and Class Consciousness, Sociology, 1992, 26, 3, Aug, 439-453.

¶ An overview of problems with labor process accounts of worker subjectivity. Manifested as ambiguities about the meaning of worker behavior, these originate in conflicting ideological requirements of Marxism & assumptions of immanence. These theoretical precepts have driven debates on the labor process & interpretations of workplace behavior, which are unsubstantiated by empirical evidence. Essentially similar activities are construed as either reproducing capitalist relations or resisting them, according to the theoretical needs of the labor process paradigm. Compounding this interpretive problem is the insistence of labor process theorists that the point of production is the key source of worker consciousness in capitalist society. It is concluded that labor process is incapable of theoretical growth because of its noncumulative circulation of explanations & fixation on the workplace; more inductive empirical approaches to the study of worker consciousness are recommended. 52 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7345

Trebilcock, Anne (International Labour Office, CH-1211 Geneva 22 Switzerland), Strategies for Strengthening Women's Participation in Trade Union Leadership, International Labour Review, 1991, 130, 4, 407-426.

¶ The problem of women's chronic underrepresentation in trade union leadership posts has been confronted at various levels of union organizations over the past decade. Examples of recent action taken to promote women's emergence as trade union leaders are reviewed, & strategies most likely to yield accelerated change suggested. Trade union commitment to & equality of opportunity for women workers, factors that affect the exercise of trade union leadership by women, & structural & organizational changes that have encouraged women to aspire to leadership are discussed. It is concluded that a new strategy to improve the chances of women attaining leadership posts should be based on the principle of positive action, which recognizes that special measures are necessary to overcome the effects of past discrimination. Such a strategy should be tailored to each organization & focused on practical measures to implement union equality policies within a specific context of leadership development. 27 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7346

Večerník, Jiří (Instit Sociology Czechoslovak Academy Sciences, Jilská 1 CS-11000 Prague 1 [Tel: 42-2-235-87-77; FAX: 42-2-235-78-88]), The Labor Market in Czechoslovakia: Changing Attitudes of the Population, Sociologický Časopis, 1992, 28, special issue, Aug, 61-78.

¶ Changes in Czechoslovakia's labor market are examined from various perspectives: (1) the production & utilization of human capital; (2) work incentives & rewards; (3) private ownership & job allocation; & (4) work perspective & unemployment. All perspectives suggest that the transitory period will be confused & characterized by uneven labor market segmentation. Rather than uniform regulation, flexibility geared to the dynamics of individual labor market segments is needed. Despite the changes looming in the labor market, the population is relatively unaware of the depth of the labor transformation necessary. 7 Tables, 1 Figure, 10 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7347

Verdugo, Richard R. (885 North Lexington St, Arlington VA 22205), Earnings Differentials between Black, Mexican American, and Non-Hispanic White Male Workers: On the Cost of Being a Minority Worker, 1972-1987, UM Social Science Quarterly, 1992, 73, 3, Sept, 663-673.

¶ Data from the 1973, 1978, 1983, & 1988 March Current Population Surveys are used to examine changes in the economic status of black, Mexican-American, & non-Hispanic white male (M) full-time year-round workers 1972-1987. Results suggest that non-Hispanic white M workers realized greater marginal returns to their human capital than either black or Mexican-American workers in all years considered, & that, though the earnings gap has narrowed, substantial earnings differences persist & do not mirror the narrowing in human capital among the 3 groups. Findings also indicate that the cost of being a black worker is substantially greater than that of being a Mexican-American worker. 3 Tables, 35 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7348

Watts, Martin (Dept Economics U Newcastle, New South Wales 2308 Australia), How Should Occupational Sex Segregation Be Measured?, Work, Employment and Society, 1992, 6, 3, Sept, 475-487.

¶ The Index of Dissimilarity & its decomposition over time have been utilized in a number of international studies (see, eg, Jonung, C., "Patterns of Occupational Segregation by Sex in the Labor Market" in Schmid, G., & Weitzel, R. [Eds], Sex Discrimination and Equal Opportunity: The Labor Market and Employment Policy, London: Gower, 1984) It is shown here that the reallocation of employment implied by this index does not leave the occupational structure unchanged. It is argued that the index devised by T. Karmel & M. Maclachlan ("Occupational Sex Segregation–Increasing or Decreasing," Economic Record, 1988 64, 187-195) is the correct measure of occupational sex segregation Their decomposition procedure enables the identification of the composition effect, which is the measure of the change in gross segregation, after correction for changes in the occupational structure & sexual shares of overall employment. The composition effect is the appropriate measure of changes in occupational segregation over time. The breakdown of the index is presented for recent British & Australian employment data by occupation. 1 Table, 25 References. Modified AA

93Z7349

Webster, Eddie (Dept Sociology U Witwatersrand, Johannesburg 2050 South Africa), Taking Labour Seriously: Sociology and Labour in South Africa, South African Sociological Review, 1991, 4, 1, Oct 50-72.

¶ The rise of the labor movement in South Africa in the 1970s, together with the emergence of class theory, forced sociologists to reconceptualize their research program in a manner fruitful for the social sciences as a whole. Sociologists began to examine workplace & trade unionism & the social relationships that surround & shape the conditions of labor. The worldwide restructuring of work has drawn sociologists back to an examination of work & economic life. In the current economic crisis, a divide is emerging within the black working class that undermines labor's vision of working-class unity. A new stratum of African workers is emerging whose interests are in potential conflict with a growing underclass. It is concluded, however, that the emergence of a new labor elite is not inevitable: it depends on the goals that unions adopt & the roles they play in the new democratic order emerging in South Africa. 4 Figures. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7350

Yih, Chung-jean Mary (Pennsylvania State U, University Park 16802), A Study of Job Satisfaction in Taiwan, * Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 5, Nov, 1686-A-1687-A.

Available from UMI, Ann Arbor, MI. Order No. DA9226807.

93Z7351

——, Hvad er FAOS?: Interview og praesentation ved Vilmer Andersen og Peter Plougmann (What Is FAOS?: Interview and Presentation by Vilmer Andersen and Peter Plougmann), Dansk Sociologi, 1992, 3, 3, Sept, 86-91. (DAN)

¶ FAOS (Forskningsgruppen Arbejdsmarkedsorganisationernes Sociologi [Labor Market Organization Sociological Research Groups]) was begun in Denmark in 1989, in the tradition of culture sociology & history studies in the field of industrial relations. In the past three years, an increasing internationalization of focus has become noticeable. A bibliography is presented of twelve new FAOS publications in Danish & English, soon to be published. The public & private financing sources of FAOS are summarized. Also discussed is the balance maintained between quantitative & qualitative studies. Connections with the U of Copenhagen & other academic institutions are reviewed. M. Meeks

23 military sociology

93Z7352

Ashworth, Tony (School Social & Administrative Studies University Wales Coll, Cardiff CF1 3AS), Soldiers Not Peasants: The Moral Basis of the February Revolution of 1917, Sociology, 1992, 26, 3, Aug, 455-470.

¶ After discussing the dual nature of military power–the material & the moral–a case study is offered to demonstrate how moral power played a decisive role in the Feb 1917 Russian revolution. Events during the first four days of the revolution are chronicled, followed by extended treatment of the soldiers' mutiny on the fifth day; the strength of the soldiers' solidarity is compared with that of the workers. Extant explanations for the mutiny are critically assessed, & an alternative explanation is developed. The relevance of the study for some wider theoretical issues is briefly discussed. 30 References. Adapted from the source document

93Z7353

Butler, John Sibley (U Texas, Austin 78712), Affirmative Action in the Military, UM The Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Science, 1992, 523, Sept, 196-206.

¶ Though African Americans have fought in US conflicts since colonial days, segregation was practiced in the US military until abolished by President Truman in 1948. Since the establishment of the all-volunteer force in 1973, the number of African-American troops has risen; in 1991, African Americans comprised 28% of the Army & 60% of some combat units. Thus desegregation & affirmative action in the military have occurred ahead of that in civilian society. Current policy seeks to increase the enlistment of whites & to ensure fully equal treatment & opportunity & good race relations. 1 Table. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7354

Dowdle, Andrew (Miami U, OH 45056), A Cross-National Model of Military Spending in African Nations, UM Journal of Political and Military Sociology, 1992, 20, 1, summer, 153-169.

¶ An ordinary least squares model is used to examine how political, economic, & security variables affect the % of central government expenditures allocated to military spending in 24 sub-Saharan African countries. Utilizing data drawn from various official & secondary sources, the analysis suggests that governments determine the level of military spending by considering how events fit into a hierarchy of security threats to their regimes. Since internal threats are more serious, they also lead to greater military spending. Governments also are willing to allocate resources to meeting actual threats but less willing to spend money on potential threats. 2 Tables, 40 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7355

Ihonvbere, Julius O. (U Texas, Austin 78712), The Military and Political Engineering under Structural Adjustment: The Nigerian Experience since 1985, UM Journal of Political and Military Sociology, 1992, 20, 1, summer, 107-131.

¶ The transition to civil rule planned for Jan 1993, being organized by the Nigerian military, is currently plagued by debt, violence, instability, mass poverty, the delegitimization of the state, its agencies & agents, & general socioeconomic dislocation, largely accentuated by the poor implementation of a World Bank/International Monetary Fund supervised structural adjustment program. The regime's reliance on "money politics," the suffocation of civil society, human rights abuses, the creation of numerous institutions with contradictory & conflicting objectives, & the rehabilitation of discredited politicians & military officers have alienated the populace from the state & the transition program. It is suggested that this situation could lead to a rapid return to military rule. Ongoing popular organization beyond primordial interests, will, in the future, serve as the only basis for preventing military coups & ensuring the nurturing & survival of a democratic culture. 37 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7356

Kieh, George Klay, Jr. (Dept Political Science Illinois Wesleyan U, Bloomington 61702), Combatants, Patrons, Peacemakers, and the Liberian Civil Conflict, Studies in Conflict and Terrorism, 1992, 15, 2, Apr-June, 125-143.

¶ A case study of the Liberian civil conflict, with attention to its roots, of the conflict, the major players & their agendas, the impact of the conflict on both Liberia & the west African region, efforts to resolve the conflict peacefully, & implications for the post-civil-war order. The major combatants in the conflict are identified, & it is contended that the civil war is a by-product of both the perennial problems of economic & political malaise that have plagued Liberia since 1847 & the dismal performance of the Doe regime. Identified as key external supporters of the conflict are the Ivory Coast, Burkina Faso, & Libya. When Liberia's attempt to find a peaceful solution to the conflict failed, the Economic Community of West African States (ECOWAS) subsequently intervened by sending a peacekeeping force that succeeded in ending the war & sponsored several peace conferences. The conflict has significantly impacted Liberia by creating serious security problems within the region & by creating a division in the ECOWAS between anglophone members, led by Nigeria, & francophone members, led by the Ivory Coast. It is contended that, in order to avoid future conflicts, the post-civil-war order in Liberia must be based on the twin pillars of political & socioeconomic democracy. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7357

Lovell, John P. (Center Global Change & World Peace Indiana U, Bloomington 47405), The Limits of "Lessons Learned": From Vietnam to the Gulf War, Peace & Change, 1992, 17, 4, Oct, 379-401.

¶ The 1991 Gulf war, & the Vietnam conflict before it, have stimulated an impressive array of lessons that have influenced subsequent policy behavior. It is argued here that compiling such "lessons of war" is different from "learning" about peace. The process by which various competing lessons are selected or rejected as the bases of policy plans & procedures is a political, not merely a cognitive, one. The process reflects the biases in the political culture of policy elites, as illustrated by lessons from the Vietnam experience that helped shape the planning for Operation Desert Storm. Several propositions about the kinds of lessons of war that are the most probable products of the US political culture are advanced, & some ways that peace researchers might remedy their deficiencies are noted. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7358

Safran, Marc A. & Blumberg, Daniel L. (Health Science Center State U New York, Syracuse 13201), Persian Gulf War Effects on Psychiatric Inpatients, Sociological Practice Review, 1992, 3, 4, Oct, 277-278.

¶ Survey data from 20 patients on a Veterans Administration hospital psychiatric unit obtained the day after the onset of the 1991 Persian Gulf war are drawn on to assess the war's impacts on their physical & mental health. Results indicate that 95% of patients cited TV as a primary news source & the majority of patients reported that the war was affecting their health. Suggestions for further research on the effects of instantaneous TV war news coverage are offered. 5 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7359

Smith, Neil (Dept Geography Rutgers U, New Brunswick NJ 08903), History and Philosophy of Geography: Real Wars, Theory Wars, Progress in Human Geography, 1992, 16, 2, June, 257-271.

¶ Recent wars, particularly the 1990/91 Gulf war, have placed geography on the public agenda. The development of sophisticated computerized cartographic technology in the last year has definitively altered the way modern warfare is fought & stated, as well as the way it is consumed by a global public. It is suggested that, while geographic information systems (GIS) have wide & variable utility, a problem lies in the disciplinary ambitions of those providing GIS information, who tend to reject the intellectual, as opposed to technical, agenda. Further, the text & context of GIS is heavily underwritten by a military agenda. It is argued that GIS's elevation of the military construction of geography to such heights should be critically assessed. 106 References. S. Millett

93Z7360

Stewart, James B. & Firestone, Juanita M. (Pennsylvania State U, University Park 16802-1504), Looking for a Few Good Men: Predicting Patterns of Retention, Promotion, and Accession of Minority and Women Officers, The American Journal of Economics and Sociology, 1992, 51, 4, Oct, 435-458.

¶ Data from the Defense Manpower Data Center, 1979-1988, are used to examine & predict patterns of retention, promotion, & accession of minority & women officers in the US military. Three separate statistical models are employed to investigate the effects of race & ethnicity on variation in retention & promotion rates, & results used to develop predictions of the numbers of individuals that will be retained from new cohorts during the next decade. The analysis reveals that, while retention rates for minorities appear high, little change in the demographic composition of higher officer grades is likely if current recruitment & promotion practices continue. It is suggested that programs designed to increase the numbers of women & ethnic minorities in the officer corps ought to focus on recruitment rather than retention. 11 Tables, 29 References. Adapted from the source document.

0038-0202/93 $1.50

24 bureaucratic structure/organizational sociology

93Z7361

Akard, Patrick J. (Dept Sociology State U New York, Albany 12222), Corporate Mobilization and Political Power: The Transformation of U.S. Economic Policy in the 1970s, UM American Sociological Review, 1992, 57, 5, Oct, 597-615.

¶ Pluralist, state-centered, & neo-Marxist "relative autonomy" conceptions of political power in capitalist societies agree that the capitalist class is generally incapable of unified political action. This is challenged by the fact that policy struggles in the US between 1974 & 1981 were characterized by the dominant influence of a well-organized & unified business lobby. Here, business unity & political influence are examined in the context of recent US policy history. The legislative histories of the unsuccessful Labor Law Reform & Consumer Protection Agency bills of the 1970s, & the successful Economic Recovery Tax Act of 1981 are chronicled, & provide support for a class-based, corporate power structure perspective. Historical conditions fostering the political mobilization & intraclass cohesion of business in the 1970s, & the theoretical implications of the breakdown of business unity after 1981, are also examined. 113 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7362

Barley, Stephen R. & Kunda, Gideon (School Industrial & Labor Relations Cornell U, Ithaca NY 14853), Design and Devotion: Surges of Rational and Normative Ideologies of Control in Managerial Discourse, Administrative Science Quarterly, 1992, 37, 3, Sept, 363-399.

¶ A challenge is raised to the supposition that US managerial discourse has moved progressively from coercive to rational to normative rhetorics of control. Historical data suggest that since the 1870s, such discourse has been elaborated in waves that have alternated between normative & rational rhetorics. Surges & contractions in the rhetorics of industrial betterment, scientific management, welfare capitalism/human relations, systems rationalism, & organizational culture/quality are identified. It is argued that standard theories of ideological change are inadequate for explaining either the general pattern or the timing of the surges. A theory that combines cultural constraints & material forces is proposed which argues that the tendency for innovative surges of managerial theorizing to alternate between rational & normative rhetorics of control is rooted in cultural antinomies fundamental to all Western industrial societies: the opposition between mechanistic & organic solidarity & between communalism & individualism. The timing of each new wave parallels broad cycles of economic expansion & contraction. 2 Tables, 4 Figures, 95 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7363

Bender, Christiane & Grassl, Hans (Instit Sozialforschung U Stuttgart, D-7000 Federal Republic Germany), Erfahrung und Kompetenz–die Grenze der Technisierung der Arbeitsplätze in der industriellen Fertigung (Experience and Competence–Limits to the Mechanization of Workplaces in Industrial Production), Soziale Welt, 1992, 43, 3, 301-312. (GER)

¶ An analysis of new economic concepts in modern manufacturing, eg, computer-integrated manufacturing. These concepts ostensibly raise the level of rationality in the production process & are considered a key component of scientific management. Computerized control systems are thought to be largely independent of tampering by human management & are being introduced to eliminate power resulting from knowledge of how to control the production process. Industrial sociology can contribute by identifying factors that cannot be reduced to simple machine functions. The new control systems are transforming industrial processes, but they are not creating labor free from human control. Changes in the work environment become a source of rationality helping machines & organizations to work effectively. 19 References. M. Meeks (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7364

Bhargava, Shivganesh & Sinha, Beena (Dept Humanities & Social Sciences Indian Instit Technology, Bombay 400076), Prediction of Organizational Effectiveness as a Function of Type of Organizational Structure, Journal of Social Psychology, 1992, 132, 2, Apr, 223-231.

¶ To test the hypothesis that the functioning of an organization havi a heterarchical structure would be perceived as more effective than o with a hierarchical structure, scale data concerning a hypothetical org nization were collected from 20 engineers & 20 engineering students Bhopal, India. Comparative analysis shows significant improvement organizational effectiveness under a heterarchical structure. The resul are discussed within the structural perspective of the organizations. Figures, 14 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyrig 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7365

Boeker, Warren (Graduate School Business Columbia U, New Yo NY 10027), Power and Managerial Dismissal: Scapegoating at tl Top, Administrative Science Quarterly, 1992, 37, 3, Sept, 400-421

¶ The likelihood of chief executive & top management dismissal as a r sult of organizational performance & internal distribution of power is i vestigated, drawing on professional publications, market research firm & interviews with managers of 67 organizations in the semiconductor i dustry, 1968-1989. Powerful chief executives are found to be less like than their less powerful counterparts to be dismissed during performan downturns. They displace blame for poor performance onto their subo dinates, the top managers of the organization, who subsequently are r placed, while the chief executive remains. The role that board compos tion & organization ownership play in influencing the amount of pow alloted to the chief executive is also examined. Actions that organizatio with poor performance but powerful chief executives might take are su gested. 4 Tables, 40 References. Adapted from the source documen (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7366

Burke, W. Warner & Litwin, George H. (W. Warner Burke Assoc ates Inc, 201 Wolfs Ln Pelham NY 10803), A Causal Model of Org nizational Performance and Change, UM Journal of Managemen 1992, 18, 3, Sept, 523-545.

¶ Theories about organizational functioning & organizational chang are drawn on to suggest causal linkages regarding how organization performance is affected & how effective change occurs. Change is de picted in terms of both process & content, with particular emphasis o transformational as rather than transactional factors. Transformationa change occurs as a response to the external environment & directly a fects organizational mission & strategy, leadership, & culture. In turn the factors are affected–structure, systems, management practices, & climate. These transformational & transactional factors together affec motivation, which, in turn, affects performance. The model's validity i supported both theoretically & empirically, using a case study of Britisl Airways. 1 Table, 4 Figures, 98 References. Adapted from the sourc document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights re served.)

93Z7367

Büschges, Günter, Handeln in, von und durch [illegible]ationen als wissenschaftliches und praktisches Problem ([illegible]in, of, and by Organizations as a Scientific and P[illegible]tical Problem). Soziologische Revue, 1992, 15, 4, Oct, 353-359. (GER)

¶ A review essay on eight books in the field of organizational sociology (see listings in IRPS No. 67). Contributions address such issues as the use of information technology in organizational management, leadership in social organizations; the decentralization concept in politics & management science; work group norms & values; institutional theory; & organizational culture. M. Meeks (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7368

Cavanaugh, John Michael (U Massachusetts, Boston 02125), At Arm's Length: Commercial Research Agendas, Academic Science, and the Construction of Organizational Boundaries, * Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 6, Dec, 2127-A.

Available from UMI, Ann Arbor, MI. Order No. DA9233041.

93Z7369

Chattopadhyay, Gouranga P. & Malhotra, Ashok, Hierarchy and Modern Organization: A Paradox Leading to Human Wastage, IM The Indian Journal of Social Work, 1991, 52, 4, Oct, 561-584.

¶ It is contended that the hierarchical structure of many modern organizations is a breeding ground for incompetence, & leads to a waste of human resources. Examination of the concepts of hierarchy & modern organization reveals that the two cannot coexist without producing enormous problems for personnel. Insights derived from the science of psychodynamics are utilized to understand reasons for the survival of hierarchy in modern organizations, & possible means for jettisoning hierarchy are explored. 4 Figures, 19 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7370

D'Souza, R. (Xavier Instit Management, Bhubaneswar India), HRD through Training in the Changing Perspective, IM The Indian Journal of Social Work, 1991, 52, 4, Oct, 553-559.

¶ An Indian industrial organizations design new human resources development (HRD) programs coincident with the rapid development of technology & the globalization of the ecoonomy, on-the-job training will need to consider the actual educational & skill levels of the workers, many of whom have traditional, or even below-standard, educations. Next, the organization's HRD objectives, learning experiences, performance criteria, & effectiveness standards need to be identified. Training programs, however, cannot solve all quality-of-work-life issues. Special programs must be developed to deal with changes in work attitudes & values, & to develop organizational commitment. Self-managed team structures will play an increasingly important role, while the leader's function will consist of monitoring & facilitating the team in its own self-regulation, & in advancing & developing talented subordinates (mentoring). 28 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7371

Dolke, A. M. (Indian Instit Banking, Bombay 400093), Personal-Personality, Job and Organisational Correlates of Work Identification, IM The Indian Journal of Social Work, 1991, 52, 4, Oct, 621-633.

¶ The relationship between employee work identification (WI) & various personal-personality, job, & organizational variables is examined using data collected from 567 male technical & clerical personnel working in 6 composite textile mills in Ahmedabad, India, using a 29-item Likert-type scale. Results indicate that WI is significantly related to personal variables of age & tenure, personality variables of locus of control & satisfaction of higher-order needs, & certain dimensions of work value. WI is also related to job variables of challenge & autonomy. The organizational variables related to WI are participation in departmental decision making, supervisory support, perceived chances of rising in the organizational hierarchy, & fulfillment of higher-order needs. 4 Tables, 41 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7372

Finkelstein, Marvin S. (Dept Sociology & Social Work Southern Illinois U, Carbondale 62901), Taking Back a Rich Tradition: A Sociological Approach to Workplace and Industrial Change in the Global Economy, Clinical Sociology Review, 1992, 10, 182-197.

¶ Sociology's heritage with regard to workplace & industrial change is traced, & its position within the field considered, with focus on the theoretical, methodological, & practice dimensions of three prominent practitioners: William Foote Whyte, Warren G. Bennis, & Rosabeth Moss Kanter. The distinguishing features of the work of these practitioners are presented & the outlines of an expanded sociological approach & clinical role in the workplace setting are proposed. 45 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7373

Gilboy, Janet A., Penetrability of Administrative Systems: Political "Casework" and Immigration Inspections, Law and Society Review, 1992, 26, 2, 273-314.

¶ In an examination of administrative discretion within the Immigration & Naturalization Service (INS), observation & interview data were collected from port officials (total N = 61) in charge of questioning individuals with inappropriate documentation at a US international airport & at a Mexican border entry point. By revealing the INS's dependence on the support of politicans & pragmatic response to their casework on behalf of constituents, a neglected feature of the influence process is highlighted–how it affects the behavior of front-line public officials, particularly through their anticipation of the possibility that there will or might be casework complaints. Further described are the inspection context as understood by front-line immigration inspectors, the asymmetric risks posed to them by casework, & the strategies they rationally employ to deal with these risks–strategies that promote accommodation as well as responses based on the perceived power of violators. It is concluded that a lack of countervailing incentives in certain kinds of cases underlies a cultural-political environment of accommodation to outsiders. 80 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7374

Gioffre, Kimberly R., Lawson, Robert B. & Gordon, Lawrence R. (c/o Lawson–Dept Psychology U Vermont, Burlington 05405-0134), The Effects of Decision Outcome Dispersion upon Organizational Decision Making, IM The Psychological Record, 1992, 42, 3, summer, 427-436.

¶ The effects of decision outcome dispersion on perceived risk & confidence for organizational decisions were evaluated from survey responses of 36 male (M) & 36 female (F) undergraduates who evaluated 9 decision scenarios varied by: level of outcome dispersion (affecting decisionmaker only, poeple other than the decisionmaker, & a group including the decisionmaker), type of evaluation process (individual or in a triad), & simulated organization size (small or large). The dependent variable was the perceived risk & confidence in the decision making. Factorial analysis of variance of perceived risk & confidence found a significant main effect for outcome dispersion, with decisions affecting only the decisionmaker perceived as significantly less risky/more confident than decisions affecting the other two levels of dispersion, regardless of the simulated size of the organization. Perceived confidence was significantly higher when decisions were made on an individual basis rather than as a member of a decisionmaking group. Ms perceived their decisions as significantly more risky than Fs. The inconsistency of these results with previous research is discussed. 1 Table, 25 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7375

Guhathakurta, Subhrajit (U California, Berkeley 94720), Industrial Policy and Firm Size in Development: The Indian Case, * Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 5, Nov, 1686-A.

Available from UMI, Ann Arbor, MI. Order No. DA9228675.

93Z7376

Hammer, Eliot R. (School Business Howard U, Washington DC 20059), Managerial Premise Control: A Chink in the Armor of Theory Z?, Business & Public Affairs, 1988, 14, 2, spring, 26-30.

¶ A critical review of W. G. Ouchi's Theory Z: How American Business Can Meet the Japanese (Reading, Mass: Addison-Wesley, 1981), focusing on the control of decision-making premises (ie, "premise control"). From an ethical point of view, the issue is debated as to whether an unobstrusive quality of premise control counters any humanistic claims made through Ouchi's work. Literature is reviewed on: historical questioning of the quality of humanistic claims in organization theory; the development of C. Perrow's thinking on premise control (Complex Organizations: A Critical Essay, New York: Random House, 1986); trends in contemporary Japanese management; & an ongoing debate as to whether managers in US firms are in a position where they can effectively compete with their Japanese counterparts. Also, research demonstrating the effects of premise control in Japanese firms is reviewed, as well as various studies on the matter of whether US competitors can adopt & adjust to a process that best facilitates premise control. 12 References. Modified AA

93Z7377

Hanly, Ken (Brandon U, Manitoba R7A 6A9), The Moral Responsibility of Corporations, Dialogue, 1991, 30, 4, fall, 555-573.

¶ It is contended that the concept of moral responsibility applies to corporations & not just to individuals within corporations. Arguing against the view that only natural individuals have the requisite characteristics to be held morally reponsible, it is considered conceptually appropriate both to speak of corporate actions & corporate intentions: just as individuals may be held morally responsible for their intentional actions, so may corporations. Further, it is morally as well as conceptually appropriate to hold corporations morally responsible. It is concluded that one can expect capitalist corporations to act in a morally responsible way only insofar as so acting does not seriously endanger their basic objective of making profits. AA

0038-0202/93 $1.50

93Z7378

Ibarra, Herminia (Harvard Business School, Cambridge MA 02163), Homophily and Differential Returns: Sex Differences in Network Structure and Access in an Advertising Firm, Administrative Science Quarterly, 1992, 37, 3, Sept, 422-447.

¶ It is hypothesized that two network mechanisms create & reinforce gender inequalities in the organizational distribution of power: sex differences in homophily (ie, tendency to form same-sex network relationships) & in the ability to convert individual attributes & positional resources into network advantages. The hypothesis is tested in a network analysis of males' (Ms') & females' (Fs') interaction patterns in a New England advertising & public relations firms. Analysis indicates that Ms are more likely to form more & stronger homophilous ties across multiple networks, while Fs evidence a differentiated network pattern in which they obtained social support & friendship from other Fs & instrumental access through network ties to Ms. Although centrality in organization-wide networks does not vary by sex once controls are instituted, Ms appear to reap greater network returns relative to Fs from similar individual & positional resources, as well as from homophilous relationships. 7 Tables, 77 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7379

Johnson, Keith R. & Golembiewski, Robert T. (Illinois Benedictine Coll, Lisle 60532), National Culture in Organization Development: A Conceptual and Empirical Analysis, The International Journal of Human Resource Management, 1992, 3, 1, May, 71-84.

¶ Using the four cultural dimensions established by G. Hofstede's examination of employee work values (Culture's Consequences: International Differences in Work Related Values, Beverly Hills, Calif: Sage, 1980), several approaches to testing for the relationship between organizational development (OD) success rates & the degree-of-fit between OD values & national cultures are explored. Detailed calculations combine Hofstede's cultural dimension with a single measure of cultural difference, which enables differences between any pair of countries to be assessed. Results do not reveal the definite influence of culture. 3 Tables, 2 Exhibits, 2 Appendixes, 19 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7380

Kerwin, Cornelius M. & Furlong, Scott R. (American U, Washington DC 20016), Time and Rulemaking: An Empirical Test of Theory, Journal of Public Administration Research and Theory, 1992, 2, 2, Apr, 113-138.

¶ Factors influencing rule making by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) are investigated, with attention to legal requirements, bureaucratic elements, & political influences that may have impacted the passage of time in the issuance of 150 rules between 1986 & 1989. Data were obtained from EPA files. While the models employed account for a substantial amount of the variation in the time it takes to issue rules, their performance is erratic, & much remains to be explained. Existing theory offers important insights into delay in rule making, but more work is needed to identify & refine variables. 5 Tables, 2 Appendixes, 25 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7381

Lawson, Robert B. & Ventriss, Curtis L. (Dept Psychology U Vermont, Burlington 05405-0134), Organizational Change: The Role of Organizational Culture and Organizational Learning, UM The Psychological Record, 1992, 42, 2, spring, 205-219.

¶ Given that an organization's culture & ability to learn influence organization performance, a program was designed to strengthen the future productivity of a public sector organization--a 10,000 student university--by identifying new goals & outlining a plan to implement change. Results indicate that systematic & structured programs based on well-defined & specific organizational goals, performance measures, performance feedback mechanisms, & incentives can quickly yield increased organizational productivity. Guidelines are presented that combine a commitment to perceived collective efficacy with various productivity-enhancing strategies in order to promote organizational change. 57 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7382

Lazega, Emmanuel & Vari, Stéphane (LASMAS-CNRS, F-75017 Paris France), Acteurs, cibles et leviers: analyse factorielles des relations de controle indirect dans une firme americaine d'avocats d'affaires (Actors, Targets and Levers: Factor Analyzing Indirect Control Relationships in an American Law Firm), BMS, Bulletin de Méthodologie Sociologique, 1992, 37, Dec, 41-51. (FRE)

¶ Data obtained in sociometric interviews with 36 partners in a New England law firm were analyzed to investigate task-delegation dynamics. Respondents were asked, eg, "If you were a managing partner concerned with the effect of another partner's personal problems on productivity, how & why would you assign a third partner to handle the problem?" The analysis defined actor as the task delegator, lever as the task performer, & target as the person to be influenced. The usefulness of the approach for determining division of control among peers is discussed. 2 Tables, 1 Appendix, 10 References. Adapted from the source document

93Z7383

Leicht, Kevin T., Parcel, Toby L. & Kaufman, Robert L. (Dept Sociology Pennsylvania State U, University Park 16802), Measuring the Same Concepts across Diverse Organizations, Social Science Research, 1992, 21, 2, June, 149-174.

¶ The feasibility of producing comparable measures of organizational characteristics across different types of work organizations is demonstrated. Researchers must develop measurement strategies that are applicable across a wide array of organizational types to test the limits of theories developed in specific settings. A telephone interviewing measurement strategy was developed to measure several key organizational concepts: formalization, differentiation/specialization, organizational size, change in organizational size, computer usage, market scope, market competition, ties to large clients, & changes in industry. The reliability & validity of the measures are tested using data from a pilot study sponsored by the National Science Foundation, involving interviews with 227 workers, 204 departmental supervisors, & the chief executive officers of 184 firms in Columbus, Ohio. The data accurately represent the population of work organizations in Franklin County, Ohio. Using factor analysis & analysis of reliability coefficients, results demonstrate that it is possible to develop measures of basic organizational concepts that are valid & reliable across a wide variety of organizational types from for-profit manufacturing firms to government agencies. These measures should be of great utility to researchers interested in studying relationships between organizational structures across a wide variety of organizational types 6 Tables, 68 References. Modified AA

93Z7384

Lincoln, James R., Gerlach, Michael L. & Takahashi, Peggy (Haas School Business U California, Berkeley 94720), Keiretsu Networks in the Japanese Economy: A Dyad Analysis of Intercorporate Ties, UM American Sociological Review, 1992, 57, 5, Oct, 561-585.

¶ Published data on the top 50 financial firms & 200 industrial corporations are drawn on to explore the organization of keiretsu networks in the Japanese economy. Using resource dependence & transaction cost theory, control relations between pairs of firms are modeled as a function of bilateral exchange relations & other firm- & dyad-level covariates. Firms with financial & commercial connections develop quasi-administrative ties through cross-shareholding & director transfers. Keiretsu networks involve: (1) horizontal relationships of mutual support & defense among large, established firms; (2) vertical structures of asymmetric exchange & control between financial & industrial firms, large & small firms, & "big-six" firms vs independent companies. 4 Tables, 93 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7385

Marchal, Emmanuelle (Centre études emploi Le Descartes I, F-93191 Noisy-le-Grand Cedex France), L'Entreprise associative entre

calcul économique et désintéressement (The Associative Enterprise between Economic Calculation and Disinterest), Revue française de Sociologie, 1992, 33, 3, July-Sept, 365-390. (FRE)

¶ An exploration of the financial relationship between two autonomous fiscal arrangements (business enterprise & association) coexisting as an associative enterprise (AE) is illustrated by examples from a survey of 40 recently created AEs. The function of each unit is determined by its individual structure, degree of development, & separate or joint management. Four forms of management are possible with the AE: executive direction by a founding benefactor, a founding manager, a manager hired from the outside, or a combination of these methods. The dominant unit in the AE sets standards for service, staffing, controls, & objectives. When the AE has no profit motivation, the business half may be affected in market share. Conflicts between management & worker are not always present in the AE, depending on the arrangement. Distribution of material benefits or perks may be problematic in some arrangements. 1 Table, 33 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7386

Quiroz Trejo, José Othón & Méndez y Berrueta, Luis (Dept Sociología U Autónoma Metropolitana Azcapotzalco, 02000 Mexico DF), Corporativismo, modernidad y autonomía obrera en México (Corporatism, Modernity and Worker Autonomy in Mexico), Sociológica, 1991, 6, 15, Jan-Apr, 159-188. (SPA)

¶ An attempt is made to recount worker activity within & against corporatist-government unions in Mexico & modernity's effects on this activity, based on a review of the literature. Theoretical views of the relationship between worker autonomy & modernity are critiqued, & it is argued that government unions fragment social groups by creating a working class that subordinates class interests to national interests. The tensions between government unions, business organizations, & independent unions over the last twenty years are described. It is concluded that economic modernization has led to the disintegration of the corporatist unions; the current situation of worker organizations & future possibilities are considered. 25 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7387

Rao, Hayagreeva & Neilsen, Eric H. (Business School Emory U, Atlanta GA 30322), An Ecology of Agency Arrangements: Mortality of Savings and Loan Associations, 1960-1987, Administrative Science Quarterly, 1992, 37, 3, Sept, 448-470.

¶ An investigation of whether organizations with different collectivized agency arrangements have different survival prospects focusing on mutual & stock savings & loan associations (SLAs). Event history data on 900 SLAs founded 1960-1987 indicate that mutual companies were more vulnerable than stock companies to competition from commerical banks, but were no more susceptible to environmental variability. Results also show that deregulation sharply attenuated the agency advantages of stocks, implying that agency-cost advantages may be constrained by institutional processes. 2 Tables, 1 Figure, 54 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7388

Sackmann, Sonja A. (U Konstanz, D-7750 Federal Republic Germany), Uncovering Culture in Organizations, The Journal of Applied Behavioral Science, 1991, 27, 3, Sept, 295-317.

¶ After proposing several reasons for the death of empirical studies on organization culture, an inductive methodology developed as a compromise between a detailed ethnography & a questionnaire approach is suggested as being appropriate to the task. The application of this method in an empirical study involving interviews with 52 members of a firm in Los Angeles, Calif, is described & evaluated, & suggestions are made for further developments. 2 Figures, 1 Appendix, 72 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7389

Sales, Arnaud (U Montréal, Quebec H3C 3J7), La Mobilité intersectorielle des élites technocratiques du public et du privé (The Mobility of Technocratic Elites between Public and Private Sectors), IM La Revue Canadienne de Sociologie et d'Anthropologie/The Canadian Review of Sociology and Anthropology, 1992, 29, 4, Nov, 391-420. (FRE)

¶ The movement of executives between state bureaucracies & large private businesses is examined. Assuming that this elite group would be relatively heterogenous in social origin, education, & ideology, it was expected that executive personnel in different sectors would be equally capable of managing public & private concerns, suggesting the emergence of a technocratic model of advanced capitalist societies. Based on interviews conducted in 1982, patterns of intersectorial movement of Quebecois large business executives (N = 121) & senior government officials (N = 202) showed that only 13% of either group switched sectors. State agency managers more often moved between organizations than did those in the private sector. 6 Tables, 3 Figures, 2 Graphs, 43 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7390

Sastry, N. (Dept Humanities & Social Sciences Indian Instit Technology, Bombay 400076), Women Employees: An Emerging Issue of HRM in Organisations, IM The Indian Journal of Social Work, 1991, 52, 4, Oct, 493-514.

¶ The influx of women into the Indian workplace has precipitated clashes between the female (F) behavior encouraged by F socialization & the male (M) corporate culture. In F socialization, Fs are encouraged to work inside the home, or choose F-type occupations; even those holding executive or management positions do so in F-type specializations. Fs generally do not view their jobs as full-time, long-term careers, & have lower self-concepts about their management ability. Fs have less opportunity to enter M-dominated community networks & political systems, & attempts to integrate themselves into the mentoring system may be viewed as sexually motivated. Organizations may reinforce these attitudes by selection, recruitment, & promotion practices. The situation in the workplace could be improved with androgynous sex-role orientation during socialization, the buildup of social & professional networks supportive of women, protection of women's rights in the organization, solutions for child care, & the understanding that overwork at the family's expense is detrimental for both genders. 139 References. M. Pflum

93Z7391

Sayeed, O. B. (National Instit Training Industrial Engineering, Bombay 400087 India), Managerial Value Profile Task and Interaction Facilitation: An Empirical Assessment, IM The Indian Journal of Social Work, 1991, 52, 4, Oct, 645-657.

¶ The construct identity of value profile & the linkage between value profile & esteem for coworkers were investigated with data from 98 banking branch managers in India who completed the Bales-Couch Value Profile Scales ((VPS) a personality measure) & the Least Preferred Coworker Scales (LPCS); 18 of the managers also completed personal orientation inventories. Factor analysis of the VPS data yielded respect for authority, value-determined restraint, egalitarianism, & individualism factors, all relatively independent. ANOVAS between the LPCS, age, & education, & the 4 value dimensions of the VPS yielded a significant main effect for age on respect for authority; age & education individually explained more variation in the 4 dependent variables than did esteem for coworkers, contrary to the hypothesis. Regardless of the lack of statistically significant differences between categories of esteem for coworkers, the moderating influence of esteem for coworkers showing interaction & task facilitation was confirmed with respect to acceptance of authority & egalitarianism. The differences between the Indian & similar US study findings are discussed. 5 Tables, 18 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7392

Schienstock, Gerd (Instit Advanced Studies, Stumpergasse 56 A-1060 Vienna Austria), The Brave New World of the Multinational Corporation, International Sociology, 1992, 7, 4, Dec, 461-479.

¶ The trend toward a more favorable opinion of multinational corporations (MNCs) among social scientists is discussed. Implications from the future economic order are considered, with attention to three aspects of MNCs: forms of governance, organizational strategies, & industrial relations. 57 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7393

Shim, J. P., English, John B. & Yoon, J. (Dept Management & Information Systems Mississippi State U, Mississippi State 39762), An

0038-0202/93 $1.50

Examination of Articles in the Eight Leading Management Information Systems Journals: 1980-1988, Socio-Economic Planning Sciences, 1991, 25, 3, 211-219.

¶ An analysis of 817 articles published 1980-1988 in the 8 leading journals (as detemined by a mail survey of 25 top researchers) in the management information systems (MIS) discipline reveals the 60 most frequently published MIS researchers, based on prorated scores, & which journals publish their work. Also considered are the most & least heavily researched topic areas in MIS. 6 Tables, 8 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7394

Wholey, Douglas R., Christianson, Jon B. & Sanchez, Susan M. (Dept Social & Decision Sciences Carnegie Mellon U, Pittsburgh PA 15213), Organization Size and Failure among Health Maintenance Organizations, American Sociological Review, 1992, 57, 6, Dec, 829-842.

¶ The organizational ecology literature is extended, exploring the relationship between organization size & failure in the case of all health maintenance organizations (HMOs) operating in the US, 1976-1991. HMO census data reveal that, contrary to the typical monotonically declining relationship between organization size & failure rates found in ecology research, this relationship varies by type of organization assuming an inverted U-shape for one type of HMO (groups) & a monotonically declining shape for another type (independent practice associations). These relationships result from differences between the types of HMOs in level of commitment to the organization & to the "liability of the middle." 3 Tables, 3 Figures, 37 References. Adapted from the source document.

65 social network analysis

93Z7395

Baily, Samuel L. (Rutgers U, New Brunswick NJ 08903), The Village Outward Approach to the Study of Social Networks: A Case Study of the Agnonesi Diaspora Abroad, 1885-1989, Studi Emigrazione/Etudes Migrations, 1992, 29, 105, Mar, 43-68.

¶ Social networks play an important role in the migration process, as evidenced by a "village-outward" case study of Agnone in southern Italy. The diaspora from Agnone in the last century is examined at the global, community, & family/individual levels. Because Agnone was an administrative, economic, & education center in the late 1800s, movement in & out of the area was common. However, between 1881 & 1951, the net population loss was about 9,000, with the majority of this loss due to migration to Argentina & the US. During this entire period, migrants to Argentina clustered in Buenos Aires, while Agnonesi in the US spread out. In comparison to the Agnonesi in Buenos Aires, those in New York, the leading US port, were more homogeneous in sex (male) & age (18-34), & of lesser professional status. Family & business connections between Agnone & Buenos Aires & New York differentially reinforced formal & informal networks. The trajectories of 4 generations of individuals from one Agnonesi family who located in Pueblo, Colo, illustrate intra- & intergenerational variation in ties to Agnone & Italian networks. 9 Tables. M. Pflum

93Z7396

Bienenstock, Elisa Jayne & Bonacich, Phillip (Dept Sociology U California, Los Angeles 90024), The Core as a Solution to Exclusionary Networks, Social Networks, 1992, 14, 3-4, Sept-Dec, 231-243.

¶ The core is a game theory solution concept that is applicable to exclusionary (negatively connected) exchange networks. The core, which makes only the minimal assumptions of individual & coalitional rationality, describes who should exchange with whom & what the terms of the exchanges should be. Unlike other algorithms, the core applies to a wide variety of problems, & can easily be extended to handle a variety of situations, eg: more than one exchange per round, relationships having unequal values, positions having sources of reward other than exchange, & situations where more than one exchange is required. Moreover, networks in which the core is empty should experience particular difficulty in reaching agreement about exchanges. 3 Tables, 1 Figure, 11 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7397

Borgatti, Stephen P. & Everett, Martin G. (Dept Sociology U South Carolina, Columbia 29208), Graph Colorings and Power in Experimental Exchange Networks, Social Networks, 1992, 14, 3-4, Sept-Dec, 287-308.

¶ Experimental exchange networks are examined in an attempt to understand the relationship between power & network position. A formal definition of the appropriate notion of position is provided, & consequences of assuming that power is a function of position are explored. It is shown that, in highly structured graphs, the space of possible power outcomes is significantly reduced if power is entirely structural. Drawing on the notion of role colorings, the frequently expressed intuitive idea that a node's power is a function of the powers of its neighbors, just as their power is determined by the powers of their neighbors, & so on, is formalized, using a combination of two role colorings that together imply a one-to-one relationship between the power of a node, & the power(s) of its neighbors. It is found that applying these colorings, while assuming that power is a function of position, radically reduces the sample space of possible power outcomes, leaving only a few possibilities. With two revealing exceptions, the reduced space of possible power outcomes always contains the experimentally observed result. 8 Tables, 2 Figures, 14 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7398

Cook, Karen S. & Yamagishi, Toshio (Dept Sociology U Washington, Seattle 98195), Power in Exchange Networks: A Power-Dependence Formulation, Social Networks, 1992, 14, 3-4, Sept-Dec, 245-265.

¶ A theory-based procedure for identifying power positions in negatively connected exchange networks is presented that draws on R. M. Emerson's work on power-dependence relations (eg, see SA 10:2/62A1658). The procedure for determining the distribution of power is applied to various common networks, & the approach is compared with the formal method developed by B. Markovsky, T. Patton, & D. Willer (see SA 36:4/88T7566). Limitations of the procedure & topics in need of further empirical research are also discussed. 3 Tables, 2 Figures, 23 References Adapted from the source document.

93Z7399

Friedkin, Noah E. (Graduate School Education U California, Santa Barbara 93106), An Expected Value Model of Social Power: Predictions for Selected Exchange Networks, Social Networks, 1992, 14, 3-4, Sept-Dec, 213-229.

¶ The expected value model of social power as applied to social exchange may be applied to different types of social relations, including interpersonal influence, information flow, social support, & social exchange. The model's predictions regarding the resources network that members are expected to acquire from their exchange transactions are discussed for nine exchange networks. It is suggested that the approach advances quantitative predictions of actors' resource receipts as opposed to the qualitative (rank order) predictions characteristic of other approaches. It is concluded from baseline assumptions that the model is consistent with available experimental evidence in locating those positions in a power structure that tend to acquire the most resources through social exchange. In particular, the model provides a simple account of the experimental findings on certain power structures in which the seemingly most central actors do not acquire the most resources. Other theoretical attractions are discussed. 4 Tables, 1 Figure, 10 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7400

Gargiulo, Martin Antonio (Columbia U, New York NY 10027), Two-Step Leverage. Social Networks and Managerial Strategies in a Cooperative Agribusiness, * Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 6, Dec, 2112-A-2113-A.

Available from UMI, Ann Arbor, MI. Order No. DA9232008.

93Z7401

Groger, Lisa (Scripps Gerontology Center Miami U, Oxford OH 45056), Tied to Each Other through Ties to the Land: Informal Support of Black Elders in a Southern U.S. Community, Journal of Cross-Cultural Gerontology, 1992, 7, 3, July, 205-220.

¶ Theories related to reciprocity & exchange are tested in an exploration of informal support sources of older blacks in a rural NC community. Data obtained via participant observation, farm records, & interviews with 35 black residents ages 59-90 reveal intergroup variation in informal support that can be categorized into 6 coping strategies, all related to land ownership. Landowning elders are able to obligate children & other potential helpers by allowing them to settle on their land, creating residential enclaves that are important sources of informal support. In contrast, landless elders are tied to landowners & to each other in various relationships, & differ considerably in their ability to mobilize informal support. Geographical proximity emerges as an important constraint on helping behaviors, & the concept of delayed reciprocity explains some of the seemingly nonreciprocal exchanges. 2 Tables, 41 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7402

Jones, Loring (Coll Health & Human Services San Diego State U, CA 92182-0369), Comparing the Effects of Two Types of Unemployment on Network Status and the Incidence of Depressive Symptoms, The Journal of Applied Social Sciences, 1989-1990, 14, 1, fall-winter, 117-149.

¶ The impact of 2 types of unemployment–cyclical vs structural–on social relationships & depressive symptomology were explored using longitudinal panel data on 135 unemployed workers in Van Nuys & North Hollywood, Calif. As hypothesized, more negative effects for both variables were seen with the structural group. 4 Tables, 35 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7403

Jones, Loring P. (Jane Addams Coll Social Work U Illinois, Chicago 60680), Unemployment: The Effect on Social Networks, Depression, and Reemployment Opportunities, Journal of Social Service Research, 1991, 15, 1-2, 1-22.

¶ Data collected via telephone interviews at 3 time points over a 15-week period are used to investigate the impact of job loss on the networks of 153 recently unemployed, & to examine the subsequent impact on the incidence of depressive symptoms & reemployment opportunities for the sample. As hypothesized, network status predicts both the level of depressive symptoms exhibited by the unemployed, as well as whether they found work in the period under investigation. Contact with close friends emerges as the variable most sensitive to job loss, & a reduction in those contacts is an independent source of depressive symptoms from job loss. 3 Tables, 42 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7404

Leik, Robert K. (Dept Sociology U Minnesota, Minneapolis 55455), New Directions for Network Exchange Theory: Strategic Manipulation of Network Linkages, Social Networks, 1992, 14, 3-4, Sept-Dec, 309-323.

¶ Current theories of network power have considerable precision, & experimental methods for studying power are highly developed. Here, it is posited that the very strength of the theory & methods is also a weakness. By constraining any form of strategic action by experimental subjects to bargaining within existing network configurations, a powerful strategy is denied: negotiating changes in the network itself. A beginning theory of strategic agency is developed; hypotheses are generated, & implications for network power if links can be added or deleted are considered. 2 Figures, 21 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7405

Markovsky, Barry (Dept Sociology U Iowa, Iowa City 52242), Network Exchange Outcomes: Limits of Predictability, Social Networks, 1992, 14, 3-4, Sept-Dec, 267-286.

¶ Two types of network exchange computer simulations & an analytic method are used to generate exchange outcome predictions for the nine common networks. Conditions are provided under which these different sources of predictions for long-run exchange outcomes converge. After examining the process by which various combinations of exchange outcomes emerge, however, it is argued that the ability to predict exact outcomes is probably very limited. As restrictions on exchange conditions, network sizes, & time domains are relaxed, exchange outcomes are increasingly chaotic. While exact outcomes may be predicted for some networks, for many more, at best, only a range of outcomes can be predicted within which actual outcomes will vary. 5 Tables, 2 Figures, 8 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7406

Milardo, Robert M. (School Human Development U Maine, Orono 04469), Comparative Methods for Delineating Social Networks, Journal of Social and Personal Relationships, 1992, 9, 3, Aug, 447-461.

¶ Four methods for defining & enumerating personal networks are detailed. Global networks represent the domain from which all other personal networks are derived. The three additional types, including significant other, exchange, & interactive networks, are conceptually unique & largely nonoverlapping in their memberships. Though not exhaustive, these network types have favorable psychometric properties &, most importantly, clear conceptual foundations. 2 Tables, 29 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7407

Montgomery, James D. (Dept Economics Northwestern U, Evanston IL 60208), Job Search and Network Composition: Implications of the Strength-of-Weak-Ties Hypothesis, UM American Sociological Review, 1992, 57, 5, Oct, 586-596.

¶ Previous research has indicated that, aside from formal sources, workers find jobs through "weak" ties, ie, acquaintances, rather than "strong" ties–close friends & relatives. Alternative formulations of the strength-of-weak-ties hypothesis suggest that (1) weak ties relay job offers more frequently than strong ties, or (2) weak-tie offers are drawn from a better distribution. A formal model is developed that shows that both formulations imply a correlation between network composition & a job seeker's minimum acceptable wage. The use of a weak tie, however, is never associated with higher expected wages under the first formulation, & is only sometimes associated with higher expected wages under the second formulation. It is suggested that future research focus on job seekers' network structures. 1 Table, 1 Appendix, 27 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7408

Nelson, Reed E. & Mathews, K. Michael (Southern Illinois U, Carbondale 62901), Cause Maps and Social Network Analysis in Organizational Diagnosis, The Journal of Applied Behavioral Science, 1991, 27, 3, Sept, 379-397.

¶ Cause maps & social network analysis are integrated to operationalize the concepts of organizational complexity & structure. Specifically, a juxtaposition matrix dividing organizational subunits into functional types & correlating these with critical organizational variables is created & analyzed. Interview data from 23 individuals at a small title company on the eastern seaboard are used to illustrate the procedures developed & their relevance to the practical problems of actual organizations. 1 Table, 30 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7409

O'Connor, Gerald G. & McCord, Lyn (Florida State U, Tallahassee 32306-2024), Networking among Social Service Providers: An Expanded and Transformed Practice, The Journal of Applied Social Sciences, 1990-1991, 15, 1, fall-winter, 7-29.

¶ Interview data obtained from supervisors, personnel managers, & practitioners at child welfare social agencies in Fla (total N = 16) are drawn on to explore how informal networking among human service providers is used to attain needed resources for clients. Based on a grounded theory format, described are: (1) 7 modes of networking, (2) the generic activities entailed in networking, & (3) characteristics of networkers. 1 Table, 28 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7410

Samarajiva, Rohan & Shields, Peter (Dept Communication Ohio State U, Columbus 43210), Emergent Institutions of the 'Intelligent Network': Toward a Theoretical Understanding, Media Culture & Society, 1992, 14, 3, July, 397-419.

¶ The public telecommunication network is being reconfigured to do more than convey voice messages; an "intelligent network" is being assembled piece by piece. CLASS (Custom Local Area Signaling Service) services, particularly Caller ID, are important building blocks of this inchoate network. Seeking to lay the foundation for a systematic investigation of the emerging institutions of the intelligent network, the academic & policy discourses & pertinent social theory under the rubrics of the three frames used in the discourses on the social implications of CLASS services & the intelligent network are examined: individual-individual, individual-organization, & organization-organization. The individual-organization & organization-organization frames are examined in relation to the work of Michel Foucault & Anthony Giddens on surveillance, & the work of Nicholas Garnham, Kevin Robins, & Frank Webster on the political economy of communication. The individual-individual frame is discussed in relation to the work of Erving Goffman. The theoretical advances made by Anthony Giddens are found to be of value in probing the issues embedded in the organization-organization & individual-organization frames. The work of Garnham sugests how to fill gaps in Giddens's theory, particularly in relation to interindustry & interfirm competition. It is argued that the work of Goffman has much potential in systematizing inquiry on individual-individual relations occurring within electronic space as constituted by the macrostructures that are the primary subjects of Giddens & political economy theory. 63 References. AA

93Z7411

Skvoretz, John & Fararo, Thomas J. (Dept Sociology U South Carolina, Columbia 29208), Power and Network Exchange: An Essay toward Theoretical Unification, Social Networks, 1992, 14, 3-4, Sept-Dec, 325-344.

¶ Network exchange research on power development is discussed in the context of neoclassical economic theory & the structuralist tradition in network analysis. Explanatory approaches presented in this journal issue (see related abstracts in this section of SA 41:2) are compared, noting convergences & divergences at the conceptual, theoretical level & at the level of specific predictions for particular networks & in comparison with available observations. It is suggested that the theoretical unification of the various approaches will require a formal, dynamic process conceptualization of power development in exchange networks. Preliminary work in this direction is described. 1 Table, 1 Figure, 25 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7412

Stein, Catherine H., Bush, Ellen G., Ross, Ronald R. & Ward, Marcia (Dept Psychology Bowling Green State U, OH 43403-0228), Mine, Yours and Ours: A Configural Analysis of the Networks of Married Couples in Relation to Marital Satisfaction and Individual Well-Being, Journal of Social and Personal Relationships, 1992, 9, 3, Aug, 365-383.

¶ Semistructured interview data are drawn on to explore the different ways that a sample of 49 working- & middle-class married white couples in Wood County, Ohio, structure their shared & separate relationships with family & friends. Couples are classified according to network structural variables, & 4 different types of conjoint networks are identified. Couples with different types of conjoint networks differ in their self-reports of marital satisfaction, & conjoint network type is differentially related to self-reports of depression & psychological symptoms for husbands & wives. 1 Table, 1 Figure, 39 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7413

Van Tilburg, Theo (Dept Social Research Methodology Vrije U Amsterdam, NL-1075 AD Netherlands), Support Networks before and after Retirement, Journal of Social and Personal Relationships, 1992, 9, 3, Aug, 433-445.

¶ The impact of retirement on personal support networks is explored, drawing on data obtained during interviews with 50 men in the Netherlands just before & after retirement. Results indicate that after retirement, 33% of the men's personal relationships were terminated. Though average network size remained unchanged, a larger portion of the net work members were unemployed, interactions were described as mor pleasant, & contact became more frequent. Moreover the transforme networks generally offered more support, although reciprocity appeare to dip because the men increased the amount of support they offered t others. Findings confirm hypotheses concerning networks change & th significance of reciprocity; suggestions for future research are outlined 2 Tables, 21 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7414

Wellman, Beverly & Wellman, Barry (Centre Urban & Communit Studies U Toronto, Ontario M5S 1A1), Domestic Affairs and Net work Relations, Journal of Social and Personal Relationships 1992, 9, 3, Aug, 385-409.

¶ A network analytic approach is used to assess how spouses & commu nity members provide social support in terms of companionship, emotion al aid, & material resources. In-depth interviews conducted with 20 mar ried Torontonians in 1978 reveal that spouses provide a wide range o support to each other, while community members provide more special ized types of support. Three specific support-providing personality types are determined: networkers, householders, & self-reliants. Networkers tend to be in their 30s & parents of preschoolers, receive much support from spouse & social networks, & have larger networks with frequent contact. Householders tend to be paid laborers in their 40s, receive spousal support but little network support, have smaller support from either spouse or networks, & tend to have grown children. 4 Tables, 53 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7415

Wenger, G. Clare & St. Leger, Fred (Centre Social Policy Research & Development University Wales Coll, Cardiff CF1 3XA), Community Structure and Support Network Variations, Ageing and Society, 1992, 12, 2, June, 213-236.

¶ Analysis of survey, questionnaire, ethnographic, & other data obtained in 2 studies of support networks conducted in North Wales & Northern Ireland (N = 534 & 408 disabled/elderly, respectively) identifies 5 types of support networks. Results also show that the distribution of network type is related to community, & is further influenced by population stability & population density. It is argued that since network type is correlated with service use, identification of network type provides a useful tool for policymakers & practitioners in the context of care in the community. 6 Tables, 27 References. Adapted from the source document

93Z7416

Willer, David (Dept Sociology U South Carolina, Columbia 29208), Predicting Power in Exchange Networks: A Brief History and Introduction to the Issues, Social Networks, 1992, 14, 3-4, Sept-Dec, 187-211.

¶ Network exchange theory addresses the central question of sociological theory, ie, how to predict activity from structure. Here, a special edition journal issue (see related abstracts in this section of SA 41:2) is introduced. The past historical development of exchange theory, the competition between power-dependence theory & elementary theory, & major research findings as they relate to that development are described. A new "null-inclusion-exclusion" typology for network connection is presented that is more general than the "negative-positive" typology previously used. 10 Figures, 43 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7417

Wineburg, Robert J. (Dept Social Work U North Carolina, Greensboro 27412), A Community Study of the Ways Religious Congregations Support Individuals and the Local Human Services Network, The Journal of Applied Social Sciences, 1990-1991, 15, 1, fall-winter, 51-74.

¶ When the federal government retreated from social spending in the 1980s, many religious congregations increased their involvement in support to both individuals & to the community human service network. Described here is the reponse of 128 religious congregations in Greensboro, NC, to the new changes. Mail survey data obtained from pastors detail the 31 social services offered by these congregations, along with their support of the operations of 9 community agencies with volunteers, money, & goods. Findings show high levels of involvement in providing social vices & high levels of volunteering & giving money & goods to community programs. Congregations indicate a strong willingness to continue to serve the most needy members of the community; some organizing strategies are outlined. 3 Tables, 1 Appendix, 21 References. Adapted from the source document.

Z7418
Zippay, Allison (School Social Work Rutgers U, New Brunswick NJ 08903), The Limits of Intimates: Social Networks and Economic Status among Displaced Industrial Workers, The Journal of Applied Social Sciences, 1990-1991, 15, 1, fall-winter, 75-95.
¶ The role of weak or distant ties in promoting social & economic health is explored, drawing on interview data from a random sample of 102 displaced industrial workers in western Pa who suffered long-term unemployment & income loss. Results show that persons who were not working & those with household incomes below the poverty line had social networks significantly smaller in size & higher in intimacy than those who were employed & had household incomes above the poverty line. Social service interventions that facilitate the development of weak ties among disadvantaged groups are recommended. 3 Tables, 32 References. Adapted from the source document.

71 sociology of business & entrepreneurism

Z7419
Dana, Leo Paul (Ecole hautes études commerciales McGill U, Montreal Quebec H3A 2T5), Entrepreneurship, Innovation, and Change in Developing Countries: An Ethnomethodological Empirical Study, Entrepreneurship, Innovation, and Change, 1992, 1, 2, June, 231-242.
A review of the social science literature indicates that the essence of entrepreneurship lies more in innovation & change than in the size of the entrepreneurial firm. An ethnomethodological research design is used to analyze the situation, examining control & treatment groups in adjacent developing African countries, Togo & Ghana. Findings reveal that new venture programs, despite their success in industrialized countries, are not leading to innovation or change in the developing economies studied. Recommendations specific for developing environments are offered. 20 References. Adapted from the source document.

Z7420
Sörensen, Henning, Konsulentrapporter: Fra forretning til forskning? (Consultant Reports: From Counseling to Research?), Dansk Sociologi, 1992, 3, 3, Sept, 74-85. (DAN) Problems often occur when consultants issue reports in an ex cathedra fashion, without stating how the recommendations were derived. The conclusions of such reports can lead to ineffective methods of business or government administration. An analysis is presented of three reports issued by consulting firms in Denmark in 1990/91. In general, such reports have widely varying standards in terms of orientation toward the basic problem, methodology clarity, room for criticism, & use of references; higher level of professionalism in their preparation is needed. 3 Photographs, 6 References. M. Meeks

93Z7421
Webb, Janette (Dept Business Studies U Edinburgh, EH8 9YJ Scotland), The Mismanagement of Innovation, Sociology, 1992, 26, 3, Aug, 471-492.
¶ A call is made for a sociology of management that relates the microsociology of management activities to the economic performance of the firm & to debates about power relations & the distribution of wealth. A case study is presented of a medium-sized British company in the computer components industry, focusing on the relationships between development engineers & managers, & structural reasons for the failure to innovate. It is demonstrated that management, in attempting to pursue an instrumental rationality, undermined the achievement of its own objectives. The contradiction between the logic of short-term instrumental controls & the espoused organic, human resources model of management produced a damaging pattern of workplace relations characterized by distrust & defensiveness. The result was a motivational crisis over the management of innovation, which contributed to the eventual failure of the business. 23 References. Adapted from the source document.

74 voluntary associations/philanthropy

3Z7422
Archambault, Edith & Chadeau, Ann (Laboratoire économie sociale U Paris I, F-75231 Cedex 05 France), Secteur non profit et secteur philanthropique aux Etats-Unis. VIIIe colloque de l'ADDES, 18 juin 1991 (The Nonprofit and Philanthropic Sectors in the United States. Eighth Colloquium of ADDES, 18 June 1991), Coopératives et Développement, 1991-1992, 23, 2, 89-111. (FRE)
Differences between the philanthropic sectors of the US & France have evolved from differing definitions of private & public initiative, democratic traditions, & relations between the philanthropic sector & the fiscal administration. Examined here are the main results of V. A. Hodgkinson's & M. S. Weitzman's Dimensions of the Independent Sector, a Statistical Profile (3rd edition, Washington, DC: Independent Sector, 1989), which studied philanthropy in the US. The relative role of various subsectors–eg, health, education & research, & religious–within the independent sector is assessed. It is found that people in the US donate more than citizens of other nations to philanthropic organizations, but primarily to churches. 8 Tables, 2 Figures, 11 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7423
Barkan, Joel D., McNulty, Michael L. & Ayeni, M. A. O. (U Iowa, Iowa City 52242), 'Hometown' Voluntary Associations, Local Development, and the Emergence of Civil Society in Western Nigeria, The Journal of Modern African Studies, 1991, 29, 3, Sept, 457-480.
¶ The membership, activities, internal structure, & external linkages of three "hometown" associations (HAs) in western Nigeria are examined to determine their significance for local development, assess the evolution of civil society & state-society relations, & ascertain the importance of similar intermediary organizations in rural communities across Africa. The analysis draws on detailed case histories of three successful HAs, information about the relationships between local government authorities & rural community development groups, & interviews (N not provided) with those responsible for planning & implementation of two initiatives by the federal military government aimed at mobilizing rural community action. Eight patterns common to the HAs are identified. The findings suggest that the HAs have become the loci of local political & economic struggles, & that they have been effective mechanisms for mobilizing political action to make claims on the state or, in other cases, tools of the state for its own purposes. Further comparative work to determine the extent to which the patterns are manifest elsewhere in Africa is recommended. S. Millett

93Z7424
Bielefeld, Wolfgang (School Social Sciences U Texas Dallas, Richardson 75083-0688), Funding Uncertainty and Nonprofit Strategies in the 1980s, Nonprofit Management & Leadership, 1992, 2, 4, summer, 381-401.
¶ Interviews conducted thrice between 1980 & 1989 with administrators of 555 nonprofit organizations in the US are drawn on to investigate the degree to which strategic action is related to changes in the perceived uncertainty of income from major types of funders. Results indicate that uncertainty is pervasive, with some nonprofits reporting increases & other decreases in uncertainty over time. The use of new revenue, legitimation, or retrenchment strategies is associated with the reduction of uncertainty for some types of nonprofit organizations, but not for others. 7 Tables, 29 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7425

Clary, E. Gil, Snyder, Mark & Ridge, Robert (Dept Psychology Coll Saint Catherine, Saint Paul MN 55105), Volunteers' Motivations: A Functional Strategy for the Recruitment, Placement, and Retention of Volunteers, Nonprofit Management & Leadership, 1992, 2, 4, summer, 333-350.

¶ Merging the theoretical interests of researchers with the practical interests of volunteer administrators, six different motivational functions served by volunteerism are identified–social, value, career, understanding, protective, & self-esteem. An inventory designed to measure them is presented. The implications of this functional approach for the recruitment, placement, & retention of volunteers are elaborated, & recommendations offered for volunteer administrators seeking to increase the number of people who volunteer & to improve their human resource management. 32 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7426

Cnaan, Ram A. & Goldberg-Glen, Robin S. (School Social Work U Pennsylvania, Philadelphia 19104), Measuring Motivation to Volunteer in Human Services, The Journal of Applied Behavioral Science, 1991, 27, 3, Sept, 269-284.

¶ In the literature, it has generally been assumed that motivation to volunteer (MTV) is a two- or three-dimensional phenomenon. Investigated here is the internal dimensionality of MTV drawing on data from questionnaires on which 258 volunteers in human services & 104 nonvolunteers ranked in importance 28 motives for volunteering. Findings indicate that when all 28 motives were subjected to various types of factor analysis, most items were grouped together on one factor, ie, a unidimensional scale of MTV was obtained. 4 Tables, 45 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7427

Narayana, E. A. (Dept Political Science & Public Administration Nagarjuna U, 522510 Andhra Pradesh India), Managing Voluntary Organisations with Limited Finances and Unskilled Personnel, UM The Indian Journal of Social Work, 1991, 52, 3, July, 361-368.

¶ Income data for a sample of 33 organizations engaged in rural development in Andhra Pradesh are used to examine two major problems experienced by voluntary organizations in India: finance resources & the quality of personnel. The findings indicate that the most important source of funding is from abroad, with roughly 90% of the agencies having access to foreign funds; next in importance are grants from the federal & state governments. The staffing patterns of the organizations reflect the essential Weberian bureaucratic characteristics of hierarchy of authority & division of labor. An overwhelming majority of the personnel did not have technical & professional education & training in their respective organizations. Recommendations include: the mobilization of local resources & funds to replace dependence on external agencies or the government, adherence to the norms stipulated by the funding agencies to assure accountability; improved technical & professional competence of the employees; & the implementation of a system of staff development. Changes in the organizational structure to enhance job satisfaction are also suggested. 2 Tables, 10 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7428

Puffer, Sheila M. & Meindl, James R. (Coll Business Administration Northeastern U, Boston MA 02115), The Congruence of Motives and Incentives in a Voluntary Organization, Journal of Organizational Behavior, 1992, 13, 4, July, 425-434.

¶ A congruency & an incongruency model for how the combination of volunteers' motives & the incentives given them by their voluntary organization relate to volunteers' attitudes & performance are tested through questionnaire data collected from 201 volunteers & their supervisors concerning motives & incentives (rational & normative), the affective experience of volunteering, & the frequency of performing certain behaviors. Regression analyses show that the congruence of normative (or rational) motives & incentives had a positive effect on affect, & incongruence had a negative effect. A high level of normative (or rational) incentives had a positive impact on performance, but when normative (or rational) motives were also high, there was no impact. Thus, a congruence hypothesis for motives & incentives is supported for volunteers' attitudes, & an incongruence hypothesis for performance. Results suggest that it is important to provide incentives that take volunteers' motives into account, as well as the voluntary organization's values. 1 Table, 2 Figures, 25 References. M. Pflum

0700 social change and economic development

15 social change & economic development

93Z7429

al-Habib, Fayez, Abdel Rahman, Mohammed & al-Muraikhi, Fadgoosh K. (King Saud U, POB 2454 Riyadh Saudi Arabia), Transliterated title not available (The Effect of the Spatial Distribution of Industries on Regional Disparities in Saudi Arabia: A Case Study of Saudi Industries), Journal of the Gulf and Arabian Peninsula Studies, 1989, 15, 58, Apr, 145-165. (ARA)

¶ The spatial distribution of industries in Saudi Arabia is measured by the number of industrial establishments & employment for 11 major industries in the 14 administrative regions of the kingdom. Findings show a concentration of industry in the 3 major urban areas of Riyadh, Jeddah, & Dammam. This concentration is largely explained in terms of resource availability, market size, & government support programs. Extension of government support programs to promote more even spatial distribution of industries in the kingdom, with special emphasis on agro-based industries in the northern & southern regions, is advocated. 6 Tables, 1 Map, 5 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7430

Appel, George N. (Dept Anthropology Brandeis U, Waltham MA 02554-9110), Dehumanization in Fact and Theory: Processes of Modernization in the Social Sciences, Studies in Third World Societies, 1991, 45, Oct, 23-44.

¶ It is argued that authoritarianism & economic exploitation have not ended with the demise of colonialism in insular southeast Asia. Indigenous peoples have been forcibly removed to resettlement centers, their land has been expropriated, & many have been forced to convert to a world religion. This is justified in terms of providing "modern" advantages, & schooling is used as a form of indoctrination. One of the important consequences of this has been to destroy the context of meaning to lives & work. Economic & social development can proceed without the wholesale destruction of cultures & the proletarianization of the peasant farmer, & other models for development build on rather than destroy functional communities. Reasons why this experience has been otherwise in southeast Asia are examined, focusing on the role of dehumanization as a persistent but covert theme in the process of modernization & social science theories. The postcolonial elites have been trained in the West so that they continue the dehumanization of colonialism & perpetuation of Western thought. Critical to this is a system of values entitled "economic fundamentalism," which assumes that the primary force shaping ideas & attitudes is economic & that economic growth is the solution to human ills & discontents. The new elites have accepted the view that the rural, traditional populations of their countries are backward, unsophisticated, dirty, & savage. Economic development furthers the economic status & power of the new elite, & the population now provides services to the betterment of the state economy rather than vice versa. To make the work of government easier, the new political economy attempts to homogenize its populations, ignoring the dangers in this. Anthropological theory of culture also provides a new form of dehumanization in that culture becomes a manageable problem & the consequences to the people are ignored. 47 References. Modified AA (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7431

Berlie, Jean (Centre Asian Studies U Hong Kong, Hong Kong), Economic Census of a Dai Neua Village in Dehong Autonomous Prefecture, Yunnan: Modernization and the Dai Socio-Economic System, SOJOURN, 1992, 7, 1, Feb, 123-141.

¶ Surveys conducted in 1986 & 1991 in Yunnan, People's Republic of China, provide data on socioeconomic conditions among 49 minority Dai ethnic group households. Agriculture, education, & indicators of wealth & poverty are discussed, along with some problems in development & modernization among the Dai. 4 Tables, 12 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7432

Bohmann, Gerda & Vobruba, Georg (c/o Vobruba–Hamburg Instit Social Research, Mittelweg 36 D-2000 13 Federal Republic Germany), Crises and Their Interpretations: The World Economic Crises of 1929 ff. and 1974 ff. in Austria, UM Crime, Law and Social Change, 1992, 17, 2, Mar, 145-163.

¶ Arguing that crises are interpreted facts, the sociological term "crisis" thus implies that a certain period of economic & political development has been in practice already interpreted as a crisis. Here, the Austrian crises of 1929 ff. (the beginning of the first world economic crisis & of the destruction of the first Austrian Republic) & 1974 ff. (the first oil price shock & the end of full employment in Western Europe) are compared, via analysis of articles from two daily newspapers in each period. The comparison shows important differences between the two crises in terms of their preconditions & economic/political impacts, but also some unexpected similarities. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7433

Bradshaw, York W. & Wahl, Ana-Maria (Dept Sociology Indiana U, Bloomington 47405 [e-mail: bradsha@iubacs.bitnet]), Agricultural Prices, the International Economy, and Development in Kenya, 1964-1988: A Time-Series Analysis, UM Sociological Perspectives, 1992, 35, 2, summer, 283-311.

¶ After describing theoretical & methodological problems in the growing literature on agricultural underdevelopment in Africa, an attempt is made to overcome these by applying several different theoretical perspectives to Kenyan development & testing them via time-series analysis. Government statistical & survey data for the period 1964-1988 reveal that: (1) agricultural prices have a positive effect on coffee production, food production, & economic output; (2) coffee exports have a positive effect on total agricultural output, but a negative effect on food production & overall economic output; & (3) "finished" imports (eg, machinery) have a positive effect on industrial output, but a negative effect on agricultural output, coffee production, & total economic output. 5 Tables, 3 Figures, 56 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7434

Brown, Phillip (Rutherford Coll U Kent, Canterbury CT2 7NX England), Education, the Free Market and Post-Communist Reconstruction, British Journal of Sociology of Education, 1992, 13, 3, Sept, 285-305.

¶ Informed by recent sociological debate, secondary data are drawn on to compare economic restructuring & educational reform among the member countries of the Commonwealth of Independent States. It is suggested that powerful social & political forces are making "free market" educational reforms, such as those being pursued in GB, an increasingly attractive model of educational development. It is argued that such a basis for reform not only leaves the tension between political & economic change unresolved, but threatens to undermine the process of postcommunist reconstruction. 1 Figure, 70 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7435

Cammack, Paul (Dept Government U Manchester, M6O 1QD England), The New Institutionalism: Predatory Rule, Institutional Persistence, and Macro-Social Change, Economy and Society, 1992, 21, 4, Nov, 397-429.

¶ Two contrasting approaches that have claimed the label of the "new institutionalism" are reviewed: one deriving from rational choice theory, the other from the rejection of rational choice theory in favor of a behavioral perspective. The origins & character of these approaches are identified, & each is critiqued, supported by critical readings of key texts that have utilized these approaches in case studies of macrosocial change. It is concluded that while a number of valuable issues are raised, neither version can provide of itself a basis for an understanding of long-term social change. 42 References. Adapted from the source document.

0038-0202/93 $1.50

93Z7436

Carton de Grammont, Hubert (IIS U Nacional Autónoma México, 04510 Mexico DF), Los empresarios agrícolas y la política de modernización en el campo (Agricultural Businessmen and the Policy of Modernization in the Countryside), Nueva Antropologia, 1991, 11, 40, Nov, 75-85. (SPA)

¶ An examination of the principal demands of the agricultural businessmen's association, Consejo Nacional Agropecuario (CNA), in Mexico in the late 1980s & the government's responses. Discussed are the privatization of land tenancy, commercialization of agricultural production, participation of producers in government institutions that control production, control of the banking system, prices & subsidies, & protection from international competition. The CNA has pointed out apparent contradictions in government policy, which are explained here as inevitable, as the government attempts to reorder the economy according to a neoliberal international model. J. Taylor

93Z7437

Chang, Kyung-Sup (Dept Sociology Seoul National U, 151-742 Republic Korea), China's Rural Reform: The State and Peasantry in Constructing a Macro-Rationality, Economy and Society, 1992, 21, 4, Nov, 430-452.

¶ In a discussion of rural reform in the People's Republic of China, focus is on the distinct organizational characteristics of the peasant family in production, distribution, & welfare. This approach is presented as an alternative to the popular explanation of the recent reform, which centers on microinstitutional problems of collective farming, eg, work incentives & monitoring. The Chinese state did not view family-based peasantry as a typical market-oriented private economy operating mainly in pursuit of short-term profits, but rather as a multipurpose, morally governed unit in which the rural population maintains stable work relations, pursues diverse entrepreneurial activities, & satisfies basic subsistence needs–ie, an organizational unit that could take over the social & economic functions of the pre-reform collective. In a sense, China's rural decollectivization has been a process of deceptively transferring the burden of absorbing & supporting the huge rural surplus labor to individual peasant families for whose economic activities the state is not directly responsible. 55 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7438

Dandaneau, Steven Patrick (Brandeis U, Waltham MA 02554-9110), Ideology and Dependent Deindustrialization: A Study of Local Responses to Flint, Michigan's Social and Cultural Decline from a Critical Theory Perspective, * Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 5, Nov, 1672-A.

Available from UMI, Ann Arbor, MI. Order No. DA9229459.

93Z7439

Danesh, Abol Hassan (Dept Sociology & Anthropology U Rhode Island, Kingston 02881), Land Reform, State Policy, and Social Change in Iran, UM Urban Anthropology, 1992, 21, 2, summer, 153-179.

¶ In a discussion of land reform in Iran in the early 1960s, the state's inability to embark on a successful restructuring of agrarian relations via equitable land-relations, economic productivity, & regional development is investigated. It is argued that lack of grass-roots participation in the program, mismanagement of resources, state corruption, & insensitivity to the Asiatic mode of production were responsible for the program's failure. To support this hypothesis, particular attention is paid to the impact of land reform on landless peasants & small landholders who, in theory, were targeted to become the main beneficiaries. A detailed description of agrarian social classes as well as land ownership & pattern of land cultivation before & after the reform are also provided. 2 Tables, 69 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7440

Elcock, Howard (Newcastle upon Tyne Polytechnic, NE1 8ST England), Making Bricks without Straw?: The Polish Ombudsman and the Transition to Democracy, International Journal of the Sociology of Law, 1992, 20, 2, June, 173-182.

¶ The spread of the ombudsman concept throughout the Western world has been followed by its adoption in Poland as part of the development of the Rule of Law in the European Napoleonic tradition of the enforcement of codes of law on administrators. The office of ombudsman, established in 1988 & headed by a Commissioner, serves primarily to investigate complaints by Polish citizens against public officials &, increasingly, private companies. An exploration of issues identified in the Commissioner's annual reports considers: limits of citizens' comprehension of appropriate investigative matters; officials' reluctance to accept the Commissioner's judgments; the Commissioner's relationship with the legal system & higher courts; & the Commissioner's role in promoting acceptance of minority rights protection. Particular dilemmas for the office, arising from the difficult process of replacing the old communist structure with stable democratic state & legal systems, are discussed. 2 Tables, 16 References. S. Millett

93Z7441

Endruweit, Günter (Instit Soziologie Christian-Albrechts U Kiel, D-2300 Federal Republic Germany), La Fonction des minorités pour le développement social (The Role of Minorities in Social Development), Europa Ethnica, 1991, 48, 4, 169-181. (FRE)

¶ Interpreting "minority" as a sociologically & politically neutral term designating nonmonolithic social unities, a typology of minorities is presented, including: visible/invisible, total/partial, open/closed, & self-/society-oriented. Social processes between minority & majority are discussed, eg, integration, assimilation, interculturation, & marginalization. Political practices may create minority-majority tension & thus render minorities dysfunctional for development. Political scientists & sociologists should cooperate in creating a relative notion of minority, & in clarifying notions of tolerance, pluralism, & democracy. 23 References. I. Shagrir

93Z7442

Fiala, Robert (Dept Sociology U New Mexico, Albuquerque 87131-1166 {e-mail: rfiala@bootes.unm.edu.}), The International System, Labor-Force Structure, and the Growth and Distribution of National Income, 1950-1980, UM Sociological Perspectives, 1992, 35, 2, summer, 249-282.

¶ Cross-national labor force data, 1950-1980, is used to examine how the international system shapes the character of national development, & the consequences of variation in development strategy for the growth & distribution of national income. A complementary goal is to demonstrate how residual plots can be used to overcome the "black box" character of cross-national studies, & thereby provide a bridge to case-study research. Multivariate analyses & residual plots provide results congruent with both world-political-economy & developmental perspectives, & indicate that the world economy may be used by lesser developed countries to obtain more rapid & equitable economic growth. This was not, however, a natural outcome of the world economy in the 1960s & 1970s. 4 Tables, 4 Figures, 1 Appendix, 74 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7443

Fiala, Robert (Dept Sociology U New Mexico, Albuquerque 87131-1166 {e-mail: rfiala@bootes.unm.edu}), Varieties of Expression in the New International Comparative Political Economy, UM Sociological Perspectives, 1992, 35, 2, summer, 205-215.

¶ In an introduction to this special issue (see related abstracts in SA 41:2) on the new international comparative political economy, international political & economic dynamics are explored, without the assumption that the world system simply determines national development. Themes that tie the various studies together are identified, & their implications addressed. The importance of theory & multiple methodologies in research on the international system is emphasized. 60 References. M. Maguire

93Z7444

Freudenburg, William R. (Dept Rural Sociology U Wisconsin, Madison 53706), Addictive Economies: Extractive Industries and Vulnerable Localities in a Changing World Economy, UM Rural Sociology, 1992, 57, 3, fall, 305-332.

A revised version of SA 39:6/91S24725/RSS/1991/2363. 3 Figures, 57 References.

93Z7445

Hein, Simeon (Washington State U, Pullman 99164), Trade Strategy and the Dependent Hypothesis: A Comparison of Policy, Foreign Investment, and Economic Growth in Latin America and East Asia, UM Economic Development and Cultural Change, 1992, 40, 3, Apr, 495-521.

An attempt is made to ascertain the effects of official policies & additional independent variables–eg, political stability, regional differences, current level of development, & the population growth rate–on foreign investment & economic growth in 42 middle-income countries, using World Bank & other cross-national statistics for 1970-1982. The dependency theory & an alternate policy-development model are tested. Results show that region & policy affect inflows of foreign investment. However, while official policies, region, population growth rates, & political instability have effects on medium-term economic growth, direct foreign investment does not. These findings do not support the dependency hypothesis & show mixed support for the policy development model. 2 Tables, 3 Appendixes. Modified AA

93Z7446

Hemedinger, Fritz, Regionalentwicklung durch Bildungsarbeit? Österreichische Lehrer in Zimbabwe (Regional Development through Educational Work? Austrian Teachers in Zimbabwe), Österreichische Zeitschrift für Soziologie, 1992, 17, 3, 64-77. (GER)

¶ Since Zimbabwe's independence in 1980, the population has expanded rapidly. Moreover, educational opportunities have been extended to the black majority. The total number of primary & secondary students rose from 886,000 in 1979 to 3,150,000 in 1988; the number of primary schools climbed from 2,401 in 1979 to 4,297, & of secondary schools, from 177 to 1,276. There is an acute shortage of well-trained teachers. At a secondary school in Gokwe, 7 of the 28 teachers, & 3 of the 4 female teachers, are European nationals. Of the 21 Zimbabwean teachers, 6 lack certification, 7 are still in training, 2 are certified for primary school, & 6 are certified for secondary school. Basic problems include a high teacher turnover & lack of funding. Students tend to want instruction with a strong vocational orientation. 2 Tables, 2 Figures, 8 References. M. Meeks

93Z7447

Hirst, Paul & Thompson, Grahame (Birkbeck Coll U London, WC1E 7HU England), The Problem of 'Globalization': International Economic Relations, National Economic Management and the Formation of Trading Blocs, Economy and Society, 1992, 21, 4, Nov, 357-396.

¶ In an attempt to define the term "globalization of economic relations," it is concluded that such a globalized economy does not yet exist. Rather, it is argued that the formation of trading blocs & the continued salience of national economic management are currently structuring the international economy. As an example of the formation of a trading bloc, attempts to integrate the European Community into a cohesive economic management & regulatory entity are considered, highlighting associated political problems & obstacles. The impact of present tendencies in the international economy for a range of secondary parities in that economy, eg, less-developed countries, the ex-Soviet-type economies, & China–are also examined. 3 Figures, 36 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7448

Kim, Hyuk-Rae (U Washington, Seattle 98195), State and Economic Organization: Divergent Organizational Paths of Industrialization in East Asia, * Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 6, Dec, 2126-A.

Available from UMI, Ann Arbor, MI. Order No. DA9230384.

93Z7449

Kim, Jong-dall (U Delaware, Newark 19716), The Political Economy of Energy-Corporate-Urban Integration in South Korea, * Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 5, Nov, 1690-A.

Available from UMI, Ann Arbor, MI. Order No. DA9223687.

93Z7450

Kukreja, Sunil (U Puget Sound, Tacoma WA 98416), The Political Economy of the Feminization of the Tertiary in Developing Countries: Some Cross-National Findings, UM International Review of Modern Sociology, 1992, 22, 1, spring, 79-97.

¶ Dependency theorists' conceptions of a link between capital dependence, disarticulation, & the feminization of the tertiary sector are reviewed & tested empirically using statistical data from several international economic & labor organizations for 32 developing countries 1977-1985. Ordinary least squares regression analysis shows that dependence on foreign direct investment & debt dependence have a relatively weak influence on the overall level of female representation in the tertiary. However, foreign direct investment is significantly related to female representation in social & community services. 2 Tables, 58 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7451

Leonard, Carol S. (Russian Research Center Harvard U, Cambridge MA 02138), Kagarlitsky and the Leviathan: Political Disobedience and Intellectual Discourse in Russia, Radical History Review, 1992, 53, spring, 90-95.

¶ A review essay on three books by Boris Kagarlitsky: Farewell Perestroika: A Soviet Chronicle (Simon, Rick [Tr]), The Thinking Reed: Intellectuals and the Soviet State from 1917 to the Present (Pearce, Brian [Tr]), & The Dialectic of Change (Simon, Rick [Tr]; London & New York: Verso Books, 1990, 1988, & 1990, respectively [see listings in IRPS No. 67]). Dissident, labor organizer, & socialist opponent to Mikhail Gorbachev, Kagarlitsky traces the fall of Soviet communism (1988/89), culminating with the prediction of an end to perestroika, in Farewell Perestroika. He discusses the shift in public opinion against Gorbachev championed by the Moscow Popular Front, & reports on border disputes & ethnic conflicts in Georgia. In The Thinking Reed, Kagarlitsky explores the communist state's reinstatement of the humanist utopia, after years of betraying socialist ideals. Noting the collapse of anti-Stalinist efforts to promote greater intellectual freedom following the Czech & Hungarian invasions, he underscores nationalist trends in the development of the Soviet intellectual community. Marxist historical determinism characterizes arguments presented in The Dialectic of Change. Kagarlitsky's critique of the Yeltsin administration, typical of his reductionist & exaggerated socialist rhetoric on other topics, is repeated in the democratic press, but only undermines his credibility. 5 References. J. Sadler

93Z7452

Luke, Tim, Postcommunism in the USSR: The McGulag Archipelago, UM Telos, 1990, 84, summer, 33-42.

¶ Tracing the direction taken by Soviet politico-economic theory since the Bolshevik revolution, revisionist Marxism is the norm. The end result of historical materialism–communism–was the Soviet starting point. Joseph Stalin promoted a dictatorship of the proletariat & created key institutions for developing bourgeois capitalism. Neo-Stalinism (1956-1985) became increasingly problematic due to foreign threats & internal conflicts. The overthrow of the Communist party in 1989 marked the beginning of an industrial capitalist state whose future is severely limited by the dual civil-military economy & ubiquitous bureaucratic centralism. Besides the prevention of civil war, the new state's main challenge lies in implementing global economic integration. The model now being elaborated calls for imperialistic Western economic investment, eg, the 1990 opening of a McDonald's restaurant in Moscow, importing wasteful, environmentally-unfriendly, culturally impoverished, & nutritionally unsound popular Western ideas to Soviet society. The heavily-guarded dairy, baking, & meat-processing facility that supplies products for the restaurant has been dubbed the "McGulag," representing Mikhail Gorbachev's sell-out commodification of the USSR's economic promise. J. Sadler

93Z7453

Machonin, Pavel (Instit Social-Political Sciences Charles U, CS-11636 Prague 1 Czechoslovakia), Příprava projektu výzkumu transformace sociální struktury naší společnosti (Preparing the Research Project on the Transformation of Our Society's Social Structure), Sociológia, 1991, 23, 4, 338-342. (SLO)

¶ An outline is presented for a long-term sociological study of the transformation of Czech & Slovak societies from the 1930s to the present. Key questions to be answered include: social stratification; changes over time; social justice; land ownership; economic relationships; differentiation of labor; educational level; ethnic relations; relations between sexes, generations, & family structures; political power; extensions of income; quality of life; value orientations; & integration into European & international contexts. Special attention is given to the changes in values & external realities following the overthrow of communism in 1989. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7454

McMichael, Philip D. (Dept Rural Sociology Cornell U, Ithaca NY 14853-7601 (e-mail: pdmx@cornella.bitnet)), Tensions between National and International Control of the World Food Order: Contours of a New Food Regime, UM Sociological Perspectives, 1992, 35, 2, summer, 343-365.

¶ It is demonstrated that the current crisis of the world political economy is a result of the breakdown of the Bretton Woods system, which was characterized by stable institutions of regulation of national capital accumulation within the Pax Americana. The resulting absense of rules governing international trade, reflected in rising (Northern) protectionism & anarchic competition for markets for agricultural commodities, underlies a dramatic restructuring of the world economy. Focusing on the world food order, speculation is offered on the characteristics of a new international food regime that could arise to match the growing power of transnational companies to restructure global production & consumption relations. It is argued that the recomposition of North-South relations means a new subordination of southern political-economy by intensifying southern food dependency. This must precede the further centralization of northern corporate power, & the possibliity of a system of global regulation administered under the auspices of the International Monetary Fund & the General Agreement on Tariffs & Trade. 83 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7455

McNamara, Dennis (Dept Sociology Georgetown U, Washington DC 20057), Reincorporation and the American State in South Korea: The Textile Industry in the 1950s, UM Sociological Perspectives, 1992, 35, 2, summer, 329-342.

¶ Official statistical data are presented to chronicle the development of South Korea's cotton manufacturing industry during the First Republic (1948-1960) as an example of the reincorporation of a peripheral state into the postwar capitalist world system. An examination of the character of cotton manufacturing in South Korea, & the role played by the US in reincorporating the former Japanese colony into a US-dominated world system, suggests the process was largely one of "constrained bureaucratic expansion." It is shown how the earlier process of incorporation under Japanese hegemony shaped subsequent reincorporation under US suzerainty. The importance of geopolitical factors, & the interaction of the local situation with the world system in shaping the process of reincorporation, are also discussed. 1 Table, 66 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7456

Miller, S. M. (Boston U, MA 02215), Realizing Perestroika, Research in Social Movements, Conflicts and Change, 1992, 14, 237-254.

¶ The history & development of perestroika are examined. The West viewed the announcement of perestroika as a discrete event, but in fact, it was a process with many historical antecedents, facilitated by the Cold war & the economic difficulties of the USSR. Though perceived as a blessing by the West, perestroika has produced mixed social reform: it has motivated public support, resulted in freedom of political expression, & given hope to the Soviet society; but it has also unleashed ethnic & anti-Semantic passions held in check by the totalitarian regime, which may well lead to a return to the old conflicts of the presocialist era. 23 References. D. Generoli

93Z7457

Novek, Joel & Kampen, Karen (Dept Sociology U Winnipeg, Manitoba R3B 2E9), Sustainable or Unsustainable Development? An Analysis of an Environmental Controversy, Canadian Journal of Sociology/Cahiers canadiens de sociologie, 1992, 17, 3, summer, 249-273.

¶ It is suggested that environmental preservation requires nonmarket intervention to counter the commodification of resources & to protect them from market pressures; such interventions, however, restrict economic growth. These themes are examined through an analysis of the controversy surrounding two proposed pulp & paper megaprojects for the prairie boreal forest in Alberta & Manitoba. It is argued that the conflict between economic development & environmental preservation cannot be easily overcome because the information society model fails to provide a panacea for nonpolluting, nondepleting growth in the industrial world, & because globalization of world trade has transformed distributional conflicts over environmental externalities (eg, pollution), defined as the social costs of economic expansion. In addition, the state & its institutions are in a contradictory position as promoters of economic development & as environmental regulators. 1 Table, 1 Figure, 99 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7458

Pattnayak, Satya R. (Dept Sociology Villanova U, PA 19085), Direct Foreign Investment, State, and Levels of Manufacturing Growth in Asia and Latin America, UM Journal of Political and Military Sociology, 1992, 20, 1, summer, 83-106.

¶ By employing the level of manufacturing growth as the main dependent variable & state extractive capacity, state coercive capacity, & state direct activism as intervening variables, examined is the relationship between direct foreign investment & economic growth in 37 Asian & Latin American countries, 1975-1985. Findings indicate that although state extractive capacity continues to be an important mediator in the relationship between direct foreign investment & the level of manufacturing growth in both regions, its effect is much stronger in Asia than in Latin America. Asian states are also noted to have higher coercive capacity & are more directly active than Latin American states. Consequently, the net effects of state coercive capacity & state direct activism on the level of manufacturing growth are noted to be more pronounced in Asia & much weaker in Latin America. Future research on Third World development must examine the effects of direct foreign investment on manufacturing growth at specific levels of state capacity & activism variables. Such an attempt should help clarify the complexities involved with the role of the state in development across societies. 2 Tables, 1 Appendix, 56 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7459

Pattnayak, Satya R. (Dept Sociology Villanova U, PA 19085), Integrating Liberal-Pluralist and Dependency Perspectives of Development at Specific Levels of State Capacity, UM International Review of Modern Sociology, 1992, 22, 1, spring, 65-78.

¶ The relationship between direct foreign investment & manufacturing growth at three levels of state capacity is explored, integrating liberal-pluralist & dependency perspectives. Panel data on 37 Asian & Latin American countries for the period 1975-1985 reveal that the estimated net effect of direct foreign investment on manufacturing growth at high state capacity is positive & statistically significant. At low & middle capacity levels, however, this effect, though negative, is not significant. Results are obtained after controlling for regional interaction effects. Thus, the liberal-pluralist hypothesis of a positive relationship between direct foreign investment & manufacturing growth is more likely to occur at high levels of state capacity & the dependency hypothesis of a negative relationship between the two is more likely at low & middle capacity levels. It is suggested that these two perspectives may be a special case of a grander theory of Third World development. 1 Table, 1 Appendix, 38 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7460

Pellicani, Luciano, Preconditions for Soviet Economic Development, UM Telos, 1990, 84, summer, 43-57.

Translated by Florindo Volpacchio.

¶ The introduction of the market, backed up by fundamental guarantees of property, rent, & land, is the only hope for the USSR's economy, according to a May 1990 Mikhail Gorbachev speech. The Marxist-Leninist planned economy lacks the essential motivation of competition. For the Soviet economy to be reborn based on supply & demand, basic protections of rights to private property & the accumulation of wealth must be offered. Although Gorbachev does not mention it, these juridical protections have necessary political preconditions, which are met only by dismantling the one-party system. A sketch of the economic success of Holland in the seventeenth century illustrates how a static economy can gain momentum through productivity, potentiated by a political-juridical framework. Marxist myths of the necessity of an original accumulation of capital, & the link between the industrial revolution & economic development, are debunked. Statist communism, which has expropriated civil society & made it dependent, has been successful in eliminating the market & social spontaneity. J. Sadler

93Z7461

Piccone, Paul, Paradoxes of Perestroika, UM Telos, 1990, 84, summer, 3-32.

¶ It is argued that only radical reforms in the nature of the USSR's political system & fundamental economic relations–including a reintroduction of private ownership of means of production, free markets in capital & labor, & integration in the capitalist world–will benefit the country during the current crisis. Continuing the Soviet ideological agenda, even in light of marketization & democratization measures, has not been successful in producing economic improvements. The passage from totalitarianism to civil society will require more than glasnost & perestroika; the present regime must completely dissolve. One approach to implementing difficult economic reforms–authoritarian perestroika–revokes democratic procedures & enforces economic plans. But this plan failed during Mikhail Gorbachev's first two years in office. It is concluded that Soviet dictatorship is delegitimated & cannot be rehabilitated. J. Sadler

93Z7462

Ragin, Charles C. & Bradshaw, York W. (Dept Sociology Northwestern U, Evanston IL 60208-1330 (e-mail: cragin@muacc.bitnet)), International Economic Dependence and Human Misery, 1938-1980: A Global Perspective, UM Sociological Perspectives, 1992, 35, 2, summer, 217-247.

¶ After identifying some theoretical & methodological problems plaguing previous quantitative cross-national studies of international inequality, an attempt is made to overcome some of these by: (1) complementing the study of economic development with analyses of cross-national variation in physical quality of life; (2) using statistical data from a variety of sources at five points in time (1938, 1950, 1960, 1970, & 1980) & reporting the results of a variety of panel models with different time lags; & (3) implementing a multiple indicator approach to the measurement of economic development, dependency, & physical quality of life. Overall, the analyses show that dependency has a more harmful effect on physical quality of life than on economic development; this is true for a variety of panels & sample definitions. Furthermore, these effects become stronger with a greater time lag, supporting the long-term historical view of dependency & world-system theories. 4 Tables, 1 Appendix, 65 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7463

Rasmussen, Steen, En sociologisk funderet økonomi (A Sociologist Ponders Economics), Dansk Sociologi, 1992, 3, 2, June, 70-75. (DAN)

¶ A review article on a book by Herman E. Daly & John B. Cobbs, Det fælles bedste–en økologisk økonomi for fællesskab og fremtid ([The Common Good-An Ecological Economy for the Community of the Future] 1991). Special attention is given to Daly's & Cobb's criticism of "crematistic" economic theories, stressing maximization of short-term profits in a capitalistic framework hostile to the environment. In their view, it is time for the self-interest of homo economicus to give way to a community consciousness & ecological awareness. Also discussed is their criticism of Ferdinand Tönnies's Gemeinschaft und Gesellschaft ([Community and Society] 1912 [1957 (see SA 7:1/595240)]), & the importance of establishing reasonable economic norms. M. Meeks

93Z7464

Roberts, J. Timmons (Johns Hopkins U, Baltimore MD 21218), Forging Development, Fragmenting Labor: Subcontracting and Local Response in an Amazon Boomtown, * Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 5, Nov, 1690-A.

Available from UMI, Ann Arbor, MI. Order No. DA9229395.

93Z7465

Segal, David R. (Dept Sociology U Maryland, College Park 20742), From Convergence to Chaos: Theoretical Perspectives on the Transformation of Industrial Societies, Research in Social Movements, Conflicts and Change, 1992, 14, 1-11.

¶ Theoretical traditions underlying current analyses of the social transformations occurring in the former USSR & Eastern Europe are examined. Much Cold war thinking on recent events there has taken a convergence theory approach to industrial societies, emphasizing the evolution of institutional forms through a process of natural selection. No consensus on the final form of industrial society has been achieved, but all analyses have assumed that sociopolitical change is linear. However, these recent social transformations may actually be nonlinear, making prediction impossible. The social sciences may well benefit from accepting chaos theory to analyze social change. 24 References. D. Generoli

93Z7466

Taka, Perry Lynn (U California, Los Angeles 90024), Critique of German and American Development: From Colonization to Barbarism, * Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 6, Dec, 2126-A.

Available from UMI, Ann Arbor, MI. Order No. DA9230786.

93Z7467

Torres Mejía, Patricia (U Iberoamericana, Lomas Santa Fe 01210 Mexico DF), Nuevo capital transnacional en México: el caso de Polaroid (New Transnational Capital in Mexico: A Case Study of Polaroid), Nueva Antropología, 1991, 11, 40, Nov, 23-35. (SPA)

¶ An examination of the effects of the former presidential program to attract foreign capital to Mexico in order to stimulate the economy. New foreign investments have successfully introduced new forms of work organization that are more socially oriented, as part of a wider project of modernization elaborated in order to compete more efficiently in the international market. Analysis of data collected in a 1988/89 case study reveals that the economic impact of the opening of a Polaroid plant in Queretaro was minimal. However, Polaroid introduced a new form of organization characterized by teamwork for focus-oriented factories. It is argued that the teamwork model was abandoned because of the lack of centralized control, rather than because it proved inefficient. 5 References. AA

93Z7468

Xinhua, Wang (Office Technology Assessment, 600 Pennsylvania Ave SE Washington DC 20003), Trends towards Globalization and a Global Think Tank, Futures, 1992, 24, 3, Apr, 261-267.

¶ It is contended that a new stage in the development of a global think tank has been reached. An overview of futures studies at the global level clearly shows that trends toward a global social system facilitated by science & technology have been related in the initial stages of development, but that a new turning point is appearing after nearly two decades. A think tank in the People's Republic of China has perceived that learning from the world & participating in a think tank at the global level are imperative. 1 Table. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7469

Zeman, Miloš (Instit Futures Research, Opletalova 19 CS-11000 Prague 1 Czechoslovakia), Post-Totalitarian Transition: Risk and Opportunity, Futures, 1992, 24, 2, Mar, 118-121.

¶ The risks involved in the transition from communistic totalitarian to democratic systems in Eastern Europe are identified as the populistic syndrome, in which the totalitarian psychology, though usually disguised, still prevails. Success can only be reached through a longer-term privatization process, which is an economic &–perhaps even more important–a social task, achieved through combining educational programs with the participation of the workforce. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7470

——, Perestroika* in Eastern Europe, UM Telos, 1989, 79, spring, 2-224.

¶ In an Introduction to this special issue on the impact of perestroika throughout Eastern Europe, Paul Piccone discusses democratization, the status of communist parties, the delegitimation of bureaucracy, & the impact of post-Cold war international relations on US society & politics. In Reforming the Soviet System, Gábor T. Rittersporn (CNRS, Paris, France) shows that the gradual disintegration of the economic & political systems during the Leonid Brezhnev & Mikhail Gorbachev eras can be explained only in terms of conflicts among party officials, middle-level bureaucrats, intellectuals, & the working class. In Contradictions of Perestroika, (Tr from Italian by Florindo Volpacchio) Antonio Carlo (U of Salerno, Fisciano, Italy) examines the economic problems inherited by Gorbachev to specify internal contradictions in perestroika, hypothesizing that perestroika will likely be replaced by an underdeveloped capitalism. Zygmunt Bauman (U of Leeds, England), in Poland: On its Own, argues that the piecemeal introduction of regulated capitalism in Poland will solve only short-term problems, while intensifying corruption & reintroducing a new social stratification that will likely delegitimate whatever egalitarian pretenses the system may still have had. In The Transformation of Solidarity and the Future of Central Europe, David Ost (Hobart Coll, Geneva, NY) demonstrates that the effective integration of solidarity within the Polish power structure is meant to create the social preconditions for economic revival. In Entrepreneurialism in Poland & Hungary, Andrzej Bloch (Antioch U, Yellow Springs, Ohio) examines the emergence of a new stratum of private entrepreneurs in these countries, & explores how they might generate powerful new incentives for both private enterprise & entrepreneurial managers of state industries. In Hungary in Transition: The Emergence of Opposition Parties, Laszlo Urban (Eotvos U, Budapest, Hungary) offers a reconstruction of the changing relations between the Communist party & political movements to explain the emergence of opposition parties & the impact of Gorbachev's perestroika in Hungary. In Crisis and Reform in Yugoslavia, Paul Shoup (U of Virginia, Charlottesville) examines how reform efforts have led to the present crisis, explores the emergence of a democratic opposition, & offers speculations on the country's political future. In The Irrelevance of Perestroika in Czechoslovakia, Radoslav Selucky (Carleton U, Ottawa, Ontario) argues that what keeps Czechoslovakia within the Soviet orbit is no longer the Red Army, but the ideology of various domestic parties that adhere to the neo-Stalinist model. In Prague Spring and *Perestroika, (Tr from German by Tineke Ritmeester), Michal Reiman (Free U Berlin, Federal Republic of Germany) examines the affinities between the tumultuous political events of 1968 & perestroika, showing that Czechoslovakia's reform efforts were enhanced by its leadership's decision to allow a new generation of activists to participate in power. In East Germany's Defensive Politics, (Tr from German by Warren L. Habib) Walter Süss discusses the reception of perestroika in East Germany, explores the social unrest that characterized the 1980s, & looks at the role of the Socialist Unity party. In Glasnost* in Albania, Arshi Pipa (U of Minnesota, Minneapolis) seeks to determine whether liberalization in Albanian politics is a consequence of perestroika or simply due to economic problems. In Reform Politics in Bulgaria, (Tr from Italian by Florindo Volpacchio), Armando Pitassio (U of Perugia, Italy) argues that many of Bulgaria's economic problems stem from the fact that several domestic parties remain tied to the neo-Stalinist model of production & political organization. In Romania: House of Cards, Steven L. Sampson (U of Copenhagen, Denmark) considers the legacy of ruler Nicolae Ceausescu's anti-perestroika policy & the adverse affect it has had on Romania's post-Ceausescu economic development, & offers speculations on the country's future. W. Howard

49 market structures & consumer behavior

93Z7471

Hawks, Leona K. & Ackerman, Norleen M. (Dept Home Economics & Consumer Education Utah State U, Logan 84322-2910), Family Life Cycle Differences for Shopping Styles, Information Use, and Decision-Making, Lifestyles, 1990, 11, 2, summer, 199-219.

¶ Shopping styles, information use, & decision-making differences relative to purchase of a durable product are examined across the family lifecycle, using questionnaire data (N = 378 respondents). Factor analyses, analyses of variance, & cross-tabulations suggest that: (1) younger adults are brand conscious; (2) people in older life-cycle stages read more than people in younger life-cycle stages; & (3) single parents & younger adults make decisions by themselves, & younger families make decisions with their spouses. Reasons given for purchases indicate that single parents have never owned the product under consideration, older families are replacing worn-out products, & retirees want new product characteristics. 7 Tables, 40 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7472

Heath, Timothy B. (School Business U Pittsburgh, PA 15260-0001), The Reconciliation of Humanism and Positivism in the Practice of Consumer Research: A View from the Trenches, Journal of the Academy of Marketing Science, 1992, 20, 2, spring, 107-118.

¶ It is shown here that once terminological differences & methodological similarities are recognized, the differences between humanism & naturalism within consumer research are few. While arguments persist at the philosophical extremes, it appears that practicing researchers have achieved considerable reconciliation between the theories, methods, & philosophies of the two approaches. 2 Tables, 58 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7473

Ka, Chih-ming (Instit Ethnology Academia Sinica, Nanking Taipei 11529 Taiwan), Agrarian Development, Family Farms and Sugar Capital in Colonial Taiwan, 1895-1945, The Journal of Peasant Studies, 1991, 18, 2, Jan, 206-240.

¶ Based on analysis of official government statistics on size & production of sugar cane farms, described are the conservation & restructuring of Taiwanese family farms 1895-1945 in the course of capitalist & colonial incorporation. Initially, the interests of indigenous peasant producers & the Japanese colonial state converged, resulting in the survival of family farms. However, while family farms retained the formal appearance of autonomy, they were controlled by Japanese capital via monopolistic market prices, the influx of credit, large-scale investment, & imposed compulsory land-use schemes. 9 Tables, 4 Figures, 75 References Adapted from the source document.

93Z7474

Korzeniewicz, Miguel (Dept Sociology U New Mexico, Albuquerque 87131-1166 (e-mail: miguel@bootes.unm.edu)), Global Commodity Networks and the Leather Footwear Industry: Emerging Forms of Economic Organization in a Postmodern World, UM Sociological Perspectives, 1992, 35, 2, summer, 313-327.

¶ Global commodity networks (GCNs) are the transnational chains of economic enterprises involved at different stages in the production & consumption of a single commodity. The utility of examining GCNs as indicators of emerging forms of global economic organization is demonstrated via an investigation of the roles of Argentine leather production Brazilian shoe manufacturing, & US footwear consumption in shaping a leather-footwear GCN. Secondary statistical data reveal that both national & international variables are important in the construction & operation of this GCN. The domestic political economy of Argentina & Brazil are important in shaping their respective roles of leather sourcing & shoe manufacturing, while postmodern consumption patterns in the US are instrumental in driving the GCN. 3 Tables, 1 Figure, 34 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7475

O'Neill, Michael J. & Jasper, Cynthia R. (Interior Environments Program U Wisconsin, Madison 53706), An Evaluation of Models of Consumer Spatial Behavior Using the Environment-Behavior Paradigm, UM Environment and Behavior, 1992, 24, 4, July, 411-440.

¶ Several normative (group) & person-based (individual) models of consumer spatial behavior are reviewed & evaluated in the context of the environment-behavior paradigm. Focus is on four dimensions: (1) the degree to which the model incorporates the notion of the physical environment, (2) the degree to which the model addresses person-based (individual difference) variables, (3) the use of behavioral outcome measures, & (4) the relationships between these variables. Analysis reveals that many of the variables employed by the consumer models could be used in research to broaden models of spatial cognition & wayfinding; some directions are proposed. 1 Table, 12 Figures, 3 Appendixes, 66 References. Adapted from the source document.

0038-0202/93 $1.50

93Z7476

Paukert, Liba (International Labour Office, CH-1211 Geneva 22 Switzerland), The Economic Status of Women in the Transition to a Market System: The Case of Czechoslovakia, International Labour Review, 1991, 130, 5-6, 613-633.

¶ It is predicted that working women in Czechoslovakia, whose wages have long been essential to the family budget, are likely to be disproportionately hard hit by changes in the market system. Based on data from several national surveys (Ns not provided) & labor statistics, the trends & structure of employment & the role of women in the economy prior to 1989 are reviewed, describing their working conditions & male/female earnings differentials. Then, women workers' situation & attitudes toward labor market involvement since 1989 are analyzed. Some likely future developments are outlined, notably women's massive unemployment because of their vulnerable position in the labor market & a widening male/female earnings gap. 8 Tables, 1 Chart, 12 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7477

Pettit, Dean & Sheppard, Jerry Paul (c/o Sheppard–Simon Fraser U, Burnaby British Columbia V5A 1S6), It's Not Easy Being Green: The Limits of Green Consumerism in Light of the Logic of Collective Action, UM Queen's Quarterly, 1992, 99, 2, summer, 328-350.

¶ The logic of collective action is drawn on to examine environmental problems & to explore the limits of green consumerism as a solution to the world environmental crisis. Green consumerism is described, the costs & benefits of being a green consumer are discussed, & Mancur Olson's paradigm of collective action (The Logic of Collective Action: Public Goods and the Theory of Groups, Cambridge: Harvard U Press, 1965) is applied to the green movement. Also discussed are: sociological, psychological, & demographic reasons for attitude changes toward the environment; consumer environmentalism as collective action; an explanation for environmental apathy; & recommendations for the future of the green consumer movement. 1 Table, 28 References. W. Howard

93Z7478

Sheth, Jagdish N. (Business School Emory U, Atlanta GA 30322), Toward a Theory of Macromarketing, Revue Canadienne des Sciences de l'Administration/Canadian Journal of Administrative Sciences, 1992, 9, 2, June, 154-161.

¶ A theory of macromarketing is developed, based on the concept that the purpose of macromarketing is, or ought to be, the development & maintenance of a harmonious relationship between marketing & society. Such a relationship requires both goal & process convergence. Five determinants of goal convergence between marketing & society are discussed: shared vision, convergent policy, cultural unit, mutual education, & common cause. Five determinants of process convergence are also outlined: win-win value creation, networked organization, mutual interdependence, mutually accepted practices, & frontline information systems. As a bridge between marketing & society, macromarketing's goal should be both to research & practice both types of convergence. 3 Tables, 23 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7479

Sommer, Robert, Wynes, Marcia & Brinkley, Garland (Dept Environmental Design U California, Davis 95616), Social Facilitation Effects in Shopping Behavior, UM Environment and Behavior, 1992, 24, 3, May, 285-297.

¶ Observational data collected at 12 supermarkets & 5 discount stores in 5 northern Calif cities are used to compare time in the store & load size of solitary vs group shoppers. Consistent with social facilitation theory, groups spent more time in the store & purchased larger loads than did solitary individuals, even with shopping time controlled. Women & older people spent more time in the store & bought larger loads than did men & younger people. 2 Tables, 33 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7480

Toivonen, Timo (Turku School Economics, Rehtorinpellonkatu 3 SF-20500 Finland), Classes, Countries and Consumption between the World Wars: A Comparison of the Structure of Expenditure in Estonia, Finland and Sweden in the 1920s and 1930s, Acta Sociologica, 1992, 35, 3, 219-233.

¶ The comparative analysis of household consumption in three culturally & geographically similar countries–Estonia, Finland, & Sweden–is hindered by problems in the comparison of consumption structures, & of changes in consumption structures, & in determining whether differences among social classes are greater than those among countries. Analysis of secondary survey data collected 1913-1937 (total N = 126) reveal remarkable class differences in each country, though cross-national differences in consumption structures are even more pronounced. 3 Tables, 41 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7481

Ward, Clare & Dale, Angela (Social Statistics Research Unit City U London, EC1V 0HB England), Geographical Variation in Female Labour Force Participation: An Application of Multilevel Modelling, UM Regional Studies, 1992, 26, 3, 243-255.

¶ Data from the 1981 OPCS Longitudinal Study of 135,884 females (Fs) ages 16-59 in England & Wales are drawn on to examine the impact of geographical area on F employment status, investigating variations between full- & part-time working women across travel-to-work areas (TTWAs). Results indicate that stage of life course & ethnic group are important individual-level variables influencing F labor force participation. Variation across TTWAs persists even after controlling for these individual-level variables, though this variation can be considerably reduced by introducing area-level variables. 11 Tables, 1 Appendix, 34 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7482

----, Symposium: Firms and Markets, UM Contemporary Sociology, 1992, 21, 6, Nov, 741-768.

¶ A review symposium on twelve books offering an international perspective on organizational structures of firms & economic markets (see listings in IRPS No. 67). Essays are presented by: Albert O. Hirschman, Does the Market Keep Us Out of Mischief or Out of Happiness; John F. Padgett (U of Chicago, Ill), Learning from (and about) March; D. Eleanor Westney (Massachusetts Instit of Technology, Cambridge), Global Markets and Competition; Peter Hedström (Stockholm U, S-106191 Sweden), Is Organizational Ecology at an Impasse?; Andrew Abbott (U of Chicago, Ill) An Old Institutionalist Reads the New Institutionalism; Richard Swedberg (U of Stockholm, S-106191 Sweden), Will the Real Ronald Coase Please Stand Up?; Rosabeth Moss Kanter (Harvard Business School, Cambridge, Mass) & Barry A. Stein, New Models, but Where's the Process?; David Knoke (U of Minnesota, Minneapolis), The Power and the Glory; William G. Roy (U of California, Los Angeles), Money Talks ... to Whom?; Ruth Milkman (U of California, Los Angeles), Labor's Future in the Global Economy; & Ronald Dore (Massachusetts Instit of Technology, Cambridge), Social Relations and Social Contexts. 1 Table, 30 References. M. Maguire

70 capitalism/socialism-world systems

93Z7483

Allen, Mitchell (Archaeology Program U California, Los Angeles 90024), The Mechanisms of Underdevelopment: An Ancient Mesopotamian Example, Review, 1992, 15, 3, summer, 453-476.

¶ Similarities & differences between modern & other world systems are examined through microanalysis of the Assyrian trading colony at Kanesh within the broader world-system network of its time, around 1900 BC. Kanesh possessed a hidden structure of trade dominated by the Assyrian state & characterized by culturally embedded inequality in trade relations, which spanned a millenia. The trade structure was operationalized through Assyrian cooptation of elites, control of credit, & manipulation of currency. Examples from other parts of the Mesopotamian world system, & a comparison with the British informal empire, demonstrate that these same mechanisms have been operating to foster inequality for five millenia. 1 Table, 1 Map, 70 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7484

Bayer, Ivo (Frauenstr 16, D-4400 Munster Federal Republic Germany), Místo byrokracie ve společnostech sovětského typu a v jejich transformaci. První přiblížení k problému (The Role of Bureaucracy in Soviet Patterned Societies and in Their Transformation. The First Attempt at the Problem), Sociologický Časopis, 1992, 28, 5, 599-612. (CZE)

¶ A literature review shows that stratification models cannot adequately account for the origin, development, & function of bureaucracy in the former USSR. In countries failing to distinguish state from society or economy from politics, there are many possibilities for strategic action by the bureaucracy that do not exist in Western democracies. To some extent, the Soviet bureaucracy was shaped by the bureaucratic experience of Czarist Russia, which also lacked the notion of a civil society. After the Bolshevik revolution, bureaucracy was strengthened by the ambiguous policies toward the new economic policy, the rise of the Communist party apparatus, the availability of prerevolutionary specialists in executive positions, insufficient executive power in the villages, & the emergence of an underground economy. The highest-ranking party officials enjoyed enormous privileges, while lower-ranking members enjoyed power incommensurate with their ostensibly low income. Those with access to key goods & services formed the nouveau riche, deriving special income through bribery in an economy plagued by perpetual shortages. Instability resulted because the nouveau riche depended on the arbitrariness of the political elite while lacking the dynamism to accumulate productive capital. Since the movement away from communism in 1991, new possibilities have arisen to misuse power & strategic resources, leading to a dangerous political situation. 25 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7485

Bergesen, Albert (U Arizona, Tucson 85721), Communism's Collapse: A World-System Explanation, Journal of Political and Military Sociology, 1992, 20, 1, summer, 133-151.

¶ In the 1980s, both Latin America & Eastern Europe abandoned authoritarian military & one party regimes, making this zone more unstable than either the core or periphery. The 1980s are a period of world economic downturn–a B-Phase of a Kondratieff-like cycle–& while stronger core states act outward, planning for protective economic blocs to deal with the world downturn (eg, the European Community & the North American Free Trade Assoc), weaker, more compromised semiperipheral states are only capable of altering their domestic politics–eg, by a move toward democracy–in an effort to deal with their worsening economic condition. The periphery, weakest & most dependent, shows the least political activity. It is concluded that state policy is conditioned by world-system position: powerful core states band together; weaker semiperipheral states change regimes; & weakest peripheral states are stagnant & only sink into further immiseration. Existing socialist states are more semiperipheral than socialist, & act similar to their zonal compatriots in Latin America in the general move toward democracy. 27 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7486

Blanton, Richard E., Kowalewski, Stephen A. & Feinman, Gary M. (Purdue U, West Lafayette IN 47907), The Mesoamerican World-System, Review, 1992, 15, 3, summer, 419-426.

¶ Mesoamerica is discussed in terms of world-system spatial structures & cyclical change over time. Pre-Hispanic Mesoamerica was made up of several spatially discrete core regions, boundary zones between cores, & peripheries. The political & economic strategies employed in the core regions were characterized by intensification of core-zone agriculture, development of institutions of urban management linked to the state & its cults, emphasis on religious beliefs linking cosmological principles to agriculture & fertility, & manipulation of the peripheries & boundaries by the military & trade. Boundary strategies operated with a different social dynamic & involved networking, formation of alliances, the evolution of self-governing merchant enclaves, & general manipulation of interregional flows. 1 Figure, 29 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7487

Block, Fred (U California, Davis 95616), Capitalism without Class Power, Politics and Society, 1992, 20, 3, Sept, 277-303.

¶ It is considered whether existing institutions can be transformed so as to combine economic efficiency, social justice, & individual liberty. The exercise of class power by owners of wealth is identified as the key factor that blocks significant change, & three structural reforms that could significantly weaken that exercise of class power are suggested: (1) the restructuring of corporate ownership, so that stockholders elect only 35% of the firm's board of directors; (2) the creation of a network of quasi-public banks that would compete directly with private sector banks; & (3) the negotiation of international rules against the export of capital in violation of national restrictions. These three steps could increase economic efficiency while also greatly expanding the scope of democratic politics. 1 Table. AA

93Z7488

Böröcz, József (Dept Sociology U California, Irvine 92717), Dual Dependency and the Informalization of External Linkages: The Hungarian Case, Research in Social Movements, Conflicts and Change, 1992, 14, 189-209.

¶ In a conceptualization of major social change under &, eventually, away from semiperipheral state socialism, focusing on the transformation of Hungary's external linkages, it is argued that the position of state socialist East-Central Europe is captured by the concept of dual dependency. The relative balance between imperial & market-based components of dual dependency distinguish the three periods of state socialism. Changes in the structure of external linkages are fundamental elements of creating & maintaining various regimes of dependency. In the translation away from state socialism, Hungary's formal linkages are being refocused on core actors, while emerging informal linkages map out a more even sociogeographical distribution, including limited "horizontal" integration with other societies of the region. 24 References. AA

93Z7489

Brokl, Lubomír (Instit Sociology Czechoslovak Academy Sciences, CS-11000 Prague 1), Přchod československé společnosti od totalitarismu k politiké demokracii (The Transition of Czechoslovak Society from Totalitarianism to Political Democracy), Sociológia, 1991, 23, 5-6, 403-410. (CZE)

¶ Czechoslovakia's change from totalitarianism to political democracy can be seen as motion through a hypothetical continuum of various types of internal instrumentation of key functional imperatives of civil society. Latent factors of the social organism can be found entrenched under various strata of civilization. Rightist & leftist totalitarianism differ mainly in the legalization of given features & consequences due to a different concept of humanity. Leftists proclaim the natural goodness & perfection of humankind as being scarred by unfavorable social conditions, while rightists see humanity as weak & corrupt, without possibility of improvement. Despite opposite value systems, both rightist & leftist totalitarianism achieve the same ultimate destructive goals through the same means of repression. Democracy, in contrast, sees politics as a process of empirical trial & error, emphasizing freedom rather than equality. In Czechoslovakia, the trend toward egalitarianism began in the seventeenth century, when the nation was deprived of its native elite; later, capitalism developed with few native owners of major businesses. Communist rule under Soviet domination took advantage of this situation. Implications for the rebirth of civil society are discussed. 3 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7490

Buell, Frederick (Queens Coll, Flushing NY 11367), Conceptualizations of Contemporary Global Culture, Comparative Civilizations Review, 1992, 27, fall, 127-142.

¶ Those who deplore cultural homogenization contend that the world comprises numerous separate, bounded cultural units, which become part of the geopolitical reality through the structures of developing nations. A series of conceptualizations of the world, ie, world-systems theories, are presented, all of which indicate cultural homogenization is a fiction. Described are ideas of system-created differences; as the systems become more decentered the differences multiply. A single modern world system no longer exists, creating a need for people to master conceptualizations relevant to the present. It is concluded that cultural differences created by the world system must be added to different concepts of culture created by a complex growth of world systems. 27 References. G. Castañeda

93Z7491

Chase-Dunn, Christopher (Dept Sociology Johns Hopkins U, Baltimore MD 21218), The Comparative Study of World-Systems, Review, 1992, 15, 3, summer, 313-333.

¶ An introduction to a special journal issue reviewing the major debates among scholars from several disciplines who are comparing the modern world system with earlier world systems (see related abstracts in this section of SA 41:2). Considered are the problems of conceptualizing world systems, their spatial bounding, & understandings of systemic logic. 62 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7492

Chase-Dunn, Christopher (Dept Sociology Johns Hopkins U, Baltimore MD 21218), The Spiral of Capitalism and Socialism, Research in Social Movements, Conflicts and Change, 1992, 14, 165-187.

¶ The world-systems perspective is applied to the problem of the relationship between socialism & capitalism & to the developmental trajectories of the communist states. Socialist movements & organizations are seen as responses to exploitation in which workers, peasants, & nations try to protect themselves & to create more cooperative forms of interaction. Workers' coops, labor movements, socialist parties, & communist states succeeded to some extent in forcing capital to expand & to continue the revolution of technology. Capitalist expansion, international economic integration, & technological revolution have now reintegrated these socialist organizations into the capitalist division of labor. This explains the spiraling interaction between socialist movements & the expansion & deepening of capitalism & the reintegration of the communist states into the world market. 21 References. AA

93Z7493

Collins, Randall (Dept Sociology U California, Riverside 92521), The Geopolitical and Economic World-Systems of Kinship-Based and Agrarian-Coercive Societies, Review, 1992, 15, 3, summer, 373-388.

¶ Principles of the causes & effects of geopolitical & market dynamics are examined & applied to kinship-based & agrarian-coercive societies. Geopolitical principles discussed include: size & resource advantage; marchland advantage; showdown wars; overextension & disintegration; & internal political legitimacy following geopolitical success. Market dynamics principles explored include: the basis of market exchange in particular kinds of property; market variability in openness; structural expansion of markets & resulting economic & organizational growth; emergence of superordinate markets; & market tendency toward long-term crisis. Kinship rules, which arise in response to geopolitical conditions, help to organize societies, & are characterized by many of the dynamics of market systems. The marriage market tends toward increasing inequality between alliance-rich & alliance-poor kinship groups, & culminates in kinship revolution, which provides the impetus for the rise of state-organized societies & coercive agricultural production. 23 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7494

Collins, Randall & Waller, David (Dept Sociology U California, Riverside 92521), What Theories Predicted the State Breakdowns and Revolutions of the Soviet Bloc?, Research in Social Movements, Conflicts and Change, 1992, 14, 31-47.

¶ The breakdown of the Soviet bloc in the later 1980s ran contrary to the expectations of many theories, including geopolitical theories of arms races that played up the strength rather than the weakness of Soviet power, & those focused on the stability of the world system as a whole, rather than on state breakdown. A theory is described that was formulated in the early 1980s (Collins, Randall, "The Future Decline of the Russian Empire: An Application of Geopolitical Theory," a 1980 lecture later published in Weberian Sociological Theory, New York: Cambridge U Press, 1986), which noted that the Russian empire, which had been expanding for four centuries due to favorable conditions in all relevant geopolitical variables, by the mid-twentieth century had negative values on all these variables. On this basis, the geopolitical decline of Russian power was predicted. When connected to the Weberian model of state legitimacy, based on international power prestige, such models imply that revolutionary conditions emerge as the result of geopolitical crisis. Once the breakdown of military power began, the east European revolutions followed directly form Skocpolian & Weberian theories of revolution. 34 References. Modified AA

93Z7495

Ding, Xue-liang (Harvard U, Cambridge MA 02138), Political Appeals and Social Consequences: The Dilemmas of Legitimizing the Chinese Communist System in Transition, 1977-1989, * Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 5, Nov, 1672-A-1673-A.

Available from UMI, Ann Arbor, MI. Order No. DA9228185.

93Z7496

Fitzpatrick, John (Flinders U, Bedford Park South Australia 5042), The Middle Kingdom, the Middle Sea, and the Geographical Pivot of History, Review, 1992, 15, 3, summer, 477-521.

¶ The dynamics of military competition, state making, & economic development in premodern northeast Asia, particularly during the period 800-1400 AD, is examined. From 4000 BC to 1400 AD, China was not a unified empire, but an inherently problematic core area of a constantly expanding multipower or interstate system. During 800-1400 AD, southward economic & demographic expansion within agrarian China produced an embryonic, multistate, world economy. The Mongol conquest is discussed as the apotheosis of an arid zone interstate system whose inner logic worked toward the recurrent reconstitution of a unified world empire. 1 Table, 43 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7497

Friedman, Jonathan (Lund U, S-22100 Sweden), General Historical and Culturally Specific Properties of Global Systems, Review, 1992, 15, 3, summer, 335-372.

¶ A conceptual structure of social anthropology based on a global framework is discussed. Globalization is a form of consciousness arising in existing global systems & is not the same as the emergence of the global or world system. As used in contemporary discussions, it is a product of center (vs peripheral) intellectuals struggling for a distinctive understanding of culture, & is more related to Western self-identity than to objective social & cultural processes. Global processes, via their effect on the transformation of sociality, tend to produce parameters associated with modernity. This relationship allows consideration of modernity transhistorically & in relation to previously existing global systems. 3 Figures, 57 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7498

Galtung, Johan (Instit Peace U Hawaii Manoa, Honolulu 96822), Eastern Europe Fall 1989–What Happened, and Why? A Theory Sketch, Research in Social Movements, Conflicts and Change, 1992, 14, 75-97.

¶ The causes of the 1989 sociopolitical transformations in Eastern Europe are examined. The Cold war system was the logical result of the interaction of Stalinism & nuclearism. These two Cold war syndromes were defeated by a combination of structural & individual factors. Social movements in the East pressed for wider political expression & peace, & combined with a similar peace movement in the West to produce a context in which a leadership catalyst could produce fundamental change. Mikhal Gorbachev served as the catalyst for the sociopolitical transformations by suggesting new foreign policy & appealing for support not from his domestic constituency, but the international community. 24 References. D. Generoli

93Z7499

Gills, Barry K. & Frank, Andre Gunder (U Newcastle upon Tyne, NE1 7RU England), World System Cycles, Crises, and Hegemonial Shifts, 1700 BC to 1700 AD, Review, 1992, 15, 4, fall, 621-687.

¶ The relationships among economic cycles, crises of accumulation, & hegemonic shifts in the world system is explored. Capital accumulation is conceived as the motor force of the expansion & dynamic of the world system over several thousand years, rather than the conventional 500 years of world-system theory. A series of economic phases of about 200 years duration reaching back to at least 1700 BC are identified, as are a series of periodic general world system crises that include the simultaneous decline of interlinked hegemonies & the rise of new hegemons; an epilogue reviews recent empirical tests & evidence of their phase/cycle datings. 1 Table, 81 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7500

Gulbrandsen, Trygve, Aksjer til ansatte (Employee Share-Ownership in Norway), Tidsskrift for samfunnsforskning, 1992, 33, 2, 133-157. (NOR)

¶ Of companies listed on the Oslo (Norway) Stock Exchange, 50% implemented shared-ownership programs for their employees 1981-1988. Multivariate analyses by size & type of firm show that these issuances came mostly between 1984-1987 & mostly from high-technology companies. The issues appeared to reflect the strong market activity during that period, when the companies carried out ordinary issues with paid-in capital & bonus issues or changed their share capital owing to mergers. From a personnel policy standpoint, most employers operated shared-ownership programs to encourage the commitment of their employees to the company, although some did offer them as a bonus or alternative to wages. 3 Tables, 1 Appendix, 24 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7501

Heaven, Patrick C. L. (School Humanities & Social Sciences Charles Sturt U, Wagga Wagga New South Wales 2650 Australia), The Paradox of Socialism: Demographic Correlates of Social and Economic Beliefs, Journal of Social Psychology, 1992, 132, 3, June, 289-297.

¶ Questionnaire data collected from 273 Australians age 18+ measuring social & economic attitudes are used to investigate H. J. Eysenck's hypothesis of a paradox of socialism (see SA 26:2/78J0205). No support was found for the view that working-class respondents (Rs) would be economically radical & middle-class (MC) Rs, economically conservative. Some support was found for the hypothesis that MC Rs would endorse radical social beliefs. Findings are discussed in light of current economic conditions & with reference to previous work that has suggested that attitudes tend to be logically rather than inconsistently related. 1 Table, 25 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7502

Hollander, Paul (Dept Sociology U Massachusetts, Amherst 01003), The Mystery of the Transformation of Communist Systems, Research in Social Movements, Conflicts and Change, 1992, 14, 13-29.

¶ The inability of Western social scientists to predict the sociopolitical transformations in the former USSR & Eastern Europe is examined & concluded to stem from several factors: (1) difficulties in forecasting nonincremental change; (2) lack of information & data on communist societies & systems; (3) inadequate theoretical formulations of the high level of tenacity of totalitarian systems; & (4) analytical distortion caused by value-based assumptions. It is extremely difficult to develop a comprehensive model to explain the demise of all communist systems undergoing fundamental change during this time period. A case-by-case analysis emphasizing the changing attitudes of the political elite is needed. 34 References. D. Generoli

93Z7503

Hout, Wil (Dept Political Science Rijks U Leiden, NL-2300 RA Netherlands), Centres and Peripheries: An Assessment of the Contribution of Dependency and World System Theories to the Study of International Relations, Acta Politica, 1992, 27, 1, Jan, 71-92.

¶ A discussion of whether the dependency/world-system theory (DWST)–which offers a radically different perspective on such phenomena as international inequality & development–is progressive in explaining international relations. The DWST is compared with its main theoretical precursors & competitors, & it is concluded that the DWST solves some theoretical & empirical problems better than do either the traditional economic or the neo-Marxist theories of imperialism, the liberal free trade theory, the ECLA approach (ie, results of studies performed under the UN Commission for Latin America) & modernization theories. Nevertheless, the DWST contains some important anomalies. 53 References. Modified AA

93Z7504

Kennedy, Michael D. (Dept Sociology U Michigan, Ann Arbor 48109), The Alternative in Eastern Europe at Century's Start: Brzozowski and Machajski on Intellectuals and Socialism, Theory and Society, 1992, 21, 5, Oct, 735-753.

¶ The lives & writings of Stanislaw Brzozowski (1878-1911) & Jan Waclaw Machajski (1866-1926) are compared & examined in light of the recent East European revolutions. It is argued that familiarity with the work of these two Polish authors is crucial to understanding socialism, the relationship between intellectuals & other classes, & the relationship between class & nationality. Major themes of each theorist are discussed, & biographical information is provided. Focusing on the intelligentsia, Machajski argued for the necessity of the state, despite his intellectual debt to the Russian anarchist Mikhail Bakunin. More influential in English than Machajski, Brzozowski developed a philosophy of labor & preceded George Lukács in discovering philosophically Friedrich Engel's positivistic bias & difference from Karl Marx. Machajski's & Brzozowski's different readings of Marxism are discussed, as are their political engagements with socialism. It is concluded that Brzozowski's writings can be beneficial to the development of a sociology of Eastern Europe. W. Howard

93Z7505

Kolosi, Tamás & Róna-Tas, Ákos (Social Sciences Informatics Center, H-1027 Budapest Hungary), Poslední bude první? Sociální důsledky přechodu od socialismu k demokracii a trhu v Mad'arsku (The Last Shall Be First? The Social Consequences of the Transition from Socialism in Hungary), Sociologický Časopis, 1992, 28, 5, 579-597. (CZE)

¶ To investigate issues of income distribution after Hungary's change from communism to capitalism, questionnaire data were obtained from 2,000 adults in 1989 & in 1991. Additionally, a literature review provided insights on theories of transition out of socialism. Six key economic strategies of adapting to the market were identified: job promotion, part-time supplemental work, private employment, household farming, entrepreneurship/self-employment, & property rental. Strategies involving accumulated financial or human capital have generally been the most successful. These strategies tend to help people who already have some advantage move further up the ladder; the poorest people have no opportunity to improve their position, except to go to work in the expanding private sector. Thus, the overall affect in Eastern Europe will be to increase inequalities in society, while allowing the old elite to stay on top. Countries with a fuller range of economic experiences have a better chance to complete the transition to a market economy. 3 Tables, 18 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7506

Lapher, Mark (Dept Sociology U Virginia, Charlottesville 22903)

Power Restructuring in China and the Soviet Union, Theory and Society, 1992, 21, 5, Oct, 665-701.
Power restructuring processes set in motion from within are recurrent the history of the USSR & the People's Republic of China. Here, Max eber's concept of political process in patrimonial society is used to adnce a comparative view of power restructuring. During the Cultural evolution & in the late 1980s, Mao Tse-tung & Mikhail Gorbachev ught to revitalize the Chinese communist & Soviet systems by deconntrating power, suspending the political monopoly of the Communist rty, empowering nonprivileged groups, & mounting sociopolitical atcks on officialdom from above & below. Unintended outcomes result-, however: in China, the unleashing of processes of localism, economic centralization, & marketization culminated in the post-Mao reforms the 1980s; & in the USSR, an eruption of nationalism & localism culinated in the disintegration of the unitary Soviet state in 1991. AA

Z7507
McDermott, John, History in the Present: Contemporary Debates about Capitalism, UM Science and Society, 1992, 56, 3, fall, 291-323.
A challenge is raised to three contemporary theories about the place & ospects of workers in the US political economy. It is argued that the egulation school erroneously extends the Fordist era of corporate indusy past the 1920s. The work of Samuel Bowles, David M. Gordon, homas E. Weisskopf (eg, see After the Wasteland: A Democratic Ecomics for the Year 2000, Armonk, NY/London: M. E. Sharpe, 1990) scures the development since then of a class structure of accumulation e-sidedly weighted against a corporate working class still only in a pross of formation. Finally, Daniel Bell's postindustrial society (The Comg of the Post-Industrial Society, New York: Basic Books, 1973) obures the central role of service sector growth in the contemporary emerence of a majority corporate working class. These developments, paralled in the other advanced capitalist countries, have created a working lass that will soon, for the first time in its history, have the capacity to tervene decisively in the course of capitalist development. 34 Referces. Adapted from the source document.

3Z7508
Merry, Sally Engle (Wellesley Coll, MA 02181), Popular Justice and the Ideology of Social Transformation, Social & Legal Studies, 1992, 1, 2, June, 161-176.
A revised version of SA 38:6/90S23046/ISA/1990/6728. 1 Figure, 54 References.

3Z7509
Moseley, K. P., Caravel and Caravan: West Africa and the World-Economies, ca. 900-1900 AD, Review, 1992, 15, 3, summer, 523-555.
¶ Contact between West Africa & North Africa/Europe during the period 900-1900, as mediated by long distance trade, is examined. Precolonial West Africa was shaped by two systems of long-distance trade: an older trans-Saharan system, based in North Africa & the Mediterranean, & a more recent capitalist system, centered in Europe & the Atlantic. Both systems involved mercantilist elements, traffic in slaves, intensification of production, & formation of states, & had overlapping operations & similar effects. They did not fit the pattern of hierarchical integration associated with the capitalist world economy. Both systems were also loosely linked to the more global Eurasian network. Until the industrial revolution, the Islamic & European world economies remained competitive & distinct, & the systems in Africa maintained substantial autonomy 2 Tables, 101 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7510
Nesti, Arnaldo, Editoriale (Editorial), Religioni e Società, 1992, 7, 13, Jan-June, 3-8. (ITA)
¶ Recent events in Europe have changed the historical perspective, pointing out the inevitable march of progress. The collapse of socialist regimes in Eastern Europe suspended belief in the attainability of the best of all possible worlds. Religion can help the chaotic situation by providing an ethical element as well as a tranquilizing aesthetics for learning to live together in peace. New trends include: (1) ideological ferment; (2) pronounced differentiation between diverse symbolic structures & local cultures; (3) greater emphasis on ethnic identity; & (4) the influx of African & Asian immigrants into Europe. The reconstruction of European identity will to some extent involve the incorporation of moral & spiritual forces. M. Meeks

93Z7511
O'Brien, Patricia J. (Kansas State U, Manhattan 66506), The "World-System" of Cahokia within the Middle Mississippian Tradition, Review, 1992, 15, 3, summer, 389-417.
¶ The economy of the Cahokia Indians within the middle Mississippian tradition is analyzed as a world economy. Though the Cahokia economy was not capitalistic, it possessed characteristics of a world economy–core, periphery, & semiperiphery–each with different modes of labor & resources, & it dominated the Mississippian world & surrounding regions. The core market included manufactured prestige goods for a ruling elite, but mundane exchange of cherts (flint-like rocks), sandstones, & probably foodstuffs occurred also. Through a network of fortified towns, the core extracted copper from upper Mich, mica from the Carolinas area, & meat & hides from the Sioux City (Iowa) region, all part of its periphery. It also extracted tribute, most likely warriors &/or slaves, from these & other peripheral polities. 2 Figures, 122 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7512
Paoli, Maria Celia (Dept Sociology U São Paolo, 05508 Brazil), Citizenship, Inequalities, Democracy and Rights: The Making of a Public Space in Brazil, Social & Legal Studies, 1992, 1, 2, June, 143-159.
¶ An awareness of citizenship & rights has recently sprouted in everyday Brazilian society, broadening the public space for organized politics. The evidence for this awareness is the emergence of new forms of collective action among the working class in the 1980s. The effectiveness of rights as a concept is due to the society's historical legacy of colonial exploitation, extreme poverty, & violence, wherein public has meant "state paternalism." At this point, juridical intervention is needed to publicly connect theorizing about rights to action. The present juridical debate over construction of legal forms in this new public space centers on the relationship between capitalism, law, & democracy. In this debate, normative law in the face of capitalist inequality is criticized, & how citizens might submit to law is highlighted. 48 References. M. Pflum

93Z7513
Ross, Andrew (Princeton U, NJ 08544), Is Global Culture Warming Up?, Social Text, 1991, 28, 3-30.
¶ The emergence of a world culture concerned about environmental protection is investigated through an examination of climatological changes, & pro-environmental political action & governmental responses to it. The politics & theory of global warming are discussed, & the relationship between scientific discourse & popular culture is examined. Historical features of local & national weather culture that have served to maintain preglobal ideology until now are also discussed. It is shown that globalism is already a well-advanced ideology at the highest political & corporate levels, & that global warming might prove to be the issue on which the new global culture will be founded. W. Howard

93Z7514
Salazar C., Luis (Dept Sociología U Autónoma Metropolitana Azcapotzalco, 02000 Mexico DF), Marxismo, socialismo y revolución (reflexiones ante el derrumbe del "socialismo real") (Marxism, Socialism and Revolution (Reflections on the Failure of "Real Socialism")), Sociológica, 1991, 6, 15, Jan-Apr, 107-122. (SPA) ¶ Ideas on Marxism presented in 1986 (see Salazar C., Luis, "Marxismo y sociología" (Marxism and Sociology), Sociológica, 1986, 1, 1) are reconsidered in light of the collapse of true socialism in the late 1980s. The idea of political revolution is considered in the context of the historical transformation of the conception of Marxism, & several tentative hypotheses are proposed regarding its principal consequences. It is argued that a critical review of the philosophy of history is needed to support a theoretical & political redefinition of the socialist project. This would require the development of ethics of socialist responsibility & the use of Marxian critiques of capitalism to reveal concrete, practical measures for the formation of a just society. 32 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7515

Santos, Boaventura de Sousa (U Coímbra, P-3000 Portugal), State, Law and Community in the World System: An Introduction, Social & Legal Studies, 1992, 1, 2, June, 131-142.

¶ In an introduction to this special journal issue (see related abstracts in SA 41:2), legal pluralism & community justice are conceived of as part of the core debate in the sociology of law because they fulfill four metatheoretical conditions; ie, they are: broad in scope; have vague boundaries; allow for a macro-micro link & easy transition between empirical results & theory; & can open debate with other disciplines. Legal pluralism & community justice are also considered within the context of the world system to explore broader social, political, & historical processes that affect their meanings. 4 References. M. Pflum (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7516

Stojanov, Christo (U Saarbruecken, D-6600 Federal Republic Germany), The Post-Socialist Transformation: A Unique (Re-) Modernization?, Research in Social Movements, Conflicts and Change, 1992, 14, 211-235.

¶ It is maintained that the specific character of the dynamic of postsocialist transformation must be sought in its historically conditioned structural characteristics. The claim that state socialism represented "intentional modernization" is discussed, & aspects of system & social integration in state socialism are examined. Here, postsocialist transformation, particularly in Eastern & Central Europe, is viewed as a process of reflexive modernization, in which structural patterns of system & social integration compete for articulation. As a corrective knowledge of modernization, sociology's value issues from its ability to demystify the technocratic ideas of postsocialist transformation. It is argued that the degree of integration of sociology in the transformation process marks an important indicator for determining: the character of change taking place, whether transformation is proceeding as reflective modernization, & the extent to which transformation has included the transition from the imitation of foreign ideological role models to one of self-reference. 43 References. W. Howard (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7517

Touraine, Alain (Ecole hautes études sciences sociales, F-75006 Paris France), Zrod postkomunistických spoločností (The Rise of Post-Communist Societies), Sociológia, 1991, 23, 4, 301-318. (SLO)

¶ Totalitarian regimes suppress society as a whole as well as individual social actors. The rebirth of civil society after the collapse of communist regimes does not follow any historically inevitable pattern & is not automatic. There is no single or right way to revive civil society. The change to democracy should not be considered a revolution, but rather an antirevolution, ie, an appeal to individual & collective inner moral conviction, social consciousness, & human rights. The goal of personal freedom often conflicts with dangerous nationalist movements. In Poland, the transition to civil society was dominated by market actors, in Yugoslavia by nationalistic actors, & in Hungary by political actors. 3 Figures. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7518

Upham, Steadman, Feinman, Gary M. & Nicholas, Linda M. (Graduate School U Oregon, Eugene 97403), New Perspectives on the Southwest and Highland Mesoamerica: A Macroregional Approach, Review, 1992, 15, 3, summer, 427-451.

¶ The political economy of the late pre-Hispanic period in the US Southwest & Mesoamerica is examined through the use of a multiscale approach that considers & gives interpretive weight to macroregional relations. Though diffusionism & developmentalism have dominated ancient southwestern & Mesoamerican research, these systems are too mechanistic & devote too little attention to the organizational parameters & the content of the Southwest's world system. Macroregional analysis can utilize aspects of both approaches in explaining relations that fostered interdependencies in the Southwest & likely faciliated the transmission of high-value, low-volume, exotic goods. Such exchanges lessened the dominance of any single core of activity & lessened stability of structural relations to an extent not found in other macroregional systems. 87 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7519

Wallerstein, Immanuel (Fernand Braudel Center State U New York, Binghamton 13902-6000), The West, Capitalism, and the Modern World-System, Review, 1992, 15, 4, fall, 561-619.

¶ The links among the West, capitalism, & the modern world system are examined via analyses of the features that distinguish the capitalist modern system from preceding historical systems, & via an examination of how the capitalist world economy was historically constructed. Following a literature review of the different species of capitalism, it is shown that capitalism is distinguished from previous systems by its hyperbolic growth curves in production, population, & capital accumulation. Several historical systems that contained protocapitalist elements are discussed, & four feudalistic collapses that led to capitalism are identified: the collapse of the seigniors, the states, the church, & the Mongols. Speculations are offered on why capitalism developed only in the West. 66 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

0038-0202/93 $1.50

0800 mass phenomena
26 social movements

93Z7520
Bartholomew, Amy & Mayer, Margit (Carleton U, Ottawa Ontario K1S 5B6), Nomads of the Present:* Melucci's Contribution to 'New Social Movement' Theory, Theory, Culture & Society, 1992, 9, 4, Nov, 141-159.
¶ A review essay on a book by Alberto Melucci, Nomads of the Present: Social Movements and Individual Needs in Contemporary Society (Keane, John, & Mier, Paul [Eds], Philadelphia: Temple U Press, 1989 [see listing in IRPS No. 67]). This book offers sensitive empirical analyses of the contemporary youth, women's, peace, & ecology movements in Italy. Melucci's analysis draws on innovative concepts & frameworks to explain social movements. The explanatory power of Melucci's concepts & the efficiency of his constructivist approach are discussed. Attention is given to his formulation of collective action as socially constructed, composite action systems. A solid contribution to social movement theory, Melucci's analysis is criticized for its nonhierarchical conception of complex society & a tendency toward cultural reductionism. 30 References. W. Howard

93Z7521
Benton, Ted (U Essex, Wivenhoe Park Colchester CO4 3SQ England), Animals and Us: Relations or Ciphers?, History of the Human Sciences, 1992, 5, 2, May, 123-130.
¶ A review article on a book by Keith Tester, Animals and Society: The Humanity of Animal Rights (London: Routledge, 1991 [see listing in IRPS No. 67]). This work attempts to provide an explanation of animal rights as exemplified in the writings of Steven Clark, Peter Singer, & Tom Regan (references not provided). Tester also considers several approaches that are berated for their reductionism or naturalism, & explores the intellectual resources of the human social sciences. Two insightful chapters address opposed ideas of human relations to nature as they emerged & engaged with one another beginning in the mid-eighteenth century. However, Tester's noncommittal posture in relation to the substantive question of the moral status of animals is characterized as affected. It is argued that: Tester uses interpretive procedures in a dogmatic & unreflective way, his interpretive procedures are deeply problematic, & his view of animals implies a philosophical rejection, not just of animal rights, but of the very idea of animals as objects of moral concern in their own right. S. Millett

93Z7522
Brass, Tom (Faculty Social & Political Science U Cambridge, CB2 3RQ England), Moral Economists, Subalterns, New Social Movements, and the (Re-)Emergence of a (Post-)Modernised (Middle) Peasant, The Journal of Peasant Studies, 1991, 18, 2, Jan, 173-205.
¶ A study of how peasant movements in both India & Latin America have been reinterpreted, respectively, by the postmodern & politically revisionist project of the subaltern studies series, & by the new social movements theory. It is suggested that much of the conceptual analysis embodied in these frameworks is prefigured in the earlier "moral economy" approach, incorporating the middle peasant thesis (eg, see Wolf, Eric R., Peasant Wars of the Twentieth Century, London: Faber, 1971). It is argued that such frameworks implicitly provide Chayanovian neopopulist economic theory (Chayanov, A. V., The Theory of Peasant Economy, Homewood, Ill: American Economic Assoc, 1966) with its missing politico-ideological dimension. 116 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7523
Bush, Diane Mitsch (Dept Sociology Colorado State U, Fort Collins 80523), Women's Movements and State Policy Reform Aimed at Domestic Violence against Women: A Comparison of the Consequences of Movement Mobilization in the U.S. and India, Gender & Society, 1992, 6, 4, Dec, 587-608.
¶ A comparison of the social movement mobilization that led to reforms in police & judicial handling of battering in the US & the movement ideology, organization, & tactics that resulted in analogous policy reform in the processing of dowry burnings & beatings in India, using field notes & secondary sources from both countries. Focus is on: (1) how both movements redefined violence against women in families as a public issues; & (2) the impact of movement demands on policy reform in each country. It is suggested that institutionalization of women's movement demands & organization may have diminished the capacity of such movements to control the social construction of domestic violence against women by providing protection without empowerment. 86 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7524
Bush, Roderick Douglas (State U New York, Binghamton 13901), Social Movements among the Urban Poor: African-Americans in the Twentieth Century, * Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 6, Dec, 2117-A.
Available from UMI, Ann Arbor, MI. Order No. DA9231437.

93Z7525
Casier, Tom, De 'civil society' en de omwentelingen van 1989: Oost-Europastudies op zoek naar een nieuw paradigma (Civil Society and the Revolution's of 1989: The Study of Eastern European in Search of a New Paradigm), Acta Politica, 1992, 27, 2, Apr, 161-187. (GER)
¶ A literature review shows that the civil society paradigm emerged as the dominant model to explain the anticommunist revolutions in Central & Eastern Europe in 1989. It replaced former models (eg, totalitarian, group, & corporatist) shown to be insufficient in accounting for the serious dissatisfaction within these societies. A critique of the civil society paradigm reveals a lack of consensus, however. Definitions emphasize analytical, prescriptive, & tactical elements. Most such studies begin with the dissident opposition strategies of the 1970s & then describe three courses of events leading to an uprising by civil society: (1) the confrontational model of Poland; (2) the consensus model of Hungary; & (3) the attempt by the communist leadership to create a civil society in the USSR. The civil society paradigm suffers from ideological connotations & insufficient empirical data. The new civil societies are actually much weaker than they are portrayed. In summary, the shortcomings of the civil society model include: their focus on one cause of revolution, their vagueness, & a blurring of oppositional & academic discourse. 34 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7526
DeMartini, Joseph R. (Washington State U, Pullman 99164), Generational Relationships and Social Movement Participation, UM Sociological Inquiry, 1992, 62, 4, fall, 450-463.
¶ The lineage & cohort dimensions of generational relationships are examined, arguing that each suggests a very different type of relationship between social movement participants, their parents, & members of adult age cohorts. Following a clarification of these relationships & their consequences for lineage & cohort politics, five propositions for future research are outlined. 2 Figures, 43 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7527
Dickson, Barney (Thames Polytechnic, London SE18 6PF England), Groen Links' First Party Congress, Capitalism, Nature, Socialism, 1992, 3, 2(10), June, 5-9.
¶ The proceedings of the first Congress of the Groen Links (GL)–the Netherlands' new Green Left party, whose politics is left of the Social Democrats–are discussed, & a brief history of the party is given. Founded in 1990, the GL is the result of unification of the Evangelical People's party, the Radical Political party, the Pacifist Socialist party, & the Communist party. In 1991 these parties dissolved remaining elements of their old structures & collectively endorsed: the removal of all nuclear weapons & foreign troops from Dutch soil; the introduction of significant environmental legislation; a shorter working week; the decentralization & democratization of the state; & the empowerment of groups within civil society. Points of contention between the different factions who comprise the GL are discussed, & future directions of the party are suggested. W. Howard

93Z7528

Dunham, Charlotte Chorn & Bengtson, Vern L. (Dept Sociology Texas Tech U, Lubbock 79409-1012), The Long-Term Effects of Political Activism on Intergenerational Relations, UM Youth and Society, 1992, 24, 1, Sept, 31-51.

¶ Families in which young adult children were political activists in the 1960s were compared with nonactivist families for continuity in political & gender role attitudes, as well as in the quality of parent-child relationships. Longitudinal questionnaire data were obtained in 1971 & 1985 from 301 nonactivist parent-child dyads in 3-generation Calif families & 129 dyads who had participated in antiwar, civil rights, & student demonstrations. Activists showed continuity by remaining more liberal than their peers, even though overall, they became more moderate. Though activists had greater disagreement with their parents on political attitudes, these differences were only characteristic of intergenerational relations when children were young adults. In spite of greater disagreement, there were no differences in the quality of parent-child relationships for activist vs nonactivist families. 4 Tables, 4 Appendixes, 30 References. Modified AA

93Z7529

Finger, Matthias (International Academy Environment, Geneva Switzerland), The Changing Green Movement–A Clarification, Research in Social Movements, Conflicts and Change, 1992, supplement 2, 229-246.

¶ Reflections are offered on the evolution & future of the Green movement, focusing on conservation organizations, political ecology movements, global environmental actors, grass-roots groups, & nongovernmental organizations (NGOs). Here, it is shown that the movement emerged amid the intense social activism of the 1960s, gained momentum in the 1970s, declined as a political force during the new Cold war (1979-1985), & has since reemerged as a political player. Also discussed is the Green movement in the southern hemisphere, focusing the role of NGOs there. It is concluded that the Green movement has been & currently is evolving differently in the North & the South. 43 References. W. Howard

93Z7530

Foster, John Bellamy (U Oregon, Eugene 97403), Britain's Green Budget, Capitalism, Nature, Socialism, 1992, 3, 2(10), June, 9-17.

¶ Evaluated is the Green party's proposal for reform of the UK budget, which advocates replacing economic growth indicators with a variety of criteria aimed at the calculation of broader social & environmental gains & losses. The budget also endorses: reducing the formal work sector & expanding the informal sector of nonpaid work for home & community; building an ecologically sustainable economy through environmental taxation & recycling of half the revenues in the "supply side"; attacking the culture of poverty with increases in child benefits & the basic tax allowance; & economic decentralization. The budget is criticized for: neglecting the problem of inequality across classes, misunderstanding the political-economic crisis of capitalism, & not taking into account the effect of its general tax strategy on the capital accumulation process. The budget proves the unworkable nature of a classless approach to ecological economics. W. Howard

93Z7531

Fox, Jonathan & Hernández, Luis (Massachusetts Instit Technology, Cambridge 02139), Mexico's Difficult Democracy: Grassroots Movements, NGOs, and Local Government, Alternatives, 1992, 17, 2, spring, 165-208.

¶ An analysis of Mexico's uneven process of democratization, focusing on the interaction between local governments, grass-roots movements, & nongovernmental organizations (NGOs). Autonomous social movements have increasingly turned from nonpartisan, contestational protest, to policy advocacy, broader civic mobilization, & electoral participation. Linkages between social movements & intellectuals in NGOs & government reform agencies have varied greatly, shaping their approaches to protest & policy in issue areas, eg, housing, women's rights, the environment, human rights, & rural development. In contrast to much of South America, Mexican NGOs & opposition political parties have followed social movements in the democratization process. Together, however, they constitute important counterweights to centralized state power in some regions & in certain policy areas. AA

93Z7532

Fuoss, Kirk W. & Hill, Randall T. (Dept Speech & Theatre Arts Saint Lawrence U, Canton NY 13617), A Performance-Centered Approach for Teaching a Course in Social Movements, UM Communication Education, 1992, 41, 1, Jan, 77-88.

¶ It is suggested that undergraduate courses in social movements can benefit from a performance-centered approach rather than the traditional strictly rhetorical focus. Supported by current trends toward performance in the social sciences, & by methodological considerations, the object of study is defined by Victor Turner's notion of "social performance" (Anthropology of Performance, New York: Performing Arts Journal Publication, 1986), while methods include unscripted, scripted, & scripting performance assignments. A suggested course syllabus lists objectives & reference/resource materials. 70 References. J. Sadler

93Z7533

Gerhards, Jürgen & Rucht, Dieter (Wissenschaftszentrum Berlin für Sozialforschung gGmbH, Reichpietschufer 50 D-1000 Federal Republic Germany), Mesomobilization: Organizing and Framing in Two Protest Campaigns in West Germany, UM American Journal of Sociology, 1992, 98, 3, Nov, 555-595.

¶ Mesomobilization is conceptualized as a specification to the current literature on mobilization processes. Mesomobilization actors have two functions: (1) they provide the structural basis for mobilization by coordinating micromobilization groups & collecting resources needed for action; & (2) they then seek to achieve cultural integration of the different groups by means of a master frame that interprets the triggering event in a way conducive to mobilization. Two empirical cases–the mobilization against US President Ronald Reagan's visit to Berlin in 1987, & that against the annual meeting of the International Monetary Fund & the World Bank in Berlin in 1988–are presented to develop hypotheses that indicate what structural & cultural factors are important to successful mobilization. 2 Tables, 3 Figures, 2 Appendixes, 42 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7534

Goldstein, Karl, The Green Movement in Brazil, Research in Social Movements, Conflicts and Change, 1992, supplement 2, 119-193.

¶ The Green movement in Brazil emerged in the 1970s in response to growing Western consciousness of environmental issues, Western accusations of Brazilian environmental degradation, & repression by an authoritarian military regime, which allowed no other outlet for socially conscious organization & tolerated environmental protest because it did not criticize the regime or raise distributive issues. The environmental movement soon splintered & became a vehicle to resolve other than environmental issues. Internal divisions over the relationship of environmental issues to democracy & distribution issues have weakened the power of the environmental movement & retarded its accomplishments. The future of the Brazilian Green movement lies in the development of support for environmental issues in other social movements. 39 References. D Generoli

93Z7535

Gorman, Phyllis (Ohio State U, Columbus 43210), The Ohio AIDS Movement: Competition and Cooperation between Grassroots Activists and Professionally Sponsored Organizations, * Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 5, Nov, 1673-A.

Available from UMI, Ann Arbor, MI. Order No. DA9227274.

93Z7536

Hall, Melvin Foster (U Notre Dame, IN 46556), Organized to Act: Poor People's Social Movement Organizations and Collective Action, * Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 6, Dec, 2125-A-2126-A.

Available from UMI, Ann Arbor, MI. Order No. DA9230039.

93Z7537

Hase, Toshio, The Green Movement in Japan, Research in Social Movements, Conflicts and Change, 1992, supplement 2, 217-227.

¶ Issues energizing the Japanese environmental movement & the impact of the movement on government policy & the public are examined through case study analysis of both local & national compaigns. Local campaigns in Kyoto discussed include: (1) Omi Park Project; (2) movement against the Kamogawa Dam Project; & (3) association against Daimonjiyama golf course. National-level movements discussed include: (A) alliance against the construction of New Tokyo International Airport; (B) Minamata disease patient movements; & (C) Shiraho Airport case. The Japanese environmental movement is characterized as highly polarized, relatively detached from political parties, & propelled by the actions of independent citizens rather than a Green party or organization. 11 References. D. Generoli

93Z7538

James, Nicky & Field, David (Medical School U Nottingham, NG7 2UH England), The Routinization of Hospice: Charisma and Bureaucratization, Social Science and Medicine, 1992, 34, 12, June, 1363-1375.

¶ Between 1965 & 1991, the number of hospices in GB grew to 430+ actively seeking to transform terminal care. More recently, hospices have become increasingly subject to mainstream influence. Max Weber's concept of charisma is used to examine the development of the hospice movement during this period of expansion. It is suggested that a number of factors have led to the routinization of hospice care, including the ways in which it was sponsored & developed at the local level, & pressures toward bureaucratization & professionalization. Links with recent developments in the health services are noted, & it is questioned whether the hospice movement can sustain its founding ideals. 1 Appendix, 73 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7539

Johnson, David K. & Johnson, Kathleen R. (Dept Academic Foundations Rutgers U, New Brunswick NJ 08903), Humans Must Be So Lucky: Moral Prejudice, Speciesism, and Animal Liberation, Capitalism, Nature, Socialism, 1992, 3, 2(10), June, 83-109. Introduction, 79-82, Comments, 109-120, Reply, 120-127.

¶ In Prolegomena to a Debate, Ted Benton (U of Essex, Wivenhoe Park, Colcester CO4 3SQ England) situates each contribution & discusses Tom Regan's "indirect duty" view (see The Case for Animal Rights, Berkeley: U of California Press, 1983), which argues that our treatment of animals is a matter of moral concern, but only in so far as that treatment affects humans. Two other themes are identified: one concerns the discourse of "rights"; the other focuses on human/animal equality & links animal liberation with human emancipatory struggles. Johnson & Johnson support the indirect duty view & link denial of the inherent value of nonhuman animals to the parallel denial of autonomous moral value of human individuals imposed by modern capitalist regimes. In Critical Discussion: (1) Andrew Rowan (Tufts U, Medford, Mass) argues that the decline of behaviorism & the development of cognitive ethology have played a major role in stimulating public interest in animals, & that those who speak on behalf of animals are motivated by sentiment rather than logic; (2) Anatole Anton (San Francisco State U, Calif) argues that Johnson & Johnson are not arguing for the rights of animals so much as for the rights of those animals that most resemble human beings, & relates the animal rights movement to the development of liberal democracy; (3) Richard Lichtman (Wright Instit, Berkeley, Calif) rejects the claim that animals & humans are inherently valuable members of the moral community because they are all biographical beings, but agrees that, at some level, animals have rights; & (4) Steven Rose (Open U, Milton Keynes MK7 6AA Buckinghamshire, England) maintains that there can be no equation of animal & human rights, since animals are not capable of claiming rights on their own behalf. In Reply to Critics, Johnson & Johnson defend their extension of human rights to animals. W. Howard

93Z7540

Meyer, David S. & Marullo, Sam (Dept Urban & Environmental Policy Tufts U, Medford MA 02155), Grassroots Mobilization and International Politics: Peace Protest and the End of the Cold War, Research in Social Movements, Conflicts and Change, 1992, 14, 99-140.

¶ A revised version of SA 39:6/91S25292/ASA/1991/6651. 3 Figures, 206 References.

93Z7541

Meyer, David S. & Marullo, Sam (Dept Urban & Environmental Policy Tufts U, Medford MA 02155), International Change from Below: Activism and the End of the Cold War, Sociological Practice Review, 1992, 3, 4, Oct, 189-202.

¶ The routes through which grass-roots peace activists & independent human rights campaigners in the US & Western Europe influence international change are examined. A theoretical model identifies three potential routes for grass-roots-based international change: direct & indirect policy from within the state, direct influence on foreign governments, & indirect influence on foreign governments through allied movements. The influence of Western peace movements on government policies, arms control issues, & international security strategies is discussed. It is argued that in the Eastern bloc, activists exercised political influence by building autonomous social networks that eroded the political authority of their governments. The analysis establishes the importance of political context on social movement strategy. 1 Figure, 89 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7542

Mitchell, Anne, AIDS Activism: Women and AIDS Activism in Victoria, Australia, Feminist Review, 1992, 41, summer, 52-57.

¶ The concerns of a relatively small, marginalized number of HIV (human immunodeficiency virus)-positive women in Australia are seen as contributing to a lack of feminist AIDS (acquired immune deficiency syndrome) activism there. Conflict between two women's groups over the approach to advocacy for infected women is discussed, along with the impact of gay male activism, the neglect of women's health issues in general, & the scapegoating of female sex workers by police in Victoria, Australia, under the guise of AIDS prevention. C. Mariani

93Z7543

Model, Paul, The 1965 Watts Rebellion: The Self-Definition of a Community, UM Radical America, 1990, 24, 2, Apr-June, 75-88.

¶ Mechanisms of social safety & action taken during the 1965 Watts riots in Los Angeles, Calif, are examined. Participants in the Watts riots, without leadership or outside instruction, developed modes of action to bring some order to the public disturbance, affirm the ties between them, & reject their everyday living conditions. Three such mechanisms are discussed: (1) identification of community members & communication between rioters through slogans, hand gestures, & passwords; (2) development of practices relating to the redefinition of ownership of property & the destruction of property; & (3) the development of practices of joint action & the perpetuation & self-direction of the riot. D. Generoli

93Z7544

Murphy, John M. (Miami U, Oxford OH 45056), Domesticating Dissent: The Kennedys and the Freedom Rides, UM Communication Monographs, 1992, 59, 1, Mar, 61-78.

¶ Articulating the Gramscian concept of hegemony within a discourse of social control, the symbolic strategies of authority reactions to mitigate radical actions by agitators within social movements are explored. The civil rights activist organization, Congress of Racial Equality, sponsored the 1961 Freedom Rides, which tested enforcement & compliance with interstate restaurant & bus station desegregation mandated by the US Supreme Court. This case illustrates how social control can be effective by preserving order in a volatile situation, & upholding the rights of the activists. Four major hegemonic strategies emerged from an analysis of the Kennedy administration's statements & consistent media coverage. Riders were named first as innocent players, later as irresponsible instigators. The Freedom Rides were contextualized first as civil rights activism, then as subversive procommunism. The legal sanction that originally protected riders later equated them with mob reactions. Finally, attention was diverted from the "counterproductivity" of the rides in a push for voter registration. 95 References. Adapted from the source document.

0038-0202/93 $1.50

93Z7545

Pelletier, Denis (Centre national recherche scientifique, F-75700 Paris France), De l'utopie communautaire au tiers-mondisme catholique: le Père Lebret et Economie et Humanisme (1941-1966) (From Community Utopia to the Catholic Third-World Movement: Father Lebret and Economie et Humanisme [1941-1966]), Cahiers de Sociologie Economique et Culturelle, Ethnopsychologie, 1992, 17, June, 133-148. (FRE)

¶ Economie et Humanisme, the economics & humanism movement founded in France in 1941 by Dominican Father Louis Lebret (1897-1966), was an expression of community utopia, & initially involved leaders in German-occupied France (1940/41), then expanded after WWII to include all kinds of workers' movements. In the next phase, Lebret was joined by proponents of the Third World movement. After his work was finally recognized by the Roman Catholic church, Lebret became an expert at the Vatican II council. The union of sructuralist, radical trends in development economy & Christian philosophy has produced a dynamic harmonized development agenda, as elaborated in numerous Catholic outposts in Lebanon, Africa, & Latin America. The economics & humanism movement fought for a new international economic order within a utopian community of nations & urged the rich nations to defend the traditional communitarian structures of Third World nations. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7546

Petras, James & Davenport, Christian (c/o Davenport–Dept Political Science U Houston, Texas 77204-3474), Prestigious Publications and Public Relevance: Vietnam War and Black Protest in the ASR and APSR, UM Crime, Law and Social Change, 1992, 17, 2, Mar, 107-121.

¶ A content analysis of articles appearing 1951-1979 in the American Political Science Review & the American Sociological Review on the Vietnam war (total N = 6) & the black uprisings of the 1960s (total N = 12) demonstrates that these preeminent social science journals failed to analyze the conflicts prior to, during, or after their emergence. At a general level, this finding suggests that critical reflection of the dominant theoretical paradigms of social science did not take place. On a more specific level, it is argued that the fundamental problem was the bankruptcy of the 1950s paradigm for the 1960s & the incapacity of the more influential journals to identify, address, & overcome this intellectual limitation. 5 Tables. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7547

Quadagno, Jill (Dept Sociology Florida State U, Tallahassee 32306), Social Movements and State Transformation: Labor Unions and Racial Conflict in the War on Poverty, UM American Sociological Review, 1992, 57, 5, Oct, 616-634.

¶ A revised version of SA 39:6/91S25379/ASA/1991/6738. 102 References. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7548

Saignes, Thierry (Centre national recherche scientifique, F-75700 Paris France), Le Temple du soleil (The Temple of the Sun), L'Homme, 1992, 32, 2-4(122-124), Apr-Dec, 377-384. (FRE)

¶ A review essay on a book by Manuel Burga, Nacimiento de una utopía. Muerte y resurrección de los Incas ([The Birth of a Utopia. Death and Resurrection of the Incas] Lima: Instit de Apoya agrario, 1988 [see listing in IRPS No. 67]). Drawing on French historic anthropology, Peruvian historian Burga contends that the Andean culture, however altered by contact with colonization, survives today. Here, Burga's inaccessible, fluid, utopic, & collective hope of reconstructing an indigenous world without the West is critiqued. His so-called Indian society does not fit the resistance, (clandestine) survival, reactive kernel theory, because it disregards the originality of a mestizo creation. Evidence is cited from Andean folklore, behavior of the caciques, & historical accounts. 17 References. J. Sadler (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7549

Shishkin, Vladimir I. (Siberian Division Russian Academy Sciences, Leninsky Prospekt 14 117901 Moscow V-71), The October Revolution and Perestroika: A Critical Analysis of Recent Soviet Historiography, European History Quarterly, 1992, 22, 4, Oct, 517-540.
Translated from Russian by Alan Wood.

¶ The historical treatment of Russia's October revolution (OR) of 1917 during perestroika is examined. Perestroika was introduced to renew & strenghen the socialist movement, to continue the work of the OR, but instead, it led to the collapse of communism & forced reconsideration of the role of the OR in Russian history. Russian historians, however, yoked to the governing political institutions, did not keep pace with the rapidly unfolding democratic reform process & continued to cite the importance of the work of V. I. Lenin & the ideals of socialism. Only recent conceptual breakthroughs clarifying scientific knowledge, nonscientific knowledge, & scientific nonknowledge have begun to lead to a scientific redefinition of the importance of the OR to Russian history. D. Generoli (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7550

Shiva, Vandana, The Green Movement in Asia, Research in Social Movements, Conflicts and Change, 1992, supplement 2, 195-215.

¶ Unlike Europe & the US, where the Green movement was a middle-class phenomenon & relied on scientific findings to support their goals, the Green movement in Asia emerged from the peasant & lower classes & their relationship with nature. The Asian Green movement is rooted in lessons learned from the forest, eg, diversity, renewability, & sustainability, & evidence of the nonsustainability of current scientific management of forest land. Environmental struggles in Asia are discussed, including forest struggles in Malaysia, Kalimantan, & the Garwhal Himalaya, Asia river & anti-dam movements, & deforestation in Ganga catchment & floods in the Ganga Basin. 21 References. D. Generoli (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7551

Slaton, Christa Daryl (Dept Political Science/Public Administration/Criminal Justice Georgia Southern U, Statesboro 30460), The Failure of the United States Greens to Root in Fertile Soil, Research in Social Movements, Conflicts and Change, 1992, supplement 2, 83-117.

¶ The development of the Green movement, which advocates a holistic politics that emphasizes the interconnectedness of means & ends as well as a corollary between how humans treat each other & how they treat the planet, is placed in its historical context, noting theoretical & political developments that have created a favorable environment for the growth of the Greens. Focus is on the organization of the Greens from the local to the national levels & the internal dynamics of a movement that is rife with conflict even though it envisions itself as an organization that unites many different proponents for change. Some of the major divisions within the US Greens are explored & the growth of factions is analyzed. Tensions between men & women in the Green movement, which result in a high degree of turnover among female leaders & high dropout rates among female members, are also discussed. The analysis is based on case studies of local, regional, & national meetings of Greens, supplemented by the membership records & financial statements of the national office. It is concluded that the failure of the Greens to expand beyond a very narrow base & to retain active members is largely due to their inability to adhere to their own values & to a frequent tendency among Greens worldwide to destroy each other as they strive to save the world. 47 References. Modified AA (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7552

Smith, Jackie & Pagnucco, Ronald (U Notre Dame, IN 46556), Political Process and the 1989 Chinese Student Movement, Studies in Conflict and Terrorism, 1992, 15, 3, July-Sept, 169-184.

¶ Doug McAdam's political process model (Political Process and the Development of Black Insurgency, 1930-1970, Chicago: U of Chicago Press, 1982) is applied cross-culturally in an analysis of the 1989 Chinese student movement in Beijing. McAdam's three main variables–the structure of political opportunities, indigenous organizational strength, & cognitive liberation processes–are located in the Chinese context, drawing primarily on data from the Foreign Broadcast Information Service's daily reports, Apr-June 1989. Though some modifications of the model are required, its central elements remain useful in explaining the emergence, development, & basic outcomes of this social movement. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7553

So, Alvin Y. & Hua, Shiping (Dept Sociology U Hawaii Manoa, Honolulu 96822), Democracy as an Antisystemic Movement in Taiwan,

Hong Kong, and China: A World Systems Analysis, IM Sociological Perspectives, 1992, 35, 2, summer, 385-404.

¶ Immanual Wallerstein's description of the character & trends in antisystemic movements in the world system ("Antisystemic Movements: History and Dilemmas," in Amin, Samir, et al [Eds] Transformating the Revolution, New York: Monthly Review, 1990) is extended in a case study examination of the origins, goals, constituents, & outcomes of democratic movements during the 1980s in Taiwan, Hong Kong, & the People's Republic of China. Analysis supports Wallerstein's depiction of a lengthy historical sweep of social movements attempting to achieve central antisystemic goals, & also his supposition that the world system helps shape antisystemic movements. Results are less congruent with Wallerstein's depiction of the character of antisystemic movements in the Second & Third World. Generalizations regarding the causes of these movements, & their success or failure, are developed. It is recommended that future research attempt to integrate these generalizations into existing theories of social movements & democratization within a world-systems context. 32 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7554

Stambouli, Jacques, France's Alternative Rouge et Verte, Capitalism, Nature, Socialism, 1992, 3, 2(10), June, 1-5.

¶ The Alternative Rouge et Verte (AREV) movement in France articulates a social & political agenda that draws on social movements of consumers (ie, movements outside of production, the Greens [verte]) & on the worker's movement (the Reds [rouge]). Because the state does not offer an open social space for the elaboration of new social & ecological ideas, the invention of a new type of democracy is advocated by AREV based on: freedom of information; popular participation in politics; the recognition of a plurality of social movements; proportional representation; direct elections with recall; & self-management where the people themselves identify problems & formulate solutions to them. AREV also advocates: a minimum social income for all adults; the right to shelter, education, & social security; an immediate reduction of the work week to thirty-five hours, without a reduction of wages; & a policy of sustained development that protects the environment. AREV's progressiveness derives from its synthesis & elaboration of red & green aims & in its rejection of capitalist & bureaucratic productivism. W. Howard

93Z7555

Stoecker, Randy & Beckwith, David (U Toledo, OH 43606-3390), Advancing Toledo's Neighborhood Movement through Participatory Action Research: Integrating Activist and Academic Approaches, Clinical Sociology Review, 1992, 10, 198-213.

¶ A revised version of SA 38:6/90S24456/ASA/1990/6154. 23 References.

93Z7556

Stone, Walter J., Atkeson, Lonna Rae & Rapoport, Ronald B. (U Colorado, Boulder 80309), Turning On or Turning Off? Mobilization and Demobilization Effects of Participation in Presidential Nomination Campaigns, IM American Journal of Political Science, 1992, 36, 3, Aug, 665-691.

¶ Previous research on divisive primaries has suggested that presidential primaries undermine a party's chances in the fall campaign. The literature on the "carryover effect" finds that supporters of nomination-round losers are less likely to support their party's nominee than are those who backed the winner. Here, it is argued that this literature has underestimated the mobilization effects resulting from nomination campaigns. Mail questionnaire data from caucus attenders in Iowa, Mich, & Va, in 1984 & 1988, provides evidence of a mobilizing effect of participation in nomination campaigns. The evidence for mobilizing effects is much stronger than for demobilization; ie, activity for a nomination contender–even when the activity is in support of a candidate who loses the nomination bid–increases the level of participation for the party's ticket in the fall campaign. Ways that these findings can be reconciled with the literature are suggested, & it is concluded that an appreciation of these positive effects can motivate a reassessment of the contemporary nomination process. 4 Tables, 2 Figures, 1 Appendix, 29 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7557

Tuohey, John & Ma, Terence P. (Dept Theology Catholic U America, Washington DC 20064), Fifteen Years after "Animal Liberation": Has the Animal Rights Movement Achieved Philosophical Legitimacy?, The Journal of Medical Humanities, 1992, 13, 2, summer, 79-89.

¶ In Animal Liberation: A New Ethics for Our Treatment of Animals (second edition, New York: New York Review, 1990 [1966]), Peter Singer proposed to end "the tyranny of humans over nonhuman animals," addressing how people do, & ought to, treat animals. A critical analysis shows that the logic he presents, though popularly appealing, is philosophically flawed. Though influential in slowing, & in some cases stopping, biomedical research involving animals, the animal rights movement in the US has yet to offer a clear & compelling argument for the equality of species. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7558

Valenzuela, J. Samuel (Dept Sociology U Notre Dame, IN 46556), El movimiento obrero en la transicion hacia la democracia: un marco conceptual para su analisis (Labor Movements in Transitions to Democracy: A Framework for Analysis), Desarrollo Económico, 1990, 30, 119, Oct-Dec, 299-332. (SPA)

Translated by Leandro Wolfson.

¶ (A revised version of an English-language paper originally published in Comparative Politics, 1989, 21, 4, 445-472.) A general framework to analyze the relationships between labor movements & redemocratizations is presented. This relationship has two components: the influence of labor movements on the overall process of political change, & the effect of the latter on the internal reorganization of the labor movements themselves. Although virtually all labor movements respond to situations of breakdown of authoritarian regimes & possible transitions to democracy by increasing their mobilization in strikes & demonstrations & by restructuring their organizations & links to parties, there is considerable variation in the degree to which these changes occur, & in their ultimate political & internal organizational effects. After discussing the relationship between labor & redemocratizations in general terms, a series of dimensions to help account for the variations is presented. AA

93Z7559

Van der Heijden, Hein-Anton, Koopmans, Ruud & Giugni, Marco G. (Dept Political Science U Amsterdam, NL-1012 WX Netherlands), The West European Environmental Movement, Research in Social Movements, Conflicts and Change, 1992, supplement 2, 1-40.

¶ The development of the environmental movement in Western Europe from about 1970 onward is traced, with attention to issues, political-ideological contexts, discourses, strategies, & goals. Also considered is its relationship to national governments, & to what extent it was successful. The most important organizations within the West European environmental movement are identified as traditional conservation associations, national branches of Friends of the Earth, Greenpeace, national umbrella associations, & the World Wildlife Fund for Nature. Despite certain similarities, the country-specific trajectories of development are determined to a large extent by country-specific political preconditions, ie, political opportunity structure. It is assumed that general preconditions, eg, ecological problems & cultural change, did not directly impact the emergence & development of the movement, but did so indirectly, as mediated & modified by changes in political opportunities. This proposition is elaborated & tested in a comparison of the environmental movement in four countries (France, Germany, the Netherlands, & Switzerland), using data gathered via analysis of newspaper reports on environmental actions 1975-1989. Prospects of the environmental movement in a unified Western Europe are considered. 6 Tables, 4 Figures, 62 References. Modified AA

93Z7560

Wilson, John F. (Princeton U, NJ 08544), Religious Movements in the United States, IM The Journal of Interdisciplinary History, 1992, 23, 2, autumn, 301-307.

¶ A review essay on books by: Ralph E. Luker, The Social Gospel in Black & White: American Racial Reform, 1885-1912 (Chapel Hill, U of North Carolina Press, 1991); Russell E. Richey, Early American Methodism (Bloomington: Indiana U Press, 1991); & William Vance Trollinger, Jr. God's Empire: William Bell Riley and Midwestern Fundamentalism (Madison: U of Wisconsin Press, 1990 [see listings in IRPS No. 67]). These books discuss religious movements in US history, respectively: racial dimensions of the Social Gospel, early American Methodism, & midwestern Fundamentalism. Comparing & contrasting these subjects & the respective presentations of them leads to more general observation, including: (1) the importance for historians of refining a construct they use (ie, "movement"), perhaps best done through making use of social science literature; (2) the critical necessity of reflecting on the use of religion as defining of a movement; & (3) the temptation, & attendant hazards, of allowing religion to seem to be a wholly independent variable when explicating & analyzing a movement. AA (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7561

Wolfson, Ze'ev & Butenko, Vladimir (Faculty Social Sciences Hebrew U Jerusalem, Mount Scopus IL-91905 Israel), The Green Movement in the USSR and Eastern Europe, Research in Social Movements, Conflicts and Change, 1992, supplement 2, 41-82.
Translated by Michael Tovbin.

¶ Though the USSR & Eastern Europe comprised a single political & economic system until the late 1980s, a single unified Green movement never evolved. Green movements in each Eastern European nation took on the social & political characteristics of the local region. Green movements began in Eastern Europe & the European USSR as early as 1981 with activism in Poland & then spread eastward. Degree of pollution & environmental degradation was less important to the development of Green movements than political & social factors. A country-by-country description of the emergence of green movements in this region is presented. 36 References. D. Generoli (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7562

Zamora Arreola, Antonio (U Pedagógica Nacional, Bogotá Colombia), Aproximaciones para el estudio de la acción social. De los reduccionismos objetivistas y subjetivistas a propuestas globalizadoras (Approximations for the Study of Social Action. From Subjective and Objective Reductionism to Globalizing Proposals), Sociológica, 1990, 5, 14, Sept-Dec, 13-33. (SPA)

¶ An exploration of how social action is visualized in objective & subjective approaches to social system theories, critiquing the polarization & antagonism generated by the dichotomy between micro & macro perspectives. Marxist, Toquevillian, Mertonian, & Weberian objective approaches are summarized, as are microsociological approaches, eg, those of Raymond Boudon & Alfred Schütz, among others. Attempts to globalize these approaches, eg, ethnomethodology, are also examined. Methodological & theoretical suggestions are made for a tridimensional approach to research that incorporates: subjects in their singularity & their vertical & horizontal relationships; the social context, with its spatial & temporal boundries; & the institutional-structural context. 37 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

27 public opinion

93Z7563

Ahlström, Salme & Österberg, Esa, Alkoholipoliittisen mielipideilmaston muutokset 1980-luvulla (Changes in Political Opinion on Alcohol Policy in the 1980s), Alkoholipolitiikka, 1990, 55, 6, 266-276. (FIN)

¶ The changing public opinion of Finnish citizens regarding Finland's policy of the sale of alcohol is examined. ALKO, the state-owned Finnish alcohol company, has in previous years been the sole retail entity permitted to sell beer, wine, & spirits. This strict policy was later modified to allow grocery stores to sell medium-strength beer; wine may soon also be included. Gallup poll results from 1989/90 surveys (N = 1,040 & 523, ages 15+, respectively) concerning Finns' attitudes toward various aspects of their country's alcohol policy are discussed. It is concluded that people's opinions in this area have become more liberal in the last few decades: the majority of respondents are in favor of wine & medium-strength beer–but not strong beer–being sold in grocery stores. 5 Tables, 3 Figures, 10 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7564

Beniger, James R. (Annenberg School Communication U Southern California, Los Angeles 90089), The Impact of Polling on Public Opinion: Reconciling Foucault, Habermas, and Bourdieu, International Journal of Public Opinion Research, 1992, 4, 3, autumn, 204-219.

¶ Various social & behavioral changes brought about by the development of public opinion (PO) polling are explored, drawing on three specific pieces of scholarship by Pierre Bourdieu, Jürgen Habermas, & Michel Foucault. Several types of change are identified, including changes in: what is thought to constitute PO; what might alter PO when it is taken to be a dependent variable; the effects PO might have as an independent or causal variable; how individual citizens think or behave because PO polls exist & findings are regularly disseminated by the mass media. 19 References. S. Millett (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7565

Bonifazi, Corrado (Instit Ricerche Popolazione, Rome Italy), Italian Attitudes and Opinions towards Foreign Migrants and Migration Policies, Studi Emigrazione/Etudes Migrations, 1992, 29, 105, Mar, 21-42.

¶ Official survey data obtained 1987-1991 are used to analyze Italian attitudes toward immigration. Findings suggest that Italians generally overestimated the number of foreigners, due to the emphasis on immigration in the mass media. Italians felt that there were "too many foreigners" & that immigrants brought "mainly disadvantages." These attitudes increased in intensity between 1987 & 1989 & remained high thereafter. The data also indicate an increasing desire over time for restricive policies toward immigration. Multiple correspondence analysis applied to results of the 1987 survey reveals six typologies of attitudes toward immigrants & migration policies, ranging from receptive & open-minded (33% of the sample) to hostile & narrow-minded (13%). The positions of political parties & the media that contribute to these attitudinal trends are examined. 11 Tables, 34 References. M. Pflum (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7566

Grose, Peter, Science, Foreign Policy, and the News Media, (M Technology in Society, 1992, 14, 1, 55-61.

¶ The Executive Editor of Foreign Affairs argues that, in pursuit of their own responsibilities to interest & inform their publics, the news media play a critical role–for good or ill–in drawing unfamiliar considerations of science & technology into the realm of public policy making. Though journalists have primary responsibillty for clarity & accuracy in their presentations, scientific & technical specialists have a prior responsibility to make themselves understood–to each other & to those who describe their work. Statements of ostensible fact must be considered tentative & subject to correction; standards of "proof" have to be relaxed to accommodate the moving targets of ongoing research; & responsible journalism must continually assess the downside as well as the upside of any research program, lest governments & the public eventually find themselves deceived. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7567

Herbst, Susan (Depts Communication Studies & Political Science Northwestern U, Evanston IL 60208), Surveys in the Public Sphere: Applying Bourdieu's Critique of Opinion Polls, International Journal of Public Opinion Research, 1992, 4, 3, autumn, 220-229.

¶ Pierre Bourdieu's critique of public opinion (PO) surveys ("Public Opinion Does Not Exist," in Mallelart, A. & Siegelaub, S. [Eds], Communication and Class Struggle, New York: International General, 1979) is applied to a recent US political phenomenon–the Clarence Thomas Supreme Court nomination hearings of 1991. Examples of newspaper opinion polls are used to argue that journalists reified PO in this case. It is concluded that PO researchers must study & understand Bourdieu's arguments if they are to understand the social construction of PO. 16 References. Modified AA (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7568

Makkai, Toni & McAllister, Ian (Research School Social Sciences Australian National U, Canberra ACT 2600), Measuring Social Indicators in Opinion Surveys: A Method to Improve Accuracy on Sensitive Questions, Social Indicators Research, 1992, 27, 2, Sept, 169-186.

¶ As an alternative to mail & telephone surveys, a sealed booklet method designed to maximize respondent accuracy on sensitive issues was examined through survey of 1,823 Australian youth ages 14-19 on personal drug use & attitudes toward drugs. Respondents completed the survey using both a sealed booklet in the presence of an interviewer & a standard face-to-face interview method. As indicated by the greater admission of drug use, the sealed booklet method was found to produce more accurate estimates of behavior compared to direct questions. This method is found to offer greater anonymity while not limiting the range of questions investigated. 3 Tables, 21 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7569

Matera, Frances R. & Salwen, Michael B. (c/o Salwen–School Communication U Miami, Coral Gables FL 33124-2030), Support for Radio Marti among Miami's Cubans and Non-Cubans, International Journal of Intercultural Relations, 1992, 16, 2, spring, 135-144.

¶ Data obtained in a 1989 telephone survey (N = 496 respondents) examining public support for Radio Marti (Voice of America broadcast service aimed at Cuba) in the Miami, Fla, area were used in a cross-cultural test of people's willingness to publicly express their opinions about controversial issues. The study was grounded in the "spiral-of-silence" theory (Noelle-Neumann, E., The Spiral of Silence: Public Opinion-Our Social Skin, Chicago: U of Chicago Press, 1984), which asserts that public expression of opinion is a function of perceived majority opinion, shaped by the news media. Factor & regression analyses indicate that, regardless of ethnicity, the best predictors of willingness to publicly express one's opinion are personal opinion & perceptions of other people in the community & nation. News media support for Radio Marti did not directly influence respondents' willingness to express their opinions, but was a significant predictor when treated as an interaction effect with ethnicity. 3 Tables, 34 References. Adapted from the source document (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7570

Mookherjee, Harsha N. (Dept Sociology Tennessee Technological U, Cookeville 38505), Perceptions of Well-Being by Metropolitan and Nonmetropolitan Populations in the United States, Journal of Social Psychology, 1992, 132, 4, Aug, 513-524.

¶ A comparison of salient sociological variables associated with the general public's perception of well-being with various aspects of life in metropolitan & nonmetropolitan areas in the US, based on data on a pooled sample of 2,529 adults ages 18-89 drawn from the General Social Surveys of 1978 & 1988 of the National Opinion Research Center. Demographic variables, eg, gender, age, race, marital status, education, financial status, & location of residence, were considered independent variables, a composite score of subjective well-being was treated as the dependent variable. Although results of regression analysis reveal no significant differences in perceptions of well-being between metropolitan & nonmetropolitan dwellers, financial status, marital status, & education, followed by race & age, appeared to be important predictive factors. Gender & residence at age 16 were the only predictive factors of life satisfaction. 3 Tables, 64 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7571

Mutz, Diana C. (School Journalism & Mass Communication U Wisconsin, Madison 53706), Impersonal Influence: Effects of Representations of Public Opinion on Political Attitudes, Political Behavior, 1992, 14, 2, June, 89-122.

¶ Political scientists are interested in "impersonal influence," ie, influence that derives from individuals' perceptions of the attitudes, beliefs, or experiences of "others"–not close friends & acquaintances, but anonymous persons outside an individual's realm of personal contacts. Modern mass media facilitate the influence of anonymous others by devoting considerable time & attention to trends in mass opinion. Here, the rationale for theories of impersonal influence & its psychological underpinnings are explored experimentally within a survey design (N = 1,128 respondents nationally & a sample of 105 undergraduates in Madison, Wisc). 5 Tables, 1 Figure, 2 Appendixes, 105 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7572

Peer, Limor (Dept Communication Studies Northwestern U, Evanston IL 60208), The Practice of Opinion Polling as a Disciplinary Mechanism: A Foucauldian Perspective, International Journal of Public Opinion Research, 1992, 4, 3, autumn, 230-242.

¶ In a critique of public opinion (PO) polls, some of the assumptions & problems associated with survey research & democratic theory are explored, concluding that "no-opinion" responses are a problem. Michel Foucault's understanding of power & modern social institutions is applied to the practice of PO polling to show that polls work as a disciplinary mechanism that creates a modern public that has opinions, & that the consequences of this process include the exercise of power, surveillance, & control. 37 References. AA (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7573

Wittebrood, Karin (Twente U Technology, NL-7500 AE Enschede Netherlands), Het politieke-kennisniveau van de Nederlandse burger (The Level of Political Knowledge of the Dutch Citizen), Acta Politica, 1992, 27, 2, Apr, 135-159. (DUT)

¶ Political scientists often see differences among citizens in the level of their political knowledge as an explanatory variable of their political behavior. To determine whether political interest is a motivating factor in obtaining political knowledge via the media, questionnaire data obtained in 1975 from 1,977 respondents ages 16-74 in the Netherlands were analyzed. It was expected that a high level of political knowledge would lead to a better perception of political advantage & profit. Surprisingly, the results showed that political knowledge was obtained from other channels besides the media, & that the perception of political advantage & profit did not account for the level of knowledge. The way in which the concept of political knowledge is measured deserves closer scrutiny by political scientists. 4 Tables, 4 Figures, 25 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7574

Zaller, John & Feldman, Stanley (U California, Los Angeles 90024), A Simple Theory of the Survey Response: Answering Questions versus Revealing Preferences, UM American Journal of Political Science, 1992, 36, 3, Aug, 579-616.

¶ Two major types of "artifactual" variance plaguing opinion research are identified: huge amounts of over-time response instability & the tendency for seemingly trivial changes in questionnaire form to affect the expression of attitudes. Here, a simple model is developed that converts this anomalous error variance into sources of substantive insight into the nature of public opinion. The model abandons the conventional but implausible notion that most respondents (Rs) possess opinions at the level of specificity of typical survey items–& instead assumes that most Rs are internally conflicted over most political issues, & respond to survey questions on the basis of whatever ideas are at the top of their heads at the moment of answering. The model is supported in an application to data from the 1987 National Election Study (N = 817 Rs). 9 Tables, 1 Appendix, 68 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

0038-0202/93 $1.50

28 communication

93Z7575

Armstrong, G. Blake, Neuendorf, Kimberly A. & Brentar, James E. (Dept Communication Arts U Wisconsin, Madison 53706), TV Entertainment, News, and Racial Perceptions of College Students, UM Journal of Communication, 1992, 42, 3, summer, 153-176.

¶ Survey data collected in 1980/81 & 1985/86 from white midwestern university students (N = 196 for each study) are used to assess the relationships of media news, drama, & sports exposure, & direct interracial contact to beliefs about the relative socioeconomic outcomes & contributions of black & white Americans. Different types of media content were related differently to beliefs about the socioeconomic standing of black Americans. Greater exposure to TV entertainment was associated with beliefs that black Americans enjoy a relatively higher socioeconomic position with respect to average income, social class, & educational achievement. In contrast, higher exposure to TV news was associated with perceptions that, in comparison with whites, black Americans are relatively worse off socioeconomically. Media effects were stronger in 1985/86 & among respondents from backgrounds affording little or no opportunity for direct interracial contact. 2 Tables, 59 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7576

Barbrook, Richard (Centre Communication & Information Studies Polytechnic Central London, W1R 8AL England), Broadcasting and National Identity in Ireland, Media Culture & Society, 1992, 14, 2, Apr, 203-227.

¶ During the struggle for Irish independence from England, two forms of separatism emerged: secular republicanism & Catholic nationalism. Trying to prevent the importation of pagan ideas into Ireland, the Catholic hierarchy curtailed freedom of communication by making sure everything was within the limitations of church teachings. During the last thirty years, the cultural nationalist version of public service broadcasting has slowly been abandoned. Because of European integration, the protection of national culture has ceased to be a major aim of the broadcasting policies of the Southern Irish state. Although no major party advocates a return to cultural protectionalism, there is no agreement on the future development of Irish broadcasting among the conservative & social democratic parties in southern Ireland. It is concluded that freedom of communication has replaced the struggle for national cultural identity, & the rights of Irish citizens will take precedence over the creation of a nation state. 67 References. G. Castañeda

93Z7577

Belschan, Alex, Pfade auf Neuraths Pfaden. Ein Projekt des Oesterreichischen Gesellschafts- und Wirtschaftsmuseums und der Oesterreichischen Nationalbank (Paths Leading to the Paths of Neurath. A Project of the Austrian Museum for Society and Economics and the Austrian National Bank), Österreichische Zeitschrift für Soziologie, 1992, 17, 3, 82-86. (GER)

¶ Otto Neurath's Gesammelte bildpädagogische Schriften ((Collected Pedagogical Writings) Haller, R., & Kinross, R. (Eds), Vienna, 1991) shows that as early as 1925 he advocated the establishment of a special social & economic museum where visitors could learn the fundamentals of these disciplines simply by viewing display panels. Such a museum was founded during the postwar reconstruction of 1948. In 1986, a new exhibit was opened entitled "The Economic Learning Path," consisting of a sequence of 100 panels designed to help students make the connection between social & economic structures. Emphasis throughout the exhibit is on the visual transmission of information by the use of commonly understood icons & with the aid of photographs, film, TV, videos, & print media. The exhibit relies on getting its message across through high impact electronic presentations & interaction with computers. 4 References. M. Meeks

93Z7578

Bendix, John & Bendix, Regina (School Social Sciences Instit Advanced Studies, Princeton NJ 08540), Politics and Gender in Humor and Satire: The Cases of Elisabeth Kopp and Geraldine Ferraro, Schweizerische Zeitschrift für Soziologie/Revue Suisse de sociologie, 1992, 18, 2, 441-460.

¶ A body of material not commonly studied in the assessment of women politicians–jokes, satire, & cartoons–is examined to understand the unquantifiable cultural concerns & fears that the general public has about women in positions of power. The caes of Geraldine Ferraro (US) & Elisabeth Kopp (Switzerland) are given particular attention because their careers & education represent the new path that a younger generation of political women have taken, & because both of them experienced failure in achieving or maintaining high national office. These women more closely resemble their male counterparts than women have in the past, & the humor about them provides a measure of where society has arrived in formulating gender boundaries. It is argued that in the political humor applied to women, traditional gender roles as well as women's sexual attributes figure prominently, with the assessment of women's potential political competence taking a very subordinate role; eg, in the Ferraro & Kopp cases, their spouses' questionable financial activities were focused on. Also included are reflections on the gulf between the support for abstract principles & the personal unwillingness of individuals to act in accordance with such principles. Making the personal political, as some women politicians have done, carries the risk that the political gets very personal, with the scrutiny of women having a disproportionate effect. It is concluded that the modernization of ideas about giving women a place as decisionmakers is proceeding rather slowly, & that the cultural implementation of the changing gender domains–which humor traditionally reflects–remains lacking. 50 References. Modified AA

93Z7579

Bostrom, Robert & Donohew, Lewis (U Kentucky, Lexington 40506), The Case for Empiricism: Clarifying Fundamental Issues in Communication Theory, UM Communication Monographs, 1992, 59, 2, June, 109-129.

¶ Recent modifications of empiricism used by communication researchers incorporate a deductive-nomological model for corroboration or falsification, & a rejection of apodictic knowledge. Yet, these trends are rejected, unfairly & illogically, by action theories, or interpretivists. It is suggested that they perceive difficulties in empiricism, citing its preoccupation with discovering invariant, universal laws, & that they confuse different levels of logical analysis (objectivization of observation procedures vs broad explanatory theory). Support for the interpretive approaches through criticism of empiricism for unsound logic, overobjectivity, or lack of generality does not resolve its own serious conceptual & methodological problems, or offer an acceptable alternative to empiricism, especially considering that there are many unknowns in communication processes & effects that cannot be adequately explained by hermeneutics. 88 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7580

Burgess, Guy, Telecommunications, Information Storage and Retrieval, and Peace and Change Research, Peace & Change, 1992, 17, 4, Oct, 458-477.

¶ Described are the potential wonders of rapidly advancing technologies of telecommunications & information storage/retrieval. These technologies are making it possible (& affordable) to integrate the worldwide network of peace & change scholars into a single "virtual institute" conducting collaborative work across geographic boundaries. Scholars can also have almost immediate access to any information. Much of what is needed to make these potential wonders a reality is already being put in place by computer hardware & software developers, university departments of computing & network services, & a small core of scholars who are learning to exploit these new technologies. It is contended, however, that computer technology will not significantly advance the field of peace research until a large fraction of scholars take an active role in (1) adapting available technologies to their specific needs, (2) contributing their knowledge in computer-accessible form to the field, & (3) using the information to improve the quality of their work. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7581

Cook, Deborah (Dept Philosophy U Windsor, Ontario N9B 3P4),

Ruses de Guerre: Baudrillard and Fiske on Media Reception, Journal for the Theory of Social Behaviour, 1992, 22, 2, June, 227-238.

The dichotomy between pessimistic & optimistic accounts of the effects of mass culture on consumer behavior & consciousness is explored. In the pessimistic account, ie, critical theory, consumers offer no resistance to media manipulation & are controlled by the media. On the optimistic side, Jean Baudrillard (Simulacres et simulation [Images and Simulation], Paris: Gallimard, 1981) & John Fiske (Understanding Popular Culture, Boston: Unwin Hyman, 1989) use critical theory as a foil, & attempt to show that consumers of mass culture resist being dominated by the media. Baudrillard gives the masses credit for an active or devious resistance & a "strategy of silence." Per Fiske, the cultural needs of people oppose controlled consumption. However, these optimistic accounts reference only a potential political dimension, not the political dimension that real resistance to media control should contain. In view of this dialectic between pessimistic & optimistic accounts, & because neither account is entirely palatable, consumers are left with a duplicity of response to the media. Such a condition requires a new paradigm for understanding media reception. M. Pflum

93Z7582

Cornfield, Michael B. (Dept Rhetoric & Communication Studies U Virginia, Charlottesville 22903), The Press and Political Controversy: The Case for Narrative Analysis, Political Communication, 1992, 9, 1, Jan-Mar, 47-59.

A new method for press criticism is introduced–narrative analysis (NA)–that that relies on concepts drawn from nondeconstructionist literary criticism to investigate the political power of the media. NA attempts to specify the range of compositional options available to journalists covering a particular topic & the conventional meanings associated with each option. A case study is presented of profiles of politician James A. Baker, III, showing how journalists affiliate their news stories with six genres of US political journalism: celebrity, contest, image, passage, investigation, & crusade stories. Classifying new stories by genre shows that media portrayals of authority figures are not as uniformly supportive or adversarial as, respectively, left-liberal & neoconservative theorists of media power have contended. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7583

Crouch, C. (U Ulster, Coleraine Londonderry BT52 1SA Northern Ireland), The Emergence of Soap: Primary Schoolchildren's TV Preferences in Northern Ireland, England and Australia, Research in Education, 1991, 46, Nov, 73-83.

¶ Children's TV preferences in Northern Ireland, England, & Australia are examined via analysis of nearly 4,000 scripts collected from students ages 7+ at randomly selected primary schools. Direct reasons for liking certain programs included: plot, character, acting, humor, setting/scenery, nationality, & emotional effect. Gender differences in program preferences are noted at different ages. Reactions to a soap opera broadcast in all 3 countries are presented, & it is argued that the soap opera format may have a positive impact on the development of children's critical thinking skills & general intelligence. 5 Tables, 7 References. G. Castañeda

93Z7584

Cunningham, Stuart (Queensland U Technology, Brisbane 4001 Australia), TV Violence: The Challenge of Public Policy for Cultural Studies, Cultural Studies, 1992, 6, 1, Jan, 97-115.

¶ Using the question of TV violence as a central focus, the possibility of opening the cultural studies agenda to the framing influence of public policy processes is explored. The issues are discussed with respect to a major policy development concerning violence in Australia, reflected particularly in the 1988-1990 Australian Broadcasting Tribunal Violence on Television Inquiry. Dominant paradigms of research into media violence & perspectives developed within cultural studies are examined to assess their effects on policy. Implications of a public policy process that might influence cultural studies agendas in a more dynamic & responsive fashion are explored. 37 References. S. Millett

93Z7585

Davis, Howard & Levy, Carl (Eliot Coll U Kent, Canterbury CT2 7NZ England), The Regulation and Deregulation of Television: A British/West European Comparison, Economy and Society, 1992, 21, 4, Nov, 453-482.

¶ Although all Western European TV systems were affected by the information revolution & neoliberal political economy in the 1980s, in many respects the British experience was unique. In particular, the evolution of a mixed public/private system over forty years & the unique position of the British Broadcasting Corp as a source of skilled labor & as a cultural benchmark for the entire industry, placed it in a stronger position than other public service systems to meet the new challenges to its hegemony. A review of the history of the 1990 Broadcasting Act suggests that the British TV industry has the tenacity of well-established social structures & policy-making behavior. The European dimension of broadcasting policy & regulation is discussed in terms of European Community Directives & support for high definition TV. It is contended that the aim of protecting European industry & culture is not dissimilar from the ambitions of national regulation at an earlier stage. 43 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7586

Gross, Lynne Schafer (Communications Division Pepperdine U, Malibu CA 90263), Parent-Child TV Interaction: Comparing Dutch and American Findings, Journal of Broadcasting & Electronic Media, 1992, 36, 3, summer, 363-364.

¶ Reasons for contradictions between the findings of T. H. A. van der Voort's, P. Nikken's, & J. E. van Lil's "Determinants of Parental Guidance of Children's Television Viewing: A Dutch Replication Study" (Journal of Broadcasting & Electronic Media, 1992, 36, 61-74) & those of Lynne Gross's & R. P. Walsh's "Factors Affecting Parental Control over Children's Television Viewing: A Pilot Study" (Journal of Broadcasting, 1980, 24, 411-419) are discussed. While a strong relationship is found between the number of TV sets in the home & parental guidance over children's TV viewing, the studies examined dissimilar cultural situations & have significant methodological differences relating to objects of interview & types of guidance examined. Also, the data may reflect an increase in total number of TV sets owned. 5 References. J. Sadler

93Z7587

Hamilton, Neal F. & Rubin, Alan M. (c/o Rubin–Communication Research Center Kent State U, OH 44242), The Influence of Religiosity on Television Viewing, UM Journalism Quarterly, 1992, 69, 3, autumn, 667-678.

¶ Questionnaire data are used to compare the TV viewing motives, attitudes, & behaviors of 346 religious conservatives, moderates, & liberals in Ohio in 1987. Analyses of covariance & partial correlations suggest that, compared with nonconservatives, conservatives are less motivated to watch TV because of sexual appeal of characters, watch fewer programs with sexual content, & feel TV is not that important in their lives. 2 Tables. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7588

Hardt, Hanno (Dept Journalism/Mass Communication U Iowa, Iowa City 52242), Social Uses of Radio in Germany: An American Perspective, 1924-30, Journal of Communication Inquiry, 1992, 16, 2, summer, 7-20.

¶ The beginning of radio in Germany is traced through a review of articles about German radio published 1924-1930 in The New York Times. What emerges is a culture-specific view of the introduction of a new communication technology as an outsider's consideration of an emerging social & political institution. 30 References. AA

93Z7589

Hong, Nathaniel (School Communication U Washington, Seattle 98195), Constructing the Anarchist Beast in American Periodical Literature, 1880-1903, Critical Studies in Mass Communication, 1992, 9, 1, Mar, 110-130.

¶ In the US, the first Red scare was directed at anarchism in the late-nineteenth century. A content analysis was conducted of 105 articles published by mainstream magazines, 1880-1903, to analyze this campaign in terms of writers' treatment of the movement & its adherents. By being fashioned into a condensation symbol that evoked a moral, genetic,

0038-0202/93 $1.50

& cultural threat, anarchism's ideas & political orientation became socially unimaginable. 62 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7590

Lent, John A., How Appropriate Is Mass Communication Research in the Third World?, Studies in Third World Societies, 1991, 45, Oct, 45-69.

¶ The appropriateness of Western-originated social science methods & theories to Third World mass communication research is examined. Generalized research models are criticized, & the difficulties of comparative research are noted. Described & censored are Third World incidental studies & data collection done without the cooperation of local organizations. The effectiveness of qualitative vs quantitative methods is discussed, & examples of problematic sampling & research techniques from previous Third World studies are presented. Some suggestions from the Policy Workshop on Communication Research convened in The Hague, Netherlands, in 1980, are presented to guide future research. 63 References. I. Shagrir

93Z7591

Liebes, Tamar (Dept Communication & Journalism Hebrew U Jerusalem, Mount Scopus Israel), Our War/Their War: Comparing the Intifadeh and the Gulf War on U.S. and Israeli Television, Critical Studies in Mass Communication, 1992, 9, 1, Mar, 44-55.

¶ Content analysis of TV news coverage in the US & Israel of the Palestinian intifadeh & the 1990 Gulf war reveals conflicts between journalistic ideals of balance, objectivity, & neutrality & the journalists' extraprofessional role of citizen. US & Israeli coverage is compared, & widely different framing mechanisms are identified in terms of discussing "our" vs "their" war. When a journalist's own country is at war: the opposite side is excised, suffering is sanitized, each side is attributed equal military strength, the journalist's side is personalized, the enemy's side is demonized, & aggressive actions are decontextualized. 16 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7592

Liebes, Tamar (Dept Communication & Journalism Hebrew U Jerusalem, Mount Scopus IL-91905 Israel), Television, Parents, and the Political Socialization of Children, UM Teachers College Record, 1992, 94, 1, fall, 73-86.

¶ On the basis that 75+% of Israelis regularly watch the main evening news show, it is argued that TV news plays a decisive role in the political socialization of Israeli adolescents. Patterns of family interaction derived from questionnaire responses (N = 600 pairs of parents & children; 400 Jewish & 200 Arab) demonstrate the power of TV to socialize. Findings also establish a relationship between family culture & attitudes about freedom of the press & about use of mediated information. In addition, intensive interviews with a subsample of members of 54 Jewish homes in Jerusalem & 20 Arab homes in Sakhnin provide the opportunity to see political socialization in action. The ideological & constructional dimensions of TV news are analyzed in terms of responses to news reports about the intifada (uprising). 1 Figure. M. Maguire

93Z7593

Lule, Jack (Lehigh U, Bethlehem PA 18015), Journalism and Criticism: The Philadelphia Inquirer Norplant Editorial, Critical Studies in Mass Communication, 1992, 9, 1, Mar, 91-109.

¶ A case study of the debate about the contraceptive Norplant, sparked by an editorial in the Philadelphia Inquirer late in 1990, provides a basis to evaluate the issue of press criticism. Editors, journalists, & readers passionately responded to both the issue of contraception & the authority of the editorial. Press criticism reveals evidence of what G. Tuchman has called the "sociology of the newspaper"–the "territorial, institutional, & topical chains of command" (Making News, New York: Free Press, 1978). However, such criticism remains localized to the Inquirer & thereby fails to concern itself with systematic & structural weaknesses in the newspaper industry & editorial process–suggesting the need to rethink arguments championing press criticism. 91 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7594

Massoni, Dominique & Tiévant, Sophie (Total, 24 cours Michelet F-92800 Puteaux France), Réflexions autour d'une étude d'évaluation des formations à la communication chez Total (Comments on a Study Assessing Training in Communications at Total), UM Sociologie du Travail, 1992, 34, 3, 369-378. (FRE)

¶ Methods & implementation of evaluation of work-based employee training are investigated at Total, a large French communications enterprise, based on observations of 300 employees who participated in a training program. Surveyed were employees' attitudes on the training & its impact in the work context; a pedagogical evaluation of the training was also conducted. Analysis indicates that employees in higher positions have a more restricted concept of communication than young technicians; these considerable differences in the perception of communication modify the evaluation of training. It is suggested that although employees think training is important, the training has a weak effect on the job. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7595

Meech, Peter & Kilborn, Richard (Dept Film & Media Studies U Stirling, FK9 4LA Scotland), Media and Identity in a Stateless Nation: The Case of Scotland, Media Culture & Society, 1992, 14, 2, Apr, 245-259.

¶ An attempt to characterize the principle Scottish media–radio & TV broadcasting, film, & the press–in relation to Scotland's self-perception as a nation within a larger nation-state–the UK. The national media are London-based, but located in Scotland within the framework of UK ownership, control, finance, & regulation. The semiautonomous media in Scotland have their own distinctive characteristics & contribute to Scotland's self-perception as a nation. Detailed studies of media production within Scotland & media consumption among its various regional & other groups are needed. 20 References. G. Castañeda

93Z7596

Meyers, Marian (Georgia State U, Atlanta 30303), Reporters and Beats: The Making of Oppositional News, Critical Studies in Mass Communication, 1992, 9, 1, Mar, 75-90.

¶ A case study of the coverage of the farm crisis, by a major midwestern newspaper, including content analysis of articles published 1987/88 & interviews with 10 of their authors. It is suggested that the reporter's beat & subjectivity help create ideological diversity in the news. While drawing on both British cultural studies & traditional sociological theories of the news, the former are criticized for implying that resistance is found only within the decoding capabilities of the audience, & the latter for focusing on news in its dominant form rather than in deviation, where resistance & opposition are found. 1 Table, 68 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7597

Morrill, Calvin & Facciola, Peter C. (U Arizona, Tucson 85721), The Power of Language in Adjudication and Mediation: Institutional Contexts as Predictors of Social Evaluation, Law & Social Inquiry, 1992, 17, 2, spring, 191-212.

¶ Previous research has charged that the language used by witnesses & litigants influences evaluations of credibility & blame made by legal decisionmakers. To determine the extent of this influence at different levels within the dispute resolution process, 3 experiments measured how speech style (powerful, powerless) & discourse (rule, relational) impacts sitting superior court judges, practicing mediators, & undergraduates at the U of Arizona (N = 42, 33, & 71, respectively). It was determined that students' & judges' evaluations are influenced by speech style while mediators are swayed only by particular aspects of speech style & discourse. Why these groups differed is assessed & implications for future research are suggested. 3 Tables. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7598

Myers, Philip N., Jr. & Biocca, Frank A. (Center Research Mass Communication U North Carolina, Chapel Hill 27599), The Elastic Body Image: The Effect of Television Advertising and Programming on Body Image Distortions in Young Women, UM Journal of Communication, 1992, 42, 3, summer, 108-133.

¶ Electronic rating data were collected from 76 female students ages 18-

0038-0202/93 $1.50

4 who were members of affluent sororities at a large southern university hile they viewed videotapes of TV commercials & programs to investiate the impact of the media's emphasis on the thin ideal body image on omen's body size overestimations that indirectly cause increases in anrexia nervosa & bulimia. Results indicate that 2 variables--ideal-body rogramming & ideal-body commericals--lowered body size overestimaons & Ss' depression levels. This supports the notion of an elastic body nage in which actual body size is in conflict with a mediated ideal body nage & an unstable self-perceived body image. It is suggested that atching even 30 minutes' worth of TV programming & advertising can lter a woman's perception of the shape of her body. 1 Table, 5 Figures, 1 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Soiological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

3Z7599

Pratt, Cornelius B. (Dept Advertising Michigan State U, East Lansing 48824), Ethical Perspectives on Communication Research for Africa's Development: An Extension of the Agenda-Dynamics Model, Studies in Third World Societies, 1991, 45, Oct, 71-93.

Aiming to sensitize communication researchers to ethical issues in rearch on sub-Saharan Africa, development issues of the region are reiewed, & communication models previously used to study it are evaluatd, including the classical modernization model & the dependency & culuralist paradigms. Ethically oriented development questions relevant to tudies of small-group communication, traditional media, & public comnunication policy are offered, eg, questions on development priorities of ndividuals, credibility & appeal of indigenous media, & processes & inerests in political decision making. Directions for future communication esearch in the region are outlined based on an extended Western agenla-dynamics model. 1 Figure, 39 References. I. Shagrir (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7600

Rubin, Rebecca B., Fernández Collado, Carlos & Hernandez-Sampieri, Roberto (School Communication Studies Kent State U, OH 44242), A Cross-Cultural Examination of Interpersonal Communication Motives in Mexico and the United States, International Journal of Intercultural Relations, 1992, 16, 2, spring, 145-157.

¶ Seeking to detect cultural differences in motives for interpersonal communication, R. Rubin's Interpersonal Communication Motives Scale was administered to college students at 3 Mexico City universities (N = 225) & at Kent State U, Ohio (N = 477), as well as to a general population sample in the US (N = 504). Six motives (pleasure, escape, relaxation, inclusion, affection, & control) were cross-correlated with 4 dimensions of national culture (power distance, uncertainty avoidance, individualism, & masculinity) to predict cultural differences. As expected, findings indicate that Mexican scores were not significantly higher than US scores on measures of interpersonal control, relaxation, & escape, but were significantly lower on measures of interpersonal affection, pleasure, & inclusion. In addition, only in the US samples was age negatively related to interpersonal communication motives, & gender positively related to the affection & inclusion motives, but negatively related to the control motive. 3 Tables, 28 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7601

Skinner, David (Dept Communications Simon Fraser U, Burnaby British Columbia V5A 1S6), Public Broadcasting in Canada: Subordinate Service, Alternate Routes, 1992, 9, 26-43.

¶ Although public broadcasting was slated to play the central role in Canada's broadcasting system, regulation has subordinated public to private broadcasting since the 1932 Broadcasting Act. The public sector developed the nation's broadcasting system, but the Canadian Radio Broadcasting Commission & the Canadian Broadcasting Corp have functioned as development agencies generating, consolidating, & distributing broadcasting resources. With the help of those agencies, the private sector has been able to accumulate the necessary capital for self-sustained operation. 22 References. G. Castañeda (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7602

Snepenger, David J., Collins, William D. & Snepenger, Mary (Coll Business Montana State U, Bozeman 59717), Media Viewing Behavior, Annals of Tourism Research, 1992, 19, 3, 562-564.

¶ The public's inclination to seek out media coverage of natural catastrophes is explored in a case study of the viewing of extensive media coverage of the 1988 fires in Yellowstone National Park. Data obtained via on-sight surveys of 200 park visitors & telephone interviews with 1,316 households in Denver (Colo), Salt Lake City (Utah), & Lincoln (Neb), indicate that not all respondents had the same level of interest in the fires: 1% neither read nor watched media coverage of the fires, 5% read or watched a little, 36% some, 41% a great deal, & 17% nearly everything. Multiple regression analysis determined that the factors most closely associated with high media exposure were older age, general interest in shows about the environment, & previous park visitation. It is suggested that future research might also explore the relationship between media coverage of a tourist destination & future visitation to that destination. 1 Table, 3 References. M. Maguire (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7603

Vande Berg, Leah R. & Streckfuss, Diane (California State U, Sacramento 95819), Prime-Time Television's Portrayal of Women and the World of Work: A Demographic Profile, Journal of Broadcasting & Electronic Media, 1992, 36, 2, spring, 195-208.

¶ A comparison of the attributes & actions of leading male (M) vs female (F) characters in organizational settings on prime-time US TV programs. Content analyses of 116 episodes broadcast 1986/87 reveals that although there has been some increase in the representation of Fs & some slight increase in the heterogeneity of their occupational portrayals, Fs generally remain underrepresented & limited in their depictions in organizational settings. In the workplace, Fs are portrayed as performing more interpersonal actions than similar M cohorts & fewer decisional, political, & operational actions. 5 Tables, 36 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7604

Wartella, Ellen & Middlestadt, Susan (Instit Communications Research U Illinois, Champaign 61820), The Evolution of Models of Mass Communication and Persuasion, Health Communication, 1991, 3, 4, 205-215.

¶ Sociologists at the U of Chicago (Ill), 1900-1930, formalized the first major theoretical & empirical school of mass communication & persuasion through communicated appeals. This early theorizing argued for the power of public communication to influence individuals in the mass society, but limitations or indirect effects for the media were also recognized. During the 1940s-1960s, these indirect effects were studied, leading to the theory that media tended to be better at reinforcing existing beliefs than at changing beliefs. More contemporary theorizing is largely rooted in social psychology theories about the relationship between attitudes & behavior, mediated by intention & its personal & social components. This information-processing approach has been supplemented by cognitive response & affect approaches. The implications of this literature review for media-based interventions in the areas of drug abuse & acquired immune deficiency syndrome-related health risk behavior are that: the broader framework of cultural & social meanings must be evaluated, target audiences should be segmented, & goals should be realistically assessed. 29 References. M. Pflum (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7605

----, Chautauqua: A Reprise of "Why Are There So Few Communication Theories?", UM Communication Monographs, 1992, 59, 1, Mar, 79-107.

¶ In Taking Communication Seriously, Brant R. Burleson (Purdue U, West Lafayette, Ind) comments on Charles R. Berger's article responding to the question of the paucity of communication theories (see SA 40:2/92Y5898). While agreeing with Berger's analysis, Burleson suggests an alternative reading of the question, with a serious focus on human communication, contending that for scholars to take this subject seriously, they must primarily study the structure, character, & possibility of human communication, rather than the content & uses for communication. A sophisticated general philosophy of communication is the first step in rectifying this situation. In Response to Professor Berger's Essay: Its Meaning for Organizational Communication, W. Charles Redding (Purdue U) agrees that pointless fragmentation in the communications field is a pervasive evil, & conditionally endorses Berger's basic argument, provided that "theory" be interpreted more freely, that other, nontheoretical modes to advance learning be tolerated, & that the applied context & theoretical dimension be less rigidly separated. In Are There So Few Communication Theories? William M. Purcell (U of Washington, Seattle) also concurs with Berger's critique of fragmentation, but questions his idea of the scope of communication theory, & notes that the work of ancient communications scholars can, with the proper interfacing to modern topics, make significant contributions to the field. He also notes the broad range of issues studied by communications, calling for a more centrist substantive coverage. In Preserving the Tie That Binds: A Response to Berger's Essay, Russell F. Proctor, II (Northern Kentucky U, Highland Heights) points to strengthening links between the "skills legacy" & construction of meaningful theories. Berger has unkindly trivialized the academic value system that stresses teaching communication skills. The communications practitioners are vital to furthering theory & research. In Curiouser and Curiouser Curios, Berger responds, noting Proctor's defense of the role of the skills legacy, yet insisting on the necessity of a recovery from the theoretical deficit through undergraduate teaching. He cautions against an overemphasis on depth in degree of a student's training at the expense of breadth, as Purcell suggests. Advances in artificial intelligence serve as a counterexample to Burleson's assertion that scholars external to the field have not contributed to the philosophy of communication. 95 References. J. Sadler

0038-0202/93 $1.50

93Z7606

——, Symposium: Journalism in Crisis and Change, UM Journal of Communication, 1992, 42, 3, summer, 5-107.

¶ A symposium discussing the need for new professional information & training in journalism. In The End of Journalism? Notes on Watching the War, Elihu Katz (Hebrew U of Jerusalem, Mount Scopus, Israel) argues that, during the 1991 Persian Gulf war, even though there was continuous coverage, there was little action on the TV screen. In contrast to the Vietnam war, the Gulf war reports were from the background. In The Passing of the "High Modernism" of American Journalism, Daniel C. Hallin (U of California San Diego, La Jolla) asserts that the news reporting during the Gulf war demonstrated a clear break with the high modernism point of journalism at mid-century; substantial & continuing changes in the field of journalism ensued after the collapse of political consensus when the USSR disbanded & with the intensification of international economic competition. In Journalists: The Tarpeian Rock Is Close to the Capitol, Dominique Wolton (Centre national recherche scientifique, F-75700 Paris, France) states that, during the Gulf war, technology became a threat to journalism as it limited the time that journalists had to verify reports & shifted journalistic focus to only what could be shown. In Old and New Contradictions in Italian Journalism, Paolo Mancini (U of Perugia, I-06100 Italy) argues that in Italy, traditional journalism focusing on politics is being crowded out by commercial journalism, in evidence during the Gulf war coverage. Public confidence in journalists is fading. In Sweden in an Iron Grip, Stig Hadenius (U of Sweden, S-10691 Stockholm) reports that, in coverage of the Gulf war in Sweden, journalists lacked a critical & independent focus, & bought into the Gulf Allies' propaganda machine. Swedish journalists' forecasts prior to the war emphasized fears, but lacked any foundation in reality. In From Party Propaganda to Corporate Speech? Polish Journalism in Search of a New Identity, Karol Jakubowicz explains that the interest in changing the sociopolitical functioning of journalism is especially prominent in Eastern Europe, where under communism, TV offered a private Western content in contradiction to the Soviet public ideology, & where journalists have never been trained to be objective. In Journalism in Latin America in the '90s: The Challenges of Modernization, Fernando Reyes-Matta (Andrés Bello National U, Santiago, Chile) reveals that the sociopolitical functioning of journalism is also changing in Latin America, where democratic regimes are replacing authoritarian ones. The focus in journalism in Latin America has shifted from politics to social issues. In Europe as World News Leader, Jeremy Tunstall (City U, London, England) argues that economics has contributed to the demise of US hegemony in news reporting. The European-based Reuters-Visnews-BBC alliance has become the strongest journalistic force in the world since United Press International was sold because of financial problems. In News Media in Flux: An Analytical Afterword, Jay G. Blumler (U of Maryland, College Park) argues that CNN's coverage of the Persian Gulf war in 1991 drew attention to the fact that the whole field of journalism is in flux. 7 Tables, 106 References. M. Pflum

29 collective behavior

93Z7607

Dentler, Robert A. & Hunt, Susan N. (Sociology Dept U Massachusetts, Boston 02125-3393), The Los Angeles Riots of Spring 1992: Events, Causes, and Future Policy, Sociological Practice Review, 1992, 3, 4, Oct, 229-244.

¶ A case study utilizing data from multiple sources is presented on the collective violence that took place in & around Los Angeles, Calif, in Apr & May 1992. Discussion includes: events that precipitated the violence; the forms & extent of the looting, vandalizing, arson, & attacks on persons that occurred; the ramifying human & economic consequences of the violence; & the demographic, economic, & institutional circumstances surrounding the locus of the population of south-central Los Angeles, where the major events occurred. Theories that best account for the rioting are summarized, chances for similar outbreaks in other cities explored, & future policy options examined. 48 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7608

Heineman, Kenneth (Ohio U, Lancaster 43130), The Silent Majority Speaks: Antiwar Protest and Backlash, 1965-1972, Peace & Change, 1992, 17, 4, Oct, 402-433.

¶ In the 1960s, campus-based antiwar protest & black activism revealed fundamental class & cultural divisions in US society. Described here is the role of a liberal & increasingly cosmopolitan university–State U of New York at Buffalo–in provoking a white working-class backlash in its community. As activist academics & students sought to influence the Democratic party at the national & local level, the progressive New Deal coalition fractured. Buffalo, a blue-collar & Roman Catholic city & a bastion of New Deal democracy, responded to university protest & black ghetto discontent by increasingly embracing conservative Republican candidates. This "silent majority" of culturally & politically threatened whites generally opposed both antiwar protest & the Vietnam war itself. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7609

Turner, Jonathan H. (Dept Sociology U California, Riverside 92521), The Production and Reproduction of Social Solidarity: A Synthesis of Two Rational Choice Theories, Journal for the Theory of Social Behaviour, 1992, 22, 3, Sept, 311-328.

¶ The theories of Michael Hechter (Principles of Group Solidarity [see IRPS No. 40/87c00885]) & James S. Coleman (eg, see Foundations of Social Theory [see IRPS No. 63/92c01569]) are modeled formally, & then reconciled to produce a more general rational choice theory of social solidarity. The formal model is translated into a series of propositions specifying the conditions producing solidarity. Solidarity is viewed as a positive & addictive function of dependence of actors on the group for the production of a joint good, the existence of extensive normative obligations, the ratio of positive to negative sanctions, the capacity to reduce the costs of monitoring & sanctioning, & the proportion of actors receiving utilities from the production of a joint good. 1 Table, 3 Figures, 16 References. AA

42 sociology of leisure/tourism

93Z7610

Adams, Vincanne (Dept Anthropology Princeton U, NJ 08544-1011), Tourism and Sherpas, Nepal: Reconstruction of Reciprocity, Annals of Tourism Research, 1992, 19, 3, 534-554.

¶ Data collected during 18 months of field research among 2 cohorts of Sherpas in Nepal (N = 1,059 respondents [Rs] in 249 households) are drawn on to show how, despite nearly 40 years of involvement in tourism & its heavy demands for wage labor, Rs have found ways to reconstitute traditional productive relations in their new economy. Sherpa reciprocal labor in the form of kinship & other types of exchanges, has been reconstituted in mountain tourism alongside well-established patterns of wage labor. It is suggested that the logic which informs & shapes Sherpa economic endeavors is a cultural logic revolving around tendencies toward both independence & interdependence into which new tourism opportunities can fit. 47 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7611

Bruce, A. C. & Johnson, J. E. V. (School Management & Finance U Nottingham, NG7 2RD England), Toward an Explanation of Betting as a Leisure Pursuit, Leisure Studies, 1992, 11, 3, Sept, 201-218.

¶ Statistical data on offcourse betting activity on horseracing in the UK are drawn on to explore 4 possible motivations for betting decisions: financial gain, intellectual challenge, social interaction, & excitement. Each motivation is linked to a particular time period in which the bet is placed & to whether the bet is placed at starting price, developing hypotheses by which to test 4 distinct subsets of the aggregate betting population. Betting behavior in each subset is analyzed according to 3 bet characteristics–financial return, average stake, & degree of risk taken–where the value of each characteristic is held to be indicative of an underlying motivation. Results indicate significant support for the proposition that individuals vary in their motivation to bet, & this is reflected in the nature & timing of their betting activity. 6 Tables, 25 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7612

Crompton, John (Dept Recreation/Park/Tourism Sciences Texas A&M U, College Station 77843-2261), Structure of Vacation Destination Choice Sets, Annals of Tourism Research, 1992, 19, 3, 420-434.

¶ Several choice sets described in the consumer behavior decision process literature are integrated structurally & related to the context of tourism. To be selected as the vacation destination when a nonroutine, high-involvement type of decision process is used, destinations are conceptualized to be included in an individual's initial & late consideration set, action set, & interaction set. The sets are described & operationally defined. Implications of using the choice structure taxonomy as an analytical tool for destinations to ascertain their relative strengths & weaknesses at different transition points in prospective vistors' selection processes are discussed. 36 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7613

Mansfeld, Yoel (Dept Geography U Haifa, Mount Carmel IL-31999 Israel), From Motivation to Actual Travel, Annals of Tourism Research, 1992, 19, 3, 399-419.

¶ Following a critical overview of decision theory & the destination-choice model, the complex role of motivation in travel behavior is considered. The role of travel information & the stages of information-gathering, assessment, & elimination of destination alternatives are discussed. External constraints impinging on destination-choice at the group level are identified. Problematic issues & consequent future research directions needed in the pursuit of a more holistic theoretical framework for tourists' destination-choice behavior are noted. 2 Figures, 83 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7614

McKercher, Bob (School Business Charles Sturt U, Albury New South Wales 2640 Australia), Tourism as a Conflicting Land Use, Annals of Tourism Research, 1992, 19, 3, 467-481.

¶ An examination of problems faced by the Northern Ontario tourist outfitting industry shrinking–specifically, its resource base–as commerical forestry activities expand into remote areas traditionally used by tourism. The creation of a network of forest access roads has exposed a large number of backcountry lakes to mass recreational use. Conflicts have arisen surrounding tourism's needs vs the demands of non-tourism-oriented recreational anglers for access to any fishing opportunity. Until recently, government agencies have not fully recognized the complexity of the problem, &, hence, attempts to resolve the conflict have met with limited success. 1 Figure, 47 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7615

Oppermann, Martin (Dept Geography U Tübingen, D-7400 Federal Republic Germany), Intranational Tourist Flows in Malaysia, Annals of Tourism Research, 1992, 19, 3, 482-500.

¶ Interviews conducted in 1990 with 1,000 tourists at 2 international airports in Peninsular Malaysia–Kuala Lumpur & Penang–are drawn on to explore intranational travel flows there. Analysis indicates that tourists are concentrated on the West Coast, thus reinforcing existing regional inequalities. Disaggregation of travel patterns by using variables such as purpose of visit, travel organization, country of residence, & number of overnight destinations, reveals significant differences among the diverse market segments with respect to their intranational travel behavior. On the basis of these, market segments that are more likely to contribute to the reduction of regional disparities are identified. 8 Tables, 3 Figures, 49 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7616

Paul, Bimal Kanti & Rimmawi, Hussein Saaf (Kansas State U, Manhattan 66506), Tourism in Saudi Arabia: Asir National Park, Annals of Tourism Research, 1992, 19, 3, 501-515.

¶ Questionnaires completed by 208 visitors to the Al-Sawdah resort in Saudi Arabia are used to investigate their nationalities, duration of stay, & the catchment area of the resort. Results indicate that the majority of visitors came from Asir & neighboring provinces. Visitors from distant places usually stayed longer than those traveling shorter distances, & the number of previous trips was inversely related to duration of stay. The findings suggest that there is a large domestic tourism market for Asir National Park; suggestions are offered for promoting the region. 2 Tables, 4 Figures, 27 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7617

Roche, Maurice (Sociological Studies Dept U Sheffield, S10 2TN England), Mega-Events and Micro-Modernization: On the Sociology of the New Urban Tourism, UM The British Journal of Sociology, 1992, 43, 4, Dec, 563-600.

¶ A sociological analysis of new urban tourism as an increasingly significant social force in the micromodernization of old industrial cities in Western society, focusing on the staging of cultural or sporting megaevents. Transcending the confining economistic models usually applied to tourism, the wider socioeconomic impact of megaevents is explored. In addition, issues involved in developing a structural sociological & political economic account of tourism are considered. It is concluded that an even broader frame of analysis is needed–one that draws from this socioeconomic assessment to explore tourism as a dynamic cultural phenomenon from a variety of perspectives. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7618

Smeral, Egon, Witt, Stephen F. & Witt, Christine A. (Austrian Instit Economic Research, A-1103 Vienna), Econometric Forecasts: Tourism Trends to 2000, Annals of Tourism Research, 1992, 19, 3, 450-466.

¶ Annual statistical data, 1975-1988, from the Organization for Economic Cooperation & Development & the International Monetary Fund are used to specify a complete system of demand equations to generate forecasts of tourism imports & exports for 18 major industrialized countries for the period 1991-2000. Three alternative assumptions are considered: (1) there is no change in the external environment (baseline scenario); (2) the completion of the single internal market of the European Community takes place; & (3) the recent liberalization & general creation of market economies in Eastern Europe is allowed for. A comparison of the latter two scenarios with the baseline scenario permits the calculation of the effects of these changes on tourism demand. 11 Tables, 20 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

0038-0202/93 $1.50

93Z7619

Snape, Robert (Myerscough Coll, Lancashire PR3 0RY England), Betting, Billiards and Smoking: Leisure in Public Libraries, Leisure Studies, 1992, 11, 3, Sept, 187-199.

¶ In the mid-nineteenth century, rate-supported public libraries were established in GB with the objectives of both educational progress & recreational reform. Here, the origins of public libraries are traced within the context of the campaign for recreational reform, drawing on published data. Also chronicled is the reaction of librarians to the uses of two specific leisure forms in public libraries–newsrooms & gamerooms. It is demonstrated that libraries' potential to develop a leisure function was curtailed by the library professions's desire to change the image of the library from a leisure-oriented institution to one dedicated to educational & information priorities. 61 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7620

Tsartas, Paris (National Center Social Research Greece, Sophocleaus St #1 Athens GR-10559), Socioeconomic Impacts of Tourism on Two Greek Isles, Annals of Tourism Research, 1992, 19, 3, 516-533.

¶ A comparative examination of the consequences of tourism on two neighboring Greek islands–Ios & Scrifos. After reviewing data collected during field research & interviews with key informants (N not provided) on the similarities & differences between the islands before & after 20 years of tourism, it is concluded that their social, economic, & cultural mores have been markedly influenced according to their differing types of tourist development. 2 Tables, 3 Figures, 21 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7621

Yair, Gad (Dept Sociology & Social Anthropology Hebrew U Jerusalem, Mount Scopus IL-91905 Israel), What Keeps Them Running? The 'Circle of Commitment' of Long Distance Runners, Leisure Studies, 1992, 11, 3, Sept, 257-270.

¶ Data obtained via a review of the literature & interview/questionnaire surveys completed with participants in the 1986 Israeli International Marathon &/or subscribers to a bi-monthly Hebrew running magazine (total N = 284 respondents [Rs]) are drawn on to assess the commitment levels of professional, semiprofessional, & amateur long distance runners. Discriminant analysis reveals that amateur Rs have relatively weaker personal & structural commitment compared to the professional level Rs. Semiprofessional Rs are in a marginal position: while they have the same personal commitment as the more serious Rs, they do not share the same structural commitment. A preliminary theoretical model of sport & leisure commitment is presented that describes a "circle of commitment" which involves commitment profile, self-concept, activity levels, & achievements. 2 Tables, 2 Figures, 2 Appendixes, 29 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

50 mass culture

93Z7622

Beal, Becky Louise (U Northern Colorado, Greeley 80639), The Subculture of Skateboarding: Beyond Social Resistance, * Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 6, Dec, 2111-A.

Available from UMI, Ann Arbor, MI. Order No. DA9231147.

93Z7623

Bradby, Barbara (Dept Sociology Trinity Coll, Dublin 2 Republic Ireland), Like a Virgin-Mother?: Materialism and Maternalism in the Songs of Madonna, Cultural Studies, 1992, 6, 1, Jan, 73-96.

¶ An examination of the song "Material Girl," whose title became emblematic of singer Madonna & of new images, material vs maternal, of women in the second half of the 1980s. It is argued that Madonna's ambiguous use of conventional, patriarchal representations of women at the visual level does not warrant the feminist readings that visual analysts have taken from her videos. An analysis of the verbal/musical text of "Material Girl" is compared with two analyses of the video for the song, examining the use of pronouns, the discourses from which the puns in the song text are derived, & the vocal relationship between Madonna as lead singer & her male chorus. In concrete, social terms, Madonna represents a new discourse of sexual control for girls of the 1980s. 18 References. Modified AA (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7624

Jacobson, Paul Lynn (U Tennessee, Knoxville 37996), National Television Evening News Coverage of Ozone Depletion and the Greenhouse Effect: A Constructionist Analysis, * Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 5, Nov, 1674-A.

Available from UMI, Ann Arbor, MI. Order No. DA9221770.

93Z7625

Johnson, Phylis (Radio/Television Dept Southern Illinois U, Carbondale 62901), Black/Urban Radio Is in Touch with the Inner City: What Can Educators Learn from This Popular Medium?, Education and Urban Society, 1992, 24, 4, Aug, 508-518.

¶ Whereas there has been a call for community partnerships by educational researchers, little has been written about black/urban (B/U) radio's impact in the community. Here, statistics on B/U radio are reported, educational research on community partnerships is reviewed, & examples from practitioners to demonstrate successful partnerships are provided. This medium's power to captivate listeners goes far beyond its musical programming, as evidenced by its community service activity in metropolitan areas & southern regions in the US. Five success stories illustrate the effectiveness of community partnerships between B/U radio & parents, teachers, school administrators, & other social agencies & institutions. Specific community promotions discussed are those involving peer panels, parent-teacher panels, cultural expositions, & events emphasizing family unity, in order to praise the rich cultural heritage of the African-American community & to seek solutions to urban problems (eg, gang violence, drug abuse, & illiteracy.) Suggestions to help educators & school administrators establish school/community partnerships are offered, & a brief overview of Hispanic radio is also provided. 2 Tables, 26 References. AA (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7626

Lichterman, Paul (Dept Sociology U California, Berkeley 94720), Self-Help Reading as a Thin Culture, Media Culture & Society, 1992, 14, 3, July, 421-447.

¶ The interpretations of 6 male & 9 female readers of self-help psychology books, who were interviewed about the level, type of expertise, & helpfulness of the books, differed from those of professional critics. The term "thin culture" describes how readers make self-help books meaningful for their own lives, but without a deep personal commitment to the advice in the books. The Ss shared a willingness to accept psychological interpretations for personal problems, & an openness to alternative religion; they viewed the books as mass-marketed commodities with repetitive messages, but used them as a source of discourse about personal problems in the absence of other interpersonal sources. 31 References. M. Pflum (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7627

Salazar Sotelo, Francisco (Dept Sociología U Autónoma Metropolitana Azcapotzalco, 02000 Mexico DF), De la cultura popular a la cultura de masas en México (la ciudad de México en la década de los ochenta) (From Popular Culture to Culture of the Masses in Mexico (Mexico City in the 1980s)), Sociológica, 1991, 6, 15, Jan-Apr, 189-208. (SPA)

¶ The culture of the masses has been consolidated in the twentieth century with the enormous influence of mass communication, especially radio & TV. Theories of popular & mass culture & interaction between dominant cultures & popular culture are considered. The transformation from popular to mass culture in Mexico City is described, showing that TV, in particular, has assumed a hegemonic range over all sectors of society, & that massive rural-urban migration has rendered popular culture incapable of resisting assimilation into mass culture. The intersection of mass, popular, dominant, & subordinate cultures in Mexico is outlined, & the resulting contradictions are described. 28 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

0038-0202/93 $1.50

93Z7628

Shoos, Diane (Humanities Dept Michigan Technological U, Houghton 49931), The Female Subject of Popular Culture, Hypatia, 1992, 7, 2, spring, 215-226.

¶ A review of two books on females' (Fs') responses to elements of popular culture: Lorraine Gamman & Margaret Marshment, The Female Gaze: Women as Viewers of Popular Culture (Seattle: Real Comet Press, 1989); & Andrea L. Press, Women Watching Television: Gender, Class, and Generation in the American Television Experience (Philadelphia: U of Pennsylvania Press, 1991 (see listings in IRPS No. 67)). The first book, a collection of essays written from the perspective of text-based feminist criticism, treats diverse genres that have hitherto received little feminist critical attention; the diversity of F experience & subjectivity is seen as an implicit underlying theme in the essays. The second book, based on in-depth interviews (N = 41), uses the methodology of qualitative communication research to analyze the effect of class & generation on resistance vs accommodation to TV messages. Complex & conflicting relations are found between the Ss' social position & their responses to TV; the ambitious scope of the project is seen to entail a limitation in the form of ill-defined concepts, eg, identification & power. The need for a dialogue between the approaches exemplified by the two books is stressed. 16 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

68 transportation systems & behaviors

No Abstracts In This Issue

69 sociology of sports

93Z7629

An, Minseok & Sage, George H. (c/o Sage–School Kinesiology & Physical Education U Northern Colorado, Greeley 80639), The Golf Boom in South Korea: Serving Hegemonic Interests, Sociology of Sport Journal, 1992, 9, 4, Dec, 372-384.

¶ In an effort to maintain political stability & promote economic growth, South Korea has committed substantial resources over the past decade to commercialized sports, including golf. A major source of support for building golf courses has come from government leaders, together with economic & social incentives. Though official government discourse about new golf courses being built is that they serve the interest of "sport for all," they overwhelmingly require membership, which is extremely expensive. Despite the enormous power & resources of the dominant groups in Korea, there are elements of opposition. The golf boom has been severely criticized because it removes large amounts of land from agricultural & industrial productivity, contaminates farm land, & pollutes water. It also represents the worst aspects of the social imbalance of wealth. 48 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7630

Beamish, Rob (Dept Sociology Queen's U, Kingston Ontario K7L 3N6), Towards a Socio-Cultural Profile of Canada's High Performance Athletes, International Review for the Sociology of Sport, 1992, 27, 4, 279-292.

¶ Data from Canadian Olympic Assoc handbooks for the 1980, 1984, & 1988 Olympiads are used to develop a sociocultural profile of 1,035 of the country's high performance athletes. Analysis reveals that these athletes are mature in age & have demonstrated abilities at the international level. When the ratio of female to male events is held constant, women are not underrepresented on Canada's Olympic teams as a whole. Athletes are proportionately represented from Canada's major regions, & Canadian teams are overwhelmingly comprised of the native-born. Many of these athletes feel that international sport has become a full-time occupation. 10 Tables, 26 Figures. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7631

Crosset, Todd William (Brandeis U, Waltham MA 92554-9110), Out Here: Sport and Gender on the Women's Professional Golf Tour, * Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 6, Dec, 2111-A.

Available from UMI, Ann Arbor, MI. Order No. DA9229458.

93Z7632

Crossman, Jane & Lappage, Ron (School Physical Education & Athletics Lakehead U, Thunder Bay Ontario P7B 5E1), Canadian Athletes' Perceptions of the 1980 Olympic Boycott, Sociology of Sport Journal, 1992, 9, 4, Dec, 354-371.

¶ The impact of the boycott of the 1980 Moscow Olympic Games on the lives & athletic careers of a random sample of members of the Canadian Olympic team was explored, drawing on data obtained during in-depth telephone interviews in 1990. Results indicate that the boycott generally had a negative impact on athletes' lives, but the effect depended on such variables as the sport in which the athlete competed, the stage of his/her career at the time of the boycott, personal performance expectations, the importance he/she placed on the Olympics, ability to cope & support structure, & the degree to which the athlete identified with his/her sport. Several recommendations are made regarding future sports boycotts. 2 Tables, 15 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7633

Curtis, James E. & White, Philip G. (Dept Sociology U Waterloo, Ontario N2L 3G1), Toward a Better Understanding of the Sport Practices of Francophone and Anglophone Canadians, Sociology of Sport Journal, 1992, 9, 4, Dec, 403-422.

¶ A response to commentaries (see SA 41:1/93Z4961) by Suzanne Laberge, Yvan Girardin, & Christopher McAll, on analyses of sport practices among anglophone & francophone Canadians (see SA 39:1/91X2275 & 38:5/90V9726). It is contended that the comments contain problems of misunderstanding & misrepresentations & put forward a nonviable theoretical interpretation of francophone/anglophone differences in leisure sport participation. They also recommend a problematic research strategy for the area of study. Presented here are additional data for the late 1980s that further call into question the commentators' interpretation. 1 Table, 44 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7634

Eske, Janet Lynne (Indiana U, Bloomington 47405), Cultural Production, Reproduction, and Change within an Athletic Context, * Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 6, Dec, 2112-A.

Available from UMI, Ann Arbor, MI. Order No. DA9231545.

93Z7635

Harris, William T. (Dept Economics U Delaware, Newark 19716), Rule Changes and the Earnings of National Football League Field Goal Kickers, Sociology of Sport Journal, 1992, 9, 4, Dec, 397-402.

¶ Due to a 1974 change by the National Football League (NFL) Rules Committee in the way the ball was turned over after a missed field goal attempted beyond the defending team's 20-yard line, it is hypothesized that more accurate placekickers would become relatively more valuable to a team & receive higher earnings. Player performance data from NFL records, 1967-1986, indicate that no measurable increase has occurred since the rule change in the relative earnings of more accurate long distance placekickers. Possible reasons for this result are discussed. 1 Table. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7636

Hemphill, Dennis Allan (Dept Physical Education & Recreation Victoria U Technology, Melbourne 3000 Australia), Sport, Political Ideology and Freedom, Journal of Sport and Social Issues, 1992, 16, 1, spring, 15-33.

¶ A critical review of the major representative views of sport found in the literature, highlighting the ways that freedom is defined or addressed. Traditional accounts regard sport as an extension of play, while contemporary accounts regard it as an extension of alienated capitalist labor. Underlying these accounts are distinct political ideologies that reveal basic differences in how freedom in sport is examined & understood. 16 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7637

Jhally, Sut & Livant, Bill (U Massachusetts, Amherst 01003), Sports and Cultural Politics: The Attraction of Modern Spectator Sports, Rethinking Marxism, 1991, 4, 4, winter, 121-127.

¶ It is argued that mass-spectator professional sports can play a positive role in a progressive cultural politics based on socialist principles. Marxist critics who dismiss professional sports as part of the system of legitimation of contemporary capitalism fail to acknowledge the significance of the image of fair competition portrayed by sports. The nature of sports competition is compared to the kind of competition common in the working world. It is concluded that sports reproduce the social mystification of competition by personalizing a process of social cooperation, & that mass spectator sports have the potential to be vehicles of social change. 3 References. W. Howard (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7638

Kew, F. C. (Dept Applied & Community Studies Ilkley Campus Wells Rd, West Yorkshire LS29 9RD England), Game-Rules and Social Theory, International Review for the Sociology of Sport, 1992, 27, 4, 293-308.

¶ Social theorists often use games as an analytic device to understand nongame social processes, yet operate with a narrow conception of games restricted to formal or codified rules. It is concluded that such formalist imagery fails to account for agency in games & to access the interpretive work by players in negotiating with game structures. As an alternative, Harold Garfinkel's ethnomethodological perspective on social processes is used to identify five interdependent dimensions of rule-following in games. It is concluded that game processes are necessarily underdetermined by formal rules, & that players can explore the essential insufficiency of the rules in pursuit of their interests in winning. Implications for understanding changes to game structures over time are considered, along with broader applications to other social processes. 2 Figures, 46 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7639

Kikulis, Lisa M., Slack, Trevor & Hinings, Bob (Coll Physical Education U Saskatchewan, Saskatoon S7N 0W0), Institutionally Specific Design Archetypes: A Framework for Understanding Change in National Sport Organizations, International Review for the Sociology of Sport, 1992, 27, 4, 343-370.

¶ Previous research on change in amateur sport organizations in Canada has suggested an evolutionary movement toward a more professional & bureaucratic design. Here, the limitations of this view are discussed, arguing that changes in these organizations should not simply be explained as system-wide trends. Rather, the variety in organizational design may be understood by identifying common design archtypes within this institutionally specific set of organizations, which is accomplished using historical & contemporary documentary data. 1 Table, 56 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7640

Kunesh, Monica A., Hasbrook, Cynthia A. & Lewthwaite, Rebecca (Dept Human Kinetics U Wisconsin, Milwaukee 53201), Physical Activity Socialization: Peer Interactions and Affective Responses among a Sample of Sixth Grade Girls, Sociology of Sport Journal, 1992, 9, 4, Dec, 385-396.

¶ Considering interactive socialization from a construction & internalization approach, physical activity socialization experiences related to peer interactions & associated affective responses are explored among 8 white girls ages 11-12 in a metropolitan school district. Formal sport, informal physical activity, & exercise are analyzed, drawing on data obtained via observation, sociometric evaluation, & interviews. Physical activity socialization experiences are shown to be context specific both in terms of activity type & social situation (home & school). Boys in physical education classes are the major source of negative peer treatment, primarily by criticizing girls' physical skill performances & constructing them as subordinate to those of the boys. Positive or negative affective responses to peer treatment lead to the seeking or avoidance of future physical activity involvement. The type of attributions participants make for the negative treatment they receive is related to their affective responses & subsequent desire to seek or avoid future activity. 2 Tables, 34 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7641

Lobmeyer, Hans & Weidinger, Ludwig (Instit Sportwissenschaft U Regensburg, D-8400 Federal Republic Germany), Commercialism as a Dominant Factor in the American Sports Scene: Sources, Developments, Perspectives, International Review for the Sociology of Sport, 1992, 27, 4, 309-327.

¶ Factors that have historically allowed for the commercialization of sports in the US include the legal standing of professional sport leagues–allowed to function as monopolies without violating antitrust legislation–& the heavy involvement of the media. The media's role in commercialization is clear with respect to popular, profit-oriented professional sports: TV stations pay expensive broadcasting rights &, in turn, charge enormous sums for commercial spots. What has become clear only recently, however, is how the commercialization of professional sports influences commercialization of other athletic domains, including Division 1 college sports, amateur Olympic sports, & the marketing of sports equipment. A comparison of sports in the US & Federal Republic of Germany demonstrates how social forces, including urbanization & the media, influence commercialization, suggesting that there is no inherent profit orientation in sports. 48 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7642

Morse, Mike (Jesus Coll Cambridge U, CB5 8BL England), Sport as a Model for Cultural Interaction: The Classic Maya Ball Game, Journal of Sport and Social Issues, 1992, 16, 1, spring, 34-48.

¶ The role of sport in modern society is illuminated via an examination of its function in past civilizations, primarily as an arena wherein societies defined conventions of interaction, especially conflict. The ball game of Mesoamerica's classic period is offered as a case study, demonstrating how its growth & decline was linked to the cultural processes that led to the dominance & subsequent downfall of the Maya civilization. The most salient contribution of the ball game was as a public display of local political power, precluding the need for higher-scale military actions. The peacekeeping ability of this violent, quasi-religious sport attests to the significance of sports in the contemporary world. 25 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7643

Murrell, Audrey J. & Gaertner, Samuel L. (Katz School Business U Pittsburgh, PA 15260), Cohesion and Sport Team Effectiveness: The Benefit of a Common Group Identity, Journal of Sport and Social Issues, 1992, 16, 1, spring, 1-14.

¶ Survey data from 94 high school football players from 4 eastern region-schools are used to test the hypothesis that the salience of a common group or team identity will have positive consequences on team performance. Discriminant analysis reveals a single team unity factor that predicted membership in offensive & defensive units. Analysis of variance using this team unity construct indicated that players on winning teams emphasized team unity significantly more than players on teams with losing records. Implications for the applicability of team identification to previous notions of team cohesion are discussed. 1 Table, 42 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7644

Ommundsen, Yngvar & Vaglum, Per (Norwegian U Sport & Physical Education, N-0807 Oslo 8 Norway), Sport-Specific Influences: Impact on Persistence in Soccer among Adolescent Antisocial Soccer Players, Journal of Adolescent Research, 1992, 7, 4, Oct, 507-521.

A prospective investigation of sport-specific influences on the continued participation in soccer of 223 male players ages 12-16 in Oslo, Norway, reporting antisocial behavior symptoms. Questionnaire data indicate that low levels of quality in relationships with friends in soccer, as well as high levels of soccer aggression, significantly reduce soccer persistence among younger antisocial players. Among older players, low enjoyment of & competence in soccer significantly improve the prediction of withdrawal from soccer over & above the main effect of antisocial behavior. Results suggest that players with antisocial behavior symptoms may wish to continue to play soccer, provided that they enjoy the activity, perceive themselves as competent, are able to control their soccer aggression, & have a good relationship with their soccer friends. 3 Tables, 48 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7645

Porro, Nicola (Facoltá Sociologia U Rome, I-00198 Italy), Sport, Political System and Sociology in Italy, International Review for the Sociology of Sport, 1992, 27, 4, 329-341.

¶ In Italy, sport was long considered a powerful means of social control by the liberal elites, the fascist regime, & the pro-Catholic or pro-Left mass organizations. Only since the 1970s has the growth of a self-managed sport movement encouraged sociological research to investigate the new social culture of body & game, the role of sport in a pervasive media system, & football hooliganism. Such studies are briefly reviewed, & directions for further research outlined. 45 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7646

Real, Michael R. & Mechikoff, Robert A. (c/o Mechikoff-Dept Physical Education San Diego State U, CA 92182-0171), Deep Fan: Mythic Identification, Technology, and Advertising in Spectator Sports, Sociology of Sport Journal, 1992, 9, 4, Dec, 323-339.

¶ Based on secondary data on audience size & composition, advertising, commercial infrastructure, & other institutional aspects of the political economy of mass-media sports, it is maintained that the relationship between the media sports fan & the sporting event parallels the position of the ritual participant acting out a mythic celebration. Clifford Geertz has characterized such identification between the viewer/participant & the event as "deep play" (The Interpretation of Culture, New York: Basic Books, 1973). In the modern era, this fan experience is shaped by human interaction as well as media technology & commercial advertising, which provide the structure through which the public accesses media sports. 1 Table, 49 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7647

Vilhjalmsson, Runar & Thorlindsson, Thorolfur (Dept Nursing U Iceland, 101 Reykjavik), The Integrative and Physiological Effects of Sport Participation: A Study of Adolescents, UM The Sociological Quarterly, 1992, 33, 4, winter, 637-647.

¶ Data from a nationwide 1989 survey of 1,200 adolescents in Iceland are used to explore the integrative & physiological effects of sport participation, focusing on mental health & health-related behavior. Results indicate more benefit from club sport than informal group sports, &, in turn, individual sport. As the physiological perspective suggests, beneficial effects are largely due to strenuousness of exercise. However, club sport also has an integrative effect when predicting positive aspects of mental health that is limited to urban communities, as predicted by social integration theory. 2 Tables, 36 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7648

Wann, Daniel L. & Branscombe, Nyla R. (c/o Branscombe-Dept Psychology U Kansas, Lawrence 66045 (e-mail: nyla@ukanvm.bitnet)), Emotional Responses to the Sports Page, Journal of Sport and Social Issues, 1992, 16, 1, spring, 49-64.

¶ Emotional responses to a news article recounting a sports team's overtime loss were explored in a sample of sports fans (N = 227 undergraduates at the U of Kansas, Lawrence) classified as either high or low in team involvement. Responses varied as a function of emotional investment in the team: among highly involved fans, the most positive mood state followed exposure to an article in which his/her team won & the sports writer celebrated the victory; the most negative mood resulted when a fan's team lost & the writer rooted for the winning team. Statistically insignificant patterns are also identified, & implications for research on sports spectators, news coverage, & emotion regulation are discussed. 1 Table, 2 Figures, 41 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7649

Wonsek, Pamela L. (Hunter Coll, New York NY 10021), College Basketball on Television: A Study of Racism in the Media, Media Culture & Society, 1992, 14, 3, July, 449-461.

¶ The role that images of black collegiate athletes in college basketball games play in perpetuating racism in the US is analyzed based on videotapes of 12 National Collegiate Athletic Assoc (NCAA) tournament games, including the 550 commercials aired during them. The image of basketball being a "black" event because of the preponderance of black athletes was undercut by the predominance of white fans, coaches, sportcasters, & cheerleaders at the games. Only 20% of the commercials had any identifiably black personages, & only 10% had major black personages. Blacks were entirely absent from commercials advertising middle-class products, eg, personal hygiene & power equipment, but overrepresented in sports equipment advertisements. NCAA-sponsored public service messages on the importance of education & the dangers of drug abuse mostly featured black spokesmen. The game images imply that blacks in basketball serve the entertainment needs of white fans, while the commercials use blacks in ways that benefit the white establishment. The majority of black collegiate athletes are exploited by their institutions, which in no way ensures them a future. 1 Table, 24 References. M. Pflum

93Z7650

Zakus, Dwight H. (Dept Sociology & Social Studies U Regina, Saskatchewan S4S 0A2), The International Olympic Committee: Tragedy, Farce, and Hypocrisy, Sociology of Sport Journal, 1992, 9, 4, Dec, 340-353.

¶ It is argued that many actions taken by the International Olympic Committee (IOC) have led to tragic &/or farcical results. By comparing the IOC presidency of Pierre de Coubertin with that of Avery Brundage, & the decisions made in the denial of Jim Thorpe's victories with the suspension of Karl Schranz, examples of tragedy & farce in the history of the Olympic movement are revealed, as well as how some of these actions & decisions have become hypocritical. The notion of hypocrisy is contained in J. Hoberman's idea of "amoral universalism" (see The Olympic Crisis: Sport, Politics and the Moral Order, New Rochelle, NY: Aristade D. Caratzas, 1986). Several times the IOC has had to reverse its decisions regarding athletes that resulted from hypocritical actions of the IOC in its attempt to maintain its version of Olympism as the guiding philosophy of the Olympic movement. The recent events surrounding Canadian athlete Ben Johnson exemplify how "amoral universalism," & consequently the hypocrisy inherent in the Olympic movement, continue to affect the direct producers of Olympic performances. 43 References. Adapted from the source document.

0900 political sociology/interactions

11 interactions between societies, nations, & states

93Z7651

Barnett, Vincent (ISEES U Glasgow, G12 8QQ Scotland), Recent Soviet Writings on Economic Theory and Policy from NEP, Coexistence, 1992, 29, 3, Sept, 257-275.

¶ A survey of Soviet economic literature written during perestroika that attempted to reinterpret the actions of economists during the period of NEP (New Economic Policy [1921-1929]), including N. I. Bukharin, N. D Kondrat'ev, L. N. Yurovskii, A. V. Chayanov, & V. A. Bazarov. A division into economic theory & policy is adopted to demonstrate that this literature was concerned more with justifying Mikhail Gorbachev's reform program than with presenting a more accurate picture of history. It is suggested that now that attempts to reform the old administrative-command model have been abandoned, literature that examines past Soviet attempts at reform may have little relevance to current problems. 1 Table. Modified AA (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7652

Beidelman, T. O. (Dept Anthropology New York U, NY 10021), Millennium, Cultural Anthropology, 1992, 7, 4, Nov, 508-515.

¶ A review article on a book by David Maybury-Lewis, Millennium: Tribal Wisdom and the Modern World (New York: Viking Penguin, 1992 [see listing in IRPS No. 67]). This book, a companion to a 10-hour public TV series of the same name, describes how tribal people think & why this should be of interest to the general public, drawing on examples from the Dogon of Mali, Australian Aborigines, the Makuna of Colombia, & numerous others. A personal version of the philosophy of preliterate peoples is presented here, arguing that such peoples need to be preserved within the larger cultures that now surround them. The book romanticizes tribals with primitive technologies, comparing them only to Western culture, & ignoring non-Western civilization & cultures. J. Taylor (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7653

Bergesen, Albert (Dept Sociology U Arizona, Tucson 85721 [e-mail: aberg@arizrvax.bitnet]), Regime Change in the Semiperiphery: Democratization in Latin America and the Socialist Bloc, UM Sociological Perspectives, 1992, 35, 2, summer, 405-413.

¶ State socialist Eastern Europe & dependent capitalist Latin America both experienced a transition to democratic politics in the 1980s. Explored here are reasons why this regime change occurred at this particular time & why only in the semiperipheral zone of the world system. An answer is proposed that links convulsive political restructuring to the downturn phase of long Kondratieff-like economic cycles of the world-economy. Specifically, the generalized downturn that the world-economy entered in the 1970s represents the beginning of a Kondratieff B-Phase of economic difficulty, the political response to which is mediated by a state's zonal position in the larger world system. More powerful core nations respond by acting outwardly, in attempt to control the external environment through mechanisms such as the formation of economic blocs, eg, Europe's move toward economic cooperation in 1992 & North American free-trade negotiations. Semiperipheral nations, being more constrained & weaker, act inwardly, changing their regimes to better deal with economic hardships. Finally, peripheral nations, weakest & most constrained, take little or no political action. 29 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7654

Coen, Anna, La pubblica amministrazione italiana verso la Comunità Europea (Italian Public Administration toward the European Community), UM La Critica Sociologica, 1991-1992, 100-101, Jan-Mar, 27-43. (ITA)

¶ The issue of privatization is very relevant to current reform projects in Italian public administration in light of the impending European economic integration. A critical analysis of various hypotheses about privatization shows that if civil service jobs were awarded by merit, the bureaucratic oligarchy could be changed into a merit aristocracy, suitable for representing the Italian elite in a European context. Recently proposed legislation is reviewed focusing on the thesis that handing out work to government contractors will help the economy function more smoothly. 91 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7655

Colombo, Umberto, La ricerca come fattore di integrazione paneuropea (Research as a Factor of Pan-European Integration), UM La Critica Sociologica, 1991-1992, 100-101, Jan-Mar, 11-17. (ITA)

¶ Recent tumultuous events in Central & Eastern Europe point toward political & economic instability, making it difficult to foresee how the process of European integration could be extended eastward. The collapse of the planned economies due to their incapacity to provide an acceptable level of socioeconomic (SE) development & to use resources (especially human) intelligently & productively provides a destabilizing potential that could compromise the solidity of Western European SE systems. The upheavel is particularly noted in the scientific community in the form of a brain drain & political restructuring of universities & research institutions. The development of new private cooperative ventures will to a large degree determine the success of marketable scientific research in the former socialist countries. Special attention is given to the need for international cooperation in the study of energy resources, especially nuclear power. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7656

Connor, Walker (Dept Political Science Trinity Coll, Hartford CT 06106), The Nation and Its Myth, International Journal of Comparative Sociology, 1992, 33, 1-2, Jan-Apr, 48-57.

¶ The essence of the nation is the belief of its members that they are ancestrally related. In a number of cases, the myth of common descent has been given specific content in the form of a national genealogy linking the present generation of members to a legendary figure. The sense of common kinship does not require familiarity with such a genealogy, however. Unlike most scholars, national leaders have been acutely aware of the sense of kinship that lies at the core of national consciousness & have commonly appealed to it as a means of mobilizing the masses. A number of illustrations are cited to demonstrate that appealing to the notion of the extended family has been a stratagem of national leaders along the entire ideological spectrum. The sense of kinship also explains why surnames often serve as the prinicipal marker of national identity. It is also what invests the national bond with a special potency & causes nationalism to be more potent than patriotism. 18 References. AA (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7657

Cooper, Andrew Fenton (Dept Political Science U Waterloo, Ontario N2L 3G1), Like-Minded Nations and Contrasting Diplomatic Styles: Australian and Canadian Approaches to Agricultural Trade, Canadian Journal of Political Science/Revue canadienne de science politique, 1992, 25, 2, June, 349-379.

¶ Despite similar objectives in the international political economy, including multilateralism & compromise-/compliance-based economic relations, a historical/comparative study of agricultural trade in Australia & Canada reveals sharp differences in diplomatic style. Based on representative episodes of trade diplomacy since 1950, each country's style in dealing with the "fair-trading" nations is shown to represent opposites in problem-solving orientation & accommodation to major actors. With an aggressive, activist, confrontational style, Australian diplomacy featured a tough-mindedness, impatience, & quick fixes, while Canada's has been an accommodative, consensus-oriented, reactive, & quietly building diplomacy. Unlike Canada, whose exporting is broadly diversified & stable, Australia's export economy is disadvantaged in the illiberal trading environment because it relies principally on agricultural products. 3 Tables, 1 Figure. J. Sadler (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

0038-0202/93 $1.50

93Z7658

De Marco, Ettore, Comunicatori e comunicazioni. Note in margine al dibattito sull'Europa (Communicators and Communications. Marginal Notes on the Debate in Europe), UM La Critica Sociologica, 1991-1992, 100-101, Jan-Mar, 76-78. (ITA)

¶ Recent changes in the audiovisual communications field in Europe on the technical level were accompanied by changes in the financing & internationalization of this industry. Satellite networks & computerized electronics revolutionized the mass media, bringing about new economic & political problems. The profession of the communicator assumed a political dimension, posing a challenge to the commitment to pluralism normally required of professionals. Implications for the creation of a single market within the European Community are discussed, with special attention on the growing role of TV as the leading medium for the spread of information through innovative formats. The relationship between media & culture is also reviewed. M. Meeks

93Z7659

Della Pergola, Giuliano, Quel remoto (ma tanto prossimo) 1492 (That Remote (But Very Close) 1492), UM La Critica Sociologica, 1991-1992, 100-101, Jan-Mar, 59-75. (ITA)

¶ The year 1492 was a milestone marking three important historical events: (1) the death of Piero della Francesca, an influential artist of the Italian Renaissance; (2) the beginning of the persecution of the Jews in Spain & the conversion of many to Catholicism; & (3) the landing of Christopher Columbus on San Salvador. Special attention is given to the converted Jews, or marranos, many of whom publicly practiced Christianity while privately practicing Judaism, & to the cruelties & injustices of the Inquisition. A contrastive analysis is presented of interpretations of the motivations for Columbus's voyage presented in Simon Wiesenthal's Operazione nuovo mondo ([Operation New World) no publication information given), arguing that Columbus sought to smuggle Jews out of Spain &, by circumnavigating the globe, take them to the mythical Khazar Jewish state in Asia Minor, & Historie de C. Colombo scritte dal figlio Fernando ([Stories of C. Columbus Written by His Son Fernando] Caddeo, Riccardo [Ed], Rome: Erre emme, 1990). According to Wiesenthal, Columbus's financial backers were Jews, he was the son of a Jewish mother & therefore Jewish himself, & he did not take any Catholic priests on the voyage. According to Caddeo, Columbus's backers were Italian capitalists, he had no Jewish blood, & the absence of a priest indicated a totally secular, commercial venture. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7660

Eder, Klaus, Verso una nuova base della cittadinanza (Toward a New Basis for Citizenship), Religioni e Società, 1992, 7, 13, Jan-June, 16-25. (ITA)

¶ Following preliminary remarks on collective identity & the national state, attention is focused on recent changes in the character of the European nations. In this century, the European national state has ceased to be the exclusive domain of the elite bourgeoisie; civil rights of individual liberty & participation have been extended to the working class & the have-nots. Human rights have been changed to citizens' rights. Eventually the emphasis has changed from defensive citizens' rights (to the vote & to basic freedoms) to offensive rights (including social & economic guarantees). A new moral basis of citzenship is being developed on the basis of communality found in recognizing differences inherent in cultural heterogeneity. M. Meeks

93Z7661

Edgell, Stephen & Townshend, Jules (U Salford, M5 4WT England), John Hobson, Thorstein Veblen and the Phenomenon of Imperialism: Finance Capital, Patriotism and War, The American Journal of Economics and Sociology, 1992, 51, 4, Oct, 401-420.

¶ The views of John Hobson & Thorstein Veblen on imperialism are compared. Both condemned imperialism on economic & political grounds, with Veblen's attack being the more hostile. Both also advanced dualistic explanations of imperialism, with Hobson emphasizing economic forces & Veblen stressing ideological forces; & both agreed that modern imperialism could be remedied by the implementation of an international system of law & order. Unlike Hobson, however, Veblen argued for the abolition of both capitalism & patriotism. The similarities & differences in their analyses of imperialism reflect the British liberal & US radical traditions within which Hobson & Veblen, respectively, operated. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7662

Fossi, Giulio, L'Italie, laboratoire des relations Nord-Sud (Italy: A Laboratory of North-South Relations), Futuribles, 1992, 168, Sept, 77-81. (FRE)

¶ Over the last forty years, an administrative effort was made in Italy to amend the North-South economic disequilibrium. The effort was modeled after the experience of the US Tennessee Valley Authority & supported by the World Bank. Examined are the mistakes of the Italian project: (1) planning ahead for only five years; (2) emphasis given initially to transportation infrastructure that merely facilitated massive work migrations to the North; & (3) insufficient policies to enhance foreign investment in the South. The characteristics of the Italian disequilibrium are considered analogous to global imbalances. Lessons from the failed Italian efforts may be applied in policies relating to the Third World. 1 Table, 1 Figure. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7663

Ghirelli, Massimo, L'Europa senza (Europe Without), UM La Critica Sociologica, 1991-1992, 100-101, Jan-Mar, 90-96. (ITA)

¶ The current problems of immigration to European Community (EC) nations from outside the EC are complicated by the wide variety of policies adopted by member nations. It is not possible for the EC to develop as a single economic entity if the member nations do not adopt a uniform immigration policy. The current state of affairs shows a lack of knowledge, identity, models, shame, boundaries, culture, & democracy. Additionally, there is not enough work & the collapse of communism blurred the distinction between economic refugees & those seeking asylum. M. Meeks

93Z7664

Horowitz, Donald L. (School Law Duke U, Durham NC 27706), Irredentas and Secessions: Adjacent Phenomena, Neglected Connections, International Journal of Comparative Sociology, 1992, 33, 1-2, Jan-Apr, 118-130.

¶ Some transborder groups have the choice of secessionist movements or irredentist movements. However, for several reasons more of them will choose secession than irredentism. Many states are inhibited from pursuing irredentas, & many groups that might be subject to irredentist movements find incorporation in another neighboring state unattractive because they do not want to become a minority group there, or because the other state is poorer or less prestigious. Secessionist movements also offer surer political rewards for their leaders in the future independent government than would be found in an already established government of a neighboring state. 11 References. AA

93Z7665

Houweling, Henk W. & Siccama, Jan G. (Dept International Relations & International Law U Amsterdam, NL-1012 WX Netherlands), Escalation to World War: The Power Transition Hypothesis as an Alternative to Systemic Theories, Acta Politica, 1992, 27, 1, Jan, 93-109.

¶ Traditional functionalist schools of thought assign an international-level system-maintaining & -rejuvenating function to world wars. Here, an alternative approach is presented that ignores the meaning behind warfare & stresses the importance of dyadic power transitions at the systemic level. Analysis of unequal dyads, equal dyads, & dyads with overtaking (ie, with one dyad partner surpassing the other), & the timing of war outbreaks over 20-year periods 1816-1975 suggests that changes in a nation's capability, either modernization or decline, are a necessary condition for war, & that wars are significantly correlated with power transitions in dyads of major powers. Methodological limitations of the study include establishment of time frames & lack of analysis of the impact of intervening variables, eg, motivation, on the outbreak of war. 5 Tables, 25 References. D. Generoli

93Z7666

Keefe, Thomas W. (Dept Social Work U Northern Iowa, Cedar Falls 50614-0405), The Human Family and Its Children under the Nuclear Addiction, International Social Work, 1992, 35, 1, Jan, 65-77.

¶ A survey of recent research regarding the impact of the nuclear arms race on human's psychosocial development & functioning. It is suggested that Earth's human family has become dysfunctional: the family heads are addicted to a death-orientation process, other adults enable this addiction through mixed reactions of anxiety & denial, teenagers exhibit both concern & despair, & most of the children are too afraid to voice their fears. It is suggested that social workers are in a unique position to help solve this problem through private practice & public discourse. 35 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7667

Kriesberg, Louis (Dept Sociology Syracuse U, NY 13244), Transformations in the Soviet Union and in East-West Relations: Epilogue, Research in Social Movements, Conflicts and Change, 1992, 14, 291-297.

¶ The social theory & public policy implications of the transformations in the former USSR & in East-West relations are examined. Understanding the changes requires reconsideration of at least four aspects of social theory: (1) the role of ideas in social change; (2) the relationship between changing material conditions & ideas; (3) the appropriate unit of analysis for studying social change; & (4) the nature of revolutionary change. Though social policy decisionmakers in the US will likely view the East-Central European changes from some perspective of East-West relations, their choice of perspective will have vastly different implications. If the end of the Cold war is viewed as stemming from the use of military force, then military force will likely be considered a viable option in future conflicts. Viewing the end of the Cold war as a triumph of the power of US ideas of democracy has much different implications. 4 References. D. Generoli (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7668

Lanternari, Vittorio, Europa: dalla nazione pluriculturale alla identità supernazionale (Europe: From Pluricultural Nation to Supernational Identity), UM La Critica Sociologica, 1991-1992, 100-101, Jan-Mar, 44-58. (ITA)

¶ A comparative historical & anthropological analysis is presented of the concept of national identity in Europe. Territorial borders were never identical with cultural boundaries. Lately, immigration has brought about contact between very different cultures. As such, it would be wrong to talk about identity solely in a territorial sense. The idea of a closed identity should give way to the more open idea of mature, dynamic cooperation between cultures. Special attention is given to conflicts in the Balkans & the former USSR & to issues of immigration. 47 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7669

Leon, Paolo, I dilemmi dell'Unione Europea (The Dilemmas of the European Union), UM La Critica Sociologica, 1991-1992, 100-101, Jan-Mar, 1-10. (ITA)

¶ A discussion of problems inherent in European economic unity after the implementation of the Maastricht treaty. Economic integration will be complicated by six different types of national situations: (1) low inflation, socially stable, & wealthy (Netherlands, Denmark, & Luxembourg); (2) low inflation, wealthy, & socially unstable (France); (3) low inflation, socially stable, & poor (Ireland, Portugal); (4) moderate inflation, socially unstable (Germany, UK, Belgium, & Spain); (5) high inflation, economically backward, & socially unstable (Italy); & (6) very high inflation & underdevelopment with social instability (Greece). It remains to be seen whether the European Community (EC) will be driven primarily by the economic engine of a reunified Germany, or whether the convergence of the national economies will lead to a more homogeneous level across the continent. It is expected that Austria, Finland, Norway, Sweden, & Switzerland will eventually enter the EC; however, the future participation of the former Warsaw Pact nations & USSR constituent republics seems extremely remote for the foreseeable future. Special attention is given to the economic problems of southern Italy that complicate the country's integration into the EC. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7670

Macioti, Manfredo, La Comunità Europea nel mondo: il ruolo della ricerca (The European Community in the World: The Role of Research), UM La Critica Sociologica, 1991-1992, 100-101, Jan-Mar, 18-26. (ITA)

¶ The role of research & technology will be basic to the ambitious projects planned for the European Community (EC) after the implementation of the Maastricht accords. In early 1993, internal trade barriers between the twelve member nations will be abolished. By 1998, it is hoped that there will be a single currency. Attention is focused on the convergence between scientific & technological research & relations with the rest of the world. Current energy research programs are enumerated. Also discussed are EC relations with Eastern Europe & the former USSR, the US, Canada, Japan, & the Third World. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7671

MacKenzie, John M. (U Lancaster, LA1 4YW England), European Imperialism: Comparative Approaches, European History Quarterly, 1992, 22, 3, July, 415-429.

¶ The definitional problems related to imperialism, imperialist, & imperialistic, & the rich conceptualization of problematics, stimulated a wide range of comparative approaches to the study of European imperial systems in the late-nineteenth & early-twentieth centuries. Most notable among these are studies not only from GB, but from the US, the German Historical Instit, & the Leiden (Netherlands) Centre for the History of European Expansion. The latter group has published a number of books on imperialism–more recently, on imperialism & environmental concerns. Insights derived from anthropology & poststructuralist theory color these efforts. M. Pflum (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7672

Magni, Roberto, Europa: meglio merci che persone? (Europe: Better Goods than People?), UM La Critica Sociologica, 1991-1992, 100-101, Jan-Mar, 97-102. (ITA)

¶ European Community policy toward immigration, despite plans for economic integration, is not unified; each of the twelve member nations relegates immigration problems to its Minister of the Interior. A standardized, coordinated policy is needed for work contracts, family reunions, & rejection of inappropriate immigrants. It is argued that immigrant rights should be delineated by considering them as citizens, not as workers. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7673

McLauchlan, Gregory (Dept Sociology U Oregon, Eugene 97403), The End of the Cold War as a Social Process, Research in Social Movements, Conflicts and Change, 1992, 14, 49-74.

¶ The view that the end of the Cold war (CW) was solely the product of shifts by policy elites is challenged, arguing instead that it can best be understood as a social process that rose & then fell over a period of four decades. After first comparing how the CW came to be a constitutive feature of the US & USSR post-WWII economic & political systems, showing that it actually became a core part of the central institutions of both systems, the breakdown of CW institutions in the 1970s & 1980s is traced, focusing on increasing crisis tendencies in the economy, military technology & the arms race, & political legitimation. A comparative analysis shows why these crises were far more severe in the USSR than in the US, focusing on factors such as the USSR's inability to finance its military buildup by borrowing on the international market. In conclusion it is anticipated that as the CW ends, this will involve social processes & social change in the former Soviet societies, & in the US, over a period of decades. 96 References. Modified AA (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7674

Patchen, Martin (Dept Sociology Purdue U, West Lafayette IN 47907), Explaining the Cold War in the Context of Theories of Inter-Nation Conflict, Research in Social Movements, Conflicts and Change, 1992, 14, 141-164.

¶ In a discussion of Soviet-American rivalry in the context of more general theories of international conflict & rivalry, decision theory & game theory are drawn on to try to understand how aspects of the international & domestic situations faced by US & Soviet leaders led them to choose conflictive or combative actions at various times. After first considering how the actions of US & Soviet leaders have been affected by major aspects of the international situation, by the conditions internal to each nation, & by the actions of the rival, relations between the two nations are examined from a chronological perspective. For each time period, the ways in which the particular combination of situational factors in that period affected the decisions of the two nations' leaders are described. 66 References. AA (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7675

Prini, Pietro, Spazio e "nomadismo." Il Duemila sarà dei nòmadi? (Space and "Nomadism." Will the Third Millenium Belong to the Nomads?), Religioni e Società, 1992, 7, 13, Jan-June, 9-15. (ITA)

¶ The dissolution of the USSR & Yugoslavia have given dramatic impulse to conflicts among other nationalities, including in more backward parts of Asia, Africa, & Central America. Considering the blood being shed in struggles for national liberation, the question is raised of whether the nation-state is a practical idea worth fighting for in this time of economic & political integration. In fact, as the third millenium approaches, the huge migratory fluxes of people throughout the world seem to be ushering in a new age of nomads. The national state may be becoming an anachronism. M. Meeks (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7676

Sanders, Jerry W. (U California, Berkeley 94720), The War of Historical Interpretation and the Prospects for Peace in the Post-Cold War Era, Research in Social Movements, Conflicts and Change, 1992, 14, 255-289.

¶ Three intellectual currents explaining the end of the Cold war (CW) have emerged & are competing for influence over policy: (1) the end of the CW is a Western victory, & signals the end of history as presently known; (2) the CW was a period of stability & peace, & its disappearance will lead to the renewal of old conflicts; & (3) the end of the CW offers an opportunity for CW allies to withdraw from alliances & will lead to the emergence of geoeconomic nationalism. An alternative historical-structuralist interpretation sees the CW's ending as a process of world history involving short-term cyclical repetition & long-term systemic evolution. It marks the beginning of a period of deconcentration. D. Generoli (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7677

Schramm, Florian & Schlese, Michael (Faculty Economics Free U Berlin, D-1000 33 Federal Republic Germany), From Solidarity to Cooperation: The German Case, Futures, 1992, 24, 2, Mar, 173-178.

¶ Subjective aspects of German unification are discussed, concentrating on mainly economic solidarity & cooperation between East & West Germans. An aloof attitude of the East Germans toward West Germany plays a central role at present. Also, evidence derived from a new-identity-finding process indicates that hopes for a quick mental German unification are premature. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7678

Starkey, Brigid A. (Dept Political Science West Virginia U, Morgantown 26506), Foreign Policy in the Muslim World: A Dialogue between State and Society, Political Communication, 1992, 9, 1, Jan-Mar, 31-45.

¶ Following the demise of communism & the advent of the 1990/91 Gulf war, some Western elites have expressed concern about a possible Islamic challenge to the prevailing international order. Here, the validity of this concern is assessed by analyzing patterns of interaction & the notion of foreign-policy change in four Muslim countries–Iran, Egypt, Algeria, & Indonesia–as well as some developments in the larger Muslim world. Juxtaposing social change on foreign policy, it is postulated that: (1) economic realism is the definitive force in the international relations of these states; (2) "militant Islam" is more of a tool of radical diplomacy than a manifestation of transnationalism; & (3) ties between Muslim states display a regional regime-style orientation. It is concluded that domestic Islamization is a force, which, overall, is contributing to accountability &, therefore, rationalization in the foreign-policy realm. 1 Table. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7679

Strang, David (Dept Sociology Cornell U, Ithaca NY 14853 [e-mail: dgsy@cornella.bitnet]), The Inner Incompatibility of Empire and Nation: Popular Sovereignty and Decolonization, UM Sociological Perspectives, 1992, 35, 2, summer, 367-384.

¶ It is contended that metropolitan political theories & institutions grounded in popular sovereignty help to produce decolonization. Radical distinctions between metropolis & dependency arise only when communities, not rulers, are the theoretical source of political authority. Metropoles organized around popular sovereignty tend to legitimate peripheral claims to autonomy, & to construct political institutions (most importantly colonial legislatures) that voice such claims. Secondary cross-national data on 5 Western empires shows that, where political models were based on popular sovereignty (GB, the US, & France), decolonization resulted from internal tensions between theory & practice. Where empire was organized around dynastic principles (Spain & Portugal), empires dissolved as a result of external pressures. Dominant global models have additional effects, blurring differences between empires when popular sovereignty is widely accepted. 26 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7680

Toth, James (U New Hampshire, Durham 03824), Demonizing Saddam Hussein: Manipulating Racism as a Prelude to War, New Political Science, 1992, 21-22, spring-summer, 5-39.

¶ The demonizing of Iraq's President Saddam Hussein occurred as public opinion was manipulated prior to the 1991 Gulf war. In order to gain support for counter-violence against Iraq's Aug 1990 invasion of Kuwait, US government media agents cast Hussein as a nefarious, Hitler-like figure. However, Hussein's demonization was a false depiction of a leader once supported by the US. Such villianization of a leader of an unfamiliar Middle Eastern society by an unchecked media also occurred during the Iranian hostage crisis. The process arises from US anxiety over its hegemonic superiority in the region, & from a wider campaign of anti-Arab racism. Arabs & Moslems, in resisting colonialism, have suffered under this process, even those residing in the US. M. Pflum (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7681

Walby, Sylvia (Dept Sociology London School Economics & Political Science, WC2A 2AE England), Woman and Nation, International Journal of Comparative Sociology, 1992, 33, 1-2, Jan-Apr, 81-100.

¶ It is maintained that gender relations cannot be analyzed apart from ethnic, national, & race relations, & neither can these latter three issues be examined without consideration of gender. Patterns of gender relations, it is argued, often assume spatial units similar to those of class & ethnicity, nation, & race. Several recent commentators on the relationship between gender & nation are discussed, & it is shown that the connection between nationalism & feminism is mediated by militarism, since women & men often have different relationships to war. Other issues discussed include: the relationship of gender relations, the British state, & Westernization; & why women & men hold different identifications with national projects & different commitments to different forms of macrolevel groupings. 57 References. W. Howard (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7682

Zakzouk, Mahmoud (Faculty Islamic Theology Al Azhar U, Cairo Egypt), Cultural Relations between the West and the World of Islam: Meeting Points and Possibilities of Co-Operation on the Academic Level, Islam & Christian-Muslim Relations, 1992, 3, 1, June, 69-82. Translated by Michael Walpole.

¶ It is contended that although the West & the world of Islam must communicate to resolve both political & ecological problems, the West continues its discrimination against Islam, & Islam is even misunderstood in its own camp. Efforts to research Islam on the academic level, impartially & free of prejudice, are therefore most important. Western civilization & technology have been adopted in the Islamic world, whereas, so far as the humanities are concerned, an attitude of unconditional acceptance coexists with one of total rejection. Critical discussion & argument with the West must in no way be separated from a thoroughgoing Islamic self-criticism. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

5 sociology of political systems, politics, & power

Z7683
Andor, László (Dept Political Science Budapest U Economic Sciences, Ráday u 43/45 Budapest H-1092 Hungary), The New Right in Eastern Europe: A Vision of Decline and Decay, Futures, 1992, 24, 2, Mar, 122-129.
In the aftermath of the massive political transitions in Eastern Europe 1989/90, the new ruling forces now leading these countries can be characterized as regional adaptations of the neoconservative new Right. They want to return to a supposed natural, free, & stateless society, after era when the central state power provided the balancing & developing forces in the society. Having seen the poor performance of the new Right the West, their future in Eastern Europe looks bleak in the 1990s. 7 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

Z7684
Back, Les & Solomos, John (Birkbeck Coll U London, WC1E 7HU England), Black Politics and Social Change in Birmingham, UK: An Analysis of Recent Trends, Ethnic and Racial Studies, 1992, 15, 3, July, 327-351.
An examination of the dynamics of the racialization of British political e through an analysis of the changing patterns of racial politics in Birmingham. Two main issues are addressed: (1) the process through which hnic minorities have mobilized in the context of local politics, & (2) the sponses of political parities to racial & ethnic questions within Birmingham. This case study illustrates how constructions of race need to located within particular discursive fields. 15 References. Adapted om the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

3Z7685
Brokl, Lubomír (Instit Sociology Czechoslovak Academy Sciences, Jilská 1 CS-11000 Prague 1 [Tel: 42-2-235-89-68-71; FAX: 42-2-235-78-88]), Between November 1989 and Democracy–Antinomies of Our Politics, Sociologický Časopis, 1992, 28, special issue, Aug, 23-36.
The principal antimony of Czechoslovak domestic politics in the two ears since the revolution is the necessity of solving the social problems f transition to democracy, which will itself require democratic mechanisms before a philosophy of politics, law, or a general philosophy of posttotalitarian life can be fashioned. It is argued that Czechoslovakian democracy did not originate in a natural way from below & is missing a conception of transition. The adoption of legislative & organizational measures partly will create new situations & institutions & will also partly open space for appropriate existing institutions. However, the latter effect is dismissed by contemporary politics, which are not locally or regionally based, but rather continue to stem from the state. 9 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7686
Brokl, Lubomír (Instit Sociology Czechoslovak Academy Sciences, Jilská 1 CS-11000 Prague 1 [Tel: 42-2-235-89-68-71; FAX: 42-2-235-78-88]), The Results and Consequences of the 1992 Elections, Sociologický Časopis, 1992, 28, special issue, Aug, 119-123.
¶ At the time of the 1992 parliamentary elections in Czechoslovakia, political parties & movements existed in three broad categories: (1) fifty active across the Czech & Slovak Federal Republic, (2) twenty-four active in the Czech Republic, & (3) thirty-three active in the Slovak Republic. Only thirteen of these parties received over the 5% vote necessary for representation. The elections, in which 85% of the citizens in the Czech & Slovak republics voted, were characterized by resistance to partisanship. In the Czech Republic the right-wing won convincingly while the left-wing won in the Slovak Republic. 2 Tables. D. Generoli (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7687
Broklová, Eva & Brokl, Lubomír (Instit World History Czechoslovak Academy Sciences, CS-11000 Prague 1), Od politické demokracie k totalitarismu Volby 1946–projev vůle lidu? (From Political Democracy to Totalitarianism in the Elections of 1946–A Manifestation of People's Will?), Sociológia, 1991, 23, 5-6, 411-423. (CZE)
¶ A key aspect of Czech & Slovak self-reflection over modern history is the need to abandon stereotypes leading to the incrimination of each other for the installation of totalitarianism after WWII. Slovaks long tended to blame the Czechs, since the proportion of the population voting for communist party candidates in 1946 was 10% higher among the Czechs than the Slovaks. Although the communists won a simple plurality in 1946, they depended on a coalition with other parties. With the emigration of those advocating democracy, there was no strong ideology able to oppose Leninism masked under traditional European socialist values. A postwar left-wing & pro-Slav stance was taken by both the Communist & Social Democratic parties. Special attention is given to the Communists' appeal to win over the farmers after the prohibition of the Agrarian party, & to the electoral disappointments of the Communists in Slovakia. 1 Table, 31 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7688
Bútorová, Zora, Frič, Pavol, Rossová, Tatiana & Dobrovodský, Mario (Instit Social Analysis Comenius U, CS-81806 Bratislava Czechoslovakia), Rok po: Vývoj politickej scény na Slovensku v zrkadle výskumov (One Year After: The Development of the Political Scene in Slovakia in the Mirror of Research), Sociológia, 1991, 23, 5-6, 425-468. (CZE)
¶ During the "normalization" period after the velvet (anticommunist) revolution of 1989, Slovakia appeared as the most humiliated & pacified region of long-suffering Czechoslovakia; however, the general feeling of social decay was less intense in Slovakia, & the polarization of society was not so profound. Analysis of 1989/90 questionnaire data (N not given) illustrates important trends in politics, parliamentary elections, & local developments. Special attention is given to the Public against Violence movement as a revolutionary agent in Slovakia, ultimately leading to the downfall of the communist regime. Also discussed is the splintering of the movement into various other groups, under a process of political pluralization, including the Christian Democratic movement, the Slovak National party, the Democratic party, the Green party, & the Coexistence coalition movement. 11 Graphs, 8 Maps, 49 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7689
Caplow, Theodore (U Virginia, Charlottesville 22903), The Political Geometry of the Gulf War, The Tocqueville Review/La Revue Tocqueville, 1992, 13, 1, 201-209.
¶ A brief review of the politico-military alli ances that resulted from the Cold war serves as background for understanding the 1991 Gulf war & US policy in the Middle East. Topics discussed include: the process by which Iraq won the support of both superpowers during its war with Iran, reasons why the US was unwilling to tolerate Iranian domination of the Middle East, & US efforts to settle the Arab-Israeli conflict. It is concluded that: without the presence of the USSR to assure bipolarity in the Middle East, the realization of Saddam Hussein's dream of a Greater Arabia cannot be ruled out; & the US is currently trying to satisfy Palestinian grievances so that they can no longer be used to mobilize anti-American sentiment in the Islamic world. 7 References. W. Howard (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7690
Cohen, G. A. (All Souls Coll, Oxford OX1 4AL England), The Future of a Disillusion, Queen's Quarterly, 1992, 99, 2, summer, 280-296.
¶ Personal experiences as a child & adolescent in the communist movement in Montreal, Quebec, in the decade following WWII are drawn on in a reflection on the failure of Soviet socialism. Four traditional socialist criticisms of the market are reviewed: the market economy is inefficient, it signifies lack of social control over social development, it fosters distributive injustice, & it nourishes selfish motivation. The first two criticisms are rejected, & the second two defended. 18 References. Modified AA (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7691
Cohen, Joshua & Rogers, Joel (Massachusetts Instit Technology, Cambridge 02139), Secondary Associations and Democratic Governance, Politics and Society, 1992, 20, 4, Dec, 393-472.
Comments, 473-534.

¶ Following an editorial introduction to this special journal issue that summarizes the current transitions to democracy underway across the globe, considered is the role in the US & other developed welfare states of secondary associations (SAs), ie, nonfamilial organizations that mediate between individuals & firms, & between the institutions of the state & the formal electoral system. Assertions regarding the "mischiefs of faction" allegedly produced by SAs are changing in democratic theory & practice, with new speculation offered on how SAs can help solve rather than create problems of faction. A general strategy for accomplishing this is outlined, demonstrating how SA groups & systems of group representation can contribute to favorable economic performance & state efficiency while maintaining the democratic ideals of popular sovereignty & political equality. Three contemporary perspectives on SAs & factionalism in democratic societies are critically evaluated–neoliberal constitutionalism, civic republicanism, & egalitarian pluralism. Steps required to implement "associative democracy"–the deliberate politics of SAs–are enumerated. Eight commentaries follow, including: Comments on "Secondary Associations and Democratic Governance," by Paul Q. Hirst (Birkbeck Coll, U of London, England); An Institutional Critique of Associative Democracy: Commentary on "Secondary Associations and Democratic Governance," by Ellen M. Immergut (Massachusetts Instit of Technology, Cambridge); Soft on Capitalism: Prospects for Secondary Associations and Democratic Governance, by Andrew Levine (U of Wisconsin, Madison); A Deliberate Perspective on Neocorporatism, by Jane Mansbridge (Northwestern U, Evanston, Ill); The Irony of Modern Democracy and Efforts to Improve Its Practice, by Philippe C. Schmitter (Stanford U, Calif); Inclusion and Secession: Questions of the Boundaries of Associative Democracy, by Wolfgang Streeck (U of Wisconsin, Madison); Progress through Mischief: The Social Movement Alternative to Secondary Associations, by Andrew Szasz (U of California, Santa Cruz); & Social Groups in Associative Democracy, by Iris Marion Young (U of Pittsburgh, Pa). K. Hyatt

93Z7692

Di Franco, Giovanni (Facoltà sociologia U Roma, I-00185 Italy), Le cinque Italie rivisitate: nuovi strumenti per una analisi del voto politico del 5 e 6 aprile (The Five Italies Revisited: New Instruments for an Analysis of the April Elections), Sociologia e Ricerca Sociale, 1992, 13, 38, Sept, 41-66. (ITA)

¶ The results of the 5-6 Apr 1992 elections in Italy sent considerable shockwaves throughout the Italian political establishment. Particularly surprising was the capture of 8.7% of the national vote by the Northern League, guaranteeing the party parliamentary representation. A cluster analysis of 95 regions for 17 socioeconomic indicators identifies 5 main segments of Italy based on the level of economic development & urbanization. Comparison of the results of the 1987 & 1992 elections by regime brings into focus the strong protests registered by northern voters against the traditional political parties. Voter behavior in the wealthy North contrasted sharply with sustained support for the traditional parties in the poorer South. 22 Tables, 13 References. AA Tr & Modified by M. Meeks

93Z7693

Elsner, Manuel (Soziologisches Instit U Zürich, CH-8001 Switzerland), Politische Orientierungen und Rhythmen des sozialen Wandels (Political Orientations and Rhythms of Social Change), Schweizerische Zeitschrift für Soziologie/Revue Suisse de sociologie, 1992, 18, 1, 29-54. (GER)

¶ Little reliable knowledge exists about the interrelations among cycles in economic life, social conflict, & fluctuations within the political culture. On the basis of a discussion of existing concepts, it is proposed to use the idea of modes of orientation as a theoretical foundation. It is argued that periods of crisis with reduced economic growth & increased social conflicts promote the predominance of affective & normative modes of orientation, whereas stable periods with high economic growth & integration are accompanied by a political language in which instrumental & cognitive relations toward the situation prevail. This assumption is empirically tested by means of content analysis of New Year editorials of Swiss newspapers over 140+ years. Reliability tests of the cultural indicators are performed & a number of social & economic indicators are presented. The analysis of the time series uses time-domain filter techniques & interpretations of the cross-correlation functions between variables. The data largely confirm the hypotheses. Emotional & normative vocabulary prevails in periods of crisis, whereas instrumental & cognitive orientations are dominant in periods of economic prosperity & social stability. 4 Tables, 5 Figures, 34 References. AA

93Z7694

Ethington, Philip J. (Charles Warren Center Studies American History Harvard U, Cambridge MA 02138), Recasting Urban Political History: Gender, the Public, the Household, and Political Participation in Boston and San Francisco during the Progressive Era, Social Science History, 1992, 16, 2, summer, 301-333.

¶ Reconstruction of the research agenda of urban political history is advocated, with gender, the public sphere, & the household as central analytical foci. Logistic regression analysis with large multivariate investigations in San Francisco, Calif, & Boston, Mass, during the Progressive Era indicate that the marital status & age of potential male voters were the most important predictors of registration for voting & urban political participation. Further analyses on the effect of the household as a political variable showed that class & ethnicity were predictors of marital status & family composition. Using these methods wherein household status worked as a proxy for other variables, eg, class & ethnicity, ethnic voting in the 1910 election for a school committee president in Boston is reanalyzed. When gender & public debate about the issues are considered as variables, better clarification of ethnic voting is obtained. Thus, previous analyses that have not included the private household as a variable along with public sphere variables may be incomplete. 7 Tables, 104 References. M. Pflum

93Z7695

Ezrahi, Yaron (Dept Political Science Hebrew U Jerusalem, IL-91905 Mount Scopus Israel), Technology and the Civil Epistemology of Democracy, Inquiry, 1992, 35, 3-4, Sept-Dec, 363-376.

¶ Jean-Jacques Rousseau advanced the concept of "civil religion" as a system of positive dogmas, requisite for good citizenship. Here, the concept of "civil epistemology" is proposed as the positive dogmas without which the agents of government actions cannot be held accountable by democratic citizens. The civil epistemology of democracy shapes the citizen's views on the nature of political reality, & on how the facts of political reality can be known & by whom. Modern liberal democratic politics assumes that the exercise of political power can be manifest in a visible domain of publicly accessible facts. Such visibility demystifies political power, renders political actors more exposed & therefore more honestly accountable, & encourages universal political participation. It is in this context that technology has come to play such an important symbolic role in the construction of the particular democratic genre of public action as a political spectacle. Democratic civil epistemology & technology uphold the democratic conception of politics. Together they define political actors as visible performers, journalists as observers, & the citizens as witnesses. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7696

Faltan, L'ubomír (Instit Sociology Slovak Academy Sciences, Obrancov Mieru 49 CS-814138 Bratislavia Czechoslovakia), Spoločenská klíma volieb '90 vo vidieckych sídlach Slovenska (Social Climate of the 1990 Elections in Rural Communities of Slovakia), Sociológia, 1991, 23, 5-6, 469-481. (CZE)

¶ In June 1990 Czechs & Slovaks had their first free multiparty elections for the national parliament since the overthrow of the Communist party in Nov 1989. In Nov 1990 additional elections were held on the local level, creating a functioning democracy. The apparent homogeneity of rural Slovak political culture gave way to pluralization. The Communist party continued to exist in the countryside, although additional parties began to develop. The rural social climate was influenced by the mass media, visits by political figures, & the appearance of the Pope. Many contrasts can be seen between the character of national & local elections. Problems are growing on the economic level, leading to a variety of fears exploitable by politicians. Although the mood for the national elections was largely euphoric, by the time of the local elections, skepticism had emerged. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7697

Flaherty, Patrick, The Making of the New Soviet Left, Telos, 1990, 84, summer, 88-114.

¶ Issues defining the emerging Soviet Left focus on Mikhail Gorbachev's perestroika reforms. The redistribution of social power is the goal of the next phase in restructuring the communist system. Grass-roots autonomous political & cultural clubs have been established to cope with the social revolution resulting from the demolition of neo-Stalinist power structures. The success of perestroika depends on forming coalitions supporting certain positions on economic & social questions, eg, providing an organizational principle alternative to the capitalist free market or the statist planned economy. The new Left considers the market & plan synthesis of Swedish socialism, based on solidarity wages & full employment, as a viable counter-model. J. Sadler

93Z7698

Flickinger, Richard S. & Studlar, Donley T. (Wittenberg U, Springfield OH 45501), The Disappearing Voters? Exploring Declining Turnout in Western European Elections, West European Politics, 1992, 15, 2, Apr, 1-16.

¶ Though the changing social characteristics of Western European electorates led some to expect increasing turnout in elections, voter turnout during the 1980s held steady or declined in most countries. Factors believed to affect turnout are identified, drawing on previous empirical research on political participation, & their utility for explaining the recent European turnout patterns is assessed via analysis of Eurobarometer & other statistical data. None of the propositions is deemed sufficient to explain the paradox; suggestions are offered for further research. 6 Tables. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7699

Freund, Julien (5 chemin Schramm, F-67220 Villé France), L'Esprit de Genève et l'empreinte de Calvin. A propos d'un ouvrage de Daniel Alexander et Peter Tschopp (The Spirit of Geneva and the Calvinist Mark. On a Recent Book by Daniel Alexander and Peter Tschopp), Schweizerische Zeitschrift für Soziologie/Revue Suisse de sociologie, 1992, 18, 1, 119-127. (FRE)

¶ A review essay on a book by Daniel Alexander & Peter Tschopp, Finance et politique: l'empreinte de Calvin sur les notables de Genève ([Finance and Politics: The Calvinist Mark on Noteworthy Geneva Citizens] Geneva: Editions Labor & Fides, 1991). This work investigates the modern-day extent of the Calvinist influence in Geneva, Switzerland, based on interviews with 32 well-known Geneva personalities. Ss interviewed displayed less interest in theology & more in justice or morality. Radical socialists & liberal conservatives had different ideas on the intervention role of the state in the enforcement of laws, which are well respected in Geneva. Views on the relationship between banking, the concept of the abstract management of others' wealth, & its' ultimate social benefits were contradictory & contained incompatibilities with Christian & Calvinist thought. The book's weakest section deals with political power & institutions, borrowing heavily from modern theological terminology. 1 Reference. J. Sadler

93Z7700

Gerhards, Jürgen (Wissenschaftszentrum Berlin Sozialforschung, D-1000 30 Federal Republic Germany), Politische Veranstaltungen in der Bundesrepublik. Nachfrager und wahrgenommenes Angebot einer "kleinen" Form von Öffentlichkeit (Public Political Meetings in Germany. Demand and Supply of a Small Public Sphere), Kölner Zeitschrift für Soziologie und Sozialpsychologie, 1992, 44, 4, Dec, 766-779. (GER)

¶ To sketch a sociodemographic & ideological profile of people participating in public political meetings in the former West Germany, questionnaire data were obtained from a representative sample (N = 2,028 adults) in late 1989. Results show that these meeting represent only a segment of the population. Only 15.2% had attended such a meeting in the previous two years. Thus, the great significance attached to such meetings in Jürgen Habermas's Strukturwandel der Öffentlichkeit: Untersuchungen zu einer Kategorie der bürgerlichen Gesselschaft ([The Structual Change of the Public: Studies of a Category of Civil Society] Neuwied, 1962) & other works is called into doubt. Moreover, the ability of these meetings to resolve problems is questioned. Their tendency to be dominated by narrow interests is emphasized. Currently, a postmaterialist leftist movement tends to control the meetings. Narrow party politics & special interest groups keep a broader spectrum of opinions of the whole public from being heard effectively. 4 Tables, 22 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7701

Gidengil, Elisabeth (Dept Political Science McGill U, Montreal Quebec H3A 2T7), Canada Votes: A Quarter Century of Canadian National Election Studies, Canadian Journal of Political Science/Revue canadienne de science politique, 1992, 25, 2, June, 219-248.

¶ The progress of national voting research in Canada since the early 1970s is reviewed, & two models of voter behavior are compared–the sociological & the sociopsychological. Their respective arguments about the role of class, region, & religion on voting behavior are reviewed, & the applicability of the concept of party identification to the Canadian situation is discussed. Recursive & nonrecursive models are evaluated. It is suggested that the sociopsychological perspective needs to return to its earlier emphasis on the social origins of an actor's behavior. A call is made for a reconceptualization of social categories as dynamic social forces. J. Sadler

93Z7702

Gutiérrez Espíndola, José Luis, Identidad, subjetividad y política. El Neocardenismo: revolución o democracia (Identity, Subjectivity and Politics. Neo-Cardenism: Revolution or Democracy), Sociológica, 1990, 5, 14, Sept-Dec, 209-242. (SPA)

¶ An attempt is made to explain the loss of momentum of the neo-Cardenist Partido de la Revolución Democrática (PRD) in the 1988 Mexican federal elections. The PRD lost its position as political alternative to the Partido Revolucionario Institucional due to its political form, the values & expectations expressed in its discourse, & its rallying calls for support during the elections. The PRD had taken a confrontational, even insurrectional, approach to politics & internally had difficulty resolving this approach with its need to adhere to governmental regulations to participate in the electoral process. The formation of factions within the PRD & the image this presented to the public undermined its popularity. Theories of political symbolism & the process of construction & attribution of political entities are applied to this phenomenon. 20 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7703

Gyarfášová, Ol'ga & Ritomský, Alojz (Instit Sociology Slovak Academy Sciences, Obrancov Mieru 49 CS-814138 Bratislava Czechoslovakia), Vol'by '90 na slovenskej dedine (predvolebná aktivita politických strán, volebné výsledky, súvislosti) (The 1990 Elections in Slovak Villages [Pre-Election Activity of Political Parties, Election Results, Circumstances]), Sociológia, 1991, 23, 5-6, 487-500. (CZE)

¶ The 1990 parliamentary elections in Slovakia completed the first stage of the revolution, abolishing the power monopoly of the Communist party & establishing political pluralism. The high degree of interest was shown by a 95% participation rate of potential voters. Seven parties gained representatives to the parliament: Hungarian Independent Initiative; Roma Civic Initiative; Christian Democrats; Slovak National party; Communist party; Democratic party; Green party; & the Coexistence movement. This made creation of a working coalition very difficult. The subsequent Nov 1990 local elections were a big success for the Slovak Communists. 2 Tables, 7 Figures. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7704

Halfacree, Keith (Dept Geography University Coll Swansea, Singleton Park SA2 8PP Wales), Whither the Universal Franchise? The Political Cost of Residential Migration, UM Parliamentary Affairs, 1992, 45, 2, Apr, 164-172.

¶ A demonstration of how & why changing one's place of permanent residence is associated with political disenfranchisement in British general elections. In order to vote, one has to appear on the electoral register, compiled annually. Moving at the time of this registration can result in migrants being left off the register, either unwittingly or because they planned to register at their new address. One also has to vote in the constituency where one is registered. People changing constituencies between registering & the polling date have either to return to their previous constituency to vote or to obtain a postal vote. Both of these options entail further costs & promote an association between migration & nonvoting. AA

93Z7705

Horvath, Ronald J. (U Sydney, New South Wales 2006 Australia), Between Political Economy and Postmodernism, Antipode, 1992, 24, 2, Apr, 157-162.

¶ A review article on a book by R. Peet & N. Thrift (Eds), New Models in Geography (London: Unwin Hyman, 1989 (see listing in IRPS No. 67)). While the original Models in Geography (1967 (no further publication information provided)) was strongly entrenched in positivist epistemology & firmly committed to quantitative analysis of empirical data, the goal of New Models in Geography is to summarize alternative perspectives that have emerged in human geography as a critique of the 1960s/1970s romance with spatial geography. Focusing primarily on research in English-speaking countries, several themes emerge: the ability of an orthodox Marxist framework to account for contemporary developments; social implications of the qualitative change in contemporary capitalism; the theoretical poverty of spatial theory; & the power relationship between social structures & individual agents. 4 References. M. Maguire

93Z7706

Husbands, Christopher T. (London School Economics & Political Science, WC2A 2AE England), The Other Face of 1992: The Extreme-Right Explosion in Western Europe, UM Parliamentary Affairs, 1992, 45, 3, July, 267-284.

¶ Concerns about immigration, increased numbers of asylum seekers from eastern Europe & the Third World, & the consequences of the breakup of eastern Europe, have led to extreme-Right electoral successes in the 1980s & 1990s in most of Western Europe. However, the parties concerned are not completely similar in character & program. The various examples may be labeled: populist-nationalist (in Austria, Denmark, Norway, Sweden, & Italy); neofascist (in France, the Federal Republic of Germany, Italy, & the Netherlands); nationalist extreme-Right (in Belgium); & traditional xenophobic (in Switzerland). In the former German Democratic Republic, also seen is a more anarchic & militant extreme-Right phenomenon, exemplified by the neo-Nazi groups that have perpetrated physical attacks on immigrants & asylum seekers. AA

93Z7707

Hyvärinen, Matti, 'Tillikkavallankumoukselliset': Alkoholi opiskelijaliikkeen aktivistien poliittisissa elämäkerroissa (The 'Tillikka Revolutionaries': Alcohol in the Political Career of Student Movement Activists), Alkoholipolitiikka, 1990, 55, 6, 292-302. (FIN)

¶ The role of alcohol in the lives of a group of former activists in the student movements in Finland of the 1960s & 1970s was investigated via interviews using a narrative methodology in which Ss (N = 12 females (Fs) & 24 males (Ms)) were questioned only regarding their political careers, & not directly about their earlier use of & attitudes toward alcohol. Significant differences were noted in how Ms & Fs spoke about alcohol, & their willingness or reluctance to do so. Some Fs tended to talk mainly about others' drinking habits, whereas others spoke of their own drinking in the context of social togetherness. Ms were more reluctant to discuss alcohol, but those that did referred to it in terms of an adventure. Their language reflected the predominantly M framework of the student movement, stressing M camaraderie & the exclusion of Fs. 1 Table, 13 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7708

[illegible], Michal (Instit Sociology Czechoslovak Academy Sciences, [illegible] CS-11000 Prague 1 (Tel: 42-2-235-78-58 FAX: [illegible]78-88)), Continuity and Discontinuity. Political Change in a [illegible]llage after 1989, Sociologický Časopis, 1992, 28, special is- [illegible], 79-91.

¶ [illegible] case study of a village (population 2,500) near Prague, Czechoslova[illegible] is used to document postcommunist political transformation of local society during the two years following Nov 1989. The restructuring of political parties, social organizations, & local government, as well as the 1990 parliamentary elections, are described, detailing the 1990 municipal elections & the conflicts facing the municipality. Although institutional foundations of local democracy were set in place, the time of real local politics is yet to come as local society becomes more differentiated, the middle class is reborn, & clearly defined interest groups begin to surface. 1 Table, 10 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7709

Jahanbegloo, Ramin (Instit Mondo Arabe, F-75005 Paris France), Philosophical Interrogation and Creation of Democracy: Iran Confronts Modern Destiny, Thesis Eleven, 1992, 32, 103-107.
Translated from French by David Ames Curtis.

¶ Comparative reflections are offered on Western modernity & Iranian Islamic fundamentalism. It is argued that there is a constant back-&-forth movement between philosophical interrogation & the political project of democracy in Western modernity, while in Islamic societies, there exists a direct link between the absence of a public space for democratic deliberation & the absence of philosophical interrogation. A definition of philosophical interrogation is developed, & it is concluded that, in Iran it is not a matter of choosing to, or not to, adopt Western institutions & values, but of creating the conditions that make this choice possible. W. Howard

93Z7710

Jelen, Ted G. (Illinois Benedictine Coll, Lisle 60532), Political Christianity: A Contextual Analysis, UM American Journal of Political Science, 1992, 36, 3, Aug, 692-714.

¶ Mail survey data from 14 rural midwestern Christian churches are drawn on to explore the relative importance of individual attributes & congregational-level contextual variables in explaining support for New Christian Right figures & for the Republican party. Results suggest that (1) contextual effects are important & often are stronger than the effects of individual-level variables; (2) the unique effects of contextual-level variables are occasionally negative, suggesting that simple social learning models of contextual effects may be inadequate; & (3) contextual effects are likely to be weaker at simpler levels of conceptualization. 6 Tables, 1 Appendix, 50 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7711

Johnstone, Frederick, Quebec, Apartheid, Lithuania and Tibet: The Politics of Group Rights, UM Telos, 1990, 85, fall, 56-62.

¶ The politics of group rights are examined via analyses of ethnic & racial conflicts in Lithuania, Tibet, & particularly Canada & South Africa. The antiethnic stand of the African National Congress (ANC) is discussed & defended on the basis of the legacy of apartheid, & it is maintained that white South Africans not only have no prior claim to group rights in principle, but have no vital need for them in practice. The ANC, it is concluded, is correct in its hard-line stand against group rights. Reflections are offered on how issues of ethnicity & cultural identity can be accommodated by modern political systems. W. Howard

93Z7712

Kaempfer, William H. & Lowenberg, Anton D. (U Colorado, Boulder 80309), A Threshold Model of Electoral Policy and Voter Turnout, Rationality and Society, 1993, 5, 1, Jan, 107-126.

¶ In an examination of differences in voter turnout, a threshold model of collective action is used to provide an explanation for compulsion policies, which are treated as endogenous. Governments & parties are viewed as demanding turnout as a means to enhance political support. This theory suggests that voter turnout is high, & possibly government mandated, in societies that have high levels of political polarization & that use proportional representation. The predictions of the theory are tested using cross-country data collected from various published sources on the following variables: turnout (N = 90 countries), compulsion (N = 92), proportional representation (N = 82), parties (N = 86), literacy (N = 207), & party composition (N = 212). 3 Tables, 2 Figures, 38 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7713

Kavanagh, Dennis (Dept Politics U Nottingham, NG7 2RD England), Changes in the Political Class and Its Culture, UM Parliamentary Affairs, 1992, 45, 1, Jan, 18-32.

¶ An investigation of social & stylistic changes in the British political class over the last twenty years. Analysis of available social background data reveals a growing social representativeness in Parliament members. A high turnover rate is evident among Cabinet ministers. It is conceded that Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher continued the direction of government led by earlier prime ministers, although she also devalued the importance of government institutions, relying more on private-sector management techniques. While not as developed as those in the US, the emergence of think tanks in GB is linked to a class of political entrepreneurs who have the potential to be future parliamentarians. 20 References. J. Sadler

93Z7714

Laponce, Jean (U British Columbia, Vancouver V6T 1Z1), Canada, Switzerland, and Talcott Parsons, UM Queen's Quarterly, 1992, 99, 2, summer, 267-279.

¶ Talcott Parsons's model of the historical evolution of societies by means of the dissociation of their basic functions–notably, the political, economic, & cultural–is used to compare Switzerland & Canada. The two countries are caught between the opposite pulls of economics & culture: the one toward larger markets, the other toward several smaller ethnic territorial groupings. The analysis shows Switzerland to have adopted a more successful dissociation of its cultural & economic strategies of adaptation. 38 References. AA

93Z7715

Lassman, Peter (Dept Political Science & International Studies U Birmingham, B15 2TT England), The Idea of the Political, History of the Human Sciences, 1992, 5, 3, Aug, 99-103.

¶ A review article on a book by Tracy B. Strong, The Idea of Political Theory: Reflections on the Self in Political Time and Space (Notre Dame, Ind: U of Notre Dame Press, 1990 [see listing in IRPS No. 67]). Strong's basic premise is that the political way of dealing with human relations has a particular validity that is challenged by many characteristics of modernity. This premise entails consideration of the boundaries between politics & other human practices. This work is representative of several trends in contemporary theorizing in that it relies on lecture series & provides more questions than answers. Strong cites three temptations to leave the environment of politics, which correspond to different dimensions of the self–substituting the perfection of a performance represented by drama for the political world, treating politics as an object for scientific understanding, & looking for a rigorous theoretical truth that obscures the historical character of political activity. Strong gives approval to a communitarian position, but fails to analyze the concept of authority, or of liberal thinkers, who were as relevant to an understanding of the political modernity as communitarians & deconstructionists. Strong's handling of the question of the rationality of accepting an unattainable vision, which is known to be unattainable, is problematic. However, the work has merit for its approach to political theory, describing the complexity of political judgment & of political practice within particular contexts & traditions. S. Millett

93Z7716

Lee, Lee C. & Zhan, Ginny Q. (Cornell U, Ithaca NY 14853), Political Socialization and Parental Values in the People's Republic of China, International Journal of Behavioral Development, 1991, 14, 4, Dec, 337-373.

¶ To determine how political socialization in youth relates to personal values in adulthood & how, in turn, these acquired values influence a person's socialization ideals for the next generation, the content of societal mandates & cultural themes conveyed in the People's Republic of China's official youth magazine (Zongguo Qingnian [China Youth]) in the 1950s & early 1960s are compared with parental values attained from responses to a questionnaire in 1981/82 from 274 urban families with daycare-aged children. Data reveal that parents' values reflect the content of their early political socialization, especially in terms of moral & work/study values. In addition, values that reflect events in contemporary China also appear to influence parental expectations. 3 Tables, 2 Figures, 44 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7717

Luconi, Stefano, Anti-Italian Prejudice and Discrimination and the Persistence of Ethnic Voting among Philadelphia's Italian-Americans: 1928-1953, Studi Emigrazione/Etudes Migrations, 1992, 29, 105, Mar, 113-133.

¶ The effects of anti-Italian prejudice & discrimination on ethnic voting in the Italian-American community in Philadelphia, Pa, from the late 1920s to the early 1950s are examined using voting records. In 1928, the Republican party's nativist attitude & Republican Senator David Reed's racist remarks about Italians set the stage for a Democratic victory in Philadelphia's Italian-American wards. Thereafter, both Democratic & Republican politicians utilized emotional appeals to the Italian-American community for votes against those accused of anti-Italian prejudice. During WWII, President Franklin D. Roosevelt was blamed for anti-Italian sentiment in the US; as a result, the Democrats lost their majority in the Italian-American communities. After WWII, allegations of Italian Mafia connections were harnessed by Republicans to drive the ethnic vote. Italian ethnic voting persisted in Philadelphia until 1953. More recent ethnic voting in that city appears not to be due to sensitivity to defamation, but to ethnic pride. 2 Tables. M. Pflum

93Z7718

Luloff, A. E. & Hodges, Donald G. (Dept Agricultural Economics & Rural Sociology Pennsylvania State U, University Park 16802), Attitudes and Bureaucrats: Assessing the Representativeness of Local Officials in New Hampshire, UM Rural Sociology, 1992, 57, 3, fall, 381-395.

¶ The unprecedented growth that began in NH in the late 1950s & 1960s has spread to the state's small northern communities over the past two decades. Developmental pressures in this region have caused numerous local problems related to the environment & socioeconomic conditions to surface, & amateur bureaucrats have been assigned responsibility for meeting the challenges. Here, the representativeness of such officials toward their local citizenry in terms of attitudes & opinions or sociodemographics is assessed, drawing on telephone surveys conducted 1988 with 202 public officials & 405 citizens. Results demonstrate substantive differences regarding growth & development between these two groups. 2 Tables, 32 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7719

Malpede, Diana (UNESCO, 7 Place de Fontenoy F-75700 Paris France), Italie: la montée des ligues (Italy: The Advent of Leagues), Futuribles, 1992, 167, July-Aug, 29-38. (FRE)

¶ The reasons for the success of the Northern League in the Apr 1992 Italian elections are analyzed. The Northern League advocates the creation of three Italian republics (North, Center, & South) constituted in a federal system. The major reasons for their success identified here are: (1) growing fragmentation & diversification of the Italian electorate, (2) dissatisfaction with traditional political parties, & (3) dissatisfaction with the functioning of democracy. Implications of the growing significance of the Northern League on North-South disequilibrium are discussed. The League's phenomenon is interpreted in terms of regional populism, nationalism, & xenophobia. 1 Table, 1 Figure. I. Shagrir

93Z7720

Mussino, Antonio (Facoltà sociologia U Roma, I-00185 Italy), Le matrici a più vie nella ricerca sociale: un'analisis dell'inerzia spaziale e temporale del sistema politico-elettorale in Italia (Matrix Analysis and Social Research: A Case Study of the Spatial and Temporal Inertia of the Electoral System in Italy), Sociologia e Ricerca Sociale, 1992, 13, 38, Sept, 67-97. (ITA)

¶ STATIS, an explorative method of analysis of three-way data matrices, is utilized in a case study of provincial-level results of political elections in Italy, 1946-present. The statistical basis of the method & the related software are described, & compared to other methods used in this field. The advantages of the STATIS strategy include: (1) the evolution of the results of each party can be studied with respect to the whole political trend; (2) static & dynamic clusters of electoral behaviors can be individuated for specific territorial areas; & (3) indicators that synthesize political behaviors in Italy can be calculated. 1 Table, 12 Figures, 19 References. Modified AA

93Z7721

Nadeau, Richard (Dépt science politique U Montréal, Quebec H3C 3J7), Le Virage souverainiste des québécois, 1980-1990 (The Sovereignist Shift among Quebecers, 1980-1990), Recherches Sociographiques, 1992, 33, 1, Jan-Apr, 9-28. (FRE)

¶ A comparative analysis of the profile of supporters of Quebec sovereignty in 1980 & 1990 demonstrates increased support & points out political & sociological aspects of it, based on secondary data from 1980 & 3 consecutive telephone interviews in 1990 with a representative sample of Montreal residents (N not indicated). Findings indicate that while most supporters in 1980 were young, educated, & professional, 1990 supporters included people from a wider range of age, income, & educational groups. Discussed is whether sovereignism is a permanent or ephemeral phenomenon in Quebec's francophone electorate. 8 Tables, 29 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7722

Nakhaie, M. Reza (Dept Sociology Queen's U, Kingston Ontario K7L 3N6), Class and Voting Consistency in Canada: Analyses Bearing on the Mobilization Thesis, Canadian Journal of Sociology/Cahiers canadiens de sociologie, 1992, 17, 3, summer, 275-299.

¶ Data from the 1984 Canadian National Election Study (N = 1,633 voters ages 25+) are used to explore the relationship between class & voting behavior in the 1979, 1980, & 1984 federal elections. Resource mobilization theory is used to evaluate the extent to which a multidiminsional measure of the Marxian class concept, various dimensions of stratification, & sociodemographic variables predicts voting consistency. Findings reveal a strong class effect on voting behavior. The impact of the Marxian measure is slightly higher than occupation & far stronger than income & education in explaining class vote. The explanatory power of various measures of class & socioeconomic status is higher in the West than in the national sample. Unionized workers, those in the West, & those who identify most with the working class consistently vote for the New Democratic Party more often than do others. Findings support the resource mobilization theory, which emphasizes the importance of class mobilization in class-based political activity. 4 Tables, 1 Appendix, 57 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7723

Neckel, Sighard (Instit Soziologie Freie U Berlin, D-1000 31 Federal Republic Germany), Das lokale Staatsorgan. Kommunale Herrschaft im Staatssozialismus der DDR (The Local Organs of State. Communal Domination in State Socialism in the GDR), Zeitschrift für Soziologie, 1992, 21, 4, Aug, 252-268. (GER)

¶ An analysis is presented of the political & institutional characteristics of the socialist town, its economy, & elements of informal local politics in the former East Germany. The power structures exhibited the coexistence of traditional & modern elements in urban politics & social life, also encountered in the former West Germany. Thus, traditionalism in local politics should not be understood only in terms of the communist structure. Several similarities exist between the western pattern of concordance democracy & the eastern ideal of a working community. The relationship between prepolitical community structures & new political institutions within communities is becoming one of the most interesting topics in community research in eastern Germany. 64 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7724

Nevers, Jean-Yves (U Toulouse II, F-31058 Cedex France), Entre consensus et conflits. La Configuration des compétitions aux élections municipales dans les communes rurales (Between Consensus and Conflicts. The Type of Competition in Municipal Elections in Rural Communities), Revue française de Sociologie, 1992, 33, 3, July-Sept, 391-416. (FRE)

¶ A study of elections in 280 French rural districts looked at the subtle & complex relations between competition, conflict-potential, & political activism. Four types of municipal configurations are identified: consensual; competitive, nonconflictual, & apolitical; competitive, conflictual, & apolitical; & conflictual-political. Factors such as the size of the rural area, the number of candidates contesting a seat, the offices to be filled, the mayor's political alignments, & local power struggles all influenced outcomes in 1971, 1977, & 1983 elections. Hotly-contested elections were not necessarily linked to conflicts & even less with political activism. 8 Tables, 1 Figure, 27 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7725

Ohr, Dieter, Wild, Anton & Zängle, Michael (Instit Soziologie, FB 03 Haus E Karl-Glöckner-Str 21 D-6300 Giessen Federal Republic Germany), Weimarer Wahlen in zwei Dörfern des badischen Grenzlands. Der Beitrag kleinräumiger Fallstudien zur Erklärung des Aufstiegs der NSDAP (The Weimar Elections in Two Villages of the Baden Border Area. The Contribution of Local Case Studies to Explaining the Rise of the Nazis), Historical Social Research/Historische Sozialforschung, 1992, 17, 2(62), 4-48. (GER)

¶ A new approach to the analysis of how voting behavior in Germany during the Weimar Republic contributed to the eventual Nazi takeover is presented that focuses on the specifics of local voting patterns in two Baden villages, Oberhausen & Niederhausen. Special attention is given to the effect of such issues as militarization of the border areas & the economic vicissitudes of the 1920s. Regression methods are used to examine factors explaining why these two villages, almost 100% Catholic, displayed nearly perfect Protestant voting patterns, contradicting the general rule that Catholic regions were protected against Nazi propaganda. In Oberhausen, the Nazis were successful due to mobilizing groups, while in Niederhausen the Nazis became the successor to the Landbund, a rural-interest political party of Protestant affinity. 13 Tables, 4 Graphs, 1 Appendix. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7726

Palma, Esperanza & Gutiérrez, Roberto (Dept Sociología U Autónoma Metropolitana Azcapotzalco, 02000 Mexico DF), Sobre los conceptos de sistema y cultural política en México (para pensar la transición) (About the Concepts of the Political System and Culture in Mexico [Thinking about the Transition]), Sociológica, 1991, 6, 15, Jan-Apr, 89-105. (SPA)

¶ The concepts of political system & culture are evaluated in terms of recent political transformations in Mexico. Commentary on concepts of systems of authority & political culture are centered on the work of Juan Linz (eg, see "Una teoría del régimen autoritario. El caso de España" [A Theory of the Authoritarian Regime. The Case of Spain], in Sociedad y política en España [Society and Politics in Spain], Madrid: Siglo XX, 1963), who made a distinction between the authoritarian regimes of Third World countries & the Western European totalitarian model. The magnitude of the political changes that have occurred in Mexico are analyzed, & implications for future political transitions are considered. It is concluded that traditional forms of institutional functioning, consensus formation, & political representation have been exhausted, creating the possibility for transitions toward more democratic political forms. 22 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7727

Parraguez, Manuel A. J., The Privatization of the State and Community Legal Strategies in the Democratization of Local Power in Chile, Social & Legal Studies, 1992, 1, 2, June, 229-233.

¶ Chile faces democratization of the structure of power in a context in which prior community organization has been ignored, making the transition more difficult. Augusto Pinochet's regime was characterized by strong institutional consolidation, & the privatization of economic & social fields. Since deconcentration of power has not been achieved at the regional & local levels, there is still a strong link between political & economic power, & civil participation is controlled by private enterprise. Diverse popular organizations have challenged this local institutionalization of state power, but even they have taken on the institutional form. For democracy to grow, new forms of articulation are needed wherein the community concentrates on democratization of power at the local level. M. Pflum (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7728

Pelletier, Réjean & Tremblay, Manon (Dépt science politique U Laval, Saint-Foy Quebec G1K 7P4), Les Femmes sont-elles candidates dans des circonscriptions perdues d'avance? De l'examen d'une croyance (Do Women Run as Candidates in Nonsupportive Constituencies? On the Examination of a Belief), Canadian Journal of Political Science/Revue canadienne de science politique, 1992, 25, 2, June, 249-267. (FRE)

¶ In a search for causes of the disproportionate number of men in Canada's National Assembly, the hypothesis that defeat occurs more often in constituencies where a female (F) rather than a male (M) is the candidate is tested, drawing on outcome data for 4 general elections 1976-1989 involving the Québec Liberal Party & the Parti Québécois (total N = 958 electoral races). Loglinear analysis is used to compare candidate gender against varying degrees of difficulty in capturing a particular constituency's vote, measured on an aggregate index of the voting record of the constituency, & the candidate's position in the race. Results show that neither M nor F candidate were more likely to run for office in a "difficult" constituency. Except for the 1981 election, in which more M candidates for the Parti Québécois were elected from nondifficult constituencies, it is noted that for new candidates, party affiliation, rather than gender or difficulty of constituency, was most crucial in predicting election outcome. 6 Tables. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7729

Pepinsky, Harold E. (Indiana U, Bloomington 47405), Corruption, Bribery and Patriarchy in Tanzania, Crime, Law and Social Change, 1992, 17, 1, Jan, 25-51.

¶ Bribery & corruption in Tanzania & the US are compared, based on 5 months ethnographic observation in Tanzania, during the crisis of Tanzania's U of Dar es Salaam, the conflict between students & authorities, & the university's shut-down in 1990. In both countries, corruption among the political leadership results from the equation of order with patriarchy. Noting that corruption is expressed more directly in Tanzania & indirectly in the US, it is argued that this contrast leads to a set of paradoxes about achieving freedom from corruption through patriarchal state power. It is observed that, in both countries, a dilemma exists between maintenance of a strong state & enforcement of moral integrity. Tanzanians, however, confront this dilemma & question authority more often than US citizens. 20 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7730

Pérez Rayón, Nora, Carrillo, Alejandro, de la Torre, Virginia & Loyo, Martha (Dept Sociología U Autónoma Metropoltana Azcapotzalco, 02000 Mexico DF), La derecha en México (1982-1990). Continuidades y rupturas (The Right in Mexico [1982-1990]. Continuities and Ruptures), Sociológica, 1991, 6, 15, Jan-Apr, 125-158. (SPA)

¶ Over the last decade in Mexico, right-wing organizations & tendencies have mobilized, strengthened, & acquired a surprising dynamism within the national political life. Here, the most representative actors in this diverse & complex movement are analyzed: the Partido Acción Nacional, the Roman Catholic church, industrial & business organizations, & the Partido Democrático Mexicano. The emergence of an organic & militant Right, its principal characteristics, & its defeats under the government of President Carlos Salinas de Gotari are described, & implications for future relations between the Right & the government considered. 129 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7731

Salazar C., Luis (Dept Sociología U Autónoma Metropolitana, Azcapotzalco 02000 Mexico DF), Individualismo, teoría y política (Individualism, Theory and Politics), Sociológica, 1990, 5, 14, Sept-Dec, 35-48. (SPA)

¶ An examination of the work of Norberto Bobbio on liberal & democratic individualism (eg, see Liberalismo y democracia [Liberalism and Democracy], Mexico: Fondo de Cultura Economica, 1989) & its implications for socialism & political issues. It is argued that modern invididualism is linked to liberalism & democracy because socialist theory has failed to assume & rearticulate individualism. Epistemological critiques of holism developed by individualist methodologies are considered, & liberal & democratic individualism are differentiated. Possibilities for the development of a socialist individualism are explored. 19 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7732

Seekings, Jeremy (Politics Dept U Cape Town, Rosebank 7700 South Africa), 'Trailing behind the Masses': The United Democratic Front and Township Politics in the Pretoria-Witwatersrand-Vaal Region, 1983-84, Journal of Southern African Studies, 1992, 18, 1, Mar, 93-114.

¶ Between 1983 & 1985 the United Democratic Front (UDF) had only an indirect impact on township politics in the Pretoria-Witwatersrand-Vaal region of South Africa. The UDF's lack of direct involvement is attributed to its initial focus on national political issues that immediately & primarily affected coloured & Indian areas, whereas the escalating township protests primarily concerned local issues in African townships. 11 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7733

Seibel, Wolfgang (U Konstanz, D-7750 Federal Republic Germany), Necessary Illusions: The Transformation of Governance Structures in the New Germany, The Tocqueville Review/La Revue Tocqueville, 1992, 13, 1, 179-199.

¶ Three questions are addressed: (1) how the process of German reunification has been politically managed in 1989/90; (2) what crucial problems & dilemmas emerged from this political management, & how the German political system is likely to cope with them; & (3) what may be assumed to be the outcome of this process in terms of general change of governance structures in the new Germany. It is stated that the reunification process was subject to substantial illusions about its economic, administrative, & fiscal feasibility. Those illusions, however, have been a prerequisite for the mobilization of political energy & the psychological coping with the unanticipated consequences of the decision for a hasty reunification. As a consequence, governance structures in the new Germany are likely to change toward more centralism, thus weakening the institutional checks & balances of German federalism. Ironically, this pattern of governance structure has some common features with the communist regime of the former German Democratic Republic. 27 References. AA (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7734

Serret, Estela, Gutiérrez, Roberto & Padilla, Mario (Dept Sociología U Autónoma Metropolitana Azcapotzalco, 02000 Mexico DF), Para una re-construcción de la categoría de sujeto político (Toward the Reconstruction of the Category of Political Subject), Sociológica, 1991, 6, 15, Jan-Apr, 67-88. (SPA)

¶ After a review of definitions of subject in philosophy & sociology, an attempt is made to define the category of political subject & its theoretical implications. The symbolic nature of politics & the role of feeling in political discourse are argued to be essential elements that contribute to the understanding of the political subject. Also stressed is the structural dimension of subjectivity. It is concluded that the political subject must be considered within the parameters of history, interrelations, the variability & relative conditioning of individual actions, & other types of rationality that fall outside of structural determinism. 32 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7735

Singh, Mahendra Prasad (Dept Political Science U Delhi, 110007 Haryana India), Ideological Spectrum of Indian Party System: A Middling Pattern with Persisting Multipolarity, Indian Journal of Social Science, 1991, 4, 4, Oct-Dec, 521-546.

¶ Compared to the situation in the early 1950s, political party manifestos in India in 1989 reveal ideological convergence on values of democracy, mixed economy, secularism, universal education, autonomy of the government-controlled electronic mass media, environmental protection, & nonalignment in foreign policy. However, almost all of these values are contested by one party or the other in terms of interpretive nuances, distortions in practice, & nonimplementation. The major cleavages in the party system relate to political centralization vs decentralization, economic liberalization vs nationalism, capitalist vs socialist path of development, rural vs urban divide, & secularism vs religious hegemonies. Congress & the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) are the principal promoters of centralization, liberalization, & globalization, centralizers, with the National Front & regional parties pulling in the opposite directions. Though almost all parties are pastoral in some measure, the National Front parties & the BJP, share a particularly pronounced peasant bias. Similarly, all parties profess adherence to secularism, but BJP & Shiromani Akali Dal (Anandpur Sahib Resolution) advocate a version that amounts to hegemonic secularism–with Hindu or Sikh hegemony in India as a whole or in the Punjab state alone. 32 References. Modified AA (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7736

Söndergaard, Peter (Roskilde U Bibliotek, DK-4000 Denmark), Politikkens privatisering (The Privatization of Politics), Dansk Sociologi, 1992, 3, 2, June, 53-66. (DAN)

¶ Modern Italian clientelism dates back to the early 1870s. At the national level it involved the pragmatic political coopertion of parliamentarians from northern & southern Italy. At the local level in the South, clientelism appeared as a control on voting behavior in return for favoritism, eg, special access to public resources. The Christian Democrat party's control since WWII led to a national clientelistic political culture. This contradicts traditional theories holding that clientelism is basically a local phenomenon that should disappear as democracy matures. Thus, the strong patriarchal character of Italian politics poses a challenge to modern political sociology. 3 Photographs, 20 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7737

Sopóci, Ján (Instit Sociology Slovak Academy Sciences, Obrancov Mieru 49 CS-814138 Bratislava Czechoslovakia), Od rekonštrukcie NV k obecným zastupiteľstvám (From the Reconstruction of National Committees to Municipal Councils), Sociológia, 1991, 23, 5-6, 482-486. (CZE)

¶ After the overthrow of Communist party power in Czechoslovakia on 17 Nov 1989, the change from a monopolistic to a pluralistic political structure began to be implemented in rural communities. New developments in local government & economic management were reflected by District National Committees, & later, by the Municipal Councils. At first the Communist party retained control over many committees, but often, other parties moved in to monopolize power. Pluralization came later, with intense struggles developing in several communities among rival parties. In many cases the People against Violence movement provided the initial impetus toward pluralization. By the time of the Nov 1990 local elections, pluralization was much greater than during the June 1990 national parliamentary elections. Voters paid close attention not only to a candidate's party affiliation, but also to personal qualities. A measure of voter apathy was noted in the local elections. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7738

Suzumura, Kotaro (Instit Economic Research Hitotsubashi U, Tokyo Japan), On the Voluntary Exchange of Libertarian Rights, Social Choice and Welfare, 1991, 8, 3, July, 199-206.

¶ A. Harel & S. Nitzan ("The Libertarian Resolution of the Paretian Liberal Paradox," Z. Nationalökon, 1987, 47, 337-352) recently formulated a resolution scheme for A. K. Sen's Pareto libertarian paradox ("The Impossibility of a Paretian Liberal," Journal of Political Economics, 1970, 78, 152-157), where libertarian decision-making entitlements actually change hands through the voluntary exchange of rights endowments. Being a rigorous formalization of the strong libertarian tradition of free contract, this scheme serves as a natural target for an attempt to evaluate the logical capability & ethical nature of this tradition. It is shown that this proposed scheme can hardly qualify, either logically or ethically, as a libertarian resolution of the Pareto libertarian paradox. 1 Figure, 19 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7739

Thibaud, Paul, Westernism and the Eastern Left, Thesis Eleven, 1992, 32, 108-113.

Translated from French by Johann P. Arnason.

¶ Reflections are offered on the present situation of the Left in Eastern Europe, & the Right/Left dichotomy in Western politics is examined & shown to be a consequence of the inability of politics to articulate its objectives in an unequivocal fashion. Eastern European politics is shown to be more concerned with the contrast between populism & Westernism than with facile political distinctions between the Left & Right. It is concluded that the retreat of the Eastern European Left is the result of the failure to reconcile the desire for individual success & modernization with a concern for preserving collective identity. W. Howard

93Z7740

Utting, Peter (Central American U, Managua Nicaragua), From Orthodoxy to Reform: Historical Experiences of Post-Revolutionary Societies, Third World Quarterly, 1992, 13, 1, 43-65.

¶ Economic reform policies in Mozambique, Vietnam, Nicaragua, & Cuba preceded the 1987 developments in the USSR & Eastern Europe. Reasons for the shift from orthodoxy to reform in these countries are comparatively analyzed. The reforms are interpreted as state response to two conditions: (1) difficulties in the states' capacity to mobilize & appropriate surplus, plan the economy, & maintain hegemony; & (2) changes in social forces & in the capacity of social groups to influence the policy process. Reform policies, especially in food & agriculture, are reviewed. Complementary variables that enhance the reform process, eg, changes in social structure, are discussed. I. Shagrir

93Z7741

Van den Berghe, Pierre L. (U Washington, Seattle 98195), The Modern State: Nation-Builder or Nation-Killer?, International Journal of Group Tensions, 1992, 22, 3, fall, 191-208.

¶ The generally accepted premises underlying most literature on the modern nation-state are questioned. It is argued that: states are not inevitable, their legitimacy may actually rest on violence, state size & economic prosperity are independent, & the confusion of nation & state serves the ruling elite. Modern states have mutated since the French Revolution, so that they now: have an industrialized technology of destruction & mass terror; claim to represent popular sovereignty in legitimizing themselves; & have violent undercurrents that have shifted toward ethnocide, if not genocide. Since small states with smaller armies tend to be less genocidal, & also tend to have fewer ethnic minority groups, smaller nation-states or multinational states with autonomous ethnic or subethnic units could prevent genocide. As an alternative, in ethnically scrambled situations, tolerance of ethnic diversity & preservation of individual rights (eg, multilingualism) should be prescribed. 37 References. M Pflum

93Z7742

Van Steenbergen, Bart (Faculty Social Sciences Rijks U Utrecht NL-3508 TC Netherlands), Transition from Authoritarian/Totalitarian Systems: Recent Developments in Central and Eastern Europe in a Comparative Perspective, Futures, 1992, 24, 2, Mar 158-166.

¶ The transitions from an authoritarian to a democratic system in Southern Europe & Latin America are compared with those of Central & Eastern Europe. The latter can learn lessons from the experiences of the other two regions regarding the pitfalls of such a rapid transition to democracy & a market economy. Much attention is given to the role of outsiders, especially the US & the European Community. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7743

Winner, Langdon (Dept Science & Technology Studies Rensselaer Polytechnic Instit, Troy NY 12180), Citizen Virtues in a Technological Order, Inquiry, 1992, 35, 3-4, Sept-Dec, 341-361.

¶ Contemporary philosophical discussions about technology mirror a profound distance between technical practice & moral thought. Here, considered are the origins of this gap as reflected in both ancient & modern writings. The philosopher's version of technocracy, in which policymakers & the public are made aware of moral categories is an ineffective strategy. While arguments & theories are not lacking, modern politics does not provide appropriate roles & institutions in which the activity of defining the common good in technology policy is a legitimate project. The potential of an alternative practice in the Scandinavian approach to democratic participation in technological design is considered. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7744

----, Germany 1989-90: A Dossier, in New German Critique, 1991, 52, winter, 31-108.

¶ In Ash Wednesday in the GDR, Stefan Heym offers reflections on German reunification & the current economic, political, & social crisis in the former German Democratic Republic (GDR). It is argued that: reunification has been a dismal failure, the German economy is in shambles, & it remains to be seen if reunification was politically prudent. In Writers and the People, Monika Maron discussed the hypocrisy of writers & intellectuals in the GDR who, safe behind their privileges & reputations, embraced a vision of a utopian future, while their comrades, the masses, suffered under dire political repression & poverty. In The Great Waiting, or the Freedom of the East: An Obituary for Life in Sleeping Beauty's Castle, Martin Ahrends examines the double life of East Germans who work manual jobs during the day & create minor art & crafts in their leisure hours to stave off boredom & add meaning to their lives, & maintains that East Germans are free of the West's obsession with money, entertainment, & the pleasantries of consumerism; because of this, they enjoy a kind of freedom unfound in the West. In Conformists Like Me, Daniela Dahn discusses the ill will, envy, hatred,

& general social discord that have resulted from reunification, & defends East Germans' anticonsumerist ethos, arguing that there are higher values than money & the profit motive. In On the German Cultural Nation, Günter de Bruyn argues that cultural ties are more stable than political ones, & that culture is more honorable & more important than the state. In What Am I Talking For? Is Anybody Still Listening, Günter Grass, focusing on the monetary policies of West Germany, suggests that unification was a mistake because an economic policy was not sufficiently thought through before hand. In Why We Are Not a Nation–And Why We Should Become One, Karl Heinz Bohrer argues for the necessity of the category of nation in Germany, contending that the division brought about in 1945 between West & East Germany was an annihilation of the nation, & that the demand for a continuation of this division is morally, but not politically unfounded. In Yet Again: German Identity–A Unified Nation of Angry DM-Burghers, Jürgen Habermas takes issue with the way the West German government "purchased" the GDR, & discusses monetary policy, transformations in German identity, & the obsolescence of the idea of the nation-state. In Basic Aspects of an Imaginary Debate, Micha Brumlik examines the debate over whether the GDR ought to join the Federal Republic as the sum of its state territories according to Article 23 of the Basic Law, or whether, via a constitutional debate, a new German state ought to be founded. W. Howard

89 welfare state

93Z7745

Abbott, Andrew & DeViney, Stanley (U Chicago, IL 60637), The Welfare State as Transnational Event: Evidence from Sequences of Policy Adoption, Social Science History, 1992, 16, 2, summer, 245-274.

Data from the US Social Security Administration's publication Social Security Programs throughout the World, 1981 (Washington, DC: US Government Printing Office, 1982) on 5 welfare programs–worker's compensation, old-age pension, unemployment, family allowances, & health care–for 18 countries 1880-1980 were anlayzed at 3 levels using sequence comparison & an optimal matching technique. Taking the individual countries as cases & comparing policy adoption sequences between countries, worker's compensation, unemployment, & family allowances programs were generally adopted in that order & at relatively uniform times across most countries. However, there was much variation in the adoption of health insurance & old-age pension programs. Welfare state programs appeared to diffuse in a regular pattern with early adopters, a main body of followers, & then stragglers, modified in some cases by individual effects, conscious policy, or a type of diffusion. Findings support a socialism theory for the development of the welfare state, more than a modernization or government strength theory, because of the salience to work of the programs adopted in sequence. 5 Tables, 3 Figures, 47 References. M. Pflum

93Z7746

Akkerman, Abraham (Dept Geography U Saskatchewan, Saskatoon S7N 0W0), The Relational Structure of Human Services Planning: An Input-Output Analysis, Socio-Economic Planning Sciences, 1992, 26, 1, Jan, 15-26.

¶ The relationship between human need, human service (or care), & service standard–defined as the adopted norm for the minimum number of service units per person–is similar to the relationship between demand, supply, & price in economics. Of particular interest in planning is the case where service units are given in terms of service providers per person. In a population where each person is considered to be a receiver of N categories of service & a provider of one category of service, the relationship between needs & services can be presented in a service standard matrix that fulfills a function analogous to the input-output matrix in economics. The principal eigenvector of the service standard matrix expresses ratios of activity levels for a human service system in an equilibrium. Another related equilibrium is identified for a human service system in which there are providers as well as nonproviders. Application of the two equilibria identifies optimum planning conditions for the provision of human services when service standards & population are known. 2 Tables, 2 Figures, 28 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7747

Andreassen, Harald Magnus, Gjeldskrise eller forskningskrise? En kommentar til debatten om gjeldskrise og betalingsproblemer (Debt Crisis or Research Crisis? A Commentary on the Debate over the Debt Crisis and Economic Problems), Tidsskrift for samfunnsforskning, 1992, 33, 2, 159-176. (NOR)

¶ Two major Norwegian economic research organizations have offered different assessments of Norway's economic picture, with different policy implications. In the last ten years, the Norwegian economy has experienced a rapid increase in the rate of unemployment, changes in the tax system, reduced tax relief on interest payments, & an unprecedented rise & fall in the property market. A 1991 report from the National Instit for Consumer Research (NICR) claims that as many as 10% of families who bought their homes before the housing price collapse have experienced serious payment difficulties & are in financial crisis, & recommends broad policy measures to reestablish acceptable living standards for this new poor generation in the Norwegian welfare state. In its 1991 report, the Instit for Applied Social Research (IASR) claims that parents with small children & families with high debt are not overrepresented in the group that reports serious economic problems; unemployed workers & single mothers are more frequently in that group. This perspective challenges the NICR report, claiming that there is no need for broad political action. It is concluded that the IASR's description & assessment of the current economic state of Norwegian households is more relevant than that of the NICR. 1 Table, 4 Figures, 3 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7748

Cnaan, Ram A., Korazim, Josef, Meller, Yassef & Rosenfeld, Jona M. (School Social Work U Pennsylvania, Philadelphia 19104-6214), The Reform of the Local Social Services in Israel: 1984 Compared to 1977, Social Policy and Administration, 1992, 26, 2, June, 159-172.

¶ Two studies that evaluated the 1977 nationwide reforms of the local departments of social services (LDSS) in Israel are analyzed. In "The First Two Years of the Implementation of the Plan of Change" (State of Israel, Ministry of Labor & Social Affairs & the Instit for Applied Social Research, Jerusalem, 1980), H. Bar, Y. Markus, & I. Shoam reported changes that occurred early in the reform period, while I. Brick & N. Sheffer, in "The Development of Local Welfare Agencies" (Paper presented at the Workshop on "The Future of Personal Social Services at the Local Level in Israel," Jerusalem, 1985, Feb) focused on the current activities of 14 LDSS. The analysis compares results of the two studies to reform objectives: separation of particular LDSS functions, establishment of new priorities among target groups, an increase in client accessibility to LDSS, introduction of generic approaches, improvement of LDSS human resource quality, implementation of information-based work procedures, & integration of LDSS with other community social services. The findings show that through the reforms, targeted new client groups were introduced & less hopeful groups were reduced in number, & that the human resource quality was improved, but the level of generic practice did not change as social workers continued to specialize. Extraneous internal & external factors that affected some of the changes are discussed. 1 Table, 36 References. M. Pflum

93Z7749

Flynn, Marilyn L. (School Social Work U Michigan, Ann Arbor 48109), The English Poor Laws before 1800: A Force in Politico-Economic Modernization, Arête, 1990, 15, 2, winter, 11-25.

¶ The role of English Poor Laws before 1800 in strengthening the emerging capitalist economy is examined. English history demonstrates a long-standing relationship between property ownership & responsibility for the poor. These relief arrangements originally stemmed from the vested interest of dominant groups in the protection of private property, control of labor supply, & consolidation of political power, but subsequently aided economic development by stabilizing local conditions, enhancing the mobility of labor, diminishing the likelihood of collective organization of the poor, disposing of labor surpluses during economic recession, & subsidizing below-subsistence wages. The implications of the poor laws for contemporary poverty policy are discussed. 31 References. Adapted from the source document.

0038-0202/93 $1.50

93Z7750

Hill, Dilys (Dept Politics U Southampton, SO9 5NH England), The American Philosophy of Welfare: Citizenship and the 'Politics of Conduct', Social Policy and Administration, 1992, 26, 2, June, 117-128.

¶ The US debate over workfare & the underclass demonstrates how the idea of duties & obligations of citizenship has replaced the idea of social rights as the main argument for requiring welfare benefit claimants to work, look for work, or train for work. Both conservatives & liberals have espoused workfare, but for different reasons. Conservatives believe in the desirability & efficacy of work, & wish to change the dependence of the underclass on welfare by promoting it as work. Conservatives wish to reinforce work norms, family authority, & individual responsibility. Liberals believe that structural reasons, eg, the lack of employment opportunities, lack of access to employment, & wage structures, are responsible for increasing numbers of welfare recipients, but see workfare as a concession for continuing welfare benefits to the poor. These views have affected welfare policy in the 1980s, with workfare now the goal. 30 References. M. Pflum

93Z7751

Ito, Shuhei, Transliterated title not available (Rights in the Welfare State–A Socio-Legal Consideration), Soshioroji, 1992, 37, 2, Oct, 59-76. (JPN)

¶ One of the fundamental principles resulting from the welfare state established in Western Europe following WWII is that social services be provided for citizens not as charity, but as rights. Under the recent crisis of the welfare state, this principle has been criticized by many theorists, particularly neoconservatives. Despite this, social security institutions appear fixed as indispensable systems, both financially & functionally, & it is unlikely that recent attacks will result in a precipitous dismantling of the welfare state. It is argued here that an analysis of the rights of the welfare state might benefit from a sociolegal perspective. Drawing on the concept of distributive rights, the functions & problems of rights in today's welfare state are clarified. The construction of a sociological theory of rights & the future of the welfare state are also discussed. 31 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7752

Karger, Howard Jacob (School Social Work Louisiana State U, Baton Rouge 70803), The Global Economy and the American Welfare State, UM Journal of Sociology and Social Welfare, 1991, 18, 3, Sept, 3-20.

¶ The US social welfare state is approaching a crisis because of the global economy. Survival in a new world economy requires corporations to become more efficient, a strategy that leads to a rapidly changing technology, plant shutdowns, & industrial reorganization. To aid corporations, government often curbs taxes to make capital available for investment. These policies can lead to governmental debt, reduced welfare services, a deterioration in the infrastructure, & myriad social problems. 40 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7753

King, Barbara Iwanaga (U Washington, Seattle 98195), The Process of Achieving Independence for Women on Welfare, Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 6, Dec, 2124-A.

Available from UMI, Ann Arbor, MI. Order No. DA9230385.

93Z7754

King, Desmond S. & Ward, Hugh (Saint John's Coll, Oxford OX1 3JP England), Working for Benefits: Rational Choice and the Rise of Work-Welfare Programmes, UM Political Studies, 1992, 40, 3, Sept, 479-495.

¶ Rational choice theory is used to explain the adoption in GB & the US of deterrent work-welfare programs, which require the recipients of welfare or unemployment benefits to participate in a training program or work activity in exchange for receiving their benefits, & which reflect a New Right, in contrast to a social democratic, conception of social citizenship. Government designs such policies to generate a partial separating equilibrium under which some claimants identified by the state as undeserving are discouraged from seeking benefits. These programs are intended to overcome problems of free-riding & false claiming, viewed by the New Right as inherent in state-administered benefit systems. 3 Figures. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7755

MacPherson, Stewart (Dept Public & Social Administration Hong Kong Polytechnic, Kowloon), Social Policy and Economic Change in the Asia Pacific Region, Social Policy and Administration, 1992, 26, 1, Mar, 55-61.

¶ An exploration of the social & environmental impacts of economic restructuring in the Asia Pacific region, with focus on consequences for the poor & implications for public social policy. It is stressed that, despite economic growth, about 33% of the people of the region live in absolute poverty, with millions of others suffering a rapidly increasing relative poverty, which is aggravated by high levels of rural-urban migration. Economic restructuring affects low-income communities disportionately; difficulties in empirically determining these impacts are described. However, attempts are being made to improve social monitoring & the study of the role of social policy in these economic transitions. Theoretical approaches to these areas are critiqued, & directions for the 1990s in research, theory, & policy considered. 19 References. J. Taylor

93Z7756

Marsland, David (Dept Health & Paramedical Studies West London Instit Higher Education, Middlesex TW7 5DU England), The Roots and Consequences of Paternalist Collectivism: Beveridge and His Influence, Social Policy and Administration, 1992, 26, 2, June, 144-150.

¶ Between 1945-1951, the British government installed a large welfare state in the name of Lord Beveridge; however, interpretations of Beveridge's intentions & influence vary. In his writings, he cited the inadequacies of welfare provision & the need for the state to act in the public's behalf, but occasionally he criticized paternalism & collectivism in welfare provision. It is here contended that Lord Beveridge & the main line of his intellectual inheritors were both paternalist & collectivist. His 1942 report ("Social Insurance and Allied Services," cmnd 6404, HMSO) had the effect of discouraging individual & private initiatives in welfare. This collectivism distorted the development of the welfare state so that producers rather than consumers are favored. At this point, an alternative social policy should be developed in which: loans replace grants; benefits are contingent on reciprocal obligations, eg, education & community service; care is provided by nonstate organizations; & training of social workers is reformed. This radical proposal should have the goal of restoring self-reliance to welfare participants as quickly as possible. 12 References. M. Pflum

93Z7757

Miller, Beth M. (Brandeis U, Waltham MA 02554-9110), Private Welfare: The Distributive Equity of Family Benefits in America, Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 5, Nov, 1688-A.

Available from UMI, Ann Arbor, MI. Order No. DA9227600.

93Z7758

Pritchard, Colin (Dept Social Work Studies U Southampton, SO9 5NH England), What Can We Afford for the National Health Service?, Social Policy and Administration, 1992, 26, 1, Mar, 40-54.

¶ An examination of the expenditures of the Thatcher government in GB on the National Health Service, based on government reports & statistics & World Health Organization statistics for 1963-1992. These expenditures are compared to what might be expected due to demographic changes, & to expenditures of earlier Labour & Conservative governments, of Germany, Italy, & France. Results indicate that, although segments of the population that put higher demands on health care increased more rapidly in GB than in Italy, Germany, or France, the Thatcher administration spent less overall, & a smaller portion of the gross national product, than those countries. In addition, spending on health declined steadily over the successive Thatcher governments. It is concluded that, to meet future health needs, GB will have to spend more. 4 Tables, 64 References. Adapted from the source document.

0038-0202/93 $1.50

93Z7759

Wilding, Paul (U Manchester, M60 1QD England), Social Policy in the 1980s: An Essay on Academic Evolution, Social Policy and Administration, 1992, 26, 2, June, 107-116.

¶ The impact of academic developments on the British welfare state & social policy during the Thatcher administration is described. These developments include: studies of normative ideas & ideological debates, comparative studies, political science interest in state policies, the acceptance of welfare pluralism, the introduction of evaluation as a goal in social policy, greater attention to organizational issues, & feminist & racial analysis of social policy. In the 1990s, British social policy is expected to become more comparative, to focus on management, evaluation, administration, & organization, & to address some of the Green movement's concerns about economic growth. 60 References. M. Pflum

95 nationalism

93Z7760

Anaya, S. James (U Iowa, Iowa City 52242), The Capacity of International Law to Advance Ethnic or Nationality Rights Claims, UM Human Rights Quarterly, 1991, 13, 3, Aug, 403-411.

¶ Claims in which ethnic communities seek separation or autonomy (eg, secessionist efforts of the Baltic people in the former USSR) are investigated. Ethnic group claims of autonomy take on one or a combination of two basic approaches. Under the historical sovereignty approach, self-determination is invoked to restore the asserted sovereignty of a historical community. Three aspects of international law that limit this approach (the so-called doctrine of intertemporal law, the phenomenon of "recognition," & a normative trend toward stability through pragmatism over instability) are discussed. Under the human rights approach, self-determination arises within international law's expanding lexicon of human rights concern & is posited as a fundamental right that attaches collectively to groups of human beings. It is contended that this approach, despite its appeal, raises a specter of destabilization contrary to international law's normative trends & should not be equated with a right to independent statehood. Two significant impediments facing the human approach to ethnic autonomy claims include the individualistic bias toward human rights conceptions within modern international law & the ability of the doctrine of state sovereignty to impede the capacity of international law to regulate matters within the spheres of authority asserted by states recognized by the international community. S. Millett

93Z7761

Bauman, Zygmunt (U Leeds, LS2 9JT England), Soil, Blood and Identity, UM The Sociological Review, 1992, 40, 4, Nov, 675-701.

¶ The phenomenon of nationalism as a social movement is used to explain the phenomenon of nations. Nationalism is considered as a set of discourses in which identities & counteridentities are conceived & sustained. It is suggested that nationalism was an attempt by modern elites to recapture the allegiance (in the form of cultural hegemony) of the masses produced by early modern social transformations, particularly by the "civilization process." Nationalism needed coercive powers of the state to promote the dissolution of communal identities in the uniform identity of the nation, in the same way that the modern state needed nationalism for the primitive accumulation of authority. In so doing, an unallayed tension between the inclusivists & exclusivists of the nation-state project developed. It is contended that the current process of separation between state & nation in European countries is effected by lesser reliance of state power on culturalist legitimation & deterritorializaiton of communal affiliations. This reflects a new urgency in the processes of nation-building, invention of heritage, & tribal integration, which may lead to the sharpening of the inclusivist & exclusivist prongs of the nationalist project. 18 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7762

Calabrese, Andrew & Burke, Barbara Ruth (U Colorado, Boulder 80309), American Identities: Nationalism, the Media, and the Public Sphere, Journal of Communication Inquiry, 1992, 16, 2, summer, 52-73.

¶ A structural explanation is provided of the tendency of US mass media institutions to promote nationalism at the expense of broader representation of cultural & political diversity. Beginning with a critical assessment of the contemporary relevance of the concept of the "public sphere," & the place of media institutions within it, it is argued that the American melting pot ideology has tended to treat the assertion of marginalized identities as threats to unity. The object of critique here is not the collective identity of nationalism per se, but rather, the elision of nationalism & statism, & the structural tendency of national media to give voice to politically & economically dominant groups in society. It is concluded that, while there is room for improvement in national media representation, greater attention should be given to expanding participatory alternatives to a nationalist public sphere, particularly at a time when global media systems are undergoing significant transitions. 66 References. Modified AA

93Z7763

Halliday, Fred (London School Economics & Political Science, WC2A 2AE England), Bringing the 'Economic' Back in: The Case of Nationalism, Economy and Society, 1992, 21, 4, Nov, 483-490.

¶ A review essay on a book by Ephraim Nimni, Marxism and Nationalism, Theoretical Origins of a Political Crisis (London: Pluto Press, 1991 [see listing in IRPS No. 67]). The Marxist view of nationalism, particularly as written by Karl Marx & V. I. Lenin, is derived from the Marxist theory of social evolution, reductionism, & eurocentrism. This tends to treat national movements as transitory &, in many cases, lacking in validity. The later writings of Antonio Gramsci, the Austro-Marxist school, & Otto Bauer downplayed reductionism & treated nations more as independent entities possessing a political life not determined by class membership & conflict. The Marxist analysis of nationalism, in general, fails because of failures in Marxist theory itself. It is argued that Nimni's analysis suffers from many difficulties: (1) lack of relevance of the pre-1914 world to the post-1914 world; (2) the assumption of a timeless & independent theory of the nation; (3) too abrupt treatment of attempts at multiethnic fusion; & (4) little discussion of the Marxist critique of nationalist myth & ideology. 14 References. D. Generoli

93Z7764

Howard, Rhoda E. (McMaster U, Hamilton Ontario L8S 4LB), The National Question in Canada: Quebec, UM Human Rights Quarterly, 1991, 13, 3, Aug, 412-419.

¶ The conflict between the province of Quebec & the Canadian federal government over Quebec's claim to special recognition as a separate entity within Canada is examined. It is argued that this claim clashes with the rights of individuals to express themselves in the language of their choice (French or English) & questions the notion of a national Canadian identity. Quebec's majority population is French-speaking & Roman Catholic. To protect the English elite that had settled in Quebec, the province was declared bilingual under the British North America Act of 1867. Recurring conflicts over bilingualism & minority language rights since then are discussed. The Meech Lake Accord of 1990 proposed constitutional changes that would enable Quebec to add its signature to the 1982 Constitution & Charter of Rights & Freedoms. The subsequent debate over issues raised by the Accord reopened the question of a collective national identity, particularly how national communities are defined & redefined. S. Millett

93Z7765

Hutchinson, John (Division Humanities Griffith U, Nathan Queensland 4111 Australia), Moral Innovators and the Politics of Regeneration: The Distinctive Role of Cultural Nationalists in Nation-Building, International Journal of Comparative Sociology, 1992, 33, 1-2, Jan-Apr, 101-117.

¶ In many countries, cultural nationalist "revivals" (historical, linguistic, literary) have both preceded the formation of & provided the umbrella for significant social & political movements, but they have often been conflated with political nationalism or dismissed as regressive & transient responses to modernization. However, cultural nationalists have their own distinctive aims & communitarian politics; their aims are re-

0038-0202/93 $1.50

generative rather than regressive & act as moral innovators, charting new directions at times of crisis. Cultural nationalism, moreover, is a recurring force, alternating with political nationalism when the latter fails. These points are explored comparatively, but with particular reference to the history of modern Ireland, where cultural nationalism has shaped the modern nation-state. 23 References. AA

93Z7766

Irele, Abiola (Ohio State U, Columbus 43210), The Crisis of Legitimacy in Africa: A Time of Change and Despair, Dissent, 1992, 39, 3(168), summer, 296-302.

¶ Emerging from the dire economic & political situation in contemporary Africa, recent challenges mounted against entrenched power structures–which, in effect, represent an attempt to reclaim the optimism of the 1960s–are discussed. Largely ignored by Western media & undermined as "chaos & unrest" when reported, recent developments in Ethiopia, Benin, Zambia, Zaire, & Kenya are compared favorably with similar events in Eastern Europe. In addition, the social impact of these developments & the political implications of a general reassessment of power relations in various African states are considered. M. Maguire

93Z7767

Lingle, Christopher (Loyola U, New Orleans LA 70118), Collectivism and Collective Choice: Conflicts between Class Formation and Ethnic Nationalism, Ethnic Groups, 1992, 93, 3, 191-201.

¶ In a discussion of the resurgence of ethnic nationalism in Central & Eastern Europe, it is argued that while authoritarian socialism is neither the primary nor the sufficient cause, it promoted various conditions that provide fertile ground for ethnic collective action: (1) a collectivist mentality; (2) systematic political domination & compulsion; (3) systemic shortages & accompanying economic insecurity; & (4) purposeful neglect of the role of the entrepreneur under central planning. Further, these ethnic-based organizations provided alternative institutions to fill the vacuum left in the wake of the collapse of authoritarian socialism & the demise of the communist parties. Economic & political conditions arising from the myths & illusions of authoritarian socialism seem to have supported the development of interest groups based on national, ethnic, racial, or cultural characteristics rather than class. 26 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7768

Magocsi, Paul Robert (Multicultural History Society Ontario, 43 Queen's Park Crescent East Toronto M5S 2C3), Le Nationalisme monégasque: contradiction terminologue ou réalité pratique? (Monégasque Nationalism: Contradiction in Terms or Political Reality?), Europa Ethnica, 1991, 48, 4, 187-197. (FRE)

¶ Themes of a recent national revival in Monaco include standarization of & instruction in Monégasque, historical & linguistic research, & establishment of new scholarly institutions. In a review of Monaco's history, expressions of cultural & linguistic specificity are traced, emphasizing the pioneering role of L. Notari (1897-1961). The progression of the national revival seems unobstructed, but it is yet in its initial stages. Future projects include use of Monégasque in Catholic ritual & promotion of the language among the adult population. I. Shagrir

93Z7769

Řehák, Jan, Are the Czechs and the Slovaks Different?, Sociologický Časopis, 1992, 28, special issue, Aug, 129-132.

¶ Value system differences between the people of the Czech & Slovak republics are examined through a 1991 random stratified survey of respondents (N not specified) in Bohemia, Moravia, Prague, & the Slovak Republic. The Slovaks demonstrated a preference for leisure activities & social life over work, family, & politics, while Czechs preferred the latter. Czechs are much less religious than the Slovaks, & the Slovaks appear to be resisting social, political, & economic changes because of their different value preferences. Significant differences in geopolitical affiliation between various regions of the two republics are discussed. 3 Tables. D. Generoli

93Z7770

Seth, Sanjay (Dept Politics La Trobe U, Bundoora Victoria 3083 Australia), Nationalism, National Identity and "History": Nehru's Search for India, Thesis Eleven, 1992, 32, 37-54.

¶ Nationalism is at once universal & particular: universal in that it appeals to the universalist ideals of the post-Enlightenment age, eg, freedom, equality, self-determination; & particular in that it invokes these on behalf of a "people" who are held to be irreducibly specific. How this particularity is construed varies greatly. Jawaharlal Nehru sought to ground Indian identity in history rather than geist, race, religion, or language, partly because he was a rationalist & historicist, but also because the nation he sought to found was one that would be modern, & he feared that religious constructions of the nation would undermine the development of rational, modern, democratic institutions. However, Nehru's efforts encountered insurmountable difficulties, because the "Indians" he constructed threatened to be unsuitable for transformation into modern citizens, while his citizens threatened to cease being identifiably Indian. That even so resolute an attempt to adhere to rational methods in defining national identity should have foundered indicates that the nationalist combination of the universal & particular is unstable. AA

93Z7771

Smith, Anthony D. (Dept Sociology London School Economics & Political Science, WC2A 2AE England), Introduction: Ethnicity and Nationalism, International Journal of Comparative Sociology, 1992, 33, 1-2, Jan-Apr, 1-4.

¶ An introduction to a journal issue on ethnicity & nationalism (see related abstracts in SA 41:2) briefly examines what distinguishes works on nations & nationalism of the last twenty years from those of earlier periods, primarily that more recent studies acknowledge the relevance & centrality of ethnicity. Contemporary analysis of nationalism displays a tendency to focus on the social background of participants in nationalist movements, & increased attention to the consociational systems found in the democracies of certain plural societies. 21 References. W. Howard

93Z7772

Smith, Anthony D. (Dept Sociology London School Economics & Political Science, WC2A 2AE England), Nationalism and the Historians, International Journal of Comparative Sociology, 1992, 33, 1-2, Jan-Apr, 58-80.

¶ It is argued that nationalism is the product of its interlocutors, particularly its historians, who have provided the rationale & charter for many nationalist movements. Early historians of nationalism were inclined to view the nation as a bastion of individual liberty. By the late nineteenth century, nationalist principles were grounded in French politics. Perspectives on nationalism by several nineteenth- & twentieth-century writers (eg, Max Weber, Hans Kohn, Karl Marx) are reviewed, & it is suggested that historians should focus on the cultural models of premodern community to help explain why people are drawn to a nation as their primary focus of solidarity & loyalty in the modern world. 88 References. W. Howard

93Z7773

Yoshino, Ryozo (Instit Statistical Mathematics, 4-6-7 Minami-Azabu Manato-Ku Tokyo 106 Japan), Superculture as a Frame of Reference for Cross-National Comparisons of National Characters, Behaviormetrika, 1992, 19, 1(31), Jan, 23-41.

¶ Demonstrated is the utility of a psychometric model–the generalized high threshold (GHT) model–to cross-national comparative studies of national characters based on public opinion data. This model provides a sort of scalar measure of conformity of each nation to a hypothetical standard culture–the "superculture." A new method called the vectorial angular (VA) representation is developed for a graphical representation of the GHT model: all nations are represented as vectors, & the measures of conformity & the matching rates of responses of cross-national public opinion research are represented by the angles between those vectors. Application of the GHT model & the VA representation to 2 cross-national empirical case studies shows their utility for both domain-independent & -specific comparative studies of national characters. 2 Tables, 4 Figures, 1 Appendix, 19 References. Modified AA

1000 social differentiation
19 social stratification/mobility

93Z7774

Barbalet, J. M. (Australian National U, Canberra ACT 2601), A Macro Sociology of Emotion: Class Resentment, Sociological Theory, 1992, 10, 2, fall, 150-163.

¶ Following a critical examination of Thomas H. Marshall's account of class resentment ("The Nature of Class Conflict," Class, Citizenship and Social Development, Westport, Conn: Greenwood, 1973 [1938]), the emotional patterns of resentment in class inequality in trade cycle changes in costs & opportunities for income, & in class cultures, are considered. It is contended that emotion, arising from social relationships, is the basis of action that subsequently affects the structure of social relationships, connecting phases of social structure separated by time. 49 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7775

Bovasso, Gregory, Social Structure in Two National Political Subcultures, UM Social Psychology Quarterly, 1992, 55, 3, Sept, 292-299.

¶ Consensually integrated national political subcultures (NPSs) may vary in the extent to which their central social circles (CSCs) fit the power elite vs the plural elite model of social structural integration. Certain NPSs fit a model of consensual integration because of the existence of CSCs that integrate these. Here, CSCs of the national political subcultures of Australia & the US were modeled sociometrically, using data obtained via structured interviews with top position holders in major organizations of several industrial sectors (N = 370 + 545 respondents, respectively). Both CSCs were found to be structured hierarchically by an elite subgroup in a configuration loosely supporting the consensual integration model. However, the CSC of the NPS of the US in 1971/72 was elitist, whereas that of Australia in 1975 was pluralistic. It is suggested that this elitism in the US may have facilitated the groupthink attributed to the federal regime that composed a substantial part of the CSC. 4 Tables, 29 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7776

Burns, Thomas J. (Dept Sociology U Utah, Salt Lake City 84112), Class Dimensions, Individualism, and Political Orientation, Sociological Spectrum, 1992, 12, 4, Oct-Dec, 349-362.

¶ A revised version of SA 37:6/89S21302/ASA/1989/5118. 1 Table, 1 Figure, 38 References.

93Z7777

Chaput, Pascale (CNAM, 2 rue Conté F-75003 Paris France), Les Allégeances croisées d'un saigneur malayali. Monographie d'une plantation d'hévéas (The Cross-Cutting Allegiances of a Malayali Rubber-Tapper. Monograph of a Hevea Plantation), UM Sociologie du Travail, 1992, 34, 3, 331-352. (FRE)

¶ The possible impact of jobs on Indian caste structure is explored in a case study of a rubber plantation in southern India. It is indicated that the politico-economic domain is currently emancipating itself from religion, therefore influencing caste hierarchy. The religious & caste denomination of the plantation, comprising 1,750 individuals, is described. Work organization is characterized as Taylorist. It is observed that members of higher castes occupy higher positions in the division of labor; however, caste solidarities are weakened by labor conflicts & syndicalism. It is suggested that labor conflicts & change may generate a new, economically oriented, social order. 3 Tables. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7778

Crosby, Faye J., Allen, Brenda & Opotow, Susan (Psychology Dept Smith Coll, Northampton MA 01063), Changing Patterns of Income among Blacks and Whites before and after Executive Order 11246, Social Justice Research, 1992, 5, 3, Sept, 335-341.

¶ While some critics of affirmative action legislation in the US (Executive Order 11246 [1965]) contend that the law has split the black community into rich & poor groups, statistical analyses of archival income data from the US Census do not support this claim. Although income concentration for both blacks & whites has increased since 1947, polarization in black income (ie, attrition of the middle-income class) is unsubstantiated. It is noted that affirmative action alone will not rectify race-based income inequalities. 2 Tables, 1 Figure, 18 References. J. Sadler

93Z7779

Edari, Ronald S. (Dept Sociology U Wisconsin, Milwaukee 53201), "Underclass": Problems of Conceptualization and Measurement, Nature, Society, and Thought, 1992, 5, 1, Jan, 7-21.

¶ It is contended that a major weakness of the "underclass" construction derives from the limitations of the individualistic conceptions of the Weberian class problematic & the related social-pathologist discourse on poverty. Individualistic conceptions suffer from having to circumscribe discrete traits within a framework that has theoretical & methodological integrity, particularly at the structural level. In the absence of such a framework, traits are rendered coherent by the process of stereotyping the characteristics of the most impoverished inner-city population in its postvictimized state. Liberal social scientists have developed new theoretical models of poverty, eg, the "culture of poverty" thesis. This explanation supplied the theoretical underpinnings of the regressive policies implemented under the banner of welfare reform. 15 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7780

Erikson, Robert & Goldthorpe, John H. (Instit Social Research Stockholm U, S-10691 Sweden), The CASMIN Project and the American Dream, European Sociological Review, 1992, 8, 3, Dec, 283-305.

Rejoinder, 307-310, Comment, 311-312.

¶ In response to criticisms by Michael Hout, Robert M. Hauser, & Jesper B. Sørensen of the CASMIN (Comparative Analysis of Social Mobility in Industrial Nations) project (see abstracts in this section of SA 41:2), issues related to the model of core social fluidity are addressed, & conceptual presuppositions & related research interests are highlighted, which are believed to be deeply rooted in the US tradition of work in the field of social stratification & mobility. In 'More Matter, with Less Art': A Rejoinder to Erikson and Goldthorpe, Jesper B. Sørensen (Stanford U, Calif) argues that Erikson & Goldthorpe avoid his criticisms with dismissive claims & ad hominem attacks. In tying their model to a particular level of aggregation, they deny it the substantive import that it may have. In Comment on Sørenson's 'Rejoinder,' Erikson & Goldthorpe reiterate that Sørensen's data are an inadequate & unfair basis on which to test the hypothesis that relative cross-national rates of mobility may be expected to be similar. 3 Tables, 28 References. S. Millett

93Z7781

Evans, Geoffrey (Nuffield Coll, Oxford OX1 1NF England), Testing the Validity of the Goldthorpe Class Schema, European Sociological Review, 1992, 8, 3, Dec, 211-232.

¶ Data for employees who work 30+ hours a week (N = approximately 800), drawn from the 1984 Essex (England) national survey, are used to examine class characteristics of occupations. Comprehensive measures of employment conditions & occupational characteristics are used to test the validity of the Goldthorpe class schema (Goldthorpe, John H., in collaboration with Llewellyn, C., & Payne, C., Social Mobility and Class Structure in Modern Britain, Oxford: Clarendon Press, 1980). Findings confirm that the schema predicts characteristics that are considered central to Goldthorpe's concept of class (employment, payment conditions, & future prospects), as well as secondary distinguishing characteristics of classes (control over work activities, authority relations, & levels of pay). Furthermore, a strong association between class & indicators of employment conditions is consistent with the key distinction between a service relationship & a labor contract that is embodied in the schema. It is concluded that the strength of the association between the schema

0038-0202/93 $1.50

& the job characteristics variables is sufficiently high for the schema to be considered valid. 8 Tables, 1 Figure, 36 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7782

Fielding, A. J. (Centre Urban & Regional Research U Sussex, Falmer Brighton BN1 9RH England), Migration and Social Mobility: South East England as an Escalator Region, UM Regional Studies, 1992, 26, 1, 1-15.

¶ In the context of the relation between class & region, the role of the London metropolitan region in England's interregional migration system & its relation to social mobility are examined. The concept & criteria of the notion of "escalator region," applied to southeast England, including London, are described. Characteristics of the region are discussed: its attractiveness to a younger upwardly mobile population, the higher chances for social promotion, & the outmigration of people in their late career stages. Data drawn from 1971-1981 census records & the National Health Service Register show how the London area meets the escalator region criteria, but also demonstrate the effects of international migration & labor market changes. 6 Tables, 9 Figures, 11 References. I. Shagrir

93Z7783

Goldthorpe, John H. & Marshall, Gordon (c/o Marshall–School Social Sciences U Bath, Claverton Down BA2 7AY England), The Promising Future of Class Analysis: A Response to Recent Critiques, Sociology, 1992, 26, 3, Aug, 381-400.

¶ It is argued that much criticism of class analysis (CA) is misplaced & that, as a research program, the promise of CA is far from exhausted. The nature & purpose of CA is clarified, & it is distinguished from the CA of Marxist sociology. A case is made for the continuing relevance of CA by reviewing findings from three central areas of current research. 94 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7784

Hout, Michael & Hauser, Robert M. (Dept Sociology U California, Berkeley 94720 (e-mail: mikehout@ucbcmsa.bitnet)), Symmetry and Hierarchy in Social Mobility: A Methodological Analysis of the CASMIN Model of Class Mobility, European Sociological Review, 1992, 8, 3, Dec, 239-266.

¶ A methodological analysis of the CASMIN (Comparative Analysis of Social Mobility in Industrial Nations) model of class mobility, developed by Robert Erikson & John H. Goldthorpe (see SA 35:4/87R7729). Problems with the original CASMIN model are identified, & it is respecified to clarify the role of socioeconomic variations among classes in mobility processes & to specify the degree of cross-national variation. The respecified model includes greater occupational detail & imposes symmetry on the relation between origins & destinations. It is concluded that Erickson's & Goldthorpe's model understates the significance of hierarchy in the determination of mobility patterns. The symmetry of the respecified model facilitates the analysis of structural mobility as a contributing factor to cross-national differences in overall mobility rates. 6 Tables, 5 Figures, 49 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7785

Hubka, David S. (Dept Sociology & Anthropology Carleton U, Ottawa Ontario K1S 5B6), Historical Materialism by Cross-Sectional Survey Design: The Limits of E. O. Wright's Study of Class Structure, Alternate Routes, 1992, 9, 64-77.

¶ It is contended that Erik Olin Wright's attempt to build on Marxist class analysis (eg, Classes, London: Verso, 1986) is flawed due to his belief that class is a structure prior to conceptual variables, eg, authority, autonomy, & property. Wright's work does not provide any useful insights into the dynamic nature of class due to its simplistic description of existing structures. However, it is argued that, due to the static nature of his class structues, repeating Wright's research could prove useful in identifying historical evolutions in capitalist class relations. 27 References. G. Castañeda

93Z7786

James, Kerry E. (Pacific Islands Development Program East-West Center, Honolulu HI 96848), Tongan Rank Revisited: Religious Hierarchy, Social Stratification, and Gender in the Ancient Tongan Polity, Social Analysis, 1992, 31, July, 79-202.

¶ Using as a model Louis Dumont's notion of encompassment with regard to Indian society (Homo Hierarchicus: The Caste System and Its Implications, Chicago: University Press, 1980), Elizabeth Bott's conceptualization of social stratification at the time of Cook's visit ((with the assistance of Tavi) Tongan Society at the Time of Captain Cook's Visits: Discussions with Her Majesty Queen Sālote Tupou, Wellington: The Polynesian Society Memoires No. 44, 1982), is recast by giving a different interpretation of the Tongan view of rank. It is argued that, in the indigenous view, the quality of being 'eiki was the primary value in ancient Tongan culture & polity. As Dumont suggested, the relation of this value to the external forms of social stratification is always problematic, which is especially true with regard to the Tongan materials. It is contended that various forms of stratification that favored male authority were codified in the 1875 Constitution, while the ancient hierarchy that accorded peculiar importance to females, because of their relationship to the gods as vessels of mana, found no place in modern law. Usages of key concepts in contemporary Tonga are discussed. 1 Table, 2 Figures, 54 References. AA

93Z7787

Kane, Emily W. (U Wisconsin, Madison 53706), Race, Gender, and Attitudes toward Gender Stratification, UM Social Psychology Quarterly, 1992, 55, 3, Sept, 311-320.

¶ A revised version of SA 37:6/89S21495/ASA/1989/5312. 2 Tables, 1 Appendix, 30 References.

93Z7788

Kim, Chang Hwan (U Oxford, OX1 2JD England), Africanization and the Rise of Managerial Class in Kenya: An Empirical Study, * Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 5, Nov, 1689-A-1690-A.

Available from UMI, Ann Arbor, MI, in association with the British Library. Order No. BRD-96843.

93Z7789

Li, Peter S. (U Saskatchewan, Saskatoon S7N 0W0), Race and Gender as Bases of Class Fractions and Their Effects on Earnings, UM La Revue Canadienne de Sociologie et d'Anthropologie/The Canadian Review of Sociology and Anthropology, 1992, 29, 4, Nov, 488-510.

¶ An analysis of income inequality within various classes, focusing on the interactive effects of race & gender as bases of class fractions. Based on 1986 Canadian Census data, differences by race, gender, social class, employment sector, nativity, age, & educational attainment in annual earnings are compared. Gender-based wage differentials are most pronounced, but race causes more fractionalization of men's than women's earnings, even when other variables are controlled for. Managerial, professional, & working-class earnings are more strongly affected by race & gender than are employers or petty bourgeoisie. Thus, the simplistic Marxist interpretation of class fraction (based only on gender & race) as determining income inequality cannot be supported. 3 Tables, 63 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7790

Machonin, Pavel & Tuček, Milan (Sociologický ústav Czechoslovak Academy Sciences, CS-11000 Prague 1 (Tel: 02-235-89-68-71; Fax: 02-235-78-88)), K sociální stratifikaci v Československu 1991 (Social Stratification in Czechoslovakia 1991), Sociologický Časopis, 1992, 28, 5, 649-665. (CZE)

¶ To investigate patterns of social stratification in Czechoslovakia, the results of a 1991 study are compared with those of 1967 & 1984 research. Nonhierarchical cluster analysis is utilized with a sufficient number of iterations to allow for stabilized results. The correlation matrix of the status dimension shows that the 1991 data indicate the beginnings of a shift away from the totalitarian past, in comparison with the 1967 & 1984 data. For the first time, an autonomous factor of individual total income level emerged, connected with power position & material standard, but relatively independent of educational & socioeconomic status. Cluster analysis is used to divide 11 social groupings into the emerging upper, middle, & lower classes. 4 Tables, 21 References. Adapted from the source document.

Z7791
Matějů, Petr, The Constant Flux. A Study of Class Mobility in Industrial Societies (The Constant Flux. A Study of Class Mobility in Industrial Societies), Sociologický Časopis, 1992, 28, 5, 685-699. (CZE)
A review essay on a book by Robert Erikson & John H. Goldthorpe, The Constant Flux. A Study of Class Mobility in Industrial Societies (Oxford: Clarendon Press, 1992 [see listing in IRPS No. 67]). This book offers a comparative international study of social mobility, based on survey & other data obtained during the 1970s in England, France, Germany, Sweden, Northern Ireland, the Republic of Ireland, Scotland, Poland, Hungary, the US, Japan, & Australia. Special efforts were made to find long-term trends in intergenerational mobility, using a core social fluidity model. A negative assessment is given, since a study of mobility that fails to consider the processes that generate mobility can only lead to misunderstandings. More sophisticated approaches toward comparative studies are needed of stratification in US, Swedish, & Western European societies. M. Meeks

Z7792
Melgoza Valdivia, Javier (U Autónoma Metropolitana, Azcapotzalco 02000 Mexico DF), Tras la huella de la subjetividad obrera. Algunas reflexiones desde la sociología del trabajo (Behind the Imprint of Working Class Subjectivity. Some Reflections on the Sociology of Labor), Sociológica, 1990, 5, 14, Sept-Dec, 171-187. (SPA)
An exploration of working-class subjectivity via a review of the literature on work processes, work organization, & categories of workers. It is argued that worker subjectivity is mediated by the factory atmosphere & the social relations generated by that atmosphere. Marxist theory is applied to investigations of eighteenth- & nineteenth-century working environments, while the work of F. W. Taylor & E. Mayo (eg, see Taylor, Scientific Management, New York: Harpers, 1972) is used to explicate twentieth-century worker identity from the company perspective. Results indicate the necessity of abandoning explanations derived solely from technological factors or factory-/company-level determinants, & explore outside influences on work processes & worker identity. 25 References. Adapted from the source document.

3Z7793
Michaelson, Alaina & Contractor, Noshir S. (U Illinois, Urbana 61801), Structural Position and Perceived Similarity, Social Psychology Quarterly, 1992, 55, 3, Sept, 300-310.
An overview of several alternative models of structural similarity, or positions, together with various algorithms employed to detect structural positions in a social network. Ways that these models correspond to the perception of interpersonal similarity, & how social structure may influence such perceptions, are then investigated using sociometric questionnaire data collected over 11 weeks in a class of 18 college students in Ill. Positional similarities in the network based on structural, automorphic, & regular equivalence were compared with ratings of perceived similarity at the end of the semester; positions in different types of relationships were also compared. Results suggest that perception of similarity is related more closely to abstract notions of position, or general equivalences in a network, than to specific positions based on structural equivalence. Implications for perceived similarity in relations with some imposed structure are discussed. 4 Tables, 1 Figure, 38 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7794
Moghaddam, Fathali M. & Perreault, Stephane (Psychology Dept Georgetown U, Washington DC 20057), Individual and Collective Mobility Strategies among Minority Group Members, Journal of Social Psychology, 1992, 132, 3, June, 343-357.
¶ To investigate factors associated with minority group members' individual & collective mobility strategies, 313 first-generation immigrants to Montreal, Quebec, from southern Asia, mainland People's Republic of China, & the West Indies were interviewed & completed a questionnaire to determine personal talent, perceived discrimination, minority resources, conservativism, & mobility orientations. Results indicate that: individual action was preferred by less talented minority group members, & was related to a stronger belief in the legitimacy of the social system; collective action was correlated with perceived group discrimination; & resource availability was associated with collective action. 1 Table, 54 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7795
Nolan, Patrick D. (Dept Sociology U South Carolina, Columbia 29208), A Standardized Cross-National Comparison of Incomes, The Sociological Quarterly, 1992, 33, 4, winter, 599-609.
¶ A cross-national comparison of the incomes of the highest & lowest earning households in 56 countries, drawing on data on income shares developed by Greg A. Hoover (see SA 37:5/89U9971). The most striking finding is the difference in ranking produced by measures of income share vs per capita income: a greater share in the bottom quintile generally associates with a higher income, & a greater share in the top quintile with a lower income. Consequently, a very different image of cross-national differences in income emerges from the relative size of income share than from the relative size of income. 3 Tables, 3 Figures, 1 Appendix, 17 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7796
Ogmundson, Richard (U Victoria, British Columbia V8W 2Y2), Perspectives on the Class and Ethnic Origins of Canadian Elites: A Reply to Clement and Rich, Canadian Journal of Sociology/Cahiers canadiens de sociologie, 1992, 17, 3, summer, 313-321.
¶ In "Perspective on the Class and Ethnic Origins of Canadian Elites" (see SA 38:5/90X0227), Richard Ogmundson criticized the neglect of an extensive body of research demonstrating that the methodologies adopted by the original Vertical Mosaic school exaggerated the exclusivity of Canadian elites, & that the finding of elite membership that was unrepresentative of the social composition of the population did not reveal a shocking anomaly that demanded immediate remedy. Additionally, it was argued that research conducted using other methodologies indicates a transitional pattern in which Canadian elites are becoming more exclusive. Here, a rebuttal is offered to two criticisms of these arguments by Wallace Clement (see SA 38:5/90X0227) & Harvey Rich (see SA 40:3/92Y7802). 31 References. S. Millett

93Z7797
Pankhurst, Donna (International Development Center U Manchester, M60 1QD England), Constraints and Incentives in 'Successful' Zimbabwean Peasant Agriculture: The Interaction between Gender and Class, Journal of Southern African Studies, 1991, 17, 4, Dec, 611-632.
¶ A case study of social differentiation in the Zimbabwean village of Murasi, based on 1984 fieldwork, demonstrating the degree to which production & reproduction exist as a unity, & analyzing these in terms of the interaction of gender & class. Through these perspectives, sets of constraints & incentives in production for different groups within the village are identified–divided both by elements of class &, overwhelmingly, by gender. The most important link between reproduction & production is that of agricultural production itself, wherein the husband enforces decisions, but the wife takes most of the responsibility & provides most of the labor. Changes in the patriarchal nature of African societies are described, including the replacement of gender divisions by class differentiations. Appreciation of the complicated combinations of class bases within the village is important for understanding the nature of social change. 5 Tables. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7798
Salvatore, Ricardo D. (Instit Torcuato Di Tella, 1428 Buenos Aires Argentina), Criminology, Prison Reform, and the Buenos Aires Working Class, The Journal of Interdisciplinary History, 1992, 23, 2, autumn, 279-299.
¶ Relationships between criminology, the prison reform movement, & changes in the composition of the working class (Wc) in Buenos Aires, Argentina, are examined. Contact between the ruling class & the new, immigrant Wc focused attention on the relationship between work & crime & prompted a redefinition of crime connected to the work ethic. Work was elevated to the status of reform therapy, & the prison system gradually took on the role of assisting immigrant workers to adapt to the new conditions of work required by the city's urban, export economy. The seemingly humanitarian emphasis on returning people to viable work backfired in some respects. The preponderance of males in the prison system led to a gender-biased perspective of reform. The deemphasis

0038-0202/93 $1.50

of the political aspects of workers' struggles led to reduced tolerance of social protest & increased police brutality & ideological prosecution in response to strikes, demonstrations, & refusals to work. 1 Table. D. Generoli

93Z7799

Šanderová, Jadwiga, Social Class in Modern Britain (Social Class in Modern Britain), Sociologický Časopis, 1992, 28, 5, 699-705. (CZE)

¶ A review article on a book by Gordon Marshall, David Rose, Howard Newby, & Carolyn Vogler, Social Class in Modern Britain (London: Unwin Hyman Ltd, 1988 [see listing in IRPS No. 67]). This book focuses on a number of key themes: (1) the nature of the social class (SC) system in GB; (2) the possibility that the basic unit of SC is the family, not the individual; (3) dichotomization or proletarianization of the middle class in several industrial nations, including GB; (4) the existence of SC consciousness; & (5) the extent of SC conflict. The work is given a mixed assessment, due to its weak operationalization of SC structure. It is suggested that a similar study be performed in Czechoslovakia. M. Meeks

93Z7800

Sørensen, Jesper B. (Dept Sociology Stanford U, CA 94305 [e-mail: sorensen@leland.stanford.edu]), Locating Class Cleavages in Inter-Generational Mobility: Cross-National Commonalities and Variations in Mobility Patterns, European Sociological Review, 1992, 8, 3, Dec, 267-281.

¶ Examined are patterns of relative intergenerational mobility among 177,734 men in 23 industrialized nations using secondary mobility table data. The analysis is informed by the claim by David L. Featherman, F. Lancaster Jones, & Robert M. Hauser (see SA 35:4/87R7730) that underlying relative rates of mobility in industrialized nations are the same. It is contended that Robert Erikson's & John H. Goldthorpe's model of cross-national similarities in the structure of mobility (see SA 35:4/87R7729) fails to account for a large portion of the association between origins & destinations, which suggests that the model does not tap the location of major class cleavages in some nations. To rectify this, a more inductive approach is adopted by fitting a scaled association model that makes no apriori assumptions regarding category scaling. The scale values produced by the model permit cross-national comparisons of relative interclass distances. Mobility profiles–which account for a substantial portion of the cross-national variation in the structure of association–are also identified. 5 Tables, 6 Figures, 17 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7801

Suikunen, Pekka, Häviävät erot–Uudet keskiluokat länsieurooppalaisessa yhteiskunnassa (Demise of Difference–New Middle Classes in Western Europe), Sosiologia, 1992, 29, 3, 203-218. (FIN)

¶ The rise of a new middle class in Western Europe is investigated, drawing on interview data obtained over the last few decades with citizens of various West European countries (N not specified). Whereas a similar phenomenon occurred in the US during the 1950s, this is a very recent happening for Europeans. Theories of several US sociologists regarding the social effects of a new middle class are discussed, eg, C. Wright Mills's White Collar (London: Oxford U Press, 1956). It is concluded that the European middle class is suffering from "status panic" & has lost its sense of class identity. The new middle class is characterized as individualistic, antiauthoritarian, & attracted to populist ideologies. 1 Table, 1 Figure, 67 References. Adapted from the source document

93Z7802

Večerník, Jiří (Sociologický ústav Czechoslovak Academy Sciences, CS-11000 Prague 1 [Tel: 02-235-87-77; FAX: 02-235-78-88]), Změny v příjmové nerovnosti v letech 1988-1992 (Changes in Income Distribution in 1988-1992), Sociologický Časopis, 1992, 28, 5, 666-684. (CZE)

¶ From 1959 to 1988, Czechoslovakia was unique in its stability of income distribution; however, there was a trend toward diminishing returns for education, advantages for productive branches, & favoritism toward older workers. Differences among housholds depended on the numbers of wage-earners & children. To determine changes since the end of communist rule, 3 sets of questionnaire data (N = 1,600-1,800 respondents each) were obtained at 3 times, 1991/92. Results show that inequality in incomes greatly increased, especially in terms of per capita income. Retired workers fared better, while those with more children suffered a decline. Otherwise there were no other clear statistical patterns. It is likely that this demographic dependence of earnings is being replaced by an economic pattern in which the head of household has more weight in determining the family's financial situation. 7 Tables, 10 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7803

Woods, Eric (U Sussex, Falmer Brighton BN1 9RH England), A Darkness Visible: Gissing, Masterman, and the Metaphors of Class, 1880-1914, * Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 5, Nov, 1691-A.

Available from UMI, Ann Arbor, MI, in association with the British Library. Order No. BRDX96917.

20 sociology of occupations & professions

93Z7804

Acosta, Luis Roberto & Jorrat, Jorge Raul, Escala Argentina de prestigio ocupacional (Argentinian Scale of Occupational Prestige), Desarrollo Económico, 1991, 30, 120, Jan-Mar, 573-586. (SPA)

¶ To construct a scale of occupational prestige for Argentinians, 250 adults ages 25-64 in Buenos Aires were surveyed, with each subgroup of 50 classifying 100 occupations, 50 of which were common to all groups. Regression analyses yielded a measure of distance between occupations. The reliability & validity of the scale were evaluated, & found to be satisfactory, as were comparisons of the Argentinian scale to international scales. 1 Table, 15 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7805

Al-Shammari, Sulaiman & Khoja, Tawfik (Coll Medicine King Saud U, Riyadh 11461 Saudi Arabia), Assessing the Role of Social Workers in Saudi Arabia: An Example from Riyadh, Health Policy and Planning, 1992, 7, 1, Mar, 72-76.

¶ Questionnaire data are used to investigate the working arrangements & problems encountered by the 18 social workers attached to the primary health care (PHC) centers in Riyadh, Saudi Arabia. Findings reveal insufficient training, poor communication between primary care doctors & social workers, & inadequate provision of facilities for social workers in PHC centers. It is recommended that the role & job description of social workers should be better defined. In addition, more social workers should be trained to provide cover for all the PHC centers, & periodic health education programs on the role of social workers in PHC should be organized. 3 Tables, 14 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7806

Albers, Joel (U Minnesota, Minneapolis 55455), Pharmacists and the National Health Insurance Debate, Nature, Society, and Thought, 1992, 5, 1, Jan, 23-46.

Comments, 46-49, Response, 49-50.

¶ It is argued that pharmacists, like other health care professionals, should advocate a federally funded, publicly administered US national health program that is universal, comprehensive, & based on need. The case is made via an analysis of the historical & economic development of the capitalist structure of the US health care system, with special emphasis on pharmacy, vs the Canadian system of health care. In On Albers's "Pharmacists and the National Health Insurance Debate," Lawrence David Weiss (U of Alaska, Anchorage) argues against Albers that national health insurance would have little impact in the health care industry on the continuing processes of concentration of ownership & market monopolization, & consequently, little impact on the continued proletarianization of pharmacists. In On the Issues of the Albers-Weiss Exchange, David Cohen lauds Albers for his pragmatism in developing a "politically possible" program, & criticizes Weiss for advocating complete nationalization of the health care system, since, at this point, this would not be politically acceptable. In Response by Lawrence Weiss to David Cohen, Weiss contends that Cohen does not comprehend class relations & their effect on public policy. 43 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7807

Arnold, Bruce L. & Hagan, John (Sociology Dept U Calgary, Alberta T2N 1N4), Careers of Misconduct: The Structure of Prosecuted Professional Deviance among Lawyers, UM American Sociological Review, 1992, 57, 6, Dec, 771-780.

¶ A career model of prosecuted misconduct among lawyers is outlined that combines labeling theory's emphasis on the role of sanctions in structuring deviant careers with a focus on the asynchronic interaction between life cycle change among precariously positioned actors & system conditions. Data are drawn from the histories of 1,274 lawyers against whom complaints of misconduct were lodged with the Law Society of a Canadian province, 1979-1986. It is hypothesized that complaints of misconduct against inexperienced practitioners are more prone to prosecution due to social conceptions & lay theories about lawyer misconduct, perceived threats to the profession's public image, & the relative powerlessness of these lawyers to defend themselves, particularly during a recession. An event-history analysis confirms that complaints against inexperienced solo practitioners are more likely to move to prosecution during an economic recession. 3 Tables, 2 Figures, 31 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7808

Aryee, Samuel & Debrah, Yaw A. (Faculty Business Administration National U Singapore, 0511 Singapore), Career Planning: An Examination of Individual, Non-Work and Work Determinants, The International Journal of Human Resource Management, 1992, 3, 1, May, 85-104.

¶ Adopting a life-span perspective, questionnaire data obtained from 214 employees in technical, professional, & managerial jobs in Singapore are used to examine the relative effect of individual, nonwork, & work variables as determinants of career planning. Results of hierarchical regression analysis indicate that individual variables accounted for the most incremental contribution to career planning while nonwork & work variables made only marginal contributions. Findings are discussed in light of recent literature, & a framework that conceptualizes career planning in terms of individual motivation, & that is explicable in terms of expectancy theory, is suggested. 2 Tables, 1 Figure, 50 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7809

Bellas, Marcia L. (Dept Sociology U Illinois, Urbana 61801), The Effects of Marital Status and Wives' Employment on the Salaries of Faculty Men: The (House) Wife Bonus, Gender & Society, 1992, 6, 4, Dec, 609-622.

¶ Data obtained in a 1984 survey are used to examine whether marital status & wives' employment have affected salary levels in a national sample of 3,694 faculty males (Ms). Findings reveal a monotonic increase in earnings corresponding to the hypothesized levels of contributions that Ms received from wives: Ms with employed wives had higher salaries than never-married Ms, while Ms with nonemployed wives had the highest salaries. This pattern is partly attributable to differences in employment characteristics & achievement levels between these categories of Ms. However, a direct relationship between salary & marital status & wives' employment remains after controlling many variables known to affect faculty salaries. 2 Tables, 1 Appendix, 27 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7810

Bennett, Trevor & Lupton, Ruth (Instit Criminology U Cambridge, CB2 1TN England), A National Activity Survey of Police Work, Howard Journal of Criminal Justice, 1992, 31, 3, Aug, 200-223.

¶ National questionnaire data from 1,670 community constables & general duty officers in 39 GB police forces are drawn on to analyze how their time is distributed among various policing tasks. Analysis shows that the times spent on inside vs outside activities are statistically different across police types: community constables spend about 33% of a typical duty tour inside the station, while general duty officers sped about 40% of their time inside. General & administrative duties are the most typical inside duty, & routine patrol the most typical outside duty for both groups. Rural constables spend significantly more time on patrol than urban officers. While the direction for differences between the two groups is expected in terms of their different job descriptions, the degree of difference is less than expected. Variations across the 39 police forces are substantial in terms of inside vs outside activities. It is suggested that such activity analyses can indicate problems in the organization & deployment of patrol officers. 4 Tables, 6 Figures, 28 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7811

Bertrand, Olivier, L'Evolution des qualifications professionnelles (The Evolution of Professional Qualifications), Futuribles, 1992, 168, Sept, 3-24. (FRE)

¶ Demand for new skills in professional vocational preparation result from: modification of economic contexts, intensification of international competition, & rapid diffusion of new technologies, especially in computers. To respond to these challenges, enterprises may either replace personnel or update them through on-site continuing education. The evolution of socioprofessional groups in France 1962-1981 is examined based on census data, noting an expansion of engineering & technical professions, a decrease in intermediary professions, & an increase in commercial & administrative professions. 1 Table, 1 Figure, 6 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7812

Billingsley, Bonnie S. & Cross, Lawrence H. (Virginia Polytechnic Instit & State U, Blacksburg 24061-0302), Predictors of Commitment, Job Satisfaction, and Intent to Stay in Teaching: A Comparison of General and Special Educators, The Journal of Special Education, 1992, 25, 4, winter, 453-471.

¶ Mail questionnaire data collected from 463 special education & 493 general education teachers in Va are used to: (1) identify variables that influence teachers' commitment & job satisfaction, & (2) determine the extent to which these variables influence teachers' intent to stay in teaching. Cross-validated regression results suggest that work-related variables–eg, leadership support, role conflict, role ambiguity, & stress–are better predictors of commitment & job satisfaction than are demographic variables. Generally, findings are similar for general & special educators; implications for educational agencies are addressed. 6 Tables, 69 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7813

Botterö, Wendy (Dept Sociology U Edinburgh, EH8 9LN Scotland), The Changing Face of the Professions? Gender and Explanations of Women's Entry to Pharmacy, Work, Employment and Society, 1992, 6, 3, Sept, 329-346.

¶ An examination of patterns of female entry & employment in pharmacy occupations in the UK, questioning whether it is helpful to see women's position in the professions in terms of gender divisions. It is argued that both "de-skilling" & "feminization" are inadequate descriptions of processes occurring in the professions, & that a concentration on gender divisions has led to the neglect of other important variations. A reexamination of theoretical categories is necessary for further analysis. 3 Tables, 2 Figures, 25 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7814

Chi-Ching, Edity Yuen (Dept Organizational Behavior National U Singapore, 0511 Singapore), Perceptions of External Barriers and the Career Success of Female Managers in Singapore, Journal of Social Psychology, 1992, 132, 5, Oct, 661-674.

¶ The impact of 12 external barriers (including family-related & work/organization-related barriers) on the career success of 238 female business graduates in Singapore is investigated, using questionnaire data. The results show external barriers to be important predictors of women's career success. Findings also suggest how various external barriers interact to impede the career development of women. 4 Tables, 22 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7815

Elkind, Pamela Dee (Eastern Washington U, Cheney 99004), Generational Model of Attitudinal Change in Medical Practice, Current Research on Occupations and Professions, 1991, 6, 251-278.

¶ To examine the argument that a generational cohort of physicians (MDs) have similar orientations toward their careers & environments, the issue of professional autonomy vs control, of major emphasis in the 1970s & 1980s, is explored. An historical model is constructed & then utilized to demonstrate similarities within, & differences between, MD generation units among a random sample of 621 primary care MDs in Md, based on interview & other data. Findings demonstrate that the MDs' ideas, attitudes, & modes of practice often reflect their generation, especially observable in regard to the issue of professional autonomy vs control. 6 Tables, 36 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7816

Frankie, Todd & Neale, Pauline (Dept Continuing Professional Education U Leeds, LS2 9JT England), Professions without Frontiers? The "European Project" and UK Professional Associations, The International Journal of Sociology and Social Policy, 1992, 12, 3, 26-57.

¶ In a report on the first phase of a real-time study of the policies & practices on Europe adopted by UK professional associations, the policy context surrounding the First General Directive on the mutual recognition of qualifications & associated provisions for freedom of movement & rights of establishment for professionals throughout the European Community (EC) is explored, & results of a 1991 questionnaire survey of 57 UK professional associations, documenting a growing web of links with partners in continental Europe, are summarized. Data are presented on education, development of European-wide qualifications, migration, establishment of pan-European professional groupings, & the uses of the European project that UK professional associations foresaw. These intiatives are dissolving some of the boundaries & mechanisms for control noted by classic sociological theories of the professions. It is suggested that pan-European groups may be seen as potential "epistemic communities" in the making. However, few individuals have yet taken the opportunity to establish themselves professionally in fellow EC member states. 1 Appendix, 40 References. AA (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7817

Frost, Le Baron (George Washington U, Washington DC 20052), Examining Physician Attitudes towards Autonomy, Job Satisfaction and Collective Bargaining, * Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 5, Nov, 1685-A-1686-A.

Available from UMI, Ann Arbor, MI. Order No. DA9225961.

93Z7818

Gallino, Luciano & Palumbo, Mauro (U Torino, I-10129 Italy), Introduzione al dibattito (Introduction to the Debate), Sociologia e Ricerca Sociale, 1992, 13, 38, Sept, 153-154. (ITA)

¶ An overview is given of studies on the professional deontology of the sociologist, organized by the Italian Sociological Assoc & the Instit for Political Science of the U of Genoa on 6 Mar 1992. Contributions were solicited from both academic & nonacademic sociologists. Special attention was given to establishing norms for the sociological profession. Also discussed were the introduction of qualifying exams for graduating sociology students & public control over sociologists' activities. This discussion is taking place not only in Italy, but also in many other countries, & is a necessary consequence of sociology's loss of focus. M. Meeks (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7819

Glover, Maryline Head (U Cincinnati, OH 44115), Professions in Diverse Work Settings: A Reassessment of Professionalism and Bureaucratization, * Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 6, Dec, 2113-A.

Available from UMI, Ann Arbor, MI. Order No. DA9233223.

93Z7820

Goetz, Barry Joel (U California, Berkeley 94720), The American Fire Department and the State: Government Organization and Social Inequality, * Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 6, Dec, 2125-A.

Available from UMI, Ann Arbor, MI. Order No. DA9228685.

93Z7821

Goyder, John (Dept Sociology U Waterloo, Ontario N2L 3G1), Ge der Inequalities in Academic Rank, Canadian Journal of Sociolo Cahiers canadiens de sociologie, 1992, 17, 3, summer, 333-343.

¶ Survey data obtained in 1985 & 1990 from 101 arts faculty memb at the U of Waterloo, Ontario, are drawn on to investigate gender diff ences in academic rank among Candian faculty, controlling for resear productivity. A model of rank attainment was developed using discrin nant analysis, & revealed that female (F) faculty have [illegible]mot more slowly than males (Ms) & that the gender gap is not [illegible]n sue of Ms outpublishing Fs. Before the 1980s, Fs often wo[illegible] time lecturers, maintaining minimal careers while also raising childr Later, these same Fs would secure regular appointments, but likely wi a virtually unbridgeable gender gap in accumulated publication reco 4 Tables, 27 References. S. Millett (Copyright 1993, Sociological A stracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7822

Grady, Hugh, Professionalism, Culture and the Predicament of Lit ary Studies, UM Telos, 1989, 80, summer, 93-116.

¶ The 1988 report by the National Endowment for the Humaniti (NEH) is noted for its analysis of the current US crisis in the humaniti & the decline in enrollments in these disciplines by college students. T report praises the NEH for supposedly restimulating interest in the h manities, reiterates the call for disseminating culture through study the humanities, & attacks academia for overspecialization & politiciz tion. The accuracy of the last charge reflects conflicts between the educ tional & cultural mission of the humanities & the dynamics of profe sionalism. Political forces are comprised of ideologically distinct schola who support either a cultural, modernist, or conservative position, or postmodern/radical deconstructionist/Marxist/feminist/new historic position. An examination of the shift in Shakespeare studies in hig bourgeois Victorian culture literate society to one of passive, decade culture consumers implicates the negative effects of positivism. J. Sadl (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7823

Granfield, Robert & Koenig, Thomas (Dept Sociology U Denve Colorado 80208), The Fate of Elite Idealism: Accommodation a Ideological Work at Harvard Law School, UM Social Problem 1992, 39, 4, Nov, 315-331.

¶ Analysis of interviews conducted with 60 self-described left-wing Ha vard (Cambridge, Mass) law students reveals that as their trainin progressed, most became willing to accept lucrative jobs in large corp rate law firms rather than public service employment after graduatio These students do not wish their career choice to be interpreted (eithe by themselves or by their peers) as evidence that they are hypocritica unprincipled, materialistic, &/or uncaring. Here, psychological accom modation strategies used by these students to create & manange role de initions in ways that reduce the tensions resulting from the career choice are outlined. 72 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copy right 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7824

Gross, Harriet & Budrys, Grace (Governor's State U, Universit Park IL 60466), Control over Work in a Prepaid Group Practice Current Research on Occupations and Professions, 1991, 6 279-296.

¶ Interview data obtained in 1987 from 44 physicians (MDs), all members of a prepaid group practice, are used to explore their perceptions o how much autonomy & control they have over their work. Although a review of the literature suggests that MDs are passively accepting the loss of control over their work, these respondents were pleased to relinquish some aspects of the control traditionally associated with the MD's role. Their contractual bargain with the group practice permits them to do "what they were trained to do," ie, practice medicine & they are relieved of administrative decision-making responsibilities in which they have no interest. Findings indicate that MDs' views about the trade-offs they make in choosing a prepaid practice setting tend to become better defined with experience; over time, they increasingly realize the impact of administrative decisions on patient case, & conclude that the circumstances of their practice, while not perfect, constitute a fair exchange. 31 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7825

Hackett, Edward J., Croissant, Jennifer & Schneider, Blair (Dept Science & Technology Studies Rensselaer Polytechnic Instit, Troy NY 12180-3590), Industry, Academe, and the Values of Undergraduate Engineers, Research in Higher Education, 1992, 33, 3, June, 275-295.

¶ The effects of exposure to academic & industrial work, through cooperative employment & undergraduate research, on the educational experiences, job values, & life objectives of engineering students are examined. Questionnaire data collected from 436 students in spring 1990 reveal that both programs strongly influenced participants' skills, job values, & life objectives, even when social background, academic performance, reasons for attending college, & parental socialization were controlled. Cooperative employment more strongly influenced students' skills & had a greater effect on their career decisions, but research experience had a surprisingly powerful influence on values & life objectives, particularly the value placed on receiving peer recognition & influencing the political structure. 8 Tables, 1 Appendix, 17 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7826

Hafferty, Frederic W. & Wolinsky, Fredric D. (c/o Wolinsky-School Medicine Indiana U, Bloomington 47405), Conflicting Characterizations of Professional Dominance, Current Research on Occupations and Professions, 1991, 6, 225-249.

¶ Drawing on E. Freidson's work (reference not specified) regarding how medicine may lose its professional prerogative, three schools of thought that have emerged over the past twenty years–professional dominance, deprofessionalization, & proletarianization–are compared to facilitate an assessment of the consistency & theoretical completeness with which Freidson approaches this issue. Analysis of the three perspectives, which offer contrasting interpretive strategies for examining medicine's future as a profession, reveals that they use different sets of predictors & levels of analysis, & employ dissimilar treatment of professional powers as a dynamic entity. Further research is recommended that expands the base of cross-national data to include not only other industrialized nations, but also developing nations, & explores Freidson's hypothesized emergence of an administrative & technical elite within medicine. 74 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7827

Harrison, Michael I. (Dept Sociology & Anthropology Bar-Ilan U, IL-52100 Ramat-Gan Israel [bitnet: f42166@barilan]), The Politics of Consulting for Organizational Change, Knowledge and Policy, 1991, 4, 3, fall, 92-107.

¶ A revised version of SA 38:6/90S22592/ISA/1990/6274. 1 Table, 96 References. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7828

Harrison, Michael I. (Dept Sociology & Anthropology Bar-Ilan U, IL-52100 Ramat-Gan Israel [bitnet: f42166@barilan]), A Profession in Conflict: Union Militancy among Israeli Physicians, Current Research on Occupations and Professions, 1991, 6, 201-221.

¶ Data from 60 qualitative interviews with participants of a 4-month nationwide strike in 1983 by 8,000+ Israeli physicians (MDs) are used to explore one of the primary professional dilemmas posed by union militancy, the conflict between withdrawing services as a bargaining tactic & professionals' obligation to provide vital public services, ie, medical treatment. By investigating the MDs' efforts to resolve the dilemma created by the strike, possible relationships between unionism & professionalism are illuminated. During the strike, MDs created a network of fee-for-service centers that replaced, in part, the struck hospital outpatient clinics & neighborhood clinics; needy patients generally received unlimited care without direct payments. The MDs' responses to the conflict illustrate how professionalism can channel & shape union actions, as well as be threatened by those actions. It is concluded that professionals may use militant union tactics to pursue financial goals or otherwise strengthen their position within a society, but that such actions can pose a threat to the legitimacy & professional standards to which the occupation lays claim. Further, union actions are likely to be constrained by the structural autonomy & power of subsectors of the profession, as well as by legal restrictions on union activity, political pressures, & social & occupational norms. 43 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7829

Harwood, Margaret K. & Rice, Robert T. (Psychology Dept State U New York, Buffalo 14260), An Examination of Referent Selection Processes Underlying Job Satisfaction, Social Indicators Research, 1992, 27, 1, Aug, 1-39.

¶ Questionnaire data obtained in 2 studies (N = 128 & 181 employed college students) utilizing different methods of assessment are used to examine: (1) the relative influence that different standards of comparison have in determining satisfaction with various job facets; & (2) the relative consistency of each standard's influence across job facets. According to both direct reports & the strength of empirical relationship, the results indicate that some standards of comparison were stronger predictors of facet satisfaction than others. The consistency of a standard's influence or predictive power depended on the particular standard of comparison under consideration. Some standards were consistently strong or consistently weak predictors of facet satisfaction, regardless of the particular job facet. However, for other standards of comparison, the amount of predictive influence depended on the particular job facet. Within the context of discrepancy-based theories of job satisfaction, results are discussed in terms of their comparability across the two different methods of assessment, & the directions they suggest for future research. 10 Tables, 1 Figure, 31 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7830

Hwang, Sean-Shong & Fitzpatrick, Kevin M. (Dept Sociology U Alabama, Birmingham 35294), The Effects of Occupational Sex Segregation and the Spatial Distribution of Jobs on Commuting Patterns, Social Science Quarterly, 1992, 73, 3, Sept, 550-564.

¶ Commuting data for 66.8 million workers living in metropolitan areas derived from the 1980 US Census are used to examine how workers' choice of workplace is constrained by residence, the spatial distribution of jobs, & occupational sex segregation. Results show that, depsite a general tendency among workers to be employed in their area of residence, the spatial distribution of jobs & sex-typed occupations often necessitate workers commuting to places discordant with their residence. 4 Tables, 1 Figure, 36 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7831

Jacoby, Russell, The Rehabilitation of Intellectuals?, Telos, 1990, 85, fall, 149-156.

¶ A review article on books edited by: Bruce Robbins, Intellectuals: Aesthetics, Politics, Academics (Minneapolis: U of Minnesota Press, 1990) & Ralph Miliband, Leo Panitch, & John Saville, The Retreat of the Intellectuals: Socialist Register 1990 (London: Merlin Press, 1990 [see listings in IRPS No. 67]). Intellectuals, a collection of essays & interviews, examines left-wing intellectuals in contemporary society from a postmodern perspective. Poorly written & often incoherent, the volume includes essays on the peculiarities of English in the metanarratives of knowledge & power, & on the British cultural scene. Also included are interviews with Edward Said & Gayatri C. Spivak. The Retreat of the Intellectuals, a collection of sixteen essays, offers a resentment of socialism & an exploration of the current status of Left intellectuals. A superfluous testament to socialist faith, this book takes up the issue of socialism in pluralistic cultures, but offers little that has not already been said elsewhere. W. Howard (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7832

Kelchtermans, Geert (Center Educational Policy & Innovation Katholieke U Leuven, B-3000 Belgium), Lehrer, ihre Karriere und ihr Selbstverständnis: Eine biographische Perspektive (Teachers, Their Careers and Their Self-Understanding: A Biographical Perspective), Zeitschrift für Sozialisationsforschung und Erziehungssoziologie, 1992, 12, 3, July, 250-271. (GER)

¶ Interview data are used to investigate how personal biographical experiences affected the professional lives of 12 elementary school teachers in Germany. Respondents cited specific incidents, people, & life phases that prompted them to take an interest in teaching. The relationship between professional self-understanding, personal biography, & subjective instruction theory is explored, & outlines for further studies are presented. 1 Figure, 41 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7833

Koch, Patricia Barthalow, Preston, Deborah Bray, Young, Elaine Wilson & Wang, MinQi (Pennsylvania State U, University Park 16802), Factors Associated with AIDS-Related Attitudes among Rural Nurses, Health Values, 1991, 15, 6, Nov-Dec, 32-40.

¶ Mail questionnaire data obtained from 731 nurses in 9 rural counties in NY & Pa are drawn on to explore personal & professional factors associated with attitudes toward AIDS (acquired immune deficiency syndrome) related to societal issues, nursing issues, & homosexuality. Analysis reveals ambivalence & negative attitudes concerning various AIDS issues, with a sizable % expressing homophobic attitudes. Many differences in the nurses' personal professional backgrounds were significantly associated with their AIDS-related attitudes. It is recommended that affective, as well as cognitive, AIDS education be provided to student & practicing nurses to prepare them to be more effective caregivers. 3 Tables, 18 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7834

Konttinen, Esa (Jyväskylän Ylisopisto), Perinteisesti moderniin: professioiden yhteiskunnallinen synty Suomessa (Traditional Power Groups and Early Professionalization in Finland), * Dissertation Abstracts International, C: Worldwide, 1992, 53, 4, winter, 646-C. (FIN)

Unavailable from UMI; published by Osuuskunta Vastapaino, Näsilinnankatu 22 A, SF-33230 Tampere, Finland.

93Z7835

Langton, Phyllis Ann (George Washington U, Washington DC 20052), Competing Occupational Ideologies, Identities, and the Practice of Nurse-Midwifery, Current Research on Occupations and Professions, 1991, 6, 149-177.

¶ A social history approach is taken to examine a "hybrid" occupation, nurse-midwifery. After tracing the evolution of occupational ideologies & identities, social changes that shape them are analyzed. The relationships among occupational ideology, identity, & the practice or work are examined using three models of nurse-midwifery practice: dependent, interdependent, & independent. 6 Tables, 63 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7836

Lashbrook, Jeffrey Thomas (U Rochester, NY 14627), Stuck in the Middle? Career Mobility and Psychological Well-Being among Midlife Men, * Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 6, Dec, 2120-A-2121-A.

Available from UMI, Ann Arbor, MI. Order No. DA9231299.

93Z7837

Litt, Jacquelyn (Allegheny Coll, Meadville PA 16335), Humanism and Professionalism: Conflicting Responsibilities in Surgical Training, Current Research on Occupations and Professions, 1991, 6, 41-60.

¶ How the social relations of teamwork, ie, the division of labor & the normative structure of collegiality, limit surgical residents' responsibilities for patients' emotional concerns & their opportunities to attend to them is examined, based on fieldwork & intensive interviews with 38 surgical residents working in an eastern US inner-city teaching hospital. It is argued that residents' healing activities derive largely from how they negotiate collegial obligations in teamwork. The organization of teamwork depends on a suspension of patients' emotional concerns & institutionalizes a depersonalization & dehumanization of patients. This organization also creates, in routine yet consequential ways, antagonism between the needs of patients & those of residents. It is concluded that while participation in this process constrains the possibilities for humanistic care, it represents the residents' ethical expression of professionalism. Further research is recommended to explicate how structural conditions of physicians' work shape medical culture, & to identify the structural conditions under which humanized care can & cannot occur. 25 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7838

Lorber, Judith (Brooklyn Coll, NY 11210), Can Women Physicians Ever Be True Equals in the American Medical Profession?, Current Research on Occupations and Professions, 1991, 6, 25-37.

¶ A revised version of SA 36:3/88S20575/ASA/1988/4858. 55 References. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7839

Love, James H., Stephen, Frank H., Gillanders, Derek D. & Paterson, Alan A. (Dept Economics U Strathclyde, Glasgow G4 OLN Scotland), Spatial Aspects of Deregulation in the Market for Legal Services, Regional Studies, 1992, 26, 2, 137-147.

¶ Though there has been a consistent effort to regulate the UK legal system since the early 1980s, the existence of spatially distinct markets for legal services that may vary in their responses to policy initiatives has been overlooked. Explored here are the implications of solicitor advertising & of licensed conveyancers in 27 geographical markets in England & Wales. Data obtained via telephone interviews with 515 law firms suggest that certain types of advertising reduce the level of quoted conveyancing fees, as does the removal of the solicitor's conveyancing monopoly. Possible policy implications are discussed. 4 Tables, 21 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7840

Marshall, Nancy L., Barnett, Rosalind C., Baruch, Grace K. & Pleck, Joseph H. (Center Research Women Wellesley Coll, MA 02181), More Than a Job: Women and Stress in Caregiving Occupations, Current Research on Occupations and Professions, 1991, 6, 61-81.

¶ How job characteristics can affect mental & physical health is examined, using interview data from a random sample of 403 women employed as social workers or licensed practical nurses in Boston, Mass. These caregiving jobs often offer limited opportunities for advancement & involve heavy workloads & overtime hours. Women in direct care jobs with a combination of heavy job demands & low decision authority or challenge are more likely to report greater psychological distress. In addition, women in jobs with a combination of heavy demands & little supervisor support or few rewards from helping others, are more likely to report poorer physical health & greater psychological distress. Implications are drawn for theory & practice. 11 Tables, 19 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7841

Matějů, Petr & Tuček, Milan, Declared Occupational Mobility and the Change in the Role of Achievement Principles in Four Nations of East-Central Europe, Sociologický Časopis, 1992, 28, special issue, Aug, 123-128.

¶ Cross-national differences in occupational mobility & the revitalization of meritocratic principles of social stratification are examined through analysis of 1991 survey data collected from 4,995 respondents in the former communist countries of Poland, Hungary, & Czechoslovakia (divided between Slovakia & Czech lands). The Czech lands demonstrated the strongest tendency to meritocracy & achievement principles, followed by Slovakia, Hungary, & Poland. Experienced occupational mobility, except moving to the private sector, had only a weak effect on perceived change of the role of achievement factors in life success. Education was positively associated with the belief in increasing meritocracy of society, though only in Czech lands & Slovakia. 2 Tables, 4 Figures. D. Generoli (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7842

Medcof, John W. & Wegener, John G. (Faculty Business McMaster U, Hamilton Ontario L8S 4M4), Work Technology and the Needs for Achievement and Nurturance among Nurses, Journal of Organizational Behavior, 1992, 13, 4, July, 413-423.

¶ Work satisfaction of nurses as a function of their need for achievement, nurturance, & the degree of routineness of their work technology was tested through scale data collected from 86 registered nurses at a large metropolitan hospital. MANOVAs showed that nursing work on the nonroutine (critical care) units had more task variability & offered more opportunity to satisfy the need for achievement than nursing work on routine (chronic) units did. However, routine & nonroutine nursing work did not differ on task analyzability nor the opportunity to satisfy the need for nurturance. The correlation between the need for achievement & work satisfaction was more positive on the nonroutine units, showing that work satisfaction is a function of work technology & need for achievement, not of work technology & the need for nurturance. Results point to the need for nursing administrators to consider nurses' achievement needs when assigning them to units. 4 Tables, 36 References. M. Pflum (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7843

Meleis, Afaf Ibrahim & Stevens, Patricia E. (School Nursing U California, San Francisco 94143-0608), Women in Clerical Jobs: Spousal Role Satisfaction, Stress, and Coping, Women and Health, 1992, 18, 1, 23-40.

¶ An exploration of the qualitative components of women's multiple occupational & domestic roles & their subjective feelings about them, focusing on how these factors modulate health outcomes. A sample of 54 female clerical workers at 4 service organizations in a West Coast metropolitan area participated in structured interviews in 1987. Data about spousal role satisfactions & stress & coping strategies identify an almost equal number of satisfying & stressful aspects of the spousal relationship. Examples of the satisfying aspects are companionship, reciprocity, & interaction, while stressful aspects are inequality of tasks, disagreements, & domination. Women cope by using more solitary strategies, & identify very little power to negotiate support & tangible assistance. 1 Table, 46 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7844

Minardi, Everardo (Facoltà scienze politiche U Bologna, I-40126 Italy), La costruzione dell'intervento sociale: il sociologo e gli altri operatori del *social work (The Construction of Social Intervention: The Sociologist and Other Social Work Practitioners), Sociologia e Ricerca Sociale, 1992, 13, 38, Sept, 179-188. (ITA)

¶ The development of social science professions seems to follow a trend that is essentially positive; however, problems of defining the scope of these professions continue to increase. Sociologists, moreover, are faced with problems created by a high level of uncertainty in their work; also, they must cope with a highly interdisciplinary field of study. In the area of social work intervention, sociologists must be conscious of the increasing interdependence of research work with social change. The sociologist's intervention is not a direct consequence of his professional activity, but rather, of a social construct, ie, a process in which various actors following various logical schemes & rules of behavior conduct themselves in an interactive environment. Social intervention implies the adoption & development of methodologies of communication & structuralization of social change irreducible to classical methods of analysis & purely quantitative research. Other social operators are not mere complementary resources, but rather, actors in a more general system elaborating changes in social practice within an organized institutional & social context. 14 References. M. Meeks

93Z7845

Moore, Gordon T. (Harvard Community Health Plan, 2 Fenway Plaza Boston MA 02115), The Case of the Disappearing Generalist: Does It Need to Be Solved?, The Milbank Quarterly, 1992, 70, 2, 361-379.

¶ After documenting the steady decline in the proportion of generalist physicians (MDs) & an accelerating trend toward subspecialization in the US over the past fifty years, arguments concerning the impact of this imbalance between generalists & subspecialists are reviewed. Opponents contend that it is a major cause of high health care costs, heavy dependence on biotechnology, & consumer dissatisfaction, while proponents argue that subspecialists can provide excellent primary care services so that the decrease in the number of generalists is not problematic. Three contrasting views state that today's generalists are an important & scarce resource that must be bolstered; that subspecialists can replace generalists as providers of primary care; & that the free market will determine the best mix of MDs. Another view, the marketplace option, posits that generalism will not recover until it creates a vital & unique role in handling the primary care challenges of the twenty-first century. These competing viewpoints are used to clarify assumptions underlying major policy options regarding the labor market of professionals. 83 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7846

Olson, Lorayn, Factors Influencing Employment Decisions of Young Physicians, Current Research on Occupations and Professions, 1991, 6, 3-23.

¶ Mail & telephone survey data obtained in 1985 from a nationally representative study of 1,500+ young physicians are subjected to regression analysis to explore factors that influenced their employment decisions. Personal autonomy & future income potential are the strongest predictors of the % of time spent self-employed. For the % of time spent in nonpatient care activities, the strongest positive predictor is the importance given to "opportunity to pursue professional interests" & the strongest negative predictor, "future income potential." 6 Tables, 28 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7847

Parson, L. Alayne, Sands, Roberta G. & Duane, Joann (Dept Mathematics Ohio State U, Columbus 43210), Sources of Career Support for University Faculty, Research in Higher Education, 1992, 33, 2, Apr, 161-176.

¶ Mail questionnaire data obtained in 1987/88 from 257 female & 300 male professors at a research-oriented public university in the Midwest revealed 4 major sources of support for faculty: off-campus personal supports, including spouse or significant other, family, friends, a former professor, & the religious community; colleagues within the academic unit; professional supports outside the unit, eg, administrators, colleagues, & national & international networks; & a minority network, including minority faculty in the unit & on campus & other ethnic or cultural groups off campus. The primary source of support was a spouse or significant other. Differences in types of career supports were examined for women & men & for faculty at different ranks. 4 Tables, 30 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7848

Perkka-Jortikka, Katrina Terttu (Tampereen Yisopisto), Sosiaalinen hyvinvointi ja yhteisöllisyys työssä: Tutkimus toimihenkilöiden työn arjesta 1980-luvun Suomessa (Social Well-Being and Communality in Work: A Study of the Everydayness in White-Collar Work in the 1980s in Finland), * Dissertation Abstracts International, C: Worldwide, 1992, 53, 4, winter, 645-C. (FIN)

Unavailable from UMI; published by Katrina Perkka-Jortikka Töölönkatu 52 A 19, SF-00250 Helsinki, Finland.

93Z7849

Phelan, Jo, Bromet, Evelyn J., Schwartz, Joseph E., Dew, Mary Amanda & Curtis, E. Carroll (Psychiatric Epidemiology Training Program, 100 Haven Ave Tower 3-20E New York NY 10032), The Work Environments of Male and Female Professionals: Objective and Subjective Characteristics, Work and Occupations, 1993, 20, 1, Feb, 68-89.

¶ Data collected via structured interviews with 1,115 male (M) & 271 female (F) professional employees of a major US corporation reveal statistically significant gender differences in each of 3 objective job characteristics (job title, salary grade, & number of employees supervised), but few significant gender differences in subjective job characteristics (intrinsic & importance rewards, peer cohesion, staff support, role conflict/ambiguity, & quantitative workload). Multiple regression equations indicate that objective job characteristics, personality factors, family circumstances, & educational attainment related to subjective job characteristics were similar for Ms & Fs: for both, personality factors were the strongest predictors, followed by objective job characteristics, while family-related variables & educational attainment were not strongly associated. The relationship between objective & subjective job characteristics is discussed in terms of job & gender models of job perceptions. 3 Tables, 2 Appendixes, 41 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7850

Polanyi, John C. (U Toronto, Ontario M5S 1A1), The Scientist as Citizen: Freedom and Responsibility in Science, Queen's Quarterly, 1992, 99, 1, spring, 125-133.

¶ The modern scientist needs greater freedom to uncover the truth. Like the free market, scientific research should not be constrained by centralized bureaucrats, & risks should be taken by individuals in the field. Scientists have the responsibility to make discoveries as speedily & economically as possible & should not attempt to seize power or subvert the process of debate. G. Castañeda

93Z7851

Porter, Sam (Dept Sociology & Social Policy Queen's U Belfast, BT7 1NN Northern Ireland), Women in a Women's Job: The Gendered Experience of Nurses, Sociology of Health and Illness,

0038-0202/93 $1.50

1992, 14, 4, Dec, 510-527.

¶ Data from participant observation & informal interviews (N = 54) conducted in 1989 with the staff at a large metropolitan hospital in Northern Ireland are drawn on to examine how the structural influence of gender affects nurses in their working lives, particularly in their relations with physicians (MDs). Findings indicate that: the increasing proportion of female (F) MDs has attenuated power differences between nurses & MDs; nurses are aware of gender inequality, despite a tendency to accept credentialist justifications of inequality; & popular stereotypes about sexual relations between MDs & nurses are highly misleading. It is concluded that, while gender equality between MDs & nurses is improving, inequality between male nurse managers & F workers is increasing. 1 Table, 41 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7852

Prandstraller, Gian Paolo (Facoltà scienze politiche U Bologna, I-40126 Italy), Sulla deontologia professionale del sociologo (On a Professional Deontology of Sociologists), Sociologia e Ricerca Sociale, 1992, 13, 38, Sept, 155-162. (ITA)

¶ The question of the professional deontology of sociologists is closely linked to the problem of professional ethics. Since sociology never really attained the status of a recognized profession, it is imperative that the ethical aspects of the sociologist's behavior be addressed. Five functional activities of sociologists are discussed in light of their values: research, advising, communication, designing & executing projects, & providing information. Sociologists should be objective, independent, competent, & respectful of others, & should use appropriate methodologies. Respect implies absence of ill feelings toward others as well as academic integrity & honesty in properly citing the research results of others. M. Meeks

93Z7853

Prochovník, Štěpán (Vysoká škola báňská, tr. 17 listopadu CS-70833 Ostrava-Poruba Czechoslovakia), Příspěvek k sociologii horníků a hornictví na Ostravsku (A Contribution to the Sociology of Miners and the Mining Industry in the Ostrava Region), Sociologický Časopis, 1992, 28, 5, 636-648. (CZE)

¶ A summary is given of work relationships in the Czechoslovak coal mines of the Ostrava region, based on personal experience as a sociologist-psychologist for the mining enterprises since 1970. A trend is noted toward the specialization of labor; however, despite the introduction of new technologies, most tasks are still peformed with simple instruments, & the ratio of economic-technical personnel to miners remains about 2:15. The socioprofessional hierarchy of the miners encompasses apprentices, trainees, temporary workers, stabilized miners, open cast workmen, foremen, retirees, technicians, & managers. Contrary to the rosy picture of harmonious relations painted by the communist regime, considerable friction exists among these groups. The semimilitary management style, a holdover from the totalitarian regime, still persists & is likely to remain. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7854

Rushing, Beth (Dept Sociology Kent State U, OH 44242), Ideology in the Reemergence of North American Midwifery, Work and Occupations, 1993, 20, 1, Feb, 46-67.

¶ Data drawn from secondary historical sources & interviews with midwives, their clients, & activists (total N = 37) are used to chronicle the reemergence of midwifery in the US & Canada in terms of the role of ideology. Focus is on the ways that two ideologies–science & feminism–have been used by midwives & their supporters in their struggles to legitimate midwifery in health care systems. The rhetoric of science has been used in establishing the safety of home birth & natural childbirth, & feminist principles & rhetoric often underlie claims about midwifery made by its advocates. Although both nurse midwives & independent midwives have used these ideologies to legitimate their occupational boundary claims, they have been more important to the latter's struggles for occupational legitimacy. 86 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7855

Saylor, William G. & Wright, Kevin N. (Federal Bureau of Prisons, 320 First St NW Washington DC 20534), Status, Longevity, and Perceptions of the Work Environment among Federal Prison Employees, Journal of Offender Rehabilitation, 1992, 17, 3-4, 133-160.

¶ Data obtained via the Prison Social Climate Survey, an annually administered inventory, examine how employees (N = 3,325) who are distinguished by status & longevity experience organizational life within the institutions of the Federal Bureau of Prisons. Staff perceptions of the work environment are measured on 7 dimensions: authority & structure, supervision, agency satisfaction, institution satisfaction, job satisfaction, personal efficacy, & job-related stress. Results reveal widespread satisfaction with their work environments among respondents. Staff who have frequent contact with inmates, those working in custody positions, & those with longer tenure generally have lower opinions of the work environment of federal prisons; conversely, individuals who have supervisory responsibilities have more positive views. The implications of these findings are discussed. 5 Tables, 1 Appendix, 50 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7856

Schein, Virginia E. & Mueller, Ruediger (Dept Management Gettysburg Coll, PA 17325), Sex Role Stereotyping and Requisite Management Characteristics: A Cross Cultural Look, Journal of Organizational Behavior, 1992, 13, 5, Sept, 439-447.

¶ An examination of the links between sex-role stereotyping & perceived requisite management characteristics in three countries. Terms from the Schein Descriptive Index were used by management students in England, Germany, & the US (total N = 497 males [Ms] & 328 females [Fs]) to rate the general personal traits of both sexes & of successful middle managers. It was expected that Fs & Ms in both Germany & England would identify M attitudes & temperaments in successful managers as characteristic, due to the small number of F managers in both countries. It was found that while Ms sex typed the managerial position similarly in all 3 countries, cultural differences in F perceptions shifted patterns of sex typing: European Fs identified Ms with managers, although English Fs sex typed to a lesser degree; however, US Fs perceived no sex stereotypes inherent in managers. 2 Tables, 13 References. J. Sadler

93Z7857

Shalem, Yael (Dept Education U Witwatersrand, 2050 South Africa), Teachers' Struggle: The Case of White English-Speaking Teachers in South Africa, British Journal of Sociology of Education, 1992, 13, 3, Sept, 307-328.

¶ A discursive analysis of the utterances of 90 white English-speaking teachers in South African secondary schools, highlighting the context in which they perceive their subordination & articulate their interests The notion of white English-speaking teacher is conceived of as a construction of social identity that is contingent in the historical sense, & is a product of discursive articulation. The historical & the material conditions in which teachers' work is situated are outlined, & the nature of teachers' perceived subordination & social identity is examined. Implications of this analysis for the possibility of a pluralist notion of teachers' unity are considered. 49 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7858

Snapp, Mary Beth (Synthesis Inc, 400 East Town St Columbus OH 43215), Occupational Stress, Social Support, and Depression among Black and White Professional-Managerial Women, Women and Health, 1992, 18, 1, 41-79.

¶ Relationships among occupational stress, social support, & well-being are investigateed in a quota sample of 200 black & white professional-managerial women from Memphis, Tenn. Scale & focused life-history interview data are drawn on to evaluate social support for one's career from family, friends, & coworkers, & measures of occupational stress, including workload, unfair/impersonal treatment, & trouble with boss or subordinates. Multiple regression analysis indicates complex differences in levels of social support, occupational stress, & depression across social structural dimensions (race, class background, supervisory status, & marital/parental status). Trouble with boss or subordinates is also related to levels of depression. However, career support from friends, coworkers, & family does not directly benefit well-being or lessen the damaging effects of interpersonal job conflict on mental health. 3 Tables, 10 Figures, 62 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7859

Sprague, Jo (San Jose State U, CA 95192-0112), Critical Perspectives on Teacher Empowerment, UM Communication Education, 1992, 41, 2, Apr, 181-203.

¶ The issue of teacher empowerment focuses attention on how political, sociocultural, & organizational factors work together to control classroom education, & directs attention away from the individual psychological traits of teachers & on how they teach in the classroom. Specific factors that have led to the disempowerment of teachers are explored; eg, their work has been feminized, technologized, deskilled, & privatized. Empowerment will depend on teachers' ability to resist these trends, to work collaboratively in order to gain organizational power, & to transform their professional role & the work itself. Implications for teacher education & research are highlighted. 162 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7860

Stein, Elizabeth Leahy (U Pittsburgh, Philadelphia 19104), Socialization at a Protestant Seminary, * Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 5, Nov, 1690-A-1691-A.

Available from UMI, Ann Arbor, MI. Order No. DA9226521.

93Z7861

Stevens, Fred, Diederiks, Joseph & Philipsen, Hans (Dept Medical Sociology U Limburg, NL-6200 MD Maastricht Netherlands), Physician Satisfaction, Professional Characteristics and Behavior Formalization in Hospitals, Social Science and Medicine, 1992, 35, 3, Aug, 295-303.

¶ Questionnaire data from 210 physicians (MDs) in 17 medical departments of Dutch university hospitals are drawn on to investigate professional & bureaucratic predictors of MD satisfaction. Results support the hypotheses that both professional attitudes & formal structuring of work activities have a positive effect on satisfaction. Behavior formalization, preference for professional autonomy, & time spent on patient care activities are positive predictors of satisfaction with work environment, while traditional professional attitudes (eg, craftsmanship & client service) have more impact on satisfaction with patient demand. Certification is a strong positive predictor of work load satisfaction, & satisfaction with work environment is the most important predictor of other satisfaction dimensions. Results support the hypothesized buffering effect of the affective climate of the professional work environment in hospitals; implications for the bureaucratization process of medical practice in hospitals are discussed. 3 Tables, 2 Figures, 2 Appendixes, 42 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7862

Tadepalli, Raghu (Coll Business Administration North Dakota State U, Fargo 58105), Perceptions of Role Stress by Boundary Role Persons: An Empirical Investigation, The Journal of Applied Behavioral Science, 1991, 27, 4, Dec, 490-514.

¶ Mail questionnaire data from 345 purchasing professionals/boundary role persons (BPRs) are used to develop & test a model of antecedents & consequences of role stress among BRPs in their regular interaction with salespeople/professional change agents (PCAs). Findings suggest that important antecedents include the customer orientation of PCAs & their use of closed-influence tactics, as well as perceptions of task conflict & ambiguity by BRPs. As for the consequences, role ambiguity was found to negatively affect BRP satisfaction with a PCA. Further, role stress was found to have important consequences for BRP satisfaction with organizational policies. Implications for role theory & for future research are discussed. 3 Tables, 1 Figure, 1 Appendix, 58 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7863

Taylor, Kathryn M. (Centre Health Studies York U, North York Ontario M3J 1P3), Integrating Conflicting Professional Roles: Physician Participation in Randomized Clinical Trials, Social Science and Medicine, 1992, 35, 2, July, 217-224.

¶ Mail questionnaire data collected from 101 physicians (MDs), supplemented by 87 follow-up telephone interviews, are used to explore the emergence of randomized clinical trials (RCTs)–where research & clinical care are performed simultaneously. Findings suggest that RCTs challenge traditional definitions of MDs' core taks because they participate in a social process that requires them to integrate the traditionally disparate & sometimes competing roles of researcher & clinician. Three implications of this integration are discussed: amending the expert reward system, altering customary clinical practice, & redefining reference groups for professional interaction. 1 Table, 71 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7864

Teevan, James J., Pepper, Susan & Pellizzari, Joseph R. (Dept Sociology U Western Ontario, London N6A 5C2), Academic Employment Decisions and Gender, UM Research in Higher Education, 1992, 33, 2, Apr, 141-160.

¶ In an investigation of gender differences influencing reasons why academics accept or reject offers of faculty positions, 56 male (M) & 59 female (F) academics in the early stages of their careers who had accepted, rejected, or resigned a position 1986-1989 were interviewed with both open-ended questions & rating scales. While results showed that family needs were a major consideration for both Ms & Fs, few significant gender differences emerged. Both sexes who accepted positions were influenced by prestige of the position, its compatibility with family needs, & job security. Ms who rejected offers showed a similar pattern, while Fs focused primarily on family needs & job security. It is concluded that family needs, including concerns about dual-career relationships, are important to academics regardless of gender, & that issues of discrimination are not a deciding factor. 4 Tables, 50 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7865

Thomas, William B. & Moran, Kevin J. (School Education U Pittsburgh, PA 15260), Reconsidering the Power of the Superintendent in the Progressive Period, American Educational Research Journal, 1992, 29, 1, spring, 22-50.

¶ In Education and the Cult of Efficiency: A Study of the Social Forces that Have Shaped the Administration of the Public Schools (Chicago: U of Chicago Press, 1962), Raymond E. Callahan noted that superintendents have been extremely vulnerable to public criticism & pressures from special interest groups. To test this thesis, the career trajectory of Ernest Clark Hartwell–a school executive in Mich, Minn, & NY 1914-1922–is analyzed. Hartwell built an educational empire, aligning himself with managerial elites & fellow career-bound, not place-bound, superintendents. He gained total control over schools & their personnel, fired militant teachers opposed to school reforms that would benefit his reputation, applied a business ethos emphasizing efficiency & standardization to his work, & enlarged a state-sanctioned school bureaucracy to shield himself from public criticism in different institutional settings. He became impervious to criticism, not vulnerable in Callahan's sense. However, this top-down leadership model of management in the progressive period no longer applies to all facets of contemporary superintendents' roles. Special interest groups are now more entrenched, & there is greater federal & state intrusion in local school affairs, but the issues & actors remain the same. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7866

Useda, Jun (Southern Illinois U, Carbondale 62901), Investigation of Job Roles and Technological Proficiencies of Assistive Technology Service Providers, * Dissertation Abstracts International, A: The Humanities and Social Sciences, 1992, 53, 6, Dec, 2123-A.

Available from UMI, Ann Arbor, MI. Order No. DA9230775.

93Z7867

Van Hoy, Jerry (Northwestern U, Evanston IL 60208), Intraprofessional Politics and Professional Regulation: A Case Study of the ABA Commission of Professionalism, UM Work and Occupations, 1993, 20, 1, Feb, 90-109.

¶ The ability of professional associations to make & implement decisions concerning issues of regulation & professionalism has been neglected in previous research. Here, the case of the American Bar Assoc's Commission on Professionalism is presented to investigate the politics of professional regulation. It is argued that issues of regulation & professionalism are broad in their scope of impact on practitioners. In professional associations with diverse memberships, these issues become highly political & limit decision-making discretion. 29 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

0038-0202/93 $1.50

93Z7868

Van Ours, Jan (Free U, NL-1081 HV Amsterdam Netherlands), An International Comparative Study on Job Mobility, Labour, 1990, 4, 3, winter, 33-55.

¶ A comparative study on job mobility in 6 countries–France, Japan, the Netherlands, Sweden, the UK, & the US–finds that some countries use both labor force & establishment surveys to gather information on job mobility, while others use only one of them. Information from both types of surveys conducted in the 1970s & 1980s is used to describe the developments & structure of job mobility in the 6 countries. An empirical cross-country analysis shows that job mobility is positively correlated with the growth of employment & negatively correlated with the unemployment rate. There appear to be hardly any structural differences in job mobility between the US, Sweden, France & the UK. Job mobility in the Netherlands is structurally lower than in the other countries, while job mobility in Japan is structually lower than in the Netherlands. 6 Tables, 4 Figures, 1 Appendix, 14 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7869

Wakefield, Jerome Carl (Columbia U, New York NY 10027), Why Psychotherapeutic Social Work Don't Get No Re-Specht, in The Social Service Review, 1992, 66, 1, Mar, 141-151.

Reply, 152-159.

¶ Although in agreement with Harry Specht's opinion ("Social Work and the Popular Psychotherapies," Social Service Review, 1990, 64, 3, Sept, 345-357) that the relation between social work & popular psychotherapy is the most significant issue in the profession today, it is argued that Specht exaggerates the social aspect of the mission of social work in order to reject psychotherapy. Further, he does not show that psychotherapy is incompatible with social work's mission because he does not distinguish the mission from the means of social work, & fails to distinguish psychotherapy as a profession vs as a technology that can be used for various missions. The problem of psychotherapeutic excess in social work is addressed to clarify the differences between Specht's viewpoint & that of the author. In A Less Complex Statement of Social Work's Mission, Specht (U of California, Berkeley) claims that Wakefield's critique is a continuation of his convolution of John Rawls's A Theory of Justice (Cambridge, Mass: Harvard U Press, 1971) to explain the mission of social work. Wakefield's criticisms are refuted one by one, & it is emphasized that the social worker's major mission is the development of public social services for deprived & dependent populations. Psychotherapists, who deal with a different population, usually do not treat deprived & dependent populations effectively–hence the conclusion that psychotherapy is not suitable for social work. V. Wagener

93Z7870

White, David R. M. (Environmental Affairs Division Southern California Edison Co, 2244 Walnut Grove Ave Rosemead CA 91770-3714), Belief in Differential Skill among U.S. Gulf of Mexico Shrimp Fishermen, American Anthropologist, 1992, 94, 2, June, 450-452.

Comment, 452-454.

¶ Gísli Pálsson's & E. Paul Durrenberger's claim of the absence of a skipper effect among captains & crews on US Gulf of Mexico shrimpboats (see SA 39:2/91X4225) is challenged. Their portrayal of differential skills as myth & rhetoric does not analyze the skipper effect, but merely caricaturizes it. Their analysis is stereotypic, flawed by misuse of data, & confounded by use of aggregate data & lack of measures of skipper success independent of other variables, eg, boat size & effort. In Rhetorics of Skill and Skillful Rhetorics, Pálsson (U of Iceland, Reykjavík) & Durrenberger claim that their critics have misinterpreted their article & ignored the modifications made to their position in subsequent studies; they acknowledge that the skipper effect must not be dismissed, but dispute any misuse of data. The importance of an intermediate-level social group focus for the study of the skipper effect & the lack of common ground among studies of the skipper effect research are discussed. 14 References. D. Generoli

93Z7871

Whorley, Larry W., Job Satisfaction among Substance Abuse Prevention Personnel, Journal of Addictive Diseases, 1992, 11, 3, 81-90.

¶ Questionnaire data obtained from a nonrandom sample of 57 substance abuse prevention personnel employed by the US Army at a military organization in northern Germany are used to examine the relationship of job satisfaction with perceived importance to unit mission & frequency of performance vis-à-vis five prevention duties. Results indicate a positive association between job satisfaction & perceived importance for all five duties, & a conditional positive relationship between performance frequency & job satisfaction only for duties involving one-to-one interaction. Findings applicable to nonmilitary settings & implications for further research are discussed. 1 Table, 12 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7872

Yogev, Abraham (School Education Tel-Aviv U, Ramat-Aviv IL-69978 Israel), The Other Side of the Brain Drain: Foreign Diplomas and Socio-Economic Attainment of Israeli Professionals, International Sociology, 1992, 7, 4, Dec, 433-448.

¶ The influx into less-developed countries of professionals who obtained their diplomas abroad & return to be absorbed in the local labor market (ie, the reverse side of the brain drain issue) is examined. Specifically, the socioeconomic attainment of Israeli professionals holding foreign vs indigenous diplomas is explored via the neo-Marxist view of economic dependence & the neo-Weberian theory of credentialism. The analysis relies on survey data, followed by telephone & home interviews, for postsecondary & academic diploma holders (N = 8,904), collected by the Israeli Central Bureau of Statistics in 1984. The findings indicate that diploma holders from European & American countries gained some advantage in occupational attainment, but not in income, over those whose diplomas were granted in African & Asian countries, including Israeli. This advantage disappears when controlling for sociodemographic characteristics that explain variations in training countries among age, ethnic, & status groups of the professionals, & that independently influence their occupational attainment. 4 Tables, 27 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7873

Yun, Hing Ai (National U Singapore, 0511 Singapore), The Work Experience of Engineers in Singapore, Economic and Industrial Democracy, 1992, 13, 3, Aug, 401-415.

¶ Data obtained via in-depth interviews with 30 engineers & a survey of 234 engineers, all working in the electronics industry in Singapore, are drawn on to explore their work experience. Focus is on stress in the workplace as a function of both organizational dynamics, the country's political economy, & developments at the global level. 1 Table, 14 References. Adapted from the source document.

22 generations/intergenerational relations

No Abstracts In This Issue

1100 rural sociology and agriculture
16 rural sociology (village, agriculture)

93Z7874

Almaas, Reidar (U Trondheim, N-7030 Norway), Ethnic Values and Survival Strategies among Norwegian-American Farmers, Research in Rural Sociology and Development, 1991, 5, 223-239.

¶ A revised version of SA 37:6/89S20977/RSS/1989/2042. 39 References. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7875

Axinn, William G. (Population Research Center U Chicago, IL 60637), Rural Income-Generating Programs and Fertility Limitation: Evidence from a Microdemographic Study in Nepal, UM Rural Sociology, 1992, 57, 3, fall, 396-413.

¶ Ethnographic & survey data on 433 ever-married women ages 24-44 from 5 villages of Nepal are used to test the effects on fertility behavior of participation in rural development programs that organize members into local cooperative groups. Results demonstrate that program participants are much more likely to use contraceptives to limit their fertility than are nonparticipants. Support is thus demonstrated for theories linking this type of institutional change to fertility, & a policy option is indicated that can allow some negative consequences of childbearing to affect couples' fertility decisions. 3 Tables, 39 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved)

93Z7876

Barlett, Peggy F. (Dept Anthropology Emory U, Atlanta GA 30322), Status Aspirations and Lifestyle Influences on Farm Survival, Research in Rural Sociology and Development, 1991, 5, 173-190.

¶ Household consumption standards & rising aspirations for farm family lifestyles are offered as new dimensions of understanding structural change in US agriculture. A neglected aspect of the post-WWII decline in farm numbers is the way that consumerism & changing class structures affected the choices of young people in the rural South, leading them to reject farming as an acceptable occupation. Census & interview data collected in a long-term study of 126 farm families in Dodge County, Ga, reveal that social status aspirations & lifestyle expectations also played a role in surviving the crisis of the 1980s. Farm families with higher than average household consumption levels are disproportionately in poor financial shape. Likewise, farms operated in an ambitious, status-oriented style were more likely to go out of business. Household consumption is more than a marker of social class–it is part of their construction & transformation. 1 Table, 29 References. Modified AA (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7877

Barnes, Donna & Blevins, Audie (Dept Sociology U Wyoming, Laramie 82071), Farm Structure and the Economic Well-Being of Nonmetropolitan Counties, UM Rural Sociology, 1992, 57, 3, fall, 333-346.

¶ Walter Goldschmidt has argued (see As You Sow, Glencoe, Ill: Free Press, 1947; & SA 27:4/79K1739) that increasing farm size in the US has undermined the well-being of rural communities. Here, this thesis is tested drawing on 1987/88 data from the US Census Bureau on 2,174 nonmetropolitan counties. Indicators of the nonfarm economic sector are also incorporated into the analysis to explore the net effect of farm structure on well-being, & nonmetropolitan counties are subdivided by level of farm dependency. Results fail to support the Goldschmidt thesis. 4 Tables, 18 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7878

Beus, Curtis E. & Dunlap, Riley E. (Dept Rural Sociology Washington State U, Pullman 99164-4006), The Alternative-Conventional Agriculture Debate: Where Do Agricultural Faculty Stand?, UM Rural Sociology, 1992, 57, 3, fall, 363-380.

¶ Critics increasingly charge that publicly-funded agricultural science at land-grant universities (LGUs) is oriented more toward agribusiness than to the interests of small farmers & rural communities. Here, these critics' alternative perspectives on agriculture are compared to LGU defenders, who endorse a conventional view of agriculture, drawing on mail survey data from faculty in the Coll of Agriculture & Home Economics at Washington State U, Pullman, interest groups in the state representing both perspectives, & farmers (total N = 1,710). Results show that the LGU faculty were slightly more conventional than farmers statewide, slightly less conventional than proponents of conventional agriculture, & far more conventional than alternative agriculturalists. Women, younger faculty, those in the social sciences, those not LGU-educated, & respondents who did not grow up on a farm were more likely to endorse alternative agriculture. Implications for the future of publicly-funded agricultural science are discussed. 4 Tables, 27 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7879

Bin Kutubkhana, Ismail (Dept Sociology King Abdul Aziz U, Jeddah 21441 Saudi Arabia), Transliterated title not available (Citizen Participation in Rural Communities: Some of Its Applications in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia), Journal of the Gulf and Arabian Peninsula Studies, 1989, 15, 60, Oct, 175-192. (ARA)

¶ A strategy of citizen participation has been successfully implemented in Saudi Arabia, aimed at encouraging social & economic development. Components of this strategy include: mobilization of individuals & groups in urban & rural settings; use of modern administrative, data collection, & training techniques; consultations at all levels aimed at formulating policy & follow-up; & maintaining good relations between governmental & nongovernmental sectors. The high degree of autonomy in problem solving given local leaders serves as an incentive to development. 2 Tables. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7880

Boomgaard, Peter (Dept History Vrije U, NL-1081 HV Amsterdam Netherlands), The Javanese Village as a Cheshire Cat: The Java Debate against a European and Latin American Background, The Journal of Peasant Studies, 1991, 18, 2, Jan, 288-304.

¶ An examination of communal & corporate features of Javanese villages in the nineteenth century & earlier, based on secondary data & reports of the Dutch colonial government. It is argued that the villages remained communal entities even after the Dutch attempted to divide & merge them: original villages survived as subdivisions of the Dutch rural municipality, continuing their communal activities. Villages were also corporations, with councils of elders & headmen; corporate taxes & statute labor were levied on them. However, while the Javenese villages were communal corporate entities, they were not closed communities. 49 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7881

Booth, David (Dept Sociology & Social Anthropology U Hull, HU6 7RX England), Timing and Sequencing in Agricultural Policy Reform: Tanzania, Development Policy Review, 1991, 9, 4, Dec, 353-379.

¶ An exploration of why structural adjustment & economic liberalization programs have achieved such mediocre results in sub-Saharan Africa. It is suggested that more attention needs to be given to the timing & sequencing of reform measures. Evidence from fieldwork conducted 1989-1991 in one rural district in Tanzania illustrates the undesirable consequences that can flow from a poorly phased liberalization process. 49 References. Adapted from the source document. (Copyright 1993, Sociological Abstracts, Inc., all rights reserved.)

93Z7882

Campbell, David J., Zinyama, Lovemore M. & Matiza, Tabeth (Michigan State U, East Lansing 48824), Coping with Food Deficits in Rural Zimbabwe: The Sequential Adoption of Indigenous Strategies, Research in Rural Sociology and Development, 1991, 5, 73-85.

¶ The capacity of rural Zimbabweans in low rainfall areas to cope with food shortages using locally available resources is investigated, drawing on survey & interview data for 194 households in 7 villages. Results suggest that the structure of response for coping with severe food deficits here is similar to that in comparable situations elsewhere in Africa. The nature of coping strategies & the sequences in which they are used, as well as their availability to different segments of the population, are discussed. The strategies are integral components of the rural production system & are variously based on resources in the physical environment as well as on institutionalized, community-level social, political, & economic structures. It is concluded that, while coping strategies play an important role in reducing the impact of recurrent food deficits in rural areas, they are vulnerable to disruption by development activities; however, they may contribute to improving the timeliness & spatial resolution of early warning systems for famine. 3 Tables, 41 References. S. Millett

93Z7883

Caplan, Lionel (School Oriental & African Studies U London, WC1H 0XG England), From Tribe to Peasant? The Limbus and the Nepalese State, The Journal of Peasant Studies, 1991, 18, 2, Jan, 305-321.

¶ Based on fieldwork conducted in 1964/65 & in the late 1980s & secondary data, the demise of the kipat communal land tenure system of the Limbus tribal group in Nepal is explored. The monarchy, in order to incorporate the Limbus into the state, abolished the kipat & encouraged immigration of high-caste Hindus into the region, resulting in the transformation from a tribal to a peasant economy. The importance of the land to the Limbus & the effects of the loss of communal land on their identity are considered. 42 References. Adapted from the source document.

93Z7884

Cecil, R. G. & Ebanks, G. E. (Dept Geography U Western Ontario, London NGA 3K7), The Caribbean Migrant Farm Worker Programme in Ontario: Seasonal Expansion of West Indian Economic Spaces, International Migration/Migrations Internationales/Migraciones Internationales, 1992, 30, 1, Mar, 19-37.

¶ Individual characteristics & earning levels of Caribbean migrant workers participating in the Canadian Foreign Agricultural Resource Management Services, established in 1966, are examined, based on a 1987 questionnaire survey of 297 farm workers in Ontario, & anthropological observations conducted in 1987/88. Findings show that migrant workers are able to plan life strategies based on the recurrent opportunities to work in Ontario; they are perceived as nomads, able to extend their geographic space. The minimal weekly wage of $250 per worker is considered a highly effective form of foreign aid, & there are benefits for Ontario's economy as well. 14 Tables, 15 References. I. Shagrir

93Z7885

